Eaglets Taste Independence

Story and photos
by Susan Maxwell Skinner

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The 2021 American River eaglets recently took flight. Thirteen-week-old juveniles Rio and Lago (Spanish for river and lake), both dispatched on the same 104-degree Fahrenheit day. In a fifth season of observing the rare family, this researcher photographed all nursery phases. As with any animal, the raptors' baby steps toward destiny were life-affirming to witness. Here's my record of Independence Day for two junior national icons.

June 10, 6 am: I note younger sibling Lago has outstripped his sister in confidence. His restless passage around the nursery pine suggests he might be first from the starting blocks. Mama delivers a morning fish and departs. After breakfast, Lago resumes "branching." He's scrambling to outer limbs and challenging Rio for her high perch. Wings beating, he executes 15-foot leaps between boughs. He's already achieving tiny, controlled flights.

9:15 am: The wunderkind seems to confer with his babysitting Papa. Perhaps the seasoned parent blesses him: Chocks away, go for it, kid.

10:45 am: After five hours of rising mercury, my cameras are overheating. I decide today's too hot for fly-day and plan a retreat.

10:55 am: Busy Lago pauses on an outer branch. Without preamble, utterance or downward glance, the tyke simply takes off. He wafts above bluff trees for a hundred yards. Maiden flights typically include drama. Fledglings get stuck in foreign trees and are terrified by the abyss between them and the nest. Re-launching often takes hours. Not this time. To my amazement, ace Lago turns for home without stopover.

11 am: In an explosion of pine

"Recall San Juan" Seeks to Oust School Board Members

Story by Shaunna Boyd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - An effort is underway to recall the five members of the San Juan Unified School District (SJUSD) Board of Education - which governs schools in Arden-Arcade, Carmichael, Citrus Heights, Fair Oaks, Gold River, Orangevale, and parts of Sacramento.

Marina Gabel, the driving force behind "Recall San Juan," first grew concerned last summer when SJUSD shut down schools and transitioned to distance learning due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The shutdown prompted her to spend months navigating the legal requirements of a recall and rallying others to the cause.

A Recall San Juan press release dated June 10, 2021, alleges that the distance learning model has had detrimental effects on students, such as learning loss, declining attendance, and student mental fatigue and depression.

As COVID cases dropped earlier this year and Sacramento County entered the less-restrictive Red Tier, SJUSD reopened for a hybrid model of learning. On March 22, students had the option to return to their classrooms two days a week, while supportive remote instruction continued the rest of the week. When physical distancing requirements were updated from 6 ft. to 3 ft. inside classrooms, SJUSD began offering in-person learning in the mornings four days a week starting on April 26.

According to Gabel

and others involved in the recall effort, these changes weren't enough. "Our main reason is to get schools open full time with no reason for them to ever do this to our kids again. We need people on the Board that will listen to the parents," said Gabel.

Raina Carson is also involved in Recall San Juan, and she agrees that SJUSD should have opened schools full time as soon as possible. Carson has stated that the Board members did not defend students' rights to access public school buildings.

When asked to comment on the recall effort, SJUSD Communication Coordinator Raj Rai answered on behalf of the Board, stating that "at all times, the district complied with the requirements of state and local health officials, which impacted school capacities and necessitated alternative learning models for the 2020-2021 school year." Rai also stated that SJUSD was "among the first school districts in Sacramento County to offer students at ALL grade levels the option to return to some form of in-person learning."

Even when SJUSD was able to offer the option for in-person learning, Rai explained that "many of our families chose to remain in the distance learning model." Returning to a full five days a week schedule for some families while maintaining the distance learning option preferred by other families would have meant reassigning thousands of students to

Behavioral Health Youth Advisory Board Established

By Samantha Mott, Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento County Board of Supervisors approved an ordinance establishing the Sacramento County Behavioral Health Youth Advisory Board (YAB); the next step in an ongoing effort to promote the engagement of youth in developing programs that affect the behavioral health and wellbeing of youth in Sacramento County.

"If we want to create successful programs that meet the needs of our youth we need the youth perspective to help guide the process," says Ryan Quist, Sacramento County Behavioral Health Director. "The creation of YAB provides an empowering and supportive space for youth to advocate for youth-friendly, culturally relevant programs."

