Homeless Suspect Arrested for Senseless Murder of Beloved Carmichael Man

Sac Sheriff's Department News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Sacramento County Sheriff's Office Deputies have arrested Darin Chastain (54), of Sacramento County, in connection with an unprovoked and senseless homicide that occurred at 8:44 p.m. on Wednesday, September 28, 2022, on the 6200 block of Kenneth Avenue. The victim is 74-year-old James C. Raleigh of Carmichael.

Darin Chastain, who is homeless and suspected of being under the influence at the time of the murder, was randomly walking through the neighborhood. A caller to the Sacramento County Sheriff's Office Communications Center stated that an adult male subject was standing outside a neighbor's home screaming and throwing rocks at the garage door. The caller was concerned for the elderly male neighbor. The victim came outside his home to investigate the commotion when Chastain assaulted him just outside his residence. Chastain then fled the scene on foot. Deputies were able to find the suspect a few minutes later and place him in custody without incident. When deputies were interviewing Mr. Raleigh regarding the details of the incident, he collapsed on the ground and had trouble breathing. Deputies administered CPR until Metro Fire arrived to transport him to the hospital where he was pronounced deceased.

Chastain was booked into the Sacramento County Main Jail on (1) count of Homicide and is being held without bail. He will appear in Department 62 tomorrow at 3 p.m. to answer for the charges. There is no further information available at this time. ★

ASI Children's Center Distributes Free Diapers

By Jennifer K. Morita, Sac State

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) -

Working mom and full-time Sacramento State student Gabby McCartney doesn't have the luxury of buying just any diapers for her 2-year-old daughter, Emilia.

"I have looked at different brands and the quantity of diapers you get for the price," McCartney, 23, said. "I found one that was cheaper, and I like to get them from Costco because it's about $50 for 160, and that lasts almost half a month.

"I spend about $100 a month on diapers."

With the rising price of food, gas and other essentials, there isn't a lot of wiggle room in McCartney's budget – and she's not alone.

To help McCartney and other Sacramento County families struggling with the region's high cost of living, the Associated Students, Inc. (ASI) Children's Center is giving away free diapers.

The center has partnered with the Sacramento Food Bank to become a federally funded National Diaper Distribution site.

County with young children can obtain from the center 50 free diapers a month, sizes 3 through 5.

"People are struggling because of inflation and have to make some very serious choices between feeding their children or taking care of their diapering needs," said Sherry Velte, ASI Children's Center director. "So, children can be left in diapers too long, which causes diaper rash.

"It's a health concern for children. It can be very severe when children's bottoms are bleeding and have wounds and sores."

Within days of launching on Sept. 2, the Children's Center distributed more than 1,800 diapers, Velte said.

The numbers don't lie, said Lorena Carranza, the Sacramento Food Bank's community resource manager. When the COVID-19 pandemic hit, the number of families the Sacramento Food Bank served doubled from 150,000 a month to more than 300,000, she said.

Playmakers Goes National

Story by Shaunna Boyd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Local non-profit organization The Playmakers has been teaching character and leadership through sports since the founding in 2009. The Playmakers founder Greg Roeszler, known as Coach Roz, saw the need for at-risk kids, such as foster youth and kids with developmental differences, to have real opportunities to be included and build relationships through team sports.

Playmakers has reached thousands of local kids through their summer football camps and after-school programs, all of which are free to students and their families. And Playmakers is expanding their reach by taking the football camps national: This summer, in addition to the local Sacramento camp, Playmakers hosted camps in Ohio, Iowa, and Florida.

It costs about $10,000 to host a camp, and they are completely free for the students and their families. The camps are funded through private and corporate donations, various fundraising events, and with support from local civic groups, schools, and churches.

The camps are facilitated by athletes from the local high schools, who oversee the activities and participate along with the kids. Coach Roz said, "It's been encouraging to see high school kids want and be willing to serve. ... A lot of kids are craving that."

