Story by Susan Maxwell Skinner

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - 2016 looks to be an eventful year for businesswoman Jennifer Knighten. The honor of Young Professional of the Year (to be awarded Friday, April 8th, by Carmichael Chamber of Commerce) was recently preempted by an even more delectable prize. Ten-pound baby Jerry James was born March 23rd.

"Of all the hard work and accomplishments of my career," summarized the new mom, "nothing compares with having a child. He's healthy and perfect. For my husband Nathan and me, our baby is the cherry on top of our lives."

Roseville-born and Rocklin-educated Knighten (34) has worked for State Farm Insurance for 15 years. In 2012, she founded her own Carmichael agency. That it is one of the fastestgrowing State Farm agencies in the area belies personal hurdles its owner overcame. Three years ago, she was diagnosed with Myxoid Liposarcoma, a rare form of cancer. After two years of treatment she got a green light and is now considered a cancer survivor.

The episode was a second big test for the Knighten partnership. During their courtship a serious vehicle accident required months of therapy for Jennifer. As she recovered from head injuries success in her own business seemed against the odds. "I had to learn to speak again," she recalled. "Nathan never left my side. He made me believe I'd never be alone and that we'd succeed together. He's the most selfless and supportive man I've ever known."

Life, she feels, teaches people to be willing to do whatever it takes. "Once my cancer was considered gone, we

Carmichael's Aztec Empire Opens Casa Número Dos

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - "Never give up on your dream," advised Ismael Pantoja. "If you're not afraid of hard work, you'll make it happen."

His own story is proof. The Mexican-born restaurateur takes four vacation days a year: Christmas, Easter, July 4th, and Thanksgiving. Every remaining day, for the past 11 years, he has opened and closed his Rey Azteca taqueria on Fair Oaks Boulevard. He manages; he cooks; he waits table. The one-time builder also handles in-house carpentry, plumbing, and electrical glitches. "There is more to a restaurant than serving food," he confirmed.

Pantoja recently extended Carmichael's Aztec Empire with casa número dos. If he anticipated a "soft" opening for the new venture at Fair Oaks Boulevard and Palm Drive, such plans were immediately whacked like birthday piñatas. On opening day, eager eaters mobbed the Rey Azteca Breakfast and Juice Bar. Day two, its kitchen ran out of food. Day three, the boss closed shop, restocked the pantry and finished training for 20 new manager, Jorge Gonzalez, and I worked together in restaurants for 15 years," said Pantoja. "He put in 20-hour days to get my kitchen staff trained." Veteran server Leticia Gamez groomed wait staff for action, while smoothie bar genius Benny Chavez got all juices running. "Customers have always will be on us in no time at all, and spring is a great time to get your landscape ready for the hot days ahead. Sacramento Suburban Water District (SSWD) has put together some handy tips and advice to help you have a beautiful and waterefficient yard.

• Walk Your Yard

One of the first steps is to walk the zones of your sprinkler system. Turn them on one zone at a time and check each sprinkler to make sure it is not clogged, leaking, or damaged. Also make sure the sprinklers are watering your plants and not your driveway, the sidewalk, or causing runoff. Mark any problem sprinklers you find with a small flag so you'll know which ones require repairs or adjustments.

• Upgrade Your Equipment

You can improve your sprinkler system's efficiency by 25 to 30 percent by swapping out old sprinklers with water-efficient ones. Newer rotary pop-up sprinklers deliver water in a thicker stream than mist sprayers ensuring that more water reaches plants. Drip irrigation systems are even more efficient because they deliver water directly to a plant's roots, reducing water loss to evaporation, runoff, and wind.

Another important piece of equipment to add is a WaterSense labeled weatherbased irrigation controller. These controllers act like a thermostat for your sprinkler system and use local weather and landscape conditions to precisely tailor watering schedules. Replacing a standard clock timer with a WaterSense labeled controller can save an average home almost 9,000 gallons of water a year.

SSWD has rebates available for its customers for irrigation upgrades and WaterSense labeled weather-based irrigation controllers.

•Use the Soak and Cycle Method

Soak and cycle is a process of running your sprinklers in shorter increments spaced out over a period of time to allow for better absorption of the water by the soil. For example, if you're running your sprinklers for six minutes, break the watering cycle into two increments of three minutes, spaced an hour apart. This allows the water to permeate through the soil and get to where it's needed.

