CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Co-leader of nationally-known zydeco band Mumbo Gumbo, Tracy Walton trod familiar turf in Carmichael Park Saturday night. The singer grew up in Carmichael and graduated from Mira Loma High School. More than 40 years later, she and the seven-piece group delighted a 2500-strong crowd during the penultimate weekend of Carmichael Park's summer concert season.

I could sing with her. I've been singing and writing songs with Chris ever since." Mumbo Gumbo morphed from Spydell's seven musician friends. Their "genre-blending" stew of Creole and blues blazed trails. "We all came from different experiences," explains Walton. "That's how we created such a crazy mix-up of rhythms and long-serving drummer. The couple's 19-year-old year daughter Emma is a classical violinist and the Walton/Lotter family now inhabits East Sacramento's Curtis Park.

"I love to come back to Carmichael," says Walton. "It's like old-home week for our bass player Mickey Palmer and me. We knew each other at Mira Loma. It's wonderful that our old high school friends come out to see us." Carmichael Park's 43rd season Over 30 years, the Sacramento ends this weekend. The Dave Russell musicians have recorded nine albums Band will offer country music on Saturday (August 31); the Kiwanis Swing Band plays on Sunday (September 1). Downbeat for both shows is 6:30 pm. Admission is free. For more information, visit www.carmichaelpark. com

County Offers Alcohol, Drug Treatment Expansion

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Sacramento County Health Services received approval from the Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services on their submission for the Drug Medi-Cal Organized Delivery System Waiver. This accomplishment is a massive overhaul that will expand treatment of substance use disorders for Sacramento County residents. The waiver is effective June 28, 2019, through June 30, 2021.

The Drug Medi-Cal Organized Delivery System Waiver is part of a statewide initiative that offers counties the opportunity to expand access to highquality care and increase alcohol and drug treatment services. Before the waiver, Medi-Cal patients suffering from substance use/ abuse had a small selection of addiction treatment services and did not have an organized system to help them find quality care.

Under the approved waiver, Sacramento County Alcohol and Drug Services can provide a broader range of services, while also having additional resources to coordinate and manage those services, monitor the quality of care and provide more affordable rates. Services will be offered to Sacramento County Medi-Cal beneficiaries, both adults and youth. "The approval of this waiver is huge for Sacramento County, with the new services, we can treat more patients than ever before," said Sacramento County Alcohol and Drug Services Division Manager, Lori Miller. "Implementation will give the County greater administrative oversight to support patients. The County will also have the ability to improve care, be more efficient with our resources, implement evidence-based practices in substance abuse treatment, and coordinate with other systems of care to help residents get treatment." "Sacramento County is excited to expand local networks of high-quality providers, as well as improve substance use disorder services and coordination with other hospitals, health and behavioral health systems," said Behavioral Health Director, Ryan Quist. "The waiver will create alignment with new crosssystem initiatives with law enforcement, criminal justice and child welfare." To learn more about the Drug Medi-Cal Organized Delivery System, visit the California Department of Health Care Services website, email dmcodswaiver@dhcs.ca.gov or contact Sacramento County Alcohol and Drug Services at 916-875-2050.

By Sven Miller, California Highway Patrol

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Labor Day weekend is one of the busiest on the highways, which makes impaired driving even more dangerous. To help keep the roadways safe, the California Highway Patrol (CHP) is joining forces with five other Western states with the slogan "No safe place for impaired drivers" to crack down on drunk and drugged driving for the coming holiday weekend.

In partnership with the National Highway Transportation Safety Administration, the state patrols of Arizona, California, Idaho, Nevada, Oregon, and Washington will work as a Western States Traffic Safety Coalition to place special emphasis on the enforcement of drug-impaired driving. The states will jointly stress that driving under the influence (DUI) means drugs as well as alcohol in their educational efforts.

Whatever causes impairment makes you an unsafe driver," CHP Commissioner Warren Stanley said. "High visibility enforcement in these six states will help create a general deterrence and promote safer driving."

In California, roads will be patrolled by all available CHP officers for the Maximum Enforcement Period (MEP), from 6:01 p.m. Friday, August 30, to 11:59 p.m. Monday, September 2. During the 2018 Labor Day weekend MEP, 36 people were killed on California roads and 1,084 were arrested for DUI.

Since the legalization of recreational cannabis, the CHP has increased training efforts to detect impaired drivers. All CHP officers and sergeants have received additional impaired driving enforcement training. California also has the highest number of drug recognition expert (DRE) trained personnel in the nation. For the Labor Day MEP, DREs will be on duty throughout the state.

Many people think of Labor Day as the last weekend of summer and plan special trips. The CHP reminds all drivers: Do not drive if you are going to drink or use any other impairing substance. Always wear your seat belt. Avoid distractions behind the wheel. Be patient, especially when it comes to road congestion or construction.

The mission of the CHP is to provide the highest level of Safety, Service, and Security.

Zoe Dunning joined the board on August 2. A retired commander in the U.S. Naval Supply Corps, the 56-year-old was on active duty from 1985 until 1991. After leaving the military, she worked as a manager for the Deloitte Consulting and A.T. Kearney firms. She then worked in operations leadership positions at Webvan and Chestnut Company before serving as a change management consultant with various firms.

