Heroes Honored at Patriots Park

Families with kin named on the Patriots Park Wall of Honor are saluted by the Del Campo High ROTC and piper Bruce Locken. Photo by Susan Maxwell Skinner.

By Susan Maxwell Skinner

Carmichael – In a weekend remembrance ceremony, Carmichael Park District and bereaved families honored fallen sons.

Central to Patriots Park (Palm Ave, near Dewey and Madison) a Wall of Honor bears plaques naming local men who died in service to community or nation since the Carmichael Park District began. While there is provision for more names, no new plaques were added to the monument this year. Instead, a ceremony recalled the sacrifice of 12 Carmichael and Fair Oaks' heroes.

County Supervisor Susan Peters paid tribute to the fallen and praised the monument's role. "For families in attendance today, we offer thanks," she said. "Patriots Park has been embraced by the community since it opened in 2008. We hope it is a source of continued pride and remembrance."

To some families, the Wall of Honor serves as a symbolic grave stone. During Operation Desert Shield, US Navy fighter pilot

Lt. David Warne was lost in the Mediterranean Sea. Though he is honored at Arlington National Cemetery, his body was never recovered. Still living in the same house where he grew up, the Warne family attended the weekend commemoration. Said David's father, Vietnam Silver Star recipient Col Evans Warne: "The Wall of Honor provides comfort that my son's sacrifice is recognized by people who come to this park."

Plaques represent men who wore the uniform of Army, Marines, Air Force and Navy. The CHP, Sacramento Sheriff's Department and Firefighters are also represented.

"In some ways, it's a wall of healing," said Jim Byrnes, whose brother

Robert was lost in Vietnam. "It enables us to talk about our loved ones and keep their memory going."

Carmichael Park District allows more names to be added to the Wall of Honor each fall. Conditions apply. For nomination guidelines, call (916) 485-5322.

Footnote: Several of the Wall's honorees are also named on Carmichael's Vietnam War Memorial. Situated in the Earl Koobs Nature Area (5325 Engle Rd), the memorial will host Veterans' Day observances this Friday, November 11, at 11 a.m. Anyone may attend.

Berkeley in resource management and has been involved in a broad range of California water management issues since 1974, including endangered species, water resources, watershed management, instream flows, water quality, habitat restoration, and regulatory compliance. He possesses extensive knowledge of resource management issues in the western United States.

FBI Names Community Leadership Award Recipient

Sacramento County—The Sacramento Field Office of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) is pleased to announce that WEAVE, Inc. is the recipient of the 2011 Director's Community Leadership Award. The annual award recognizes the achievement of an individual or organization for commitment to violence education and prevention. "It is an honor to be able to present WEAVE, Inc. with the Director's Community Leadership Award for commitment to crisis intervention and prevention in our region," said Herb Brown, Special Agent in Charge (SAC) of the Sacramento FBI field office. "Beth Hassett and her team's outstanding efforts have continually increased the community's understanding of domestic violence and sexual assault and have ensured that victims have resources available to begin the healing process."

Since opening as a grassroots organization in 1978, WEAVE has become a large, nationally recognized agency that provides crisis intervention and prevention services to women, men and children who are victims of domestic violence, sexual assault and human trafficking in the Sacramento region. Focused on eliminating the cycle of violence and abuse, WEAVE dedicates significant resources to prevention and education programs in addition to essential victims services.

In 2011, WEAVE realized the following successes: 197 women and 168 children found refuge at the safe house for an average of 27 days each; 15,865 callers received help from the 24-hour Support Line; 1,006 women and men received counseling; 57 children received therapy to break the cycle of violence; 1,404 victims received legal services; 212 rape victims were accompanied at the hospital during evidence collection. "I am honored that WEAVE has been chosen as the Sacramento area recipient of the Director's Community Leadership Award."

WEAVE believes that all women, men and children deserve to feel safe in their homes and community," said Beth Hassett, Executive Director of WEAVE. "In these difficult times we have to be more innovative, more enthusiastic and more committed to making sure that the most vulnerable among us are taken care of. The award represents our continued efforts to create a cohesive response to victims and accountability for perpetrators." For more than two decades, Beth Hassett, Executive Director of WEAVE, has been a volunteer and staff member for non-profit organizations focused on improving the quality of life in the Sacramento region and beyond.

