We Love a Parade while braving 110 Degrees

Shaded by hats, umbrellas and obliging trees, families lined Fair Oaks Boulevard to cheer the Carmichael Elks 55th annual July 4 Parade.

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) – Surviving the hottest July 4 parade in recent history, over 1000 people, horses, dogs and vehicles last week made the mile-plus trek down Fair Oaks Boulevard.

Though blazing heat reduced crowds, many thousands of sidewalk patriots stood their ground to applaud the 55th Carmichael Elks Parade. Grand Marshal was Sheriff John McGinness, a local hero who watched the parade many times during his California Avenue childhood. Also honored in the vanguard was 90-year-old Lola Warrick. Her family staged Carmichael's first parade in 1958 and has run the behemoth ever since.

As temperatures dropped slightly by evening, 3000 high-spirited onlookers cheered a dazzling 20-minute pyrotechnic display in the ground of the la Sierra Community Center. July 4 celebrations were sponsored by: Carmichael Elks, Carmichael Kiwanis, Carmichael and Mission Oaks Park Districts.

Gasoline Excise Tax Increases 3.5 Cents

Higher gasoline prices mean the BOE must adjust the excise tax to make up for the sales tax loss, and achieve the revenue neutrality mandated by the legislation.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) – July 1, 2013, the excise tax on gasoline increased 3.5 cents per gallon, from a rate of 36 cents to 39.5 cents per gallon. Assembly Bill x8 6, Ch. 11, and Senate Bill 70, Ch. 9, which became law in 2010, lowered the sales and use tax rate on gasoline and increased the excise tax rate on July 1, 2010. The laws require the annual sales and excise taxes paid on gasoline to remain revenue neutral, assuring the tax burden on consumers is the same.

These laws also mandate that the California State Board of Equalization (BOE) adjust the excise tax rate by March 1 of each year in order to ensure revenue neutrality.

Board Members are sensitive to the financial impact of higher gas prices, but state law requires the BOE to adjust the excise tax rate every year to achieve revenue neutrality.

While gasoline consumption has been reduced slightly in recent years, in 2011 and 2012 the price of gasoline greatly and unexpectedly outpaced these modest declines in consumption. Higher gasoline prices mean the BOE must adjust the excise tax to make up for the sales tax loss, and achieve the revenue neutrality mandated by the legislation.

Gasoline sales tax revenues fund local government programs, while the state excise tax on gasoline funds highway and mass transit projects throughout California.

The five-member California State Board of Equalization (BOE) is a publicly elected tax board. The BOE collects more than $53.7 billion annually in taxes and fees supporting state and local government services. It hears business tax appeals, acts as the appellate body for franchise and personal income tax appeals, and serves a significant role in the assessment and administration of property taxes.

For more information on other taxes and fees in California, visit www.taxes.ca.gov.

Fire Tax Bills Will Resume on July 15

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) – Cal Fire informed State Senator Jim Nielsen (R-Gerber) that they will resume the collection of the fire tax on Monday, July 15 after a four month delay.

Citing “errors and inconsistencies” following an investigation in March, Cal Fire temporarily delayed this year’s fire tax bills. Over 1,300 parcels were incorrectly identified in SRA boundaries according to news reports.

Longtime critic of the fire tax and author of legislative proposals to repeal the illegal tax, Sen. Nielsen expressed his outrage on the continuation of the tax.

“Property owners were promised that the tax would be used to prevent wildfires,” said Sen. Nielsen. “Instead, it is being used to grow the state’s bureaucracy and take legal action against landowners.”

In response to Nielsen’s inquiry, the Legislature’s own attorneys have told the department that they cannot use monies collected from this tax to pay for the Civil Cost-Recovery Program, but they chose to ignore legal counsel.

Signed into law on July 7, 2011 by Governor Brown, Assembly Bill 1x 29 established a new annual fire tax of $150 on property owners located within the State Responsibility Area (SRA). Cal Fire’s governing body, the Board of Forestry and Fire Protection took further action by passing regulations to increase the tax and broaden the implications of the tax.

Earlier this year, news reports exposed the unauthorized transfer of $3.6 million in Cal Fire’s settlement monies to an outside organization since 2005. This money has been inappropriately spent on a wide array of questionable expenditures that have nothing to do with reimbursing the state for firefighting costs, including $33,000 at a luxury resort in Pismo Beach and the purchase of 600 digital cameras.

Cal Fire has not and will not be using the SRA fire tax revenue solely on fire prevention as was its stated statutory purpose; but on administration and other bureaucratic costs which do not provide any specific benefit to SRA taxpayers. Legislators and taxpayers were deceived.

