Operation Brokenheart II Leads to Arrests of Child Predators

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) -

The Sacramento Internet Crimes Against Children (ICAC) task force along with ICAC task forces around the country took part in "Operation Brokenheart II;" a nationwide effort to identify and arrest as many child predators as possible along with providing outreach and internet safety education. This effort took place during the months of April and May of 2015 and was a coordinated effort by law enforcement representing more than 3,000 federal, state, and local law enforcement agencies nationally.

The Sacramento ICAC task force, which is part of the Sacramento Valley Hi-Tech Crimes task force, arrested four people for child pornography during the two-month-long national operation. They also served 17 search warrants and presented internet safety education to over 250 adults and children.

The operation concentrated on offenders who possess, manufacture, and distribute child pornography as well as those engaging in online enticement of children for sexual purposes.

All participating task forces targeting internet crime compiled arrest statistics from the two-month-long operation and shared them with the Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention (OJJDP) in Washington, D.C.

To report internet crimes against children, contact the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children at www. missingkids.com/cybertipline or call the cyber tip line directly at (800) 843-5678.

Exhibition of Chinese Porcelain Local Filmmakers Premiere Crime Thriller at Crocker Art Museum

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Born in Shanghai in 1962, Shimo is a respected Chinese artist who immigrated to the United States in 2003 and now divides his time between Sacramento and Shanghai. Approximately 25 porcelain objects created by Shimo, including exquisite pieces previously exhibited by major museums in China, will be on view this summer at the Crocker Art Museum. The exhibition Flowers of Fire and Earth: Shimo's Blue-and-White Porcelains opens in the Crocker's light-filled Weborg Gallery on June 21st and will be displayed through September 6th, 2015.

Shimo's blue and white porcelains decorated with lotus flowers are a perfect union of medium and subject matter. An iconic symbol in Buddhism, the lotus springs forth pristinely white from the bottom of the murky pond in which it grows, suggesting the holiness of the Buddhist doctrine and the purity of the devotee. The same is true of the porcelain itself, which comes from a dwindling deposit in Jingdezhen, China. Beautifully translucent, it is the perfect ground for representing not only the lotus and other types of flowers, but landscapes and figures—all unions of history and modernity, East and West.

Shimo pursued formal training at the Art College of the People's Liberation Army in Beijing, studying oil and set painting for four years and receiving a bachelor's degree in 1983. He next went to Shenzhen to serve as the vice-chairman of the Art Research Institute of Shenzhen and then as editor of Art Collection magazine. Returning to painting, Shimo obtained a master's degree at the Shanghai University Art Institute in 2003.

Shimo has worked in porcelain for just seven years, and only in the past four has he felt a mastery over his medium and approach. He begins by throwing his large vessels on the wheel, working diligently to achieve grace, size, and thinness. His modernist shapes include gravity-defying closed forms, spheres with long necks, and cylinders with broad shoulders or wide rims. Blue and white decoration encircles these, and bold, non-representational passages blend with recognizable motifs. Shimo has often said that he aims to "combine ancient traditions with a contemporary spirit" and, in a metaphor appropriate to his porcelains, "to melt the national aesthetics of Eastern and Western art in one furnace."

On Sunday, July 26th at 2 p.m.

at the Crocker, Shimo will demonstrate his painting technique on a vessel brought from China. Participants will be able to view the artistic process used to create works such as those in Flowers of Fire and Earth: Shimo's Blueand-White Porcelains. A brief question and answer session will follow. Space is limited; tickets can be purchased at www. crockerartmuseum.org or (916) 808-1182. A full color catalogue accompanies the exhibition.

