Sacramento County Fair News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento County Fair is excited to announce that the All-Alaskan Racing Pigs and All-American Duck Races will be performing at the 2023 fair. These popular events feature adorable racing pigs and ducks competing in high-speed races. The shows are suitable for all ages and are always crowd-pleasers.

"We are thrilled to have both the All-Alaskan Racing Pigs and All-American Duck Races at our fair this year," said Fair CEO Matthew Cranford. "Their shows are always a hit with our guests, and we can't wait to see them in action."

Though a cross-species race offers some interesting possibilities, attendees do NOT have to choose between which species to root for. Both the All-Alaskan Racing Pigs and All-American Duck Races will have multiple FREE performances daily. Don't miss your chance to see these cute and talented animals in action and root your favorite on to victory. But even if your pick doesn't win, you'll delight in their hilarious defeat.

These events also offer a fun opportunity for Bart Noll, leader of the All-Alaskan Pig Races... crowd-watching. Says Noll, "I don't even watch the races anymore. I watch and listen to the crowd. There's no better sound than the kids' excited laughter. And some of those kids are in their 80s and 90s!"

Adds Cranford, "So, that's getting to watch and enjoy three species for the price of one. And the

Supporting Foster Youth Through Health Services

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - May is National Foster Care Month. The recognition month brings awareness to the issues foster kids face. The month also highlights the work done to help children who enter the foster system. This year's theme is "Strengthening Minds. Uplifting Families." The theme highlights the need to take both a holistic and culturally responsive approach to support the mental health needs of foster youth. In Sacramento County, there are dedicated staff members who uplift families by making sure youth in Sacramento County's Child Protective Services (CPS) get access to health care. Staff members also help make sure foster youth have access to mental health services.

Within Sacramento County's health services departments, many different resources are dedicated to providing the best care possible to children in Child Protective Services. These services include Emergency Response, Informal Supervision, Hearts 4 Kids, Courts/Permanency, and Psychotropic Medication. These programs cover a broad number of services that collaborate with social workers to ensure that children at risk have a strong advocate for their health and well-being.

Public Health Nurses in the Emergency Response program provide direct services to families as well as consultations with Social Workers. These Public Health Nurses conduct assessments, provide interventions and make referrals for services. Public Health Nurses work with families to make sure developmental issues are addressed.

Informal Supervision serves children with open cases who remain with their biological parents. The goal of this program is to keep children in their homes with their biological parents if possible.

Hearts 4 Kids is a program that visits children and their siblings at their foster-care placement. During this visit, the Public Health Nurse conducts assessments, provides guidance, and links families to resources.

The Public Health Nurses in Courts/Permanency provide assistance for children placed in foster care. The Courts/Permanency nurses interview biological families to get health history and then focus on access to care and help coordinate primary,

Blood Donors Will Save Lives

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Two senior heroes will throw support behind a Carmichael blood drive.

Donating for more than 55 years, Sacramento resident Sara Kidwell has pooled a total of 170 pints of her vital fluid. Fair Oaks great-grandfather Dave Bories is a 100-pint donor. The two will volunteer as helpers for a drive at La Sierra Community Center on June 3.

The event has the support of Congregation Beth Shalom, Carmichael Kiwanis, the Vitalant non-profit (formerly Bloodsource) and Carmichael Park District.

"I started giving blood when I was at college," recalls retired medical technologist Sara Kidwell. "Back then, Red Cross paid you $20 - that was a big deal for an impoverished student. These days you don't get paid, but the reward is great. There are always disasters, accidents, and urgent needs for blood. It feels good knowing I can help."

A single pint, notes the type A negative grandmother, has the potential to save three lives. That her accumulated donation might have helped 510 people is gratifying. "It's such a quick and simple thing to do," she says. "It's no more than an hour out of my day every couple of months. Plus, they always give you a cookie."

Type O negative Dave Bories helps drives through his membership of Congregation Beth Shalom (Carmichael). "For 60 years, I've served a major need with only the cost of my time," says the retired teacher. "For the good it did, the time was well worth it. Though I can no longer give (because of vein problems), I can still volunteer. I check donors in, answer questions - hand out orange juice. Helping with a life-saving event is a great use of anyone's time."

