Happy Birthday, Steve!

Students and staff support Beloved school community member diagnosed with cancer.

BY CHLOE ZHANG

Steve Bassignani is an adored member of the community and school of Hopedale.

Bass is a loved member of the community, but he is also a gifted self-taught photographer who spends his free time photographing high school sports.

After Bass's retirement in 2015, he devoted his time to his passion for photography. Steve believes that if you do something you enjoy, you never work a day in your life.

This summer Bass was unfortunately diagnosed with pancreatic cancer. Bass started going through chemo shortly after and is still fighting the cancer. Due to his chemo,

Hopedale hosts BVT summit

Member towns discuss concerns related to mandatory contributions, admissions, charter relevance

BY THERESA KNAPP

On Oct. 26, the Hopedale Select Board hosted representatives from the 13 towns that make up the Blackstone Valley Regional Vocational Technical High School district.

Member towns include Bellingham, Blackstone, Douglas, Grafton, Hopedale, Mendon, Milford, Millbury, Millville, Northbridge, Sutton, Upton, and Uxbridge.

In the invitation to the member towns, Town Administrator Mitch Ruscitti said, "The intent of this summit is to engage in a district-wide conversation about our individual and collective community needs, the role that the vocational school plays in meeting those needs, and the overall impact of bonded capital investments on our other public-school districts/systems. More succinctly put, there have been concerns expressed by constituents, boards, and committees across town boundaries regarding tough decisions about the use of funding sources."

The 1.5-hour meeting was held at the Hopedale Community House.

As she welcomed the group, Hopedale Select Board Chairwoman Glenda Hazard said, "Over the years I've heard it said that the 13 towns in the BVT district don't really care how the rest of the towns in the district feel, and I called this meeting because I don't really believe that's true. There've been many times I've wondered how you all respond to financial constraints the majority of us are facing, and if there are other related concerns that we all share. To that end, I'm hoping that this is the beginning of a meaningful collaboration between all of us."

"Tonight's summit is a result of us having heard from many surrounding communities with a desire

Bass has not been able to come to sports games or the school. However, even though he has been away, he continues to impact the students of Hopedale Jr. Sr. High School.

The students of Hopedale continue to miss Steve, here are what some of the students have to say about Steve:

“Steve made and continues to make an indescribable impact on our community. His love and care for the students is incredible and he leaves a mark on every student in this school. His funny personality and contagious smile brighten every student’s school day and he is truly missed.” -Maida H.

“Steve has always been everyone’s number one fan! He always tries to make students feel included and welcomed. I am forever grateful for all the memories he has given me.” - Maddie D.

“Steve is such a big inspiration to me as a photographer because he’s always taking photos and spreading joy” - Luke W.

“Steve always brings a light to every room he walks into. He is such a positive and uplifting person and never failed to put a smile on my face. I miss seeing in the hallway, at games or at town events. I am forever grateful for his role in this school.” - Mia C.

Since he was unable to see the students at school around his birthday, the staff and students of Hopedale came together to celebrate Bass. On Oct. 4, all students and staff wore shirts in support of Bass in unity, generously donated by an unknown community member. It is clear that Bass has left a great impact on the people of Hopedale and is greatly missed around the school by everyone. We all hope for him to continue fighting and recover quickly.

Average residential tax bill increase of $807 is lower an anticipated

Tax rate set at $16.60 for residential, $2904 for commercial, industrial, and personal property

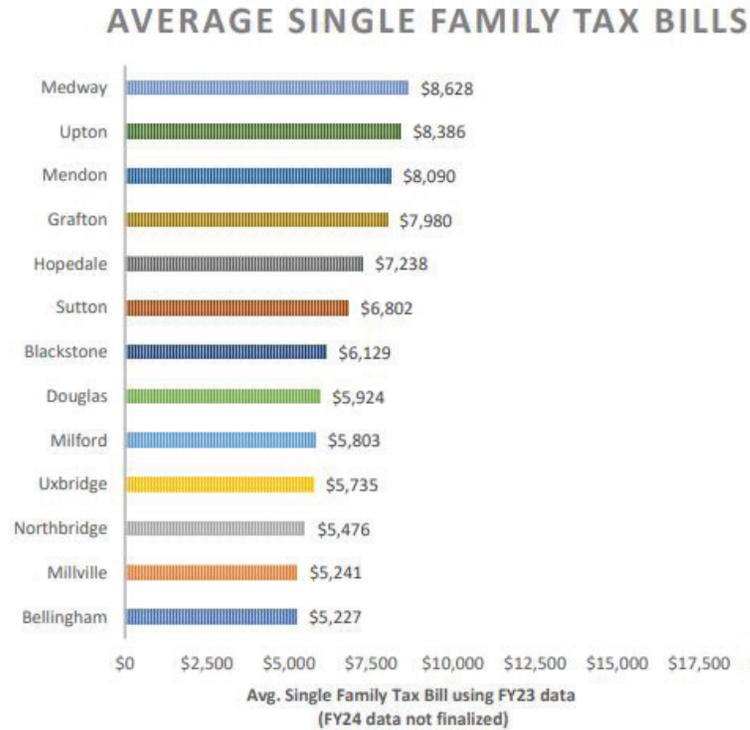

By THERESA KNAPP

As part of the Select Board meeting on Nov. 13, a tax classification hearing was held and the board agreed with the Board of Assessors’ recommendations to adopt a tax rate of $16.60 for residential properties, and $29.04 for commercial, industrial, and personal property (CIP).

