Blind Man Beats COVID Then Saves Another Man's Life

By Kristin Thébaud,
Thébaud Communications

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Dr. Paul Peterson of Carmichael remembers sitting at a concert onboard a Princess Cruise ship in February – just two empty seats from a woman who coughed throughout the show. Three days after disembarking from the ship, Peterson, a local chiropractor who is blind, began noticing odd chills, a low-grade fever and achy muscles. Certain he had the flu, he laid low – then the cough started. Within two days, he received a chest x-ray that revealed pneumonia. Two days after that, he received the dreaded email from Princess Cruise Lines: Passengers onboard his ship had come down with the coronavirus. Peterson, a community volunteer who serves on the board of directors for Society for the Blind in Sacramento, was the first person to be tested for COVID-19 in Sacramento:

It was positive. He decided to recuperate at home, and a physician friend lent him an oxygen meter. On the twelfth day of the virus, his oxygen level was well below 100 at 84 despite using his CPAP machine, so he went to the emergency room. After several tests, he was admitted to the ICU.

“My wife asked if I was going to make it, and the doctors told her they didn’t know,” Peterson said. “It was

Life Changes Quickly She Continues Working after Sudden Blindness

By Kristin Thébaud,
Thébaud Communications

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In three days, Rancho Cordova resident Elizabeth Lam went from being a 52-year-old systems trainer at health care company Centene to no longer being able to put on her own socks.

She woke up on February 28, 2018 with an excruciating headache and blurry vision, but had to conduct a training, so she took ibuprofen and went to work. When her vision worsened that afternoon, she called her eye doctor and scheduled an appointment for March 5. By March 3, she was blind.

“I sat in my recliner all day and night thinking I would wake up and my vision would be back, but it never came,” Lam said.

She wondered how she would continue living – how she would brush her teeth and make coffee, much less continue caring for her elderly father who lived with her. She woke up the next day and decided it was time to face what was happening and get help.

“I told myself that I was going down a different path than I had expected, and I had to deal with it,” Lam said.

She called a friend who took her to the doctor the next day. She was diagnosed with the most rapid case of neurovascular glaucoma the doctor had ever seen. There was still some hope for vision – but five laser surgeries, three injections and tubes in her eyes have only allowed her to see some light and bright colors. She can’t see faces or details or read a computer. But fortunately she can work – because she found Society for the Blind.

Lam had worked with Centene for 14 years and did not want to leave her job. She just wanted to learn how to do it a different way. Through Society for the Blind’s Core program, Lam started working with program director Shane Snyder and instructor Randy Owen to learn assistive technology. They worked for three months helping her learn how to use her iPhone and computer. Through Core, she also learned daily life skills such as cooking and laundry. She attended classes five days a week, though most students only come three days a week.

“The whole team over there is amazing – they basically saved my life,” Lam said. “Most have low vision or are completely dark, and they are living examples that there is life after sight. I’m in awe of them.”

Three months later, Lam was ready to go back to her job at Centene but still needed help. So Randy began coming to her office twice a week. He continued to help her through the end of 2019

CHP Commissioner Earns Lifetime Achievement Award

(CHP) Commissioner Warren Stanley. Photo: CHP

By Fran Clader, CHP

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - California Highway Patrol (CHP) Commissioner Warren Stanley has spent nearly four decades advocating for highway safety in California. His unwavering commitment to public service and dedication to CHP employees caught the attention of the American Association of Motor Vehicle Administrators (AAMVA), which rewarded his efforts with the AAMVA Lifetime Achievement Award in Highway Safety – Law Enforcement. The award is presented annually to an AAMVA member whose primary function is directly associated with highway and traffic safety efforts and who has had a distinguished career in this arena.

“My entire career has been fueled by a passion for safety,” said Commissioner Stanley. “I am fortunate to be able to work alongside so many others who have demonstrated a lifelong commitment to reducing traffic fatalities and injuries on our roadways. This honor would not be possible without their dedication and shared vision.”