She currently serves on the U.S. World War I Centennial Commission, the San Francisco Library Commission, and is on the advisory board for the nonprofit Vets in Tech. Dunning holds a Master of Business Administration in strategy and operations from the Stanford

He was an architect at USA Architects and Engineers from 1974 to 2014.

Campbell, 80, helped found a home for girls in Connecticut. He also helped create the Ventura Music Festival, where he is a resident at the Veterans Home of California-Ventura. It is one of the eight veterans homes owned by CalVet. His list of professional honors includes a citation from the president of the American Institute of Architects for his work in response to the collapse of high-rise buildings in Bridgeport, Connecticut in 1987.

Robin Umberg brings the experience of her 36-year Army career to the board. She commanded the 6253rd and 4211th Army Hospitals and deployed twice overseas. CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) "Working as a nurse, I saw therapy dogs serving at Mercy San Juan Hospital and thought what a wonderful, touching gesture for our patients," said Carmichael resident, Janet Fulton. In 2015, Fulton, who worked for Dignity Health for over 40 years, retired as a nurse and later adopted Henry, an 8 week old golden retriever puppy, to train him for a life of volunteer work.

Being only 2 years old, Henry has just recently begun his hospital vocation as a Registered Therapy Dog. Fulton and Henry received their training together from Homeward Bound Golden Retriever Rescue & Sanctuary in Elverta, CA. Fulton is impressed with Henry's ability to bring soothing attention to the sick and suffering: "You can just feel the stress level go down as he tends to patients, comforting them with his compassionate eyes and responsive eyebrows."

Sporting a dog work jacket with a badge, "Henry just walks down the hospital corridor and leads me to another patient, and then I always get that feeling like this is why we are hospital bed," said Fulton.

Henry descends from a long line of therapy dogs from Sutter Bay Retrievers in Portland, Oregon. Fulton credits the dog breeder with much of the dog's success: "The breeder herself is a nurse and picks which ones she thinks are going to be good therapy dogs. He's even the right height for a

"He just slides his muzzle into patient's hands and they instantly feel the unconditional affection that only a dog can give."

Janet Fulton volunteers at Kaiser Permanente in the Roseville Medical Center, and if you want to see Henry at work with children you can also see him at North Sacramento Hagginwood Library. Or, visit Henry on Facebook at Henry's Great Adventures.

Enough With Violent White Supremacists

At some point in the late 1960s, you could be forgiven for thinking that the FBI was in charge of the KKK.

It conducted an operation that infiltrated, manipulated and ran the group into the ground. With violent white hate again on the rise, we should take some inspiration -- even if the methods can't be replicated -- from the FBI's past grappling with racist extremists.

If there were any doubt that the country has a white nationalist problem, the shocking attack on an El Paso, Texas, Walmart should remove it. These self-radicalizing freaks, a subset of the broader massshooting phenomenon, take inspiration from prior acts of vicious mayhem and cheer high body counts on internet message boards. They are domestic subversives and terrorists, and deserve to be treated as such.

There is no doubt that if we had suffered a string of massacres on our soil carried out by Islamic radicals, we'd do everything in our power to diminish and hopefully eradicate the danger -- indeed, we have. The national response to racist extremists should show the same alacrity and resolve, while acknowledging that they represent a different, more-difficult-to-counter threat than the old Klan.

In 1964, President Lyndon Johnson told FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover to go after the Klan as he had the Communists. Running until 1971 and involving 26 field offices, COINTELPRO-White Hate targeted groups and people deemed violent threats, not their ideology per se.

The effort was comprehensive and no-holds-barred. In his history of the FBI, Tim Weiner writes, "The FBI dangled small fortunes before potential KKK informers, offered outright bribes to Klansmen who could serve as double agents inside state and local police forces, planted bugs and wiretaps in Klaverns, carried out black-bag jobs to steal membership lists and (on at least one occasion) dynamite caches."

The FBI worked to preempt violent acts, and gained an enormous influence over Klan groups. The New Orleans office was so successful at degrading the Louisiana chapter of the UKA that the office's concern became propping the group up, lest its disintegration loosen the FBI's control.

Overall, Klan membership shrank from an estimated 14,000 members in 1964 to 4,300 in 1971. Per Shelton himself, "the FBI's counterintelligence program hit us in membership and weakened us for about 10 years."

Of course, the contemporary FBI obviously isn't going to take over the "alt-right," nor should we want it to. The abuses of the COINTELPRO programs -- the FBI also targeted civil-rights groups and the New Left, among others -became notorious when they were exposed in the 1970s.

There are also practical obstacles to the FBI duplicating its anti-Klan work. The Klan was an organization, whereas today's white supremacists are free-floating haters posting anonymously on the internet.