In the recently approved state budget, Cal Fire received authorization to spend the approximately $73 million collected from the SRA tax to pay for the fire prevention program. However, of this $73 million, $4.2 million will be used for the Civil Cost-Recovery Program, the very program from which the hidden funds derived. This is a direct act of defiance by legislative Democrats, as their own Legislative Counsel’s legal opinion indicated that the use of SRA fee for this program was inappropriate.

Parcel owners who feel they were billed in error have 30 days to appeal. For further information, go to FirePreventionFee.org or call Cal Fire at (888) 310-6447.

For property owners who wish to be kept informed about the lawsuit filed by the Howard Jarvis Taxpayers Association to challenge the constitutionality of this tax, please go to website their website at firetaxprotest.org.

Teamwork and Girl Power Rules at Ballroom Showcase

The Mirror Ballroom presented high-octane antics of Fierce Femmes. Lead dancer Jamie Cooper got a lift from partner Djess Herrick. Inset: An invigorating blast of street smarts was injected by hip-hoppers from the Hawkins School of Performing Arts. Photos by Susan Maxwell Skinner.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA – (MPG) Femmes were fatale; teens were on their toes; men were poetry in motion.

Over 100 dancers of all ages combined talents in a recent ballroom showcase in Rancho Cordova. Shades of Michael Jackson and Bob Fosse contrasted with hip-hop and Argentine tango. Old Vienna waltzed in undulating flounces. In tail coats and patent shoes, the ghost of Fred Astaire was never far away.

Rancho Cordova's Capital Dance Center hosted the event, presenting dancers from many Northern California studios. Amateurs were applauded warmly and the professional stylings of Russian headliners earned standing ovations.

The center's second annual showcase also introduced an edgy female formation team: eight 20 to 40-year-olds dancing both male and female parts. Fierce Femmes' leader Jamie Cooper donned flapper fringes to be tossed shoulder-high by an Amazonian partner. "I created our team from women who wanted to perform without worrying about lead-and-follow roles," Cooper explained. "We've been dancing for three years. People love our energy and choreography." A racy pas de deux of flips, lifts and splits to Tina Turner's "Proud Mary," provoked astonished onlooker admiration. "It's useful to be strong," said Cooper of partner Djess Herrick. "But for lifts, core technique is more important."

The Capital Dance Center offers beginner to advanced lessons for all ages. The facility is at 11270 Sanders Drive (behind Costco) in Rancho Cordova. Telephone: 916-635-2600. Website: www.CapitalDanceCenter.com.

Summer is here! And that means many golfers will be dusting off their clubs and heading to the greens. Golf can be fantastic exercise and a powerful source of stress reduction. However, golf can also be hard on the spine, often triggering back disorders. At Chiropractic USA, we teach patients how to keep their spines up to par when hitting the links. Exciting new research shows that regular chiropractic care may boost a golfer's performance.

According to Dr Tom L Fountain, a chiropractor who tours with the PGA, 80-85 percent of the athletes on the tour are under regular chiropractic care. "Back pain is the most common physical complaint among professional and recreational golfers." But you don't have to be a pro golfer to reap the rewards of Chiropractic care. Chiropractic USA finds that amateur golfers derive significant benefits from chiropractic as well – both in terms of injury prevention and in terms of optimizing athletic performance.

Chiropractic Boosts Golfers' Swing Performance

Few research indicates that chiropractic care may boost golfers' swing performance. In a recent study, investigators followed 143 golfers at two clubs. The participants were divided into two groups. Between the two groups, "average age handicap and initial swing were comparable."

Both groups took part in a stretching program. In addition, one group also received chiropractic care twice a week for six weeks. At each session, "all golfers performed 3 full-swing maneuvers. Ball range was considered as the average distance for the 3 shots."

After six weeks, golfers who underwent both stretching and chiropractic care enjoyed significant improvement in full-swing performance. On the other hand, full-swing performance did not change significantly in the stretching-only group.

Chiropractic Care Boosts Golfer's Performance

Putting for Perfect Posture

Another way that chiropractic care enhances a golfer's performance is by focusing on posture. For instance, a level backswing is dependent on proper posture. A back-swing is actually two motions in one: the up/down movement of the arms and the rotation of the body – both are directly dependent on spinal health.

That's why a healthy spine is so vital to a golfer's fame. If the spine is out of alignment, the spinal motion will be affected so the swing will be out of alignment. That's also why so many professional and amateur golfers alike schedule regular chiropractic check-ups.