And next summer, in addition to the existing camps, Playmakers will be expanding to Washington D.C.—hosting a camp at Gallaudet University for the deaf and hearing impaired. And the high school students who help out locally at the Sacramento camp will have the opportunity to travel with Playmakers to Washington D.C.

to help at that camp, allowing them to further practice their leadership skills in a new venue.

"There are kids everywhere that need this opportunity," said Coach Roz. "We can expand anywhere there is an interest."

For many of the kids who attend these camps, it's the first time they've had a chance to play a sport with other people and be included this way – and Coach Roz said it means so much to both the kids and their families. "It's a involved," he said.

"It all just revolves around relationships," explained Coach Roz. "We're learning so much, spending time with them." And these lessons are expanding into a new avenue for Playmakers, as they give the high school athletes the opportunity to become leaders of inclusiveness on their own campuses. Just launched this school year is a calendar of events, a playbook for the athletes to follow as they take the initiative and build relationships with the special education classes at their schools. The Playmakers' calendar of events includes activities such as painting pumpkins for Halloween and decorating ornaments for Christmas. Coach Roz said these activities keep the kids involved and the relationships connected throughout the school year.

So, in multiple states across the country, as this new school year is getting started, high school athletes are taking those lessons of connection and inclusion to heart, and forging relationships with special education students to make them an integral part of the social life on campus.

As Playmakers is growing and expanding, these high school students are serving as delegates, bringing that message into the schools, serving as role models to other students on how to lead with character and compassion and make a difference for those who need it most.

"It's because of inflation," Carranza said. "It's really hitting families hard, so we are right now at 250,000 families a month.

"The cost of living is very high here in Sacramento, and we see it in all the demographic groups. There are a lot of families with little ones. You have to change diapers, there's no way around it. Babies don't wait."

The Sacramento Food Bank became a national diaper distribution site in July 2021 and works with six other organizations in Sacramento County to provide diapers.

The Sacramento Food Bank also partners with Sac State to provide food for the ASI Food Pantry and knowing college students' needs makes the collaboration "a perfect fit," Carranza said.

In addition to special trainings, Velte had to determine how to transport the large boxes of diapers and find a clean, dry place to store them.

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Former Sacramento Sheriff John McGinness last week urged Carmichael businesspeople to band together to protect the community from the impact of homelessness and crime.

"This is not the time to be divided by politics," said the former Carmichael resident. "I urge you to recognize your common bond and work together to make your area the best it can be."

Now a radio talk show host, the law-and-order champion was the Carmichael Chamber of Commerce's guest speaker. McGinness grew up on California Avenue and recalled his high school job pumping gas and the generosity of local merchants for youth activities.

"The nature of the good work you do can't be over-stated," he told Chamber members. "You support a community where business should thrive. One consequence of COVID is that brick and mortar stores are suffering. These are the little league sponsors. If everyone's buying online, where are local sponsorships coming from?

"The blind eye that's being turned (toward crime and anti-social behavior) has its impact. Having to step over people who've passed out on store thresholds, or to clean up after people who've used your property as a bathroom has a dampening effect on business."

McGinness cited Proposition 47 – the 2014 constitutional amendment that reclassified many theft and drug possession crimes as misdemeanors and authorized early release for convicted felons – for creating an environment where businesses and communities suffer. "Thieves can enter stores and steal up to $949 a day with no compounding consequences," he said. "And we've effectively decriminalized hard drugs. Tell me what part of possessing date rape drugs should be a misdemeanor? Tell me why assaulting a police officer is not a violent crime?"

Standing up against crime, said McGinness, is not a partisan issue. "There's a common denominator. We have the bond of wanting our communities to be healthy, safe and secure.

"It's billed as compassionate to put up with the behavior of the homeless. But letting them destroy their lives and our neighborhoods is not an act of compassion. They're not all people who've had setbacks. Look into some of their faces: they're strung out on hard drugs. They need to get into programs. They need housing and incentives to get on a better path. This serves everyone's purposes. Who do you love that you'd want to see living in filth on a city street? Not requiring people to face consequences (for crimes) does not help them turn their lives around."

