SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Sacramento was fortunate when Shriners Hospital for Children opened its doors here in 1997. It's something many of us take for granted, but not the children whose lives begin with tragic physical deformations or are severely Carmichael Chamber of Commerce for Children with the Nonprofit of the Year Award.

David Pirie of the Northern California Board of Governors for Shriners attended the ceremony and received the award on behalf of the Organization. He thanked business leaders, chamber members and others present for the recognition.

Subsequently, on April 23, the Carmichael Chamber also presented the philanthropic organization a donation for $2500 to the Director of Development for Shriners Hospital for Children, Alan Anderson. Because of the economic recession and rising health care costs, Shriners had been struggling with its traditional model of volunteer and member based funding.

But Anderson said, "We have not lost that single purpose of giving these kids something closer to a norburned. To honor this work the mal life, especially when we hear child can continue learning and parparents are implicitly told by other recently awarded Shriners Hospital institutions that their child won't addition to the arts and entertainment amount to much."

Shriners can do this because they have been leading this independent effort of healing children for well over a century. This enabled them to develop an endowment fund, a specialized infrastructure of hospitals, and research facilities across the

Anderson explained some of the history, "Shriners was an early investor in 20th century research and therefore the organization can devote more of that money and resources per child."

Other more profit oriented institutions do not devote funds with "this kind of astonishing efficiency rate."

Margaret Kugler M.D., Coordinator of Educational and Vocational Services, tells us what also makes Shriners Hospital for Children in Northern California so different, "the Hospital has an integrated school system so the ticipate in many of the activities, in that normal children enjoy."

Shriners Hospital for Children cares and trains kids with long term conditions, their organization having been designed to house those up to 18 years of age. "The spirit of this is just not possible if we were just a conventional hospital," Anderson added.

SSWD to Invest $18 Million in Water Infrastructure

By SSWD staff

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Sacramento Suburban Water District (SSWD) is slated to invest more than $18 million into improving its water infrastructure system this year. This comes on top of the $19 million spent in 2018. The investment is part of the District's ongoing commitment to replacing and upgrading its infrastructure so the District can continue to meet the needs of its customers.

One of SSWD's priorities is upgrading its extensive system of water mainlines. Water mainlines are the pipes that deliver water from pumping stations to the service line pipe that connects to a home or business. SSWD has close to 700 miles of water mainlines, the oldest of which have been in service for more than 60 years.

This year SSWD will construct 23,500 feet of new distribution mainlines as part of the Jonas Main Replacement Project, which is located north of Hurley Way.

They will also complete the final paving around the Edison Mainline Replacement Project, which is east of Watt Avenue and north of Whitney Avenue and begin planning the Thor Main Replacement Project, located east of Eastern Avenue and north of Arden Way.

Construction on this Project is set to begin in

In addition, SSWD will: Design and begin construction of two new pumping stations, one in the North Service Area (NSA) and the other in the South Service Area (SSA); Renovate two wells, one in the SSA and one in the NSA; Modify three wells, located in the western portion of the SSA to increase operational efficiency and reduce operating expenses; Remove three inactive wells located throughout the District to help protect groundwater quality.

Another major focus for the District is completing the installation of water meters on all connections in order to meet the state's deadline of transitioning all customers to a metered rate by 2025.

SSWD is on track to install 1,000 new meters in 2019, which will raise the number of metered accounts to 93 percent by the end of the year. The meter installation effort will be finished by the end of 2022 well in advance of the state deadline.

These investments will result in fewer interruptions of service, help to reduce long-term costs and enable SSWD to maintain stable rates into the future.

Mentors Make a Difference

Story and photos by Shaunna Boyd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - On April 19, more than 100 young men participated in the Tim Brown 9-1-1 Playmakers Camp, sponsored by retired Oakland Raider and NFL Hall of Fame player Tim Brown and the 9-1-1 for Kids Foundation. The California Highway Patrol (CHP) hosts the annual event at their training academy in West Sacramento, and CHP officers serve as some of the mentors to the youth as they interact through football training drills.

Tim Brown explained to the participating kids that football was just a disguise for what they were really teaching at this camp. Brown said, "I want you to walk away with some sense who care about you," said of hope. Whatever your situation is right now, it can change."

"What we're doing here today with Tim Brown is a Playmakers activity fun day for at-risk and special father was not involved in one cares about me'... But needs kids — just providing for them a great day that's all based around character and doing the right thing and serving others in the community," said Coach football."

