Bunniful Easter Fun in Carmichael Park

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - The Carmichael park egg scramble disposed of more than 5,000 treat-filled eggs last Saturday. As a fire truck horn signaled a start for the annual free-for-all, basket-brandishing children swarmed the park's spring-green grass.

Divided by age groups, 1,500 hunters harvested the 2018 egg crop in frenzied minutes. Event host, a suave six-foot bunny in bow tie and waistcoat, then dispensed cuddles and photo-ops. County Supervisor Susan Peters augmented the candy haul from her meet-the-constituents table. Children were further indulged with balloon art and crafts.

Carmichael Kiwanis Club served more than 400 pancake breakfasts. Sponsored by the Carmichael Park District, California Family Fitness and Carmichael Kiwanis Club, the egg hunt is a popular spring tradition.

Several local churches next day hosted dawn celebrations of Easter Sunday in Carmichael Park.

Sacramento County Credit Rating Increased

Sacramento County News Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - As a result of Sacramento County's commitment to fiscal responsibility, major credit-rating company Standard and Poor's Rating Services (S&P) raised the County's credit rating two notches.

Following the Great Recession in 2008, Sacramento County diligently worked to strengthen the region's economy, financial flexibility and fiscal stability, providing more job opportunities and housing options while also implementing new budget processes and financial policies.

S&P raised Sacramento County's credit rating to the following:

- County Long Term Rating from "A" to "AA-"
- County Pension Obligation Bonds from "A" to "AA-"
- County Certificates of Participation from "A-" to "A"

Additionally, the S&P's rating report highlighted the following factors as areas of strength for Sacramento County:

Women's Empowerment Graduates 1,500th Formerly Homeless Woman

24 Women Once Homeless Graduate From the Sacramento Job-Readiness Program

By Kate Towson

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Community members from across Sacramento witnessed Women's Empowerment graduate its 1,500th formerly homeless woman, Cynthia Miller of Citrus Heights, in mid-March. Miller joined 23 other graduates as they completed the comprehensive nine-week job-readiness program for homeless women.

Miller was homeless with her three young children when she was accepted into Women's Empowerment's job-readiness program.

"Women's Empowerment truly gave me hope and it boosted my confidence. It was so empowering because it made me realize how much I have to offer our community."

Miller's immediate goal is to attend college in the fall to obtain her Certified Nursing Assistant (CNA) certificate and begin working at a senior living facility.

"My ultimate goal is stop this cycle of homelessness so my children don't have to grow up in it anymore. I plan on providing a stable home for them and enrolling them in a school where they can make friends for life. Having all of the support from Women's Empowerment helped me discover that achieving my dreams is possible."

Held at the VFW Post 67 in Sacramento, 100 graduation attendees heard each graduate's story and future plans. Each woman accepted their certificates of achievement

Recent graduate Cynthia Miller and her children. The award-winning organization has graduated 1,503 homeless women and their children. Last year, 92 percent of graduates found homes and 77 percent found jobs or enrolled in school or training. Photo courtesy Women's Empowerment from Intel, the California Assembly and Women's Empowerment. She received a new handbag filled with a day planner and other items designed to help her succeed from the generous employees of Dignity Health, and enjoyed a lovely reception sponsored by Kiwanis Club of Greater Sacramento.

"Our graduation ceremonies are a unique community event where women like Cynthia can be celebrated for their accomplishments," said Lisa Culp, executive director of Women's Empowerment. "At Women's Empowerment, we know that employment and education are the most long-term solutions to truly ending homelessness. And today 24 formerly homeless women are re-joining our workforce, regaining safe housing and breaking the cycle of homelessness for themselves and their children. They are ready to achieve their dreams."