The Crocker Art Museum was the first art museum in the Western U.S. and is one of the leading art museums in California today. Established in 1885, the Museum features one of the country's finest collections of Californian art, exceptional holdings of master drawings, a comprehensive collection of international ceramics, as well as European, Asian, African, and Oceanic art. The Crocker is located at 216 O Street in downtown Sacramento. Museum hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Sunday and 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Thursdays. Every third Sunday of the month is "Pay What You Wish Sunday," sponsored by Western Health Advantage. For more information, call (916) 808-7000 or visit www.crockerartmuseum.org.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) -

On June 21st, the locally based crime thriller pilot of RELLIK premiered at both Wizard World Sacramento Comic Con and the Tower Theatre in Roseville. The Roseville premiere featured most of the cast and crew, and the excitement was palpable as everyone saw the results of their work on the big screen. RELLIK was directed by Tim Russ, known primarily for his role as Tuvok on Star Trek Voyager. Originally contacted to act in the series, Russ was intrigued by the script and ended up directing instead. The cast and crew hope that the web series will be picked up by a streaming service for wider distribution.

Messenger Publishing Group was able to speak with Craig DeLuz - who plays the character of Dante Valentino and is one of the writers and producers of RELLIK – about how he got involved in the project and what he wants the public to know about the series.

MPG: How did you get involved in this project?

DeLuz: A little over a year ago, a casting call went out to film what was going to be the pilot of a web series, which was actually a small segment of what you saw in the theater. I came to find out that I actually knew the head writer the only writer at the time – Brian Jagger, and I let him know that I was really excited about it and I had written for stage, but I would be interested in doing some writing for RELLIK if they were interested.

MPG: Where is the series aoing to go?

DeLuz: What I can tell you is this: that the pilot really comes across as a police show, but it's a crime thriller. And it's as much about the killer as it is about the detectives hunting down the killer. There's going to be lots of twists and lots of turns, but I think that when people get the chance to see the pilot on the screen, I think people are really going to be excited about the direction, the twist that it has.

MPG: Is there anything you'd like the public to know about RELLIK?

DeLuz: As far as I know, there hasn't been a product or show with the level of potential that RELLIK has to be something in the Sacramento region, to employ the number of actors and number of people in front of the screen and behind the scenes. It's really important that if we want to bring more [projects like this] that the Sacramento community get behind...efforts like these. We have to work with the elected officials to make this happen. Because I'll tell you, the City of Roseville, Placer County, and businesses over in Sacramento County—they really went out of their way to make it happen. I haven't seen a single community come together the way they have to support this project. It's been humbling and for those of us – the four of us – who just started out; I can tell you that we fully recognize that this is a really huge success. And no one actor and no one writer made this happen. It was a team effort in every sense of the word. And you saw it, the results were fantastic.

CARMICHAEL COMMUNITY UPDATE

By County Supervisor Susan Peters

Through the generosity of the Carmichael Times, this column serves to provide an update about matters affecting the unincorporated community of Carmichael.

Parades, Fun, and Fireworks

There will be an abundance of activities as Carmichael celebrates the Fourth of July.

The fun kicks off with a pancake breakfast sponsored by the Kiwanis Club from 7 a.m. to 11 a.m. at Carmichael Park, followed by the 57th Annual Elks Club Parade on Fair Oaks Boulevard starting at 10:30 a.m. at Marconi Avenue and continuing to Manzanita and Cypress avenues. The parade features floats, antique automobiles, marching bands, equestrian entries, and much more.

You can also experience fireworks lighting up the evening sky at the La Sierra Community Center, 5325 Engle Road. The first sky rocket is expected to go off at approximately 9:30 p.m. And starting at 7 p.m. there will be plenty of activities before the big show, including music, food, and children's activities.

For information, please visit www.carmichaelpark.com.

Use Only Safe & Sane Fireworks

Because of the current drought and risk of fire danger, please only use those fireworks that have been certified as "safe and sane" when celebrating this year's Independence Day.

Dangerous illegal fireworks like aerial shells and other flying devices pose a significant fire hazard, potentially allowing sparks to fall onto roofs and dry brush. If you are aware of illegal fireworks being used, please call the Sheriff via the non-emergency number at (916) 874-5115 or, if an emergency situation exists, dial 911.

