Tall Ship Hawaiian Chieftain Arrives

The Hawaiian Chieftain has sailed into Sacramento to provide educational tours. Photo by Ron Arel, Coastal Images.

ketch Hawaiian Chieftain arrived in Sacramento this month for its annual visit focused on helping young people understand the amazing maritime history of California and the west coast. The two-masted sailing ship has tied up at Old Sacramento, Front and L Streets, and will stay through December 13.

Built of steel in 1988, Hawaiian Chieftain is a replica of a typical European merchant trader of the turn of the nineteenth century. Her hull shape and rigging are similar to those of Spanish explorer's ships used in the expeditions of the late 18th century along the Washington, Oregon, and California coasts. During most of the year, she accompanies the brig Lady Washington on voyages to more than 40 ports along the coast. Hawaiian Chieftain is 109 feet, nine inches long, and her mainmast rises 75 feet off the water.

The ship will host K-12 school groups, as well as home-school groups, service organizations, seniors groups, and church groups for one-hour and three-hour education programs. Space is still available for the education programs on weekdays and weekends. The programs feature a number of onboard stations focused on navigation, basic oceanography, and the lives of 18th century mariners.

Program scholarships are available for qualified schools. To qualify, a public school must be designated Title I by the U.S. Department of Education, which means at least 40 percent of the school's students receive free or reduced-price lunch. For information on scholarships and scheduling, contact Roxie Underwood, 800-200-5239, education@historicalseaport.org.

Hawaiian Chieftain will also open for walk-on tours to the general public.

Most tours are scheduled for Monday through Thursday, 4 p.m. to 5 p.m., and Saturdays and Sundays, 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. A $3 donation per person is appreciated. No sailing programs for the general public are scheduled. The ship will be closed Thanksgiving Day.

The Grays Harbor Historical Seaport Authority is a not-forprofit, 501(c)(3) public development authority based in Aberdeen, Wash. that owns and operates the tall ships Hawaiian Chieftain and Lady Washington, the Official Ship of the State of Washington. GHHSA provides educational, vocational, recreational and ambassadorial activities and experiences that promote and preserve the maritime history of Grays Harbor, the Pacific Northwest, and our nation while serving the needs of the community.

Revenue Down, Rates Up for Water District

From Steve Nugent, General Manager

Carmichael - Water utilities are feeling the effects of revenue shortfalls. Communities are using less water which has translated to lower than average water sales. Factors that contribute to the decrease in revenue are cooler weather conditions, the economic downturn, and meter installation to meet the State mandated Water Conservation Act.

Carmichael Water District (CWD) is not immune to these conditions. The District has reviewed the current water usage and rate structure and determined that there is a significant revenue shortfall. Over the past two years, the District has been using reserve funds to cover the revenue shortfall from the lower water usage. Most metered customers have been experiencing lower water bills than the District had planned.

During the District's rate study, rates were analyzed and assumptions took in to account anticipated fluctuations along with the new requirement of the State of California's 2009 Water Conservation Act calling for the reduction of water production by 20% by the year 2020. For Fiscal year 2011-2012 the District rate study planned for water production to drop to about 15% of the historic average. The past 12 months actual water production figures are 25% lower than historical average and 5% lower than the State of California's 2009 Water Conservation Act.

CWD acted to reduce expenses significantly based on projected shortfalls. The cuts are:

· Refinanced $28,550,000 in bonds in March 2010, resulting in substantially lower interest rates and interest payments while maintaining the same maturity schedule.

· Applied for and received grants worth $1,000,000 to help finance a water reliability project (water treatment plant expansion) and to accelerate the meter program.

· Reduced operating costs in March 2011, while preparing the FY 2011-12 adopted budget.

· Restructured the departments to maximize efficiency, resulting in elimination of 1 position and layoff of 1 employee. Deferred capital improvement projects and extended the completion schedule of the meter installation program eliminating 3 operator positions. Revised the FY 2011-12 budget with additional budget cuts to total $972,245.

Typical of all water utilities, 80% of CWD's costs to provide water service to our customers are fixed costs with only power, chemicals, and a portion of labor costs being variable. When water consumption goes up, revenues go up, but when consumption falls, so do revenues. Even with severe budget cuts, an 18% increase in revenue is necessary in order to safely operate and maintain the District's water system.

Sixty-Six Marijuana Dispensaries Closed

By Nora Heston

Sacramento County - Sacramento County's plan for closing down marijuana dispensaries in its unincorporated areas has proven successful with reports of 66 dispensaries closed as of October 27, said county officials.

"Since dispensaries were never legal in the unincorporated county, enforcing the law and closing these operations down was the right course for Sacramento County to take," said Brad Hudson, County

Executive, according to a press release dated October 20. "After completing a series of public meetings in pursuit of a regulatory ordinance, I will be recommending to the Board of Supervisors that we discontinue pursuing any kind of regulatory permitting plan, and maintain the status quo of keeping them illegal."

Hudson said the recent enforcement activity by the federal government, as well as the success of the county's enforcement activities and recent court decisions, also helped to influence his decision regarding the matter.

While the individual dispensaries closed for various reasons, the county enforcement actions, as well as federal pressure, have been a significant factor, said Chris Andis, Communication and Media Officer.

