CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - The bookkeeping is detailed, the meetings numerous and the responsibility huge. But Carmichael Chamber of Stephanie Young is loving her new Virginia Stone, Young moved into not because they have to." Chamber's Milagro Centre headquarters at the beginning of the year. Stone will remain as a mentor while the appointee eases into the position.

"My focus right now is on meeting as many Chamber members as possible," says Young. "We're also gearing up for our Person of the Year fundraiser (March 20) followed by the Best of Carmichael event (May 29). I'm so grateful to have Virginia's help with those. So far, our members have been warm and welcoming. I believe they're excited to see what new ideas I'll bring to Chamber life."

Previously an administrative analyst with Carmichael Park District, Young is now a lone Chamber employee. "In my old job, there were lots of staff and a few volunteers to call on," she says. "Now, it's just me – ob. Recruited to replace former CEO that they help because they want to,

Are You Ready for The Presidential Primary?

By Janna Haynes, Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Once every four years, the state of California conducts a party Primary Election. The purpose of this election is for the voters registered within a party to help select a presidential nominee to represent that party in the November General Election.

Sacramento County Voter Registration and Elections just mailed out a Voter Registration Status Postcard to every registered voter. The postcard is specific to the voter and lists name, address and registered political party. It is very important that voters review the information to ensure it is correct before ballots are mailed out the first week of February.

Political parties can choose to limit participation in their party's primary to only registered voters of that party. In other words, if you're a registered Democrat, you wouldn't be allowed to participate in the Republican primary. The same is true for any party that holds a presidential primary.

If a voter is registered with a political party, they will receive a ballot that contains presidential nominees for that party only.

If a voter is not registered with a political party, also known as "No Party Preference," they will receive a ballot that does not contain any presidential nominees.

However, they have the option to crossover and choose to request a ballot that contains nominees for the American Independent Party, Democratic Party, or Libertarian Party, for this election only without changing their voter registration. To crossover, voters can do one of four things:

If they would like to vote for presidential nominees in the Green Party, Peace and Freedom Party, or the Republican Party, then they must be a registered voter with that party. To re-register visit the California Online Voter Registration website.

Eligible residents that are not yet registered to vote can do so on the California Online Voter Registration website and be sure to select one of the political parties.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Jolly hockey sticks and pip-pip if you have British blood, ladies. There is a club for you.

Once monthly all across the USA, select sitting rooms chime with china cups and accents British as cress sandwiches. A 5000-strong society called Daughters of the British Empire In The USA has a Sacramento chapter whose members dress for meetings as if they were popping off to Harrods.

Tea is sipped. Laments are many that few local restaurants know how to make a proper cuppa. Members treasure old-country tradition and support the society's pursuit of friendship, charity and culture. Sacramento leader (Regent) Connie DaMant says some Daughters

By Chris Orrock, Department of Water Resources

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Department of Water Resources (DWR) conducted the first manual snow survey of 2020 at Phillips Station. The manual survey recorded 33.5 inches of snow depth and a snow water equivalent (SWE) of 11 inches, which is 97 percent of average for this location. The SWE meacontained in the snowpack, which provides a more accurate forecast of spring runoff.

"While the series of cold weather storms in November and December has provided a good start to the 2020 snowpack, precipitation in Northern California is still below average for this time of year," said DWR Director Karla Nemeth. "We receives about 75 percent must remember how variable California's climate is and what a profound impact climate change has on our of this precipitation comsnowpack."

More telling than a survey at a single location are DWR's electronic readings from 130 stations scattered throughout the State. Measurements indicate that statewide, the snowpack's SWE is 9.3 inches, or 90 percent of the January 2 average.

"It's still too early to predict what the remainder of the year will bring in terms of snowpack," said Sean DeGuzman, sures the amount of water chief of DWR's Snow Surveys and Water Supply Forecasting Section. "Climate change is altering the balance of rain and snow in California. That is why it is important to maintain our measurements of the snowpack to document the change in addition to having critical information to forecast spring runoff."

California traditionally of its annual precipitation during December, January and February, with the bulk ing from atmospheric rivers. Similar to last year, California experienced a dry start to this water year followed by cold, wet December storms that brought the state up to 74 percent of average annual precipitation for this time of year. Climate change is expected to lead to continued warming and fewer but more intense storms impacting the snowpack of the Sierra Nevada. These changes continue to impact the distribution of snow across elevations, its pattern of accumulation, and rate of DWR conducts five media-oriented snow surveys at Phillips Station each winter in January, February, March, April and, if necessary, May. On average, the snowpack supplies about 30 percent of California's water needs as it melts in the spring and early summer.

after a two-day wartime courtship. And yes, their marriage lasted. "We're fascinated by such stories," says DaMant. "For those of us who were born in the US, meetings are a chance to discover our heritage." British ancestry – even by marriage-enables DBE membership; Commonwealth-born members hail from many nations where Union Jacks once fluttered.

Queen Victoria's vast empire may no longer exist, but Elizabeth II reigns on gloriously for the Daughters. At their June meeting, they sang "God Save the Queen" for the enduring monarch's 91st birthday. Sausage rolls accompanied the celebration; strong breakfast tea was tipple of choice. "My wonderful English grandfather made me a tea-drinker," says Regent DaMant. "I felt closer to him last year when I went to England for the first time."

