Spring Cleaning? Schedule Your Bulky Waste Pick-Up

By Laurie Slothower, Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Old couches. Leftover lumber. One-legged chairs. Used laptops and TVs. Broken refrigerators. Beat-up mattresses. Does this sound like your backyard or garage? Did you know the Sacramento County Department of Waste Management and Recycling will come to your home and pick these items up from your curb at no charge?

One Bulky Waste Pick-Up per calendar year is included in your garbage rate. The no-charge pickup is good for an 8' x 4' x 4' pile, with a maximum material amount of 5 cubic yards – about the size of a pickup bed loaded to the top of the cab. Additional pickups are only $25!

Bulky Waste Pick-Up services are available by appointment only. To schedule your pick-up, call (916) 875-5555 or complete the Waste Management and Recycling form online. Acceptable items include: Appliances, E-Waste (TVs and computer monitors), Universal Waste (household batteries, fluorescent light bulbs less than 4 feet, and cell phones), Furniture/ Mattresses, Pipes, Lumber, Lawn/Tree/Shrub Trimmings. Please use your green waste container as much as possible for leaves, grass, weeds and prunings. The more you use your green waste cart, the more space in your Bulk Waste Pick-Up for items that cannot go into a cart. Place these items to the side of your pile: Tires (no rims; maximum of 5); Junk. Lumber, pipes and trimmings should be no more than four inches in diameter and five feet long. Unacceptable items include: Commercial Waste, Dirt, Rocks, and Bricks, Glass Panes, Concrete, Vehicle Batteries, Household Garbage, Hot Ashes, Heavy Materials (like auto bodies, engines, etc.), Hazardous Waste. This includes paint, oil and chemicals. This material may be dropped off at the Household Hazardous Waste Collection Facility located at the North Area Recovery Station. Call (916) 875-5555 for hours. Customers are asked to place the materials in front of their property and on the same side of the street 24 hours before scheduled pick-up.

D-Day Remembrance with Living Legends at Aerospace Museum

Story and photos by Trina L. Drotar

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Seventy five years ago, Dwight D. Eisenhower authorized Operation Overlord sending 176,000 troops from England to France. The date was June 5, 1944. On the morning of June 6th, troops, including 18,000 parachutists, had landed or were landing on the shoreline of Normandy. An additional 13,000 aircraft had been dispatched to provide air cover for the troops. June 6th, 1944 is D-Day.

Clarence "Bud" Anderson was one of the pilots who flew 100 miles inland that day. He shared that story with a group of 100 visitors at the Aerospace Museum of California's D-Day commemoration event on Saturday, June 1st. Anderson, a retired colonel with the USAF, was joined by retired Navy Commander Dean "Diz" Laird for a talk about their experiences during WWII.

'We are so fortunate to have them here today," said museum director Tom Jones.

The men, a few years south of 100, entertained the audience for two hours, graciously posed for photos, and signed books, pictures, and memorabilia. They met the many attendees who stood in long lines for the opportunity to ask a question or to thank the men for their service, a phrase heard repeatedly.

Prior to their talk, museum volunteer Jim Ronko, dressed as a D-day glider pilot, led a group of nearly 50 people through a living history talk and reenactment. "Path to D-Day" began inside and finished outside in front of the C-53, a plane that would have carried gliders to Normandy. Volunteers dressed as parachutists sat inside and greeted children and adults. The tour set the stage for the talk.

WWII aces, Colonel C.E. "Bud" Anderson, USAF (Ret.) and Commander Dean S. "Diz" Laird, USN (Ret.) looked like the neighbor next door or a great uncle, belying the strength that both men displayed during WWII and continue to display.

"To all of our veterans, past and present, especially Bud and Diz, thank you for your service," said Jones who provided an overview of D-Day before introducing the Placer

Anderson. Right: Aerospace Museum volunteer Jim Ronko reenacts the events leading up to the landing of troops at Normandy.

High School graduates.

Anderson, a triple ace, served in WWII and Vietnam, and received, among others, the Bronze Medal Star, World War II Victory Medal, Air Force Longevity Service Award, and Vietnam Campaign Medal. He is a National Aviation Museum, EAA Warbirds of America, and San Diego Air and Space Museum International Air and Space hall of fame inductee. He is also a Congressional Medal of Honor recipient.