The board also voted not to adopt a residential exemption or a small commercial exemption.

In a detailed presentation, Hopedale Principal Assessor Cheryl Hanly explained that the classification hearing “does not determine how much money can be raised nor does it decide the town’s budget. It only determines the distribution of the tax levy among the property class types.”

Hanly said the average value of a single-family home in Hopedale (based on values as of Jan. 1, 2023) is currently $484,628, which she says is an increase of $36,459 over the prior year. She also noted the changes in specific property class values: residential/single family (8.1% increase), residential/condominium (9.7% increase), and commercial (2.3% increase).

The Board of Assessors recommended a shift in the tax rate of 1.60. Hanly said that shift “offers the most fair and equitable distribution of the tax levy for all taxpayers” and translates to a residential tax rate of $16.60 and a CIP tax rate of $29.04. This will result in an average tax bill of $8,044.82 for Hopedale residents.

How it’s calculated

Hanly provided a breakdown of the average single family tax bill increase of $806.88, which is lower than town officials had predicted earlier this year in discussions related to the $1.35 million override that ultimately passed in June. At that time, it was anticipated the override would add $562 to the average tax bill for the override alone, plus an estimated $268 year-to-year incremental increase.

“So we forecasted a total impact of $830 for that combined increase for the single family tax bill. The recommended 1.6 shift brings us in line with those projections, a little under actually, you can see it’s $807 and results in an average single family tax bill of about $8,045 for fiscal 2024,” said Hanly.

to discuss budgetary issues related to our vocational school. We feel this is absolutely in the spirit of the [BVT] charter.”

Hazard said that “BVT is a tremendous institution and one of best technical schools in the Commonwealth,” but noted that, like many other member towns, Hopedale “operates under a tight budget” and “must be responsible for every dollar we spend.” She said that, because of the nature of the state assessment process and the town’s resulting mandatory contribution, “we find ourselves forced to cut local programs and services in response to costs such as those related to BVT that we can’t control. This scenario makes it difficult, if not impossible, to invest in our own public school students, facilities, and operating and capital improvements without asking for additional revenues from taxpayers in the form of overrides.”

She said that, because of the timing of BVT’s budget-setting timeline and Hopedale’s fiscal process, “Historically, by the time our annual town meeting comes around, we’re told that BVT already has enough votes in the other communities to pass [its budget], effectively negating our vote. Generally, we are presented with a figure that would be Hoped-ale’s share without input from [the] local finance committee or Select Board and whether or not we feel we can afford it. This has been deeply concerning for both our local boards and our residents who tell us that they feel they are cut out of the process. We’ve heard that several of your towns feel the same way.”

Hazard said, “In Hopedale, we think that as towns included in the charter, we should all be able to determine what costs we can afford so that all students that reside in our towns are equitably supported. We often feel that Hopedale Public Schools are forced to cut, yet BVT hasn’t had to make the same kinds of sacrifices,” adding that Hoped-ale had to ask residents for an override for FY24 but still had to make cuts to the school budget while BVT’s budget increased.

“As an institution, we [Hopedale] believe that BVT should have to operate within the same financial constraints that each municipal budget does...We think it should be clear that the goal is to provide a great education for all students in our communities, whether they go to BVT or stay in our local schools. We want to be able to invest in programs and facilities locally at the same level that we invest at BVT.”

Hopedale Town Moderator Mitch Ruscitti moderated the conversation.

Bellingham Selectboard Chairman Michael Connor thanked Hopedale for calling the summit. “I think it’s an exceptional opportunity...This is one of the best ideas that’s come along.”

Connor said their per student costs for BVT students “are dramatically higher” than they are within the Bellingham Public Schools. He, in addition to other attendees, expressed frustration that local town budgets go through detailed scrutiny from town boards and taxpayers, yet the BVT budget does not.

“The budget process is what has really skewed me the most over the

this year, a residential exemption, which shifts the tax burden within the residential class from owners of moderately valued residential properties to the owners of vacation homes, higher valued homes and residential properties not occupied by the owner, including apartments,” according to Hanly’s presentation. The Board of Assessors did not recommend adopting this exemption which applies mostly to resort towns (Nantucket, Provincetown, Wellfleet) and larger municipalities with numerous apartments (Boston, Brookline, Cambridge).

In addition, Hopedale does not have, nor did it vote to adopt this year, a small commercial exemption which would apply to businesses of no more than 10 employees and the exception would go to the building owner, not the small business itself. The Board of Assessors did not recommend this exemption because “too few businesses are eligible for this exemption as per the Department of Unemployment Assistance.”

