SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) -Hurricane Michael recently displaced more than just families. It also displaced many pets in need of immediate care. On Friday, October 19, the Sacramento SPCA received fifteen dogs transferred from shelters in Florida impacted by Hurricane Employees from the Sacramento SPCA drove their new animal transfer vehicle, which was purchased through a grant from PetSmart Charities, to Kettleman City on Friday morning to meet staff from San Diego Humane Society. In collaboration with the Humane Society of the United States, the San Diego Humane Society arranged for a transfer of 93 dogs from three shelters located in Florida to create space for animals displaced by Hurricane Michael.

"After the dog's arrival, our priority was getting them comfortable and settled into their new housing," said Sacramento SPCA Animal Services Practice Manager, Karalyn Aronow. "Medical assessments and close observation of the animals will continue over the next week to determine when they will be available for adoption".

The dogs are medium to large-sized mixed breeds, primarily consisting of lab, pit bull, and hound mixes under five years of age. Ten of the fifteen dogs are Heartworm positive and will undergo Heartworm treatment.

The incoming pets are not direct victims of Hurricane Michael. They are adoptable dogs who have been in animal shelters in the Florida Panhandle area. They were transported out of the area to create room for pets who have been lost, strayed or abandoned due to the hurricane.

"The category 4 storm that recently devastated the Florida Panhandle and the record-setting wildfire sea son in California are harsh reminders of how important disaster preparedness is for us and our pets," said Sacramento SPCA CEO, Kenn Altine. "I witnessed, first-hand, the devastation and displacement of families and pets impacted by natural disasters while helping with Hurricane Katrina relief efforts in 2005, and even closer to home this August, while assisting Haven Humane Society with relief efforts during the Carr Fire".

These reminders come just as the California Department of Water Resources encourages communities Continued on page 3

Flood Preparedness is Your Duty

Special Sacramento County Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - This has been designated as Flood Preparedness Week in California. This is the time when you should look at reducing the risk from flooding in your area. It is important for you to know the flood risk to your home or business. After five years of drought, the floods of 2017 reminded us that threat can become real in the right conditions. The Department of Water Resources has information to help you understand the threat flooding may pose to your property. If you live in a flood zone, you can reduce the potential for damage by being proactive. Clear storm drains of leaves and debris to ensure the water freely flows away from your home. Clogs can cause localized flooding to streets that could eventually back up to your doorway. If you come across street flooding, call 3-1-1 to have County crews come out and clear the clogs. Also, don't drive through flooded streets. If you see items dumped into nearby creaks, call 3-1-1 and report it. It's important to clear those areas before the rain to avoid problems. In Sacramento County, nearly 20 percent of flood insurance claims come from moderate to low-risk areas. You can still obtain flood insurance if your home or business is not in the mapped floodplain. If unchecked, localized flooding can cause a lot of damage. If you live in an area prone to flooding, consider talking to a qualified insurance agent about flood Sacramento County takes part in a special Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) program that helps reduce the cost of flood insurance. Through FEMA, if you live a designated Special Flood Hazard Area you will be saving about $446.00 per year on the full cost of a standard flood insurance policy.

DMV Must Get Out of the Business of Registering Voters

From the Office of Senator Nielsen

Given the fiasco of botched voter registrations at the California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV), Senator Jim Nielsen (R-Tehama) will introduce legislation to get the DMV out of the voter registration business so it can focus on issuing licenses and car registrations.

"Voter registration is the cornerstone of our democracy," said Senator Nielsen (R-Tehama). "It must be done correctly by people who understand its importance to our republic."

In recent months, the DMV has mishandled thousands of California voter registrations. The following are some news reports detailing its mistakes: 100,000 registration errors, as reported by CalMatters; 23,000 erroneous voter registrations transmitted, as reported in the Sacramento Bee; Another 1,500 people wrongly registered to vote by the DMV, as reported by the Los Angeles Times; The State's top elections official unable to confirm whether or not non-citizens voted in the June primary, according to the Associated Press.