Laird, born in Loomis, suffered from motion sickness but he had his sights set on flying. Among the 100 airplanes he has flown are the F4F Wildcat and F6F Hellcat. He scored victories in both the European and Pacific Theaters, set a record during the 1949 National Air Races where he flew an F2H Banshee. He is the recipient of Distinguished Flying Cross and Audie Murphy Award, among many others. He is also a ongressional Medal of Honor recipient.

"Gentlemen, I salute you," said Jones.

The audience applauded and many saluted the two men.

"We were the hottest damn fighter squadron in the world," Laird said, his voice quiet but strong. "We were told this, and we believed them."

He talked about the new requirement to be qualified for night landing saying that most pilots were not enthusiastic and that reports from the executive officer "did nothing to bolster our morale." Laird recalled a sky filled with 72 fighter pilots circling and trying to get into a traffic pattern. The men, https://aerospaceca.org.

constantly ridiculed, trained nightly. During the third week, Laird finally entered the traffic pattern, made several passes, and was determined to make the next pass his last. But he was going 10 - 15 knots too fast, caught only the top wire and was turned upside down.

"Damn Diz, we thought you were dead," said the flight officer.

Laird did not have to make another attempt until he was back in the United States.

"It was a rather rough six months, learning new things from people who didn't know how to do it in the first place."

He threatened to punch his ops officer if he did not get a good mission. The mission, it turns out, nearly killed him, but he is a survivor who jumped out of an airplane for his 90th birthday and flew his 100th aircraft three years ago.

After flying a six hour mission, he returned to the ship, was seen by a doctor, and moved to sick bay where the doctor removed his appendix.

"You are one of the luckiest guys I know," the doctor told him.

Anderson, it turns out, is also one lucky guy who credits the P-51 Mustang and Major General Jimmy Doolittle's new instructions that fighter pilots could pursue and destroy while climbing to 18,000 ft. altitude. Previous mandates limited the planes to 15,000 ft. and required them to remain very close to the bombers.

"What a lucky break that was for us," said Anderson. "That's when victories soared."

They were able to kill the experienced Luftwaffe pilots, leaving them with planes and inexperienced pilots. Anderson was the second flight to take off in the early morning hours of June 6th. Two squadrons of 32 aircraft were dispatched.

"Our destination was south of Normandy on the other side," he said. The third flight leader said, "You know, that Bud Anderson seems to get home all the time. I think I'm going to follow him." The mission lasted 6 hours, 55 minutes. A normal mission lasted 4 <sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> hours. For additional information on Aerospace Museum of California, visit:

Carmichael business people posed with awards at Best of Carmichael Celebrations.

While many new winners emerged, some old winners prevailed. For the third year, Bel Air #511 was elected best grocery store. Katie Pexa's Farmers agency was a best insurance provider.

Over three years, the competition has garnered increasing community excitement. Six hundred more voters participated than in 2018, and 163 guests enjoyed the soldout celebrations.

Raffles and auctions added to the banquet's competitive atmosphere. David Peterson's watercolor painting of the Milagro Centre brought a winning bid of $500. In a furiously contested dessert auction, several bespoke cakes brought bids of $200 each. Wine flowed. Victors and supporters third-time champion for rejoiced. In the Milagro Centre's Patriots ballroom, Carmichael's business people ate, drank and were exceedingly merry.

Prioritizing Murderers Over Victims?

By Curtis Grima, Office of Assemblyman James Gallagher

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) -Recently, Legislation to keep unremorseful convicted murderers behind bars was denied a public hearing by Sacramento Democrats. Traditionally, all bills are allowed at least one hearing during a policy committee. The Chairman of the Assembly Public Safety Committee was responsible for the unilateral decision to silence victims.

Assembly Bill 665 (Erik's Law), would reform provisions of current law to ensure that sociopathic, unrehabilitated juvenile murderers would not be provided an automatic parole hearing when they were sentenced to life without the possibility of parole.