As the Executive Director of WEAVE, Hassett leads a team of advocates, counselors, educators and volunteers who share the common goal of bringing an end to domestic violence and sexual assault in the community.

In addition to her position with WEAVE, Hassett currently serves as a commissioner on the First Five Sacramento Commission, President of the Planned Giving Forum of Sacramento, Treasurer of the California Coalition Against Sexual Assault (CALCASA), Vice President of the Midtown Business Association, Secretary of the Sacramento Children's Coalition, and is a member of both the ALS Association National Board of Representatives and the board of the ALS Association of Greater Sacramento. She was appointed to the statewide Domestic Violence Advisory Council by Governor Schwarzenegger in 2010 and graduate of the Sacramento FBI Citizens Academy in 2011.

Hassett will accept the 2011 FBI Director's Community Leadership Award on behalf of WEAVE, Inc. from SAC Brown during a small ceremony held at the Sacramento field office at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, November 30, 2011. Hassett will also travel to FBI Headquarters in Washington D.C. to receive the official engraved crystal award from FBI Director Robert Mueller on March 16, 2012, at a public ceremony.

Aerospace Museum of California Honors Veterans Day and Partners with "Support 4 Soldiers" to Help Wounded Warriors

Sacramento – The Aerospace Museum of California (AMC) (www.aerospaceca.org) announced a special tribute on Friday, November 11, in honor of Veterans Day from 9:00am to 5:00pm with a brief ceremony honoring all veterans at 11:00 a.m. The Air Force Sergeant's Association of Sacramento is hosting the Museum's Veterans Day event and the program will be held at the AMC's Memorial Plaza with a tribute to the flag, followed by the National Anthem, a wreath laying, and will conclude with remarks. Special Museum admission of $5.00 per person (children under the age of five are free) will be available all day.

"We want to honor and thank all veterans for serving this great nation," said Roxanne Yonn, executive director of the Aerospace Museum of California. "We encourage visitors to enjoy a day at the Museum, be inspired and give thanks to the men and women (both past and present) who served and sacrificed for the freedoms we enjoy today."

The community is also invited to donate much needed items to wounded warriors currently stationed in Afghanistan. The AMC has partnered with local non-profit organization, Support 4 Soldiers, and will serve as a drop off point for donations specifically for soldiers that have been injured in battle and are currently recuperating. Soldiers arrive straight from the battlefield and do not have anything with them. For this particular program all donations must be dropped off by November 11th.

Representatives for Support 4 Soldiers will be at the Museum all day on Veterans Day and will be on hand to collect donations and answer questions. Items needed are:

- Warm clothes such as hoodies, jackets, sweatpants, gloves, etc.
- Shoes and flip flops (for shower shoes)
- Twin size bed sheets
- Blankets
- Sunglasses (black only)
- Snacks (candy, beef jerky, granola bars, sunflower seeds, etc.)
- Anything for entertainment

such as games, books, movies, music, etc.

Monetary donations will also be accepted and will be used to defray shipping costs and/or purchase additional requested items. Donations are tax deductible; for more information please visit Support 4 Soldiers. In addition, attendees can color pictures, sign cards and flags or just send their thoughts and gratitude to the troops overseas. The organization will also have information on hand regarding its holiday care package program.

Active duty military service members receive free admission to the Museum. To receive free admittance visitors must present a military ID. Admission for the general public is $5.00.

The AMC is a non-profit foundation dedicated to inspirational and educational programs, honoring the rich military and aviation history of the greater Sacramento region, and highlighting the impact and innovation of the Museum's many community partners. For more information visit www.aerospaceca.org or join us on Facebook <https://www.facebook.com/AerospaceMuseumCA>. The Museum is located at 3200 Freedom Park Drive, McClellan, CA 95652.

Carmichael – In what will be a quarterly addition, artisan vendors increased market merchandize. Based at the Grant Avenue end of the park since last April, the all-weather sale has seen booth and customer numbers increase steadily. Vending is from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m. every Sunday. Organising this and several other farmers market is Carmichael – Eskaton's TLC Giving Gobbler needs to be plucked! This holiday season our Giving Gobbler's "feathers" provide donation information requesting a grocery gift card to a local grocery store. Every gift card donated will be distributed by volunteers in December to participants of the TLC (Talking, Listening and Caring) Telephone Reassurance Program. TLC participants are older adults who live alone in their own home and most are homebound and low income. A $20.00 to $25.00 gift card goes a long way in helping to buy groceries, toiletries, prescriptions or just something special for the holidays. So, if you would like to make the holidays a little brighter pluck a feather off a Giving Gobbler!