"These are not small mistakes that can be ignored; legislators must fix this egregious error," Senator Nielsen continued. "Registering voters and handling sworn affidavits are not the proper functions of the DMV.'

DMV officials are struggling to perform their key responsibilities. Californians are waiting in hours-long lines to register vehicles or renew licenses. Some have spent an entire day waiting in line, often having to take vacation time or unpaid days off from their jobs simply to comply with California's laws.

Senator Nielsen added, "Reaching out to potential voters and registering them to vote is the job of California's Secretary of State and local elections officials. Therefore, this responsibility must be returned to election experts."

Senator Jim Nielsen (R-Tehama) represents the Fourth Senate District. ★

SOFIA Pilots Present to Standing Room Only Crowd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) -A standing-room only crowd of adults, college students, teens, and children gathered Saturday, September 29, at the Aerospace Museum of California, a Smithsonian affiliate, to hear Liz Ruth and Ace Beall talk about what they say is the coolest job in the air – piloting SOFIA, the largest flying observatory in the world. SOFIA (Stratospheric Observatory for Infrared Astronomy) is a modified Boeing 747SP that once belonged to Pan Am World Airlines, was sold to United Airlines in 1986, then sold to NASA in 1997. The plane is stationed at NASA Armstrong Flight Research Center in Palmdale, California, not far from where Ruth grew

She is currently the only female pilot to fly the SOFIA as an active observatory. After a career that included serving in the Air Force piloting the T-38 jet trainer and T-43 flying classroom; as flight officer for United on B737-300, B757, B767, and B777 aircraft; raising a family; and serving as a legislative assistant, she returned to the pilot's seat in 2016 when she joined NASA. She earned her Master of Aeronautical Science degree from Embrev-Riddle Aeronautical University's McClellan campus and was stationed at Mather Air Force Base.

SOFIA flies just over 500 mph with a range of nearly 7500 miles. Flight and mission crews are joined by scientists, observers, or educators. Although up to 30 people can be accommodated. that is rare they said. SOFIA's lineage dates to 1968 when a Learjet was fit with a one foot diameter telescope, replaced in 1975 by a modified Lockheed C-141A Starlifter with a 2 ½ foot diameter telescope. SOFIA was put into operation in 2010, boasts an 8 ½ foot diameter telescope, and flew its first mission in 2011.

Beall, who didn't let a technology glitch that interrupted the slide show keep him from discussing SOFIA's telescope specifications, flew as a space shuttle carrier pilot during much of his thirty five year NASA career. His first ferry flight was in 1984, and the former Air Force T-38 instructor found himself, through a bit of luck of being in the right place at the time, working for NASA and as a pilot flying the T-38 again. Although he retired from NASA in 2005, he kept flying and flew SOFIA until last year when age restrictions took him out of the pilot's seat.

Although Beall never flew with Ruth, they both discussed various missions which change nightly. A typical mission, Ruth said, might take her up to Canada and back, then to Mexico and back, then to the East Coast and back. SOFIA crisscrosses the air for the duration of the ten or so hours that crew and scientists are in the air.

"The flight patterns drove air traffic controllers crazy," she said, showing a map of North America with what might have passed for a toddler's scribbles or a Jackson Pollock painting.

Missions, which begin at sunset and end before sunrise, are driven by the scientists on board. Two or three scientists with specific and different projects each need to be at specific locations at specific times. It is the pilot's job to make sure that the flight takes off at exactly the right time and arrives at each location at exactly the right time. That isn't as easy as it might seem. The 2015 Pluto Occultation was an example, as Beall explained, adding that it was sort of like an eclipse

"The trick was to be in the right place at the right time," he said. "SOFIA was the only one to get to the center of the occultation."

The plane typically flies above the Earth's water vapor line because the telescope needs to be in dry conditions and permits scientists to study the hidden aspects of space, to learn about the birth and death of stars, and to figure out how it all works, they said. SOFIA uses over 200,000 gallons of fuel per flight and weighs more than one half ton at takeoff. Ruth and Beall responded to many audience questions who wanted to know how SOFIA could be improved, what the pilots eat during the mission, why they wear those uniforms, whether safety belts were used, and how to get on one of the flights as a teacher. "You have to apply," Ruth said.