Community volunteer Linda Rose Jones spearheads the June 3 drive. "The pandemic ruled out doing a mobile event in our community for three edge of your seat. "The big boys are here," says Chuck Plumlee, the producer of Monster Truck Extreme 2023. Matt Cranford, CEO of the Sacramento County Fair is just as eager to have these 'big boys' return to the Fair. "What better way to kick off Memorial Day weekend than with some of the toughest monster trucks anywhere at the Sacramento County Fair? Trucks are louder and BIGGER than ever, bringing kids of all ages the classic Fairground entertainment that we all crave," says Cranford.

Gates open at 6 p.m., show begins at 7 p.m. Tickets for the Fair and Grandstand events will be available for purchase online at www.sacfair.com or at the Sacramento County Fair office. years," she says. "We're happy it's happening again, and we hope for a good turnout. On a national level, blood shortages are urgent. It doesn't matter if you've given before or it's your first time. Every donor makes a difference."

A veteran elder care nurse and 26-pint contributor, Jones has organized blood drives for more than 25 years. "I'm part of a team that has collected nearly 1200 life-saving pints," she says. "I can't calculate how many lives those donations have saved; it's gratifying to think that anyone - rich or poor, young or old - can help another human being in such a simple way."

Jones chose the June 3 date to coincide with a first-Saturday open day at Koobs Nature Area (adjacent to La Sierra Center). "The Koobs event usually attracts 100 or more visitors," she says. "We hope to recruit donors from that group as well."

Organizers promise perks such as orange juice, cookies, tee shirts and Baskin Robbins gift cards. In addition, all those who give blood in June will be entered in a draw to win a $10,000 gift card.

"We desperately want donors," says Jones. "If people aren't sure if they're eligible, Vitalant staff can answer questions. Beyond needing to be 17 or older (16 with parental consent), there's no age limit. Many restrictions have been lifted over the years. People might be pleasantly surprised to learn how welcome their gift can be."

Walk-ins are seldom turned away but organizers recommend appointments. Donors should be well-hydrated and should eat a good meal prior to giving blood. Photo-ID is required.

For appointments, visit www.donors.vitalant.org, or call Vitalant (877) 258 4825. Volunteers can also contact Linda Rose Jones at (916) 944 2393. The Vitalant Bloodmobile will be at La Sierra Community Center parking lot (5325 Engle Rd) on Saturday, June 3, between 10 am and 2 pm. Final appointments are at 1:45 pm. ★

Water Districts Explore Combination Study

SSWD Staff

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - The public is invited to learn about a recent study exploring combination opportunities between Carmichael Water District (CWD) and Sacramento Suburban Water District (SSWD). The study, initiated in 2022, was conducted by an independent consulting firm and explores how combining the two neighboring water utilities might improve efficiencies, reduce costs, increase water supply reliability and enhance customer service.

Workshops provide opportunities for customers to hear a briefing on study results, ask questions and provide initial feedback. Two public meetings are scheduled for June with both in-person and virtual options available:

BACKGROUND

The Opportunities: The goal in examining combination is to see how merging the two districts might encourage efficiencies, reduce costs, improve water supply reliability, and enhance customer service.

The Threats: The water industry and local communities are facing several changes and challenges, including the projected impacts of climate change on water supplies and increasing regulations that will potentially make it difficult to keep rates affordable.

The Process: The CWD and SSWD Boards commissioned a study by an independent consulting firm to provide an initial look at the potential benefits and disadvantages to combination.

After a comprehensive public review, the boards accepted the initial study. In doing so, Board members signaled that the initial study offered many potential benefits that should continue to be explored and uncovered no fundamental flaws that should stop discussions. The Boards also requested staff to undertake additional technical analysis that further reviews and defines potential governance structures, water rights assurances, administration, operations, cost savings and other topics.

California Supreme Court Dismantles No-Bid School Construction Contracts

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

Last week, the California Supreme Court issued a unanimous decision in a very complex – but very important – case that had been percolating for more than a decade, dealing with how local school officials evade competitive bidding on construction projects.

The case began in 2010 when Fresno Unified School District persuaded its voters to approve a bond to build new schools and upgrade old ones. In 2011, the district sold more than $100 million in bonds from that issue and an earlier one, and in 2012 awarded a $36.7 million contract for a new middle school to Harris Construction Co.

The contract with Harris, which had been a major contributor to the bond issue campaign, was structured as a “lease-leaseback” deal in which the district leased the school site to Harris for a nominal sum, Harris built the school and the district then leased the completed facility from Harris.