As experts in their own lived experience, youth can offer the County a unique perspective to make County programs more effective and responsive to their needs. The YAB will serve as a diverse and empowered group of youth who will advise policy leaders on how to create a "youth behavioral health friendly" community, provide direct input and feedback regarding behavior health and wellness needs of youth, and create a network of trusted peer-to-peer messengers around youth behavioral health and well-being.

"Youth engagement in the creation of programs has been missing in our community," says Eboni Stallworth, California Youth Empowerment Network Board Member and youth mental health advocate. "This board creates a foundation for current and future youth to have their voices heard."

The YAB will be composed of 10 Sacramento County youth, ages 14-24, two youth representatives from each district. Once empaneled, the board will be trained and supported to work collaboratively with County Mental Health Board and the Youth Commission regarding programs and policies related to youth mental health. ★ new classrooms and teachers with just a little more than a month before the end of the school year. “Valuing the relationships that were built between teacher and student, and between student to student, returning four days a week in the mornings was the option that was the least disruptive for all,” explained Rai.

The SJUSD 2021-2022 school year will start on August 12 with the traditional full-day schedule five days a week, which was announced at a Board meeting in May and through a message sent to all families with students enrolled in SJUSD schools.

But Recall San Juan wants to send a message to the Board, letting them know that some families in the district oppose the choices they made. At the June 2021 Board meeting, Gabel spoke during public comment: “The recall effort is underway. Our voices will not be silenced.”
In addition to students losing a year and a half of full-time in-person instruction, Gabel also shared another of her personal reasons for pursuing the recall. She said her son – a 10-year-old student in fifth grade – was assigned to a teacher who had been with the school for just a year. She asked that her son be transferred into a class taught by an experienced teacher with whom he was already familiar, but school policy required a reason for the transfer. Because classes were held over Zoom, Gabel said she found her reason: “I now had full access into the classroom and everything my son was exposed to by his teacher,” including “critical race theory, racism, gender stereotyping, and suicide.”

She demanded that her son be transferred, and the school did comply. Gabel believes that issues about race, gender, and mental health should not be taught in K-12 classrooms – and she has signed her son up for “weekly counseling sessions” as a result of those lessons.
The SJUSD does not include Critical Race Theory (CRT) as part of its curriculum. CRT is a theoretical framework for examining structural and institutional racism, typically studied in post-secondary education and used in legal analysis. “CRT is not part of our K-12 curriculum,” Rai explained. “However, lessons that address race and social justice are embedded in classes in alignment with state standards and our district’s 8-Point Commitment to Educational Justice.”

Rai continued: “At San Juan Unified we believe diversity is a valuable asset that strengthens and enriches our community. We recognize that we have achievement gaps in our system and educating students about issues such as ending racism and creating equity is one way we can work towards closing those gaps.”
The Recall San Juan movement is insistent that SJUSD needs new leadership. “We have people all over the district collecting petitions,” said Gabel. The petition timeline and number of required signatures are calculated based on the number of registered voters in the district, and Recall San Juan has until October 19 to gather the 20,044 signatures necessary to trigger the recall. ★

Local Promoter Revives Acoustic Music Scene

By Thomas J. Sullivan

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Tiffany Madrid, founder of Madrid Music Group, is delighted to, at last, be able to resume her popular live acoustic open-mic music sessions to Carmichael.
Madrid will present acoustic open mic night on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month at Stage 76 Kitchen & Bar at 7600 Fair Oaks Boulevard in Carmichael. Local musicians are asked to sign up at 5:30 p.m. to perform either two original or cover songs. Performance is from 6 to 8 p.m.
While it may be a new venue, new health and sanitary guidelines do apply in a live music entertainment environment, Madrid said.
“It’s still the same gathering of good local friends who enjoy making and listening to great original acoustic music,” she said.
Opening night on Wednesday, June 10, saw 18 performers play before an appreciative capacity audience.
Madrid, a resident of Fair

Oaks, was part of a small group of friends in 2016 who just wanted to play, sing, and share their love for acoustic music in the greater Orangevale and Fair Oaks area. She had hosted open mic music nights at the former Love at First Bite Café at 7405 Winding Way and a coffee house in downtown Fair Oaks since 2019 but suspended her bi-monthly live music series with the onset of the pandemic.
“There are a lot of talented singer-songwriters in the Fair Oaks, Carmichael and surrounding areas who write their own material and are anxious to return to the stage,” Madrid said. “Most musicians whom I’ve spoken to are eager to returning to playing live. They miss the energy and feedback of a live audience.”
Madrid creates a very welcoming atmosphere for her artists and as before, the vibe is decidedly warm and casual. She serves as an emcee, introducing each performer, some who were braving performing live at Stage 76 for the very first time.