As a dedicated member of the law enforcement community, Commissioner Stanley has served the people of California for more than 37 years. In 2018, Stanley became the first African American to hold the rank of CHP Commissioner. He is also one of the distinguished few to have held every uniformed position from officer to Commissioner within the CHP.

“This is hard work, but it is exceptionally important and incredibly rewarding,” added Commissioner Stanley.

Winners of this, and other awards, are traditionally recognized at AAMVA’s International Conference in August of every year. Due to COVID-19 and travel restrictions, AAMVA cancelled its 2020 conference. Previous recipients of the distinguished honor from AAMVA include former CHP Commissioners Dwight O. Helmick (2004) and Joe Farrow (2011).

The mission of the CHP is to provide the highest level of Safety, Service, and Security. ★

Rancho Cordova Receives Three Project of the Year Awards

City of Rancho Cordova

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In August, the City of Rancho Cordova was honored with three Project of the Year awards from the Sacramento Chapter of the American Public Works Association (APWA). The projects were awarded under the Environment, Disaster or Emergency Construction/Repair and Transportation categories. The Public Works Department is proud to have delivered these important projects for the city.

Bear Hollow Tree Planting received the Project of the Year Award for the Environment Category. The City’s Urban Forest Team, in partnership with the Sacramento Tree Foundation, planted over 500 native species trees in the Bear Hollow Stormwater Basin in 2018 and 2019. The project included several volunteer events to plant, stake and mulch approximately 100 trees along North Mather Boulevard and 400 trees on the south side of the basin. The seedlings were started by elementary school students who collected and propagated acorns. The 500 trees will contribute to the natural beauty of the basin, reduce the quantity of and improve the quality of stormwater entering the basin, provide significant wildlife habitat, and sequester nearly 1.8 million pounds of carbon during their lifetime. The Tree Foundation is responsible for maintaining the irrigation system and the trees for a period of three years. The Public Works Department is working to identify additional stormwater basins for similar tree planting projects.

American River Parkway Culvert & Slope Repair received the Project of the Year Award for the category of Disaster or Emergency Construction/Repair. On May 6, 2019, Sacramento County Regional Parks and the City of Rancho Cordova jointly collaborated on repairing an eroded section of riverbank and realigning a 520-foot section of the Jedediah Smith Memorial Trail that had been damaged during winter storms. Responsibility for repairs were split between the city and county. The city was responsible for repairing a failed culvert and stabilizing a section of the south bank of the American River and the county was responsible for realigning the trail.

The trail realignment work commenced on August 5, 2019 and was completed by August 23, 2019. The culvert and slope repair work commenced on August 26, 2019 and was completed by August 30, 2019.

This project addressed some major safety issues with the American River Parkway bike trail, which is used by hundreds of bikers and pedestrians every day.

Chase Drive/Coloma Road Plaza Project received the Project of the Year Award in the category of Transportation. Coloma Road is a heavily travelled minor arterial where the Rancho Cordova Police Department continues to monitor for speeding drivers. The city received a grant for the Chase Drive/Coloma Road Plaza Project that increased safety and enhanced the aesthetics of the existing plaza area for students waiting to cross Coloma Road and Chase Drive, as this is a critical access point to Cordova High School and Mills Middle School.

Improvements included enhanced road striping for clear delineations between pedestrians, bicycles, and vehicles. Sidewalks on the south and north side of Chase Drive were improved along with new landscaping and lighting in the plaza and on the frontage. Traffic signal upgrades and a new guardrail system were installed.

quite the experience being wired to the wall and computers and not knowing if I was going to live or die.”

He was in ICU for two and a half days and in the hospital for five days. He spent the next two weeks recuperating at home. During that time, Sacramento County retested him to make sure the virus was gone: It was. As it turned out, Peterson was one of the few people in Sacramento who received pre- and post-tests for coronavirus – the practice was halted shortly after.