"I have compassion for these people. I also have compassion for people in this room. You deal with the consequences of rampant homelessness and antisocial behavior. It's created an enormous burden on those trying to run businesses, and I believe the full consequences are yet to be recognized."

McGinness urged businesspeople to pressure elected officials for real solutions. "Be an informed electorate," he said. "So few people understand what they're being asked to vote for on ballots. Without really looking at the language of ballot measures, you can't know their consequences.

"Proposition 47 truly contributed to the conditions in which we now find ourselves. It was called 'The Safe Neighborhoods and Schools Act.' The reality of the results couldn't be further from the truth."

Sac State's ASI Children's Center distributed 1,800 diapers within the first few days of the Sept. 2 launch of a new program in partnership with the Sacramento Food Bank that allows student-parents and Sacramento County residents with young children to receive 50 free diapers each month. Supervisor Rich Desmond Regarding 10 Students from SJUSD are National the Death of James Raleigh

I am heart-broken over the gruesome and senseless murder of a Carmichael man outside his own home last night. The victim has been a close friend of my family for many generations and while every loss of life is hard, this one particularly hits close to home.

I am working closely with the Sheriff's department to learn more about the situation but can confirm the perpetrator was a homeless individual suspected of being under the influence at the time of the murder. They have been booked into the Sacramento County Main Jail and are being held without bail. We will continue to inform the public as additional details become available.

In the immediate, I want to state clearly that this level of crime will never be acceptable in our community. I know my constituents are frustrated over the recent increase in crime in the City and County, and I'm frustrated too. The number of unhoused on our streets has become a direct threat to our ability to create thriving, secure and peaceful neighborhoods throughout the County.

My thoughts and prayers are with the victim's family.

GPS To Happiness

Are you really distracted these days? I mean with the pandemic and the economy and inflation and on and on, how would you not be distracted? Wouldn't it be nice to get back to a real life and true happiness? It's a gift we certainly can use. So I had Marina Shakour Haber on my POPPOFF Radio show, and directly asked her to give us some tips on how to be happy. She coaches people to get out from all the negativity, and change their thinking to create a happier way of life in her book "Your GPS To Happiness" How to navigate from where you are to fulfillment, prosperity and the life of your dreams. Marina is known as the Happiness Guru. She actually co-founded her spiritual activism group in response to the covid pandemic. So here's her top ten tips to reach out for happiness.

SMILE. Even if it's a fake smile, it can have a positive impact on your mood. Smiling moves the muscles which message your brain that you are happy, thus increasing levels of happiness which induce hormones like dopamine and serotonin.

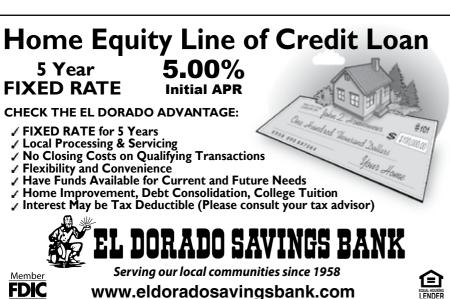

- 2. Focus on better feeling thoughts and positive emotions. You can feel the joy of past and future experiences in the present moment.
- 3. Express gratitude for all the good in your life. Your brain cannot hold two opposing thoughts like lack and abundance at the same time. Focus on abundance.
- 4. Calm your thoughts through mindfulness and deep breathing. Fear and frenzy constrict muscles and breathing, thus cutting off the life force. Inhale and exhale deeply. Go to your heart space, your sanctuary, and the eye of the storm, to calm your mind.
- 5. Focus on what you want. Visualize your future vividly, dare to dream big, and feel the joy as if it were already so. When feeling down, pull that vision up, and experience the joy in the now

- 6. Engage in something that brings you joy and gives meaning to your life. Meaning is found in something that is greater than yourself.
- 7. Relationships are fundamental to happiness. Develop personal connections and physical and social interactions.
- 8. Stop fantasizing negatively about what could go wrong. This type of thinking leads to chronic worrying and distress.
- 9. Become aware of what you think. Then, you write it down, so that you know where you are mentally and emotionally.
- 10. Set Your GPS. When you know where you are, which is your mindset, and where you want to be, which is your future visions, you get clarity direction, and purpose which keeps you calm. That allows you guidance to come in with actionable steps so you can arrive at happiness successfully while avoiding failure.