“On any given past evening, there may have been 10-12 people who wish to perform,” she said. “Tonight’s turnout was amazing.”
Madrid, who is also a performer, grew up in Simi Valley in Southern California, before moving to Fair Oaks some 20 years ago. She is a mom of three and enjoyed a past professional career in real estate and finance before returning to music, her first love.
The Stage 76 Kitchen & Bar in Carmichael at 7600 Fair Oaks Boulevard features a great selection of beer and a full bar, offers American contemporary cuisine with a regional pedigree. Its stage and private room can also be booked for music, comedy, open mic and art events. View a sample menu at stage76kb.com/menu/
Madrid Music Group’s Facebook page features video links to performances at their current location. For more information about the original acoustic music sessions, contact Tiffany Madrid at madrid-music916@gmail.com. ★ needles, a textbook fledge is complete. Alpha sibling Rio gawks. Lago's dramatic silence says: Okay, so I'm king of the world. Now what?

11:30 am: Approving Papa joins his debutant. Lago seems to feel rewards are in order. His cacophonous eaglet tantrum echoes through the canyon. Papa endures the screaming for a full 20 minutes before scorching away to hunt at high noon.

4 pm: I melt into a puddle of sweaty camouflage gear. Rio's still not moved since seeing her brother's feat. Papa's hunting across the canyon. Above me, the achiever still screams: Bring me fish!

Next day, June 11, 6 am: Beholding an empty nest, I conclude Rio has also flown the coop. The morning brings unimagined fledgling experiences. The canyon is a noisy three-ring circus as liberated babies crash-land on unfamiliar trees and surfaces. Screaming like banshees at every turn, they flap homeward when fish are delivered.

7 am: Mama Bald leads her fledglings across the river. From a distance, I see them on a rocky shore, drinking deep. The artery has tantalized below their nursery for almost 13 weeks; now they gulp of cool, shaded paradise. They wade to breast-depth then splash, like sparrows in a bird bath. In a river named for their nation, juvenile icons Rio and Lago discover a whole new world. And it's good. God Bless America!

Footnote: Prescient parenting surely ensured survival for these babies. June's ruthless procession of triple-digit days caused great wildlife suffering and many dehydrated raptors were saved by rescue agencies. In five seasons of recording the family's activities, two flawless maiden flights -- within hours -- have not previously occurred. This observer feels the adults knew a heatwave was looming and wanted the babies out of an unshaded nest. Their encouragement might have hurried fledges, so Rio and Lago reached life-saving water in the nick of time. Pictures shown were shot from great distances with powerful lenses. River users who see animals drinking on banks should allow them space to refresh and hunt. Their lives depend on it. ★

Nielsen: 'This is a Fake Budget'

Jim Nielsen
From the Office of Senator Nielsen

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) -
Senator Jim Nielsen, R-Red

Bluff, today issued the following statement on the passage of the Democrats' Budget Act of 2021:

This is a fake budget and the Democrat-controlled budget process, with no public input or transparency, is a sham.

Over the years, there have been a number of challenging budget bills with deficits. This year, California has a substantial surplus. The temptation is to spend it and that's exactly what the Democrats are doing.

The Democrats' irresponsible budget is funding long-term spending using short-term dollars, which might further burden future budgets and get the state, as it has before, into financial trouble.

Following the Budget Act will be dozens of so-called budget trailer bills. Many will contain major policy provisions that will circumvent the normal deliberative legislative process.

Today, I argued for caution and a 'No' vote. ★

Move to by-Trustee Area Elections Resumes

San Juan Unified School District

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - San Juan Unified School District will resume the process of transitioning to by-trustee area elections on July 1, after it was paused under a state executive order during the COVID-19 pandemic to protect public health and safety.

During a special meeting on July 1, the district's demographer will review the process and criteria used to develop trustee area maps and the board will hear public input.

Currently, the district uses an election method referred to as 'at-large' in which all candidates for the board are on each voter's ballot. Voters then vote for up to the number of currently open seats with those receiving the most votes from across the district being elected. In a by-trustee area election, the district is divided into smaller areas each represented by one board member. Candidates for the board must reside in the area they will represent and voters only select one candidate from those in their area.