Penalties for owning illegal fireworks start with five days in county jail—and the sanctions increase if the fireworks were actually used or if child endangerment occurred.

Parkway Alcohol Ban

This Fourth of July weekend there will be a complete ban on alcohol consumption and possession both on land and in the water within the American River Parkway between Hazel and Watt avenues. An exception exists for Ancil Hoffman Golf Course.

In past years, summer holiday weekends had become major problems along the American River, making the parkway less of a family-friendly outing because of fights, public nudity, profanity, and littering. The Board of Supervisors restored decorum beginning with the 2006 Labor Day weekend, and the ban is also applicable for Independence Day as well as Memorial Day.

Susan Peters represents the Third District on the Sacramento County Board of Supervisors. She can be reached at susanpeters@saccounty.net.

ARIES (March 21 to April 19) Although you don't like to change plans once they're set, once again, you might find that doing so can make a big difference in your favor. Family matters dominate the weekend.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20) You continue to get encouragement for your proposals, including some support from unlikely sources. Use this positive flow to move forward with your plans. Good luck.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 20) Family matters are dominant this week. It's a good time to be with those you love. It's also a good time to contact and reunite with loved ones with whom you've lost touch.

CANCER (June 21 to July 22) Be careful not to allow differences of opinion to create unpleasant feelings, especially in the workplace. A neutral observer could check out the situation and suggest a resolu-

LEO (July 23 to August 22) While the Lion's Den is the center of attention this week. with family matters dominating much of your time, workplace issues are also important. Try to find a balance between them.

ber 22) The future of a new relationship could depend on how much the usually impatient-to-get-things-done Virgo is willing to stop pushing and let things happen naturally.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Worry over a loved one's well-being is eased with good news from a sympathetic source. Your continued show of love and support is important. Stay with it.

SCORPIO (October 23 to No*vember 21)* This is a good time to consider mending fences with someone you wish was back in your life. Forget about blame, and focus on the good things you once shared.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) This is a good week to start researching information regarding whatever changes you're considering, whether it involves a new home, a new location or a new job.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A long-anticipated job opportunity could turn out to be less than you expected. But appearances might be deceiving. Check it out before you decide it's not for you.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Good news: Adapting to a new situation might come more easily than you expected. You can look for continued support from colleagues who appreciate your contributions.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Someone you care for might need more reassurance from the typically "unemotional" Pisces. Go ahead. Open up, and you might be surprised at what you find when you do.

BORN THIS WEEK: You are a romantic at heart, although you can be amazingly practical when you need to be.

ment to the case. It all depends on how engaged you can be with Altman's struggle to recover the painting, "Portrait of Adele Bloch-Bauer I" by Gustav Klimt (you've probably seen a poster of it if you've ever been near a college dorm). To raise the stakes, the movie endeavors to make you feel for Altman not as somebody fighting for an ineffably valuable painting, but somebody trying to reclaim part of her lost family.

her side is young lawyer Randal

Schoenal (Ryan Reynolds, doing something a little different), who develops his own personal attach-

"5 Flights Up" (PG-13) - A couple of retired lovebirds have nested in the same Brooklyn apartment since they bought it in the 1970s. Alex (Morgan Freeman) is a stubborn-but-loveable painter, and Ruth (Diane Keaton) is a neurotic-but-loveable exteacher. The neighborhood has changed a lot, and property values have pierced the sky, so the endearing couple puts their place on the market and start shopping for a new home. An alleged terrorist threat snarls traffic in the city, and there's an even less-relevant story about a sick dog.

The movie only functions on the charm of Keaton and Freeman, while the plot -- especially those little subplots -- are like roads to nowhere. It's a common pitfall for book-to-movie adaptations. Still, it's a sweet and smart look at the far end of long-term love.