Happiness has to come from within, so get ready for "Your GPS to Happiness." You can check out what Marina does at www. YourGPStoHappiness.com. My favorite tip is to smile. You would be surprised how many people will smile back. Give it a try. And may HAPPINESS be your guide!!!

An Uncomfortable Situation

Dear Dave,

I need your advice. I just accepted a new job in a field I love three weeks ago. Yesterday, I was recruited and offered a position by a huge company for the same kind of position, and they pay more than twice what I'm making now. I did not send in a resume, or fill out an application for the job that was just offered. They came directly to me, and it was a huge surprise. I don't have a contract with my current employer, but they are good people and I want to handle things well and do the right thing. Can you help?

- Jenny

Dear Jenny,

Long story short, I think you take the new job. Now, how do you handle this with your present employer? With total honesty, respect and a lot of gratitude. Walk into your boss's office, and lay out the whole situation truthfully. Let them know what has happened, how it happened, and while you feel awful about how things worked out, you had no intention of misleading them or causing problems. On top of all that, promise to do everything possible to make the transition as easy as you can.

In uncomfortable scenarios, it's always a good idea to try to put yourself in the other person's shoes. Let's pretend you own a business, and you just hired a young lady. A few weeks later, someone comes in, completely out of the blue, and offers her more than double what she's making with you. I can tell you what would happen at my company. I'd tell her to take it. I'm serious. I mean, as an employer I'm certainly not going to double her income that quickly. And while I'd be surprised, and a little disappointed, I'd be happy she has the chance to take such a big

If an organization cares about its people, and one of those team members has the opportunity to significantly increase their income – and they're not breaking a contract or promise in the process – this type of scenario is perfectly reasonable, even if it's a little inconvenient for the current employer in the short term. I know it'll be uncomfortable for you, Jenny, but they can't realistically expect you to pass up a chance to do what you love at double-plus what you're making now. Congratulations!

Carmichael Water District Celebrates Employees During California's Water Professionals Appreciation Week

By Chris Nelson, CWD PIO

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - As part of California's sixth annual Water Professionals Appreciation Week, Carmichael Water District (CWD) is proud to take a moment and highlight the essential role of water professionals and local public water agencies in providing water services.

We appreciate the dedication of our highly trained operators, technicians, administrative professionals, and all of our specialists who are making sure our community has safe and reliable drinking water, especially amidst an extended drought and pandemic.

Water Professionals Appreciation Week was created in 2017 to highlight the important role of water industry professionals and local public water agencies in ensuring safe and reliable tap water for California. There are so many careers in water that keep water flowing in the communities throughout California, including district managers, customer service representatives, accountants, human resource professionals, IT professionals, treatment plant operators, distribution operators, water efficiency specialists, and engineers to name a few. CWD is proud of our staff and water professionals throughout the state for making a difference in their community. Be sure to check our website, carmichaelwd.org, for more information on our amazing staff and the essential roles they play.

Essential. Reliable. Invaluable. Water—it's the thread that weaves together our daily lives. It keeps our communities healthy, our cities running, and our economies growing. Water is a cup of coffee, the produce aisle, better production, increased exports, and greater American strength. While essential, water infrastructure is largely invisible. Few people realize what it takes to treat and deliver drinking water every day or how wastewater is cleaned so that it can be safely reused or returned to the environment. The high quality of life we enjoy in America would not be possible without water, the infrastructure that fuels it, and water professionals' dedication to provide this essential service.