HJSHS Students Making a Difference in Career & Financial Literacy Education

By TALITHA OLIVERI

What is STREAM and what does that look like for a future career? Who should students speak ..with to gain insight into career paths? How does a young adult pay for monthly expenses, contribute money to a 401k and emergency savings fund, and maintain a good quality of life?

These are questions Hopedale Junior Senior High School Business Capstone and Project Management students have been working hard to answer. Over the past months, three student teams have been hard at work coordinating educational fairs and activities for students in grades 1-12. The Growing Minds

Fair, Career Fair, and FinFit Fair individually reach different age groups, but the overarching goal may go into after high school.

Students in 9th and 10th grade will have the opportunity to speak to career professionals one-on-one in the cafeteria at booths, engage children in grades 1-5 in fun STREAM-based activities. The Growing Minds Fair not only teaches these young students about STREAM but introduces it to them at a young age to spark interest in their future. This fair teaches these young inis the same - to prepare and educate students on careers and how those choices impact their future financial well-being.

Below are the dates and brief descriptions of each event.

FinFit Fair: 12/8/23 from 8am-12pm at the Draper Gymnasium

The FinFit Fair is an interactive simulation of students' lives at 25 years old that exposes them to the types of monetary decisions they will make as young adults. The goal of the fair is to introduce students to smart spending decisions and to educate them on basic financial literacy skills they will need as soon-to-be-graduates. - Fair Coordinators: Will Adamski, Matt Carroll, and Kyle Maloney

Career Fair: 12/15/23 from 7:45 am-11:00 am in the High School Cafeteria

The Career Fair is an introduction to career fields students participate in mock interviews, and have an in-depth presentation from a speaker panel of other professionals. Additionally, students in the 7th and 8th grades will participate in a career talk with professionals to educate them on future career opportunities. Fair Coordinators: Alexandra Goode, Emma Gosselin, and Antonia Rolo

Growing Minds: 12/20/23 from 3pm-5pm at the Memorial Elementary School

The Growing Minds Fair has partnered with non-profit organizations Children Across America and DCU For Kids to dividuals about science, technology, research, engineering, art, and math. Fair Coordinators: Jonathan Araujo, Daniel Carroll and Brayden Lewis Community members are invited to attend each of these events to see our students as they practice financial literacy skills, learn more about their future career opportunities, and participate in STREAM activities. last 15 years. When the Superintendent of BVT comes into our town meeting, the votes are ‘locked up’ - the process to speak up has long passed...[and] it’s simply ‘pay up’ and I think we, as the communities of BVT, need to vet that process.”

As a possible solution for future consideration, Connor suggested each member town would calculate its own public school budget increase from one year to the next, and the average budget increase among the 13 member towns would be the increase BVT would also receive.

Connor said, “We’ve never had a choice as to what the BVT budget would be” and said Bellingham has some ideas for future forum topics.

Millbury Select Board Chairman Chris Naff told the story of a Millbury student who was interested in attending BVT and would have been well-served there but their academic record was not strong enough to be admitted into BVT.

“That story can be told again and again. And I think the problem we all face today is the very students that BVT was founded for no longer have the opportunity to go. That, to me, is a very big problem.”

“Our gracious host [Hazard] asked us not to disparage anyone tonight, but it’s a matter of fact that one administrator told the Town of Millbury to no longer send its ‘riff raff,’” said Naff, adding “That ‘riff raff’ are the very students BVT was founded for, and those students are being denied the opportunity they should have today.”

“Until some reform is done, which I believe has to take place at the state level, and that reform is much needed and would be heavy-handed, until that is done, the conversation at the municipal level is only going to become more and more difficult each year because I know as a fact that Millbury, and I think a lot of the communities like us, are becoming more and more tired of providing significant funding for what we believe to be a very significantly flawed system.”

Millville Board of Selectmen Chair Jennifer Gill said her town was there to listen to area concerns, noting their BVT enrollment to date has been low and financially manageable but is growing.

BVT Superintendent-Director Dr. Michael Fitzpatrick was invited to respond, and started his remarks by saying he recognized several of the audience members “because I do make appearances at the finance committees, the public hearings, and the town meetings.”

Fitzpatrick, who has been BVT’s superintendent for 31 years, started his response by focusing on member towns of a different school system, Tri-County Regional Vocational Technical High School District, for supporting its recent district-wide request for a new school building expected to cost $286 million.

“I guess it’s appropriate, with the Tri-County voter approval this week of a $300 million expansion, to congratulate the Tri-County district for supporting and recognizing quality vocational technical education. What’s also interesting is if you look across the Commonwealth, Tri-County Regional Voc Tech was the fifth vocational school - Northeast Metropolitan, Minuteman Regional Voc Tech, Bristol-Plymouth, and Cape Cod Tech - all also approved $300 million expansions [for] brand new facilities for their vocational technical schools. We have not requested that.”

Fitzpatrick said that each year, BVT makes “a modest budgetary request which is inclusive of all expenses.” He detailed the items that go into the BVT school budget, reiterated his frequent offers for town officials to visit the school, and said the BVT building is a model that other vocational technical schools hope to replicate.