"71" (R) - A young British private, Gary Hook (Jack O'Connell) is left stranded and struggling to survive in hostile Northern Ireland in 1971 during the full swing of the bloody, decades-long conflict known as the Troubles. Based on real accounts of what happened one night in Belfast, Hook is left wounded after a riot separates him from his unit. In one long night, Hook faces threats from all sides, doesn't know where to go or whom to trust. The film works both as an examination of modern conflict where lines are blurry, and as expertly crafted action.

"The Slow West" (R) - Here's a killer Western with a brain, great acting and a Gatling-gun soundtrack. A baby-faced, uppercrust Scottish 16-year-old named Jay Cavendish (Kodi Smit-McPhee) should last about as long as a snowball in this version of the Old West, if it weren't for his wry, gunslinging travel-buddy, Silas (Michael Fassbender, impeccable as always). Jay's on a mission to find his lost love and experience the West, while all manner of scum and savagery close in. With this first feature film, writerdirector John Maclean makes his entrance like a desperado tearing through the saloon doors.

"Climate Anger:" Last Refuge of the Alarmists

by Robert Bradley Jr.

For purveyors of climate alarm, emotional displays of intolerance are increasingly crowding out reasoned argument. But remember the adage: "Hate hurts the hater more than the hated.'

Consider President Obama. At the White House Correspondents Dinner last month, the president used the lighthearted occasion to shout at those who doubt his climate-change narrative. "It is crazy! What about our kids? What kind of stupid, short-sided irresponsible bull..." said the president before a comedian jokingly cut him off.

The current elephant-in-theroom for climate alarmists is the "pause" or "hiatus" in global warming.

Green activists have preached that the Earth's temperature would rise steadily into a global crisis. For the 1990s, their model predictions appeared plausible. But global temperatures have slowed considerably since 1998, despite steadily rising levels of carbon-dioxide emissions (the alleged cause of warming).

This was not supposed to happen. "Pauses as long as 15 years are rare in the simulations," wrote Science magazine scribe Richard Kerr. "Researchers ... agree that no sort of natural variability can hold off greenhouse warming much longer." That was six years ago.

The pause is now the ever greater pause. And even if global temperature sets new record highs, it will be by hundredths of a degree, well below the modelpredicted increase. The "pause" is even more the climate-model discrepancy: "95% of Climate Models Agree: The Observations Must be Wrong," one climatologist humorously wrote.

On the political side, Senators Edward Markey (D-MA), Barbara Boxer (D-CA), and Sheldon Whitehouse (D-RI) began investigating 100 fossil fuel organizations suspected of "funding scientific studies designed to confuse the public and avoid taking action to cut carbon pollution.

By "confuse the public," they mean question the sacred view that climate change will soon compromise the planet. In their view, scientists who contradict the doom-and-gloom climate narrative are a threat to the public and must be discredited as shills of industry.

Another specie of climate desperation leading to anger is exaggerated scientific speculation. In a remarkable display of illogic, Rep. Barbara Lee (D-CA) has managed to link global warming to prostitution—citing, of course, some study. She claims that global warming harms women in developing nations, forcing many into "situations such as sex work, transactional sex, and early

It's time for green activists et al. to come back to Earth. Fossil fuels aren't going anywhere. According to the U.S. Energy Information Administration's 2015 Annual Energy Outlook, the United States will depend on fossil fuels to supply 80% of its energy needs in 2040. That's not far off last year's 82%.

As for the world, a robust three-fourths of primary energy consumption will come from fossil fuels in 2040, the International Energy Agency predicts.

The EIA's recent report noted specifically that oil and natural gas production would continue to grow. By 2017, the United States will be a net exporter of natural gas. Right now, U.S. production of 9.4 million barrels per day is close to record levels.

Americans are less worried about the environment than at any time since the 1980s, according to Gallup. Concern over global warming, the same poll found, has waned measurably since last year.

The devout parishioners of climate calamity may label the rest of us as moral degenerates. But there are real here-and-now problems that need their time and dollars. And to the angry: a new cause might bring peace of mind—and spare the household budgets of the rest of us.

Robert L. Bradley Jr. is the founder and CEO of the Institute for Energy Research.