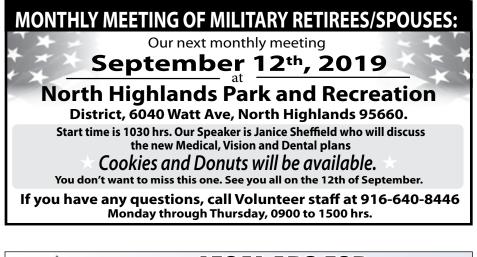

Yet the FBI needs to be intensely focused on this threat. The bureau should take an intelligence-based approach. It should monitor sewer message boards like 8chan, the forum for white-supremacist propaganda. Posters who cross from First Amendment-protected speech to incitement should be prosecuted. The FBI should interview anyone expressing sympathy with terrorism -just as it does with suspected Islamic extremists -- and surveil such persons as appropriate and permitted under the law.

El Paso was an outrage, and surely not the last. We need to react accordingly.

U.S. News Ranks UC Davis Medical Center #1 In Sacramento

By Charlie Casey, UC Davis Health

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - U.S. News & World Report has again ranked UC Davis Medical Center among the nation's top hospitals for 2019-20. The annual rankings recognize hospitals that excel in treating patients with the most serious and complex injuries and illnesses.

U.S. News ranked the medical center #1 in Sacramento and #6 in California. It is also ranked among the nation's top 50 hospitals in 10 adult medical specialties. UC Davis Medical Center has been nationally ranked for nearly a quarter of a century.

"This is great news for our patients and for the communities we serve," said David Lubarsky, CEO of UC Davis Health. "It reflects our many ongoing partnerships with the community to deliver highly specialized, expert, and compassionate patient care. We partner with patients in order to reach the best solutions for each of their individual health needs."

Among the medical center's 10 nationally ranked adult medical specialties (see below), its gynecology program – ranked 16th in the nation – is an example of the expertise and excellent patient care that helped UC Davis achieve top-tier recognition.

The Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology includes some of the most highly skilled physicians in the nation, with surgeons, oncologists and entire care teams focusing on the treatment of gynecologic cancers and other conditions of the reproductive tract. The department also has specialists in maternal-fetal medicine who are leaders in handling high-risk pregnancies.

"We are proud to be able to provide care for women at every stage of their lives and for every condition, whether it's contraceptive and fertility advice, care during and after pregnancy, menopause, or any obstetrics or gynecology-related conditions," said department chair Gary Leiserowitz, a specialist in cancer care and minimally invasive surgery. "We take a team approach, one that's anchored by the most current, evidence-based medicine and always centered on patients as individuals."

U.S. News bases its ranking on objective measures, including outcomes and volumes of high-risk patients, as well as key services and nurse staffing. For patients, that means access to highly skilled care, experienced clinical teams and state-of-the-art technologies such as robotic-assisted procedures.

Here are UC Davis Medical Center's 10 nationally ranked adult medical specialties: Cancer, Cardiology and heart surgery, Ear, nose & throat (Otolaryngology), Geriatrics, Gynecology, Nephrology, Neurology and neurosurgery, Orthopedics, Pulmonology and finally Urology.

U.S. News also named the medical center as a "high performing" hospital for diabetes and endocrinology, as well as gastroenterology and GI surgery. In addition, it earned "high performing" scores for a number of procedures and conditions, including colon cancer, heart bypass, knee replacement and lung cancer surgeries.

"Best Hospitals' is one of several metrics we use to evaluate the quality of our work and how it compares to others throughout the country," said Brad Simmons, interim CEO of UC Davis Medical Center. "It's a reflection of a dedicated team that works each and every day to advance health for all."

For its 2019-2020 rankings, U.S. News evaluated hospitals in 16 adult specialties and ranked the top 50 in most of the specialties. The hospital's rankings can be found on the U.S. News website.

The specialty rankings and data were produced for U.S. News by a leading research organization. Using the same data, the publication established its state and metro rankings, which is how UC Davis Medical Center again earned its "#1 hospital in Sacramento" designation.

The medical center isn't the only UC Davis entity to earn national recognition this year. In June, U.S. News ranked UC Davis Children's Hospital in five pediatric specialties for its 2019-20 Best Children's Hospitals rankings. ★

By Kristin Thébaud, Kristin Thébaud Communications

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The William G. Irwin Foundation recently awarded $50,000 to the Sacramento Life Center to help pay off the mortgage on the group's medical facility. The grant will allow Sacramento Life Center to free up funding for current programs, as well as future programs such as prenatal medical care and well-woman exams for low-income pregnant women and teen girls. Since moving to the expanded medical facility in 2016, the Sacramento Life Center has seen a 30 percent increase in women, teen girls and couples seeking services.

"We are incredibly grateful to the William G. Irwin Foundation for its generous investment in the health of low-income women and teens in our community," said Marie Leatherby, executive director, Sacramento Life Center. "This capital grant will help the Sacramento Life Center fund current and new programs for the next two decades, helping thousands of mothers and their children receive free medical care - especially those who have nowhere to turn "

The Sacramento Life Center serves some of the most vulnerable women and children in Sacramento County. The majority of patients face serious financial challenges, and increasing numbers are battling unemployment, domestic violence, homelessness, drug and alcohol problems, mental illness, sexually transmitted infections and more. Fifty percent of the group's patients have no medical coverage.
