A Rocky Road for Business

Unless lawmakers intervene, the debt is set to be paid down by a tax increase for businesses that would show up on their 2022 taxes, said Barrera. Photo courtesy London | Dreamstime.com

Clogged supply chains. Hiring struggles. New mask rules. A virus that trampled right over return-to-work schedules. Last year was chaotic for many businesses across California.

What does 2022 hold? Layered on top of pandemic uncertainty is the question of what policymakers might do for – and to – businesses.

“2022 is going to be a very busy legislative year,” said Jennifer Barrera, CEO of the California Chamber of Commerce.

Workers were guaranteed extended sick leave for COVID-19 quarantining or vaccine side effects in spring of 2021, and then saw it run out in September. “That expired, in our minds, at the worst possible time,” said Eduardo Martinez, legislative director of California Labor Federation, mentioning the Delta variant surge, which seemingly peaked in late August.

With the rise of the Omicron variant, Los Angeles Democrat Wendy Carrillo said she’s looking for an opportunity to bring back extended COVID-19 sick leave. Last time California had federal assistance helping cover the cost; this time it would have to go it alone, she said. Pointing to the state’s projected $31 billion budget surplus, she said “there’s an opportunity for the governor and for the legislature to ensure that the health of the 40 million people across the state of California is prioritized.”

Also potentially on the docket: legislation to boost the share of their wages that workers receive when they take paid family leave, according to San Jose Democrat Ash Kalra, who chairs the Assembly’s labor and employment committee. “The current (wage) replacement rate is especially inadequate for low wage workers,” said Kalra.

A rate increase was passed by the legislature last year, but was vetoed by Gov. Gavin Newsom, who said it would create “significant new costs.” In his veto statement, Newsom said he looked forward to partnering with the legislature on the issue of family leave access.

In 2021, Oakland Democrat Buffy Wicks proposed a bill that would

to Require ‘Complete Streets’ in New Planning

Caltrans Press Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Caltrans announced its new policy for all new transportation projects it funds or oversees to include “complete street” features that provide safe and accessible options for people walking, biking and taking transit. This policy will expand the availability of sustainable transportation options to help meet the state’s climate, health and equity goals.

“California must reduce dependence on driving without sacrificing mobility and accessibility,” said Caltrans Director Toks Omishakin. “As Caltrans and local transportation agencies prepare for the influx of new federal infrastructure funding, it is important that we provide safe, convenient, sustainable and accessible alternatives to driving to achieve our climate goals while equitably serving all Californians.”

A complete street provides mobility for people of all ages and abilities, particularly those who are walking, biking, using assistive mobility devices, and riding transit. Complete streets offer several benefits, including enhancing safety and creating more sustainable transportation options to decrease dependence on driving and improving public health by encouraging active transportation like walking and biking.

As part of the new policy, Caltrans commits to remove administrative barriers and partner with communities and local agencies to ensure more projects on state and local transportation systems improve the connectivity to pedestrian, bicycle and transit facilities, and accessibility to destinations. If not appropriate to the context or community of the project, projects must receive approval from Caltrans before complete streets features are excluded. ★

Change of Guard for Carmichael PBID

by Susan Maxwell

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Carmichael’s Property and Business Improvement District (PBID) begins 2022 with a new executive.

Rebekah Evans takes over from director, Rachael Taylor, who guided the organization from 2019. Taylor will join her TV journalist husband Matthew Nuttle for a Honolulu posting. “Leaving Carmichael is hard,” explains the newlywed. “Matthew has always supported my work. Now it’s time for me to support his.”

Successor Evans comes to Carmichael from the 80-Watt (North Highlands) counterpart PBID. Before this post, she led a TBID (Tourism Business Improvement District) in Southern California’s Ventura County. “The Carmichael community and its connection to businesses pulls at my heartstrings,” says the mother of three.

industry and Chamber of Commerce management. For seven years, she was Malibu Chamber CEO and president. “The world knows Malibu as a movie star colony,” she says, “in reality, it’s a tight-knit family-oriented area.” Even so, she got used to celebrities in her stomping ground. “You often hear them before you see them,” she says. “A voice in the street sounds familiar; you look around and there’s Arnold Schwarzenegger chatting as he walks by.