Running your sprinklers for one long period is like trying to eat breakfast, lunch and dinner all at the same time. Give your irrigation cycle some space and you'll see less waste.

Forum Seeks to Improve Carmichael Business and Safety

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - The City of Carmichael will be holding its annual Community Business Forum on Wednesday, April 13th, from 8:30 to 10 a.m., at the Community Clubhouse at Carmichael Park, located at 5750 Grant Avenue.

From the Chamber's website, inviting the community to engage, they remind that Carmichael has long been "known for good living, active commerce, and strong community.

"In its midst," the narrative continues, "Fair Oaks Boulevard, once a quiet country road as late as the 1950s, increasingly became a heavily-trafficked through way for daily commuters as our greater Sacramento region experienced growth and prosperity. To build upon the founding spirit and all investments made in Carmichael, an initiative is taking shape to increase the vibrancy and prosperity of our community while devoting attention to reduce the concerns that impact the quality of our daily lives."

The Chamber urges the community to support and join in the effort to "define and form a Property and Business Improvement District," often referred to as a "P-Bid," to focus attention and efforts toward enhancing the greater Fair Oaks boulevard corridor at the heart of the community.

There will be short, informative talks on improving business and safety in Carmichael and how establishing a P-Bid could help.

Invited speakers represent:

- Sacramento County Economic Development
- Sacramento Sheriff's Department
- · Civitas Advisors
- Sacramento District Attorney's Office
- Carmichael Chamber of Commerce
- Executive Director from a PBID in Sacramento

To get more background on the effectiveness of improvement districts and their success nationally as well as more details on what the Chamber seeks to accomplish in the formation of such a district in Carmichael visit their website at www.carmichaelid.org.

Enjoying Life After Loss

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - One person in every couple that stays married will lose their spouse to death and according to the Holmes and Raye Stress Scale, being widowed is 100 on a scale of 0 to 100. No other loss is that devastating, and until it happens to you, one cannot imagine the life changing impact. That's where WPAC (Widowed Persons Association of California) comes in.

In the thirty years that WPAC, which started in Sacramento, has been in existence, thousands of widows and widowers have gone through their six-week Grief Recovery Workshops. With this free, non-denominational program, they found that they could laugh and enjoy life again.

The leaders of the WPAC program are not professionals, but many professionals refer people to them because they know how valuable going through their bereavement program and relating to others who have gone through the same trauma can be. All the trained facilitators and speakers in these workshops and are widowed. Only someone who is also widowed could understand and empathize with the pain that the participants have.

Beginning with the first week of a workshop, the subject is: "Understanding Grief." In this session, the typical symptoms usually experience by those widowed, is discussed. Some of those symptoms are: inability to sleep, memory loss, feeling like their mind is in a fog, not being able to read and comprehend a paragraph, being confused, feeling lost, lonely and more. Because of some of these symptoms, wondering if they are going crazy is something that many of those who attend the first week of the workshops report. Finding that other people feel the same way is a relief, and relating to those on the same journey of recovery from grief is comforting.

"Coping With Stress" is the subject of the second week. Whether it is the stress of a long drawn out illness, and caring for their dying spouse, or the shock of a sudden and unexpected death, stress is something that has to be dealt with. Not only can it increase blood pressure, stress can actually change a person's blood chemistry, and lower their immunity. If it does not cause illness, stress can make it harder to fight off illness.

In the thirty years that WPAC, which started in Sacramento, has been in existence, thousands of widows and widowers have gone through their six-week Grief Recovery Workshops. What they almost always get instead, said the coordinator of the program, is: "Thank You," or, "WPAC saved my life, or my sanity."

Another thing that people who have lost their spouse to death usually experience, is that married friends they had, will at first express sympathy, and probably keep in touch for a few weeks, then tend to drift away, not knowing what to do with, or say to the now single half of the couple they knew. Even if the widowed friend is included in their activities, he or she will feel like a fifth wheel around couples. In fact noticing that almost every other adult seems to be married emphasizes the fact that they are now alone.

The third week of a workshop, "Changing Roles and Relationships," covers that subject along with many other changes that the widowed person must face. One of the hardest things for the newly widowed person to accept is that their spouse is actually dead, and they are not just having a bad dream.