It is because of our staff who have invested their time and talents that CWD is able to implement successful water supply reliability and system improvements as exemplified by the 3 million gallon La Vista Water Storage Tank Replacement project and the forthcoming grant funded La Sierra Aquifer Storage and Recovery (ASR) Well project. The ASR well project will not only help CWD balance surface and groundwater supplies but will also provide the benefit of enabling access of up to 1,200 acre-feet of previously banked groundwater. Through two successful grant applications, prepared by CWD staff, a $4 million and a $2 million grant award will help bolster CWD's drought resiliency while allowing us to focus ratepayer driven funding towards other essential drought resiliency projects, including a second ASR well. Leveraging District funds with State and Federal grants in sustainable infrastructure projects allows CWD to mitigate and reduce future unfunded infrastructure liabilities. CWD staff's focus on upholding our fiduciary responsibilities enhances the value of our water, keeping our community healthy and helping the local economy grow.

CWD is committed to pro-actively planning continuous improvements to our water reliability and drought resiliency, providing a sustainable water supply for future generations in the face of ever-increasing challenges from persistent drought conditions and potential climate change impacts. CWD staff has developed a robust Capital Improvement Plan, with approval by our Board of Directors, with project details contained within our District Budget that can be viewed at https://carmichaelwd.org/wp content/uploads/2022/07/1-CWD-Budget-Fiscal-Year-2022-2023-updated-7.20.22.pdf.

Water service is essential to the health and success of our community and Water Professionals Appreciation Week is the perfect opportunity to reflect on the vital services CWD staff perform. If you see CWD workers out and about this week, or if you stop by our office, be sure you say "thank you" to our staff for working 24/7 to ensure safe and reliable water deliveries.

California Refusing to Release School Test Results

By Dan Walters, CALMatters.org

California's Department of Education has finally acknowledged the obvious: It is arbitrarily delaying the release of results from this year's round of academic testing.

In years past, scores from the spring Smarter Balanced tests of academic achievement have been released in late summer or early fall, but this year, the department denied a request for statewide results even though it authorized individual districts to make their data available.

Why?

Mary Nicely, chief deputy state superintendent for instruction, told EdSource. a website devoted to California education issues, which had requested the data, that the numbers would be released as part of a "dashboard" that includes other "metrics" on how schools are performing.

"We are on track to release the data as we did last year. If we can come out sooner, we will," she impacted the performance said. "We are not withholding anything; people are working hard to finalize the data.'

That doesn't wash.

There's absolutely no reason that data already given to school districts should not be made public now and included in the results will show a sharp decline in the abilities of California's school children in basic skills, such as reading and math, due to the state's shutdowns of schools during the COVID-19 pandemic.

"dashboard" later.

State officials probably want to sugarcoat the bad news by delaying it until after the Nov. 3 election and combining it with other material that would dilute its importance. Tony Thurmond, the state schools superintendent, will be on the ballot along with Gov. Gavin Newsom and other Democratic officeholders and while all are favored to win re-election, bad news on schools would be embarrassing.

We know that the post-pandemic test results are likely to be disappointing. That's been the pattern in other states. Los Angeles Unified has already released its quite negative test results, reversing about five years of gradual progress in the state's largest school system.

In LA Unified, about 72% of students did not meet state standards in math, five percentage points higher than pre-pandemic testing. In English, 58% were subpar, two points higher.

"The pandemic deeply of our students," said LA Unified Supt. Alberto in this case, the Public Carvalho. "Particularly Records Act might as well kids who were at risk, in be junked entirely. a fragile condition, prior to the pandemic, as we expected, were the ones who have lost the most but a few of those years ground."

If LA Unified had enough guts to tell its vot-It's likely that the test ers and parents the harsh truth, there's no valid rationale for Thurmond not to do so for the entire state.

After its request for statewide results was denied, EdSource pressed the issue with a letter from its attorney requesting reconsideration.