“I’m leaving a restaurant when I recognize a guy; I figure he’s one of my Chamber members. So, I’m shaking his hand; telling him I hope his business is going well. He’s smiling and nodding. I’m walking away and I realize he’s Susan Sarandon’s husband (actor Chris Sarandon). I suppose it happens to him all the time...

“I’m meeting Carmichael celebrities, too. People whose families have been here for generations are VIPs in my mind. Carmichael and the 80-Watt areas

CHP Highlights Changes to State's Traffic Safety Laws

California Highway Patrol News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As we head into the new year, the California Highway Patrol (CHP) is educating the public on traffic safety laws that were passed during this year's legislative season and signed by Governor Gavin Newsom. The laws take effect January 1, 2022, unless otherwise noted.

Sideshow Definition and Penalties (Assembly Bill (AB) 3, Fong): This new law strengthens penalties for those convicted of exhibition of speed if the violation occurred as part of a sideshow.

Beginning July 1, 2025, a court will be permitted to suspend a person's driver's license between 90 days and six months if the person is convicted of exhibition of speed and if the violation occurred as part of a "sideshow." Section 23109(c) of the California Vehicle Code (CVC) (exhibition of speed) will define sideshow as an event in which two or more persons block or impede traffic on a highway for the purpose of performing motor vehicle stunts, motor vehicle speed contests, motor vehicle exhibitions of speed, or reckless driving for spectators.

The courts will be required to consider a defendant's medical, personal, or family hardship that requires a person to have a driver's license before determining whether to suspend a person's driver's license.

Equestrian Safety Gear (AB 974, L. Rivas): Requires a person under the age of 18 to wear a properly fitted and fastened helmet when riding an equestrian animal, such as a horse, mule, or donkey on a paved highway. This bill also requires all riders or their equines to wear reflective gear or a lamp when riding after sundown.

A person riding an equestrian animal in a parade or festival, or crossing a paved highway from an unpaved highway, is exempt from all helmet, lighting, or reflective gear requirements.

Tribal Emergency Vehicles (AB 798, Ramos): This bill provides that any vehicle owned or operated by a federally recognized Indian tribe is considered an authorized emergency vehicle as defined by Section 165 CVC when responding to an emergency, fire, ambulance, or lifesaving calls.

Class C Drivers Allowed to Tow Trailer (Senate Bill 287, Grove): Effective January 1, 2027, drivers with a class C driver's license may operate a vehicle towing a trailer between 10,001 pounds and 15,000 pounds gross vehicle weight rating, or gross vehicle weight with a fifth-wheel and kingpin or bed mounted gooseneck connection, provided that the trailer is used exclusively for recreational purposes for the transportation of property, living space, or both.

The driver will be required to pass a specialized written examination demonstrating the knowledge of the CVC and other safety aspects relating to the towing of recreational vehicles on the highway and possess an endorsement on their class C driver's license.

Currently, this exemption is in place for drivers towing a fifth-wheel travel trailer provided the driver passes a specialized written exam and obtains a recreational trailer endorsement.

As a reminder, the following law took effect on July 1, 2021:

License Points for Distracted Driving (AB 47, Daly; 2019): Using a handheld cell phone while driving is currently punishable by a fine. As of July 1, 2021, violating the hands-free law for a second time within 36 months of a prior conviction for the same offense will result in a point being added to a driver's record. This applies to the violations of talking or texting while driving (except for hands-free use) and to any use of these devices while driving by a person under 18 years of age.

The mission of the CHP is to provide the highest level of Safety, Service, and Security. ★

Climate Action Plan End of Year Update

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - In September 2021, Planning and Environmental Review (PER) – now part of the Community Development Department – released a draft of the Climate Action Plan (CAP) that was meant to be the Final Draft. Based on valuable community feedback, and in response to the Board of Supervisors resolution declaring a climate emergency, the CAP is once again being updated.

“We remain committed to developing the best Climate Action Plan for Sacramento County that addresses residents' concerns and places us on a path toward the ambitious goal of carbon neutrality by 2030,” said Todd Smith, Principal Planner. “We are working hard on the CAP updates and look forward to the community's feedback.”

