RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) – Fabulously sassy, The Atomic Angels rock the vintage pin-up and rockabilly look. They also rock fundraising and donation events for a variety of non-profits, such as Shriners, WEAVE, Wind Youth Services, Children's Receiving Home of Sacramento, the Governor's Mansion, and packages for the troops.

Jaime-Lynn Hazzard started the group a little over two years ago. "There were a lot of alternative groups of women involved in modeling and social clubs, and a lot of charity organizations. But, there's not a lot of overlap between them. I wanted to bring something to younger people; a way for them to get involved in charity. I'm also pro-girl power and pro-woman, so I wanted a woman's group with no cat-tiness or drama. We've done really well. We all get along. Everyone is there for everyone all of the time."

"All of our girls have their own sense of style," adds Jackie Scott, "which is important to us. We want to be able to present a good public image."

Their first event was a pie drive for Loaves and Fishes' Thanksgiving luncheon, which they will repeat for the third time this year.

They support other charitable events as well. "We're at the point now where we're turning down a lot because we're spread too thin," says Hazzard. "We'd love to help everybody, but we really can't. No one gets paid for doing this. Everything we take in goes straight to the organizations. So, we can't commit to more than a couple of events a week. It's exciting to see how it's grown, though. We're working on putting together a Bay Area group."

Modeling, signing autographs, bake sales, event coordination, promotions and decorating are a few ways members contribute to the organization. Fun event activities have included Jell-O mold contests, classic car shows, photo shoots and live music. In fact, they strongly support local musicians.

If you are interested in joining The Atomic Angels, know that it is definitely all about girl power. There is not a men's section, nor an affiliated male group. Members must also be at least 21 years of age, as alcohol is sometimes served at events.

"Come out to an event and, say 'hi,'" says Hazzard. "We usually won't invite someone to join after meeting them just one time, but if someone is coming out to our events, we get to know them and see that they really have a passion for

It Takes Working Sunrise to Sunset

By Susie Aronson

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - A new restaurant "Sunrise 2 Sunset Grill", recently opened on Folsom Blvd. (between Bradshaw and Mather Field Roads). It is the second restaurant in the area for Mang Thao who also owns "Karen's Little Cafe" in Lincoln. "Sunrise" has a bright and cheerful yellow and orange exterior, with a warmly decorated interior providing a cozy, tidy atmosphere.

The restaurant serves breakfast, lunch, and dinner, seven days a week, with an all American menu emphasizing "freshness" in quality of ingredients. All desserts are home baked daily, as are most menu items.

Barbeque baby back ribs and tri tip are served up as a weekend specialty item. Beer and wine are available for purchase.

And for those who want privacy, need a meeting place, or may be looking for a party venue, a VIP conference room is available

For game fans in the area, a wide screen TV will provide football viewing with a special menu for the fans.

age forty one, one would think he hasn't a worry in the world. He is positive, friendly, welcoming, and magnetic, and clearly enjoys the restaurant business. However, Mang wants to keep fresh in his memory where he started, the challenges he has had, and how he got here today. The restaurant name is more than a catchy phrase. It reflects the story of Mang.

The story of Mang. He was born in 1972 in a little hilltop village in Laos. His father was Zongleng Thao, and his mother, Zhou Xiong. (as the family grew, he became the middle child of eight).

As soon as he could hold a farm tool he joined his father, mother, and all of his siblings old enough to work, from "sunrise to sunset" seven days a week, as they labored in the rice fields. There was no school, no television, and no electricity. At night the family took rest in their simple two bedroom structure. The oldest son had a room of his own, while the rest of the family shared the other small room.

When Mang was eight years old, he clearly remembers his village being overrun by Communists who took some residents captive, and shot and killed others. Mang says: "The communists eventually left. But when they returned, they continued the killings." Says Mang: "My uncle, his wife, and their one month old baby were all murdered in the second invasion."

As leader of the village, Mang's father quickly gathered the dozen or so remaining families, and together they escaped into the jungles, leaving behind forever the only familiar place most of them had known since birth. Any semblance of security had been torn away from them.

The group spent every night traveling by foot, shielded by darkness, but not protected from torrential rains which frequently made it difficult to continue.

helping others. Occasionally, we get girls who want to come in because they see we get press. This is not to promote a modeling career."