Map options will be made available for review by July 6, and a second special meeting of the board will be held on July 13, providing for a presentation by the demographer on the maps and an opportunity for public input. Community meetings on July 20 and 22, will be held at multiple locations throughout the district, as well as online, offering additional opportunities for input which can also be submitted online at any time by visiting <https://www.sanjuan.edu/elections>.

The board will hold a final special meeting on July 27, 2021, providing for public hearings before selecting the final map to adopt, and resolution to move on to the County Commission for approval. The County Commission must take action by August 10.

In March of 2020, the Board of Education unanimously approved a resolution beginning the formal process to move to by-trustee area elections. After an initial presentation and public hearing, Governor Newsom issued executive order N-48-20 in April of 2020 which paused the timeline for the process to protect public health and safety during the pandemic. The board voted to pause the process in compliance with the executive order.

With Governor Newsom's executive order pausing such processes due to the COVID-19 pandemic expiring after June 30, the district will resume the transition and complete the process within the legally required timeframe.

2020 Census data was delayed and has not yet been made available. To meet the required timelines, the current map designs will use data from the 2010 Census and then be revisited later this fall once the newer data is available.

Visit <https://www.sanjuan.edu/elections> for the latest information on the process, full timelines, and maps once they are available. ★

California's Pro-Housing Forces Score Big Win

By Dan Walters
CALMatters

California's housing crisis is a multi-front guerrilla war, pitting those who want to lower legal and political barriers to construction against those who see new developments as threats to the environment and/or the ambience of their neighborhoods.

The conflict is waged in the Legislature, in the state housing bureaucracy, in city councils, in the courts and, increasingly, at the ballot box. Every new offensive assault by pro-housing forces meets stout resistance by defenders of the status quo and over time, it's been something of a stalemate.

Housing construction remains well below the levels needed to close the gap between supply and demand, resulting in ever-rising rents and home prices, ever-increasing angst for Californians priced out of the market and an adverse effect on the economy as workers migrate to more affordable communities elsewhere.

Get a veteran journalist's take on what's going on in California with a weekly round-up of Dan's column every Friday.

The Housing Crisis Act of 2019 was a major thrust by the pro-housing faction. Senate Bill 330 was aimed at blocking local government policies, such as restrictive zoning, caps on building permits or unworkable design standards that limit new housing developments.

Not surprisingly, the legislation was opposed by local government officials as undermining their historic power to shape the tenor of their communities through controls on land use. However, it was passed by strong majorities in both legislative houses and signed by Gov. Gavin Newsom, who had promised to meet the housing crisis head-on.

While the legislation limited the authority of local government officials, it may turn out to be a groundbreaking limit on the power of local voters as well.

The legislation's passage more or less coincided with the Oceanside City Council's approval of a 585-home subdivision called North River Farms, which bills itself as a country village integrated with small-scale agriculture. The council rezoned land to make the project feasible.

Despite its bucolic nature, North River Farms was opposed by existing residents of the area and some environmental groups. They launched a recall campaign against one of the council members who voted for the project and eventually placed a measure on the 2020 ballot to overturn the council's decision, which was passed by a 2-1 margin of the city's voters.

Thereupon, the project's developer, sued to overturn the referendum, alleging that it violated the Housing Crisis Act of 2019 and last month, Superior Court Judge Richard Whitney declared that the new law did apply to the referendum.

In overturning the election results, Whitney said SB 330's clear aim was to "maximize the development of housing" by overriding any local action or policy that attempts to limit construction.

Whitney's ruling will no doubt face appeals to higher courts and could collide with a 2017 state Supreme Court decree, in a case involving taxation, that ballot measures are not subject to the same limits applied to local governments.

Writing the 5-2 majority opinion, Supreme Court Justice Mariano-Florentino Cuéllar declared, "Multiple provisions of the state constitution explicitly constrain the power of local governments to raise taxes. But we will not lightly apply such restrictions on local governments to voter initiatives."

There is also a larger issue posed by the Oceanside case – whether zoning changes are legislative acts subject to referendum or merely administrative actions that are exempt from such challenges. Oregon, for instance, has flatly prohibited the use of referenda to oppose zoning changes.

The Oceanside case is not an isolated example of employing referenda to block projects. If Whitney is upheld, it will be a major victory for pro-housing forces by eliminating one arrow in the quiver of those who resist new development.