O Say Can't You See, My Brother

It has become customary in our United States of America to have a performance of our National Anthem, the Star-Spangled Banner, before so many of our treasured major sporting events.

Some of these performances have been fantastic, some well-done, some sub-par, and sometimes the singers have screwed up the lyrics—typically American, diversity on

But above it all, our flag, the Stars and Stripes, yet waved gallantly streaming, as it shall for as long as our nation marches forward through time with the flag as a symbol of our unity in triumph, strength, and perseverance well beyond the miseries of battle, from whence our Anthem was born.

Just as we might with regard to our athletes' showings on the fields of play, we can sense a wide variety of sentiments with regard to our nation's performance. We can feel so proud of success with dignity. We can accept resignation to some moral victory, feeling as though all best efforts were exhausted. We can admit to our disappointment when the results fall well short of our highest hopes.

We can admire the stature of our "team" in the world today, understanding the humble beginnings, and the struggles and strife endured along the way. We can sense both pride and shame regarding differing periods through our nation's formation and growth. We are able to feel free to express our emotions and bravely move on, looking ahead while striving to continue to improve our "home" for another day, another game. We struggle with change, sometimes even over the idea of welcoming the tired, poor, huddled masses yearning to breathe free.

Years ago we welcomed one such man, a 7-foot-7 basketball player from a small tribal village in South Sudan named Manute Bol. Bol considered his height to be his gift, and basketball was his ticket to America, where he eventually became the tallest player (and probably the thinnest) ever to play in the NBA. He overcame seemingly insurmountable obstacles to have a college career in the early 1980s and a 10-year NBA career, including two full seasons with the Golden State Warriors when he became the best of friends with Hall of Famer Chris Mullin.

Bol adventured from an existence as a cattle-herding Dinka, fighting off lions with spears to walk eight miles to see his girlfriend, to one in which he had to fight off hip-checks from Charles Barkley to fill his plate at the bountiful post-game spreads

All the while that Bol was blocking shots and making his way in the NBA, topping out at a $1.5 million salary, his homeland was perpetually on his mind. Sudan had once again plunged into civil war due to a number of factors, including differences between the north and south, ethnic and religious conflicts, elitism, and resourcebased exploitation of oil, water, and land. The poorest suffered most; the rural, pastoral life that Bol had known was destroyed. As the atrocities escalated, his village ceased to exist and many relatives were among the eventual two million civilians to die in the south through the course of the war.

In the book Manute: The Center of Two Worlds (1993, by Leigh Montville of Sports Illustrated), Bol said, "If I were in the Sudan right now, I would be starving with the rest of my people." Bol made one trip home to witness his people's plight in a hastily rebuilt plane that landed before thousands of hungry refugees with a reporter aboard who described a horrible scene: "They are more bones than flesh and they are dressed in rags or nothing at all and they are staring at you anxiously because you have just stepped out of an airplane and an airplane means to them one of two things: They will either be fed or bombed."

This plane brought them a brother, Manute, who dedicated himself to their cause. Bol died in 2010, a year before South Sudan became an independent nation still engulfed in perpetual power struggles, violence, and misery. Bol, in his lifetime, had become a beacon of hope for peace. Last week in the capital, Juba, the inaugural Manute Bol Tournament was held. An organizer and cousin of Manute said, "The theme of this tournament is that sport can unite us...these spectators are from all races of South Sudan. That is what it means: bringing them together to share something they love, which is basketball."

Take a look around on the playing surfaces and among the crowds in our arenas, stadiums, sports bars, and other venues across our land from sea to shining sea—diversity reigns—sports brings us together, too, despite our differences. We sing together and pay respect to our symbol of unity, and the vast spectrum of what it stands for-realizing there are both good and bad elements to enduring and always many hurdles to overcome. We've never given much attention to the other three verses of the Anthem, but there is a line in there... "...conquer we must when our cause is just." And, we might consider incorporating some other patriotic lines into our thinking, like "...crown our good with brotherhood."