Fitzpatrick said, “The state doesn’t allow us to ask for equalized costs or assessments in order to comply with the 1993 Ed Reform Bill;” acknowledged that Hopedale and Bellingham have been at the latter part of the budgetary process; and said that, if two-thirds of the towns vote to support then all towns are directed to honor the budget.

He said the BVT process is “very transparent;” the district is committed to collaborating with member towns; and said “it’s embarrassing to think” any of their students are considered “riff raff.”

Among the issues raised during the public comment segment were: revisiting the BVT charter which has not been reviewed since it was created in 1962; possible implementation of an admissions lottery; review of administrator and superintendent staffing levels, compensations, and benefits plans for BVT and the feeder districts; review of expenses related to extracurricular activities, campus amenities and student services for each district of BVT; review of admissions process; review of proposed capital projects; and agreement to a joint finance committee each year at which BVT makes one presentation to all member towns at one time.

Scott Savage of Hopedale, speaking as a resident and not a selectman, said, “It is my hope that the towns will reject the majority of the capital requests that BVT has put forward for next fiscal year. The town needs more time to review the need of these improvements and weigh the financial burden it will place on our own schools and town services.”

Neal Sherman, a public school teacher in Milford, said, “I am concerned that [BVT] is not serving the needs of the sending towns. I see students in the hallways every day who would be well-served by access to a technical education but right now 75% of the graduates from BVT are college-bound...I think that it should be revisited to consider whether or not the school is serving its mission and allowing access to a high-quality education to all students from its sending towns.”

Chris Naff of Millbury asked Supt. Fitzpatrick if BVT uses a blind-lottery admission system. Fitzpatrick said they do not. “We’ve examined the merits of that along with colleagues throughout the Commonwealth and did not feel it represented the best way to recruit.”

Naff noted that Assabet Valley Regional Technical High School uses a lottery. Fitzpatrick said Assabet is the only district in the state that uses a lottery, and “We’ve seen no results. We’ve seen nothing but turmoil. You’re not speaking to the staff of the system,” he said with a chuckle. “I don’t want to bad-mouth any other system, but we would hardly follow the example that we’ve seen there.”

Tony Fathom of Hopedale spoke as a parent who had three students attend BVT, and detailed their success stories.

Matt Wojcik, Town Administrator in Douglas, said he was reluctant to make a comment earlier in the evening because “our frustration level with BVT in the past has been very, very high and it has not necessarily simmered down completely as we sit here,” but did note the agreement dates back to 1962 and can only be amended by unanimous vote of the member communities.

“If there’s anything we need to reopen in this governance agreement, it is that each individual town needs to have its own voice, elected by its own people. We live in America, we have a representative democracy, and it is only fair that it be done that way. This governance model has outlived its useful life. Period. It can’t continue like this.”

Select Board increases annual licensing fees for first time since 2014

Increases bring Hopedale fees closer to those charged in surrounding towns

By THERESA KNAPP

The Town of Hopedale has increased its annual licensing fees for the first time since 2014.

Town Administrator Mitch Ruscitti told the Select Board at its Nov. 13 meeting, "Given the revenue situation we have in the community, and what the comps are for the surrounding communities, it does make sense to bump some of these a little bit and work towards putting them in line with some of the surrounding communities."

He described the increases as "very incremental, small in nature, not projected to have adverse impact on the business community."

"They still, I will note, in many cases, particularly as it relates to the liquor licenses, are much more affordable than Franklin, Hopkinton, and Milford by a degree of about a third in the case of Hopkinton and Franklin, and $600 lower than Milford; so, we're still on the low end for our business community but it's more fair than where it was," said Ruscitti, noting this would be the first in a multi-step process to update fees.

Hopedale Fire Dept. member Alexander Cappella one of 35 firefighters to graduate from Firefighting Academy

In November, State Fire Marshal Jon M. Davine and Massachusetts Firefighting Academy Director Jeffrey P. Winn announced the graduation of 35

firefighters from the 50-day Career Recruit Firefighting Training Program.

Among the graduates was Alexander Cappella of the Hopedale

Fire Dept.

"Massachusetts firefighters are on the frontlines protecting their communities every day, and today's graduates are needed now more than ever," said State Fire Marshal Davine. "The hundreds of hours of foundational training they've received will provide them with the physical, mental, and technical skills to perform their jobs effectively and safely."

Select Board gives update on Railroad litigation

Oral arguments in state and federal cases expected in January

By THERESA KNAPP

The Town of Hopedale has several actions pending in the state and federal courts against the Grafton and Upton Railroad Co., Inc., regarding the land located at 364 West Street. The town is seeking to restore its right of first refusal in the state case, and is seeking relief from a preliminary injunction in the federal case “based on the admission by the owner of GURR that the railroad’s plans for the property are not workable.”

At a meeting of the Select Board on Oct. 23, under “Select Board Information Items,” Chairperson Glenda Hazard read a statement prepared by special town council Anderson Kreiger. No discussion was held. The following is a transcript of the update as read at the meeting.

“There are currently several active disputes between the Town of Hopedale and the Grafton Upton Railroad, they fall into two categories: [1] state court litigation about the right of first refusal to buy forestland under Chapter 61, and (2) federal court litigation about eminent domain under Chapter 79.