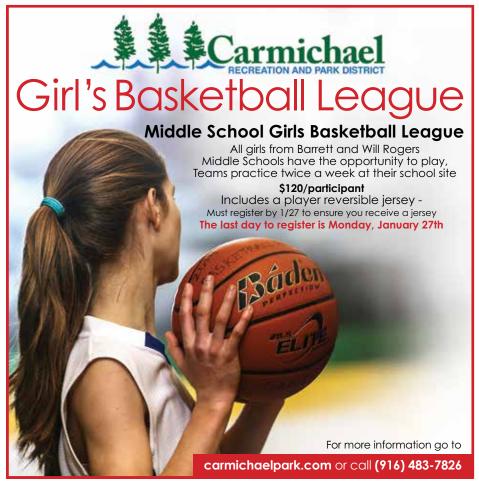

Nationwide, Daughters support fundraising for DBE-run senior homes. They also sponsor young women's college scholarships. National annual meetings are diverse as the Empire upon which the sun never set. The recent 2019 gathering in San Francisco began with bagpipes, a parade of flags and a welcome from the British Consul. Indubitably guaranteed for conventioneers was Scottish shortbread and lashings of correctly-made tea.

For those who aspire to the perfect cuppa, here's a DBE stalwart's formula. Place one teaspoon of loose leaves (or tea bag) per person in a warmed pot. Add boiling water and steep for four minutes. Turn the pot for efficient infusion. If milk (never cream) is required, a small amount goes first into the cup. Then pour tea and sip with genteel murmurings of appreciation.

But you guys can get out of debt pretty fast if you'll just lose the cars. You could even save a little money on the side while you were paying down debt, and buy a better car as soon as the debt was gone.

You might love your cars so much that you're unwilling to make the sacrifice. Not me. I'd rather keep my dignity intact, and work my way out of the mess I created!

Playing the Lottery Robs you of your Future

Dear Dave,

I've been struggling financially for the past few months, so I've been playing the lottery once a week. To me, the chance to win millions is worth a few dollars a month, even if things are tight.

- Paula

Dear Paula,

You've told me you're You've got a ridiculous having money troubles, and at the same time you're throwing money out the window every week? Honestly, the small start living on a budget and amount you're talking about doesn't make a dif-In your situation, the ference. Even if it's just two or three bucks a week, that action represents a lot of financially irresponsible behavior in your life.

I'm going to be very blunt with you. The lottery is a tax on the poor and people who can't do math. Your chances of winning are bleak at best. Did you know the odds of winning the Powerball jackpot are about 1 in 292,000,000? There are plenty of other very unusual things that are much more likely to happen to you than winning the lottery. Your chances of making a holein-one on the golf course are about 1 in 12,500. Even your odds of having quadruplets are around 1 in 11 million.

When times are tough and you're strapped for cash, the last thing you need to do is spend what little you have on gimmicks. My advice is to focus on working hard, living on a tight budget that cuts out all unnecessary expenses, and saving every penny you can. Unlike the lottery, this is a plan that works every time. When vou start living on a budget and get out of debt, it provides a little bit of breathing room in your life. You might even feel like you got a raise!

Don't let your financesand your dreams-be hijacked by the lottery.

The Show

Written and directed by Tony Award-winning director Diane Paulus, Cirque du Soleil's 33rd production is a celebration of love and a tribute to the work and voice of women, featuring a cast that comprises mostly women with an all-female band. The show's title is a fusion of the words ama, which refers to "mother" in many languages, and luna, which means "moon," a symbol of femininity that evokes both the mother-daughter relationship and the idea of goddess and protector of the planet. AMALUNA invites the audience to a mysterious island governed by goddesses and guided by the cycles of the moon. Their queen, Prospera, directs her daughter's coming-ofage ceremony in a rite that honors femininity, renewal, rebirth, and balance – which marks the passing of these insights and values from one generation to the next. In the wake of a storm caused by Prospera, a group of young men lands on the island, triggering an epic, emotional story of love between Prospera's daughter and a brave young suitor. But theirs is a love that will be put to the test. The couple must face numerous demanding trials and overcome daunting setbacks before they can achieve mutual trust, faith, and harmony.

Special Release from San Juan Unified School District

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Mission Avenue Open Elementary presented a set of newly painted murals to the community on Jan. 7. Much of the learning at Mission Avenue Open is done through field trips, and these murals represent students' annual destinations.

"Mission Avenue Open is an open philosophy where all of our learning is very experiential," said Principal Margaret Terzich. "We want to have our kids' learning opportunities be embracing of all the elements around us. And that includes field trips that we do throughout the year."

The school's PTA commissioned muralists Jenn Ponci, a former Mission Avenue Open student, and Alika Rogers-Crooks to design

this set of murals in an effort to create an artistic representation of the school's philosophy. The process began with a survey sent to staff, parents and students in order to ensure the murals were an accurate representation of the school community.

Families, students, staff, the PTA, the muralists and community members attended the dedication.

PTA president Tenille Stewart spoke to the group, thanking all involved in the process leading up to the mural reveal.

"The murals are really inspiring," said Stewart. "They are a reflection of the goals of our PTA to basically enhance the school and what exists here."

At the end of the dedication, students sang a thank-you song, which they traditionally sing at the end of every field trip and to parent volunteers.

ESKATON Transforming the Aging Experience

"Without a doubt I believe my mom, who is in memory care, is receiving amazing care. The staff is genuinely concerned about her ... Many of the staff that were there when she arrived had worked there since it opened its doors, and they are still there today. That says a lot to me about how much they enjoy what they do. My mom gave so much to others as a nurse for over 30 years that it's nice to see her now on the receiving end as she is now getting the same kind of care she once gave."