Women's Empowerment was featured on NBC's The TODAY Show in 2015 for offering the most comprehensive job-readiness program in the Sacramento area designed specifically for women who are homeless and their children. The award-winning organization has graduated

1,503 homeless women and their children. Last year, 92 percent of graduates found homes and 77 percent found jobs or enrolled in school or training. The program combines self-esteem courses, job training, health classes and support services to help homeless women across diverse ages, races and cultures. Women's Empowerment is funded through private donations from the community and receives no government funding except for in-kind rent from the County of Sacramento. Employers Face a New Problem

By Rick Reed

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Sacramento employers are caught between a rock and a hard place as marijuana is now a legal recreational drug in California, but still outlawed by the Federal government. In many ways nothing has changed for regional companies with Federal contracts, transportation or safety issues in the workplace despite California voter approval of 'pot' use.

Pacific Staffing asked top regional companies if recreational marijuana use in the first three months of 2018 resulted in any issues in the workplace. While not all could or would answer twenty-seven percent (27%) of those responding said 'Yes'. Among the impacts noted by newly legal pot use were employees fired for keeping a 'stash' at work, more 'red eye' observed on the job, absenteeism, tardiness and one employer reporting a job injury from 'inattention'.

While state law allows recreational marijuana use, most employers say little has really changed in at-work policy as sixty-two percent (62%) reporting say they still pre-test for employment, thirty-six percent (36%) random test for safety while another thirty-six percent (36%) described their company as 'drug free' with eleven percent (11%) stating a 'zero tolerance' policy that remains in place. While many of those contacted directly by phone between February 27 and March 23, 2018 recognize state law has changed, eleven percent (11%) consider 'pot' use similar to alcohol and unacceptable at work. For job applicants and current employees any use might become problematic as testing remains unable to pinpoint exactly how long it's been since marijuana was consumed.

One anecdotal comment noted, "Never, ever come to work drunk or high" as the best practice.

Another HR contact said misunderstanding by applicants recently resulted in problems in hiring, as a recent driver position drew nine people with seven dropping out of the potential employee pool because they thought 'smoking pot' was now 'okay' and failed a drug screen.

Sixty-Five percent (65%) of regional companies surveyed will hire in the second quarter, with demand in April, May, June equally split between motivation for workforce expansion (46%) and attrition (46%).

General labor, entry level to skilled trades employers say applicants are in short supply in the Sacramento area. Sales, manufacturing, warehouse/shipping, product assembly and a wide range of technical skills are in high demand. Companies also sought construction estimators, escrow experience, route/delivery drivers and accounting/finance backgrounds.

For more information, employment blogs & market surveys go to www.pacificstaffing.com.

Sacramento Regional Top Companies Polled by Industry were Service at 42%, Manufacturers at 29%, Construction at 19% and Retail at 10%.

Bird and Breakfast Nature Walk Reveals

Among river stones, a Killdeer mom (above) patiently incubates her clutch. Her granite-patterned eggs are camouflaged to near-invisibility on the flood plain.

Story and photos by Susan Maxwell Skinner

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Bird and Breakfast safaris recently introduced 170 nature lovers to feathered species in their busiest season. Two sold-out events continued a spring tradition at Carmichael's Effie Yeav Nature Center.

Recent sunny weeks spurred early nest building in the 100-acre preserve. In glades where wild poppies and lupins are bursting into flower, onlookers saw baby hummingbirds take debut flights.

The nature Center's Audubon-guided nature walks have been a hit for 31 years. Dozens of species were noted last weekend. Herons, egrets and wood ducks sought breakfast in American River shallows. Killdeer moms were belly-down and incubating on the flood plain. In ancient oaks, red-shouldered hawks delivered lumber for a new nursery. Towhees enjoyed birdie baths in rain puddles. Bushtits lined their pendulous abodes with plant down and two hummingbird nests - tiny miracles of lichen and cobweb - were viewed through magnifying scopes.

American River Natural History Association volunteers cooked a gourmet breakfast for week-one. Carmichael Kiwanis Club members whisked up pancakes for the second, family-oriented safari. The program's outreach included children for whom bird-watching is a rare opportunity. Carmichael Club volunteer Jackie DeLu noted enthusiastic observations. "These kids have great nature eyes," she said. "The outing encourages them to take their time and observe."