The Atomic Angels' retro fun includes venues. Potential locations in discussion include Reiff's Antique Gas Station in Woodland, the Auto Museum in Old Sacramento, and the Aerospace Museum.

"I feel so blessed," says Hazzard. "Every time I turn around, I'm meeting someone amazing. I've made lifelong friends just through our events; people I would have never met otherwise."

Like their Facebook page (<http://tinyurl.com/k75qgyd>) or email theatomicangels@gmail.com if you would like to receive notifications of upcoming events, join the organization or request assistance for an upcoming event.

A Few Things to Talk About legality/illegality/etc.: according to the latest news, there are over 200 cities in California who have banned the selling of marijuana in their cities. I still haven't seen any news that says that the federal government has removed or even changed the law that makes marijuana legal. It is still listed as an illegal drug, but the federal government has decided not to enforce the law. Whenever any government entity decides not to obey the law or enforce the law, I am troubled. If the government decides to remove the law which states that marijuana is an illegal substance or changes what the federal law says, we would have to look back at our City Codes. But until that happens (if it happens), we are not going to change our City Codes regarding the sale or distribution of marijuana in Rancho Cordova.

At this week's City Council meeting, we discussed the City's sidewalk ordinance and who is responsible for sidewalk maintenance. It is a very important subject and has been a topic of discussions earlier this year. We asked staff to gather information regarding this matter and to bring it for discussion at a City Council meeting.

There are different options and I know there are some citizens who are concerned about the possible cost that they may have to take on, but I believe the information will be helpful in many ways and will help answer some of those questions. The main option we will be exploring, but not the only one, will be implementing the California Streets and Highways Code, Section 5610 and 5611. Many cities already have ordinances similar to the State Code, including Sacramento, West Sacramento, Roseville, Lodi, and Elk Grove. The City of Stockton has made its citizens install some of its sidewalks.

Water south, marijuana and sidewalks are all current matters that we find on the front page of the paper, see on TV, or find on the internet. I am still waiting for any of the three members of the news media (ABC, CBS, NBC) to put on their "front pages" the good things that members of our military do every day. That will indeed be "breaking news"!

From Councilman Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time.

At one point they had to walk through shallow waters of a river the entire night. They sought shelter and safety during the day, among high foliage, or behind huge boulders. Their food was whatever looked edible. Very young children and fragile elderly were not protected from the harsh journey they were forced to make. It was survival at the worst.

A month later, exhausted, weak, and hungry the village families reached the border of Thailand. But it was not without tremendous loss. According to Mang: "Half of our group did not finish the journey, as they died from starvation and disease along the way, including my grandmother, an aunt, and several cousins."

After being detained at the border for a month, the group was escorted into a Thai immigration camp, where they received food and finally received lodging for the first time in two months. Mang's father applied for group entry to the United States and they were given the go ahead nine months later. A church group in northeastern Oregon agreed to sponsor them so they could gain entrance into the United States.

The family arrived in Oregon, and immediately started working the wheat fields, owned by the church that sponsored them. They were beginning to breathe a sigh of relief, now in a new world, with a sense of freedom never before experienced. But their relief was short lived when Mang's father suddenly passed, within six months of arriving. Among the Hmongs, (which include Mang and his family), his father's death is known as the "silent death," and it takes the lives of many Hmongs. His father went to sleep and never woke up.

Mang's mother was suddenly left a widow, and found herself alone to raise her children, (now ages one month to sixteen years). She packed up her family and they moved to Lodi, California, to be closer to a cousin. Mang was soon a teenager, and found himself in a challenging situation. He now had to make hard choices about survival of another kind.

Many of the youth his age, also in poverty, had joined rough groups to experience the feeling of peer acceptance. Many were headed for trouble.

Mang chose to follow another path. He studied hard, and was the first member of the family to ever graduate from high school, with honors. He was one of the top ten in his graduating class at Tokay High School in Lodi.

Accepted at Sonoma State as a full time student, Mang paid his way while working four part-time jobs: in the photographers dark room at college; as a gas station attendant; as an assistant in the print department of a newspaper; and as a house painter.

He was the first member of his family to ever graduate from college. In five years (even with the four jobs taking up almost all his free time) he was able to graduate with a Bachelor of Science degree in Microbiology. And even with full time college, and full time work, Mang found time to marry his sweetheart Tzong, and to quickly complete his family with three little ones.