When Peterson’s physician friend learned that there was a new experimental test being done that involved using recovered COVID patients’ antibody-rich plasma to treat patients with severe cases of coronavirus, he called Peterson. The experiment required someone who had tested positive and had a subsequent negative test.

Peterson immediately agreed and became the first person in Sacramento to donate the antibody-rich plasma. He donated four units of plasma that day, enough for four COVID-19 patients.

Not long after, he learned that one of those units had saved a Sacramento man’s life. The man had been on a ventilator for 12 days and they did not think he would survive. Two days after receiving Peterson’s plasma, he was healing and able to talk to his family.

“It was a spectacularly wonderful feeling to know my plasma had saved someone’s life,” he said. “I wonder if perhaps my life was saved so that my plasma could save the lives of others. As soon as we have a strong antibody test, I hope even more people will donate. It’s easy to donate and doesn’t hurt a bit.”

Peterson donated his plasma again earlier this summer and learned that at least one unit of that donation has been used. He has a new outlook on life since his experience in ICU.

“My whole life, I’ve thought of myself as a farm boy from Iowa and never indulged too much in things such as expensive food,” Peterson said. “Since being in ICU, if I want something, I get it!”

He also plans to continue traveling once stay-at-home orders are lifted.

The beloved doctor offers this advice, “Keep your immune system tuned up through proper nutrition, rest, stress control and exercise, and you can fight off most things. The human body is self-regulating and self-healing and does a marvelous job of keeping us healthy.” ★

DA Schubert Responds to Antifa Anarchists’ Attack on Public Safety

By Shelly Orio, Sacramento District Attorney’s Office

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento District Attorney’s Office was targeted by a domestic terrorist and anarchist organization- Sacramento Antifa. This attack was planned. This organization seeks to destroy public safety, dismantle law enforcement, and eliminate all social discourse. These anarchists have waged attacks across this country, in major urban cities, including Portland, Seattle and Denver. Their tactics are rooted in organized violence and terror.

Contrary to the peaceful protest held earlier in the evening, Sacramento Antifa, along with outside Antifa groups, wreaked havoc on the Sacramento community, threatening media reporters and others, damaging many buildings, and trying to set a fire in the lobby of the District Attorney’s office. They have threatened to do the same in the coming days.

The Sacramento District Attorney’s Office will prosecute anyone identified and arrested for these crimes to the full extent of the law. We ask for the public’s help in identifying any of these anarchists. In particular, we are seeking information on the individuals in the photo taken at Caesar Chavez Park. At least one of these individuals is believed to have threatened a reporter to “break your f.....g camera if you don’t back off.”

For more videos and pictures, visit www.sacda.org/media/press-downloads/antifa-anarchists/.

If anyone has information on the identity of the individuals in the photos or videos, please contact the District Attorney’s Office at daoffice@sacda.org. ★

RCPD Reminds Drivers to Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over

Rancho Cordova Police Department

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - As we approach Labor Day weekend, the Rancho Cordova Police Department (RCPD) is participating in the national Drive Sober or Get Pulled Over campaign and encourages our community to be responsible and safe by not driving impaired.

RCPD will have additional officers on patrol from August 21, 2020 through the Labor Day weekend, September 7, 2020 to identify and arrest alcohol and drug-impaired drivers to keep our community safe.

In addition to proactive patrols, RCPD will hold a Driving Under the Influence (DUI)/Driver License Checkpoint from Friday, September 4 at 6 PM through Saturday, September 5 at 2 AM at an undisclosed location in the City of Rancho Cordova. During the checkpoint, RCPD officers will look for signs that drivers are under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs, as well as check for proper licensing.

While less people are traveling during the COVID-19 pandemic, impaired driving continues to be a focus for RCPD. During the Fourth of July holiday, the California Highway Patrol made 738 arrests for DUI over a 54-hour period.