“Lease-leaseback” arrangements have been common for years, providing a way for school systems to build new facilities without borrowing money themselves. Typically, the “leaseback” runs for several decades, after which the district becomes the owner.

In the Harris project, however, Fresno Unified made payments to the contractor and once the school was completed in 2014, it used bond funds to immediately acquire ownership from Harris. Meanwhile, another contractor, Stephen Davis, had sued the district alleging that the Harris lease-leaseback deal was a subterfuge to avoid competitive bidding.

The district won two rulings from a local trial judge that the deal was legitimate, but both were overturned by a state appellate court and eventually Fresno Unified asked the state Supreme Court to determine whether the Harris deal was a legitimate contract protected under state law. Last week, the court declared that it was not, sending the case back down the legal ladder to determine what damages will be assessed.

San Diego attorney Kevin Carlin, who represents Davis and has carved out a niche career of challenging questionable school contracts, says that Harris Construction may be forced to pay back the $36.7 million it received for building Gaston Middle School.

The case has reverberated in other ways. The superintendent who approved the contract, Michael Hanson, was fired by the school board after the suit was filed. Critics cited Hanson’s close personal relationship with Harris Construction’s president, Michael Spencer, including the firm’s sponsorship of a gala event to honor Hanson, and the hiring of Harris as a consultant before the contract was awarded.

The FBI launched an investigation, although nothing official came of it. However, when Davis started winning his case, it sent shudders through other school districts that had used lease-leaseback in the same questionable manner.

In 2015, just a week after an appellate court ruled against the Harris contract, a lawyer for affected companies, P. Randolph Finch, outlined a plan “to mitigate our losses” by seeking legislation to legitimize questionable contracts.

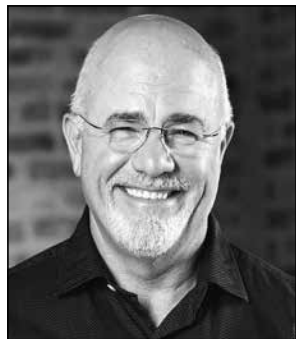

“We have clients with well over a half-billion dollars of current backlog,” Finch wrote, “and another billion in completed projects, at risk on the Davis case. Consequently, we need a devoted industry effort to press these legislative changes.”

Using a parliamentary loophole known as “gut-and-amend,” a bill to absolve contractors of liability was drafted, but never enacted.

In 2004, the staff of the State Allocation Board, which parcels out school construction money, had described how lease-leaseback rules were being distorted, questioned the legality, declared “the integrity of the use of general obligation bonds... must be above reproach,” and suggested that the lease-leaseback law be clarified.

Officialdom ignored that warning but now the Supreme Court is telling school officials and contractors to play fairly or suffer the consequences.

Never Have Just One

Dear Dave,

I’m hearing more and more about “de-dollarization” and how several countries are moving away from the U.S. dollar as their basis of international trade. Will this affect the strength of the dollar, and should I be concerned about how I’m saving and investing because of this?

– Zack

Dear Zack,

First and foremost, I care enough about you to say you may be spending way too much time on the internet, buddy. You’re drifting into the realm of conspiracy theories here, so let’s slow down and take a look at some facts.

China, Brazil and Russia are the three main players in all this. They already don’t use the U.S. dollar as their basis of international trade—all three have their own currency, and there’s a conversion rate between all those currencies and the U.S. dollar. Those three countries, along with some of the oil-producing countries from the Middle East they’re trying to get on board with the idea, are talking about developing one currency they all use. In international trade, that currency would be converted back and forth to dollars—much like what Europe did with the euro. Which, by the way, really hasn’t worked out so well.

Are those countries going to be able to devalue the dollar by doing that? No. Why? Because while those countries take up a lot of land mass, they don’t take up a lot of the gross domestic product (GDP) of the world. The United States still represents the vast majority of the world’s GDP. Sure, China’s big in that regard. But Russia doesn’t bring much to the table, and Brazil is barely scraping by in a failed economy. Plus, they’re tiny as far as economics are concerned.

I mean, Texas probably has a larger GDP than Brazil.

In other words, they just don’t have the muscle to take down the dollar mathematically speaking. Now, if they do manage to put this idea together, it still won’t end in “de-dollarization.” The dollar will not be done away with. Even if they create their own currency, they’re still going to have to trade with the 800-pound gorilla, which is America. And they’re going to have to trade with us in dollars.

Am I worried about this, Zack? Not one bit. And you shouldn’t be either.