Following graduation, Mang was hired at a Pharmaceutical Company in Petaluma, where he made a good living for seven years, but he was not fulfilled.

One night his father came to him in a dream, and told him to go to Healdsburg.

The next morning he headed for Healdsburg and while driving through the town, stopped at "The Flaky Cream Donut Shop." He bought a cup of coffee and a donut, and sat and talked with the owner and workers, all of whom were over seventy.

He then looked around the town, and decided to return to the shop, but it was now closed, as it was only a breakfast and lunch house. He stood at the window, and saw the owner counting his money. The owner soon opened the door and motioned him in. They visited for several hours.

The next day Mang quit his job, as he was now the new owner of a donut shop. His father had led him to a new life.

For six years Mang went to work at midnight to ensure early bird customers had fresh hot donuts. But after seven years, even the success of the shop could not dissuade Mang and his wife from searching for a more balanced schedule for their lives with their children. They sold the shop in 2012, and moved to the Sacramento area.

Son Brandon age twenty, is a business major in college, and daughter Lexis, seventeen, is a high school student with aspirations of being a writer.

In February of this year, the couple opened "Karen's Little Café" in Lincoln, to give daughter Karen, now nineteen, a chance to go into business. She runs the restaurant with her mom, as she is not interested in attending college. The Café serves breakfast and lunch, and specializes in a variety of gourmet coffees. It was recently voted by People's Choice as the "2013 Best of The Best New Restaurants in Lincoln".

On Memorial Day of this year Mang opened "Sunrise to Sunset Grill."

He spends most of the day working as the host, and visiting the customers who frequent the grill.

According to Judy and Gary, a retired couple who has eaten there thirty five times since he opened, and plan to return again and again: "We love the food, but we love Mang more".

His philosophy for his business can be seen by all, as it is written on a wall in his establishment.

"You enter a stranger, you leave a friend."

Relay for Life

By Julie Parker

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) – Cancer isn't particular. It greedily attacks any organ in bodies of all ages. While medical science has made progress in its fight against this evil marauder, strides still remain to be achieved.

Dr. Gordy Klatt, a colorectal surgeon in Tacoma, Washington, ran a successful fundraising marathon in 1985 for his local American Cancer Society branch. Twenty-eight years later, his resulting vision of 24-hour relay teams has extended around the globe, raising nearly $5 billion to fight cancer.

As in any good-versus-evil story, the villainous disease has targeted Dr. Klatt, who was diagnosed with stomach cancer last year. But, the doctor hasn't given up.

You would be hard pressed to find anyone who has not been affected by cancer – family, friend or yourself.

Rancho Cordova is holding its 24-Hour Relay for Life at the Mills Middle School track at 10439 Coloma Road on the weekend of September 21-22, 2013. It will begin Saturday morning at 9 a.m.

with a Survivor's Lap, and conclude Sunday with a Celebratory Lap.

If you are interested in participating as a runner, volunteer or donator, visit relayforlife.org/ranchocordovaca or contact Denise Reese, event chair, at 730-7251.

Learn Maps and Compass Skills Along the River

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Ready for fall hikes? Learn or practice your map and compass skills at an Orienteering meet along the beautiful American River Parkway on Sunday, Sept. 15.

The Orienteering meet, sponsored by Gold Country Orienteers (GCO), takes place at Sacramento Bar in Fair Oaks.

Orienteering is a fun and challenging sport for individuals and families. Using a detailed map, compass and a set of clues, you navigate from point to point to find a series of designated checkpoints.

The sport can be done as a competitive race or a leisurely hike and is great for youth groups, hikers and other outdoors enthusiasts, adventure racers and anyone seeking a physical and a mental challenge.

Beginning, intermediate and advanced courses will be offered. Beginning instruction will be offered.

Registration will be from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The courses can be started between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. The cost is $5 for GCO members and $7 for nonmembers for individuals, plus $2 for each additional member in a group.

To get there, take Highway 50 east from Sacramento to Sunrise Boulevard. Go north over the river to Fair Oaks Boulevard and turn left. Take the first left on Pennsylvania and follow it into the park. From the north, take Sunrise to Fair Oaks, turn right and then left at Pennsylvania. The park fee is $5. Look for orange-and-white orienteering signs.