Erik Ingebretsen was brutally murdered in 1997 by Nathan Ramazinni, someone Erik thought was his best friend. At sentencing, the judge described the killing as "so serious and the circumstances were as heinous as imaginable." Erik's killer will now be eligible for parole after serving just 25 years of his sentence because a new law passed in 2017.

Despite the author's attempt to offer amendments narrowing the scope measure.

of the bill, the Committee still denied a public hearing.

Erik's sister, Devin Lombardi, expressed frustration by the unilateral decision to deny a hearing. "I'm learning more and more every day just how corrupt the system is in Sacramento," said Lombardi. "We knew this was going to be an uphill battle, but they didn't even give us a chance to make our case. It's just wrong. The rights afforded to me through the California Victims Bill of Rights Act are being trumped by the rights and concerns for premeditated, 1st degree murderers. This is hurtful and beyond devastating for victims."

Senator Jim Nielsen said. "Some crimes are committed in a matter that is too heinous and inhumane for society to excuse. In the Northstate, the cruelty of Erik Ingebretsen's murderer cannot, and should never. be pardoned. This individual preyed on the trust of a friend and brutally took the life of a promising teenager from his family and loved ones."

Gallagher and Nielsen are encouraging the public to call the Committee Chair and demand a formal hearing on the

Connecting Kids to Dental Care

Andrea Sandoval, Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Did dental facts: you know that tooth decay is preventable and when kids have healthy teeth, they feel and do better in school? Sacramento County Public Health is working with community organizations to increase access to dental care and to educate parents about how to prevent dental disease so the whole family can live healthier lives without dental pain.

Sacramento County Public Health Officer, Olivia Kasirye, said, "Tooth decay in children results in dental pain, missed school days and hinders student success. Cavities do not heal on their own, and therefore, need intervention by a dentist. Together, we can work to prevent tooth decay, tooth loss, and help our children be successful in school."

First – let's increase dental access; If you have Medi-Cal, you have dental benefits. In Sacramento County, approximately 58% of children who have Medi-Cal do not regularly visit the dentist even though dental care is a covered benefit. Studies show that children are more likely to visit the dentist if their parents do, too. Be the oral health role model your children need.

If you don't have Medi-Cal, call Sacramento Covered at (916) 414-8333 to help determine if you qualify and/or to sign up for free or low-cost health coverage. If you don't qualify, Sacramento Covered will provide other options to help you get the dental care you need. The Sacramento County Department of Human Assistance also helps determine eligibility for Counts! pilot projects use

- call (916)874-3100.

Second – let's brush up on

Cavities are not something that everyone gets - you can prevent cavities and dental disease by brushing twice a day, making healthy food/ drink choices, and visiting a dentist regularly;

If you are pregnant or planning to get pregnant, see your dentist for a checkup;

From day one, protect baby's dental health by the following: Wipe baby's gums after feeding with a soft cloth or finger toothbrush; Only put water in a baby's bottle at bedtime (if a bottle is needed); Make baby's first dental appointment when their first tooth comes in or by their first birthday;

Baby teeth matter for the development of healthy permanent teeth, speech and proper eating;

2x2x2 - Brush with fluoridated toothpaste twice a day for two minutes and visit your dentist twice a year;

Dental sealants and fluoride varnish greatly reduce the risk for cavities;

Make healthy food choices and limit sugary snacks and drinks.

Third – let's learn about the Sacramento County Public Health's Oral Health Program. Sacramento County Public Health offers oral health education; dental provider resources; referral assistance for parents, school staff, and public health professionals; and works to improve access to dental care services.

Dental Transformation Initiative – To increase access to dental care for Medi-Cal eligible children aged 0-20 years old, the Every Smile

Medi-Cal, CalFresh and more innovative strategies to reach families including the Virtual Dental Home, Medical/ Dental Partnerships, and Community Outreach and Parent Education;

> Rethink Your Drink – A campaign to teach children and parents about the amount of sugar and calories found in commonly consumed beverages, and the impact it has on physical, as well as oral health:

> Tobacco Cessation -Developing and delivering evidence-based training and resource materials for oral health professionals to assist clients in making healthy choices;

Kindergarten Oral Health Assessment - To help connect children to needed dental services, the County works with community partners to increase the number of students that receive a dental assessment and the number of schools and school districts that report the data.

