Taking Steps Towards a Brighter Future

Bank of America Offers Student Leadership Program

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Starting Nov. 2nd, Bank of America will be accepting applications for their Student Leaders Program, part of the bank's ongoing commitment to preparing young people for a brighter future.

Today, teens often struggle to find the opportunity to gain learning experiences that equip them for future education and employment. Early job opportunities are critical in preparing young people for today's competitive workforce which is why Bank of America is invested in initiatives that connect young people to the workforce and education opportunities that they need to build stronger financial lives.

Every year, through the Student Leaders program, Bank of America helps connect community-minded high school juniors and seniors to employment, skills development, and service. The students are awarded paid internships with local nonprofits, including the SF AIDS Foundation, Boys and Girls Club, and Habitat for Humanity. In addition to the paid summer internships, Student Leaders will participate in the 2016 Student Leadership Summit in Washington D.C. from July 10th through the 15th.

Student Leaders not only learn valuable workforce skills, they also gain an in-depth understanding of some of the issues impacting our local community and our country.

If you are interested in learning more about the Student Leaders program take a look at Bank of America's website, and listen to first-hand accounts from young leaders who have participated in the program in the past.

Bank of America is accepting applications from Nov. 2nd, 2015 through Jan. 29th, 2016.

Christmas Care Packages Make the Holiday Bright

By Elise Spleiss

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - It's a family affair and a community affair. The Sacramento Blue Star Moms' tri-annual "packing parties," such as the one held in November that brought together hundreds of packers and other participants from Sacramento and South Placer counties, fill CARE packages with a taste of home for men and women serving in combat overseas.

The 400 Christmas CARE packages prepared at the Roseville Veterans Memorial Hall included essential personal hygiene items along with little added "hugs" like a warm scarf, a good book, and popular snacks and candies. Each box also included a greeting from the Sacramento Blue Star Moms and a personal message written by grateful men, women, and children here at home.

The day was a family affair. Children and parents waited together in line to fill

'Tis the Season

And speaking of fun, try reading stories to small children. Whether at a pediatric unit of a hospital or at a public library in your community, it is guaranteed that you'll love it!

Commentary by C. P. McCauley

Everyone seems to be rushing, so many things to do. Will it all be ready in time?

After having experienced many Christmas seasons, I sometimes wonder if we have lost the true spirit of the season with the seemingly constant shuffle of shopping, cooking, gift wrapping, and on and on. Friends, neighbors, family members, and complete strangers are making an effort to be nice. That is a good thing, of course, but shouldn't we try to be nice all year long?

Perhaps if we keep busy, it will make it easier not to think of "the stuff" that requires real effort and for a longer time. Here come some suggestions that could apply to all of us. And, yes, I am including myself.

Forget about dieting. Instead, take food to a homeless shelter.

Want to go shopping? OK. The Salvation Army could use some new clothes, like the ones you are about to discard.

On your way to the beauty salon for your stylish haircut, get some toiletries and simple beauty supplies for the abused Women's Center in your community.

Going to lunch with a friend? Include someone from the skill senior facility near you. Or, better yet, bring treats to the center and share them with some of the senior residents who seldom have company from the outside.

How about a visit to a hospital? Oh, that might be depressing, you tell yourself. Try it once. You could be giving someone a nice break.

Let our veterans know you appreciate their sacrifice and listen to their war stories. We owe them so much. Plus, it could be fun!

And speaking of fun, try reading stories to small children.

Whether at a pediatric unit of a hospital or at a public library in your community, it is guaranteed that you'll love it!

If you qualify, have you looked into being a foster parent, or a big sister or brother to a not-so-small kid?

Take the time to listen to someone. Really listen. It is a wonder that the most joyous season of the year is also the time when most suicides take place, especially among young adults. It is also the time when depression tends to increase. Just thinking of all the loved ones that are no longer with us will make us nostalgic. Talking with someone may make it easier.

So, if you are looking to make some New Year's resolutions and be nice all year long, read this again. And, Season greetings, happy holidays and merry Christmas!