For more information, visit www.goldcountryorienteers.org or contact Mats at (916) 220-0224 or mats.r.jansson@gmail.com.

Win a $500 Green Acres Gift Card

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The new River-Friendly Landscape Calculator is for homeowners, landscapers, developers, and anyone else who wants to see how much water, time and money that can be saved by creating and maintaining a river-friendly yard.

The Calculator has simple steps to define the characteristics of your landscape and your maintenance practices. At the end, the calculator estimates the amount of water your landscape needs, as well as green waste and greenhouse gas emissions it produces, and the cost and labor required to maintain it, as compared to both a river-friendly landscape and a conventional one.

If you would like to participate in the Aspire to be River-Friendly contest, go to www.RiverFriendly.com before September 30, to register, and complete a survey to calculate your YARD'S GREEN INSPIRATION Level. Qualifying Yards can submit photos/story and enter to win a $500 Green Acres gift card and be recognized as Sacramento's "Green YARD Ambassador" with a featured photo in Sacramento Magazine!

Denied for Life

Dear Dave,
 My husband was recently denied term life insurance because he has a criminal record from a long time ago. The good news is that, in a year, he'll be far enough removed from the incident that he'll be eligible for a policy. He has a whole life policy for $75,000 from before, which he doesn't plan to cancel. We have two small children, so is there another kind of policy he could get in the interim?
 - Dana

Dear Dana,
 If you can't get term life insurance, you can't get whole life. It's the same underwriting process. I only recommend term policies, but under these circumstances I'd keep the whole life in place because he's basically uninsurable.

There are a couple of things you can do in this kind of situation. One thing is to get a mortgage life insurance policy. These are usually available without any kind of major inspection, and they pay off your mortgage, in full, in the event of death. It's about 10 times more expensive than regular term insurance, but at least it will pay off the house. Another thing to look into is an automatic issue-type policy. Lots of banks offer these when you open an account. Usually, they'll send you an offer for a $10,000 life insurance policy. But if you pick up four or five of these, then he's got another $50,000 on top of the $75,000 already in place. It's still not enough, but it's better than nothing. But I wouldn't spend a lot when he's only got a year left until he can get some good, proper coverage. I recommend people have eight to 10 times their annual income in life insurance coverage. So, if he makes $50,000 a year, he needs to have $400,000 to $500,000 in a good, level term policy. That's what you guys need to shoot for a year from now!

 - Dave

Finding Good Tenants

Dear Dave,
 I have a townhouse I'm preparing to rent. Do you have any advice for evaluating potential tenants?
 - Chris

Dear Chris,
 The first thing I'd do is pull a credit bureau report. I'm not really worried about their credit score; I just want to see if they have a history of late or missed payments. Talk to some local property management firms and see who they use to pull these reports. I'd also recommend doing a background check on the potential renters. Talk to the owner of the last place they rented as well as the one before. I advise this because there are some dishonest landlords out there who will tell you that a bad tenant is wonderful just to get them out of their property. A lot of things, though, are simply common sense measures. Have them fill out an application, which includes their income and a list of their debts. If they make $2,000 a month and have $2,500 a month in debt payments, you don't want them as tenants. In this scenario, a smile and "I promise I can pay it" won't work.

Spend some time just talking with them too. Really listen to what they say and how they say it. Get a feel for what kind of people they are, and, if they have children, pay special attention to the kids. Are they well behaved, or do they run around and act like a bunch of wild animals? If it's the latter, then they're going to tear up your house. And guess what? If the parents can't discipline their kids, there's a good chance they can't discipline themselves either. You don't want to get mixed up with that. People who let kids run the household don't make good tenants.

Finally, remember to trust your gut instincts. If you get a weird vibe from someone, or if things just feel strange, don't rent to them. Chances are, there's a reason you have those feelings.

Suspicious Grass Fire Completely Destroys Structure

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) – September 1st, 2013: At roughly 12:30pm, Metro Fire units were dispatched to Folsom Blvd. and Rod Beaudry for a report of a grass fire. While responding to the fire, crews noticed a large black column of smoke and immediately requested additional resources. Crews arriving to the 2500 block of East Tiffany Lane found a vegetation fire, as well a structure with significant fire in the attic.

