November is National Adoption Month

By Brenda Bongiorno, Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - In California, there are more than 62,000 youth living in foster care and more than 34,000 waiting for a permanent family. In Sacramento County alone, there are 1,690 children and youth in out-of-home care with about 350 of them needing a loving and affirming forever family.

Each November during National Adoption Month, Sacramento County wants to remind the community that you can make a difference in the life of a child by becoming a resource parent/family. These resource parents, once known as foster parents, provide love, parental care, guidance and stability to children until they can either return to their parents or provide a permanent home through adoption or legal guardianship.

Whether you are married or single, gay or straight, a homeowner or a renter, an aunt, teacher or simply a loving person that wants to positively impact the life of a child, Sacramento County Department of Child, Family and Adult Services hopes you will consider fostering a child. We have a particular need for new resource families that can help us move children from a group home setting to a family-based setting. The more families who can open their doors to our children and youth, the better. We are looking for resource families who are able to foster all ages, but particularly, teenagers, LGBTQ youth, African-American children, children with medical needs, emergency/last-minute placements and homes for sibling sets. Sacramento County supports, trains and offers guidance, support and assistance to resource families to make sure the journey is a positive transition. While reuniting children with their biological families is the primary goal, staff can help resource parents adopt or take legal guardianship when reunification is not possible. There is now only one approval process, which creates a continuous care experience for children, as they will not have to switch homes at the point of adoption. On November 6, we pause our busy lives long enough to speak the names of thousands of California children who are waiting in foster care for the love and support of a permanent family. Sacramento County and several adoption agencies are hosting the 31st Annual Calling Out of Names at the State Capitol in Room 112 from 9:00 a.m. -1:00 p.m. During the vigil, Continued on page 2

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Home of the Brave Campaign last week brightened Friday for hundreds of veterans at Sacramento VA Medical Center, Mather.

Along with free lunches, ice cream, bedside visits and tee shirts, veterans enjoyed three hours of live music. The day of tribute kicked off veteran weekend celebrations by honoring more than 300 patients and visitors.

Lady and the Tramps' concert filled the hospital lobby with classic rock tunes.

The Home of the Brave program was established in 2012 by Hewlett Packard employees in Houston TX and Herndon VA. The volunteers later partnered with Veterans Affairs Voluntary Service; the VA Homeless Program and Soldiers Angels. Corporate contributors include Perspecta, Bristol-Myers Squibb and Micro Focus. The campaign's mission to support veterans has created giving events all over America. Fundraising and sponsor donations provide hats, blankets, water bottles and backpacks to thousands of veterans in 42 states, and in Washington DC and Puerto Rico

Playmakers Hosting Youth Basketball Game

Story by Shaunna Boyd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Local non-profit The Playmakers Organization is hosting a basketball game for special needs and at-risk kids at Oak Hills Church (1100 Blue Ravine Rd. in Folsom). Playmakers is partnering with the Special Olympics, Big Brothers Big Sisters, and UCP of Sacramento and Northern California (which provides programs and services for people with developmental disabilities).

Playmakers founder Greg Roeszler explained that atrisk kids have a 40% chance home, and the risk is event," said Roeszler. increased for special needs kids. Playmakers is working to provide support networks for these parents to help their children thrive. "We're really pleased with how we're beginning to work together with other agencies toward the same goal," said Roeszler.

Roeszler said, "We're converting Oaks Hills Church into the Golden1 Center with a DJ, music, and a great deal of fun. Our desire is that this is the first of ongoing Playmakers events partnering with these agencies to create more fun activities and resources for kids and their families."

The game will be held on Saturday, November 16, and it will kick off at 9:00 AM with a breakfast catered by the Burgess Brothers BBO & Burgers, who will be serving their special ChurWaffles.

The game is scheduled from 10:00 AM to 1:00 PM, and the participating kids will be assisted by the Folsom High School freshman football of living in a single-parent team. "It's a very inclusive Roeszler spent years coaching football, so Playmakers events usually focus on his favorite sport. But Roeszler is excited to be expanding into basketball because it is not dependent on the weather and can be played indoors year-round — so they can offer more frequent events for the kids.