Julie & Mayors

Mayors to spare. Hosted at Oakmont senior residence, the Carmichael Chamber of Commerce's recent mixer fielded a passel of past, present, and future honorary mayors. The annual appointment is awarded to the candidate of greatest fundraising ability. Julie Woodworker Hubbs (center) won the civic sash for 2016. Congratulating Hubbs are some of her predecessors: Pauline Gilmour (left), Donna Deterding, Virginia Stone, and Peter Tateishi.

Carmichael Bell Ringers

The ancient art of bell-ringing was part of Christmas celebrations at Carmichael Presbyterian Church. Carol Honnold (rear) rang a chime over fellow musicians Jan Sullivan, Jimmi Mishler, and Linda Hatch. The ladies are part of a 14-piece ensemble called Mission Bells. The church's "Christmas Joy" service presented two bell-ringing teams, youth and adult choirs and instrumental solos.

Sheriff Jones

Sheriff Scott Jones (standing center) was guest of honor at a recent luncheon reunion of Sacramento Sheriff's Department staff retirees and volunteers. Held at the Sheriff's Academy in Carmichael, the event also previewed a new museum at the facility. Exhibits include relics from the department's 160 years of service.

Pastor Mike and the Gospel of Jazz

Musician Leads Sacramento Calvary Flock

Story and photos by Susan Maxwell Skinner

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - A gift for music comforted Mike Butera's hazardous childhood: when his musical career turned dangerous, the gift of faith was his salvation.

Butera is a household name in Californian jazz. Barely out of his teens, the saxophonist toured with Harry James and was featured in recordings with superstars. He is now an ordained pastor at Calvary Chapel in East Sacramento. His flock ranges from professionals to paupers. For many of them, the road to Calvary has been rugged. No less so for gravel-voiced Pastor Mike.

"Don't call me reverend," says the 62-year-old. "I don't need to be revered; I'm just a sinner who was saved by grace." One of few ministering "jazzers" of his acquaintance, Butera still plays professionally. "I know an upright bass player who's a pastor," he considers. "There aren't too many of us."

"To me, jazz is a perfect vehicle for my faith. It's like jazz God's vastness. It's universal and it encompasses all kinds of music. No one will ever get to the end of it. You have infinite expression but there are principles. Like walking with God, once you apply rules, you have freedom and fun." Butera's Dec. 20th service will illustrate his theory. The pastor will present original jazz interpretations of Biblical Psalms during pre-Christmas worship.

The virtuoso's youth was discordant. "I had a rough, rebellious childhood; my solace was being gifted at music," he said. "I turned pro at 15. I joined a rock band that was heavily into drugs and alcohol." Still at McClatchy High School, he embraced the music culture at its most destructive. "Most days began with a bottle of wine and pills before classes," he said. "It was the only way I could talk to girls."

At college, with a music scholarship, he gigged at jazz bars. His first pro-recording was with Dave Kahne (now producer for Paul McCartney and Tony Bennett). Butera toured with the likes of John Denver, Donna Summer, and Lou Rawls. "The culture included alcohol and pot smoking," he recalled. "Every night, it was back to some guy's room to drink and get high. I nearly died one night: I found myself on the floor with a drug-frenzied guy's gun to my neck. After that, I began to search for wholeness. I believed there was a 'God' but I didn't know who he was."

Big band legend Harry James discovered the prodigal prodigy. At 22, Butera became the youngest player in James' stellar ensemble. "After a few years touring as a hot shot in the best band (with associated booze and excess) my life seemed empty," he said. "I was married and raising my wife Julie's two children as my own but we were fighting like cats and dogs. Success didn't fill what was missing in me. I wondered if God would tell me what to do.

"I took a Gideon Bible from a New York hotel and sneaked looks on the tour bus. I was skeptical. For five months, I searched its pages. I found more than 300 prophecies that were fulfilled by the birth, life, death and resurrection of Jesus. That was enough to show me the words were from God." Hal Lindsey's bestseller "The late, Great Planet Earth" sealed Butera's faith.