The next draft of the CAP is due out in February 2022. Public comments will be accepted for a period of 30 days following the release of the draft CAP. A board workshop on the CAP will be held in March 2022.

Sheriff Jones and DA Schubert Announce Arrest in Series of Hate Crimes

Offices of Sac County Sheriff's Department and District Attorney

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - On December 22, 2021, detectives from the Sacramento Sheriff's Office arrested 33-year-old Nicholas Wayne Sherman in connection to a series of hate crime related incidents in Carmichael between October 4th and October 20th, 2021.

Sherman was charged with one felony count of desecrating a religious symbol on the property of the Shalom Le Israel synagogue in Carmichael. Sherman was charged with 12 additional misdemeanor counts of terrorism by symbol for placing Aryan Nation flyers containing a swastika on the doorsteps of numerous Carmichael homes, and one additional misdemeanor count of terrorism by symbol for placing similar flyers on the property of Deterding Elementary School in Carmichael.

The investigation was conducted by the Sheriff's Bias Crimes Unit and will be prosecuted by the District Attorney's Hate Crimes Unit.

"All crimes hurt not just the victim, but the entire community. This is especially true of crimes motivated by hate", said Sheriff Scott Jones. "The Sacramento Sheriff's Office - just like our community - has no tolerance for hate crimes of any kind, and they will be investigated to the fullest extent of our capability, and offenders will be identified and arrested."

"Let me be very clear, hate crimes against a member of any group in our community is an assault on all of us and will not be tolerated," said District Attorney Anne Marie Schubert. "Those who target victims because of their race, ethnicity, religion, nationality, disability, gender or sexual orientation will be prosecuted by specially trained and experienced prosecutors. In addition to prosecuting hate crime offenses, my office works to educate the community on how to protect themselves and encourages them to report suspected hate crimes." ★

Redistricting Won't Change Democrats' Control

By Dan Walters
CALMatters.org

Superficially, California's politics seem poised for a big upheaval in this election year, but appearances can be deceiving.

The illusion of major change comes from the redrawing of 172 congressional and legislative districts by the state's independent redistricting commission to reflect population shifts revealed by the 2020 census.

The boundary changes, driven by the 14-member commission's obsession with "communities of interest" that it defined in purely subjective, ever-shifting terms, will generate a substantial turnover in the 52-member congressional delegation, the 40-member state Senate and the 80-seat state Assembly.

Much of it will be a game of musical chairs as politicians shift from one venue to another. Several senior members of the congressional delegation are calling it quits, opening up opportunities for state legislators to advance their careers. The redistricting plans also throw a few incumbents into the same districts, forcing them to alter career plans.

The 2011 California redistricting and the 2012 elections brought a bumper crop of new legislators into the Capitol who will face automatic retirement in 2024 due to the 12-year limit on legislative service, so several of them are planning bids for Congress or statewide office this year.

The commission was attempting to comply with a set of conflicting mandates, not only to equalize the populations of legislative and congressional districts, but to meet the demands of ethnic and cultural "communities of interest" for dedicated legislative seats and to comply with the federal Voting Rights Act.

The Voting Rights Act indirectly mandates creating more districts likely to elect non-white members, thus increasingly the likelihood that more of those winning legislative seats in this year's elections will be Latino, Asian or Black.

The communities whose demands were met are overwhelmingly Democratic and even if the commission had ignored the Voting Rights Act and the "communities of interest" credo, its maps would favor Democrats because fewer than 25% of registered voters are Republicans and Democrats outnumber them almost 2-to-1.

If one defines "gerrymandering" as pre-ordaining who wins a legislative or congressional seat by drawing district lines, this was gerrymandering, albeit not for overtly partisan purposes. That said, the partisan effect will be to cement the Democratic Party's overwhelming control of the Legislature and the congressional delegation.

The current Legislature is roughly 75% Democratic and there's little doubt that the one elected in November will be equally lopsided in partisan makeup. The faces may change but not the Legislature's left-of-center tilt.

The only real mystery emanating from the new maps is whether Democrats will increase their hold on the congressional delegation. In 2018, the state's disdain for Donald Trump manifested itself in a debacle for Republican members of Congress, cutting their ranks from a paltry 14 seats to just seven. The GOP rebounded a bit in 2020 and now holds 11 seats.