"Rebuilding Your Life and Moving On," is the fourth subject that a workshop covers. Rebuilding is the correct term, because when someone is widowed, the life that they lived with their now deceased spouse no longer exists. One day they were half of a couple, the next day that couple is gone. Starting over is not easy, but with the help of WPAC, they can do it.

The fifth week of these workshops is a review and evaluations of the program. They want to know what the people who go through the workshops think, and if they have suggestions for any changes. What they almost always get instead, said the coordinator of the program, is: "Thank You," or, "WPAC saved my life, or my sanity." That leads to the last session of each workshop, where the participants are asked to be responsible for a social that all those involved with the past five weeks are invited to. This is usually a potluck, or they chip in money to bring in pizza or something similar. Starting to socialize again is often a problem, but it is a necessary part of rebuilding their lives, and doing it with people they have gotten to know, and made some friends with over the past five weeks is an easy way to start.

WPAC runs these free six week Grief Recovery Workshops four time per year. The next one starts on Thursday, April 21st, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. Signing up in advance is not necessary, but it gives them an ideal of how many to set up for, also if they have your phone number you will get a reminder call, usually the day before. The workshops takes place in their offices, at 2628 El Camino Avenue, Suite D-18 (the building in the back).

Widowed people do not have to wait for a workshop to start to get help. Every week WPAC has Sunday Support, a peer support group from 3 to 5 p.m., and it is also open to any widowed person.

Their website is: www.sacwidowed. org There are volunteers working in their office Monday through Friday, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. If you have questions, call (916) 972-9722, or stop by. Hugs are free they said.

Rey Azteca: A Recipe for Success

Continued from page 1 been interested in the healthy juices I drink," Pantoja explained. "So I wanted a juice bar for the new place." He recommends his blood-red Vampiro—a mix of beets, oranges, carrots, and celery. Or his Delicious Detox, which blends apples, cucumber, celery, spinach, and ginger for a morning pick-me-up. "I don't guarantee it cures hangovers," he grinned, "but believe me, it helps."

Each afternoon, Pantoja closes up shop and heads down the block to welcome faithfuls at his original Rey Azteca. "Some of my regulars came there the first day I opened 11 years ago," he recalled. "Later, their children bought dates to eat my food. Now, they bring their own kids. It's a family business. Families like that."

Born in Zamora, Mexico, Pantoja immigrated to California as a teenager and is now a U.S. citizen. He treasures his heritage and makes his restaurants party central for Cinco de Mayo. He names mom Atanacia his número uno culinary inspiration. "When she visits, she cooks for me," he said. "Her dishes are so good I sometimes add them to my menu." For example: Quesadillas de Mama. "It's simple," explained her disciple. "Tomatoes, cheese, avocado, green sauce. Mom never complains that there's no food in the house; she makes a delicious meal from almost nothing."

In time-honored tradition of family businesses, Pantoja's sons did homework in dad's office before graduating to table service. Johnathon, 24, lately assumes the front-man mantle. "He's finishing his business degree," approved papa. "I give him ideas, he makes them happen." His second son, Moises, 17, also aspires to college. "My sons have more education than I," he mused. "I have instinct. Restaurants are not like other businesses. For us, success comes when you combine school learning and instinct."

"I owe my kids a lot," Pantoja reflected. "They've shared my sacrifices. They always loved going camping and boating with me. With only four days off per year, we don't get time now. But seeing how hard I work has given them the attitude to work for their dreams, too. They know you pay a price for success."

Does the 'Bathroom Bill' Protect Privacy Rights? Asks the AMAC

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - North Carolina's so-called "bathroom bill" is causing quite a stir pitting defenders of the lesbian, gay, bisexual, and transgender communities against folks who think only ladies should be allowed in the Ladies' Room and only men should be allowed in the Men's

"The law supposedly violates the rights of individuals with alternative sexual preferences, particularly anatomically correct men who see themselves as women and women who wish they were men. But what about the rights of the rest of us? Americans overwhelmingly seek a modicum of privacy when we need to use the toilet or take a shower or use the locker room to change into gym clothes? The way a person thinks of himself or herself sexually is not an issue. Their thoughts are theirs alone as are the thoughts of traditionalists who find it intrusive and offensive to be forced to use communal bathrooms, shower rooms, and locker rooms," according to Dan Weber, president of the Association of Mature American Citizens.