YOU can make our community safer. Drive with care and slow down.

Follow traffic laws, including speed laws and no texting laws.

If you plan to drink, don’t drive. Period. In addition, DUI doesn’t just mean alcohol. Prescription drugs with warning labels about driving, and marijuana, especially in combination with alcohol or other drugs, can also impair driving and result in a DUI. If you see an impaired driver on the road, immediately call 911.

Drivers charged with DUI face an average of $13,500 in fines and penalties, as well as a suspended license.

Funding for this program is provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety, through the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. ★

Two Killed in Rancho Cordova Shootout, Reports Says Deputy Survives

Sergeant Tess Deterding, Sacramento County Sheriff's Spokesperson

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - On August 22, 2020 at approximately 7 p.m., the Sacramento County Sheriff's Office Communication Center received a call from the 160 block of Dutchess Way in Rancho Cordova. The caller stated her grandson, whom she had a restraining order against, had a gun and was inside her residence. The caller further stated her grandson pointed the gun at her and told her to leave. Minutes later, deputies arrived and attempted to contact the suspect, who was outside the residence. The suspect fled to the rear of the residence as deputies pursued him. The suspect engaged deputies with gunfire as the deputies entered the backyard, striking one of the deputies multiple times in the lower body. Deputies continued to exchange gunfire with the suspect, who was ultimately subdued. He was shot two (2) times by deputies and sustained an apparent self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head. The caller, a 58-year-old female, was shot four (4) times by the suspect during the incident. She was pronounced deceased at the scene. It was later determined the suspect's grandmother lived at the residence with the female victim, but the victim was not the suspect's grandmother. The investigation into the incident will be conducted by the Sheriff's Homicide Bureau and Professional Standards Division, which is standard practice for any officer-involved shootings that occurs in the Sheriff's Office jurisdiction. An independent review of the incident will be conducted by the Sacramento County District Attorney's Office. The deputies involved in the shooting are 15 year, 8 year and 4 year veterans of the Sheriff's Office. In accordance with the Sheriff's Office policies and procedures, the deputies involved in the shooting will be placed on paid administrative leave pending the investigation. A comprehensive debrief video of this incident will be released in the coming week. ★

And Another Thing He Will Always Be Remembered

On September 17, 2018, Rancho Cordova Police Officer Mark Stasyuk was killed while protecting an employee of Pep Boys on Folsom Blvd. and McGregor Dr. The perpetrator was threatening the employee and destroying items at the store. Officer Stasyuk and his partner didn't know that the perpetrator had a gun, until he turned and shot at both officers. He hit and killed Officer Stasyuk and injured his partner. Other police officers responded and eventually captured and arrested the man who shot the officers. That was a very sad day in Rancho Cordova when one of our officers was killed. He will always be remembered.

Last Saturday, August 22, 2019, Sheriff's East Division Officer Eric Schmidt, while responding to a call in Rancho Cordova, was wounded in a shoot-out with an armed suspect. The suspect fled from the officers, and officers chased him, leading to the shoot-out. Officer Schmidt was wounded at least twice. The suspect fired at the officers, and then he died of a self-inflicted wound. It was scary to have our officer wounded, but Officer Schmidt's surgery was successful. It was great to see him taken home to be with this family.

It was very sad for anyone to be killed or wounded, and I thought about our police officers who take care of what they do for us and themselves. That is definitely a hard job.

And another thing I thought of is the Kilgore Cemetery. I went into the cemetery a while ago, and again I felt like I was walking into history. When the city purchased the two-story building (our police station) after we became a city, the cemetery came along with the property. The property which became a cemetery was purchased in 1874. And before the cemetery was established, all area residents who died were buried in the Kenny schoolyard and, over the next 14 years, burials were exhumed and re-buried at the current cemetery site.