"EdSource considers delay tantamount to denial as it effectively robs the public of its vital role in overseeing the CDE (Department of Education) and individual districts and in holding both accountable to its students and the public. This is especially important during what continues to be one of the most challenging and impactful times to our educational system due to the COVID pandemic," EdSource attorney Duffy Carolan wrote. EdSource's letter told the Department of Education that it "cannot identify any 'public' interest in non-disclosure that could justify its denial position, let alone an interest that 'clearly outweighs' the substantial public interest in access to this information."

This is not only a politically tinged education issue but a major test for the state's Public Records Act, which allows public agencies to withhold information only under extreme circumstances. If records can be withheld for obvious political purposes

Social Security Matters

Veteran Asks About Disability and Ex-Spouse Benefits

By Russell Gloor, AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I am a military veteran with a total & permanent disability. I was married for over ten years to a military man who has since honorably separated from military service. I was originally on Social Security disability, which automatically converted to regular Social Security retirement benefits when I turned 65 -- with the amount remaining at the "disabled" level instead of the "regular" rate based on my Social Security employment contribution record. Why wasn't my "regular" Social Security rate used when I turned 65? Also, I contacted Social Security regarding my ex-husband's Social Security since I was married to him for over 10 years but was told I am not entitled to a portion of his Social Security benefit. Why not? I was told the amount I would receive wouldn't subtract from his SS entitlement. Signed: Disable Veteran

Dear Disabled Veteran: First, I want to thank you for your service to our country. Your sacrifice is sincerely appreciated, and I'll be honored to answer questions.

Regarding your current Social Security amount versus your previous disability amount, the Social Security Disability Insurance (SSDI) benefit you were receiving was, in fact, the amount you were entitled to at your full retirement age, even though you claimed disability benefits earlier. Your SSDI benefit, when awarded, was computed using your entire lifetime earnings history up to the point that you became disabled, resulting in you getting your earned full amount as your disability benefit before you reached your full retirement age. And that is why the amount stayed the same when it automatically converted to your normal SS retirement benefit (at vour full retirement age which, by the way, was 66 if you were born before 1955). for information pur-Said simply, SSDI is the poses only and does not full Social Security amount you have earned up to the point you stopped earning, so it stays the same when you reach your full retirement age.

As for additional benefits from your ex-husband, although you meet the length of marriage rule for ex-spouse benefits, there are additional criteria as well - you must not have remarried and remained so, and your ex-husband must be already receiving his own Social Security benefit (unless you've been divorced at least two years, in which case your ex need only be eligible to collect).

your Social Security But you can only get an additional benefit, known as a "spousal boost," if you meet all the other criteria and half (50%) of the benefit your ex-husband is/was entitled to at his full retirement age is more than your current Social Security benefit. Since Social Security said you aren't entitled to an ex-spouse benefit, you apparently do not meet all of the eligibility criteria mentioned above. And to address your last point, if you had met all criteria and been entitled to an ex-spouse benefit it, indeed, would not have affected your ex-husband's benefit in any way.

Del Campo Forfeits Win Against Bella Vista

Story and photos by Shaun Holkko, sports editor

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - The Del Campo varsity football team's 19th straight win against bitter rivals Bella Vista on September 2 has been forfeited due to a CIF Sac-Joaquin Section rule violation.

According to The Sacramento Bee, the case involved the suspension of a player from last season who played in the Cougars' first three games of this season. The player had his junior season cut short in 2021 when he was ejected from the first round of a Division IV CIF SJS playoff game. Del Campo lost 51-7 at East Union of Manteca.

The player should've sat out for the first game of 2022. However, the ineligible senior's action didn't affect his team until the conclusion of the third game. That is because the Cougars lost their first two games, 28-20 at Golden Valley of Merced on August 19 and 35-7 at Del Oro of Loomis six days later.

Del Campo dominated the "Battle for Fair Oaks" in front of a large and rowdy crowd on both sidelines. The winless Cougars beat the undefeated Broncos 31-7. Bella Vista fans spent pregame and part of the first quarter chanting "BV due" to indicate this was their year to finally defeat Del Campo.