By correcting a spinal condition called vertebral subluxation, chiropractors help perfect the postures – and golf games – of patients.

Is Your Bag to Blame

Although golfers tend to blame back-related problems on suboptimal swings, many golf-related injuries have nothing to do with the actual game. Golf bags, by themselves, have substantial bulk and weight. Add to that the maximum number of clubs allowed during course play. A back pack strap that fits over both shoulders is always the best way to balance the spine if you are carrying clubs.

Cancel the Cart

Here's a simple way to dramatically improve your fitness level: Choose to walk the course, rather than rent a cart. I recommend a push cart over carrying clubs to reduce spinal stress. Walking elevates aerobic activity, increases stamina and boosts immunity: maximizing athletic performance and warding off injury.

Back in Shape

Low-back injuries are particularly common among golfers. Why does golf generate – and aggravate – low-back pain? According to researchers, the answer is two-fold: poor mechanics of spinal motion and today's more demanding swing. "Stiff hips and back muscles are often the root causes of flawed mechanics. The disks between the spinal vertebrae get less elastic with the years and, therefore, are less able to distribute the stresses that the swing puts on the back."

Warm Up Before You Tee Off

Warming up is essential when it comes to staying in the game. However, despite overwhelming evidence supporting the need to warm up, most golfers remain cold to the idea. "Few amateur players adequately warm up before practicing or playing a round of golf. If you don't stretch prior to golfing, you are asking your body to play golf with an added handicap. Muscles that are warm and stretched properly prior to teeing off are supple and loose, which enables your body to perform to its full potential."

Additional benefits related to stretching and warming up are outlined in the "Professional Golf Association (PGA) Tour Golf Academy Student Instruction Manual:

- Greater swing flexibility and motion, allowing for a solid follow-through without straining any muscles.
- Improved muscle endurance.
- Fewer aches, pain – and lessened chance of injury.
- Increased enjoyment of the game.

There are countless stretching exercises from which to choose. At Chiropractic USA, we evaluate your posture and muscle balance then outline a routine for you that are tailored to your needs.

Leave the Painkillers in the Sand Trap

Before reaching for a pill to ease post-golf soreness, consider this: Doctors of chiropractic don't believe pain should be masked. Instead, our office focuses on the source of the disorder, restoring alignment and motion to the spine with chiropractic adjustments. So, before hitting the links this season, schedule an appointment for a sports chiropractic checkup.

Women's Chorus Celebrates 25 Years

Sacramento Women's Chorus, which has grown in size and popularity over the years, moves Rehearsal site from East Sacramento to Carmichael. Photo by Kati Garner.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)—The Sacramento Women's Chorus (SWC) recently moved their rehearsal site to St. Mark's United Methodist Church on Monday, July 1st. Before moving to the Carmichael rehearsal site, the SWC rehearsed at First Christian Church on Folsom Boulevard in East Sacramento for four years and hosted an annual Holiday benefit concert and sing-along there for the past three years.

The SWC is celebrating 25 years of offering their unique voice to the arts community in the Sacramento area through twice-yearly concerts, a seasonal December concert and sing-along to benefit homeless women and children, and numerous appearances throughout the year in support of groups and individuals who share their commitment to peace, the environment, justice and equality, and to the celebration of women's lives and creation of community through song.

The chorus has grown in size and popularity over the years, from once being down to only 8 members to a current roster of 56 members, making their move to St. Mark's necessary.

Please join the SWC as they enter their 26th season of "opening hearts and minds through music" by attending a Monday night rehearsal at St. Mark's UMC (6:30pm in McMurdo Hall) as a prospective SWC member or support them by attending an upcoming event.

The SWC will host an Open House at St. Mark's on August 12th and present the following concerts through Spring 2014: "Willkommen! A Choral Cabaret" which includes a dinner, musical variety show, and silent auction to be held on Saturday, October 19, 2013 at the La Sierra Community Center; "Holiday Dreams" annual sing-along show on Monday, December 9, 2013 at St. Mark's UMC; and their Spring concert, "Connections" will be held on March 22, 2014.