I read online recently, "On March 26, 1888, the residents of the Kenny School District met at the American River Grange Hall for a meeting to secure the future care and maintenance of the cemetery." The details of the history of the historical cemetery are extremely interesting, and I like history as I have mentioned before. The cemetery's history began again when we became a city and became its owners. It definitely had a time, before we began repairing it, when it wasn't cared for; it was hard to even see the cemetery because of the weeds and broken headstones which were laying on the ground.

You who are new in our city can find some interesting facts about our city, and for those who are interested we have some information at City Hall. But come to think of it, until things get back to "normal," you can find some information about the cemetery and other things about the History of the City of Rancho Cordova on the city's website, cityofranchocordova.org under "About Us."

From Councilman Bob McGarvey, God bless, and we'll see you next time. ★

PREPARING FOR A PUBLIC SAFETY POWER SHUTOFF

Public Safety Power Shutoff (PSPS) is a statewide effort to prevent wildfires by proactively turning off power to communities when severe winds and dry weather conditions are forecast. While turning off the power helps prevent wildfires, we also know it will disrupt lives and cause hardship for our customers. That’s why PG&E does not make this decision lightly and will only call a PSPS to help keep customers and communities safe.

HERE ARE 5 WAYS TO PREPARE FOR A PSPS:

Make sure PG&E can reach you before a PSPS by updating your contact information at pge.com/mywildfirealerts.

Pack or restock your family’s emergency kit including food, water, batteries, masks, radio and a first aid kit.

2

Make preparations for anyone in your family who depends on electricity for medical needs.

3

Practice manually opening your garage door (if you have a garage).

4

Ensure any backup power sources are ready and safe to operate.

For translated support in over 200 languages, please contact PG&E at 866-743-6589.

Reader Alert: This week, I, Toni King received a letter from the Social Security office regarding my special needs sister's benefits and an amazing SCAM ALERT was on the back of the envelope that her Social Security letter was in. I felt it was my duty to America and the Toni Says newspaper article readers to let you know what Social Security is saying.

Here is what is written on the back of the Social Security envelope which I received "!!!SCAM ALERT!!! Scammers are pretending to be government employees. They may threaten you and may demand immediate payment to avoid arrest or other legal actions. Do not be fooled! If you receive a suspicious call:

- 1. Hang Up!
- 2. Do Not Give Them Money Or Personal Information!
- 3. Report The Scam At OIG.SSA.GOV."

On March 27, 2020, Inspector General Gail Ennis of Social Security released a news release from the Social Security Administration warning about new Social Security Benefit Suspension Scams that America needs to be aware of. She said: "Today, I am warning the public about fraudulent letters threatening suspension of Social Security benefits due to COVID-19 or coronavirus-related office closures. Social Security will not suspend or discontinue benefits because Social Security offices are closed.

The Social Security Office of the Inspector General has received reports that Social Security beneficiaries have received letters through the U.S. Mail stating their payments will be suspended or discontinued unless they call a phone number referenced in the letter. Scammers may then mislead beneficiaries into providing personal information or payment via retail gift cards, wire transfers, internet currency, or by mailing cash, to maintain regular benefit payments during this period of COVID-19 office closures.

As of Tuesday, March 17, 2020, local Social Security offices are closed to the public due to COVID-19 concerns. However, Social Security employees continue to work. Social Security will not suspend or decrease Social Security benefit payments or Supplemental Security Income payments due to the current COVID-19 pandemic. Any communication you receive that says Social Security will do so is a scam, whether you receive it by letter, text, email, or phone call."

Toni Says article readers, please be aware that phone numbers referenced in these fraudulent letters are NOT the Social Security office and please DO NOT CALL THESE NUMBERS AND GIVE ANY PERSONAL INFORMATION!!