“State court litigation and Chapter 61. Hopedale is currently litigating in the Massachusetts Land Court against the GURR. That case involves whether Hopedale has a right of first refusal to buy the property at 364 West Street and whether GURR obtained the title to the property in violation of Chapter 61. Chapter 61 is a Massachusetts state statute that allows property owners to obtain favorable tax treatment in exchange for conserving the property as forestland. [For] the granting of this favorable tax treatment, the tax receives a first right of refusal if the property owner seeks to sell the property or change its use in any way from conservation. In this case, Hopedale alleges that GURR obtained title to 364 West Street in violation of this statute, and so the town should be given the chance to buy the property at the price paid by GURR. The town initially filed a claim in Land Court alleging a violation of Chapter 61 but then settled with GURR and dismissed the case. The Hopedale/GURR settlement agreement was later deemed ineffective by a Massachusetts Superior Court judge after a lawsuit by a group of residents in Hopedale. The Superior Court’s decision was later affirmed by the Massachusetts Appeals Court. In keeping with the decision by the Superior Court and the Appeals Court, the group of residents have now intervened in the Land Court case, meaning that they are full participants in that litigation. The group of residents and the town have motions to vacate the town’s dismissal in order to restore the Chapter 61 claim. GURR will respond to these motions and the Land Court judge will hear oral arguments in January.

“Federal court litigation under Chapter 79. In parallel to the state court litigation, the town is currently litigating in federal court against the GURR. The case involves whether Hopedale can take a portion of the 364

West Street by eminent domain under Chapter 79 of the Massachusetts General Laws. GURR has argued that a railroad-related federal law prevents the town from using eminent domain. The federal Trial Court agreed with GURR at a preliminary hearing and enjoined the town from taking the property. The preliminary injunction is currently on appeal before the Federal Appellate Court with oral arguments tentatively scheduled for January. Based on the admission by the owner of GURR that the railroad’s plans for the property are not workable, the town is also seeking relief from preliminary injunction in the Trial Court. When the Trial Court enjoined Hopedale, it paused the federal case and ordered GURR to file a case before the Surface Transportation Board, a federal agency that regulates rail carriers, to get its analysis of the dispute. GURR did so in April 2023 and its petition is pending before the STB.”

The Clash Against The Magnificent Seven

Glenn Brown, CFP

Never before has the S&P 500 been this top-heavy.

The seven largest companies by market capitalization (Apple, Microsoft, Amazon, Alphabet, Nvidia, Meta, and Tesla) comprise more than 29% of the S&P 500 index. These companies dubbed the "Magnificent Seven" have performed very well in 2023.

The Only Band (of stocks) That Matters?

A November 14th Goldman Sachs report shared that the Magnificent Seven have gained 71% this year while the other 493 stocks in the S&P 500 have gained just 6%.

Given market cap distribution, which allows larger stocks to contribute more to the index's movements, the S&P 500 has gained +19% this year.

Thus, if one owns the other 493 stocks but not the Magnificent Seven, they're trailing the S&P 500 Index by ~13%.

"Di-worse-ification"?!

As for other asset classes YTD through 11/14:

+9.1% - MSCI EAFE (International) Index.

- +7.5% - Gold.
- +5.1% - Dow Jones Industrial Average (Apple, Microsoft are components).
- +5.0% - MSCI Emerging Markets Index.
- +3.4% - U.S. Small Cap (Russell 2000) Index.
- +0.4% - U.S. Aggregate Bond Index.
- 0.6% - Morningstar U.S. Real Estate Index.

What of dividend stocks? Vanguard's Dividend Appreciation +7.9% trails S&P 500 Index by ~11% even though its largest holdings Apple and Microsoft are ~9%. It can't own other Magnificent Seven stocks because they don't pay dividends (yet).

Before asking, what about NASDAQ 100's +34.6%? Understand, Magnificent Seven are 44% of that index's 100 stocks.

Death or Glory.

Yes, Magnificent Seven 2023 returns are eye-popping, but let's review 2022 then add together for net total return (not average) from 01/01/22 -11/14/23.

Apple: 2022 -26%; 2023 +45%; Net +7%

Microsoft: '22 -28%; '23 +56%; Net +12%

Amazon: '22 -50%; '23 +74%; Net -13%

Alphabet: '22 -39%; '23 +51%; Net -8%

Nvidia: '22 -51%; '23 +240%; Net +69%

Meta: '22 -64%; '23 +179%; Net 0%

Tesla: '22 -65%; '23 +93%; Net -32%

Still, since 2018 the Magnificent Seven have outpaced the S&P 500 and Nasdaq 100. Not the first time a concentrated group of tech stocks outperformed 5 years to sit near the top of S&P 500.

The Four Horsemen.

In the late 90s, Dell, Cisco Systems, Intel and Microsoft were deemed The Four Horsemen.

To end 1999, the Top 10 S&P 500 Index holdings were - Microsoft, General Electric, Cisco, ExxonMobil, Wal-Mart, Intel, Lucent, IBM, America Online and Citigroup. Notice 7 out of Top 10 were technology. Dell was #18, between Nortel Networks and MCI Worldcom.