The state is losing a congressional seat due to slow population growth in the last decade, thus requiring an adjustment that wound up costing Los Angeles County one of its seats. Nevertheless, the overall thrust of the new congressional map favors Democrats and whether the party makes gains in California could play a role in which party controls the House.

Republicans need to gain just five seats to regain control and the increase in seats in fast-growing pro-GOP states such as Texas, plus Republican-friendly gerrymanders in those states and the nation's overall political sentiment favor a shift of power.

However, if it's closer than expected, Democratic gains in California could make the difference and a handful of tossup contests in the state's newly reconfigured districts will draw heavy attention.

Dan Walters has been a journalist for nearly 60 years, spending all but a few of those years working for California newspapers. ★

A Rocky Road for Business

have required all workers to provide proof of vaccination to their employers or submit to weekly testing. Days later, with the end of the legislative session encroaching, she put the idea on hold, saying she would take time to work with colleagues and stakeholders "to make this the strongest bill possible headed into 2022."

Since then, the Biden administration unveiled a vaccine requirement for large companies in November, which immediately drew lawsuits and is currently wending its way through the legal system, and New York City imposed a vaccine requirement for all in-person workers at private businesses.

"We cannot be a New York," said Robert Lapsley, president of California Business Roundtable. "We need flexibility. And, so, hopefully, the governor, OSHA, et cetera, will not go down that path."

It's unclear if a similar proposal is in the cards for California. Wicks' communications director, Erin Ivie, wrote that the office was "still in the process of considering what types of vaccine legislation we hope to introduce in the upcoming session." When asked if Cal/OSHA had any plans to roll out a vaccine requirement for all workers, spokesperson Erika Monterroza said she was not aware of any such plans.

A final list of the initiatives that actually make it onto your ballot in November won't be settled for many months. But there are already some proposals in the pipeline that could impact businesses:

Investor-turned-antipoverty-advocate Joe Sanberg has put forward a measure that would increase the minimum wage in California to $18 per hour by 2025, with an additional year for small employers to comply;

A proposal aimed at housing affordability that would raise renters' income tax credit and increase the amount of a property's value that is tax exempt while raising taxes on commercial and residential properties worth more than $4 million;

And a measure, backed by the California Chamber of Commerce and other business groups, that would repeal a law that lets employees sue employers over certain labor violations and receive monetary penalties, while requiring the legislature fund the labor rule enforcers adequately to carry out laws.

In addition to nearly $1.2 billion federal dollars for loans potentially coming the way of California small businesses, state lawmakers will continue to try and aid them, said Corona Democrat Sabrina Cervantes, who chairs the Assembly's committee on jobs and economic development. She plans to continue work on a bill that would incentivize landlords to give small businesses rent relief.

The legislature may also take another look at how farmworker union elections are conducted. In 2021, Santa Cruz Democrat Mark Stone introduced a bill that would have given workers the option to fill out their ballot at home, rather than requiring they vote via an in-person election. Newsom vetoed the measure, which opponents said left workers more vulnerable to coercion, becoming the third consecutive California governor to veto such a bill. Stone will continue working on it in 2022, per his office.

Business groups plan to raise a stink about the debt that California's unemployment insurance fund owes the federal government, which ballooned during the pandemic as more workers lost their jobs and collected benefits. Unless lawmakers intervene, the debt is set to be paid down by a tax increase for businesses that would show up on their 2022 taxes, said Barerra.

Also on the horizon is a debate about employee data privacy. Employee data was initially exempted from the data privacy law Californians voted for in 2020, but that carveout ends on the first day of 2023, creating a deadline for the legislature to figure out what they want to do, if anything, around worker data.

Martinez, from the labor federation, says he's increasingly hearing from unions that employers are collecting data on workers without their knowledge or consent. "There's an opportunity to get some privacy rights for workers to curb some of the abuses," said Martinez.

But the ongoing pandemic could disrupt even the best laid legislative plans.