Coach Shannon Sauers coached with Coach Roz right out of college and, years later, he is still incorporating what he learned from Coach Roz in his own coaching: "He was the first one who taught me that character was the most important aspect of coaching. He taught me that it's really about developing young men."

Lorenzo Walsh, one of Roz. "It's just a wonder- the Playmakers mentors, ful day of character and has 15 years of coaching experience, and he strives to get underprivileged kids fed, educated, and involved in youth football. Walsh said he knows all too well how difficult it is to grow up without the support and encouragement of a male role model, so he wants to "expose these kids to experiences and people they'd never have otherwise. I want to let them know that big dreams can be achievable."

Football players from Rio Americano and El Camino — high school teams whose bitter rivalry ended last season with a brawl - served together at the camp as coach's helpers, supporting the kids through the sports drills while teaching about character development.

When asked how his players were feeling about working with the rival team, El Camino Head Coach JP Dolliver said, "At the end of the day... they're just kids playing football.... They shook hands. And this year's going to be a different experience because of it."

"I think it's just a great experience for the kids to give back to the younger kids.... It shows the importance of the leadership aspect of being a student athlete," said Dolliver. "It's good to bring them out here, and I think it's going to make them better football players themselves."

The Kiwanis Corner

Simply the Best!

You can travel far and wide, but when it comes to sampling delicious food and palate satisfying wines, then look no further than the 17th Annual "Taste of Carmichael" presented by your local Carmichael Kiwanis Club. The La Sierra Community Center is the setting on Friday, May 17, 2019 from 5:30 pm to 8:30 pm. Advance tickets cost $45.00 and $50.00 at the door. Call Linda Martin at 916-531-3086 to purchase your tickets, or better yet, drop by one of our morning meetings and get a "taste" detail. This particular sampling of Carmichael, which has been voted as a "Best of Carmichael" community event for the last two years, showcases many restaurants, food stores, and regional wineries. If you are looking for some "two buck chuck," wine, then by all means knock yourself of who we are in greater age. If you want to try some very fine wines, come and sample what Terra d'Oro Winery and Merlo Family Vineyards have to offer, just to mention two of many.

We also have River City Brewing Company as part of our event. If you are sampling beverages, then you need to sample the selection of foods from Bel-Air Markets, Chili Smith, Mesa Mercado, Broderick Roadhouse, Ray Azteca, and a slew of other delicious selections! In total, there will be more than 40 vendors in attendance.

To further entice you to attend, Linda explains an exciting feature of this year's fundraiser:

"The wine cellar is an opportunity to purchase a bottle of wine for a donation price of $20.00. Each bottle is guaranteed to be valued at a minimum of $20.00, but many are worth much more; some of them were donated from private collections. Each person draws a number the fourth Wednesday when and is given a corresponding wrapped bottle of wine Mission Oaks Community with that assigned number. They can then open out enjoying that bever- the wrapping and see the special wine they have chosen!"

> Linda continued by saying, "the Taste of Carmichael is one of the largest fundraisers for the Kiwanis Club of Carmichael. All proceeds go to support programs, schools and agencies serving the families and children in our community. It is a celebration of a community coming together to demonstrate our heartfelt, joint efforts to make Carmichael a better place to live and work for all of our residents."

I agree with Linda; come out and help support your community. In addition to the food and beverages, there will be raffle prizes, a silent auction, and you cannot have a "taste" without the live music. See you there!

Sorry, Democrats, Your Stars Are Socialists

There was Bernie Sanders at a Fox News Channel town hall, not giving an inch in a forum every Democratic presidential candidate has shunned.

His reward was a cataract of good reviews, and monster ratings. Sanders had a solid hour to try to reach people not favorably inclined to his worldview, at the very least demonstrating that he's willing to show up outside his political silo.

Why hadn't any of the other Democrats done it before? Because they lacked the verve and ideological self-confidence of Sanders, as well as the independent streak to buck the Democratic Party's attempt to hold the line against Fox. As a message candidate, Sanders is willing to take his anywhere.

Speaker Nancy Pelosi, miraculously transformed into a relatively moderate Democratic elder stateswoman, has been pushing back against the notion that she leads a socialist party defined by a few radicals in the House.

On "60 Minutes," she stalwartly declared: "I do reject socialism as a economic system. If people have that view, that's their view. That is not the view of the Democratic Party." She dismissed the left wing in her caucus as "like, five people."

In sheer numbers this is true, but it's the wrong way to count

The fact is that the most compelling stars of the party are self-declared socialists with a knack for generating controversy and media attention, and with committed mass followings. Pelosi might wish it weren't true, but poll numbers, fundraising and follower counts don't lie.