A "What Happened To...?" article should be done, but understand from 2000-2009, aka "The Lost Decade", the S&P 500 Index lost -9%. The best performing Four Horseman, Microsoft, had a -36% decline for 2000s.

Diversification and Equal-Weight At Work.

If S&P 500 was negative for the 2000s, so was everything else. Right?

Nope.

Per indices cited previously, Gold returned +274%, U.S. REITs +162%, Emerging Markets +154%, U.S. Bonds +85%, U.S. Small Caps +44%, and International stocks was +12%.

Additionally, the Equal-Weight S&P 500 Index was +65% for the 2000s.

An equal-weight index is when all components are weighted equally. In today's terms, a Magnificent Seven stock impacts the same as Lululemon, Hubbell and Blackstone, all recently added to S&P 500 Index.

Should I Stay or Should I Go?

This isn't to say sell this or buy that, as everyone's situation is different with goals, taxes, risk tolerance and timelines. It's to help educate, understand what you own and why you own it.

You should go to your CFP for your customized recommendations.

Hopedale Author Visit

By CHLOE ZHANG

Over the summer, junior high students of Hopedale read the books of Francisco Stork for their summer reading. Stork is a fictional writer for young adults, often writing stories derived from his own experiences. The students got to read his books that touched on real-life issues, such as mental illnesses and violence. Through his writing, Stork allows young adults to have a place in which they can escape reality.

Francisco Xavier Arguelles was born in Monterey, Mexico to a single mother. It wasn't until later in his life that his name would eventually be changed into Francisco Stork from his stepdad, Charles Stork. Charles supported Stork's dream to become a writer and encouraged him by giving him a typewriter for his birthday. This typewriter would not only allow Stork to start writing, but it also helped him to break into the world of writing on his own. Eventually, when Stork turned 9, Charles wanted to bring the family to America to create a better life. his was not easy since Charles was 65 at the time.

The family lived in a series of apartments and trailer homes before being evicted. It was when Stork was thirteen, that Charles died in an automobile accident. Even through this difficult time, Stork's mom Ruth wanted to continue their life in the United States and eventually was able to obtain an apartment from a housing project in El Paso. It was around this time that Stork started to focus on his education, which would eventually lead him to receive a scholarship that allowed him to pursue school and his dream of writing. After college, Stork worked in law before publishing his first book "The Way of The Jaguar".

Stork's books speak about different aspects of mental illness, which helps him connect to his young-adult audience. He chooses to write about these things because he recognizes the stigma with mental health and wants to show teens that it's perfectly normal to.... Stork's pursuit and love for writing are clearly shown through his writing and how he describes his favorite aspects of being a writer.

"To me, there's a lot of pleasure in writing, and the writing process. I think the reason why I enjoy writing so much is because I started writing at a fairly young age. I feel like journaling when I was younger allowed me to recognize that writing is a tool, a coping mechanism, and a way for people to escape reality. I write for the reason that I enjoy but also because it makes you forget the world around you and lose track of time."

Stork also shared his process of writing, and the steps that led him to become an author for the students who want to pursue a job in the creative writing field.

"You just have to have patience, you know, a lot of kids want to start writing and want to publish a book right away, but it takes a while. You have to believe in the practice of reading and writing. I think that a lot of kids at this age also don't know what they want to do with their life. Three things to keep in mind to know what to do with your life, do something you love, do something you're good at, do something helpful to others."

On Oct. 11, the junior high students of Hopedale welcomed Stork to their school to speak with Stork and learn about his experiences. Many of the students enjoyed his writing and the different ways he incorporated mental illnesses, such as depression, throughout his story. The students enjoyed Stork's presentation and what he had to say.

"It was interesting how he can come up with all those ideas!"-Yousef A.

"The author's writing was creative, how he related it to his writing, and how his stories reflect his life" - Adaline B.

"I thought that the author was inspiring due to his connection to his stories. You can tell how interested he is in sharing his reading journey."- Maggie F.

"I really really enjoyed his visit and I thought that it was very intriguing!" - Abby K.

What is this bump on my eyelid?

Causes and treatment of chalazion

By: ROGER M. KALDAWY, M.D.
MILFORD FRANKLIN EYE CENTER

A chalazion, commonly known as a sty, is a small, painless lump that forms on the eyelid due to a blocked meibomian gland. This obstruction leads to the accumulation of oil and subsequent swelling. Although generally harmless, a chalazion can cause discomfort and aesthetic concerns. In this article, we will explore the multifaceted aspects of chalazion, including its origins, the potential role of Demodex mites, and whether a connection exists between a chalazion and domestic pets. Furthermore, we will delve into the significance of Xdemvy in the treatment of Demodex blepharitis, offering readers a thorough understanding of this very common ocular condition and its management.

