Medical Reserve Corps Help Vaccinate

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Laura Hess, a recently retired Primary Care Nurse Practitioner has had a busy year. When the pandemic hit hard in March, Laura wanted to find a way to contribute. Inspired by the mission of the Sacramento Medical Reserve Corps (SMRC) she started to volunteer by staffing the Sacramento County Public Health COVID-19 Medical Hotline.

SMRC recruits, trains, deploys and retains volunteer health professionals, and supports volunteers who contribute their skills and expertise during an

Members of SMRC can be called upon in the event of a large-scale disaster, public health emergency, hospital surge, or to provide medical-related support to shelters. Throughout the year, the SMRC supports public health with flu clinics, participates in community disaster preparedness drills, staffs first aid stations at community events, provides health screenings at health fairs, and distributes health and emergency preparedness information at local events.

Since last June, Laura has worked weekly supporting the COVID-19 hotline answering questions from the Sacramento County community. Laura educates callers about the medical aspects of COVID-19 and helps callers access community resources and walk them through their fears and anxieties. In recent months, she also started helping with medical chart review for contact tracing. When the vaccination clinics opened, Laura started helping with administering vaccinations and monitoring patients.

"My volunteer work with the SMRC and COVID-19 has been one of the most rewarding experiences of my career. The compassion, inspired me to give back to our community," said Laura.

Since the pandemic began, hundreds of MRC units have deployed volunteers to help with the COVID-19 response and logged hundreds of thousands of volunteer hours.

SMRC volunteers like Laura are now supporting vaccination clinics for COVID-19. Volunteers work tirelessly to administer doses of vaccine as quickly as they can. At this time, vaccines are prioritized for essential worker groups working in Sacramento County that fall into Phase 1a Tier 1 - 3, and the County

Poor Salmon Forecast for Fishing Season

By John McManus, Golden State Salmon Association

SAN FRANCISCO, CA (MPG)

- Officials forecast there are about 271,000 adult Sacramento Valley salmon now in the ocean off the West Coast. This compares to 473,183 forecast a year ago at this time and suggests some restrictions are likely to be enacted in the 2021 salmon fishing season. In the months ahead, officials with the Pacific Fisheries Management Council will use this forecast and other information to set times and areas open to both sport and commercial ocean salmon fishing for 2021. If restrictions are deemed necessary, we'll learn of them then.

Although 473,000 plus salmon were forecast last year, after the number caught was added to those that returned to spawn, the real number came out to be 370,000, about 22 percent fewer than forecast.

About 138,000 adult salmon returned to spawn in the Sacramento Basin during 2020, which is 105,000 fewer than the 233,000 salmon predicted to return to spawn. In addition, about 14,000 jacks, or two year old salmon, returned to spawn. The jack number in 2020 is used to forecast the number of adult salmon officials believe are now in the ocean.

One reason for the drop off in the 2021 salmon forecast is chronic overdiversion of Central Valley rivers. 2020 returns were also bolstered by added hatchery production in 2017 that contributed to the 2020 fishery. There was no additional hatchery production to aid 2021 fisheries and returns.

"It will be several more weeks before we begin to learn what kind of restrictions we might see on fishing this year, but the treatment of our salmon resource by freshwater managers as an afterthought is taking its toll," said GSSA president John McManus.

Since baby salmon are considered one year old when they leave the Central Valley in the spring, and most return as three year old adults, you can usually count on good fishing two years after lots of rain and snow. Although there was decent rain and runoff in 2019, this year's forecast is poor, in part because of the severe decline of salmon in the last drought.

"Drought could revisit us almost anytime, including this year. We need to build and fortify in the good years so we don't get wiped out again in the bad," said GSSA secretary Dick Pool.

State Reduces Kid Space

Desk-spacing rule: will more schools reopen full-time?

By Emily Hoeven, CAL Matters.org

California just made it significantly easier for K-12 schools to bring students back to campus full-time but some of the state's largest districts and most powerful unions are pushing back, suggesting that hundreds of thousands of students may not receive daily in-person instruction this school year.