Eskaton's TLC (Talking, Listening and Caring) Telephone Reassurance program provides free, daily phone calls to hundreds of older adults in the greater Sacramento area. TLC participants enjoy daily conversations with volunteers who call to socialize and let them know someone cares. The daily calls provide social interaction which helps prevent depression and isolation. Trained volunteers also conduct a mini welfare check over the phone by asking questions such as if they have heat, air conditioning or have food in the house. These phone calls help our participants remain independent and safe in their own home which is where we all want to remain for as long as possible.

If you'd like to participate in the Giving Gobbler, please call Terri Becker, Program Director at the Eskaton Community Services at 334-1072 or stop by our location at 8525 Madison Ave. Suite 150, Fair Oaks, (corner of Kenneth and Madison). To learn more about Eskaton go to www.Eskaton.org.

Senator Gaines Receives Perfect Score on 2011 Taxpayer Report Card

Senator Ted Gaines (R-Roseville)

Sacramento – Senator Ted Gaines (R-Roseville) recently announced that he has scored 100 percent on the California Taxpayers Association's (CalTax) 2011 Voting Record. Gaines was one of only 30 state legislators out of the 120 Assembly and Senate members to receive the top score. "I am honored to stand with taxpayers in the fight against the over-spending crisis that plagues Sacramento," said Gaines. "As a small business owner, I am familiar with the hurdles and burdens hardworking taxpayers face every day. California should be creating opportunities for individuals and businesses to thrive, not stifling their growth with excessive taxes and onerous regulations." CalTax's legislative report card is designed to hold lawmakers accountable for their actions and to inform taxpayers how their lawmakers represent them on key issues.

Founded in 1926, CalTax is a non-partisan, non-profit organization whose mission is to protect taxpayers from unnecessary taxes and to promote government efficiency. The 2011 Voting Record is based on a compilation of the highest priority bills on which CalTax took a position. Most bills used to evaluate and grade voting records dealt with tax increases or those that threatened taxpayer protections. "I remain committed to defending taxpayers and opposing tax increases," said Gaines. "California's taxpayers deserve to keep their hard-earned money in their pockets, not to support Sacramento's irresponsible spending addiction."

The 2011 CalTax Voting Record, with descriptions of the bills used in the report, is available at CalTax's website at www.caltax.org. Senator Ted Gaines represents the 1st Senate District, which includes all or parts of Alpine, Amador, Calaveras, El Dorado, Lassen, Modoc, Mono, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, Sacramento and Sierra counties.

Millions struggle daily with arthritis pain, which can range from moderate to debilitating. Worse yet, the drugs used to combat this chronic condition spark a host of unwanted side effects, including ulcers and other gastrointestinal disorders.

Luckily, there are ways to prevent the disease, and to find drug-free relief when it does strike. We want patients to know that preserving joint health is key in avoiding or managing arthritis and that chiropractic care can help.

When spinal bones (vertebrae) are misaligned or restricted the result is a common condition known as vertebral subluxation. This condition affects the health and function of the nervous system often leading to joint pain. Keeping the spine in alignment has immediate and long term benefits.

Osteoarthritis

Vertebral subluxations stress the body's joints, causing them to move out of alignment. In response, the joints form bone spurs – jagged bits of deposited calcium – that scrape and irritate surrounding muscles, tendons and tissue. The result? Osteoarthritis.

Chiropractic Care and Arthritis

Osteoarthritis (OA) commonly affects hips, knees, hands and backs. Symptoms include pain, stiffness, muscle weakness, swelling and joint deformation. Maintaining proper spinal alignment, however, encourages circulation – keeping joints well-nourished with a steady supply of blood – and reduces likelihood of injury. Prevention is critical because researchers note that prior joint injury significantly increased the risk for later-life. In cases where OA is already present, chiropractic care provides safe and effective pain relief.

