The California Capital Airshow is just around the corner as excitement and anticipation continue to build. Mather Airport will play host to the world of September 21-23 with thousands on hand to witness one spectacular show after another.

Among the must see shows on display will be: the Beale Air Force Base U-2 Dragon Lady

The B-1/ Flying Fortress and famous airshow on the weekend P-51 Mustangs will make for a tough decision as many will say it was the B-17 Flying Fortress that brought Nazi Germany to its knees, while others say it was the P-51 Mustang that allowed it to get to and from its target. See

Carmichael Athlete Experiences US Tennis Open

American junior tennis champion and is among the top four under-18-yearolds in the world

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Carmichael tennis prodigy Jenson Brooksby last week was knocked out of the US Open's junior men's tournament after reaching the semi-final round. On the hallowed courts of Flushing Meadows NY, Brooksby won four matches, including one against European Junior Champion Jonas Forejtek of Czechoslovakia. Brazilian Marechal Candido Rondon eventually took the junior tournament title.

Brooksby was earlier matched as a "wild card" against tennis professional John Millman. His defeat was no disgrace as the Australian later scored an upset win against Roger Federer, one of the US Open favorites.

Brooksby remains the top American junior and Being there was what I've trained hard for - for a very long time. The crowds were intense. I saw the world's top players -- Nadal, Djokovic, Serena Williams. They were in line with me in the cafeteria. The food was great. It was a very cool atmosphere."

Less cool was the Flushing Meadows climate - 100 degrees and humid - that sapped athletes and fans. "I've played in humidity before," says the newcomer. "You just bring extra shirts and take more time between points." Battle-hardened Jenson has come far from pre-school tuition and Arcade's Rio del Oro Racquet Club. He returns from New York to resume a daily discipline of four hours tennis (at Arden Hills Resort) and one hour in the gym every day.

Coach Gilbert accompanied Jenson to New York. Anesthesiologist dad Glen Brooksby and

Anything is Possible

Ainsley's Angels Inspires Hope

Story by Michael Cella

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Ainsley's Angels is a national nonprofit organization aimed at servicing the special needs community through their race series, consisting of athlete riders and runners who participate in races across 30 states and over 60 cities.

The inspiration for all this is Ainsley, the daughter of Marine Corps Major Kim and Lori Rossiter. Before turning four, Ainsley was diagnosed with Infantile Neuroaxonal Dystrophy (INAD), an extremely rare terminal illness that slowly causes global paralysis. Most children diagnosed with INAD pass on before reaching ten years of age, as there is no cure or treatment to help slow down this very progressive and terminal disease. Ainsley passed away in 2016 at the age of 13, but not before she completed over 100 races, including nearly 20 half-marathons.

Sacramento's chapter of Ainsley's Angels is in its third year, founded and directed by Russ Howell – the organization uses the title "ambassador" rather than chapter president.

Sacramento's Angels are set to run their first ultra-marathon in November, the 200-mile Napa RAGNAR relay that runs from SF up the coast and back down to finish in Napa. Six athletes and two riders will participate.

Howell identifies as a lifelong endurance athlete. He undertook his first 100 mile bike ride at 12, ran track in high school, and stayed in shape in his adult life through a stint in the Army where he was a member of a COLT team deployed to Kosovo. In 2010, Howell and his wife had a son born with serious medical complications and he stopped participating in endurance activities. When his son passed away shortly before his second birthday, Howell got back into running as form of escape and therapy. Running helped him keep centered and deal with grief.

A year later, Howell's second child was born. As a baby shower gift, his family pitched in and got him a very nice running stroller. From then on, Howell, now an accountant, put in twenty to thirty miles a week with his son. Time passed, and eventually his son grew too big to fit in strollers, but Howell was eager to keep up with his running. One day, Howell came across an article on Ainsley's Angels in Running World, and sent an email to the president of the organization. Sacramento has a vibrant running vibe, with many races in the area, he told her. It would be a great area for the organization to expand and a perfect way for him to take his running to the next level and give something back.

Howell started the new Sacramento chapter from ground zero and began fundraising, recruiting members, reaching out to race directors, and getting the Ainsley's Angels name out to local hospitals and care centers. Thanks to Howell's connections within the racing community and the people he met while caring for his first son's health complications, the group was immediately accepted and progress quickly snowballed. Today there are close to 200 members, ranging from as young as five years old to two adult riders who are in their thirties. The group has also raised enough money to purchase eleven racing chairs for its riders to keep and use with their families.

"Ainsley's Angels taught me that you don't need to run, or even walk, to be an athlete," says adult rider Emily Crosgrove. 'What's more important is having the will to get out there."