Student desks should now be kept a minimum of 3 feet apart, down from the previously recommended 6 feet, according to guidelines the California Department of Public Health released Saturday. The revision came a day after the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention reduced its spacing recommendations from 6 to 3 feet and less than a week after a superior court judge blocked California from enforcing its spacing rules because of their impact on students' educational equality. The state on Saturday (March 20) also made it easier for middle and high schools to reopen in the most restrictive purple tier.

The new spacing guidelines quadruple the number of students who can sit in a classroom at one time, paving the way for schools to transition from hybrid learning to full-time in-person instruction. But the final decision still rests with local districts and teachers unions and many have struck reopening deals contingent on desks being 6 feet apart.

The California Teachers Association also appeared to oppose the new guidelines, which it framed as "another confusing message" that could result in "cramming young adults into classrooms."

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Danny Schneider is a longtime musician and songwriter. He's played big name clubs on the Sunset Strip in Los Angeles such as the Roxy and the Troubadour; he's self-produced 5 CD's and a vinyl EP; and he's performed with his band, The Neon Flamingos, at numerous venues. His latest project, an album titled "On the Other Side of the Window," has led Danny to delve into a new venture...fundraising for Sacramento nonprofit Joshua's House Hospice.

Joshua's House Hospice for the terminally ill homeless hopes to open its doors in Spring of 2021. Due to an increase in construction costs and the impact of COVID-19, the project is in need of more funding. With a building purchased at 1501 C Street in downtown Sacramento, the organization will provide shelter, care, and a variety of services to terminally ill homeless individuals - something that is desperately needed in Sacramento now as the numbers of homeless men and women increase. There is no other facility like this on the west coast and Joshua's House is committed to providing a place of compassion and a sense of dignity to those who would otherwise be on the streets or riverbanks of Sacramento during their dying days. The project has support from Mayor Darrel Steinberg, Congresswoman Doris Matsui, Sacramento City Council member Jeff Harris, and many other local dignitaries. And sponsors such as Kaiser Permanente, Sutter Health, UC Davis Health and Dignity Health.

After working on an album for the past year, recording 9 new songs with original lyrics and music, it became clear to Danny Schneider that there was a real purpose behind his album project. While in the process of recording the album, Danny happened to see a TV segment about Joshua's House Hospice that gave him great inspiration. It was that exposure to the story behind Joshua's House Hospice, named for the grandson (who had experienced homelessness) of founder Marlene von Friederichs-Fitzwater, that prompted him to come up with the idea to use his music to fundraise and support Joshua's House. "I decided that I could press a special limited autographed vinyl edition of 100 copies of the album. Each copy will be sold for a gift donation of $100.00. Our fundraising target would then be $10,000 payable directly to Joshua's House Hospice." Needless to say, Joshua's House is thrilled to partner with Danny in this unique event. His website, http://dannyschneider. com/, is dedicated to the project. There, donors can read more about his story, the Joshua's House story, and order their copy of the LP by donating.

ARDEN ARCADE, CA (MPG) - Thirty-five volunteers recently put in 140 hours of raking, pruning, painting and tree-clearance to spruce up Cottage Park, Arden Arcade. The Fulton-El Camino Park District reserve was deemed in need of spring cleaning, following winter storms and increased use due to COVID restrictions on recreational activities.

Fulton-El Camino Swim Club boosters joined Arden-Arcade Rotarians and park district staff. Supervisor Rich Desmond proved handy with a rake. Removal of diseased trees was enabled by labor and machinery donated by Mowbray's Tree service. Chicken Ranch Slough banks were cleared of weeds and dozens of trees had dead branches trimmed. Rotarians sponsored the project and provided a barbecue lunch for workers.

Got Rodents? The Sacramento County Bradshaw Animal Shelter Can Help!