Call the Sacramento County Oral Health Program to learn more about oral health education and resources at (916) 875-5947, and be sure to check out the First 5 Sacramento Dental website for dental information specific to 0-5-year-olds.

The Sacramento County Dental Health Program receives funding from the California State Department of Public Health through Proposition 56, the California Healthcare, Research and Prevention Tobacco Tax Act. As part of this grant, the Oral Health Program undertook a countywide oral health needs assessment to develop projects to support the California Oral Health Plan and to meet the unique needs of county residents. *

Spring Cleaning? Schedule Your Bulky Waste Pick-Up

Sometimes, people without access to trucks or trailers will illegally dump unwanted items along roadsides or in rural areas of the county. This causes blight and costs taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars every year to address.

Ted Horton, superintendent of operations for the Department of Waste Management and Recycling, says that each year the county removes about 23 million pounds of household junk through the Bulky Waste Pick-Up program.

Couches, beds and wood are the most commonly disposed of items. "But we'll even take old hot tubs, as long as they are cut in half," said Horton.

Appointment availability varies. Depending on demand there may be a wait of up to 3-4 weeks.

If you'd like to get rid of household junk or have questions about the program, please email sacgreenteam@saccounty.net or call Customer Service at 916-875-5555, Monday - Friday, 8:00 am - 4:30 pm.

Why Is Sela Ward Leaving FBI?

Question: Why is Sela Ward leaving FBI after just one season? She was perfect for the role and has a strong following on TV. – J Long

Matt Roush: It was reported that Sela Ward had signed just a one-year deal with the series, so this wasn't entirely unexpected. Some actors – see Connie Britton, who similarly left 9-1-1 after just one season

- opt not to be tied down indefinitely to a show, and these are personal choices. I'm only speculating here, because I'm not aware of any exit interviews or the like, but knowing that Ward spent time in the trenches of CSI: NY, I imagine that while she was grateful for the FBI gig, being part of a procedural ensemble may not always be the most rewarding job for an actor. She did class up the joint, though, so I hope we'll see to: tvinsider.com

Matt Roush: By all accounts, that was Lucy Liu's call. And while it's maybe surprising, it's undeniably striking. (The change of hair color is referenced in the season opener, suggesting that it's a reaction to Watson wanting to mix things up now that she's adjusting to life in London.) It's not like this could do any damage to the show, which knew going in that this would be the final season. Enjoy while you can.

Offending Christians: The Bladensburg Cross Case

Commentary by Dr. Paul Kengor

One of the major Supreme Court are demanding the removal of a large cross that memorializes veterans in the town of Bladensburg, Maryland because the cross resides on public property.

It's crucial to realize that the cross wasn't erected yesterday. The "Peace Cross" was constructed in 1925 in honor of 49 fallen veterans of World War I. It was designed by the Gold Star mothers and erected by the local post of the American Legion.

The case is known as The American Legion v. The American Humanist Association. The "humanists" argue that the memorial is unconstitutional because it's fashioned in the shape of a cross on government property, and thus stands in violation of "separation of church and state"—a phrase, of course, not found anywhere in ity toward religion. They likewise the U.S. Constitution. That language was expressed by Thomas Jefferson in his 1802 letter to the Danbury Baptists, and has been badly abused and misinterpreted ever since.

The fact that the cross is a cross is what makes it unacceptable. (Replace it with a statue of humanists would withdraw their objections.) Secularists appeal to the First Amendment of the Constitution, which says, in part, that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion." Obviously, allowing the old not create a congressional "establishment of religion." Anyone who thinks allowing this cross decisions we'll soon hear about is to remain means that the feds are the Bladensburg cross case. This conspiring to implement a national is the case in which secularists theocracy needs to have his head examined. As they invoke that select handful of words from the First Amendment, the secularists misleadingly do what they always do, namely-avoid the remainder of what the First Amendment says about freedom of religion: the government "shall not prohibit the free exercise thereof." The American Legion and Gold Star mothers of Bladensburg exercised their freedom of religion in 1925 to honor their fallen brothers and sons. They naturally commemorated them with the cross that represents their faith

> The secularists, however, refuse to view it that way. And that's quite unfortunate. They would never view themselves and their actions as hostile, but, in reality, that's what they are. This is hostilwould never view themselves and their actions as intolerant, but, in reality, that's likewise what they are. This is yet another remarkable example of their intolerance. How can people who preach diversity be so blatantly intolerant of the beliefs of others?