"If next year is anything like the past two years," said Martinez, "you think you know what you're working on and then all of a sudden something happens and - nope - you're working on something else."

are humongously different. In North Highlands, I found a down-trodden area that I helped make a more vibrant business entity. You do it one block at a time; encouraging business owners to take more pride. Each little improvement has a snowball effect. I feel I left the area with a strong foundation, and I'll continue watching it improve."

Instigated by businesses, PBIDs are agencies established to aid merchant interests. The Carmichael fiefdom extends through more than three miles of Fair Oaks Boulevard and nearby streets. Its footprint was last year extended to include numerous Winding Way and El Camino Avenue businesses. Property owners are assessed to provide an operating budget: the increased 2022 bottom line ($500,000) enables greater security and maintenance services for merchants increasingly impacted by crime and homelessness.

"Thanks to Rachael and her board, we're having a new security company take over," explains Evans. "Sacramento Protective Services will bring more staff, more patrol hours and crime-reporting teamwork to our area. We hope this will deter crime.

"I'm very sorry so many people are hooked on drugs and without a home. But the rights of the homeless should not be put before our community's safety. That's my first priority. PBID advocacy is an important part of its role."

Though a newbie to Carmichael, Evans' job immersion continues after hours. She is married to Antelope PBID executive Chris Evans, who also operates security for the River District PBID. The couple talks shop from breakfast to bedtime. "We're always brainstorming," she reports. "It helps us both."

Among her January chores is planning a debut public event for her group. A "State of the PBID 2022" dinner aims to unite business leaders and local government on February 10. The public may also attend. Hosted by Tim's Music Plaza, the program offers a catered meal and speakers. Tickets are $30 in advance. For information visit: www.discovercarmichael.com ★

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, and contingent creditors of and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both of Wayne Hartman deceased. A Petition for Probate has been filed by Tammie Hartman, in the Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, requesting Tammie Hartman be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. The petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate. The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court. The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the executor to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the executor will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority. A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows February 1, 2022 9:00 a.m. in Dept 129. IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. The name, address and telephone number of the Attorney for Petitioner is: Samuel K. Senson 8788 Greenback Lane Suite 105, Orangevale, CA 95662 916-333-0833

Ask Toni

Not Knowing Medicare Rules is Costing Americans Millions in Penalties!!

Toni King

Toni:
I need your help! I have just discovered that my mother, who is 67, never enrolled in Medicare Part B or D. She was under the impression that if she did not go to the doctor, she did not need to pay the premium because she needs the money to pay for her car payment and could enroll later. She has a huge problem because she has been diagnosed with colon cancer and she does not have Part B or a Medicare prescription drug plan. I called Social Security to help her enroll in Part B and was informed that she must wait until January 1 thru March 31 to enroll in Medicare Part B. The Social Security agent said that my mother has missed her "window of opportunity." She did not enroll when she turned 65 and now the penalty and delay of Medicare Part B is going to be very costly. Please advise me what I can do to help her?

Medicare Part D plan is another issue. She must wait until the next Medicare Annual Enrollment which is from October 15 thru December 7th. The Medicare Part D plan will start January 1. The Medicare Part D penalty for is 1% of the national Part D average premium (and this also changes each year) for each month she could have enrolled in Part D from age 65 but failed to. Her Part D penalty will be that specific Part D 1% penalty x 36 months (as an example), for an extra monthly penalty cost and this amount changes as Part D's premium and monthly penalty changes.

Currently, there are over 775,000 Medicare beneficiaries who are receiving a Medicare Part B and/or D penalty costing on average $5,000 in Medicare lifetime penalties because they did not enroll under Medicare's Initial or Special enrollment periods. Medicare enrollment periods are listed below:

~ Thanks, Jeanine

Oh My, Jeanine:

• Medicare Initial Enrollment Period: Begins 3 months before turning 65, the month one turns 65 and 3 months after one turns 65. This period is for those not working full-time with company benefits or those not working receiving their Social Security check and are turning 65.

Your mother has an extremely serious Medicare issue, because not only will she have to enroll during Medicare's General Enrollment Period which is the special time from January 1st thru March 31 each year for those that never enrolled in Medicare Part B. Her Medicare Part B will begin July 1st and she will receive a Part B penalty.