The organization provides a 100% free service to the disabled community, which is no easy feat - racing chairs can coast nearly $5,000. There are three levels of chairs which vary depending on the age, size, and disability of the rider. Every chair has three wheels and a fixed front wheel, which provides stability and keeps the chairs from going off course.

"The smiles, the celebration, the joy, that's what it's all about," says Howell. "To see that level of excitement for people that would never be able to experience a race, showing up to the something like the California International marathon (one of Ainsley's partners) surrounded by 10,000 amazing athletes. It takes them out of their world."

Sacramento's Angels are set to run their first ultra-marathon in November, the 200-mile Napa RAGNAR relay that runs from SF up the coast and back down to finish in Napa. Six athletes and two riders will participate.

"There's no better feeling than the wind in my hair as I glide through a sea of fast moving bodies, encouraging stagers to never give up," Crosgrove added. "If myself and my team could be out there on the road, then anything is possible."

Water-Wise Tips For Back to School and for Life

by Sacramento Suburban Water District Staff

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) -

It's that time of year again when school bells are ringing, buses are arriving, and kids and parents are scrambling to get ready for school.

Here are some handy tips to help kids shake off the summer brain drain and establish waterwise habits that will serve them through life:

Turn off the tap

An easy way to help conserve water is by turning off the faucet when brushing teeth. This simple step can save up to 200 gallons a month.

Scrape instead of pre-rinse

If your kids help you clean up after dinner, have them scrape any leftover food into the trash and skip pre-rinsing the dishes

An easy way to help conserve water is by turning off the faucet when brushing teeth.

Take a shower instead of a bath

The average bath uses up to 70 gallons of water. By taking a shower instead, you can save between 60 and 45 gallons of water. And by limiting showers to five minutes or less, you can save even more.

Reuse pet water

If your kids help take care of the dog or cat, have them pour the old drinking water on your trees, shrubs or potted plants instead of pouring it down the drain.

Be Leak Detectives

Enlist your little ones in the ongoing hunt for leaky faucets, running toilets or problem sprinkler heads. Another set of eyes always helps.

For Teachers:

Sacramento Suburban Water District (SSWD) offers free resources for educators such as student activity books, crayons and pencil packs with rulers and erasers. We can also arrange presentations by SSWD water efficiency professionals on where our water comes from and how to use it wisely.

Contact SSWD at 916.972.7171 to find out more.★

But That's Like Shooting Flies With a Thirty Ought-Six

said to himself out at the woodpile. He put another chunk of firewood up on the splitting block and took a look at the checking cracks that ran part way through the circles of age rings.

If I hit it right there, he said to himself, it should cleave. 'What do you think, Arthur? If I hit it right there...?" Arthur looked up from his end of the woodpile and wagged his tail. The old guy's talking to me again. Sure is cold

You have to look for the schism, Jasper out here. When are we going back in the cabin? Isn't it almost time for supper? Oops, gotta scratch an itch...

> "Always good to have your opinion, old timer," Jasper Blankenship said.

> He picked up the double-bit cruiser ax, made sure the splitting edge of the ax was in the downward position, and swung. Half a century and more of splitting firewood took that ax blade to that crack in the block, and there was a welcoming kachunk as part of the block was surgically cloven from the rest.

Well done, Dr. Blankenship, Jasper thought. Now for this remaining chunk. One more split and it'll fit the firebox quite nicely.

He sized it up. This second swing wasn't as difficult to figure out as that first one. There is less wood to cut through, for two swings of the ax. Not bad for an old

Ka-chunk. Three pieces of firewood in Jasper could've bought a splitting maul, of course. Only Arthur would know. But that's like shooting flies with a thirty ought-six. Overkill. This way a guy has to know what he's doing to hit the schism on the first swing.

"Arthur, we should have been diamond cutters, you know?"

I think it's time to feed the dog, Boss. Brought to you by Ol' Max Evans: The First Thousand Years. Available at unmpress.com.

VIGILANTE "PEPPERMINT" BRUTAL REVENGE STORY; "YOU" ON TV

A Film and TV Review by Tim Riley

PEPPERMINT (Rated R)

Long ago, Charles Bronson perfected the righteous vigilante in "Death Wish." In recent times, we have had Liam Neeson in the "Taken" series and Denzel Washington in "The Equalizer" films to pick up the mantle of heroes exacting revenge on stereotyped bad guys.

"Peppermint" brings a new twist to this genre in that a strong female character gets into the action of meting out personal justice. Jennifer Garner, who showed her action chops in the TV show "Alias," mirrors what Liam Neeson brought to his action hero role in "Taken."