By Noah Howard

It’s bizarre that some of my favorite experiences on my shiny new Playstation 5 console have come from a game that was originally released more than 10 years ago. Metro 2033, playable on the PS5 through its 2014 Playstation 4 remaster, is one of those games that makes me wonder “why isn’t everyone talking about this?”

The Metro games, of which there are three

Game Plots

Metro 2033 is an Underground Hit

(2033 is the first, followed by Metro: Last Light and Metro: Exodus), are first-person shooters set in a post-nuclear-war Russia where the remaining fragments of humanity have set up destitute lives in old subway tunnels to avoid the irradiated monster-infested surface world. Based on a series of novels by Dmitry Glukhovsky, these medium-to-big-budget games have historically made a splash critically and commercially upon release before quickly fading into the background.

Playing the first game, it’s easy to see why it didn’t achieve significant liftoff. 2010, when Metro 2033 was first released, was the middle of the military shooter trend that dominated the Xbox 360/PS3 generation. Call of Duty: Black Ops, which many still consider the best of the indomitable shooter series, was ushering in a game design fad that prioritized constant adrenaline above all else. Metro 2033, by comparison, is a smoldering low-burn. Rather than the power fantasy of Call of Duty and its imitators, Metro 2033 makes you feel small and powerless.

The protagonist, a 20-year-old named Artyom setting out on a quest through his underground city for the first time in his short life, is a far cry from the military super-soldiers that define other shooters. Rather than trying to recreate an action-movie fantasy, Metro 2033 seeks to immerse you in the detailed oppression of its bleak world. Combat is relatively rare and music is restrained.

Most importantly, the game features bold design choices that make every fight feel meaningful. Not only is this a factor of combat’s infrequency, but some forms of ammunition double as currency. Every shot you take could be a tradeoff - downing the threat right in front of you could cost you the resources you need to upgrade your weapons. As a result, every monstrous enemy feels genuinely dangerous for multiple reasons. Not only can they rush your relatively weak character with otherworldly agility, and not only are your tools to fight them janky junkyard weapons that are slow to reload and kick like a horse, but the very fact of a fight’s existence could make you more vulnerable down the road.

This stands in stark contrast with Metro 2033’s contemporaries. Downing an enemy in Black Ops has virtually no emotional payoff. It’s so easy and repeated so many times that the player quickly loses count of enemies killed. But defeating an enemy in Metro 2033 is a powerful experience. It often feels like the culmination of 10-20 minutes of slowly building tension, paired with relief at your sudden safety and dread as you count your remaining ammunition. And once the combat is over, there’s still so much to do. Scrounge for ammo, change air filters, keep air-pressurized weapons pumped - the struggle never stops, but it always feels important.

In 2021 we haven’t moved past combat as the main way of interacting with the world in most big-budget video games. But if combat is going to be the focus, modern games ought to look back to 2033 for inspiration: at the very least, make every shot count. ★

Sacramento Public Library is Fine Free

Sacramento Public Library News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As of July 1, Sacramento Public Library (SPL) will be fine free. The library board voted unanimously to permanently end fines on overdue Sacramento Public Library materials last month.

“This is long overdue for the Sacramento region and a game changer for the communities we serve,” said Library Director & CEO Rivkah Sass. “By eliminating overdue fines, we’re able to remove barriers to learning resources and opportunities that are especially critical in these times and that go far beyond books.

Last year, the library temporarily suspended overdue fines to increase library access during the pandemic. Such fines can deter users from checking out materials, and prevent access to vital library services. A Sacramento Public Library card unlocks the payroll in front of more than 40 online resources, language learning tools and thousands of professional classes and tutorials with Gale Courses and LinkedIn Learning.

Library patrons who have overdue books can return them at any library location without incurring late charges. Learn more at www.saclibrary.org. ★

Wedding Plan Dos And Don'ts

Planning a wedding can be a glorious time or a time filled with stress. Which do you want? With the pandemic, many weddings were postponed, but now they are back. Lynne Goldberg knows. She's been in the wedding and event planning industry over twenty years at Ms Wedding Planner. Here's what she shared on POPPOFF with me.