Sanders is reliably second -- sometimes first -- in national and state presidential polling. He's outraised everyone else in the field and, with his massive small-donor base, probably can continue to do so for the duration. More than anyone else, he has defined the Democratic Party's current agenda.

It'll be much harder to maintain that the Democratic Party isn't socialist if it nominates one as its presidential candidate, which everyone paying attention realizes is a real possibility.

If this happens, it won't willing to go on Fox News. be the work of conservatives hoping to negatively brand the Democrats, but of the party's faithful. The same goes for the prominence of Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez. She has been on the cover of Time magazine, Rolling Stone (with Nancy Pelosi), Hollywood Reporter and Bloomberg Businessweek. Annie Leibovitz photographed her for Vogue. She's been interviewed by "60 Minutes."

She was among the top 10 House Democrats in fundraising the first quarter, and had the highest percentage of small donors (her ally, Ilhan Omar, also excelled).

It's obviously vexing to Pelosi to see a House majority built by the careful avoidance of ideological extravagance and won in marginal districts hijacked, at least in terms of public attention, by a few freshmen and a 77-year-old Vermont socialist.

Yes, there are vast numbers of Democrats out there who aren't on Twitter or Instagram. Maybe there are enough of them to nominate Joe Biden, or a Pete Buttigieg can win on a progressive platform clothed in a moderate demeanor.

But the party's stars will have something to say about it. The great Zionist Theodor Herzl maintained, "It is the simple and fantastic which leads men." As Bernie Sanders showed, it's also

Effective Life Change

Deal with Structural Issues

This true experience illustrates how the secure structure of our daily lives often seems interrupted by the unexpected.

"This example can be a bit of a metaphor for our lives," says practitioner of Christian Science and Love itself, the very healing and international Principle of everything speaker Janet Hegarty. "Permanent, substantive needs more than a new look, a different job, or even a pill. To find lasting peace and even physical healing, we have to go surface symptoms."

Hegarty continues, strong foundation, we can find a secure life foundation by discovering the unfailing source of our being. This source is the an unpredictable man in the sky who arbitrarily blesses some and condemns others, but Life real and good."

Hegarty will give a change in our lives often free, public talk exploring this fresh perspective of God titled, "How to make change for the better," on Thursday, May 9 @ 7 PM; 4949 Kenneth Ave, deeper than just managing Carmichael. Her ideas come from the Bible and are practiced in a prayer-"Like a building needs a based method of healing called Christian Science. Christian Science is fully explained in the book, which Hegarty will reference, Science and Health one, all-good God-not with Key to the Scriptures, written by the movement's founder, Mary Baker Eddy.

Hegarty will also share her own experiences that illustrate effective change, like being cured of an allergy and recovering from a sudden career derailment.

Before becoming a Christian Science practitioner, Janet Hegarty had a career producing original music for theatre and film. Though finding success, she felt an underlying sense of fear for her health and uncertainty about the future. The new concepts about God found in Christian Science moved her to a feeling of fulfillment and security. More than a superficial change in attitude, Hegarty felt the life-changing power of God's goodness.

Today she helps others find this kind of healing too, and travels from her home base of St. Louis, MO, to talk with audiences as a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

CHEERS JEERS

By Damian Holbrook

Cheers to Hoda Kotb

for delivering some really great news. Today viewers got a much-needed break from all the politics and international tragedies when the NBC morning- show host called in on April 16 to reveal that she'd adopted her second daughter, named Hope. Mother and baby are doing great; fans are still totally verklempt.

Jeers to NCIS: LA

for taking so long to enlist JAG! You'd think the NCIS franchise, which was spun off from CBS's late military-law drama back in 2003, would have gotten stars David James Elliott and Catherine Bell back in court sooner than this season's finale.

Jeers to Schitt's Creek Denierss

Honestly, after the Roses' uplifting, uproarious season finale – complete with an engagement, community- theater Cabaret and a gorgeous showcase for Emily Hampshire's Stevie - anyone who willingly ignores Pop's perfect comedy doesn't deserve its joy.

Cheers to General Hospital

for a recast that has our temps rising. After losing Michelle Stafford in a soapy, backstage contract battle, ABC's daytime staple enlisted delicious Guiding Light alum ABC's daytime staple enlisted delicious Guiding Light alum Cynthia Watros (pictured) to step into Stafford's stilettos as shady Nina Reeves.

Who's Behind The God Friended Me Account?