Roeszler said Playmakers is grateful to be working with a group of "wonderful Corporate partners" for the event: Mortgage Consultant Group, FitGuard, Asher College, Republic Services, Palm Tile, Go Forth Coaching, and Serenity Spa - which will be offering massages at the game.

The public is invited to attend the game and there is no cost to attend. Roeszler said, "We're hoping for wonderful attendance. Come and cheer and have fun, eat waffles, and meet our partners."

There is still space available for more game participants, and kids can be signed up at www. ThePlaymakers.org. *

Delta Pilot Takes Off in Assembly Race

Story and photos by Susan Maxwell Skinner

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Mission Oaks Neighborhood Association president Cathy Cook has thrown a peaked cap into the ring for Assembly District 8. The seat has been held by Ken Cooley for almost eight years and the Assemblyman will seek a third term in March, 2020.

Cook (62) has flown for Delta for 14 years and was among the first female pilots hired by her airline. Her late husband, Colonel Frasier Fortner, ran the Junior ROTC program at North Highland High School. While his wife flew a KC-135 combat crew to air-refuel fighters during Bagdad strikes, Fortner served the Air Force at the pentagon. Captain Cook has interspersed civilian flying with raising two sons and captaining her neighborhood's resident association. "I've been serving and leading for most of my life,' she says. "Now I offer to serve as my community's Assembly member. I'll apply everything I've learned to the job."

Cook is not the only District 8 candidates with hopes for Republican endorsement. Community organizer Carl Burton (79) recently announced his ambition for Ken Cooley's seat; the candidates will vie for party support. "I believe in serving people ahead of party politics," says Cook.

Airline Pilot and US Air Force veteran Cathy Cook is among contestants for the District 8 seat occupied by Assemblyman Ken Cooley.

"I can work in a bipartisan way to solve the problems of our neighborhoods." The pilot will take leave from her job to conduct her campaign. "I've proven my skills in a career of decision-making and troubleshooting," she considers. "Flying captain for the Air Force and in an airline also requires great tact and diplomacy."

Make It Fun and It Will Get Done! The Secret to Being Organized Pam Young's Corner

Crapaholics Anonymous Program

A 12-Step Declutter Program

"My name is Pam and I'm a Crapaholic."

Clutter is a spiritual problem

A lovely woman reported she had systematically and completely decluttered her family home, but she asked, "How do I keep from bringing the clutter back in?" She went on to say she yo-yos between a peaceful streamlined home and one that's cluttered and filled with tension.

If you frequent auctions, church bazaars, garage and estate sales, chances are you're a junk junkie and I don't know of an AA-type program for you.

But you could use the 12-Steps with just a few adjustments. If you think about the problem of having too much stuff can you see that it's a spiritual problem? God takes care of us every moment of our lives and He wants us to have material stuff, but when the collection of the stuff grows beyond our ability to enjoy and use it, and week continue to seek out more, the stuff becomes a god. The spiritual aspects of the 12 steps really apply to the addiction to gathering more than we need. This is what I imagine crapaholics would say:

- 1. We admitted we were powerless over articles priced under a dollar, - that our homes Had become unmanageable because of them.
- 2. We came to believe that a Power greater than ourselves could restore us to sanity.
- 3. We made a decision to turn our will and our lives over to the care of God as we understood Him.
- 4. We made a searching and fearless moral inventory of ourselves and why we love other people's junk.
- 5. We admitted to God, to ourselves and to another human being the exact nature of our wrongs: bulging closets, cupboards, drawers, storage units filled to the brim, jam- packed basements, bloated garages and stuffed attics.
- 6. We were entirely ready to have God remove all these defects of character.
- 7. We humbly asked Him to remove our shortcomings.
- 8. We made a list of all venues where stuff is sold, i.e. Goodwill, Salvation Army, auctions, barn sales, garage sales, church rummage sales and bazaars.
- 9. We made a promise to stay away from those venues.
- 10. We continued to take personal inventory #### and when we were wrong promptly get rid of what we bought.

- 11. We sought through prayer and meditation to improve our conscious contact with God as we understood Him, praying only for knowledge of His will for us and the Power to carry that out.
- 12. We having had a spiritual awakening as the result of these steps, we tried to carry this message to crapaholics and to practice these principles in all our affairs.