Sacramento FBI News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Tyler Rigsbee, 33, of Cameron Park, was sentenced on May 1, 2023, to two years in prison and ordered to pay $158,960 in restitution for committing aggravated identity theft, U.S. Attorney Phillip A. Talbert announced. According to court documents, from 2016 to 2021, Rigsbee worked as a FINRA-registered financial advisor at a major bank in Sacramento. During his employment, Rigsbee targeted elderly bank customers and stole $158,960 from these victims' accounts. Rigsbee stole $113,160 from one elderly victim's account by using the name and identity of the account beneficiary to fraudulently transfer the funds into another account that Rigsbee had set up and controlled in the beneficiary's name. Rigsbee next stole $45,800 from the account of a second elderly victim by transferring funds in incremental amounts into a separate account that Rigsbee had set up and controlled in the victim's name. Rigsbee then pocketed the money by transferring these funds into his own personal bank account. Toward the end of his scheme, Rigsbee attempted to conceal his theft by stealing $16,700 from a third elderly customer's account and attempting to funnel that money into the second victim's account to partially replace what he previously stole. However, this transaction was flagged, and the funds were reverted. This case was the product of an investigation by the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Assistant U.S. Attorney Elliot C. Wong prosecuted the case. ★

Elks Car Show Braves the Rain

One of the entries that braved the rain to be a part of the show.

Three of kind, 1968 Mercury Cougars.

Fewer cars this year, but some real beauties to admire.

This year's raffle had plenty of great prizes and helped to support the fundraiser.

Story and photos by MPG Staff

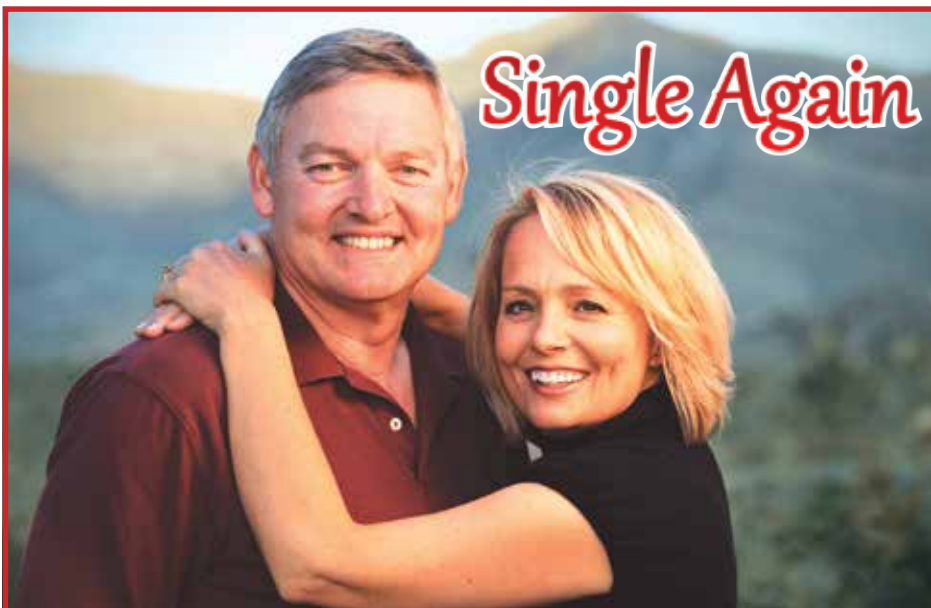

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Well, they did say rain or shine. And, unfortunately, it rained. Carmichael Elks Club held their annual Classic Car Show on Saturday, May 6th, as the rain fell just enough to be a car wash. A few loyal and probably stubborn car enthusiasts showed up with their classic cars and older vehicles, about 20 cars in total, and enjoyed each other's company and some car talk.

True to form, the breakfast inside the Elks hall was full of tables of hungry attendees, with many also sticking around for a good lunch and the no-host open bar. There's more than one way to revel in some car talk! The event did bring with it a

DJ playing oldies hits and vendors presenting handmade items. There was also a well-supported raffle of many prizes from Elks members. Be sure to keep an eye out for next year's show. Chances are much better now that it will return with 90 degree heat, more hotdogs and many more hot rods. Your local Elks want to thank all those who came out to support the Annual Classic Car Show. The Carmichael Elks Lodge #2103 is located at 5631 Cypress Avenue in Carmichael. ★