"I learned God loved me right where I was at," he explained. "With all my faults and failures, heaven was given to me. I got on my knees and received Jesus. I woke up next day and felt different. I guess I was born again. I left Harry James and came home. I quit drinking. My wife and I began to learn what marriage was all about."

Butera joined Sacramento's Moon recording studio as producer/arranger. "One day I hired a Christian background singer who told me to go to church," he said. "But my experiences of church seemed so phony; what I felt was so real. She introduced me to Calvary Chapel in Oak Park. I was embraced the door by a tattooed guy, just out of prison. There were 25 people in the funky little church. They gave us blankets for the cold. The Pastor, John Cowan, was in Levis. He read from the Bible and explained it, simply. I knew I was home. My wife and children loved it."

Though the church hosted a band, Butera stayed in the pews. "I needed to learn," he explained. "Worship is not a performance, its participation. The audience is God. I served by setting up the PA and cleaning restrooms. On gigs I kept my Bible on my music stand. One night at the top of the Holiday Inn, a guy talked to me. He knew I was expressing love of God through music. He asked if he could receive Jesus. Later I learned he'd intended to commit suicide that night. I was experiencing ministry."

Muso buddies dubbed him: "The Preacher."

"I have a big burden for musicians," he confided. "They are family and to me, some are lost. Many artists can't accept traditional belief. Some feel Christians are stupid automatons. I have to live with that. It's taken years of consistency to show I'm for real."

At a 1980 concert in Land Park, "The Preacher" met Pastor Leo Govinetti. "He was on boogie woogie piano, singing Christian lyrics," said Butera. "I sat in with my horn and we smoked. We began 23 years of musical evangelism, calling ourselves The Agape [God's love] Brothers. We were on T.V. We played all over USA. We worked for free or for whatever anyone could pay."

Govinetti was pastor at Gridley's Calvary Chapel. At the time Calvary Chapels—which began as 1970s ministries for hippies and surfers—were a new Christian movement. There are now 2000 congregations in the world. Govinetti beheld believers meeting for Bible study at Butera's house and decreed: "Mike, you were meant to be a pastor."

Novice Butera studied five years under Calvary founder Pastor Chuck Smith. Ordained in 1990, the new pastor gathered his flock in a Land Park bowling alley. Now almost 200 strong, they occupy Folsom Boulevard digs. Church outreach includes Ugandan and Rwandan orphanages; water purification for Columbian natives; and aid for the local homeless. "I've followed the road of hard knocks," their leader summarized. "You learn by experience, and from just lovin' on people." Jazz is never far from his altar. The church hosted monthly big band concerts in 2015 and will continue with 2016 jazz events.

"I feel an inward energy when I pick up the horn," explains Pastor Mike. "I am worshipping with all my heart; trying to express every phrase perfectly because God is hearing. I'm giving back what I have received: love."

Walk In the New Year With The Sticks

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

The Sacramento Walking Sticks will be hosting newly designed walks on New Year's Eve and New Year's Day for everyone to join in on. Both walks will start from the Pioneer Congregational Church Social Hall, 2700 L Street, Sacramento (directly across from Sutter's Fort). Registration for the New Year's Eve walk, Dec. 31st, is between 5:00 p.m. and 6:00 p.m. and the New Year's Day walk, Jan. 1st, is between 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon. There will be a different 5K (3.1 miles) and 10K (6.2 miles) route available on both days. All the walks are on city streets around the downtown Sacramento area. Flashlights are recommended on the New Year's Eve walk. Dogs are welcome on all the walks but they are not allowed inside the Pioneer Congregational Church; strollers, and wheelchairs will be able to traverse all routes. Rain will not stop these events from taking place.

Volkswalking is a family sport and parents and grandparents are encouraged to bring their children and grandchildren out and get them walking. These events are a wonderful way to see the old year out and see the new one in. This makes for a great New Year's resolution; to get fit, meet new people and see sights in your home town and surrounding areas that you've never seen before.