Researchers randomly assigned patients moist hot packs plus chiropractic care or moist heat alone. The study, which included 20 therapeutic treatments over a period of several weeks, showed that those receiving hot packs plus chiropractic care "reported 90% greater results and more rapid pain reduction and increased ROM (range of movement) with sustained relief than improvement of just the moist heat group."

Fibromyalgia

Although it doesn't lead to the joint deformity traditionally associated with arthritis – nor cause the associated inflammation or damage to joints or muscles – this soft-tissue, rheumatic condition produces similar symptoms. Alignment of the upper cervical spine(neck) has been shown to be a factor to reduce pain associated with fibromyalgia.

Exercise

Exercise helps to alleviate joint stress by strengthening the surrounding muscles. Strong thigh muscles, for example, can dramatically reduce the stress load placed on knees. According to the American Chiropractic Association, "Exercise is critical in successful arthritis management. It helps maintain healthy and strong muscles, joint mobility, flexibility, endurance, and helps control weight." Even "light" exercises, done while seated in a chair, can benefit those with arthritis. As with any exercise endeavor, however, talk with your doctor first.

A Pain-Free Future

At Chiropractic USA we specialize in reducing stress on the spine and nervous system allowing the body the opportunity to heal properly and to regain normal function. Regular chiropractic care can help you achieve a pain-free future: particularly when it comes to arthritis. To find out more information or set up an appointment please call (916) 973-1661. Dave Says there before their eyes, they'll begin to realize why mom and dad always tell them not to waste food and to turn off the lights when they leave a room.

As long as mom and dad are having a discussion and making decisions—not fighting—it's good for kids to hear the give and take where handling money is concerned. Parents who never let their kids handle money, and never teach them proper money management techniques, run a high risk of turning financially irresponsible adults loose on the world!

- Dave

Address the Real Issue

Dear Dave,

Is it okay to move your credit card balances around to different companies in order to get lower rates?

- Dan

Dear Dan,

It's an easy way to lower the interest rate, but it doesn't pay off debt. The danger of surfing your credit card balances is that it's easy to think you've actually done something to address the problem. The habits that got you into debt in the first place don't change just because you've switched credit card companies.

In order to really do something about your debt problem, you've got to change the guy in the mirror. You've got to start living on less than you make. About 98 percent of this issue is lifestyle habits. And guess what? When you change, interest rates don't matter nearly as much!

- Dave

Involve the Kids?

Dear Dave,

Is it a good idea to include teenagers in financial talks and budget meetings?

- Paul

Dear Paul,

I think it's a great idea, as long as it's not an extreme situation, such as you're very wealthy or you're looking at foreclosure. Teaching them about money with a standard, regular, monthly budget is one thing. But you don't want to put young people into situations they can't handle emotionally.

Walking through a typical, normal budget will show them how much money is coming in and how much things cost. They'll see on paper exactly how much the groceries or light bill costs. Then, when it's right

No Sure Thing

Dear Dave,

My brother is 30-years old, and he just lost his job. He doesn't have any debt, but he's started gambling in order to make money. He's won a few times, and when he does he's very generous with the winnings. Still, how can I make him see this is a disaster waiting to happen?

- Emily

Dear Emily,

You say he's "started" gambling. Is this new behavior? Is he an addict, or just desperate? That will affect how willing he's going to be to listen to you.

Either way, what he's doing is really dumb. Sure, you can have a loving, heart-to-heart, sit-down conversation with him and let him know how much you're worried. This is something you should do very soon. But the question remains, is he mature enough that it will make a difference?

The movies and cable networks have glamorized poker and the world of gambling. But there's one sure way to tell whether the house will win or you will win in the long run. Look at your place, and then look at theirs. You may pick up a few dollars here and there by sheer luck, but they throw down millions just to re-decorate a lobby.

And where do you think they got that money? From dummies who thought they could beat the system!

- Dave

Chemical Castration: Not the Best for Children

Commentary

The American College of Pediatricians (The College) is alarmed by the increasingly prevalent and unscientific trend to treat Gender Identity Disorder (GID) in children as an inborn trait rather than as the treatable psychological condition it is. GID in children is manifest as a strong desire to be the opposite sex, and/or the belief that he or she actually is the opposite sex.