Weber said he was sad to see the amusement with which such a sensitive issue was greeted when New York Governor Andrew Cuomo banned state travel to North Carolina earlier this week in protest to the bathroom bill. "Challenging an individual's right to privacy when using a bathroom, as Mr. Cuomo is doing, is no

when using a

laughing matter."

North Carolina Governor Pat McCrory insists that the law is not discriminatory. The law does not take away or infringe on anyone's rights, he said. However, he added: "Would you want a man to walk into your daughter's shower, and legally be able to do that? I happen to disagree with that.'

Meanwhile, McCrory's office quickly distributed a Fact Sheet pointing out, among other things, that the law does not limit or prohibit private sector companies from adopting their own set of bathroom rules. Nor does it leave the LGBT community without protections. In addition, private businesses have the right to allow mixed use bathroom, shower, and locker facilities.

Weber believes that "them versus us" politics is behind the fuss. After all, why have the CEOs of major companies doing business in North Carolina banded together to challenge the law. In fact, 80 companies including Charlotte, NC-based Bank of America, Apple, Google, Facebook, and PayPal, for example, signed a somewhat threatening letter hoping to put economic pressure on the state. Why would they take such a high-profile stance since the law does not impose any new rules on their businesses? They are free to set their own bathroom policies as they see fit.

So, why was the law passed in the first place? According to the Governor's Fact Sheet: "The bill was passed after the Charlotte City Council voted to impose a regulation requiring businesses > to allow a man into a women's restroom, shower, or locker room if they choose. This ordinance would have eliminated the basic expectations of privacy people have when using the rest room by allowing people to use the restroom of their choice. This new local regulation brought up serious privacy concerns by parents, businesses, and others across the state, as well as safety concerns that this new local rule could be used by people who would take advantage of this to do harm to others.'

Belgian Awful

The Latest European Terrorist Attacks Redefined Nuclear Security

Commentary by Emily Schwartz Greco

The ISIS supporters who attacked Brussels killed more than 30 people and injured hundreds more. Bombings at the city's airport and a subway station blew up the notion that measures taken after the Paris siege were keeping Europe safe.

The scariest part of this story is the thought of something that hasn't happened yet and hopefully never will: an act of nuclear terrorism.

World leaders and the experts who track the whereabouts of fissile material should see Belgium's ordeal as a wakeup call. Nuclear reactors — as the Fukushima disaster proved five years ago in Japan — aren't worth the risks they pose based on operational safety considerations alone. But security questions also render them unacceptably perilous.

Consider this news out of Europe that you may have missed:

Didier Prospero, a security guard at a Belgian reactor, was murdered in his own home two days after the March attacks. The killers shot the slain man's dog too. After Prospero's children found his body, authorities determined that his security pass was missing.

This gut-wrenching tragedy is even more troubling than it

Belgian authorities discovered hours of secretly recorded video footage of a nuclear scientist during a raid on a suspected terrorist late last year. Khalid and Ibrahim El Bakraoui, two brothers believed to have participated in the Brussels attacks, planted a camera in the bushes outside that scientist's home.

Perhaps the suspected terrorists intended to sabotage one of Belgium's aging nuclear reactors, turning it into a weapon our government says the 9/11 attackers contemplated. Or the suspected terrorists may have aimed to steal radioactive material for a "dirty bomb," a conventional explosive that contaminates the area where it detonates with radiation. Either way, they've raised the bar for guaranteeing security at nuclear power plants. Even before the attacks on Brussels and Prospero's murder, Belgium was under pressure from Germany, the Netherlands, and Luxembourg to address lapses at the 11 aging nuclear reactors that generate half its electricity.

There were good reasons to be alarmed. The Belgian nuclear agency's computer system has been hacked, intruders have stolen and sabotaged equipment, and two employees at a Belgian reactor joined ISIS after quitting their jobs.

Hundreds of thousands of Europeans had signed a petition calling for independent inspections of Belgium's worrisome reactors weeks by late January. Their goal was to "avoid the next Chernobyl," based on reports of leaks and cracks, along with assorted sabotage of mass destruction — a tactic attempts.

Fifteen years after 9/11, how are reactor safety and security on our side of the pond? Not so hot, as seven engineers employed by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission recently made clear.

Upon finding the NRC unresponsive to their concerns about a dangerous design flaw at all but one U.S. nuclear reactor, they filed a public complaint using the same channels available to all private citizens.

It's not clear who has the power to do something about this problem.