According to a the press release, the county's enforcement actions include administrative penalties of up to $1,500 per day as well as injunctions against facilities and property owners to shut down facilities. Liens against the property for unpaid penalties will also be used. Property owners are responsible for administrative fees even if the business has closed and is no longer in operation. "I supported [the] decision to penalize businesses and property owners that are operating in violation of county codes and regulations," said Susan Peters, Sacramento County Supervisor for the third district. "This stepped up action by Sacramento County is having a positive impact."

The 66 closed dispensaries include six of the eight stores located on Fair Oaks Boulevard, Peters said.

Money collected from the fines enforced as part of the county's plans for closing illegally operating dispensaries go back into the efforts, Andis said. "The Board of Supervisors also appropriated $135,000 of General Fund revenue for this purpose."

The county is still working to close the other 33 known establishments," Andis said.

Sacramento - Join the Rio Americano High School Band on Thursday, November 10 for Playathon, a 17-hour musical marathon featuring all seven of the school's jazz and concert bands in addition to soloists and combos from the Small Ensemble program. This annual event, in its 31st year, benefits Rio's comprehensive music program, serving all levels of high school musicians. Band students from local middle and elementary schools are invited to attend from 3:30 to 5:30 p.m. to play along with Rio Band. This year's theme is Harry Potter and the Deathly Hallows. A carnival with Potter-themed games and food will be open to all musicians from 3:00 to 8:00 p.m. The community is invited to attend evening performances scheduled from 6:00 to 9:00 p.m. Events take place at the Rio Americano campus at 4540 American River Drive, and are free of charge. Tax-deductible donations to the Rio Americana Band Boosters (Federal Tax ID#680018985) will support program expenses not covered by the district budget.

The Rio Americano band program, under the direction of Josh Murray and Max Kiesner, provides the highest quality high school music education. In September students performed at the Monterey Jazz Festival, Rio's 15th appearance at the famed musical event. This honor is awarded annually to the top three high school bands participating in the Monterey Next Generation Festival the previous spring. On October 27, Rio's concert and jazz bands will premiere new works composed by Christopher Caliendo and Omar Thomas in conjunction with an emerging non-profit organization, Composers and Schools in Concert. Rio bands have toured Argentina, Australia, Europe, Japan and China, and will travel to Spain this summer.

BBB Warns of Medicare Scams

rollment started just two weeks ago and already scammers are capitalizing on the period with a phone scam aimed at obtaining senior citizens' banking information. The Better Business Bureau serving Northeast California (BBB) is urging consumers to beware of phone calls claiming to be from Medicare offering new cards.

The BBB has received several calls over the past three weeks describing the same story: A person calls claiming to be from Medicare. They need to verify the victim's address to send out a new Medicare card. After the address is verified, the consumer is asked for his or her bank name and then, bank account

Consumers should never give out personal information over the telephone. Medicare does not make telephone calls regarding health care coverage. Should consumers have questions about coverage, they can call Medicare's toll-free line at 1-800-MEDICARE (1-800-633-4227).

The Better Business Bureau suggests the following when receiving phone calls from anyone claiming to need personal information: 1) Beware of door-to-door or telephone salespeople claiming to be affiliated with Medicare. 2) Be wary of anyone who attempts to give you something for "free". 3) Do not give out bank account information, social security numbers or any other personal information to anyone over the phone. 4) Never sign blank insurance claim forms.

Sand Into Pearls: Perla Warren's Life Story

Perla Warren, a special teacher whose passion forever influnced her students, is currently battling cancer.

By Julie Parker

"Perla Warren has done more to promote quality vocal jazz than anyone in the region." Donald Kendrick Director of Choral Activities,

Music massages the soul and stimulates the senses. It unifies diverse cultures and beliefs of faith.

If you're lucky, a special teacher or mentor will appear, whose passion for you to excel will forever impact your life. To the music students of American River College, that person was Perla Warren.

Perla L. Zulueta was born and raised in Quezon City, Philippines, where her home was filled with music. "On my mother's side, everybody sang and played the piano. I grew up in a home with two grandfathers. 'Grandfather' is a little different than here. A great-uncle is a 'grandfather' in the Philippines. One of them was an avid musician. who just loved music, so he would crank up the Victrola, and play John Philips Sousa in the morning to get everybody going. In the evening, there was always an opera. On my father's side, nobody knew music. It was all business. My father made up a couple of lullabies that he sang to me, putting me to sleep."

Perla's first piano teacher was very strict. "I used to just shake before the finals. But, she had so much compassion. I knew she was interested in me and my development."

Pianos aren't part of an orchestra, so she took up cello. "I always liked the sound. I didn't like the violin,

"There are two words that are important to me – quality and honesty. It doesn't have to be music. You don't have to choose it, but you have to teach it, so at least they have a choice." Perla Warren.

because it would make a mark on my chin."

She graduated from the University of the Philippines Conservatory of Music in 1957, with a degree in Piano Performance.

Traveling to the United States sounded like fun. "My father said, 'If you're going to go to the United States, you must have a purpose." Her aunt was teaching at Indiana University, so Perla lived with her while attending Butler University, continuing her studies in music.