Riley Reviews

"SPLITTING UP" AND "ROSEANNE"
NEW AND OLD COMEDY ON ABC TV

A TV Review by Tim Riley

"SPLITTING UP TOGETHER" ON ABC

The ABC television network is having a busy mid-season with a slew of new comedies and other series programming. For one new show, ABC has adapted a TV program from Denmark for its comedic inspiration.

Similarly titled as the Danish version, "Splitting Up Together" stars two recognizable television faces as a couple with three kids that decides to call it quits but for financial reasons decides to share, to some extent, the family home.

Jenna Fischer's Lena and Oliver Hudson's Martin, married for 12 years, apparently hit a dead-end long ago, and so they just matter-of-factly tell family and friends at a dinner gathering that they are "pulling the plug."

It would appear that Martin wanted to be the "fun parent" and shirked a lot of his marital responsibilities, from taking out the garbage to other small chores. When it was revealed that he didn't even dance with his wife at their wedding, you wonder how they even got this far.

Now the divided household requires each parent to live in the main house for a week, taking care of the kids, while the other takes up residence in the converted garage. Since they have an incredible Craftsman house, it's no wonder that neither party wishes to relocate.

As with most situation comedies, "Splitting Up Together" should rely on its lead characters being more than one-dimensional while uttering the occasional funny circumstantial dialogue.

After all, Jenna Fischer in "The Office" and Oliver Hudson in "Rules of Engagement" had good runs in network comedies which demonstrated their abilities to be a perfectionist and a self-absorbed egotist respectively, traits that work for both in the new series.

The underlying theme of "Splitting Up Together" appears to be whether this former couple, living in such close quarters, might actually reconcile their relationship and become a solid family unit.

If that's really the case, does this series have the ability to sustain a long run for the "will they or won't they" dynamic? I have no idea how this question was ever resolved, if at all, with the Danish program.

"ROSEANNE" ON ABC

After its initial TV debut nearly three decades ago, "Roseanne," a working-class family sitcom that ran for nine successful seasons, has been rebooted with most of the original cast in place on the ABC network.

The original program was innovative for its focus on the family dynamic where both parents were dealing with everyday problems while juggling work and parental duties to make ends meet.

Not much has changed in the Conner household in the intervening years, except that Roseanne Barr's Roseanne and John Goodman's Dan have settled into dealing with aging problems, such as taking a lot of medications and handling the usual family rifts.

The new series kickoffs with Roseanne waking up in bed with her husband Dan and saying to him, "I thought you were dead" and he replies, "Why does everyone think I am dead?," which is apparently the quick and easy way to deal with the fact that he supposedly died in the original ninth season.

In the first episode, "Roseanne" also tackles the fallout of the 2016 election where friction remains between Roseanne and her sister Jackie (Laurie Metcalf), who shows up wearing a "Nasty Woman" T-shirt and the ubiquitous knit cap that was prominent in the Women's March on Washington.

Looking to tackle social and political issues appears at the initial glance as a way to involve the family in a wide-ranging discussion on issues from healthcare and jobs to oldest daughter Becky's (Lecy Goranson) desire to become a surrogate mother for a huge payday.

The Conner household has expanded to now include daughter Darlene (Sara Gilbert), now divorced and broke, with two children, the youngest one a precocious grade-schooler whose wardrobe is, well, a bit too unorthodox for his new classmates.

One thing for sure about the revived "Roseanne" is that the one-liners remain sharply funny. When asked about family medical history, Roseanne says, "All of your relatives died of alcoholism. The ones that didn't drink were killed by the ones who did."

Without keeping score, it would seem a lot of the good lines naturally go to Roseanne, but others definitely get in their licks. Not thrilled with Becky's plans for surrogacy, Roseanne retorts, "Don't have a yard sale in your uterus." ★

Make It Fun and It Will Get Done!
The Secret to Being Organized
Pam Young's Corner
Just Look What You've Done!