New York Governor Andrew Cuomo apparently doesn't. He wants the Indian Point power plant located 30 miles north of the Bronx closed. That's easier said than done, even though its two active reactors — rife with security and safety issues — are so near our country's biggest Plant operator Entergy downplayed one recent outage after blaming it on — get this — bird droppings.

If the company can't protect Indian Point's equipment against natural threats like avian excrement, how well would it handle terrorists?

Is High-Speed Rail Gov. Brown's Latest Green Vanity Project?

(MPG) - Senator Ted Gaines (R-El Dorado) issued the following statement regarding recent Senate Transportation & Housing Committee oversight hearing on the updated High-Speed Rail business plan:

"High-Speed Rail is on pace to be the most colossal waste of taxpayer money in California history and needs to be stopped before our citizens take an unprecedented fleecing.

"The initial $33 billion total cost estimate has already ballooned to more than $60 billion, and the story is about to get worse. The California Rail Authority is facing potential cost overruns of $400 million dollars on just the first 29 miles of the 500+ mile project. And this

Los Angeles, and San Diego?

"I'm incredibly disappointed that during today's oversight hearing, where legislators and bullet train representatives went back and forth on the new timelines, routes and funding proposals, there was zero opportunity for anyone in opposition to speak. On a project this big, the critics should be more than a silent ATM.

"To build this train is to rob Californians of the desperately needed roads, water storage, and other meaningful infrastructure projects those tax dollars could buy. To build it is to doom taxpayers to perpetual subsidies to prop up the ultimate green vanity project."

had to wait two years before trying to have a baby. Through our journey we discovered a support system of family, friends, employees and clients that boosted my positive attitude. They all got us through."

As with most entrepreneurs, paid maternity leave is an unknown luxury for Knighten. "I was in the office until I was too big to drive," she said, "then I worked from home. I was on the phone to my team the day before I delivered. Ever since, Nathan (now on leave from his medical device sales job) has cooked and done laundry while I nurse, stare at my baby's face, and try to get some sleep. It's hard to recall how I ever got out of the house in five minutes flat. We can't remember what life was like before our baby got here."

Carmichael employees are holding down her office for now. "But I'm only a phone call away," confirmed the boss. Her Chamber of Commerce Award is another reminder of a beckoning career. "I'm honored and awed to be among the other achievers [NBA Legend Vlade Divac, realtor Ben Tiner, and the Carmichael Kiwanis Club]," she said. The Chamber's top Young Professional nevertheless plans to bring a diaper bag to the April 8th gala.

"I'm nursing so it would be hard to leave my baby at home," she explained. "Besides, he and my husband earned part of this award. Everything I achieve is because of them and for them."

The Exciting New World of Implant Supported Dentures

• Has the Security of a Fixed Bridge! • Easier to Maintain Good Oral Hygiene

There are millions of people in the U.S. who are edentulous (meaning without teeth) who struggle daily with dentures. A majority suffer from discomfort as a result of loose or illfitting dentures. Many prosthetic wearers simply withdraw from any type of social engagement as a result of having to wear their dentures.

Lower dentures almost never fit properly. They are loose fitting due to less surface area which can't create a suction, shrinking gum tissue and bone loss, which can cause irritation in the mouth, sores and pain. The only relief is using sticky dental adhesive to help it, but it is very messy, hard to clean off and needs multiple applications throughout the day.

Upper dentures are better than lower dentures due to a suction in the upper palate that keeps the denture in place. However, having the palate covered reduces the tastes of foods and the ability to tell the temperature of foods.

Partial Dentures can be a source of discomfort due to lack of supporting teeth or an illfitting partial. Partials also use clasps to secure to existing teeth which can be noticeable and can put added pressure to the existing teeth.

Now there is a solution to these issues: Implants with "Snap On" Dentures!

Whether you are new to dentures or have worn them for years, a snap on denture is a great solution to uncomfortable chewing and slippery painful dentures. There are several types of snap on dentures available, including snap on partials. We make your denture or partial fit and function in harmony with the space available in your mouth, and give custom attention to the delicate fabrication of your snap on denture.

If you already wear a conventional denture or partial denture, we can sometimes use your denture to accommodate the snaps to fit on your new dental implants.

If you are interested in learning more about improving your quality of life with an implant retainedsnap on denture or partial, please contact us for a FREE CONSULTATION today!