"At the time, music education was not offered in the Philippines. It was very European. You received a Bachelor of Music in Piano, Violin, Vocal Performance, etc. - always a performance degree. I thought, well, I'll be one of the first graduates in Music Education. I was enjoying it so much, I decided to go into conducting."

She practiced the piano in the lobby of the student union building everyday from midnight until 4:00 a.m.. "The security guard always watched out for me. In the lobby was an office that was open 24 hrs a day so I was very safe.'

One night, the light on her piano went out. "I watched a medical student go to the box and fix it. I didn't say anything to him." When a friend of hers later introduced her to Gene Warren, she thanked him for fixing the light. Perla and Gene married, raised two daughters, and celebrated their 51st anniversary.

She ultimately received degrees in Music History, Literature and Choral Conducting at the Jordan Conservatory of Music, Butler University, and was appointed to its faculty, teaching in the Piano Department. She also served as Choral Director at Pike High School.

"If were a troublemaker, the threat was, 'I'm sending you to Mrs. Warren's study hall.' To this day, I don't know why, but in my study hall, you could hear a pin drop. I was so tiny; 98 pounds with long hair, ponytail."

Her chamber group, The High Tones, was so popular a nursery owner provided a gardenia for each singer, for every performance.

Perla and her family moved to Sacramento in 1965. In 1974, she entered the American River College faculty as a choral conductor, voice teacher and piano instructor. She conducted both the American River College Chamber Singers (a classical repertoire ensemble) and the American River College Jazz Choir, both of which received numerous awards and invitations to prestigious music festivals in Ireland, England, the Philippines, Austria, Germany and France. Her Jazz Choir performed at the Montreux International Jazz Festival.

They opened for Ray Charles at the North Sea International Jazz Festival in Holland. "The people would not let us leave the stage. They were clapping their hands and stomping. It was almost embarrassing. We were stepping on his time. In Switzerland, we sang every song we knew. It was 4:00 in the morning and the people wouldn't let us get off the stage.

I think it's the honesty of the music. The students found that the music was better than they are. That's when you really see artistry.' In May 1994, she made her Carnegie Hall debut, guest conducting massed choirs. As a teacher, she had spent as much time as needed with the students. At Carnegie, the situation was quite different. "You are definitely with professionals and they're unionized. Union says at 9:00 you're finished. At 9:01 there's no one in the room. I had to really prepare and I had never met these people before. They know the music, but they don't know the way I would like to have it played.

The day came, and they put you in a room upstairs, alone. You have a huge television so you know what's going on. There's a security guard at your door. Nobody bothers you. The choir, orchestra, the two soloists, podium is there waiting there. You're the last to walk out.

I was shaking like a leaf. My knees were shaking, my stomach I cannot feel it. I was so cold. I just knew there was no way in the world that I could walk in my heels, in my gown, all the way to the middle, get up to the podium. I thought I was going to faint. But, I knew I had to go. When I walked onto the podium all I could see was my score, and I knew the downbeat and the tempo. I found something about me; that I could be that focused."

Her former students remember that focus and energy, and a few of them shared fond memories of Perla as teacher, mentor and friend.

"It's more than learning notes and rhythms," says Jenny Guemmer. "She cares about her students on a spiritual level. She really invested in all of us. After a choir tour, we discussed choirs we had visited and she asked, 'How will people out there know how to experience what you've heard?' It just sort of hit me like a lightning bolt - we have to teach them! And I cried. Because of her, I discovered my calling as a music teacher." In fact, she now teaches piano lessons to Perla's granddaughter, Celeste.

"Trying to get into her choirs was very prestigious," says Eric Rosander. "It was an audition process. There was such a high pressure of staying there. It was a growing up experience for a lot of people. One time, back when I was playing bass, I didn't have my stuff down when it was time for rehearsal. I got called up on it; a lecture in front of everybody. What I didn't do affected the entire group; affected everything she had planned for that day. I learned to be disciplined, to work as a team; learned about musicality and performance. It's not just notes and text; the text actually has a story or an emotion that you're trying to convey. She drove you to meet a challenge of high standards." Rosander now sings in R.S.V.P.

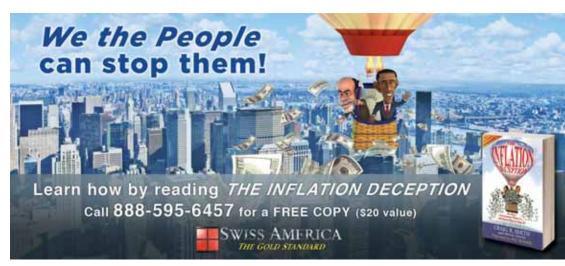

"The first word that comes to mind is passionate; passionate about music, teaching," recalls Julie Adams. "She was demanding, but in a way that made you want to be better. You knew she wanted the best for you, and cared about you, and that's why she was expecting so much out of you. We stood a little taller, felt better about ourselves and expected more out of ourselves. I think I was on her first European tour. I sat next to her on the plane and she taught me the entire flight. I remember learning things about the Philippines, the language. She's always sharing ideas, concepts and knowledge. The quality of the music she prepared was always high quality, so we were so proud to perform with her." Following Perla's lead, Adams also became a music teacher, and conductor of R.S.V.P. and the Sacramento Children's Chorus.