Very frequently I hear from SHEs (Sidetracked Home Executive) lamenting that they wish they'd used the SHE 3x5 get organized system for home and family earlier. My answer is always the same, you weren't ready and until you're ready you won't use it. It's interesting to find out how much these precious women have achieved in spite of their disorder! It's testimony to how talented we SHEs really are. Here's an excerpt from my book, "The Joy of Being Disorganized" that conveys this thought.

Recognizing the Benefits of Being Disorganized

Most disorganized people are easygoing. We can stop what we're doing and play with the puppy, spend time with friends, play with our children, or just sit and watch the breeze blowing through the trees. We're never too busy that we miss the changes in seasons and the delights in nature. We're not workaholics. Novelist George MacDonald, who inspired many of his contemporary writers like Lewis Carol, J.R.R. Tolkien, and C.S. Lewis, said, "Work is not always required . . . there is such a thing as sacred idleness, the cultivation of which is now fearfully neglected." I love any writer who encourages me to embrace sacred idleness. Not all the time, of course, but enough to enjoy life. Give thanks for the way you are and that you can partake of sacred idleness too. It's an amazing gift!

By recognizing the gift of sacred idleness, my sister (who was also a SLOB) and I managed to get organized just enough to get by. We were the first SLOBs to tell the world about our escape from chaos in our best-selling book Sidetracked Home Executives: from pigpen to paradise. The book has sold more than a million and a half copies and is still in bookstores after 40 years. (Actually, since most of our readers are disorganized, I'm guessing that most of them purchased it, lost it, and had to go buy it again.) Because of that best-selling book, my sister and I got to crisscross the country, appearing on television and radio. We even had our own television show on Christian Broadcasting called Cleaning Up Your Act. During that time, I was privileged to meet many stars, including Oprah Winfrey and Katie Couric. These two successful women shocked me when they both confessed to me how extremely disorganized they were. Katie pulled me aside before we were going on The Today Show and told me about borrowing a coat from a friend and returning it with a chicken bone in the pocket. Oprah also had slobbish tendencies which shocked me. By looking at these successful women and the empires they built, I never would have guessed they were SLOBs like me.

I received an email today that prompted me to write this article. I'd like to share it with you.

Hi Pam!

Have loved yours and Peggy's stuff for years!!! I first saw you two on a talk show where you talked about not feeling like making stuffing for Thanksgiving turkey so instead you put a Cornish game hen in cavity! Still chuckle about that and the next thing you said - that yes, it worked very well...the only problem being that it led to a discussion on child birth...genius!

I am a 63 year-old lawyer who is bombarded with recommendations for getting, and staying, organized. Nothing I have encountered is nearly as ingenious as your programs - and so much fun. You and Peggy first and now you on your own are brilliant and I'm not saying that to stroke your ego but because it is fact. Like so many others, my only regret is that I did not discover your organizational program until now. Why is this not taught in every high school in the nation? Just sayin'.....

Loved your prediction for sales of one of your books that you expected to double your sales because people buying them are so disorganized they would lose their first time around. Am in process of getting myself together and have been getting everything of yours that I can (looked for your 3x5 templates for at least a month). I reached the end of my rope around Christmas when I was overwhelmed and could not find my scissors. I love them and they were nowhere to be found. We have had a snowy winter here in Northern Michigan. It was not until last week when snow started melting that I found them - stuck to the hood of my car!

Thank you for all that you do. You and Peggy are/were wonderful!

Cathy

Cathy went on in another email to say she'd like to hear about other's "scissors stuck to the car" stories and she wanted to know if I had one. I told her mine was when my first husband drove to work with a king-sized fitted sheet attached to the bumper of the car. When I told my sister about what happened she said, "You oughta write that into Tide and say, 'My husband dragged a king-sized fitted sheet through morning traffic. I washed it in Tide and it came clean!'"

I'd love to hear your story! Write me and we might just get it into a collection of scissor and sheet stories.