• Special Enrollment Period: Enroll after 65 when delaying Medicare Part B due to working full time with company benefits. This is an 8-month window of signing up for Part B without receiving a Part B penalty.

When your mother enrolls in Medicare Part B during Medicare's General Enrollment Period, she will receive a Part B penalty which is a 10% penalty for each 12-month period and for her is 20% (2 years x 10%) for as long as your mother could have had Part B but failed to enroll. This 20% penalty will never go away and remains in effect for the life of the Medicare beneficiary's Medicare coverage.

• General Enrollment Period: January 1-March 31, when one who has not enrolled in Part B may enroll but WILL receive a Part B penalty. During this enrollment period Medicare Part B would begin July 1st.

For your mother to enroll in a

Early Winter Storms Provide Much Needed Sierra Snowpack

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The Department of Water Resources (DWR) conducted the first snow survey of the season at Phillips Station. Early winter storms this month provided a strong start to the season and some drought relief, but California remains in a drought.

The manual survey recorded 78.5 inches of snow depth and a snow water equivalent of 20 inches, which is 202 percent of average for this location on this date. The snow water equivalent measures the amount of water contained in the snowpack and is a key component of DWR's water supply forecast. Statewide the snowpack is 160 percent of average for this date.

"We could not have asked for a better December in terms of Sierra snow and rain," said DWR Director Karla Nemeth. "But Californians need to be aware that even these big storms may not refill our major reservoirs during the next few months. We need more storms and average temperatures this winter and spring, and we can't be sure it's coming. So, it's important that we continue to do our part to keep conserving - we will need that water this summer."

Californians only need to look to last winter and the state's disappointing snowpack runoff due to high temperatures, dry soil and evaporation as a reminder that changes to our climate mean it will take more than an average year to recover from drought.

"California continues to experience evidence of climate change with bigger swings between wet and dry years and even extreme variability within a season. A wet start to the year doesn't mean this year will end up above average once it's all said and done," said

Sean de Guzman, Manager of DWR's Snow Surveys and Water Supply Forecasting Unit.

December is the first of the three typically wettest months of California's water year. Significant January and February precipitation would be required to generate enough runoff to make up for the previous two winters that were California's fifth - and second-driest water years on record.

California has experienced wet Decembers before only to have storms disappear for the remainder of the season. In 2013, the first snow survey provided promising results after a wet December, similar to this year. However, the following January and February were exceptionally dry, and the year ended as the driest on record, contributing to a record-breaking drought.

On average, the Sierra snowpack supplies about 30 percent of California's water needs and the snowpack is an important factor in determining how DWR manages the state's water resources. Its natural ability to store water is why the Sierra snowpack is often referred to as California's "frozen reservoir."

As spring sets in, the snowpack begins to melt. Water that is not absorbed into the ground, called "runoff," trickles into mountain streams, which feed rivers and eventually aqueducts and reservoirs, where it can be stored for use throughout the dry season. Climate change is affecting California's snowpack, as more precipitation falls as rain and less as snow. Excessively dry soils and dry, warm spring temperatures are also reducing yearly runoff.

Due to these climate-induced changes, DWR is investing in partnerships and implementing emerging and proven technologies to improve forecasts of precipitation, seasonal snowpack, and runoff to support more efficient water management now and to help estimate the impacts of climate change on future flood and drought conditions. Forecast improvements and monitoring enhancements increase the reliability of data used to inform water managers about flood risks, allowing opportunities to create more storage in reservoirs ahead of big storms while also ensuring water supply reliability in periods of dry or drought conditions.

DWR conducts five media-oriented snow surveys at Phillips Station each winter near the first of each month from January through April and, if necessary, May. ★

The Exciting New World of Snap On Dentures!

There are millions of people... in the US who struggle daily with dentures. A majority suffer from discomfort as a result of loose or ill-fitting dentures. Many prosthetic wearers simply withdraw from any type of social engagement as a result of having to wear their dentures.

There are several types of snap on dentures available, including snap on partials. If you already wear a conventional denture or partial denture, we can sometimes use your denture to accommodate the snaps to fit on your new dental implants.

If you are interested in learning more about improving your quality of life with an implant retained snap on denture or partial, please contact us for a FREE CONSULTATION today!