"She was very warm; made everybody feel welcome," says John Lofgren. "She never accepted less than excellence. She was focused and energetic. She didn't just give you notes; she'd shape the music. She was very, very creative. She was very inclusive with a lot of her students as far as discussing things other than music; what she learned from her life. I got to know her family very well. I saw the interaction between her and her husband with their children; the trust they had in each other. We have that with our daughter. Part of that comes from Perla." Lofgren has sung with the Sacramento Master Singers for over 20 years.

In the past three decades, Perla has conducted all-state honor choirs in local, state and national arenas, managed choral workshops at several universities and music conferences throughout the United States and the Philippines.

"One of my students said there are times when they're in the class that it's so intense they feel like they need to scream and run away, but they don't. They are so willing to fail. 'But, you, Mrs. Warren, are so unwilling for us to fail.' It is one of the most beautiful compliments I received. I'll never forget that."

Celts Sound off in Carmichael Park

By Susan Maxwell Skinner

With a founder of Scottish blood (an international organization run by Daniel Carmichael's distant kin is based in Carmichael, Scotland) our town seems a bonnie site for a Celtic blow out.

Hoots and begorrah! So delighted with the location are participants — the St Andrew's Society, the Shamrock Club, Daughters of Scotia and the Caledonia Club — these kilted cousins will make Carmichael Park home for ongoing annual ceilidhs (parties). After being rained out in October 2010, all was forgiven when fine weather blessed their recent festival. Beneath kilts, kneecaps were cosy; fall sunshine even sauteed some freckled faces.

Three Celtic bands entertained.

Fifty dancers did flings and jigs. Fiddlers, penny-whistlers, bagpipers and bodran drummers serenaded. Outreach was not just musical: Caledonian and St Andrews group members advised visitors on how to research Gaelic roots. "Just because your name doesn't start with a Mc or an O' doesn't mean you're not Scottish or Irish," adivised St Andrews Society executive Chuck Jamison. "If you look hard enough at most fair-skinned Americans, you can usually find some Celtic blood." Jamison – who entertained in the Stout Rebellion pub band — rates his own case as classic. As a young man, he was enchanted by Scottish parade music. He learned to play bagpipes for the US Army and was piping for over 300 events per year before he discovered ancestors who hailed from the Shetland Islands an Arctic outpost annexed to the Scottish crown in the 14th century.

"Carmichael is perfect for a ceilidh," enthused Jamison. "Our dancers love to share the history of their dances. Musicians like to get people singing and feeling good. Our societies aim to help people discover their roots. Some of our audience came because they'd heard about the festival; some were just walking the dog and stayed to enjoy the music. That was great, too. We'll share Celtic arts and philospophy with all

Pharmacy Choice & Access Now (PCAN) Opposes Obama Administration Decision

Sacramento – Pharmacy Choice & Access Now (PCAN) expressed disappointment in the Obama Administration and the Centers Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) for the decision to approve California's recent proposal to cut Medi-Cal provider reimbursements. The cuts, in conjunction with California's March 2011 budget, will result in a significant reduction in health care access for millions of Californians. "We are frustrated with the Obama Administration's recent actions to approve reimbursement cuts that would threaten health care access for Californians on Medi-Cal," said Becky Warren, spokesperson for the Pharmacy Choice & Access Now (PCAN) coalition in California. "It is disappointing and baffling that the administration would introduce key provisions to expand healthcare access through the

Affordable Care Act and approve Medi-Cal cuts, which completely

call into question their commitment to California's citizens."

According to a recent poll conducted by Fairbank, Maslin, Maullin, Metz & Associates, 36 percent of Medi-Cal enrollees indicate that they have been denied medical care because Medi-Cal coverage was not accepted.

With cuts to Medi-Cal provider reimbursements, that percentage is likely to rise as costs increase for the many pharmacists, physicians, nursing home attendants, dentists, optometrists and others currently providing vital care and services for millions of Californians. "We need to repeal these cuts so that Californians who depend on Medi-Cal are able to have the same access to medical care as those covered with private insurance," continued Warren. "Our number one priority is the health of all Californians and when patients are already facing difficulties in finding physicians and securing appointments, we believe any cuts to health care coverage are a step in the wrong direction." PCAN plans on supporting all efforts to prevent these cuts from being implemented and will work with organizations committed to improving access to health care in California.

Pharmacy Choice and Access Now (PCAN) is a coalition of consumers, local business and pharmacists across the nation committed to preserving quality and affordable health care and pharmacy services for patients. We are committed to providing the most cost-effective solutions in the areas of health care and pharmacy services to enable states around the country to help solve their budget woes, while maintaining quality care for children, families and other Medicaid-served populations. California's Proposed Delta Plan

By Steve Nugent General Manager Carmichael Water District

Across California, you can find stunning examples of how important water and water management have always been in our state. Water drove the Gold Rush that led to California's statehood and worldwide prominence. Water management helped turn arid desert into fertile farms, silicon wafers into computer chips, and dry lots into lush home sites for millions of families.