For a sense of the lack of Barney the purple dinosaur and the respect, consider one of the worst affronts in the case:

> A federal appeals court in October 2017 had ruled the cross unconstitutional, asserting that it "excessively entangles" the government with religion. That verdict was rendered in a 2-1 decision by cross to continue to stand would the U.S. Court of Appeals for the similarly large memorials on gov- baker, florist, or marriage clerk. I 4th Circuit in Richmond, Virginia, which argued that the Peace Cross "aggrandizes the Latin cross" and thereby constitutes a U.S. government endorsement of Christianity. So said a 33-page opinion written by Judge Stephanie Thacker and joined by Judge James A. Wynn Jr.

Thacker's overall opinion demonstrated a troubling lack of historical-theological awareness. Worst of all was the insensitivity displayed during oral arguments. Thacker, an Obama appointee approved by the U.S. Senate in 2012 by a vote of 91-3, offered a truly novel solution. During oral arguments, Thacker asked the attorney defending the memorial: 'What about ... my suggestion of chopping the arms off?"

Yes, the judge offered a compromise: slice off the horizontal arms. You heard that right: slice off the arms from the cross of Christ.

Can you imagine? Can you picture it? Grab a photo of the memorial and do your own airbrush. How does it look?

For the record, the Peace Cross, mercifully, does not have a corpus. Thus, the demolition crew wouldn't be sawing off the arms of Jesus. Nonetheless, imagine the precedent proposed. Presumably, using the Thacker Solution, similar large memorial crosses on government property could all be targeted for arm-removal.

In fact, that prompts this thought: in the interest of fairness and equality, why stop with crosses? Shouldn't we thus also target the horizontal parts of the Star of David-another religious symbol—if we find them as ernment property? Should they be hunted down? Should they be permitted to remain only if we sawed off the horizontal parts? Of course, the star would no longer be a star, but apparently dismembering it would be a triumph in this greater good of not "entangling" government with religion.

Do we go down this road?

I pose a serious question to Judge Thacker and the secularists: Do you not see how your objections to the cross of Christ might be offensive? In the name of not offending, you're offending. In the name of inclusion, you're excluding. In the name of tolerance, you're engaging in intolerance.

It isn't like this cross was planted yesterday or is being scheduled for construction in 2020. It has been there for nearly a hundred years. It's as much historical as spiritual. Can't you leave it alone at least for that reason? This isn't a bronzed statue of a Confederate general who whipped slaves on a plantation. This is a testimony to the faith of the men who died for their country in World War I-for peace. Do you not see the aggression in your actions? Why go on the offensive with bulldozers? Leave it alone.

If this was a giant Star of David on public land, I'd be the first to stand with a group of rabbis demanding that secularists back off and respect a centuryold memorial. I will fight for the rights of every Christian and Jew and cross and Star of David. The same isn't true for secular liberals. They pick and choose. They're the first to harass, fine, sue, shut down, and toss in jail the Christian will defend the liberty of a Muslim baker in Dearborn as well as a Christian baker in Colorado. I will defend the right of an Orthodox Jewish caterer to decline a wedding on the Sabbath just as I'll defend the right of a Christian florist in Washington state to decline a same-sex wedding ceremony that violates the teachings of her faith and her freedom of conscience.

Far too many secular liberals, however, will not. To this day, Jack Phillips, the Christian baker in Colorado, is hounded with new legal challenges. Militant secularists will not back off from badgering him.

And yet, a colleague of mine who's an attorney on religious-liberty cases tells me he's unaware of a single case in which a same-sex couple has sued a Muslim baker for declining a same-sex wedding ceremony. Progressives will not pursue Muslims, even as Muslim bakers likewise openly refuse homosexual couples. They leave them alone. It's a double standard they impose against Christians.

If they insist there's no double standard, then let's see it. Prove otherwise by having the decency to leave the Bladensburg memorial cross alone.