For more information about the chorus, please visit their website at: <http://www.sacramentowomenschorus.com>

FISH HUNTING
You read, you watch, you yearn for hunting time. Equipment is checked and inventoried. As you practice your 3D shooting, you think of August antelope, September elk, and October whitetails.
To help relieve the pain of waiting, try fish hunting. There are few things more enjoyable than bow fishing on a hot summer day.
Nearly every lake or river across the country has carp, gar, or some other local rough fish that come into shallow water this time of year. Fish hunting for them will help keep your eye sharp for the hunting seasons and offer plenty of sporting fun.
Bow fishing equipment is relatively inexpensive and can be added to your regular hunting bow. Most bow fishing takes place from boats but it is also possible to walk river banks, ponds, and lake coves in search of your quarry.
Fish hunting is a great way to pass the time until the arrival of fall bowhunting time.

Roommate Agreement with Family?

Dear Dave,
 My husband and I have been following your plan, and we're debt-free. Recently he invited his sister, her husband and their two kids to live with us. His brother-in-law recently lost his job, and he did this without talking to me first. I agreed after the fact, but do you think we need a roommate agreement or some kind of understanding while they stay with us? They have about $70,000 in debt, and they haven't been very responsible with their money.

- Amanda

Dear Amanda,

I've got to tell you there's zero chance that my wife or I would invite someone to live in our home without the other's knowledge and agreement. Pulling a stunt like that is just plain wrong, and you two need to get on the same page long before you try to move these people into your house.

Now, once you've straightened things out between the two of you, and if you're both in agreement, you need to understand that your purpose is to help these folks get back on their feet. Your home is not their home, and this is not an offer for them to stay as long as they like.

You're going to have to ensure that they're taking the steps necessary to straighten out their lives. This means working, and it means they start managing their money by living on a budget. Don't charge them rent, because the "rent" will be that they work and go over their finances with you. Plus, you put a limit on the time they're going to spend with you. Regardless of what happens, they're out and back on their own by a certain, specific date.

I wouldn't suggest allowing $70,000 worth of time for them to get back on their feet. I'm thinking maybe four to six months, but don't let this thing drag on with no definitive end in sight. That will only cause trouble and hard feelings down the road. You guys might be able to pull this off—and keep the relationships intact—if you set fair and loving expectations on the front end.

- Dave

Is Converting to a Roth Smart?

Dear Dave,
 I'm following your plan, and I've just completed Baby Step 3.

I've got my emergency fund of three to six months of expenses in place, and I've paid off all my debts, except for the house, so I'm ready to tackle investing. I currently have $100,000 in a traditional IRA. Should I convert this to a Roth IRA?

- Levi

Dear Levi,

You'll have to pay taxes on the amount you withdraw, and that will amount to roughly a fourth of what you roll from a traditional IRA to a Roth IRA. If you move $100,000, it will cost you about $25,000 in taxes.

If you have that kind of money saved above your emergency fund, and separate from retirement savings, then yes, I'd convert to a Roth IRA. Don't cash out your retirement or dip into your emergency fund. And please, please don't run out and borrow money to make it happen!

The traditional IRA is growing on a tax-deferred basis, while the Roth IRA would grow tax-free. So, if you can pay the taxes out of pocket, I say go for it!

Riley Reviews

with a quiet sense of humor, often looks and sounds like he's channeling the spirit of Captain Jack Sparrow.

Armie Hammer's upright, newly-minted federal prosecutor John Reid, soon to become the Lone Ranger, is returning from the east by train to Colby, Texas to start his legal career.

Meeting him in Texas is his older brother Dan (James Badge Dale), a hardened Texas Ranger whose rough frontier nature is a striking contrast to that of his refined and highly educated younger sibling.

At first, John Reid holds the naïve view that playing by the book will trump the extremely violent nature of the Wild West. His worldview is put to the test by a vicious outlaw in custody on the train.

Soon to be the arch enemy of the Lone Ranger, the fiendish Butch Cavendish (a horribly disfigured William Fichtner) is freed by Butch's gang in a daring railway hijacking.

As a result, Reid finds himself chained to another prisoner onboard, which turns out to be Tonto, taken prisoner for a transgression that already I do not recall.

Setting up the inevitable pairing of Tonto and Reid as crime fighters takes considerable time. It happens most dramatically when Tonto comes to the rescue of Reid after a brutal ambush by Cavendish's gang.

Once in Texas, Reid teams up with his brother and other lawmen to hunt down Cavendish, but unfortunately they are all gunned down in a desolate canyon.

Tonto stumbles upon the massacre scene and proceeds to bury everyone, including a presumed dead John Reid, who rises from his makeshift grave just in the nick of time.

At this point, Reid dons the famous black eye mask and wide-brimmed white hat, transforming himself into the fabled Lone Ranger, seeker of justice on the dusty plains.