"You can learn if you put in the effort," said Ruth, adding that NASA is a team effort with jobs in many fields - accountants, public affairs, photographers, mechanics, and is not just for astronauts or pilots.

Beall suggested finding something you love to do, do a good job, don't make enemies, and admit when you've messed up.

The lecture, on the heels of the museum's first teacher night, is one of eight events at the Aerospace Museum between now and Christmas, said Tom Jones, the museum's director, which include a three day tribute to veterans, a visit by Mad Science, movies, and its newest exhibit, "Our Solar System: An Interactive Journey Exhibit."

to participate in Flood Preparedness Week. Local preparedness events and exercises are being held throughout the state to educate communities on what to do during extreme weather events.

A Flood Preparedness Funfair will be held in Sacramento at the Miller Regional Park on Saturday, October 27 from 10:00 am - 2:00 pm. In partnership with the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), California Department of Water Resources (DWR), and Sacramento Municipal Utility District (SMUD), event attendees will learn how keep their family and pets safe during an emergency, fill sandbags, find evacuation routes, sign up for emergency alerts, and watch rescuers in action as they perform water rescues.

Founded in 1894, the Sacramento SPCA has been providing homeless animals with individual comfort, shelter, and love for more than 124 years. They provide compassionate medical care to tens of thousands of animals annually and offer a variety of programs and services designed to keep people and pets together for life.

How the Individualized Education Program (IEP) Affects Our Kids

Commentary by Andrea Hatch

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Individualized Education Program was established for kids who have behavioral and learning abilities that are different than the "average" child. Some kids receive an IEP and remain in a general education classroom with special focus on what they need most to succeed. Other children are placed in completely separate classrooms staffed with several teachers and varying levels of behavioral and learning difficulties. My son, Andre, was put into an IEP class by second grade. He was kicked out of several schools, saw several therapists, and a call or email was received almost daily regarding a behavioral outburst. The request was made several times for a shadow but I was advised that, unless he had a specific diagnosis, it would not be possible. The only problem was he had not, and has not been, diagnosed with anything specific. Behaviors at home are the polar opposite of how his behavior is at school. One of our greatest fears, when moving Andre to the IEP program, was that his academics would slip and his behavior would worsen. We were assured that would not happen; however, we are now in the fifth grade and our fears have come true. It is called an Individualized Education Program; however, each time we made suggestions that would help we were told they don't have the ability to give individual attention to each student.

We have pushed for Andre to be reintegrated to the general education and have been told that cannot happen until his behavior improves. How do we know his behavior in a new setting unless we try? When surrounded by kids, with even greater behavioral issues, how can we expect behavior to actually improve? Many IEP kids are in sports, activities, and have hobbies where they interact in a positive manor with others. When doing these other activities, outside of their special education program, they are able to interact like a "normal" kid because they are in an environment with other "normal" kids. If we, even as adults, are placed in an environment where aggression is present then we will likely become aggressive, seeing as how it's in our nature to protect ourselves.

There are benefits of this program and there are drawbacks. Being in IEP protects the children from expulsion, or arrest, depending on behavior and it allows the children to remain on a school campus, even though they struggle. The downfall is that there is such a severe gap in the behaviors and thoughts of these children that there is no way it is an Individualized plan. If you have a child who is academically challenged mixed with a child who is behaviorally challenged where do you focus? Both children are now being academically neglected. The child who is academically strong is being neglected due to behavioral challenges and the child who struggles academically will continue to do so since the focus is only on a behavior, or behaviors, of other classmates. It's a vicious circle that needs rectification.