But now, California's demand for water is outstripping supplies. The health of our state's economy and environment is threatened. Making the most of water resources requires a rebalance and a refocus as to how they are utilized. This is no simple task. To do it, a hard look at California's many natural climates, as well as an assessment of the environmental and economic costs/benefits of moving water across the state is needed. At that point a decision as to how to best and fairly allocate responsibilities can be made.

Northern California and the Sacramento region have some of the state's most abundant water resources, which are already allocated to meeting needs throughout the state. The region serves itself and supplies water to San Joaquin Valley farms and Southern California cities through the Delta.

But the Delta is overworked. Its fish populations have crashed. Foreign species threaten native species. The amount of water being pumped from the Delta to dry areas of California is reduced as a result.

In 2009, the Legislature called for a new Delta Plan to balance the state's water supply reliability with a healthy Delta ecosystem. Northern Californians are ready to participate in a responsible Delta solution but the Delta Plan under development needs to make clear environmental gains and avoid serious restrictions on water supplies in Northern California.

The Sacramento region has adopted innovative solutions to balance the local economic demands for water supplies and the environmental needs of our rivers and wetlands. As one example, on the American River, water suppliers, governments, environmentalists, businesses and civic groups signed the Water Forum Agreement in 2000. Through this agreement and other innovations, our region is making investments to store surplus water for future use, reduce demand, and use alternative water sources. These efforts improve local environment and directly benefit areas downstream by improving conditions for fish like salmon that migrate through the Delta. The currently proposed Delta Plan could undermine Northern California's good work, restricting the ability to use local supplies and reducingenvironmental sustainability. To top it off, the draft Delta Plan proposes to force water customers to pay higher rates and fees to fund the very bureaucracy that seeks to reduce control of local water sources that our region has worked hard to manage responsibly.

California needs a responsible Delta solution. More efficient water use, additional storage, recycling, and a host of other measures are all important components. Northern California which is currently the water source for much of the state should not be subjected to a plan that would threaten our region's economy by unfairly limiting the ability to use local water.

Decades ago, Northern California agreed to share water with drier regions to improve California as a whole. Part of the agreement was that Northern California would always be able to use its local water to meet local demands. Proposed Delta solutions could undermine these basic principles upon which our local economy and quality of life have been built.

Our region will do its part in a water solution for our state. However; that solution needs to honestly acknowledge the real impacts and the true beneficiaries.

Brown Hails $1.8 Billion Bond Sale

Sacramento - Governor Edmund G. Brown Jr. said on October 20th, 2011 that the sale of $1.8 billion in general obligation bonds will help create tens of thousands of jobs and bolster economic recovery efforts by funding major infrastructure projects throughout California.

"When we invest in infrastructure, we provide a homegrown economic stimulus to create jobs and ensure our state is prepared for the challenges of the future," said Governor Brown. "Investor confidence in California's fundamental strengths, combined with an on-time, balanced budget, means that we can make important investments to boost the state's economic recovery and put Californians back to work. I want to congratulate Treasurer Bill Lockyer and his team for negotiating a successful sale for California."

When Governor Brown came into office, state agencies and departments had more than $13 billion dollars of bond proceeds that had accumulated. He directed agencies and departments to prioritize and expedite the expenditure of those funds. As a result, he was able to cancel last spring's bond sale and reduce the amount of bonds sold this fall, avoiding hundreds of millions in higher debt payments each year.

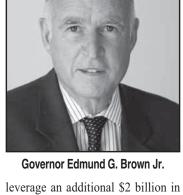

State agencies and departments report that all of the proceeds from today's bond sale will be expended by June of 2012. In addition, agencies and departments are continuing to implement the Governor's directive to commit unspent bond proceeds to intrastructure projects throughout the state. This means unspent bond proceeds will have been reduced from $13.4 billion in January of 2011 to $3 billion in June of 2012. The following is a summary of how proceeds from yesterday's bond sale, as well as existing bond balances, are being put to work:

CALTRANS

Caltrans will be able to start 26 new projects, with a total (multi-year) construction cost of $1.2 billion, with this additional $450 million in bond proceeds. These projects are designed to increase traffic flow by adding lanes, widening roadways, and installing traffic management systems. These 26 projects are expected to create an additional 30,000 jobs. These new Caltrans projects described above are expected to non-state funds.

The existing balance of bond funds will fund 320 ongoing projects through June 2012, with 20 of these projects started in August by using existing bond funds more efficiently. These projects have a total (multiyear) construction cost of $6.6 billion.

These existing projects will leverage approximately $9 billion in other non-state funds.

Local Streets and Roads

A total of approximately $38 million in bond proceeds will be used to start roughly 70 local street and road projects. The majority of these projects are general maintenance projects on local roads, such as sealing and resurfacing, but many cities and counties have combined these funds with other local or federal funds to complete larger road projects.

K-12 School Construction

Existing funding for K-12 school construction will be fully expended by December 2011. The additional $1 billion provided in the fall 2011 bond sale will fund the start of approximately 450 new projects, which is anticipated to consist of approximately 250 modernization projects, 130 new construction projects and 70 other projects. Exact projects will be identified by the State Allocation Board.