I hope you're not insulted with my play on AA, but I truly believe that hoarding and collecting too much stuff is a spiritual problem. I'd never read the 12 steps before writing this blog and I can see now why AA is so successful. My heart goes out to all of you who are staying sober because of this profound program. You'll note if you are familiar with AA, that I didn't alter any of the steps that included God in them, because it's no joke, no matter what your problem, go to God first.

We as Americans do have a big spiritual problem; we haven't learned when enough is enough. In another column I asked, "Whatever your religion, do you think the one who started it had too much stuff?" Of course he didn't.

The woman I spoke of who asked for help, said she loves "collections," and I've been in many homes where the collections had got out of hand! One woman had more than 500 Precious Moments figurines! My friends, more than 10 and they lose their preciousness. I think I know what's behind "collecting." It feeds a woman's natural urge to gather. That urge is why we love to shop, looking for just the right berry, nut, vegetable or purse. Men have the "hunting" instinct and that's why they make lousy shoppers. They already know what they're hunting for, they go straight to it and head to the cashier.

Stay Out!

Dave Ramsey made a comment on the radio many times. He said, "Until all your credit cards are paid off, the only reason you get to go to a restaurant is if you work in it." If you've spent a great deal of your time de-junking, you know how much energy your excess stuff takes. The only reason you get to go to a yard sale is to drop stuff off.

Bye Bye Mattress is Working for California

By Mary Parra, Randle Communications

SACRAMENTO REGION. CA (MPG) - More than 4 million mattresses have been recycled in California by the Bye Bye Mattress program since it began in 2016, according to the recently released 2018 Annual Report from the Mattress Recycling Council (MRC). "The continued growth of the Bye Bye Mattress program demonstrates California is still a global leader in waste reduction at a time when the recycling industry is facing significant challenges," said MRC's Managing Director Mike O'Donnell.

Key to that success is MRC's ongoing efforts to increase program accessibility for all Californians, no matter where they live in the state. In 2018 alone, MRC reported more than 1.4 million mattresses were recycled, an increase of 11 percent from the year before. In addition, more than 80 percent of mattresses discarded in California are now being diverted from landfills, where they would otherwise take up valuable and limited space.

"Easy access to the Bye Bye Mattress recycling network is vital to program participation," said O'Donnell. "We accomplish this through innovative collaborations with mattress retailers, solid waste facilities and curbside collection programs. We also have non-profit partners, including the California Conservation Corps, Goodwill Industries and Habitat for Humanity."

MRC increased the number of no-cost permanent collection sites from 163 to 190 across the state in 2018. Bulky item collection programs grew from nine to 40 and collection events increased from 74 to 97. Today, all of California's 58 counties have access to mattress recycling services.

In addition, MRC's digital mapping analysis shows that 93 percent of www.ByeByeMattress.com

Californians live within 15 miles of the program's collection network. Even in rural counties, access was measured at 79 percent. This accessibility is even greater when including mattress retailers that are required by law to offer to take back old mattresses during new product delivery.

"We are raising awareness among Californians that mattresses are recyclable and that no-cost recycling options exist throughout the state,' said O'Donnell. "Recycling mattresses keeps them out of landfills and off of our streets, alleys and other public spaces that are often targets of illegal dumping."

MRC helps combat illegal dumping by participating in local and state task forces as well as through the Illegally Dumped Mattress Collection Initiative. This program collects data on illegally dumped mattresses and uses these statistics to target affected communities. Each year, $1 million is budgeted to fund clean-up activities.

"We are proud of the success of the California mattress recycling program," continued O'Donnell. "Through MRC, the mattress industry has demonstrated its commitment to environmental stewardship, fostering sustainability and a greener future."

The Mattress Recycling Council was formed by the mattress industry to operate recycling programs (known as Bye Bye Mattress) in states which have enacted mattress recycling laws - California, Connecticut and Rhode Island. Since its inception in 2016, the program has recycled more than 4 million mattresses in California through a network of partnerships with local governments, solid waste facilities, non-profit organizations and small and minority-owned businesses throughout the state. #### 'Nationalism' Shouldn't be a Dirty Word

If there's one thing that elite opinion tends to agree about on the left and the right, it's that nationalism is a very bad thing. If anything, this view has become even more entrenched as nationalism has demonstrated its potency in recent years, from the election of Donald Trump to Britain's vote to leave the European Union.