The story of a California physician who prescribed hormone blockers to an 11 year old boy to delay the onset of puberty and allow him more time to "decide" his gender, recently made national headlines. The boy's lesbian parents now call him Tammy instead of Tommy, and allow him to cross-dress. This is scientifically and ethically disturbing.

Puberty is not a disorder. Psychologically dissociating from your biological gender is. Hormone blocking agents induce a disease state (the absence of puberty) at a critical time in a child's physical, emotional and mental development. Sex hormones not only trigger the development of secondary sex characteristics, but also influence the development of the adolescent brain. This likely explains why most GID children come to accept their biological gender during adolescence.

Children and adults with GID experience higher rates of psychological distress. However, when the impact of hormone therapy (HT) and sex reassignment surgery (SRS) was studied among adults, the individuals were found to be suffering from the same pre-treatment mental health disorders. Consequently, Johns Hopkins University shut down its premier program. When asked about blocking puberty in children Dr. Paul McHugh, professor of psychiatry at John's Hopkins remarked, "[GID] is a disorder of the mind. Not a disorder of the body. Dealing with it in this way is not dealing with the problem that truly exists."

Dr. Kenneth Zucker is Psychologist-in-Chief at the Center for Addiction and Mental Health, where he heads the Child and Adolescent Gender Identity Clinic in Toronto, Canada. Dr. Zucker has treated over 500 children with GID. He has documented that therapy relieves psychopathology within the family and child, reduces peer social ostracism and results in the acceptance of the child's birth sex in the vast majority of cases.

Dr. Michelle Cretella, Vice President of the College stated, "Physicians and therapists who embrace HT and SRS for children promote a political agenda not scientific advance. This is obvious once the euphemisms are shed: Chemical castration and the surgical mutilation of children is not 'therapy.' It is cold, calculated, institutionalized child abuse at the hands of those charged with healing."

The American College of pediatricians is a national medical association of licensed physicians and healthcare professionals who specialize in the care of infants, children, and adolescents. The mission of the College is to enable all children to reach their optimal physical and emotional health and well-being. For more information about the College, please visit our website www.Best4Children.org.

A Case in Point

The Case of the Speedy DeeJay

By David Graulich, Esq.

During the 1960's and 1970's, the king of AM radio in Los Angeles was a disc jockey named Don Steele. Known as "The Real Don Steele," he dominated his time slot by combining absurd comedy with Top 40 music and surfing tunes. Except for a stint at San Francisco's KEWB, Steele's glory years were with KHJ ("Boss Radio-93") in Los Angeles.

Steele had a running joke during his show. A pre-recorded woman's voice screamed, "Tina Delgado is alive! Alive!" (Looking back from a perspective of 40 years, I don't know why the line was funny. I suppose you had to be a teenager and live in Los Angeles to get the joke).

KHJ created a promotion in 1970, "The Super Summer Spectacular." Steele drove a speedy red car around Los Angeles and would pull over at an intersection or landmark. When KHJ announced his location, the first listener to see Steele's car and reach him won a cash prize and an on-air interview. Here are examples of what KHJ broadcast during the Summer Spectacular:

"The Real Don Steele is out driving - he could be in your neighborhood at any time and he's got bread to spread, so be on the lookout for him."

"The Real Don Steele is in the Valley near the intersection of Topanga and Roscoe Boulevard, right by the Loew's Holiday Theater, and he's standing there with a little money he would like to give to the first person to arrive...He's got twenty-five dollars to give away if you can get it..."

On July 16, 1970, two teenagers

- a male aged 17, and a 19-year-old female - were driving their cars when they heard on KHJ that Steele was arriving in Canoga Park. They got there a little late and caught sight of Steele's car on the freeway. Both young drivers began racing after Steele, reaching speeds of over 80 miles an hour.

When Steele's vehicle took the Westlake exit, both pursuers also exited at high speeds. The teenagers forced another car off the road and onto a center divider, where it flipped over. The driver of the overturned car, a man named Weirum, was killed.

The decedent's wife and children sued RKO General, the corporation that owned KHJ (Don Steele was not a defendant). The key issue was this: Was it foreseeable that the radio station's Summer Spectacular would induce teenagers to drive negligently?

At trial, a jury returned a verdict in favor of the Weirum family. RKO appealed, and the case went before the California Supreme Court.