Alas, the Cougars defeated the Broncos for the 19th straight game dating back to 2003. At least for a couple weeks, that is. The rule violation was discovered following the win, forcing Del Campo to forfeit loss at Del Campo on September 2 in Carmichael. its first win of the season.

Matt Costa is in his first season as head coach for the Cougars and was unaware of the looming suspension entering a new campaign.

"I'm a new coach with new administration and no one told me or seemed to even know we had a player ejected," Costa told The Bee on September 21. "Why didn't Bella Vista tell us? Why wait? Even my player said he didn't know about the rule. Now we're (1-4) and we beat those guys handily. I think it's because we had a couple of Del Campo coaches who now coach at BV, and they waited because they didn't like that I fired them and didn't bring them back. That's not the way it should work.

"Shoot, man, had I known he wasn't supposed to play, I wouldn't have played him in the first game. That's not what we're about or what I'm about. I don't know if I want to even play BV next year if this is what we've got going on."

Bella Vista and Del Campo have been playing each other since 1963 when the latter was founded. The home of the Broncos had been built three years prior about four miles away. Bella Vista coach Jim Gray disagreed with Costa about his staff's knowledge of the suspension prior to the game.

"Had I known about (the player ejection), I would have told coach Costa before our game, so it didn't catch up to them because that's not how we want to win games," Gray said to The Bee. "But my point is, you're telling me no one at Del Campo remembers that player got ejected and has to sit out? And come on, man. You can't play him, by rule, and it's your fault, not mine.'

The matchup between the Broncos and Cougars was widely attended by the Fair Oaks community. The actions in the stands by the fans is what has started to concern Gray.

"The game's going against Del Campo, and I'm trying to coach, and we've got parents from both sides fighting in the stands," Gray recalled to The Bee. "Maybe we need to settle this all down. Maybe it's become too heated in this rivalry. I don't remember a rivalry like this being so intense."

After the win, Costa was asked by the Messenger Publishing Group about whether the rivalry between Del Campo and Bella Vista still exists, considering one team has dominated the matchup for nearly two decades.

"It's always going to be a rivalry because it's close proximity," Costa said September 2. "We share a lot of kids and it's in the same neighborhood so yeah it is still a rivalry. I still want to keep them on the schedule because they bring in a great

In response to the same question, Costa mentioned a matchup that started in 1976 but ended in 2015 due to tempers flaring amongst players and fans.

"Honestly the rivalry that I want to get back going again is Casa [Roble]," Costa said September 2. "I think that's one that interests me a little bit more right now."

Following the forfeit, the Cougars are now (2-4) overall and the Broncos are

Re-Elec' Assemblyman Ken Cooley

ABOUT KEN COOLEY

Assemblyman Ken Cooley and his wife of 47 years, Sydney, have made their home in eastern Sacramento County since 1977. They raised their sons here and passed their love of camping and hiking in California's mountains, rivers and lakes. As a young man, Ken worked in the Legislature and today he is the only sitting lawmaker who has run a multi-year program of active executive branch oversight and also supported a successful veto override. Both are vital to fulfilling the Legislature's role as a co-equal branch of government.

Ken's experience and skill have earned him leadership duties in the State Capitol as Chair to both the Assembly Rules Committee and the Joint Senate and Assembly Rules Committee. As a strong advocate for the communities he represents, in recent budgets he helped local projects access about $50 million dollars in state funds.

Ken believes the most uniquely "American method" in problem-solving - seen in churches, service clubs and PTA's -- is based on listening, so that all are encouraged to speak up so a sense of the group can emerge, often reflecting parts of all the ideas shared. Ken thinks this "American method" is how all governments should make decisions.

LEADERS OF 500 CITIES TAPPED KEN FOR LEADERSHIP

Ithough Ken was just one of the thousands of elected councilmembers serving in California's 500 cities, Ken's public service focus, respectful listening, and demonstrated ability at helping people find middle-ofthe-road solutions to complex issues caught the eye of California city leaders. By Fall 2008, city leaders statewide had advanced him to be the number two state leader of the League of California Cities. Ken considered that a great compliment.