By Allison Harris, Sacramento County News

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As warmer weather approaches, both rural and urban residential homes may see an increase in critters and rodents searching for water and food. Rather than utilizing poison or traps that can harm children or other animals (including wildlife that may ingest poisoned rodents), cats are a natural and environmentally friendly way to control rodent populations.

Bradshaw Animal Shelter's Barn and Garden Cat Program creates positive outcomes for feral and un-socialized cats that are not suitable for regular adoption. These cats are placed "working cats" in home yards, warehouses, garages, barns, stables, wineries and other outdoor environments to control rodent populations.

Adoption fees are waived, and adoptions include spay or neuter surgery, core vaccines including rabies, microchip, flea control, and an ear-tip. Adopters only need to provide daily food, water, protection from the elements and long-term care.

"Not only does the program provide nontoxic pest control, it also saves the lives of cats who would otherwise be considered unadoptable," said Dave Dickinson, Director of Bradshaw Animal Shelter.

Barn Cats a "Green" Solution to Pest Problems.

Since these cats are usually strictly outdoors, for the best success, Bradshaw Animal Shelter generally requires they be adopted in pairs for both safety and companionship.

For more information about the working cat program, please read the Barn and Garden Cat Acclimation Instructions and FAQs at the Barn and Garden Cat website. To apply, complete the online Barn & Garden Cat Application. A program representative will be in touch to discuss your situation in order to make an appropriate adoption match.

Recall Process Holds Electeds Accountable

Ted Gaines

Commentary by Ted Gaines

Governor Newsom looks certain to face a recall election. Voters - even his supporters – should be thankful that California has citizen empowerment tools to check corrupt, incompetent, unresponsive or simply unpopular government officials. If you favor accountability, look kindly upon the recall effort as a means of voters being

It was not always so. In the early 20th century, California state and local governments, media, and courtrooms operated as little more than subsidiaries of the mighty railroads, which abused the public faith by buying and selling influence as though it was rail stock. Republican reform Governor Hiram Johnson revolted against railroad dominance by creating a direct-democracy end run around the moneyed Colossus that so easily and thoroughly controlled the corrupted power structure better replacement. that had silenced them.

Johnson championed three major reforms: the initiative, the referendum, and, so critical now, the recall. Each gave voters the chance to another grassroots effort to pleasure.

Voters went from having little or no way to hold their representatives to account to having a powerful arsenal for self-determination, which they have used many times in the past century.

When runaway property taxes chased seniors out of their homes and broke family budgets, voters came together in 1978 to pass Proposition 13, the most consequential tax reform in state history. Prop. 13 has saved families billions in its fourplus decades of existence. This reform simply could not have originated in the legislature, whose appetite for more and more tax dollars is legendary, but only as an initiative from the people.

When Gray Davis short circuited during the energy crisis, voters famously used the recall to usher in Arnold Schwarzenegger as his replacement, to see if the Hollywood legend could right the ship of state.

Whether you supported Davis or Schwarzenegger or Prop. 13 is secondary to the power Governor Johnson's reforms invested in the people. The key element of his changes is that voters were given the ability to weigh in, to be heard, in ways that purely representative democracy does not allow.

Governor Newsom's detractors have accused him of decimating small business, failing to reopen schools, and disregarding his own restaurant-killing safety guidance. These criticisms have fueled

Even if you support Newsom completely and think his handling of California is flawless, is it not a good thing for the Governor - and all politicians – to be haunted by the specter of accountability?

Hiram Johnson left us tools, not toys. It is not easy to place a recall on the ballot. To qualify, proponents need to submit valid signatures equal to 12-percent of the prior election's turnout total. This year, that means roughly 1.2 million signatures were needed to put our current Governor up for a vote of (no) confidence. That threshold is a huge hurdle and ensures that recalls will not be used lightly.