RKO argued that Mr. Weirum's death was caused by third parties, not by the radio station. Did a broadcaster have to consider everything that it aired in terms of what it MIGHT stimulate a listener to do, because it had liability for the listener's subsequent behavior? That would put a chilling effect on free speech, in violation of the First Amendment.

The jury, RKO contended, had widened the scope of third-party liability to a ludicrous extent. What if a department store advertised a "while-they-last" sale, and shoppers racing to the store caused an accident? Would a college sports team be liable to a fan who was trampled in a crowd's rush to buy Rose Bowl tickets?

The Supreme Court's decision: The jury got it right. RKO had liability to the Weirum family.

It was entirely foreseeable, said the Court, that idle teenagers during summer vacation would race after Steele to win prize money. It was foreseeable that some of those teenagers would drive recklessly. Unlike the department store or sports team analogies,

"the thrill of the chase" - a competitive scramble on public streets - was central to the radio station's contest, not incidental.

The Court also rejected the free speech argument: "The First Amendment does not sanction the infliction of physical injury merely because achieved by word, rather than act." KHJ could have entertained its listeners and increased advertising revenues by devising a contest format that didn't put the motoring public at risk, the Court said.

As for Don Steele, he continued to be successful in LA radio, converting from AM to FM stations and appearing in movies and TV shows. The Real Don Steele died on August 5, 1997 at the age of 61.

THANK A VETERAN TODAY

Spuds, Duds, Studs and Buds

Spuds. I was really into potatoes last week.

French fries on Wednesday, a baked potato on Thursday, mashed on Friday and potato pancakes from the leftovers on Saturday morning.

I think it all had an effect on me. Maybe you guessed... I turned into a couch potato all weekend.

A little rain, a lot of wind, the first days off work in two weeks and... a good looking TV schedule of football games... and the timing was right. If only I could have grown a few more eyes to watch it all. DVR is a wonderful thing. I'm still catching up.

Duds. The so-called "Game of the Century" fell quite a bit short of that lofty presumption. The match up between the two top college teams, LSU and Alabama, was resolved in sloppy fashion in overtime. Mistake-prone Alabama failed miserably with its overtime possession, resulting in its fourth missed field goal of the game. That set the Tigers up for a short game-winning kick and a 9-6 victory that featured zero touchdowns.

Now I like to watch great defense and this game had plenty of it. But you would expect top-ranked teams to be good on both sides of the ball. The offenses were terrible. The quarterbacks weren't worth a nickel.

It may not have even been the best game of the day. How about No. 3 Oklahoma State's 52-45 win over No. 17 Kansas State, or No. 8 Arkansas' 44-28 victory over No. 10 S. Carolina, or Northwestern's 28-25 upset at No. 9 Nebraska?

The Oakland Raiders' defense was the big dud Sunday in the NFL, allowing nearly 300 yards rushing to the visiting Denver Broncos, including 117 by rookie quarterback Tim Tebow. It was a disturbing return to form of recent years by the Raiders (4-4), committing 15 penalties for 130 yards in the 38-24 loss.

The Washington Redskins' offense filled the dud role in its 19-11 home loss to the San Francisco 49ers. The impotent hosts, who went scoreless the previous week, managed only a team-record 59-yard field goal on the final play of the first half and, finally, a touchdown with under three minutes left against "prevent defense" of sorts. Do you think coach Mike Shanahan wishes he was back in Denver with a young John Elway?

Studs and Buds. All due respect to Spuds McKenzie, but Budweiser is not my beer of choice. But all 49ers fans should tip a couple in the name of stud Frank Gore, the first Niner ever to rush for over 100 yards (107) in five straight games. Niner fans now have a fever, and the only prescription is More Gore.

The 49ers should start to buddy up to Cal stud receiver Keenan Allen (75 catches, five TD's, 1074 yards). They wouldn't want to underestimate another future NFL star who's playing college ball right under their noses, a la Aaron Rodgers or DeSean Jackson.

Rodgers, every football fan's bud and stud these days, is following up his Super Bowl winning season with one in which he is on pace to break several all-time QB records. It will be mighty interesting if Rodgers and his Green Bay Packers (8-0) face a revived QB Alex Smith and the 49ers (7-1) in the playoffs. Drafted No. 1 over Rodgers in 2005, it would be the ultimate test for Smith, who will also be tested next week against the New York Giants (6-2), and in Baltimore, and against the Pittsburgh Steelers before season's end.