An area newspaper ran a picture of a homeless man holding a sign, "FOOD," and a story about how to deal with such a problem. If brother Manute were alive today, he would probably say, "Give him some food, a place to stay, and let him see a doctor."

Northwest Student Exchange Seeks Host Families for 2015–2016 School Year

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Responsible parents looking for ways to supplement the educational and personal growth opportunities for their children should consider hosting a teenage exchange student for an academic semester or year. For children and adults alike, daily interaction with a new, international family member broadens their perspective on the world and allows for discovery of new facts and ideas.

NorthWest Student Exchange (NWSE) places international high school students with families all over the country, including here in our community. Exchange students add a dimension to the family dynamic that cannot be achieved in any other way. The benefits to the exchange student are perhaps obvious: honing their English language skills; learning about the educational system in this country; understanding U.S. social, political, and cultural values; and establishing international friendships. Benefits to the hosts are similar: Not only can host families learn about another culture and its values, they can view the U.S. through another's eyes, thereby gaining a broader understanding of our own country.

And families do not have to have children at home to host! Many childless couples, empty nesters, and single-parent families have enjoyed exchange students. Those who cannot host can earn financial incentives for referring families who do host.

NWSE exchange students are closely screened for appropriate motivation and academic and language skills; students have solid emotional and practical support from NWSE professional partners abroad and from the students' natural parents in their own countries. Exchange students come with their own spending money and health and accident insurance. NWSE local Academic Coordinators recruit, screen, and orient local host families and provide close support throughout the program.

It's easy to get more information about hosting. Potential hosts can call Area Coordinator Sheryl Longsworth at (916) 833-1218 or NWSE at (877) 850-3312. You can also email sheryl6663@yahoo.com or info@nwse.com. For more information, visit www.nwse.com and click "Host an Exchange Student."

The Front-Runner in Name Only

The last time Jeb Bush ran for office, it was 13 years ago. Barack Obama was serving in the Illinois state Senate. No one had heard of Obamacare or the tea party, and wouldn't for years. It was before the invasion of Iraq, before Hurricane Katrina, before the financial meltdown. We had just invaded Afghanistan, and Saddam Hussein still ruled Iraq. It was a political epoch ago.

If timing is everything in politics, Bush has, among other things, a timing problem. He had an exemplary record as a conservative reformer in Florida almost a decade ago, but the achievements and fights of the other Republican governors running for president have been the stuff of contemporary headlines. He is a gifted politician, but his father and brother preceded him to the presidency, giving his campaign an inevitable dynastic air as the vehicle of "the third Bush."

His fundraising, even if it falls short of the widely cited $100 million mark, has been prodigious. But there has been a stark enthusiasm gap between donors and actual voters. If the Republican nomination were going to be fought out exclusively in fundraisers held in corporate conference rooms and fancy homes, Bush would be winning in a rout. Instead, he is clustered with a few other top contenders, a front-runner in name only.

His freshly unveiled "Jeb!" logo might be more appropriately punctuated with a question mark, about whether he can excite Republican voters in a field that is as large and talented as any in memory.

The Mitt Romney path to the nomination is not available to him. Bush can't show up with a fundraising advantage, a professional operation and a resume, then expect to inexorably grind down all the other candidates. Romney could do that in 2012 against an unprepared Rick Perry, an undisciplined Newt Gingrich and an unfunded Rick Santorum. Bush is running against a field that has about a half-dozen candidates who would have been in the top tier last time around.

Romney won the nomination despite his Massachusetts health-care plan that was anathema to much of the party.

It's one thing to have a few heterodoxies, though; it's another to be defined by them. What most conservatives heard from Bush during the Obama years was his plaints about the GOP's tone, and his support for comprehensive immigration reform and Common Core. Those two issues have come up over and over again during the early phase of the campaign, and while Bush has adjusted his positions a little, he hasn't changed them.