But that threshold also means it now typically costs $5 million or so to qualify a recall or initiative for the ballot. This tool of the people runs the risk of being transported into the exclusive realm of big-money special interests who can afford paid signature gatherers, advertising, mail pieces and other tools of organization and persuasion. We should not let it turn into the very thing it was intended to fight. We should make it easier to qualify initiatives, referenda, and recalls, to keep them safely within reach of authentic grassroots

Newsom may or may not fare better than Davis. But win or lose, the recall is a signal to the current Governor and all politicians that they serve at the people's

COVID Crisis Triggers Increase in Elder Abuse and Prejudice Aimed at Seniors

By John Grimaldi, Assoc. of Mature American Citizens

WASHINGTON, D.C. (MPG) - There's been a worrisome increase in cases of elder abuse since the outbreak of the COVID-19 pandemic, reports the Association of Mature American Citizens [AMAC]. The senior advocacy organization's CEO, Rebecca Weber, says the surge is mainly due to selfisolation and other preventative measures that are in place to combat the spread of the virus."

According to the Website, PubMed.Gov, "Before the COVID-19 pandemic, elder abuse affected one in 10 American older adults annually. It has been assumed that the pandemic has brought with it a surge in elder abuse due to individuals ordered to stay at home combined with increased interpersonal stressors."

The measures in place to deal with the pandemic can limit in-person visits by caregivers, friends and family, making it difficult for the elderly living on their own to cope with physical and mental needs, leaving them vulnerable to abuse, Weber explains. "And then there are those unpaid family caregivers who have been left with reduced incomes or no incomes at all as a result of the COVID crisis. The stress they are under can readily result in abuse."

Nursing homes get most of the blame for elder abuse. But in too many cases, according to the National Center on Elder Abuse, the perpetrators are family members.

"Elder abuse is a widespread problem in America where 10,000 men and women celebrate their 65th birthdays each day; and where each year more people live longer than ever before. It is no longer unusual for us to live to be as old as 80, 90 and 100 years or more these days thanks to healthier lifestyles and the miracle of modern medicine. But, with age come new vulnerabilities that can make any of us susceptible to the crimes of angry and greedy predators. And that's why it is up to younger friends and family who truly care to keep a watchful eye open for anomalies that indicate older loved ones may be victims," says Weber.

The Website sixtyandme reports that the most common type of abuse experienced by older Americans is neglect and that when senior citizens self-report abuse, statistics show that they are most likely to report financial abuse. "It is far more socially acceptable, at least in some people's minds, to report that they have been scammed than to state that somebody sexually abused them.'

Meanwhile, a wave of "downright shameful intimidation" may be in store for the elderly as a result of COVID-19. The virus appears to have triggered a wave of prejudice directed at our older population, says AMAC's Weber. Younger generations appear to be blatantly revealing ageist tendencies on social media with messages referring to the coronavirus with insulting epithets such as "boomer remover" and "coffin dodger."

According to the medical journal, Psychiatric Times, "A Twitter analysis of 18,128 tweets between March 12 and March 21, 2020, showed that about one-quarter of all tweets [about 4,500] could be considered ageist, either because they included jokes or ridicule aimed at older adults or because their content downplayed the relevance of COVID-19 and/or implied their lives were less valuable."

Yikes ... Tax Time

When you utter the words IRS, people shudder. But maybe it's just a matter of understanding the most powerful, but least accountable, institution in the U.S. Not only is it contemptuous of the taxpayer, it even thumbs its nose at the Congress. That from former IRS agent and whistleblower Richard Green. They fired him for being a whistleblower, but no pity please, Richard got a most generous settlement... TAX FREE! Richard Green is author of "Agents of Deceit" the story of life inside today's chaotic and yes, dysfunctional IRS. He is also an accounting professor and auditor in the private sector. So I asked Richard to give us a few tips on how to handle tax time and the IRS on my POPPOFF Radio Show.

Here are a few things to think about.