- 1. BEFORE ANYTHING, DETERMINE A BUDGET. It's the total amount of money you both, along with your family are comfortable spending. This number will help determine the many choices you will be making.
- 2. NOW YOU HAVE THE MONEY SET, WRITE A LIST. These are all the things you'd like to have starting with the most important and ending with things you could do without if the money runs out. Prioritize.
- 3. DECIDE WHAT SIZE AND TYPE WEDDING YOU'D LIKE. Is it formal, casual or in between? Want a theme wedding or special setting like a beach or castle or farm or hotel? Want traditional or modern and how many guests? Visualize your wedding. Make sure you and your fiancé agree on that vision or it can be stressful. The more you agree, the simpler it'll be to plan.
- 4. PICK A DATE AND LOCATION. It sounds easy, but you may live in different places and away from families. Don't forget to research weather, time of year, holidays even other events already booked.
- 5. NOW YOU HAVE THE BUDGET, VISION, LOCATION AND DATE. You're ready to look for venues. If the ceremony is at a place of worship, make sure your date is open because - ceremony space is most important.

- 6. NOW IT'S TIME TO LOOK FOR THE PARTY PLACE. The venue sets the tone for the entire wedding reception and will most likely use up between one-third and one-half your budget. Choose wisely. It's important not to spend too much on the venue or you won't have any money left over for the rest of your list.
 - 7. THERE ARE MANY TYPES OF VENUES. Get on the computer and research options in the location you've chosen. Don't rule out your home, parent's home or friend's home.
 - 8. AFTER SECURING THE CEREMONY AND RECEPTION SPACE, CREATE A WEDDING WEBSITE. Send out a Save The Date Card with the date and wedding locations listed on the card so friends and family can put it on their calendar. Now it's time to look for that special dress and wedding colors.
 - 9. GO BACK TO YOUR LIST AND RESEARCH VENDORS IN ORDER OF PRIORITIES. Since Music, Flowers, Photography, and Video are must haves, get the prices for all four and add them up before booking any of them. This assures you have enough money to spend on the rest of your list.
 - 10. MOST COUPLES SPEND A YEAR PLANNING THEIR WEDDING. Remember, enjoy the journey. Carry a smile, sense of humor and an open mind and planning will be as much fun as your wedding day. You can check out more info at www.MsWeddingPlanner.com for many HAPPY YEARS!!! ★

Changes to Organics Recycling Law for Businesses Take Effect July 1

Effective July 1, 2021, all commercial waste generators in Sacramento that subscribe to 2 or more cubic yards of trash and recycling services combined per week are required to subscribe to organic material recycling services. This includes food waste and green waste. This law affects all business types, not just those that sell or make food.

The easiest way to become compliant is to contact your trash hauler and add organics recycling collection service. You may also be compliant if your business has alternative organic service. An Organic Material Recycling Compliance Form will need to be submitted if you recycle your organic material in an alternate way.

Waivers may be available to businesses that generate less than 20 gallons of organic material per week. Businesses who sell or produce food are ineligible to receive a 20-Gallon or Less Waiver. Ineligible businesses include restaurants, theaters, hotels, schools, gas stations, and coffee shops. A full list of ineligible business types can be found at WasteRightSac.com.

For more information or to complete the Organics Material Recycling Compliance Form for either alternative service or for a waiver please visit WasteRightSac.com.

Construction Begins on Emergency Drought Barrier

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - In response to worsening drought conditions in California, the Department of Water Resources (DWR) began construction on a temporary emergency drought barrier on the West False River in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta. The barrier will help slow the movement of saltwater into the central Delta and prevent contamination of water supplies for Delta agriculture and municipal supplies for millions of Californians.

“California is experiencing a second consecutive dry year and snowpack runoff into our state reservoirs has been far less than anticipated, so we are taking emergency actions to protect the state’s water supply and environment now,” said DWR Director Karla Nemeth. “DWR along with partner agencies is looking at all options to bolster the state’s drought response and mitigate drought impacts.”

The barrier will help prevent saltwater contamination of water supplies used by millions of Californians who rely on Delta-based federal and state water projects for at least some of their supplies. The emergency barrier will also help conserve critical water supplies in upstream reservoirs for later use by avoiding the need to send large volumes of water into the Delta to repel salinity this summer.

“Keeping saltwater from intruding into the central Delta is essential as a large portion of the state’s fresh water for urban and agricultural use goes through this part of the Delta,” said Ted Craddock, Deputy Director for the State Water Project.