The New Year's Eve route will take people thru lively midtown Sacramento to the wonderful holiday light displays in the Fab 40s. The walks are non-competitive and not timed so people can stop along the way to enjoy the sights and sounds—so long as they return for check-in by 9:00 p.m. at the Pioneer Congregational Church.

The New Year's Day route will go through classical Sacramento residential neighborhoods, including Boulevard Park and Mansion Flats. You'll pass by two of the notorious Dorothea Puente's houses on both the 4 and 10K walks. The 10K will wind through other historic neighborhoods, chosen for their architectural and historic interest. Everyone must be checked in by 3:00 pm. Each participant will receive a set of written directions with a map for the route they will be walking and typically the route will also be marked. The New Year's Day route will have an extra sheet of Historical and Interesting Facts sheet that will give the reader's an historical/architectural tour of the neighborhoods they'll be walking in.

The walks are open and available to everyone. They are free and there is also an incentive program provided that allows people the opportunity to track their mileage. This incentive program can be started by purchasing a New Walker Packet for $5.00. There is also a limited edition commemorative patch available for $4.00 each.

Volkssporting (translation means sport of the people) originated in Germany in the 1970s. Many U.S. military families stationed there enjoyed the sport and eventually brought it to America; there are currently just less than 300 clubs nationwide. The Sacramento Walking Sticks Club continues to be the largest club in the entire U.S.A. with close to 600 members and it offers everyone a wide array of walking and bicycling adventures for people of all ages, including their dogs.

People love to go exploring in their hometown as well as in their state but they tend to be more receptive to doing it with others. Volkssporting is a great connector of town festivals and activities with people who would never have ventured there on their own. There's safety in numbers whether by day or night and meeting new friends along the way is another side benefit. After the walks we like to dine at local eateries wherever we're at so there's also another social layer to volkswalking.

The Sacramento Walking Sticks Club offer group walks on Tuesday and Thursday mornings (5 and 10K routes to choose from) as well as Wednesday night group walks that are always 5K. There are also group bike rides of 25K offered every other Thursday morning throughout the year. Check out our website's (www.SacramentoWalkingSticks.org) Calendar of Events link for all the details or you can sign up to receive weekly walk alerts by e-mail.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Although taking advice isn't always easy for the headstrong Sheep, you might want to consider what someone you respect says about an upcoming decision.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) A new offer is tempting, but don't be bullied into a quick decision. Rely on your keen Bovine business sense to alert you to anything that might be questionable.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Your Gemini Twin nature rallies to help you deal with this week's hectic schedules, both in your personal and professional lives. One caution: Watch your diet.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Avoid rushing to make up for time lost on a stalled workplace operation. Best to set up a schedule and pace yourself. Welcome the help of colleagues.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Despite those glittering holiday distractions you love so well, be sure to keep your feline senses set on high to alert you to anything that might require fast action.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Making an effort to restore fraying relationships proves to be more successful than you dared hope. The holidays also bring new friends into your life.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Private and professional matters compete for your attention. Be honest in your assessment of which should get more of it, and for how long.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) A seemingly endless list of must-do tasks is best handled by tackling them one by one, and taking energy-restoring timeouts between each job.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) A vexing relationship seems destined to deteriorate no matter what each side tries to do. A third party's advice just might prove helpful.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) Reach out to ease any tensions caused by home or workplace pressures before they threaten the relationship-building progress you've made.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) You often go out of your way to show kindness to others. So, don't be surprised if other people want to do something nice for you this week.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) People in your life respect your Piscean wisdom, so don't hesitate to speak up about a matter that you feel isn't being handled quite the way it should be.

BORN THIS WEEK: Your personal warmth helps you make friendships, and your sense of fair play helps you keep them.

According to the U.S. Census Bureau, there are currently more than 1,500 American residents named "Seven."

Those who study such things say that Roman emperor Gaius Julius Verus Maximinus was more than 8 feet tall.

In some parts of colonial America it was illegal to kiss your spouse in public.