The IEP children are removed from what is viewed as the "normal" classroom, yet are expected not to see themselves differently and the "normal" students are not supposed to view the IEP students differently. The IEP children get teased and picked on, yet are expected to see themselves as being like the other children. Other parent's look at our children with disgust for their struggles with what seems like simple tasks to other. I personally heard one mother, not realizing I was my son's mother, talking so badly about my child and telling her child to stay away from my son. What is being missed is that my son is a 10 year old boy. Just like several others, my son is loving, generous, funny, caring, and kind hearted. He just doesn't know how to handle things when he gets upset. How will he ever learn unless the time is taken to teach him to do better? His academics should not suffer based on his struggle with behavior. We need to remember that these are children too and that all children are different. As adults we need to remind the "normal" children that we are not all the same. We need the Individualized Education Program to be better tailored for each student. We need to remember that it takes a village and if the village gives up, so do our youth. We cannot expect our children to know what they haven't been taught. Next time you see an IEP kid on the campus of your child's school smile, ask them how they are doing, and show your kids the importance of being kind so that it lives within them when they are not with you.

Hawaiian Chieftain Returns to Sacramento

The historic vessel to offer tours and sails at Old Sacramento, Nov 1 - Nov 24 Hawaiian Chieftain, photo by Rick Horn

By Zachary Stocks

SACRAMENTO REGION. CA (MPG) - History will come alive in Sacramento this October as

The tall ship Hawaiian Chieftain makes her return trip to town. The tall ship, part of the Aberdeen-based nonprofit Grays Harbor Historical Seaport, sails the waters of the Pacific each year along with its companion vessel Lady Washington, offering educational programs, free deck tours, and sailing trips.

From November 1st through the 24th, Hawaiian Chieftain will be docked at Old Sacramento, (1210 Front St.). On weekdays schools can reserve a trip aboard the tall ship for the Historical Seaport's one-of-a-kind maritime heritage field trip Voyage of Explorers. On weekday evenings and weekends the tall ship is open to the general public for stationary dockside Vessel Tours for a $5 suggested donation.

Hawaiian Chieftain can also be Chartered for private events including weddings and workplace team builders.

The steel hulled Hawaiian Chieftain was launched in 1988 in Lahaina, Hawaii. Together with Lady Washington, the tall ships are among the most active educational boats in America, visiting approximately 40 ports each year. The tall ships offer a glimpse into our historic past, introducing people of all ages to the sights and sounds of 18th and 19th century maritime Grays Harbor Historical Seaport is an educational non-profit based in Aberdeen, Washington. In addition to school programs and public sailing, the tall ships are also active sail training vessels. Anyone over age 16 is eligible to join the crew through the Two Weeks Before the Mast volunteer sailing program. Those pursuing a career in the commercial maritime industry can also consider enrolling in the Historical Seaport's Sea School Northwest, a job training program to provide knowledge and mentorship for professional maritime

If you're ready to run away to sea, or want to know more about the tall ships and their programs, please visit www.historicalseaport.org.

Sacramento Schedule: Public Tours (Weekly) Tuesday - Friday, 4:00 - 5:00 ($5 suggested donation) or Saturday, 10:00 - 1:00 ($5 suggested donation) VESSEL TOURS UNAVAILABLE: November 10 (Saturday) and November 17 (Saturday)

The vessel will be docked at Old Sacramento, 1210 Front Street, Sacramento CA 95814. For directions and schedule information, please call (800) 200-5239.

A Message to Our Readers produced by Messenger Publishing Group you will see a change in the format. For many years we stayed with the larger web size broadsheet newspaper. It has always proven to be the most popular with readers, but the industry has now almost completely changed. The smaller web size is the industry standard and it is

With this week's issues nearly impossible to find a printer with the proper presses to print the larger format.

> Just a few weeks ago our printer of many years informed us that they would be closing down their presses. We have had to completely redesign our products in the last ten days to convert to the new size with all six of our newspapers to accommodate our new printer's requirements.

We appreciate all of our readers and hope you understand that we work hard to bring you a quality local newspaper that is interesting, informative, fun to read and represents the community that it serves.

Thank you for being one of our many loyal readers.

CHEERS JEERS

Cheers to Glenn Weiss

for dropping the mic by popping the question. As if earning a trophy for directing the Oscars wasn't enough, Weiss blew the crowd's mind when he proposed to his girlfriend, Jan Svendsen (pictured, with Weiss), onstage! Thankfully, the orchestra didn't play him off before she said yes.