Bush gave a spirited announcement speech to a boisterous crowd in Miami, the best public moment of his campaign so far. The party will need to know he's a fighter, and chiefly of the left and the media, not his own side. It will need to know that he has an agenda new and different from his brother, and much broader and more conservative than his famous stances on immigration and Common Core.

Bush is a genuinely accomplished executive and a creative policy wonk, with a natural sense of authority. He is a talented man, in the political fight of his life.

Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: would love to help pets in some way, but the local animal shelter doesn't need volunteers, and there isn't much else going on in my area. Do you have any suggestions? -- Kara in Idaho DEAR KARA: Check your local newspapers (or their websites) and your town's website for volunteer opportunities. There may not be anything right now, but needs change throughout the year for many nonprofits.

So, what if there really are no opportunities near you? Consider creating one. Organizing a fundraiser for a pet charity (or your local animal shelter) is one fast way to do something positive.

Or, if you spot a need that isn't being met in the local pet community, create a way to fulfill that need. For example, a military couple created "Dogs On Deployment," a website that helps military members find temporary homes for their pets (not just dogs) before they leave for overseas assignments.

What if senior citizens in your area need help keeping their pets' shots up to date? You could talk to local vets and perhaps the local shelter about ways to help them. Perhaps your town has no facilities for pets, such as a dog park or even pet zones in local parks. Start exploring the possibility of getting a park built. You could even start with something as small as an awareness campaign that educates store owners about the many types of service dogs (and other service animals) that are helping disabled people these days. Keep your eyes open for inventive opportunities to contribute positively to pet care,

with Mary Jane Popp

FAT-ME-NOT

Summer is creeping up on us. Have you looked in the mirror lately? Are you ready to shed those sweaters for the itsy bitsy bikini? What if you could burn that nasty fat without pills or super exercising? Dr. Sandeep Grewal says there are fat burning foods. Along with Dr. Myo New, Dr. Grewal has finally connected the advances in weight-loss science in the book Fat-Me-Not, the weight loss diet of the future. Why try to lose weight the old way when powerful new research can make it simpler, easier, and safer to shed those pounds? Dr. Sandeep, board certified by the American Board of Internal Medicine shared the type of diet you should create to burn fat with me on my POPPOFF Radio Show, like:

1) EATING REAL FOOD.

E.g. whole grain food, meat, eggs, vegetables and fruits that promote gut workout, spend about 35% more calories digesting and absorbing the food, and also increase the satiety and cut cravings for sweet sugary drinks. Choose the diet that allows you to eat real foods rather than protein shakes and powders.

2) EATING A BALANCED DIET RATHER THAN A LOW CARB, LOW FAT DIET. Different body organs need different nutrients, for example, sugar (carb) is essential for blood cells and brain cells. Without the sugar, the brain will be chasing cabs and sweets. That's how cravings begin and the discipline of dieting gets ruined. That is the reason if you want to results. Losing weight from bikini!

body water and lean body are short term. Quick fix diets will get you weight loss for a short time and then pounds come back with a vengeance.

3) EATING FOUR OR FIVE TIMES A DAY. Our metabolism goes down 40% if we do not eat for more than four to six hours. It shuts down the less essential departments of the body. If your body senses that you are a regular breakfast skipper or small lunch eater, or just one meal a day eater, it will be cutting the calories by 40% without realizing it. That's why some obese people gain more weight without eating much. So let's fast-pace our metabolism by eating at least four to five times a day in correct portions. Let the gut work hard by digesting, transporting, absorbing, storing, and transforming the nutrients at the intervals of approximately every four hours. When your gut is working hard, you know it's burning

4) FOODS THAT BURN FAT. Whole grain breads and pasta, brown rice, legumes, lentils...good stable foods. A variety of colorful vegetables will give your gut a good workout and burn more calories. High-fiber diets promote fat-me-not bacteria in the gut and promote weight loss. Lean meat, fish, and seafood are great fat burners. For example, compare a protein shake vs a piece of lean meat with the same calories...eating meat will burn up to 40% more calories than the readymade protein shakes and the lean meat will enhance the gut workout by chewing, digesting, absorbing, and transforming the nutrients. Coffee, pepper, and chewy veggies are good metabolism enhancers. Good fat such as

"A high desert evening..."