PICKS OF THE WEEK

Emily Blunt in "Sicario" Richard Foreman Jr SMPSP/Lionsgate

"Sicario" (R) - The drug wars along the U.S.-Mexico border are a hazy, morally ambiguous nightmare where doing The Right Thing is never what it appears. Emily Blunt stars as FBI Agent Kate Marcy, an upright investigator who sees first-hand some of the worst carnage wrought by the ruthless drug cartels. She's called into a secretive assignment by a swaggering operative from another agency (Josh Brolin), and tossed into the heart of darkness along with a shady "adviser" claiming to be a former Colombian prosecutor (Benicio Del Toro).

It's memorable and unsettling, which is good. Director Dennis Villanueva packs such tension into every frame, all of it tied to the twisting maze the audience follows through Blunt's performance. It's thrilling and intense, but not exactly a joy ride of go-get-'em cops vs. crooks.

"The Walk" (PG) - Back in the '70s, when many New Yorkers were still bemoaning how the two "giant file cabinets" of the Twin Towers were ruining the distinctive skyline, a mercurial Frenchman saw the WTC and dreamed a big dream. Philippe Petit (Joseph Gordon-Levitt) had a circus-y background in Europe, but put on his biggest show in New York when he walked a tight-rope between the iconic skyscrapers. The movie quickly covers Petit's background, before getting to the planning and execution of the walk.

At first, you may think, "Guy walks across a wire, that's a whole movie?" Well, the whole thing was quite illegal and required heist-style planning and infiltration to accomplish, complete with a ragtag band of specialists and amateurs. The movie really does pick up right around the central stunt, as Robert Zemeckis knows how to stretch and get every ounce of wonder out of a pivotal moment.

"Scout's Guide to the Zombie Apocalypse" (R) - Three teenage boys are unprepared when they have to come of age and save their skins due to a zombie outbreak hitting their small California town. While on a camping trip, Ben and Carter (Iye Sheridan and Logan Miller) decide to finally ditch the Scouts -- and their dorky friend Augie (Joey Morgan) -- so they can go to a party and try to be like the other teens. Too bad everybody's turned into zombies when they get back to town, and they have to horror-comedy their way to safety with help from a waitress from the local strip club (Sarah Dumont). It doesn't do much to revitalize the overdone zombie-comedy field, but it tries.

"Infinitely Polar Bear" (R) - Cameron (Mark Ruffalo) has the bursts of irrepressible optimism and energy that make him an amazing friend and father. What usually follows, however, is a terrible crash of depression and confusion. Writer-director Maya Forbes made the film with pieces of her own childhood, growing up with a father who dealt with bipolar disorder. After a serious breakdown puts Cameron in a mental hospital, his wife Maggie (Zoe Saldana) struggles to raise their two daughters on her own. When Maggie makes the decision to go to grad school so she can provide a better life, Cameron has to step up as a full-time father and pillar of stability for his girls. It's a complicated and compassionate look at how mental illness, love and family interact.

Live tree care

- Store the live tree outside in a shady, wind-free area. Select its permanent outside spot and dig the hole before the ground freezes. Keep the soil from the hole covered and dry.
- Check for critters on the trunk and branches before bringing inside, then set the tree up in a cool area away from heat sources. Keep the root ball lightly moist. Decorate your beautiful live tree!
- On a mild day, remove decorations and root coverings and place the tree into its hole, with the base of the trunk at ground level. Fill in with the dry soil from the hole. Mulch around its base, and water well. Protect the young tree from harsh winds. — Brenda Weaver their boxes, learning about volunteerism and patriotism from being an active part of the event. Area teens from the Del Campo High School Key Club in Fair Oaks worked together as a team. Other participants spent time writing heartfelt letters of thanks to unknown military members.

Members of Sacramento Blue Star Moms were recognized for their service, as were sponsors and supporters in the community who collaborate throughout the year to aid Sacramento Blue Star Moms in their work. Immediate past and present board members were presented with a flag that flew over Washington D.C. and a letter of appreciation from their respective assembly member. Past First Vice President Heidi Bacon received a resolution from Senator Nielsen's office for her four years of service to Sacramento Blue Star Moms.