- 1. Take The Full Amount Of Every Deduction You Can Reasonably Justify. Don't be intimidated by audits. Only one-half of one percent of taxpayers are audited. If an auditor objects. You will most likely only be required to pay that deficiency. If you still disagree, inform the agent you won't sign the R.A.R. (Revenue Agent Report) and wish to appeal. www.irs. gov.appeals. No attorney is required, and Appeals often sides with the taxpayer, in whole or part, so the agent will usually become more reasonable. Negotiate. Negotiate!
- 2. File Electronically With The Irs Free 10. Use Your Own Personal Bank File Tool, With Direct Deposit. www. irs.gov/filing/free-file-do-your-federaltaxes-for-free. Paper filing and paper checks will significantly lengthen the time for your refund... it's generally NOT USPS at fault.

- 4. Report, In Detail, Cryptocurrency Transactions. That requires extremely detailed records. If you buy a pizza with a fractional Bitcoin, you must calculate the cost of the fraction (in dollars) and the equivalent price of the pizza (in dollars). If you made any profit, it's reportable and taxable.

- 8. The $1400 Stimulus Payment Phases Out With Higher Incomes. If your income is higher this year, get an extension to October 15, so your payment is based on your lower income. But if it's lower this year, file immediately to get your payment.
- 9. Send All Materials To The Irs By Priority Mail That Can Be Tracked. The IRS is notorious for losing mail, and this tax season they're expecting to be even more disorganized.
- Account For Direct Deposit Of Refunds, Not Your Preparers. During the past covid-19 relief payments, many preparers greatly delayed disbursement of stimulus funds to their clients. Want to check out more? Go to www.agentsofdeceit.com.

How Will California Spend $150 Billion Windfall?

By Dan Walters CALMatters

Let's assume that your rich Uncle Harry died and when his will was read, he had left you $50,000.

The unexpected inheritance gives you three choices. You could put the money into a savings should you need it in the future. You could use it for a one-time purchase such as a new car, college tuition or a down payment on a house. Or you could ramp up your lifestyle by $50K a year and hope that Harry's brother George dies and leaves you enough money to continue the party.

Something like that is occurring now as Uncle Joe (Biden) sends out nearly $2 trillion in "stimulus" payments both to low- and moderate-income families and state and local government entities to offset losses of income during and, it's assumed, kickstart the pandemic-ravaged economy.

California will be a case study in how the massive transfer of money that the federal government is borrowing from buyers of its bonds and treasury notes plays out.

California is expected to receive the nation's form of cash payments to families ($40 billion) and supplemental payments to the roughly 800,000 unemployed workers now drawing unemployment insurance benefits ($30 billion). Most of that money, it's assumed, will go directly into the consumer economy, plus another $3.8 billion for direct assistance on rent, food and other necessities.

The remainder of the $150 billion will mostly go to state and local agencies as both unrestricted revenue and money for specific purposes, such as $15.9 billion to help schools account or investment reopen, $5 billion for coland have it available leges, $4 billion for mass transit services, and $3.9 billion for child care.

Throughout California, officials in the specific government agencies that will benefit from Uncle Joe's largesse are busily deciding how to spend it – and they face the same three choices as Uncle Harry's beneficiaries would.

The political pressure to spend it on new commitments will be immense. Advocates of specific programs, such as those seeking universal pre-kindergarten education and child care, will want to expand their reach. Public the COVID-19 pandemic employee unions will seek increases in salaries and benefits.

> Elected political figures don't like to say "no" to demands for immediate gratification and few have the courage to insist that one-time windfalls should be carefully husbanded rather than spent.

There's already a miniversion of the syndrome largest single share of the underway in California. pot, at least $150 billion. The state has perhaps Nearly half will be in the $15 billion in unexpected revenues because the pandemic-induced recession had little, if any, impact on high-income taxpayers and Gov. Gavin Newsom is under pressure to spend the windfall on program expansions, even though the state faces projected budget deficits in following years.

The problem, of course, is spending windfall money on new commitments, such as salaries, benefits and program expansions, backfires when the money is gone. Those commitments morph into entitlements and their beneficiaries then demand that politicians generate new income streams to pay for

There's already a debate underway in Washington over how much of the stimulus spending will become permanent and whether the federal government should continue borrowing to pay for it, or raise taxes.