On June 1, a temporary urgency change petition to modify State Water Project and Central Valley Project water rights conditions was approved by the State Water Resources Control Board, which will allow for water to be conserved for later instream uses and water quality requirements. These modifications are needed to help protect cold water pools for salmon and steelhead and maintain water quality while ensuring some water supplies are maintained if drought conditions persist next year.

Simultaneous to the drought barrier's construction, DWR is pursuing long-term planning and permitting in anticipation of future drought conditions. There will be opportunities for public involvement during this process, which will continue into 2022.

DWR is working to get the temporary emergency drought barrier in place as soon as possible. The approximately 800-foot-wide temporary barrier consisting of nearly 90,000 cubic yards of rock will span the West False River and prevent salty tides and slower moving salinity from intruding into the interior Delta. Construction is expected to be completed by July 1. The barrier will be removed no later than November 30.

The barrier will block watercraft passage on West False River until its removal and will be marked by warning signs, lights, and buoys. Alternative routes between the San Joaquin River and interior Delta will be available.

On April 21, Governor Gavin Newsom signed an emergency order directing state agencies to take immediate action to bolster drought resistance across the state. The installation of a West False River drought salinity barrier during the 2012-16 drought proved to be an effective tool for reducing the intrusion of salt water into the central and south Delta and helped preserve fresh water supplies for future critical uses including drinking water and the environment. The West False River drought salinity barrier is just one of many actions DWR is taking to mitigate drought impacts consistent with the emergency order.

OXEN HILL, MD (MPG) - Are you a successful corporate executive with deep business knowledge? Or a social media maven who's guided a corporate brand to big time success? Maybe, you're a public speaker and trainer that can inspire small business owners to climb to new heights of success. Or a savvy entrepreneur who has launched successful startups?

If so, then consider volunteering with SCORE, the nation's largest network of volunteer, expert business mentors and help small businesses recover from the economic devastation wrought by the COVID-19 pandemic.

“Your skills are valuable, needed and appreciated by small business clients and entrepreneurs,” according to SCORE CEO Bridget Weston. “Volunteer to join our community of more than 10,000 volunteers in 1,500 communities. You’ll find a wealth of support and build back small business where you live.”

Only about a third of small business owners reported turning a profit in 2020. Black and Hispanic-owned small businesses were particularly hard hit. Only 8.8% of Black business owners and 6.7% of Hispanic business owners reported profitability and growth last year, according to research conducted by SCORE.[1]

SCORE welcomes all volunteers and offers a variety of ways to get involved based on the time you have to give and your interests and expertise. You don't have to be retired to volunteer with SCORE (which was formerly known as the Service Corps of Retired Executives), notes Weston. Today, half of SCORE's volunteers are actively employed or running their own businesses.

Volunteer roles include:
Subject matter experts

- Volunteer 2-10 hours per month and consult with mentors and business owners to answer questions in your area of expertise. Share your know-how and professional knowledge in e-commerce, accounting, human resources, social media or anything else and be an invaluable resource for small business owners.

Local workshop presenter – Share your mastery of a business topic or strategy and deliver local business training for small business owners. The time required can be as little as 2-10 hours for each presentation. Business mentor – SCORE mentors provide hands-on assistance to local small business owners or aspiring entrepreneurs, helping develop business plans and a roadmap for growth. Mentors have excellent interpersonal and communication skills, as well as broad expertise as a business owner or upper-level manager. This role requires training and then 15-20 hours per month of volunteer time.

The benefits of volunteering with SCORE include networking with local and national business experts and building new community relationships through the local SCORE chapter, notes Weston. Volunteers also expand their own skillsets through training and receive local and national recognition. Helping others is extremely rewarding, and many SCORE volunteers value supporting the small business community where they live and knowing they are making a genuine difference.

Volunteering through SCORE creates a positive, tangible impact. In 2020, SCORE volunteers donated nearly four million hours of service and helped start 45,027 new businesses. They also supported the creation of 119,562 jobs and mentored 143,651 small business clients, many of whom reported higher revenues and business growth.

“My hard work is worth it when I read the emails saying how grateful people are for SCORE’s help,” said Toma Talpa, a volunteer with SCORE Chicago. “I chose SCORE because of its mission and because of the people who volunteer. They are all passionate about helping entrepreneurs and business owners achieve their goals. It always amazes me that all of the resources and national workshops that SCORE provides are free to anyone.”

To get involved, apply today at score.org/volunteer. Your SCORE chapter will reach out to learn more about you and to share information about onboarding and training.★