Making access to the vegetation fire was limited. Adding to the difficulty, the detached garage was large enough to hold dozens of cars, with a full paint booth and separate rooms inside. Utilizing a dozer, helicopter, seven engines, two trucks, one water tender, one medic, three battalion chiefs and a deputy chief, crews were able to hold the fire to the detached garage, without any damage to the primary residence, while stopping the grass fire.

The home saved is estimated at $1.5 million. The detached garage was a complete loss, with vehicles parked outside sustaining heat damage as well. No firefighters, civilians, or animals were injured while fighting these fires. The fire is considered suspicious in nature and is still under investigation.

Metro Fire crews train regularly for both structure and wildland fires, allowing them to shift seamlessly from one to the other. Different techniques, apparatus, and equipment are used, depending on the fire. This cross-training gives crews the ability to quickly determine how to best mitigate an incident and to adapt as the situation changes. In a fire as complex as today's, that adaptability is exactly what is needed to save a family their home.

In addition, the show features the electrifying high-wire acrobats, daredevil stunts on The Steel Vortex, the youngest female Human Cannonball, remarkable hand-balancing duos, the always hilarious Clown Alley...and of course no Ringling Bros. circus experience would be complete without its four-legged star performers including the majestic

Golfers and sponsors are needed to help support a program proven to reduce youth violence

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Every year in Sacramento County hundreds of students are expelled from school because of involvement in on-campus violence. Project SAVE (Safe Alternatives and Violence Education) is one such program.

The mission of Project SAVE, operated by the Sacramento County Office of Education (SCOE), is to reduce youth violence and weapons possession through strong partnerships with local agencies. The mission emphasizes that weapons possession and violent behavior are unacceptable, especially on school grounds. Since 1998, Project SAVE has served more than 2,500 young people in Sacramento County. Nine out of ten participants remain violence-free after participating in the program.

The 11th Annual Project SAVE Golf Tournament is scheduled for Monday, September 23, 2013 at the Valley Hi Country Club, in Elk Grove. Check-in will begin at 8:00 a.m. and the "shotgun" start will begin at 9:00 a.m. This annual fundraiser is the main source of funding for this model community project that has been proven to prevent and reduce youth violence and bullying behaviors.

Entry fees for the September 23, 2013 golf tournament are $150 per person or $600 for a foursome. Tournament host, contest sponsor and individual hole sponsor opportunities are also available. Project SAVE is also seeking door prize donations to benefit the program. A short luncheon will be provided at the conclusion of the tournament.

For more information about the Project SAVE golf tournament, or to find out about sponsorship and volunteer opportunities, contact Cheryl Raney at (916) 228-2201 or craney@scoe.net.

Honoring Heald College

By Julie Parker

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) – In 1893, Edward Payson Heald opened the first Heald College in San Francisco - the first business college to open in the western United States. Today, its business courses include technology, healthcare and legal degrees. Honoring Heald College's 150th anniversary, the Rancho Cordova City Council presented a proclamation at its August 20th meeting to Ada Gerard, M.S., President of Heald Rancho Cordova (established in 1986). Since Gerard's arrival at Heald Rancho Cordova in 2007, its level of accreditation has risen to WASC Senior College and University Commission and student enrollment has grown from 435 students to over 1,100. Medical insurance billing and coding have become increasingly popular as strong career prospects at the Rancho Cordova campus.

The Orienteering meet, sponsored by Gold Country Orienteers (GCO), takes place at Sacramento Bar in Fair Oaks.

Orienteering is a fun and challenging sport for individuals and families. Using a detailed map, compass and a set of clues, you navigate from point to point to find a series of designated checkpoints. The sport can be done as a competitive race or a leisurely hike and is great for youth groups, hikers and other outdoors enthusiasts, adventure racers and anyone seeking a physical and a mental challenge.

Beginning, intermediate and advanced courses will be offered. Beginning instruction will be offered.

Registration will be from 9 a.m. to 12 noon. The courses can be started between 10 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. The cost is $5 for GCO members and $7 for nonmembers for individuals, plus $2 for each additional member in a group.

To get there, take Highway 50 east from Sacramento to Sunrise Boulevard. Go north over the river to Fair Oaks Boulevard and turn left. Take the first left on Pennsylvania and follow it into the park. From the north, take Sunrise to Fair Oaks, turn right and then left at Pennsylvania. The park fee is $5. Look for orange-and-white orienteering signs.