Left-leaning Democrats in both Washington and Sacramento are floating new tax proposals, such as a "wealth tax" on those sitting atop the economic ladder.

Newsom simultaneously embraces, in principle, big expansions of entitlements, such as universal pre-kindergarten and single-payer health care, while warning that he won't embrace new taxes, apparently fearing they would chase away the high-income taxpayers who supply a huge portion of the state's revenues.

Dan Walters has been a journalist for nearly 60 years, spending all but a few of those years working for California newspapers.

EPA WANTS TO HEAR FROM YOU ABOUT THE AEROJET GENERAL CORPORATION SUPERFUND CLEANUP

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) has started the second Five-Year Review of the cleanup plans for the Aerojet General Corporation Superfund site. The site is in Rancho Cordova, California. The Review will evaluate if the cleanup is working as EPA intended and if it continues to protect public health and the Federal law requires EPA to review its Superfund cleanup plans every five years if:

- a cleanup takes more than five years to complete; or
- hazardous waste is still on-site.

EPA completed the last Five-Year Review for this site on September 16, 2016.

What is Included in the Review?

- an inspection of the site and the cleanup technologies being used,
- a review of site data and maintenance records, and
- a review of any new laws or requirements that could affect the cleanup.

When helpful, EPA breaks up its large cleanup sites into parts, referred to as operable units (OUs). This site has 10 such units and, for this review, EPA will look at three of them:

- Western Groundwater (OU-3): Includes contaminated groundwater that has moved off Aerojet property.
- Perimeter Groundwater (OU-5): Includes contaminated groundwater that has moved off Aerojet property and contaminated soils being treated on Aerojet property.
- Boundary Soil (OU-6): Includes contaminated soils being treated on Aerojet property as well as structures that present indoor air issues.

EPA Would Like to Hear from You!

We would like to interview community members about how you think the site cleanup is going. If you would like to learn more about the site and/or be interviewed, please contact the site's Community Involvement Coordinator before May 31, 2021:

Jackie Lane, EPA Community Involvement Coordinator at (415) 972-3236

Where Can I Learn More?

Visit EPA's webpage at www.epa.gov/superfund/aerojet for more information. EPA has set up information repositories with the site's Administrative Record (key documents and reports used in the cleanup), the 2016 Five-Year Review report, and other documents about the site investigation and cleanup at:

> Sacramento Central Library 828 I Street Sacramento, CA 95814 (916) 264-2700

CA State University, Sacramento, University Library 2000 State University Drive Sacramento, CA 95819-6039 (916) 278-5679

EPA will complete the Five-Year Review no later than September 30, 2021. EPA will post a copy of the report on its site webpage and send a copy to the information repositories listed above.

Background

The Aerojet General Corporation Superfund site is in Rancho Cordova, California, about a half-mile from the American River. The site covers 5,900 acres. Aerojet made rocket engines for military and commercial use on the site. The Cordova Chemical Company also ran chemical manufacturing facilities on the site. Both companies got rid of unknown amounts of hazardous waste chemicals on the property, which contaminated the soil and groundwater on and near the site.

Los Rios Wins $5 Million Department of Labor Grant

By Scott Crow, Los Rios Community College District

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The Los Rios Community College District has been awarded a $5 million, four-year Strengthening Community Colleges Training Grant from the federal Department of Labor. This award is part of a brand-new grant program and Los Rios is one of just 11 grantees nationwide and one of only two California colleges to receive an award.

The project, "Crosswalking Business Pathways to Public Sector Careers" will create new pathways to training for workers, including individuals with barriers to employment, for entry and middle-skill jobs in the public sector. Grant activities include: The development of new Los Rios business information worker programs. Increasing referrals from Sacramento Training and Employment Agency (SETA) and Capital Adult Education Regional Consortium (CAERC) to these new programs. Increasing internship and other work-based training opportunities through the Institute of Local Government (ILG). Pursuing strategies to transform regional public-sector outreach and hiring practices.