Motivated as much by desire to avenge his brother's cold-blooded murder, the Lone Ranger also has an odd longing for his brother's widow (Ruth Wilson), who had once been his girlfriend before he moved east for law school.

While Butch Cavendish is the ultimate badass outlaw and the obvious target for a manhunt by the Lone Ranger and Tonto, other dubious characters populate the landscape.

Helena Bonham Carter has an impressive turn as the peg-legged Southern madam running a house of ill-repute that follows the railroad as it is being built. She's flamboyant and has a shotgun concealed in her fake leg.

A superb actor, Tom Wilkinson appears as railroad tycoon Latham Cole, hell-bent on his vision of finishing the Transcontinental Railroad in great haste.

Whenever Wilkinson is in a film, he's almost invariably a person of dubious moral character, if not an outright villain. For "The Lone Ranger," his railroad builder is kind of what you would expect.

"TheLoneRanger" is a distended exercise in long, drawn-out action, though the climax on a runaway train offers the dramatic heroics that are most worthy of the Lone Ranger's mythological history.

A lot of money was spent to give "The Lone Ranger" a spectacular look in its setting in Monument Valley and other locations that recall the cinematic brilliance of John Ford Westerns.

My guess is that "The Lone Ranger," which is oddly uneven and not very satisfying in the end, won't have the success necessary to launch a new franchise.

SPOTLIGHT ON BUSINESS

So, it's time to take Fido to the Vet to get them up-to-date on their shots and a general check up. Now the problem; where does one go for good quality Veterinarian care, without having to take out a small bank loan in the process?

This was the concern and frustration that Dr. Heidi Hilleary, DVM, (a graduate of U.C. Davis, licensed Veterinarian for 18 years and a mother of four) heard from pet owners, time and time again.

The expense to take one's beloved pet for health care has always been a high financial investment for most pet owners, but Veterinarian costs have seemingly sky-rocketed even more in recent years. Many pet owners are now forced to delay or even withhold necessary pet care, based upon the exceptionally high cost. This is especially true for senior pet owners who live on a fixed income. Finding an affordable Veterinarian without sacrificing the quality of care for one's cherished pet is a dilemma faced by many pet owners today.

With the goal in mind to open a pet clinic providing the utmost in quality pet care, at very reasonable prices, Dr. Hilleary has just opened Lou's Place – Low Cost Pet Care, her second Veterinarian office. The new location serves residents of Carmichael, Citrus Heights, Fair Oaks and other surrounding areas. In order to keep the costs down, Dr. Hilleary reopened the former Carmichael Animal Hospital, saving the large cost of remodeling for a new pet clinic. By using these savings and limiting office hours, Dr. Hilleary is able to control operational costs and she passes these savings on to her clientele.

As just one cost-saving example; Lou's Place offers Boarding Services already at a very reasonable rate, but if you wish to bring in your pet's favorite food from home for their boarding stay, Lou's Place will reduce the boarding fees even more. Not only will Fido do better during his stay at Lou's Place by not going through any possible unpleasant affects due to a change in diet, but you'll save even more money.

Saturday July 13th at 10:00 am marks the Grand Opening date for Lou's Place serving all local pet owners with Veterinarian and Boarding services. The clinic was named "Lou's Place", in honor of Dr. Hilleary's father, mentor, and the former Dean of Los Angeles City College, Dr. Lou Hilleary.

Finally! Affordable, quality pet care is available nearby. Lou's Place is open Monday – Friday from 8:00am – 2:00pm and walk-in's are always welcome. If you wish to make an appointment, ask any questions, including services for exotic pets, or receive information on costs for specific pet treatments, contact Lou's Place at 916-978-0740 or visit them online at LousLowCostVetCare.com. Be sure to ask about their special "Get Acquainted" offer when you call.

Varicose veins can cause pain and discomfort, and in some cases, bleeding from leg sores—it's not just a cosmetic concern. The good news is that treating these abnormal veins can effectively relieve discomfort and prevent complications, and of course improve the looks of your legs.

Dr. Conti treats a wide spectrum of venous disease—from complex venous reconstruction to noninvasive office treatment of leg and face spider veins. He was the first surgeon in Northern California to use VNUS Closure and EVLT techniques for the treatment of leg varicose veins, and Veinwave Technology for treatment of nose and cheek spider veins. He has treated thousands of patients during his career, including prominent Sacramento area physicians and politicians. He frequently lectures to physicians and to community groups on vein disorders, is on the medical staff at Mercy San Juan Medical Center and is past Chairman of the Vascular Surgery Division.