For more from Pam Young go to www.cluborganized.com. You'll find many musings, videos of Pam in the kitchen preparing delicious meals, videos on how to get organized, lose weight and get your finances in order, all from a reformed SLOB's point of view. Pam's books are also available on Amazon. ★

*The Initial Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is currently 4.25% for a new Home Equity Line of Credit (HELOC), and is fixed for the first 5 years of the loan which is called the draw period. After the initial 5 year period, the APR can change once based on the value of an Index and Margin. The Index is the weekly average yield on U.S. Treasury Securities adjusted to a constant maturity of 10 years and the margin is 3.50%. The current APR for the repayment period is 6.25%. The maximum APR that can apply any time during your HELOC is 10%. A qualifying transaction consists of the following conditions: (1) the initial APR assumes a maximum HELOC of $150,000, and a total maximum Loan-to-Value (LTV) of 70% including the new HELOC and any existing 1st Deed of Trust loan on your residence; (2) your residence securing the HELOC must be a single-family home that you occupy as your primary residence; (3) if the 1st Deed of Trust loan is with a lender other than El Dorado Savings Bank, that loan may not exceed $200,000 and may not be a revolving line of credit. Additional property restrictions and requirements apply. All loans are subject to a current appraisal. Property insurance is required and flood insurance may be required. Rates, APR, terms and conditions are subject to change without notice. Other conditions apply. A $475 early closure fee will be assessed if the line of credit is closed within three years from the date of opening. An annual fee of $50 will be assessed on the first anniversary of the HELOC and annually thereafter during the draw period. Ask for a copy of our "Fixed Rate Home Equity Line of Credit Disclosure Notice" for additional important information. Other HELOC loans are available under different terms.

A Far Cry from Moral Responsibility

By Noah Howard

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Far Cry 5 promised something more than its series' classic formula of frightening villains and explosive gameplay. By taking a turn inward to the US and by casting its enemies as cult-indoctrinated American citizens, it powerfully hinted at a narrative that would comment on rural disenfranchisement, race, the role of religion in American culture, and the role of rhetoric in political polarization.

And at the end of the day, Far Cry 5 addresses none of those. It deftly steps around anything that could be considered social commentary (the cult is shockingly diverse for a rural Montana county, avoiding any ties to white supremacists, and the cult's reliance on bizarre mind-control means any commentary on religion becomes impossible). The facts that the "bad guys" are the friends and family of the "good guys," that neither side are some foreign dictatorship or terrorist group, and that all combatants are American civilians, are glossed over without the moral weight and consideration that they deserve.

This is a disappointing turn from the overall progress that Far Cry 5's developer Ubisoft has been making in recent years in its boldness to use big-budget games to touch on real-world issues. Assassin's Creed IV: Black Flag touched on corporate corruption with a fictionalized version of Ubisoft itself, Watch Dogs 2 embraced the diversity of San Francisco youth culture while still criticizing Silicon Valley's exclusion of minorities, and despite continuing tensions in the Middle East and rising discrimination against those of Middle Eastern descent, Ubisoft allowed its major 2017 blockbuster, Assassin's Creed Origins, to star an Egyptian man.

However, in a time when the country is more divided than ever, Far Cry 5 takes an almost cowardly approach to the issues it hints at, trying its best never to take a stance or stir the pot. In its attempts at blandness, however, it only exacerbates our divisions, showing us that our fellow Americans cannot be reasoned with or convinced to moderate, and that the only real solution might be for us to start shooting each other.

This implication is obviously unacceptable, not in the least because America already has a painful history of civil war and violent internal conflict. It shows that Ubisoft is backing off from its ability to use its art as a tool for commentary, empathy, and contribution to social discourse. It need not lean to the left or the right to do so; there are plenty of issues (including and especially our level of ideological fracturing) that Americans across the political spectrum are concerned about; one could argue it's already been successfully walking that apolitical line with the criticisms of corporate culture in Black Flag and Watch Dogs 2. As the review scores and commentary corroborate, Far Cry 5 isn't only being viewed as a failure as a story, but as a painfully mediocre game because of this massive oversight. Through its gameplay mechanics, the Far Cry series has always encouraged exploration, creativity, and boldness. Let's just hope that, in the future, its creators can continue to exhibit those same qualities.