Question: In the Season 1 finale of God Friended Me, the question of who created the God account was left unanswered. I've convinced more disappointment if myself that the Machine from you're watching God Person of Interest is behind it all and got tired of communicating to people from rapidly disappearing pay phones in NYC. Any thoughts on the just drop their obsession subject? – Brian how your mind works and seeing Amy Acker on Grey's Anatomy last week brought back such fond memories of Person of Interest. But I do think you're headed for only Friended Me for the answer to the origins of the God account. (And I kind of wish the characters would as well.) In the overall quests are all about pursuing the big questions which tend to lead to more questions. Easy answers aren't the point, and in this case, the account is just one big metaphor anyway, so with this series more than most, I would stress that the journey truly is the destination.

Question: Has Alone on History been renewed? I love Survivor; but Alone is better. – Kitzer

Matt Roush: History did renew Alone for a sixth season, with a new location at the edge of the Arctic Circle. A premiere date hasn't been confirmed, but expect it to return in early summer.

Rotary Funds Training to Prevent Human Trafficking

Story by Shaunna Boyd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Human trafficking is a $150 billion industry and is the fast-growing criminal activity in the world. California has the highest volume of sex trafficking, and the Sacramento region is a hotbed for trafficking in the United States. The local Rotary District

5180 has undertaken a large-scale campaign to combat the issue of human trafficking in the Sacramento Region. Rotary members Brian Gladden and Bob Deering (former District Governor) initiated the project more than three years ago. Through their research, they discovered that education is the key to preventing human trafficking. District 5180 raised more than $383,000 in grant risks of human trafficking. District 5180 partnered with local non-profit 3Strands Global in a public awareness campaign that reached approximately 78 million people.

funding to educate youth and the general public about the Deering spoke at a recent Fair Oaks Rotary meeting to explain just how insidious trafficking is in our area and to update local Rotary members about the project's progress.

Deering said that traffickers initially contact most victims online and that approximately 65% of the victims come from broken homes. When a stranger AB 1227, Deering thought online begins showing them love and attention, the children are extremely vulnerable to becoming a trafficking victim.

Deering explained that one of the reasons Sacramento has such high trafficking rates is due to the prevalence of gang activity. He said that trafficking is "quickly becoming the number one revenue producer for gangs."

While drugs can only be sold once and there are numerous risks in obtaining more to sell, the traffickers view young people as merchandise that can be sold repeatedly.

Because Interstate 5 and Highway 80 both run right through the Sacramento region, traffickers can easily transport victims throughout the state. Deering said that the practice of frequently moving the victims to new locations leaves them in a constant state of confusion because they don't know where they are or how to find help.

Deering said that the project's most important component was getting the 3Strands Global educational trainings into local schools. Deering described AB 1227, the Human Trafficking Prevention Education and Training Act, which was sponsored by 3Strands Global Foundation and signed into law in 2017.

The law requires California public schools to train county leadership, administrators, and educators in how to identify children who have been, or who are at risk of being, exploited — as well as how to proceed when potential victims are identified. The schools must also provide human trafficking prevention education at least once in middle school and once in high school as part of sexual health education.

Due to the passage of it would be easy to get the 3Strands curriculum into local schools, especially since District 5180 would be paying for it with grant funds. But Deering soon found that navigating the politics of the local school boards was no easy feat.

At many of the schools, Deering said it took months for the local curriculum committees to review and approve the 3Strands training curriculum. He explained that some individuals at the schools didn't appreciate outsiders coming in and suggesting curriculum improvements and that those individuals believed the schools already knew how to handle the problem.

Deering said they also dealt with one angry parent who mistakenly got the impression that the training targeted students of color. Her frequent complaints that the training was racist made that particular school board initially hesitant to accept the trainings.

But Deering knew just how crucial it was to bring these trainings to the students, especially because the average age of trafficking victims is 12 – 14 years old. So they kept pushing, and now they have educated over 25,000 students and more than 650 teachers.

The trainings are already having a significant impact. Deering said that at each training, at least a few students approach the trainers afterward to say they now recognize they were being groomed for trafficking or that they are already being trafficked and want help get-

Students surveyed after the trainings say that they can define human trafficking, they understand how traffickers recruit victims, they know how to contact the human trafficking hotline, and they know how to protect themselves and others from trafficking.

Deering expressed his thanks to all the clubs in the District for supporting this project. He estimates that the remaining grant money will be spent by the end of the year, so he asked that local clubs consider using some of their funds to sponsor trainings in their neighborhood schools.