When President Trump first openly embraced the term "nationalist" at a 2018 campaign rally, commentators reacted in horror. Patriotism is about love, nationalism about hate, Nicholas Kristof opined. Trump, insisted Jennifer Rubin of The Washington Post, is "normalizing a hateful political philosophy that is contrary to our deepestheld beliefs.'

As I write in my new book, "The Case for Nationalism," this reflexive hostility to the concept is illinformed and an attempt to deem nationalism a swearword and end all discussion it clear that authority ultion that basis.

scholar Azar Gat writes, nationalism is "the doctrine and ideology that a people is bound together in solidarity, fate, and common political aspirations." Historian Anthony Smith described the national ideal as "a belief that all those who shared a common history and culture should be autonomous, united and distinct in their recognized homelands."

When Europe went off the rails in the early 20th century, nationalism as such didn't cause its crash so much as social Darwinism, militarism and the cult of charismatic leadership. The aftermath of World War I added its own poison.

Regardless, American nationalism - which encompasses such diverse, rightly beloved figures as Alexander Hamilton, Abraham Lincoln and Teddy Roosevelt – is not to be feared. As with so many other things about this coun-New York Times columnist try, it is more benign than the versions to be found in Europe and elsewhere.

> This is true for a number of reasons. First, we are the inheritors of an Anglo-American tradition that has profound respect for the individual and the rule of law and is a fundamental part of our national identity.

The sheet anchor of American sovereignty, the U.S. Constitution, makes mately resides with "we At its most basic, the the people of the United States." The Constitution also happens to be a durable mechanism of self-government and itself an object of patriotic loyalty and national pride.

Finally, the United States was never infected with the dream of universal empire that Europe inherited from Rome and that has lingered on in differing forms from Charlemagne to the European Union.

The rise of Donald Trump has pushed the left further away from respect for nationalistic attitudes and even patriotic symbols. Democrats - and the country - would be much better served if they countered Trump's nationalism with aversion of their own.

On his own side of the aisle, Trump has made Republicans more nationalistic. Still, much of the party is quietly uncomfortable with this. If Trump loses in 2020, the party's establishment may try to snap back to its pre-Trump disposition of relative indifference.

Yet, if there's one clear political lesson from the long history of nationalism in this country and elsewhere, it is that a party interested in moving people and selling a program should make some sort of an appeal to it -even if conventional wisdom

Emotions, Basics, and Change

Dear Dave,

I've gotten out of debt before following your plan, but I always seem to fall right back in. I find myself spending more than I mean to whenever I go out shopping or running errands. I'm tired of all this, and I want to stop busting my budget and get control of my money once and for all. Do you have any advice?

-Patrick

Dear Patrick,

Years ago, when I lost everything financially, there were two or three extremely strong emotions that spurred me toward change. Probably the biggest emotion was fear. I was scared to death I'd be back into the same old trap,

Dave Ramsey Says

broke for the rest of my life, and not be able to take care of my family. Don't misunderstand me, though. I don't think you should ever live your life in fear. But a reasonable, healthy level of fear where some things are concerned can be a fantastic motivator.

Another emotion was disgust. I realized the way I had been living and handling money was stupid. So, I made a proactive, conscious decision that I was going to change, and things were going to be different. The third emotion was contentment. You know, advertisers try to make us believe our lives will be better, and we'll be happier, if we just go out and buy their stuff. I can tell you from personal experience when this idea is crammed down your throat every day, it can warp your perception of contentment and happiness. Lots of stuff does not equal lots of happiness.

If you've tried several times, and are still falling maybe you should approach your situation in a practical, day-to-day way. Stop going places where you're tempted to spend money on silly things. When you go out running errands and shopping, make a list of only the bare necessities, and take along just enough cash to pay for them.