Cheers to The Americans

for getting a salute. After six seasons of awesome, FX's now-wrapped Russian spy drama was awarded an outstanding writing win for executive producers Joe Weisberg and Joel Fields, while Matthew Rhys snagged lead actor. But who colluded to ice out lead actress nominee Keri Russell (pictured, with Rhys)?

Jeers to The Hosts

for not being very relevant. At best, Colin Jost and Michael Che (pictured) were fine. At their awkward worst, they reminded us that Emmy producer Lorne Michaels could have showcased Saturday Night Live's more diverse (and deserving) nominees, Kate McKinnon, Aidy Bryant, Leslie Jones and Kenan Thompson.

Jeers to Game of Thrones

for playing with our heads. How did Season

7 nab outstanding drama when the series (starring Emilia Clarke, pictured) hasn't aired in more than a year? We barely remember what happened. Skilled Workers Still a Mystery

Job demand and hiring trends for the 4th Quarter

By Rick Reed

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Sacramento employers have slowed hiring with shortages of skills and applicants. However, they continue to seek expansion of workforces in the final Quarter of 2018. Down from sixty-six percent (66%) hiring in the previous three months, Pacific Staffing discovered in direct contacts with top regional employer's fiftyseven percent (57%) will hire in October, November and December. Twenty percent (20%) of all companies report a lack of applicants as a major challenge.

While top regional employers, contacted by phone between August 23rd and September 21, will cut overall marketplace demand, those seeking workers are still motivated by expansion or growth needs in the workforce. Forty-one percent (41%) will hire for growth in the next three months with replacements within existing workforces accounting for thirty-two percent (32%) of employer demand in the Quarter ahead. Six percent (6%) of Sacramento companies also report some increased hiring for seasonal needs thru the next three months. Only one company polled reports plans to reduce workers with layoffs in Fourth Quarter (Q4) due to market slowdowns.

Seasonal shopping is going to be a gamble as Sacramento retailers polled were split 50/50 on hiring or not in October, November and December. Twenty percent of employers surveyed say simply finding applicants is a major challenge in meeting demands in the Sacramento market. Retention is another challenge. Signing bonuses and incentives like additional vacation or Flex time are being offered in the efforts to keep current skilled, experienced workers at the job and attract talent from outside the area.

One trend in employment and management appears to have lost some of the luster enjoyed in the past decade. When asked in the current booming economy with shortages of skills and applicants if 'outsourcing' work overseas is IN or OUT, fifty-eight percent (58%) of all Sacramento companies reported no interest in using it. While some regional employers have 'outsourced' and others have not, some are unable to and some forbidden to, outsourcing issues cited included 'challenges' in cost, management and additional paperwork in compliance with government rules.

Twenty-four (24%) of Sacramento companies report finding some specific success in utilizing out of market and international resources for printing, design, office or management functions and customer service needs. Skills in top demand for Q4 include drivers, sales, tech, warehouse, shipping and manufacturing. Employers also cite needs for specialized skills including escrow/mortgage, accounting/finance and construction trade workers.

Call If You Can - Text If You Can't

Special Release from Sac Metro Fire

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Sacramento County 9-1-1 Centers representing all law enforcement and fire agencies in the region are excited to announce Text-to-9-1-1 service is available countywide. This means all 9-1-1 Public Safety Dispatch Centers are now equipped to receive and respond to mobile phone Text-to-9-1-1 messages from our citizens.

Individuals who are deaf and hard of hearing members of the community, or those in a situation where it is too dangerous to dial 9-1-1, will have another option to call for help in an emergency, Text-to-9-1-1. The benefits to our citizens are significant, especially in cases when the caller cannot communicate verbally. Examples include not only the hard of hearing, but also when a crime is in progress, the caller is facing domestic abuse, the caller is injured and cannot speak, or other

In anticipation of providing this service, we wanted to share some information with you.