California Community Colleges

Community Colleges will be able to start five new construction and modernization projects with the $24 million in additional bond proceeds. California Institute for

million in existing proceeds, plus the additional $50 million, will be used to fund the following program activities:

The first Food and Drug Administration-approved clinical trial for a human embryonic stem cell therapy (for spinal cord injury). CIRM's $25 million commitment to this project has been matched by a $29 million commitment of private funds.

14 Disease Research Teams that are proceeding towards clinical trials of therapies to treat diseases ranging from HIV/AIDS to dry macular degeneration (a common cause of blindness) to neurological diseases such as ALS. One of these awards is a $20 million loan which has generated approximately $20 million in additional funds by the company receiving the CIRM award.

Training and internship awards to fund the training of almost 900 promising new scientists and technical staff at the University of California, California State University, California Community Colleges and other institutions in California.

CIRM-funded research and related matching funds are expected to create or retain approximately 5,000 jobs per year and more than $60 million in new state and local tax revenues.

The current portfolio of stem cell research at CIRM, including the grant programs scheduled through June 2012, have resulted in over 100 scientists and 1,000 other highlytrained researchers being recruited to the state. The Stanford Stem Cell Institute estimates that each of these researchers will bring an average of $1.5 million in research funding to California, for a total of $150 million of additional research funding and associated jobs.

Natural Resource Agency

The current balance of approximately $4.2 billion is being used by the Resources Agency, including the Department of Water Resources, to fund 7,696 ongoing projects, including over 3,000 parks and trails construction projects, over 1,000 restoration projects, over 600 flood projects and 600 water projects.

These projects have also leveraged approximately $3.5 billion in nonstate funds.

Departments are using these funds to start an average of 125 new projects per month and this rate is expected to continue for the foreseeable future.

Arrest Made In Fatal Motorcycle Taking Care After Breast Cancer

By James N. Martin, Jr, MD President, The American Congress of Obstetricians

and Gynecologists

There are more than 2.5 million breast cancer survivors living in the US. Thanks to advances in the early detection and treatment of cancer, most women diagnosed with breast cancer in the US will live for many years. But once the cancer is gone, they often face a new set of physical, emotional, and financial challenges. Establishing a plan for follow-up care and maintaining open and ongoing communication with a doctor can help cancer survivors stay healthy and cancer-free.

Cancer survivors are at greater risk for cancer recurrence and developing new cancers due to the effects of treatment, unhealthy lifestyle behaviors, underlying genetics, or risk factors that contributed to their first occurrence of cancer. The majority of breast cancer recurrence happens in the first five years after cancer treatment ends.

After beating cancer with a marathon of tests and treatments, the last thing on most survivors' minds is more medical care. But regular doctor's visits can help improve quality of life after cancer and provide an opportunity to ask questions and get a doctor's advice. Additionally, early detection of any new cancers increase the chance of survival and reassurance on the absence of cancer strengthens peace of mind.

Once you have completed cancer treatment, your follow-up plan of care should include a schedule of recommended follow-up visits, screenings, and medical tests and should specify which doctor in your medical team will be responsible for each. The frequency of follow-up visits should be adjusted according to your individual needs. The American Society of Clinical Oncology recommends that examinations be performed every three to six months for the first three years, every six to 12 months for years four and five, and annually thereafter. Mammography should be performed on an annual basis after treatment for breast cancer ends.

If you have undergone breastconserving surgery, a post-treatment mammogram should be obtained at least six months after completion of radiation therapy. Then, unless indicated, otherwise mammograms should be performed. In addition to continued care, you should consume a healthy diet, exercise, not smoke, and drink alcohol, moderately, if at all.

Discuss any concerns about health care costs with your doctor. Cancer can create heavy economic burdens on women and their families. Resources are available for women who need financial assistance to cover health care costs.

For more information, visit the National Cancer Institute's "Coping with Cancer" webpage at cancer. gov/cancertopics/coping.

Local Levee Improvements Set to Begin

Sacramento – The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Sacramento District, in cooperation with the California Central Valley Flood Protection Board, will be repairing two levee erosion sites along the south bank of the American River between Watt Ave. and the Mayhew Drain, weather permitting, between November 2011 and July 2012.

Be on the lookout for approximately 25 trucks making up to 150 trips per day, entering, exiting and operating on top of the levee during construction periods. Flagpersonnel will guide equipment along the narrow levee road during construction. Detour signs, maps, temporary fencing and points of contact for more information will also be posted along levee access points and detour routes, redirecting pedestrian and recreational traffic safely around closed levee portions and occasionally onto adjacent streets.

"We are communicating directly with local residents, neighborhood and school leaders," said Corps project manager Dave Cook. "Construction will be intermittent but ongoing for quite a while, so we want to make sure they are aware of what's going on and provide communication avenues for updates during the project."

As part of the Sacramento River Bank Protection project, the Corps began annual erosion surveys of the Sacramento River System in 1997.

The surveys identify and inventory dozens of erosion sites along the Sacramento River and its tributaries. More than 100 sites have been repaired and repairs on the highest ranking sites continue each year. This year, the Corps will also begin repairs on sites along the Feather and Sacramento rivers.