It is the heat that defines us this time of year. Defines our sweaty days with the brassy skies and afternoons that make us clamor for shade. The heat gives us an excuse to make June the biggest beer-drinking month of the year and returns certain words to our vocabularies: cooler pads, swampers, squirrel cages.

The days themselves aren't much fun, and we pity those who spend the days working outdoors, even as we envied them in the soft warmth of spring. The heat is an entity now, an oppressive, overbearing beast that weighs on our brains and taxes our body.

It's the price we pay each summer for living in such a beautiful place. But there is a that cools the skin. Mix this with a fulmination of little night varmint sounds of peeping and chirping and croaking. And guitars. Whether we play them ourselves or just turn on the radio, it is a setting that is perfect for guitars. Villalobos, Fernando Sor, Tarrega, Randy Travis, Doc Watson.

We sit in brick-paved patios with something cool and someone sweet and relax and talk about dreams, because on evenings like this, anything is possible. On nights like this, it's difficult to decide whether remembering evenings like this in the past is better than anticipating those to come. All we really know is that it sure is nice to be here right now.

A high desert evening is a testament to the good things of life. Iced tea tastes better, showers feel more refreshing, neighbors seem nicer. There they are, out on the porch with all the kids. Ah, those wonderful kids ... well, yes, they're the same ones we complained about in March, but on a night like this one, all is forgiven. Let's wave back.

Tonight I'm going to see if I can remember all the words to "Little Joe the Wrangler" and find out if my guitar is still in

The Exciting New World of Implant Supported Dentures

• Has the Security of a Fixed Bridge! • Easier to Maintain Good Oral Hygiene

There are millions of people in the U.S. who are edentulous (meaning without teeth) who struggle daily with dentures. A majority suffer from discomfort as a result of loose or illfitting dentures. Many prosthetic wearers simply withdraw from any type of social engagement as a result of having to wear their dentures.

Lower dentures almost never fit properly. They are loose fitting due to less surface area which can't create a suction, shrinking gum tissue and bone loss, which can cause irritation in the mouth, sores and pain. The only relief is using sticky dental adhesive to help it, but it is very messy, hard to clean off and needs multiple applications throughout the day.

Upper dentures are better than lower dentures due to a suction in the upper palate that keeps the denture in place. However, having the palate covered reduces the tastes of foods and the ability to tell the temperature of foods.

Partial Dentures can be a source of discomfort due to lack of supporting teeth or an illfitting partial. Partials also use clasps to secure to existing teeth which can be noticeable and can put added pressure to the existing teeth.

Now there is a solution to these issues: Implants with "Snap On" Dentures!

Whether you are new to dentures or have worn them for years, a snap on denture is a great solution to uncomfortable chewing and slippery painful dentures. There are several types of snap on dentures available, including snap on partials. We make your denture or partial fit and function in harmony with the space available in your mouth, and give custom attention to the delicate fabrication of your snap on denture.

A snap on denture gets some support from the implants that it snaps onto. Unlike conventional dentures that rest on the gums, a snap on denture is anchored to multiple implant snaps and is therefore much more stable and comfortable.

Two or more implant snaps can be used on the upper and/or lower jaw. The more snaps that are placed, the more stable the denture will be. Much like a four legged chair would be more stable than a three or two legged chair, the use of denture snaps keep the denture stable, secure and comfortable. These snaps are designed with different levels of retention, customized to the needs of the patient. When the snaps wear out, replacing them is a simple and inexpensive procedure.

If you already wear a conventional denture or partial denture, we can sometimes use your denture to accommodate the snaps to fit on your new dental implants.

If you are interested in learning more about improving your quality of life with an implant retained snap on denture or partial, please contact us for a FREE CONSULTATION today!