Even where text-to-9-1-1 is available, if you can make a voice call to 9-1-1, please call instead of texting

Here are some guidelines for how to contact 9-1-1. If you use a wireless phone or other type of mobile device, make sure to do the following in an emergency:

- · If you can, always contact 9-1-1 by making a voice call, "Call if you can - text if you can't."
- · If you are deaf and hard of hearing and Text-to-9-1-1 is not available, use a TTY or telecommunications relay service, if available.
- If you text 9-1-1 and text is not available at that time or in your area, you will receive a bounce back message advising "text is not available please make a voice call to 9-1-1."
- Location accuracy varies by carrier and should not be relied upon. Be prepared to give your location.
- •Text-to-9-1-1 service will not be available if the wireless carrier cannot ascertain a location of the device

- sending the message. •Text-to-9-1-1 is not available if you are
- roaming. •A text or data plan is required to place a text to 9-1-1.
- •Photos and videos cannot be sent to 9-1-1. They cannot be received at the 9-1-1 center currently.
- •Text messages should be sent in plain language and not contain popular abbreviations (SMH, LOL, ICYMI) or emojis, which will not be recognized.
- Text-to- 9-1-1 cannot be sent to more than one person. Do not send your emergency text to anyone other than 9-1-1.
- •Texts must be in English only. There currently is no language interpretation for text available. This is still in development.

This is exciting news for our region and we are looking forward to providing this service to our commu-

Move America Forward Named Top Recipient of National Halloween Candy Buy Back Program

Turning Extra Candy into Cash for Schools and Sweet Treats for Troops Overseas

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) -Move America Forward has been named as the primary resource for a national effort which brings together Dentists, Orthodontists, and other Oral healthcare professionals from around the country, partnering with local schools for an innovative Halloween Candy Buy

"Move America Forward impressed us with their transparency and mission

Back Program that benefits schools as well as our troops overseas

after their first 2 years participating in the Halloween Candy Buyback. We are proud to make them our primary resource in this great event, and glad to send candy to our troops who deserve the support." said Dr. Chris Kammer, D.D.S, who is Founder of the official Halloween Candy Buyback. "At a time when childhood obesity is not improving in our country, programs like the Halloween Candy Buyback are needed more than ever."

Halloween is a holiday known for overconsumption of sweet treats which can cause damage to braces and result in tooth decay. The Halloween Candy Buyback encourages families to turn in their excess candy to a local participating school or oral health professional's office. Some offices will make cash donations to local schools for the candy which will be used in Move America Forward care packages to the troops.

Hundreds of brave soldiers, sailors, marines and airmen will benefit from receiving a care package from home with a little Halloween spirit inside. Move America Forward sends thousands of care packages a year to troops in war zones and wherever our troops are in need. The Halloween candy from participants of the Halloween Candy Buyback Program will increase the number of packages Move America Forward is able to ship this year.

Parents can find a list of participating dentist offices by visiting www.halloweencandybuyback.com and entering your zip code. Contact one of the listed offices to find out when you can drop off your candy for donation. Families are encouraged to bring their extra candy into one of these locations or encourage your local dentist office to contact the Halloween Buyback Program to sign up as a participant.

Move America Forward, a registered 501(c)(3) charity, based in Sacramento, supports our troops and their missions in the war on terror. Move America Forward is supported by hundreds of thousands of pro-troop activists, veterans and military families across the nation. To date, they have shipped over 388 tons of care packages to our troops serving in Iraq and Afghanistan.

The Exciting New World of Snap On Dentures!

There are millions of people in the US who struggle daily with dentures.

A majority suffer from discomfort as a result of loose or ill-fitting dentures. Many prosthetic wearers simply withdraw from any type of social engagement as a result of having to wear their dentures.

Now there is a solution to these issues: Implants with "Snap On" Dentures!

Whether you are new to dentures or have worn them for years, a snap on denture is a great solution to uncomfortable chewing and slippery painful dentures. There are several types of snap on dentures available, including snap on partials. If you already wear a conventional denture or partial denture, we can sometimes use your denture to accommodate the snaps to fit on your new dental implants.

Implants as low as $99.00 per month

If you are interested in learning more about improving your quality of life with an implant retained snap on denture or partial, please contact us for a FREE CONSULTATION today!