The U.S. Army Corps of Engineers Sacramento District provides flood risk management, navigation, watershed planning and ecosystem services in parts of eight western states, including California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, Colorado, Idaho, Oregon and Wyoming.

Veterans Day Event in Carmichael

By Linda E. Jones, Chairperson Earl J. Koobs Nature Area Committee

Carmichael – The Earl J. Koobs Nature Area all started with a teacher's off-hand suggestion and high school students' endearing perseverance to purchase about 4 1/2 acres in Carmichael as a nature and environmental studies area in 1971. Even Governor Reagan and President Nixon donated to the students' cause. A California ecology grant helped pay the balance. The area was later named for Mr. Koobs, the biology teacher who planted seeds of an idea.

Note: He is now called "Ranger Jack", but is still very involved. You may find our Vietnam Memorial especially intriguing.

In 1973, while many were still in disbelief of America's losses, the nature area's symbol became a memorial to 14 students from La Sierra High School who died for our country. This is the first known Vietnam Memorial in California, was made in metal shop by students remembering their own classmates.

There is not much more history available until the 80's. In 1988, the nature area was almost sold for lack of use and interest. The community of Garfield Elementary, as "Save Our Soil" rallied and again saved this precious resource by establishing an educational trust; it will always be here for future generational sharing, learning about nature...and so much more!

There was a very special rededication Nov 10, 1988 of the La Sierra High School Memorial that included featured speaker B.T. Collins. Just mentioning his name in this community brings forth welling of respect. Families of boys lost still speak with tear-filled eyes of gratitude for their own not forgotten by a great man.

Subsequent Days of Remembrance were mostly limited to Garfield Elementary classes visiting the memorial. Teaching can go both ways as students bring up family members, friends, those known in the community. The Nature Area Committee realized the need to reach out further and was fortunate to find seven out of fourteen families and many former students for our "Day to Honor and Remember". Those found met more when they attended, along with a variety of veterans, families, and friends with stories to share. This interaction and expressed community interest encouraged the Nature Area Committee to continue. The observance has become tradition now, with this being our 10th consecutive year honoring veterans on the eleventh month, eleventh day and eleventh hour. We also now observe Memorial Day as a time to remember those who gave the ultimate sacrifice for our country.

Federal Injunction To Be Filed Against California Open Carry Ban

Federal Civil Rights Lawsuit to be filed on Anniversary of Second Amendment

Commentary from californiarighttocarry.org

On December 15, 1791, Virginia became the 10th of 14 states to approve 10 of the 12 proposed amendments to the United States Constitution; giving the Bill of Rights the two-thirds majority of state ratification necessary to go into effect.

On December 15, 2011 a Federal Civil Rights Lawsuit will be filed seeking an injunction against a California law that was passed in 1967 which makes it a crime to openly carry a loaded firearm.

Ironically, the law recently passed by the California Legislature and signed into law by Governor Jerry Brown (AB 144) making it a crime to openly carry even an unloaded handgun has greatly simplified the lawsuit. Under a 9th Circuit Court of Appeals decision in May of 2011 it would have been necessary to show that the California law which requires openly carried firearms to be unloaded until one was in grave, immediate danger was a "substantial burden."

With the passage of AB 144, this will no longer be necessary. The California Legislature has created a mirror image of the landmark decision by the United States Supreme Court. The decision, issued in 2008, held that the individual has the right to openly carry a loaded firearm for the purpose of self-defense; except in certain "sensitive" places such as schools and government buildings. The High Court held that a law banning handguns, even though it exempted long guns (rifles and shotguns) was unconstitutional.

Two Federal lawsuits which had been brought in California to obtain permits to carry handguns concealed failed, in part, because the Federal judges cited the exception to California law for openly carrying a loaded handgun when one was in grave, immediate danger. With the passage of AB 144, that exception no longer exists. The Chief Federal Judge for the Southern District of California said she was unable to rule on whether or not the section of the California Penal Code making it a crime to openly carry a loaded handgun before one was in danger was constitutional, because neither party challenged the constitutionality of the law (Penal Code section 12031). The attorney for the defendant in that case, the Sheriff of San Diego County argued that the Heller decision did not apply outside of the home. The attorney also argued that the Second Amendment should not apply to the County of San Diego because it was located near the Mexican border. The Federal judge in the case did not buy either of those arguments.

The lawsuit seeking an injunction to California Penal Code section 12031, to the extent it makes it a crime to openly carry a loaded firearm for the purpose of self-defense will be brought in the Federal Central District of California.

California Right To Carry is a California nonprofit registered with the California Secretary of State. It does not solicit or accept public donations for its organization. Operating expenses are provided entirely by its membership. 100% of the donations to the legal fund will be used for the Federal lawsuit. None of the money goes to the organization – California Right To Carry. Donations are not tax deductible.

Luck Has a Lot To Do With It

It's better to be lucky than good.
Unless you are really, really good, and don't need much luck to be a winner.

If you have a lot of good players, good coaches, a quarterback named Luck to lead you, and some luck, then you are going to win.

The Stanford Cardinal had all of that going on Saturday night as they rallied from a 20-10, second-half deficit in Los Angeles to defeat USC, 56-48, in triple-overtime.