Spending money on a bunch of stuff you don't need, and probably don't even really want, isn't going to bring you contentment. It's just going to bust your budget, and put you in a financial hole that will, sooner or later, become very difficult-if not impossible-to dig your way out

On Impeachment Democrats are Sloppy with the Constitution

Harold Pease, Ph. D

The Constitution is presently used by both major political parties defending or opposing the House Intelligence Committee impeachment inquiry against President Donald J. Trump. Both argue their loyalty to it.

It reads: "The House of Representatives ... shall have the sole Power of Impeachment," (Art. I, Sec. 2, Cla. 5). The people place a president in power and their representatives - the House alone initiates and formulates the charges for his possible removal. The "Senate shall have the sole Power to try all Impeachments." So one indicts, the other tries. Simple enough.

But formulating the charges does require a favorable vote of the FULL tee. Therein lies the rub. The House Intelligence Committee charged with finding a crime hasn't yet found bribery, treason or any high crime, - the only impeachable offenses - but it "knows" one exists somewhere. During three years of a dozen or more attempts to impeach Trump charges crumbled from lack of documentation.

Probably the most profound statement made regarding impeachment was made by Democrat Jerrold Nadler, Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, presently engaged in impeaching Trump: "The effect of impeachment is to overturn the popular will of the voters. We must not overturn an election and remove a President from office except to defend our system of government or our constitutional liberties against a dire threat, and we must not do so without an overwhelming consensus of the American people. There must never be a narrowly voted impeachment or an impeachment supported by one of our major political parties and opposed by another. Such an impeachment will produce divisiveness and bitterness in our politics for years to come, House,-not just a commit- and will call into question the very legitimacy of our political institutions" (144 Cong. Rec. HI 1786 daily ed. Dec. 18, 1998). This Nadler argued during the impeachment proceedings of Bill Clinton.

Using Nadler's criteria Donald Trump does not pose a "dire threat" to our system of government or constitutional liberties, there is no "overwhelming consensus," and only the Democratic Party is working for his removal. Most Americans oppose impeachment.

The Constitution give the House sole power to create the charges against a president. Additional authority is housed under past practice which in time effectively adds to the Constitution unless found to conflict with an original part of the document.

Only Andrew Johnson, Richard Nixon, and Bill Clinton have been indicted. House past practice in each has been based upon fairness. In each a vote of the full House was required to initiate an impeachment inquiry, for Nixon the vote was 410-4 and for Clinton 258-176 (See H. Res. 803, 93rd Cong. 1974 and H. Res. 581, 105th Cong. 1998). The full House participated in defining the scope lished its rules and procedure. After the vote was taken to form an impeachment inquiry both the chair of the inquiring committee and the ranking member of the opposing party had co-equal subpoena powers to call witnesses subject to a vote of the full committee upon the request of either.

The indicted president's council participated. It exercised the right to attend all hearings and depositions, to present evidence, to object to the admittance of evidence, to cross-examine witnesses and to recommend a witness list.

Thus far Nancy Pelosi has opposed a full House vote to authorize an impeachment inquiry as was established in previous impeachments nor has the full House been given input in "defining the scope, rules and procedures" as before. The Committee Report accompanying H. Res. 581 developed in the Clinton impeachment stated: "The full House of representatives should be involved in critical decision making regarding various stages of impeachment."

One serious constitutional provision yet remains in our consideration of the attempt to impeach Trump due process. This is of impeachment and estab- housed in several places in of President Trump, espethe Constitution especially Amendments 5, 6, and 14. Democrat Jerrold Nadler referenced them when Bill Clinton was impeached, "the power of impeachment demands a rigorous level of due process ... the right to be informed of the law, of the charges against you, the right to confront the witnesses against you, to call your own witnesses and to have the assistance of counsel" (Hearing before the Subcom on the Constitution of the H. Comm. on the Judiciary 105th Cong. 17, 1998). These have not been extended to Trump.

As Trump's council recently wrote. "These due process rights are not a matter of discretion for the Committees to dispense with at will. To the contrary, they are constitutional requirements. The Supreme Court has recognized that due process protections apply to all congressional investigations...[even] impeachment proceedings" (Pat A. Cipollone, Counsel to the President White House, October 8, 2019).