"This grant is a major win-win for our region," said Los Rios Chancellor Brian King. "This innovative and collaborative project will increase opportunities for workers in our communities while supporting local employers at the same time. We are grateful for this grant support and look forward to putting the project into action."

American River College will lead the project, which includes all the other Los Rios colleges - Cosumnes River, Folsom Lake and Sacramento City colleges - and SETA, CAERC, ILG and Valley Vision. There is a need to train an additional 2,300 skilled workers annually in the business information field. With shared focus and dedicated resources, the project will strive to address the annual gap in skilled workers needed and increase the number of individuals trained for business services careers in our region.

The Los Rios Community College District is one of the nation's most respected learning institutions and the second-largest community college district in California, serving the greater Sacramento region. Los Rios includes: American River, Cosumnes River, Folsom Lake and Sacramento City colleges; six major education and outreach centers; and specialized workforce and economic development programs, for regional businesses, governments and organizations. Los Rios colleges offer AA/AS degrees, certificates and transfer-education opportunities in more than 70 career fields. The District's 2,400 square-mile service area includes all of Sacramento County, most of El Dorado County and parts of Yolo, Placer and Solano counties. About 75,000 students are enrolled in the four Los Rios Colleges. For more information, go to www.losrios.edu.

Planning and Designing a Productive Vegetable Garden

Incorporate trellises into garden plans so beans, peas, tomatoes and even squash can be trained to grow vertically. Photo Courtesy of Gardener's Supply Company

By Melinda Myers

Whether planning your first, second or tenth vegetable garden it can be overwhelming. There are so many tasty vegetables and never enough space and time to grow them all.

Start with a plan. Locate your garden in a sunny location with moist, well-drained soil. Save those partially sunny areas for greens like lettuce, chard and kale as well as root crops like radishes and beets. These prefer full sun but will tolerate more shade than tomatoes, peppers, squash, broccoli and other plants we eat the flowers and fruit.

Review your favorite recipes and make a list of family favorites and those vegetables most often used. Then check the list to see which vegetables are suited to your climate and growing conditions and those that make the most economic sense to include in your garden.

Tomatoes and peppers produce lots of fruit from one plant and are common ingredients in many recipes. Sweet corn is fun to grow but needs lots of space for a relatively small harvest. If space is limited, consider buying your sweet corn at the farmers' market and use that space to grow other edibles.

Every gardener struggles with determining how many of each type of vegetable to grow. This depends upon the productivity of the variety selected, your family's eating habits and of course the impact of weather on the harvest. It is always better to start small, build on your successes and expand the garden in the future. Track your planting and harvesting results to help when planning future gardens.

You will need to plant more if you plan to preserve or donate a portion of your harvest. Purchasing vegetables from your local farmers' market is a way to ensure you have sufficient fresh produce when you are ready to can, freeze and ferment.

Sound overwhelming? Consider enlisting help from Gardener's Supply by using one of their vegetable garden plans (gardeners.com). You'll find customized plans for those who like to cook, want to grow ingredients for a garden-fresh salad, salsa or cocktails, or are following a Mediterranean diet. Many come with seed packets for all the featured plants.

Maximize the available space by growing vertically. Train pole beans, peas, tomatoes, cucumbers and even squash and melons up trellises. Growing vertically not only saves space, but also increases disease resistance by increasing light and airflow through the plants. And picking beans at waist height is much easier than harvesting from low-growing, bushy plants.

Increase space with containers. Consider growing some of your frequently used herbs and vegetables in pots on the patio, balcony, or deck for convenience. You can quickly grab what you need when creating your favorite Grow multiple plantings in each row. Start the season with cool season veggies like lettuce, peas and radishes. Once the temperatures climb and these plants are harvested and enjoyed, replace them with warm weather vegetables like tomatoes, peppers, beans, cucumbers, squash and melons. Finish off the season by filling any vacant rows with fall crops like greens, beets and radishes.

Take some time to plan a garden that will provide you and your family with fresh produce you can enjoy all season long. Involving everyone in the planning process just might get them to show up and help weed.