Gold Star parents Tom and Patty Shumacher from Granite Bay were honored, along with their son USMC Pfc. Victor Dew.

At 20 years old, Dew was killed in Afghanistan in 2010 during Operation Enduring Freedom. The Shumachers are active with the Sacramento Blue Star Moms.

Robert "Cowboy Bob" Rogers, known for supplying military flags for all Sacramento Blue Star Moms events and other military events throughout the region, was presented with a flag flown over Kuwait and a certificate of appreciation.

Blue Star Moms are proud mothers, stepmothers, grandmothers, foster mothers, and female legal guardians living in South Placer county and Sacramento county who have children serving in the military, guard, or reserves or have children who are veterans. Members and friends also volunteer at VA hospitals and help out at other veteran outreach programs including Stand Down, Wounded Warriors, and Homes for our Troops. They also work with veteran organizations such as Veterans of Foreign Wars and the American Legion.

Throughout the year, Blue Star Moms collect items and fund-raise to pay for postage to mail the CARE packages. Postage is about $13.80 for each box.

Packing parties in 2016 are scheduled for Feb. 27th, June 18th, and Nov. 19th at the Roseville Veterans Memorial Hall at 110 Park Drive, Roseville.

The Sacramento Blue Star Moms depend solely on donations to complete their mission. There are no paid positions; participants are all volunteers. You can help them support our military by donating items for CARE packages, making a tax-deductible financial donation, attending their events and fundraisers, writing letters to the troops, and participating in CARE package packing parties. Speakers are available to speak to your organization.

Climate Make-Believe in Paris

Saving the planet has never been so easy.

The Paris climate talks concluded in a rousing round of self-congratulation over an agreement that, we are told, is the first step toward keeping Earth habitable. If generating headlines and press releases about making history were the metric for anything, Paris might be as consequential -- if misbegotten -- as advertised.

The fact is that Paris is very meta. The agreement is about the agreement, never mind what's in it or what its true legal force is -- namely, nil. Paris is a legally binding agreement not to have legally binding limits on emissions. It might be the most worthless piece of paper since the Kellogg-Briand Pact outlawed war -- about a decade prior to the outbreak of World War II.

The Paris summit operated on the principle of CBDRILONCWR, or "Common but Differentiated Responsibility in Light of National Circumstances With Respective Capability." That means nothing was actually mandated on anyone because that proved -- understandably enough, dealing with all the countries in the world -- completely unworkable.

Instead, countries came up with so-called Intended Nationally Determined Contributions. That's climate bureaucratese for "You make up your emissions target, whatever it is, and we will pretend to take it seriously." Thus, do the waters recede and Earth is saved from looming climate catastrophe.

President Barack Obama praised 180 countries for coming to Paris "with serious climate targets in hand." This was ridiculous climate grade inflation. As Oren Cass of the Manhattan Institute points out, Pakistan produced a one-page document promising to "reduce its emissions after reaching peak levels to the extent possible." For this we needed a headline-grabbing global confab?

No one will mistake Pakistan for an industrial juggernaut. How about China, the world's largest carbon emitter? It promises to reach peak emissions around 2030, when one U.S. government study estimates that it would hit peak admissions anyway, Cass notes. The more China promises to confront climate change, the more it stays the same.

India's assurance that it will make a roughly 30 percent improvement in carbon intensity is, according to Cass, also about where it was projected to be headed anyway. India still wants to double its output of coal by 2020. As The Guardian put it, India "says coal provides the cheapest energy for rapid industrialization that would lift millions out of poverty." India would be correct.

The agreement's celebrants believe that by making countries report their progress on cutting carbon emissions and by sending a stern signal against fossil fuels, Paris will catalyze painful cuts in carbon emissions somewhere off in the future. It speaks to a naive belief in the power of global shame over the sheer economic interest of developing countries in getting rich (and lifting countless millions out of poverty) through exploiting cheap energy -- you know, the way Western countries have done for a couple of centuries.