Thus far none of the above established practices have been followed in the case of the proposed impeachment cially due process. No House vote and no formation of an impeachment inquiry committee after the vote. Pelosi simply asked the House Intelligence Committee, led by Adam Schiff, to assume the responsibilities and he is behaving as though his committee will do it alone including the trial constitutionally reserved to the U.S. Senate. Moreover, Schiff has been holding secret hearings of witnesses denying House Republican observers of other committees. He forcibly removed colleague Matt Gaetez.

Clearly, respecting impeachment, Democrats are sloppy with the Constitution.

Housing Legislation Delays Relief for Struggling Homeowners, Sets Up Vague Investment Scheme

By Jacqui Nguyen

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Senate Republican Leader Shannon Grove (R-Bakersfield) released the following statement after Governor Gavin Newsom signed Senate Bill 113. a housing trailer bill into law. The newly-signed legislation addresses the state's plan to spend $331 million in national mortgage settlement funds. Senate Democrats passed SB 113 on a partisan vote.

The $331 million was created as part of the National Settlement have been fighting to help struggling Defense Fund in 2012 following the mortgage crisis. The funds were intended to help distressed homeowners who were victims of predatory lending. But Governor Jerry Brown used the funds to backfill the state budget. The National Asian American Coalition (NAAC) sued the state of California in 2012 for the return of the funds and was finally victorious in July 2019.

Democratic governors, Brown and Newsom, appealed earlier court rulings against their actions until the California Supreme Court directed the state of California to assist homeowners as originally promised.

In September, Governor Newsom's administration testified that it plans to take a year or more to set up a nonprofit trust that would invest the funds in stillunknown ways, and that it would only spend investment profits, not the actual settlement funds.

"Since 2015, Senate Republicans homeowners who suffered during the mortgage meltdown. Families should have had their victory at long last, but instead the Newsom administration has concocted a scheme to study the issue for another year and then channel the funds through a vague and possibly risky investment trust. "This decision will create a needless delay of potentially two more years before homeowners might see a dollar in assistance from unknown investment profits. Also, if the investments lose money, there is no guarantee that the trust would have any profits to spend on homeowner assistance.

"Families in California already face affordability issues in our state, and now this overdue assistance is delayed once again. This legislation should have simply directed the state to immediately spend the $331 million for its intended purpose of assisting homeowners, not create more delays and disappointments," said Senate Republican Leader Shannon Grove.

Senate Republican Leader Shannon Grove represents California's 16th Senate District which encompasses large portions of Kern, Tulare and San Bernardino counties and including the cities of Bakersfield, Barstow, California City, Exeter, Frazier Mountain, Joshua Tree, Mojave, Needles, Ridgecrest, Rosamond, Taft, Tehachapi, Twentynine Palms, Tulare, Visalia, Yucca Valley and portions of the Kern River Valley. ## 2018 was Record-Breaking for County Agriculture

By Laurie Slothower, Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The gross value of all agricultural products in Sacramento has topped all previous records, Agriculture Commissioner Chris Flores told the county Board of Supervisors on Sep. 24. The value increased by $24 million in 2018, pushing the gross production number past the half-billion-dollar mark.

winemakers, small boutique wineries and large production wineries across California.

Every year, the value of specific commodities rises or falls based on weather, supply and demand, and market forces. In 2018, wheat, rice and almonds experienced slight increases. Poultry, pears and tomatoes experienced slight downturns.

Top 10 Commodities Produced in Sacramento County in 2018: (1) Wine Grapes, (2) Milk, (3) Poultry, (4) Pears, (5) Nursery stock (6) Aquaculture (fish, crustaplants), (7) Hay (alfalfa), (8) Cattle & Calves (9) Rice, (10) Field Corn

Both the previous and current

The gross value was $520,613, 000, which translates to "the greatest amount of ceans, mollusks and aquatic agricultural production in our county, ever," Flores said.