In a time when the country is more divided than ever, Far Cry 5 takes an almost cowardly approach to the issues it hints at, trying its best never to take a stance or stir the pot.

Sacramento County DA Reports

Defendants Convicted of Shooting, Robbery in Marijuana Deal

DATE: March 14, 2018
CASE: Gerald Fernandez & Allen Chao (Case #15F06554)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Sam Alexander, Felony Prosecution Unit
 Gerald Fernandez and Allen Chao were convicted by a jury of attempted murder and robbery. The jury also found true the allegation that the defendants personally used a firearm causing great bodily injury on both counts.
 On February 12, 2015, Fernandez arranged a marijuana deal with the victim. When Fernandez and Chao met with the victim, Fernandez produced a .40 caliber firearm. Chao was also armed with a .25 caliber firearm. Fernandez and Chao shot the victim multiple times in the chest and stomach before fleeing the scene. The critically wounded victim was able to dial 911 and was transported to a hospital. After multiple surgeries, he remained at the hospital and a physical rehabilitation facility for months.
 Detectives from the Sacramento Police Department worked through phone records and interviews to identify Fernandez and Chao as the shooters. In addition, the District Attorney's Crime Lab linked Chao to the crime through DNA and ballistics testing on the .25 caliber gun recovered during a separate Elk Grove Police Department investigation.
 Both defendants face a maximum sentence of 34 years to life in prison. Sentencing is set for May 4, 2018, at 9:30 a.m. in Department 25 before the Honorable Robert Twiss.

fraudulent documents clouded the property titles, and Scott used the liens as leverage to try and obtain money from property owners to clear the titles. In one of the properties, the bank seller paid Scott to remove his fraudulent lien so they could complete the sale of the property.

Scott faces a maximum sentence of 16 years and 8 months in state prison. Sentencing is set for April 26, 2018, at 9:00 a.m. in Department 38 before the Honorable Sharon Lueras.

This case was investigated and prosecuted by the Sacramento County District Attorney's Real Estate Fraud Unit.

Defendants Convicted of Robbery, Kidnapping Charges

DATE: March 29, 2018
CASE: Crystal Graham & Joe Navarro (Case #16FE017331)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Sydne Christensen, Career Criminal Prosecution Unit
 Crystal Graham and Joe Navarro were convicted by two separate juries of robbery and multiple kidnapping related charges. The court also found that Navarro had seven prior prison commitments.

On August 28, 2016, Graham took the victim back to her motel room. Navarro was waiting in the room, assaulted the victim and stole his wallet and keys. He also forced the victim to give him his ATM pin number. Navarro bound the victim's hands and covered his face. Navarro and Graham then kidnapped the victim and drove him to multiple locations. During the course of the kidnapping the victim was able to loosen his hands, which caused Graham to panic and pull over on the shoulder of the highway. The victim was able to open the door and run towards oncoming traffic for help. Navarro was later found in Salinas and was returned to Sacramento. Graham was extradited to Sacramento from Nebraska.

Navarro's criminal history includes convictions for assault with a deadly weapon, vehicle theft, unlawful sexual intercourse with a child, sexual battery, failure to register as a sex offender, drug sales and possession of ammunition by a prohibited person.

Graham faces a maximum sentence of 12 years to life in prison and will be sentenced on April 20, 2018, at 11:00 a.m. Navarro faces a maximum sentence of 19 years to life in prison and will be sentenced on May 11, 2018, at 9:00 a.m. Both sentencings will be in Department 40 before the Honorable Raoul Thorbourne. ★ union and borrow the remaining $3,000.

I really hate debt, but being $3,000 in the hole is a lot better than being $15,000 in the hole. Then, you could turn around and quickly pay back the $3,000 you borrowed.