If this is the best hope of the climate alarmists, their global campaign will be a welcome fizzle. All things considered, it probably is best that they occupy themselves with grand meetings and with the exertions attendant to believing their own PR. Otherwise they could do real damage.

Young Puppy Just Can't 'Hold It'

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: We adopted a puppy last month. "Jake" is having some problems adjusting to his new home. He has soiled his own bed three times so far (we crate him at night) and doesn't make it through the day -- he starts whining by the door around lunchtime and, if we're not home, will just go anywhere in the house. How can we fix this?

- Carl B., via email

DEAR CARL: How old is Jake? It sounds like, barring any unknown physical issues or illness, that he is a young puppy with a small bladder. He simply can't hold it as long as a fully grown dog.

The fact that Jake makes it a point to whine by the door means that the house training is effective, but you may be waiting much too long to take him out. When he has to go, he will go. That includes soiling his crate, which is an absolute last resort for a dog.

Follow this guideline, published by the American Kennel Club, called the "month-plus-one" rule: Take your puppy's age in months, and add one. That gives you a rough estimate of the maximum number of hours Jake should wait before going outside to pee or poop.

For example, if Jake is four months old, add one to that number. The total, five, means he should be taken outside every five hours. Every puppy is different, so Jake may need to go out a little sooner. And yes, that means he may need to go out in the middle of the night, or on a pee pad.

He should always be taken out just before bedtime and first thing in the morning, regardless of his age.

*The initial Annual Percentage Rate (APR) is currently 4.25% for a new Home Equity Line of Credit (HELOC), and is fixed for the first 5 years of the loan which is called the draw period. After the initial 5 year period, the APR can change once based on the value of an Index and Margin. The Index is the weekly average yield on U.S. Treasury Securities adjusted to a constant maturity of 10 years and the margin is 3.50%. The current APR for the repayment period is 5.75%. The maximum APR that can apply any time during your HELOC is 10%. A qualifying transaction consists of the following conditions: (1) the initial APR assumes a maximum HELOC of $100,000, and a total maximum Loan-to-Value (LTV) of 70% including the new HELOC and any existing 1st Deed of Trust loan on your residence; (2) your residence securing the HELOC must be a single-family home that you occupy as your primary residence; (3) if the 1st Deed of Trust loan is with a lender other than El Dorado Savings Bank, that loan may not exceed $200,000 and may not be a revolving line of credit. Additional property restrictions and requirements apply. All loans are subject to a current appraisal. Property insurance is required and flood insurance may be required. Rates, APR, terms and conditions are subject to change without notice. Other conditions apply. A $375 early closure fee will be assessed if the line of credit is closed within three years from the date of opening. An annual fee of $50 will be assessed on the first anniversary of the HELOC and annually thereafter during the draw period. Ask for a copy of our "Fixed Rate Home Equity Line of Credit Disclosure Notice" for additional important information. Other HELOC loans are available under different terms.

Slim Randles' HOME COUNTRY

Sometimes It's Just A Child's Smile And A Small Taste Of Love.

Mabel Adams was sitting in the day room at the Rest of Your Life retirement home when the children came in. She smiled and so did all the others in the room except for two who didn't know what was going on. The old-timers in the home knew the kids were coming and had put up Christmas decorations in the day room and on the doors of their own small apartments and on themselves. "Well, Candice, merry Christmas to you. Have you been here before?" "Well ... no, I guess. Mom said this is where the grandmas are and we can have fun bringing presents to the grandmas." "I see," Mabel said. "Well, Candice, come over here, dear and let me give you a hug. There!" Sometimes, it isn't the cost of the hankies, or the fun wrapping them up. Sometimes it's just a child's smile and a small taste of love that makes us treasure Christmas. Brought to you by the Home Country podcast at http://www.doublewidenetwork.com/index.php/MusicStarWorldwide/detail/home\_country

The Christmascification of Our Home

Dr. James L. Snyder

Our home, like every other home this time of year, bears the decorations of the Christmas season. This is all thanks to the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage. My assigned role in the whole Christmas affair was to keep out of her way. And, out of her way, I kept.