Origins of Chalazion

A chalazion primarily stems from the occlusion of meibomian glands, responsible for secreting oils that lubricate the eyes. Several factors contribute to this occlusion, including:

- 1-Hypersecretion of Sebum: Excessive oil production can lead to the thickening of the sebum, hindering its proper flow from the gland.
- 2-Bacterial Infections: Infections can incite inflammation and glandular obstruction, culminating in the formation of a chalazion.
- 3-Demodex Mite Influence: Demodex mites, microscopic organisms that inhabit hair follicles, including those on the eyelids, have been suggested to play a role in chalazion development. Studies indicate that an overpopulation of these mites may contribute to meibomian gland blockage, though further research is needed to establish a conclusive link.

The Role of Demodex Mites in Chalazion Development

Demodex mites, tiny arachnids that naturally inhabit human skin and hair follicles, are commonly found in the eyelid area and in particular on the eyelashes. While their presence is considered normal in some cases, an excess of Demodex mites could potentially contribute to meibomian gland blockage, leading to the formation of a chalazion. Demodex mites infestation has been found in 50% of children with chalazion compared to no mites in healthy controls. This mite was also associated with recurrent and multiple chalazion. Ongoing research aims to elucidate the precise relationship between Demodex mites and chalazion, seeking to determine their significance as a contributing factor to the condition.

Blepharitis Treatment

Xdemvy, a topical medication, plays a pivotal role in the treatment of Demodex blepharitis, a condition characterized by an overpopulation of Demodex mites on the eyelids. This innovative formulation contains targeted ingredients designed to effectively combat Demodex mites, alleviating symptoms and facilitating recovery. Xdemvy has demonstrated remarkable efficacy in clinical trials, making it a valuable addition to the arsenal of treatments for Demodex-related ocular conditions.

Chalazion and Pets

Although owning cats or dogs is not directly linked to chalazion, it is important to note that Demodex mites are also prevalent in pets. Consequently, individuals who have close contact with pets, especially those that share sleeping spaces or maintain frequent physical proximity, may face a potential of Demodex mite transmission. It is crucial to emphasize that chalazion is not an inevitable consequence of pet ownership. Many factors enter in the equation including the owner immune system strength.

Comprehensive Treatment Options

Warm Compresses: Applying a warm compress to the affected eyelid for intervals of 10-15 minutes, several times a day, serves to soften the blockage and facilitate natural drainage. This simple yet effective technique can significantly alleviate discomfort.

Eyelid Massages: After applying a warm compress, gently massaging the eyelid in a circular motion can further aid in releasing the obstructed oil and hasten the resolution of the chalazion.

Dancing Arts Center Presents The Nutcracker at The Norwood Theatre

Dancing Arts Center is pleased to announce the return of The Nutcracker at the Norwood Theatre on December 15-17, 2023. This will be Dancing Arts Center's ninth production of The Nutcracker presented in Norwood and will feature fresh choreography, fun surprises, and guest artists. Telling the story of Clara's Christmas Eve dream battling the Mouse Queen alongside her Nutcracker, dancing through the Land of Snow, sampling the Kingdom of Sweets, and meeting the Sugarplum Fairy and Cavalier, The Nutcracker has been captivating audiences and inspiring young dancers for generations. The beautiful and historic Norwood Theatre located in downtown Norwood, Massachusetts makes an ideal setting for this family-friendly and professional production of the traditional holiday ballet. Dancing Arts Center co-Directors Patrick Notaro and Gregg Saulnier anticipate their spirited, diverse cast will bring much joy to the community this holiday season. The role of Clara will be danced en pointe by 13-year-olds Brooke Holden of Medfield and Amelie Perrott of Holliston, while the featured roles of Spanish, Arabian, and Dew Drop natives Jacqueline Vaughn (aged 15) and Avery Marion (aged 14) will perform Columbine Doll, with 18-year-old John Fumia of Hopedale reprising his role as the Nutcracker Prince. "While much effort goes into ensuring our dancers are physically prepared, we really emphasize the storytelling aspect of our production," said Mr. Saulnier. "With Brooke and Amelie each bringing unique artistic interpretations to 'Clara' and our mix of newer and more seasoned dancers, our Nutcracker has a tremendous energy."

These young dancers will be joined by professional guest artists Kirsten Evans as the Sugarplum Fairy and Mamuka Kikalishvili as the Cavalier. Ms. Evans, a native of Seekonk, Massachusetts, danced many roles in her career with Ballet Rhode Island (formerly Festival Ballet Providence), while Mr. Kikalishvili is from Tbilisi, Georgia and danced with Hungarian National Ballet and Hong Kong Ballet. Dancing Arts Center is thrilled to have artists of such experience and caliber dance alongside its students for the 2023 production of The Nutcracker. In effort to support accessibility to the arts for the youth in our community, Dancing Arts Center will present a special Student Matinée performance of The Nutcracker at 10 a.m. on Friday, December 15. Student Matinée tickets are offered at a deep discount for public and private school groups of 10 or more. Home school and distance learning groups are also welcome.

Tickets are on sale now for four general public matinées and evening performances from December 15-17. Purchase options are available at <https://norwood-stage.com/the-nutcracker-2023>.

Antibiotic Ointments or Drops: In instances where bacterial infection is suspected, a healthcare provider may prescribe topical antibiotics to combat the infection and expedite the healing process.