The visitors (8-0, 6-0 in the Pac-12) were lucky they didn't face a much larger hole early. An obvious Stanford pass interference and a USC dropped pass, both in the end zone, kept the Trojans from scoring two touchdowns in the first half.

The Cardinal were lucky regulation time ran out before USC (6-2, 3-2) could kick a winning field goal. In the end, they were lucky to recover a fumble in the end zone on the game's final play.

Through it all, though, QB Andrew Luck, a Heisman Trophy favorite, led four late scoring drives, including a 76-yarder that tied the game with 38 seconds left in the fourth quarter, sending it to overtime.

The Stanford star is sure to be the No. 1 selection in the next NFL draft and several teams are in contention for that choice. Your team could be absolutely no good at all, and get lucky, and get Luck.

The top three college teams in the BCS rankings, LSU, Alabama and Oklahoma State, are all very, very good. Stanford, now No. 4, will need both "lucks" if it is to fulfill its national title ambitions.

Sunday, the San Francisco 49ers were very glad that running back Frank Gore is just so, so good. Gore carried for more than 125 yards (134) for the fourth straight game as the hosts methodically whipped Cleveland, 20-10, to advance to 6-1.

Just lucky, I guess, were the Oakland Raiders that this was their bye week, because they haven't been good since QB Jason Campbell went down to injury. The break will give new QB Carson Palmer a chance to learn his teammates' names.

Speaking of new quarterbacks, Tim Tebow is lucky to be getting a chance to play for the woeful Denver Broncos, but is showing that he is just not that good.

As luck would have it, the St. Louis Cardinals (way too much cardinal red for my liking this week) completed their magic carpet ride to their 11th World Series title, defeating the Texas Rangers, 6-2, in Game 7 Friday night. Leading, 3-2, a decisive two-run rally in the fifth inning featured no hits, three walks and two hit-batsmen. Classic?

It was a remarkably classic Game 6, however, won by St. Louis, 10-9, on a walk-off homer by Series MVP David Freese in the 11th inning. Twice the unlucky and under-performing Rangers were within one strike of winning their first World Series.

There was plea

There was plenty of drama, but overall it was not a particularly well-played Series. The Cards were pretty lucky that the Rangers' defense was very poor and their pitchers served up so many fat pitches to hit at critical times. Except for Chris Carpenter, the St. Louis pitching wasn't much better. There weren't any Roy Hallidays, Cliff Lees, or, regrettably, any Tim Lincecums, Matt Cains or Brian Wilsons on the mounds in this one.

The Cards were lucky that the Brewers' Prince Fielder hit a home run in the All Star Game to give the National League home field advantage for the Series. That clearly played a role in the momentum of the final two games in St. Louis.

It was manager Tony LaRussa's third title, second with St. Louis. He announced his retirement Monday. Leaving with the third most wins all time, he should consider himself lucky that his team came back after being down three games to two. His sure-to-be Hall of Fame legacy might have been tarnished by the Game 5 loss in Texas.

His well-documented communications issues over the phones with his bull pen crew, that may have cost St. Louis that game, prompted a lot of unflattering talk and ink post game.

Upon retirement, his great career is well deserving of a gold watch... a golden parachute... some gold stars... and a gold phone.

Lungren Votes to Repeal Burdensome Tax Provision

Washington, D.C.—Congressman
Dan Lungren (R-Gold River-CA) issued the following statement on 10/28/11 after Congress voted – in a bipartisan manner – for H.R. 674. This bill would prevent a three percent withholding tax that would have been yet another burden on our economy.
Under this withholding, federal, state and many local governments will be required to withhold three percent of all government payments made to contractors and suppliers. "I am continuing to support legislation that helps create an environment that will assist businesses to hire more people. Americans are struggling to find work and it is paramount that Congress takes the necessary steps to restore certainty and place the country on a path to economic growth. "As of now our House Republican Plan for America's Job Creators has sent the Senate over 10 pro growth jobs bills. H.R. 674, which is supported by the President, now heads to the Senate. I hope they will quickly act- as we have—and pass this bill. We owe it to the American people."

Congressman Dan Lungren serves as the Chairman of the House Administration Committee in addition to serving on the Judiciary and Homeland Security Committees.

Oral health begins even before children start teething. Are you establishing positive dental habits early to ensure your child's teeth are healthy? Paying attention to your child's oral health early can prevent problems down the road such as chronic pain, impaired chewing and speech development, as well as reduced concentration and self-confidence.

Your child's teeth and gums are important – even his or her baby teeth. A child's first set of teeth is crucial for chewing, speaking and speech development, jaw development, self-esteem and are placeholders for permanent teeth. Smart oral health practices are just one step in preparing a child to begin school on the right track.

Research shows that a child's brain develops most dramatically in the first five years and what parents and caregivers do during these years to support their child's growth will have a meaningful impact throughout life.

Based on this research, California voters passed Proposition 10 in 1998, adding a 50 cents-per-pack tax on tobacco products to support programs for expectant parents and children ages zero to five. In the last year, First 5 Sacramento distributed approximately $16 million a year in Prop 10 revenues to programs and services that meet local needs. Each county has a First 5 Children and Families Commission providing unique local services for that county.