You'd give the total amount owed to the bank, they would give you the title, and you would sign it over to the new owner. Hope this helps!

—Dave

Getting rid of the car

Dear Dave,
How do you sell a vehicle with a lien amount that's higher than the actual value of the car?

—Michael

Dear Michael,
First, you need to find a way to cover the difference between the amount of the lien and what you can get for the car. Let's say the car is worth $12,000, and you owe $15,000. That would leave you $3,000 short.

The bank holds the title, so unless you give them the pay-off amount of $15,000 you're not getting the title. The easiest and simplest way would be if someone buys the car for $12,000, and you had $3,000 on hand to make up the difference. If you don't have the money to make up the difference, you could go to a local bank or credit

Stop spending completely?

Dear Dave,
My mom and dad are following your advice, and they are working hard to get out of debt. I was wondering, is it okay to buy things while you're paying off the debt you already have?

—Leslie

Dear Leslie,
I'm glad you're paying attention to the finances around your house. Of course, there are some things you must have. We call these "necessities." Most things are not necessities, though. If your air conditioning breaks down, or you have car repairs, those are things you must spend money on to fix. Things like new furniture, vacations, and eating at restaurants are not necessities. They're things you might want, but they're not necessary — especially when you're trying to pay off debt.

I always recommend people take a hard look at their priorities, and remember there's a difference between wanting something and needing something to survive. It can be hard, and it may mean everyone has to go without a few things they want for a while. But if your parents are serious about getting out of debt, they'll do it. And it really won't take all that long.

Great question, Leslie!

The best beloved of all things in My sight is Justice; turn not away there from if thou desirest Me, and neglect it not that I may confide in thee. By its aid thou shalt see with thine own eyes and not through the eyes of others, and shalt know of thine own knowledge and not through the knowledge of thy neighbor. Angela (Nicholson's Music). They will be discussing venues, festivals and events in the Sacramento Valley region as well as changing issues and supporting arts in our community.

An artist series panel discussion will also be held with Myki Angeline, Julian Mendoza, Michael Lorda and Ben McClara (Sacramento Preparatory Music Academy). They will all be discussing emerging trends and changes currently in the music industry.

A red carpet media opportunity is available for photos and videos to support emerging artists.

This will be a good chance for musicians to network with other artists as well as learning about the changing landscape of the industry.

Creative Edge, Mayor Steinberg's arts consultation group, will be in attendance willing to hear comments and suggestions posed by artists. There will also be a "buzzboard" for any comments or statements by the attendees. California Lawyers for the Arts will also be represented for industry legal questions and information on becoming a C.L.A. member.

"Anyone involved in a musical endeavor shouldn't miss this event," said Eric Chun, organizer and director of the SVMI Forum. Eric, who is also a professor of music at American River College and formerly with Warner Bros. calls this event the "mini" because it is a pre-cursor to a larger event in Sacramento this Fall. "Anyone in a band, writing or recording music or making films or music videos should put this on their calendar," he said. "This will be a fun and productive day for everyone."

Even those who are not musicians but want to contribute in some way to the music community are welcome and encouraged to attend. Admission is only $5.00 (kids under 12 are free) and a portion of the proceeds go to Girls Rock Sacramento and the NAMM foundation.

For more information, go to the Sac Valley Music Industry Forum Facebook page or contact Creative Music Services at CMS@wizwire.com. ★

The Exciting New World of Snap On Dentures!

There are millions of people in the US who struggle daily with dentures. A majority suffer from discomfort as a result of loose or ill-fitting dentures. Many prosthetic wearers simply withdraw from any type of social engagement as a result of having to wear their dentures.

Now there is a solution to these issues:
Implants with "Snap On" Dentures!

Whether you are new to dentures or have worn them for years, a snap on denture is a great solution to uncomfortable chewing and slippery painful dentures. There are several types of snap on dentures available, including snap on partials. If you already wear a conventional denture or partial denture, we can sometimes use your denture to accommodate the snaps to fit on your new dental implants.