Xdemvy Application: In cases of Demodex-related ocular conditions, Xdemvy serves as a highly effective treatment option, targeting Demodex mites directly and aiding in their elimination.

Steroid Injections: For more persistent or severe chalazion, your ophthalmologist may administer a steroid injection to mitigate inflammation and hasten resolution.

Surgical Drainage: In cases where other treatments prove ineffective, a minor surgical procedure may be performed to create a small incision for drainage. This option is reserved for particularly stubborn or large chalazion.

Conclusion

Chalazion, while generally benign, can be an uncomfortable and visually noticeable condition. Understanding the potential causes, including factors such as Demodex mites, and discerning the potential connection with pets, can aid individuals in effectively managing this ocular ailment. Incorporating innovative treatments like Xdemvy in the management of Demodex-related ocular conditions adds a powerful tool to the healthcare provider's armamentarium. Should one suspect the presence of a chalazion or Demodex-related blepharitis, seeking consultation with your eyecare provider is paramount for accurate diagnosis and appropriate treatment. With 2 full-time external disease specialists on staff, 7 ophthalmologists and optometrists, 3 locations including a surgery center in Milford, our eye centers offer state-of-the-art equipment to diagnose and treat eye problems, including chalazion. We have published research papers and lectured to other physicians on the subject. We are now a referral center for difficult cases of ocular surface disease, chalazion and ocular rosacea. ## Looking To Out-Do Mom

By CHRISTOPHER TREMBLAY,
STAFF SPORTS WRITER

Hopedale's Phoebe Carroll was thrust into sports at a young age and not by her own hand.

Her mother played basketball in high school and college and thought that it would be good for her daughter to get involved with it.

"I think it was around kindergarten when my mom forced me to play basketball because it was something that she did," Carroll said. "Originally I was not into it, but it eventually it became fun to play."

Carroll also takes part in volleyball and softball in addition to her time on the court for the Blue Raiders. The sophomore began playing club basketball in the fifth grade for the Central Mass Swarm and as of late has been involved with the Mass Huskies.

Being that Hopedale Jr/Sr High School allows seventh- and eighth-graders to participate in their sporting programs, Carroll decided to try out for the team during her first year in the high school. As a seventh-grader she made the varsity squad but found it tough to get playing time with 11 talent athletes ahead of her. But she said she learned a lot sitting on the bench.

The following year she was part of the Blue Raiders' magical run through the Division 5 State Tournament. Along with her Hopedale teammates, the team and earn themselves a spot in the tournament where they captured two wins before falling in the Round of 16.

"Phoebe has become a versatile player who is very athletic," the Hopedale Coach said. "She has been put into a leadership role at such a young age."

Coming into her sophomore season, the 6'0" center will be looked upon to do a lot for her team this year.

"It should be an interesting season," she said. "Last year we had no seniors on the team; this year we should be stronger and will defiantly be better."

Now that the Blue Raiders have some upper classmen on the squad, Carroll is hoping that the squad can once again go all the way through the Division 5 Tournament.

"I want to win it all again and being a part of getting the team to that point," she said. "As a team leader I want to help this team get another championship."

In addition to getting Hopedale into another Championship game and winning it, she has another goal. Before she graduates Hopedale Jr/Sr High School, she wants to eclipse that 1000-point barrier.

"My goal is to hit 1001 points during my Hopedale career," Carroll said. "MY mom's name is on that banner with 1000 points and I want my name to go above hers and beat out her record."

While she still has three seasons of basketball still on her docket, when she does leave Hopedale, Carroll is hoping that she can continue playing basketball on the collegiate level. She knows that at this point she is fully capable of driving to the hoop but would like to improve her shooting outside of the key, especially her three-point shooting.

With three years still remaining in her Blue Raiders career, Carroll has plenty of time to improve her game for college, but in the meantime, she is looking at putting up another State Championship banner for girls' basketball.

won all five of its games in pretty remarkable fashion. Hopedale had wins of 32, 29, 28, 2 and 10 points in the Championship contest.

"As an eighth-grader, I was starting with four seniors. It was scary, but by playing with them I became more confident in my game," she said. "The varsity game was much faster than anything I had ever been involved in and I had to keep up with them; eventually I got used to it."

The youngster had fun playing with the likes of Bre Frongillo that season and when it came time for the championship game, she was not really aware what they were actually playing for.

"That season was really fun and as stupid as it sounds, I was not even aware of what was going on – I thought it was just another game," Carroll said.

Although she didn't know what was at stake, Coach Jason Rojee noted that his eighth-grade forward had herself a phenomenal game. Carroll hauled down an incredible 23 rebounds during the game and was the team's leading scorer and rebounder throughout the regular season with 14 points and 12 rebounds per game.

"She just went out and played her hardest, like she does every game," Cheryl Carroll said. "She was part of a special team that year and being so young she really didn't know what was going on, she was just doing her part."

Through the years Coach Rojee has seen Carroll's confidence and maturity grow and as a freshman last winter she took a lot on her shoulders. Although the Blue Raiders did not win another State Championship, the team did manage to go 9-11