Wine grapes continue to be the county's leading commodity. More than 30 varietals of wine grapes are grown on more than 36,000 acres in Sacramento County. Harvested wine grapes are sold to home

County agriculture puts the "farm" in the farm-to-fork movement, with more than 500 farmers, growers and agricultural producers making their home in Sacramento County. ★

NOTICE OF PETITION TO

ADMINISTER ESTATE OF GREGORY

A STEPHENSON

CASE No. 34-2019-00255901

persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both of Gregory A Stephenson, deceased

A Petition for Probate has been filed by

Benjamin Kong, in the Superior Court of California, County of Sacramento, appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests the decedent's will and codicils, if any, be admitted to probate.

The will and any codicils are available for examination in the file kept by the court.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the

Independent Administration of Estates

Act. (This authority will allow the executor to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the executor will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why

NOTICE OF PETITION TO ADMINISTER ESTATE OF ROSE E. STUMPF

CASE No. 19-PRO-01330 To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, and contingent creditors of and persons who may be otherwise interested in the will or estate, or both of Rose E. Stumpf, deceased A Petition for Probate has been filed by Celia Solorio, in the Superior Court of California, County of San Mateo, requesting Celia Solorio, be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent. The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the executor to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the executor will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or have consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows November 19, 2019 9:00 a.m. in Dept 28 room 2F at Superior Court of California, County of San Mateo 400 County Center Redwood City, CA 94063. IF YOU OBJECT to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney. IF YOU ARE A CREDITOR or a contingent creditor of the deceased, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code. Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law. YOU MAY EXAMINE the file kept by the court. If you are interested in the estate, you may file with the court a Request for Special Notice (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A Request for Special Notice form is available from the court clerk. The name, address and telephone number of the Attorney for the Petitioner is: Alexander M. Biddle 1900 S. ## Thanksgiving Sunday

By Reverend Richard Reimer, American River Community Church

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - The month of November ushers in a host of special days - Black Friday, Small Business Saturday, Cyber Monday and Giving Tuesday. What I want to direct your attention to is Thanksgiving Sunday!

Thanksgiving Sunday is the Sunday prior to the national holiday of Thanksgiving. This Sunday ought to be right up there with Christmas Eve and Easter in your family's plans to attend your church or faith community. I will use Psalm 66 to give you a few reasons why that should be so.

The Psalmist closes his poem with these words of praise and thanksgiving. "Praise be to God, who has not rejected my prayer or withheld His love from me!'

How did this composer come to that frame of mind and heart? Let's find the reasons in the stanzas prior to this grateful conclusion.

In verse 9 he cites the first reason. "Praise our God, O peoples, let the sound of His praise be heard; He has preserved our lives and kept our feet from slipping.' The psalmist is challenging us to reflect upon the past both distant and recent to see if we can identify the rescuing intervention of supernatural power in our lives. How many miles did you drive in this past year without an accident? Or close calls, that put a lump in your throat, but nothing bad happened? Could those moments be evidence of supernatural intervention? If so, you have a reason to be thankful.

In verses 10-12 the poet writes about testing times; hard times; times of confinement or restriction like imprisonment; times of excessive burden or oppression. He looks back to a very tough season of life "we went through fire and water." Many Californians know literally what going through fire means with all the recent wildfires. Many Texans and Southern dwellers know what devastating flooding does to individuals and communities.

CELEBRATE

Reverend Richard Reimer, American River Community Church, Courtesy ARCC

These phrases could also be metaphors for any intense season of suffering.

But the good news comes in these praise worthy words: "But YOU brought us to a place of abundance." V12b. The season of suffering and destruction is over! Rescue and recovery and restoration has now taken place! Life has returned to a new normal with a new sense of well-being and purpose. What was lost is now replaced with even more than before. It's time to give thanks!

These are the two reasons the psalmist will "come to the temple" v 13. There with the community of faith this poet will "fulfill the vows my lips promised when I was in trouble." v14. Many people make promises to God when in the midst of suffering and trouble. Thanksgiving Sunday is a great day to make good on them!

The Psalmist shows up at the temple and gives public testimony of thanksgiving to His God with this universal invitation. V16 "Come and listen, all you who fear God; let me tell you what HE has done for me."

Rescue, recovery, restoration demands public testimony. What better time and place to shout out your praise and thanksgiving to your God than with your faith community on Thanksgiving Sunday, November 24th!