"We want to find ways to keep this going even after the initial funding runs out."

STD Awareness: Prevent, Test, Treat

By Andrea Sandoval, Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Three common STDs - chlamydia, gonorrhea and syphilis – are surging across the United States, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and especially hard-hit are those between 15-24 years old, which are estimated to account for half of all new sexually transmitted infections each year.

Sacramento County is no exception. In 2017, there were 5,581 reported cases of chlamydia, 1,174 gonorrhea cases, and 97 syphilis cases reported among this same age group.

"Looking at the issues that can threaten the health and well-being of our children, families and communities, the Sacramento County Public Health Division works to raise awareness of critical health issues and provides the information and tools to help prevent chronic diseases and infectious disease outbreaks," said Sacramento County Public Health Officer Dr. Olivia Kasirye.

The consequences of STDs are especially severe for young people. Chlamydia and gonorrhea often have no symptoms; therefore, many infections go undiagnosed and can lead to lifelong repercussions for a woman's reproductive health, including pelvic inflammatory disease and infertility.

Early detection through testing is key to avoiding these consequences, yet research has shown many young people don't talk with their health providers about sexual health issues at all during annual health visits.

All but eradicated 20 years ago, syphilis is making a comeback. In 2017, California was reported to have the second highest syphilis rates in the U.S. by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention; And Sacramento County last year saw three times the number of cases than in 2015.

Although syphilis is treatable with antibiotics, for those who aren't treated, the infection can be dormant for years and lead to neurological or cardiovascular complications. Mothers with untreated syphilis can transmit the disease to their unborn babies with dire consequences - including blindness, developmental delays, physical deformities, and death.

Another trend the Department of Health Services has become aware of is the overlap of syphilis and meth use. The divisions of Public Health and Behavioral Health's Alcohol and Drug Services are working together and this issue will be a topic for the upcoming May 9 Sacramento County Methamphetamine Coalition Meeting.

Sacramento County Director of the Department of Health Services Dr. Peter Beilenson said, "Meth use can increase risky behavior, which increases the odds of contracting sexually transmitted infections. To preserve health and prevent the spread of disease to others, it is important to know your risks, learn how to prevent STDs, get tested for STDs and get treated."

The total reported in Sacramento County for all ages in 2017: 9,803 Chlamydia cases; 3,344 Gonorrhea cases; 454 Syphilis cases (primary/secondary/early latent)

STDs: Prevent, Test, Treat

To prevent the spread of STDs, the Sacramento County Division of Public Health's HIV/STD Prevention Program provides residents with a variety of STD/HIV prevention and education services including: STD/HIV education and prevention information and condom distribution; Chlamydia and gonorrhea screening; HIV antibody testing and risk reduction counseling; Linkage to HIV and STD treatment; Community involvement through the Sacramento Workgroup to Improve Sexual Health and the HIV Health Services Planning Council; Other STD/HIV outreach activities and social marketing campaigns.

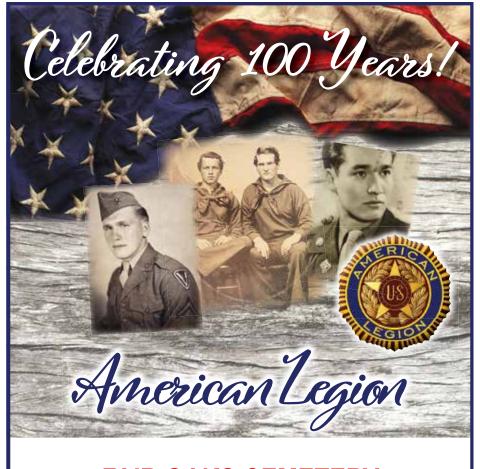

In addition, the Sacramento County program funds and promotes other local community organizations and HIV/STD testing sites, provides free home chlamydia/gonorrhea tests for women and promotes local pharmacies that provide non-prescription sale of syringes to reduce the spread of blood-borne diseases.

Getting tested for STDs is one of the most important things a person can do to protect their health, but it's not the only thing. There are several ways to prevent STDs.

The most reliable way is to not have sex, but there are many options if you are sexually active: talk openly with partners and healthcare providers about your sexual health; get testing for STDs including HIV; use latex or polyurethane condoms correctly and each time you have sex; and know the sexual histories of your sexual partners.

If you test positive for an STD get treated right away - and be sure your partner is also treated to lower the risk of getting infected again. And finally, if you are a parent, talk to your kids about STDs and their sexual health.