Consequently, our house is full of the glitter and tinsel of the season with Christmas music playing in the background. In the very center of all of this holiday collage, sits our Christmas tree begging for Christmas gifts. Every once in a while I catch it casting a wishful look in my direction. I pretend not to notice. After all, I'm not Santa Claus.

One afternoon I was in the house by myself and had a strange feeling something was missing. Walking around and looking at all the unique decorations I just could not put my finger on it, but something was absent. I know what a thorough job my wife does with this sort of thing, and so I was not about to approach her with my query.

The more I pondered this, the more perplexing it became. Then it hit me. There definitely was something missing in our Christmas ornamentation. The answer came to me when I was rehearsing in my mind the old poem, "Twas the Night Before Christmas."

Somewhere in the beginning of that poem are these words, "The stockings were hung by the chimney with care, in hopes that St. Nicholas soon would be there;" I quickly looked around and discovered no stockings were hung by the chimney with care.

The first problem I faced was, we had no chimney. I assure you, this was not a major setback with me in my quest. Once I set my mind to something, I will not stop until it is finished.

Not far from the Christmas tree was a shelf upon which were arranged various Christmas knick-knacks and decorations. This, in my opinion, would be a wonderful place to hang our Christmas stockings.

One other problem I had; I could not find any Christmas stockings. This would not in any way hinder my progress. I love a challenge and do my best when the odds are stacked against me.

Looking for something to improvise, which is something my wife is quite famous for, I happened to notice I was wearing socks. Voilà. Without a moments hesitation I took off my shoes, pulled off my socks and hung them on the bookshelf with care in hopes that the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage would notice them there.

We may not have a glowing fireplace in our living room, but a warm, glowing feeling of satisfaction was stirring up inside me. I love Christmas.

I almost forgot the situation when a few hours later my wife came home from her Christmas shopping. I was in my easy chair reading Charles Dickens' "A Christmas Carol." I always read this book this time of the year. Sure, I enjoy the movie adaptations, but nothing is like getting back to the real thing. A Christmas without reading "A Christmas Carol," is no Christmas in my thinking.

I was engaged with Ebenezer Scrooges' "Humbug," when I heard a cry of alarm coming from our living room. "What in the world stinks in here?"

This shows very plainly the difference between men and women. Women are always finding things that stink. My wife's nose is so delicate she can differentiate between a thousand different smells and identify the source to each and every one.

I think she has some kind of smell-phobia, which has, as far as I know, no cure. And believe me, I have looked. Living with someone allergic to stink is a real hardship.

"Did something in this house die while I was away?"

I did fall asleep and was dead to the world for about 25 minutes. I rather doubt this was the cause of the snoot full of stink she was currently experiencing. Being the dutiful husband I am, I immediately ran to her rescue.

"Something in this house stinks awfully bad."

I just looked at her not knowing what to do or say at the time. Then her attention was drawn to the stockings hung with care. "What in the world are these?" she demanded.

With a St. Francis of Assisi smile on my face, I explained to her what I had done while she was away.

"Take those filthy socks outside and burn them." Then, much to my consternation, and despite the coolness of the outside weather, all the windows and doors were opened for three days to get what she called "the stink," out of our house. Her fumigation was not in complete harmony with what I considered the holiday spirit.

Even my malodorous socks cannot diminish what Christmas is all about. After burning my socks I turned to the promise in the Old Testament, "Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel." (Isaiah 7:14 KJV). All the way to the New Testament and the fulfillment of that promise. "Behold, a virgin shall be with child, and shall bring forth a son, and they shall call his name Emmanuel, which being interpreted is, God with us." (Matthew 1:23 KJV).

Jesus is the Christmascification of every home. Apart from him, Christmas is just an empty holiday.

The Rev. James L. Snyder is pastor of the Family of God Fellowship, 1471 Pine Road, Ocala, FL 34472. He lives with his wife, Martha, in Silver Springs Shores. Call him at 352-687-4240 or e-mail james-snyder2@att.net. The church website is www.whatafellowship.com. ★