Garner's Riley North, a working mother living in a Los Angeles suburb with her husband Chris (Jeff Hephner) and young daughter Carly (Cailey Fleming), has a life that seems fairly typical of the average

Chris, who runs an auto repair shop, is looking to get ahead financially on an unfortunate deal that would put him in the crosshairs of a Mexican drug cartel. Backing out of an illadvised scheme comes too late for him.

Near the Christmas holiday on an outing to a local carnival, Chris is gunned-down in a hail of machine gun fire, while Carly is also caught in the crossfire, all of it happening while Riley witnesses the tragedy.

The justice system fails Riley in epic fashion when her identification of three gang members in court gets tossed by a corrupt judge. Only two LAPD detectives seem to have taken her interest for justice to heart.

Disappearing for five years, Riley returns to Los Angeles as an avenging angel seeking street justice. During her absence she trained in martial arts and all sorts of weaponry to become the female equivalent of Jason Statham.

The three thugs that got off scotfree are found hanging from a Ferris wheel and the corrupt lawyers are also dispatched. It doesn't take long then for the detectives (John Ortiz and John Gallagher, Jr.) to figure out that Riley North is back in town with a vengeance.

While the crooked judge is confronted to a brutal demise, Riley's primary focus is going after the cartel operation of Diego Garcia (Juan Pablo Raba), who was responsible for the hit placed on her husband.

To sum up what takes place, suffice to say that Riley goes on a rampage through the cartel's warehouse and Garcia's heavilv-armed estate with the kind of shootings and explosions that Keanu Reeves employed to take out his adversaries in "John Wick.'

"Peppermint" is almost certain to offend the sensibilities of pretentious critics who object to brainless vigilante violence.

It's no coincidence that the film is directed by Pierre Morel, the director behind "Taken." This means that "Peppermint" is designed for the same audience and not for the art-house

Whether "Peppermint" turns out to be your flavor or not depends on how you may have reacted to other films in the same genre. It does check all the boxes for an action-filled revenge fantasy.

"YOU" ON LIFETIME

Obsession is nothing new to the type of dramas, whether in movies or series, that are the staple of the Lifetime Channel. "You" delivers a ten-part series that explores the dangers of dating in the social media age.

The basic story is the twisted courtship of a seemingly mild-mannered manager of a Manhattan used bookshop specializing in rare editions and a poetry grad student who happens to be browsing the shelves.

Penn Badgley's Joe Goldberg, exuding an outgoing charm, finds Elizabeth Lail's attractive Guinevere Beck looking through the stacks for literature of interest and he is immediately smitten.

His notice piqued by her perky nature, Joe wastes no time checking her out through social media, discovering that she goes by her last name and hangs out with snooty friends at local bars.

In fairly short order, by stalking like a perverted voyeur, he spies on the ground-floor apartment where the large windows allow a peak into Beck's private life, noticing that her boyfriend appears motivated solely by a booty call. Things turn disturbing and unnerving very quickly when Joe tricks Beck's sleazy boyfriend Benji (Lou Taylor Pucci), an obnoxious rich-boy promoting a brand of artisanal soda, into the soundproof basement of the bookstore.

Not having gone deep into the series, I am just wondering what fate awaits the lecherous professor who put the moves on Beck during an after-work meeting to discuss her position as a teaching assistant. Whatever the case, "You" looks to have a lot of surprises in store.

Matt Roush: Gerald McRaney has the enviable fortune of being an in-demand character actor, probably now more than ever since his 2017 Emmy win for his guest role as Dr. K on This Is Us. He's versatile, he's effective whether playing a good or bad guy, and he's a comfortably familiar face for millions of viewers. That's why so many shows want to work with him.

At present, the show appears to be in limbo, with NBC reportedly having let its option for renewal lapse, and the studio is now shopping it around. # The Exciting New World of Snap On Dentures!

There are millions of people in the US who struggle daily with dentures.

A majority suffer from discomfort as a result of loose or ill-fitting dentures. Many prosthetic wearers simply withdraw from any type of social engagement as a result of having to wear their dentures.

Now there is a solution to these issues: Implants with "Snap On" Dentures!

Whether you are new to dentures or have worn them for years, a snap on denture is a great solution to uncomfortable chewing and slippery painful dentures. There are several types of snap on dentures available, including snap on partials. If you already wear a conventional denture or partial denture, we can sometimes use your denture to accommodate the snaps to fit on your new dental implants.

Implants as low as $99.00 per month

If you are interested in learning more about improving your quality of life with an implant retained snap on denture or partial, please contact us for a FREE CONSULTATION today!