The baseball Giants traded pitcher Jonathan Sanchez for 27-year old stud outfielder Melky Cabrera of Kansas City. He will make plenty of buddies in S.F. if he duplicates last year's stats: .305 average with 201 hits, 44 doubles, 18 homers, 87 RBI and 20 steals.

A couple of other baseball buds deserve at least a tip of the cap - Matty Alou and Bob Forsch - who passed away last week.

Alou started with the Giants and once played in the all-brothers outfield with siblings Felipe and Jesus. He batted .307 over 15 years and won a batting title in Pittsburgh. I remember him beating out a bunt to start the ninth-inning rally that fell just short against the Yankees in the seventh game of the 1962 World Series.

Forsch, a native of Sacramento, was a respected mound presence over 16 seasons, going 168-136, with the Cardinals and Astros. He hurled two no-hitters and brother Ken pitched one; the only brother combo to do so. He batted .213 with 12 homers lifetime.

Now it's time for a very late breakfast and I have a decision to make - hash browns or country style.

Self-Confidence: A Building Block to Success

Nurturing children's emotional development from birth

Research shows that a child's brain develops most dramatically in the first five years and what parents and caregivers do during these years to support their child's growth will have a meaningful impact throughout life. Photo courtesy of First 5 Sacramento.

During early childhood, one of the most important things parents, teachers and caregivers can do is nurture children's self-confidence so they learn to gradually become more independent. Studies show that kids who have strong self-esteem are more likely to succeed in school and in life.

First 5 Sacramento offers general tips to help build self-confidence in young children and foster healthy social and emotional development.

Focus on Relationships
Through loving relationships that offer security, comfort and encouragement, kids gain confidence to explore the world around them.

- Spend quality time with your child every day and show affection. This lets him know he is loved and teaches him relationship-building skills.

- Provide opportunities for your child to develop connections with other children close in age. Children learn how to share and resolve conflict by interacting together.
- Give Positive Feedback
Acknowledge children's efforts to learn new skills and face challenges at different periods of development.
- Praise your child for doing a good job during all stages of her early life – when she starts crawling and walking to forming words and counting. This reinforces self-worth and increases a child's sense of satisfaction
- Support her efforts to tackle a new activity and learn from mistakes. When facing a challenge, encourage her to try again and offer help only if she needs it. Be patient with the learning process – it pays off in the end!

Nurture Independence
Provide opportunities for kids to accomplish tasks on their own and nurture their own sense of curiosity. This helps them become more secure in their abilities and in themselves.

- Give your child age-appropriate responsibilities, such as picking up toys or setting the table. When he learns to master or finish a task, his confidence will grow.
- Encourage him to explore a range of creative activities, like painting or telling a story. This will help him become more comfortable in expressing ideas and feelings.

Be a Good Role Model
Children learn by watching adults and imitating their behavior. If you are confident in your abilities, your child will learn to be confident too.

- If you're too harsh on yourself or overly pessimistic, your child may eventually mirror this behavior. Nurture your own self-esteem and your child will have a great role model.
- Show respect to your child by listening to him, looking him in the eyes when having a conversation, and speaking kindly – all behaviors that help reinforce a child's sense of self-worth.

Carmichael Honorary Mayor's Race Gets Hot and Spicy at El Papagayo

Carmichael – On Saturday, November 5th, Esteban Nava and his wife Teresa helped to serve up a dinner special for their final fundraiser of the campaign at El Papagayo Restaurant. The restaurant was packed with supporters, all there to help raise funds for local organizations; BeMoneySmartUSA, the Carmichael Skate Park, the Carmichael Swimming Pool fund and the Chamber of Commerce. The primary fundraising was from a dinner charge of only $10. A great deal for any entrée from this authentic Mexican restaurant. The atmosphere was loud and hot, thanks to the rock and roll of lots of cover songs from the 1960's and 1970's. Additional musical entertainment was provided by guitarist and vocalist Sandra Dolores. More funds were raised through an extensive raffle and silent auction. Esteban wanted to especially thank all those who provided prizes for both. It was an Honorary Mayor Candidate's dream fundraiser.