Also, in the press release it stated that Social Security will never:

- 1. Threaten you with benefit suspension, arrest, or other legal action unless you pay a fine or fee.
- 2. Promise a benefit increase or other assistance in exchange for payment.
- 3. Require payment by retail gift card, cash, wire transfer, internet currency, or prepaid debit card.
- 4. Demand secrecy from you in handling a Social Security-related problem.
- 5. Send official letters or reports containing personally identifiable information via email.

The Inspector General's news release also stated that if you receive a letter, text, call or email that you believe to be suspicious, about an alleged problem with your Social Security number, account, or payments, hang up or do not respond. Social Security is asking Americans to please share this information with your friends and family to help spread awareness about Social Security scams.

Please fill out scam report of a Social Security scam by using the dedicated online form at <http://oig.ssa.gov>. It states on the Office of the Inspector General website that by educating yourself and learning how to identify and report various schemes, then you can stay "several steps" ahead of scam artists!

Oh, for a Life like My Kitty

By Rev. James L. Snyder

The other night the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I were watching the news on TV. All it showed was riots, looting, and chaos, which has become the normal. When will they ever get back to broadcasting good news?

After a while, I heard a deep sigh on the other side of the room, and somebody say, “What’s wrong with people?”

I just let that go, realizing that there is no way to answer such an inquiry. People will do what people will do. Many of those people are not good people.

Thinking about this, I remembered a little change that came into our house about a month ago.

Getting up one morning as I looked out the glass doors onto the back porch, I saw a little kitty looking at me. It could not have been more than a month old. I had no idea where this little kitty came from. I assumed it was just passing through, and the mama was somewhere around the corner.

As my wife came into the kitchen, I said, “Look at that little kitty on the porch. Isn’t it cute?”

Even before she looked,

she said very sternly, “Don’t you dare feed that kitten.”

After getting up in the morning, I would go to the glass door, look out, and sitting in front of the door looking at me was the kitty. It would look at me, then turn and look at the food dish, which was empty at the time, and then look back at me and meow.

One afternoon I went out to sit on the porch with the kitty to have a conversation.

The kitty lay down, facing me, and I began our little conversation.

“What do you think all of this nonsense and chaos and looting that’s going on in the world today?

The little kitty yawned a big yawn and stretched like it was getting ready to go to sleep. It acted as if it had no idea what I was talking about. It was very calm, cool, and collected and seemed to be enjoying resting on the back porch.

“What do you think about all this mask-wearing people are doing today? Do you understand what that’s all about?”

Nonchalantly, the kitty laid his head down on its paws and closed its eyes as though it was no concern.

I had more questions I asked the little kitty and got the same answers.

Then, the little kitty stood up, looked at me, looked over at the food dish, looked back at me, and softly meowed.

Although the kitty was not too interested in my questions, it was interested in her question, “When are you going to put food in my dish?”

After all, no matter how bad the world was out there, this little kitty could not fix the problems. The only problem this kitty could fix was conning me into giving her food every morning and evening.

Sitting there, watching the kitty, I thought of a verse of Scripture. “Put them in fear, O Lord: that the nations may know themselves to be but men.” (Psalm 9:20)

That kitty knows that it is a “kitty.” Today’s problem is that people do not realize they are “but men” and do not have the solution for the world’s problems.

The QAnon Rot in the GOP

QAnon is getting its first congresswoman.

Marjorie Taylor Greene won a runoff in a Republican primary, all but assuring her victory in November in a heavily GOP district.

She is thus set to become the highest officeholder in the land who takes seriously the lunatic theories of QAnon, the anonymous internet poster who says, among other ludicrous and poisonous things, that there's a global network of pedophiles about to be exposed and undone by President Donald Trump.

Greene's ascension is the latest indication of the creeping influence of Q, who has fashioned a kind of free-floating John Birch Society for the digital age. The author's adherents or fellow travelers are adept at spreading memes on social media, hold signs or wear paraphernalia touting Q at Trump rallies, and now are notching some victories in GOP primaries.

Jo Rae Perkins, a no-hoper who won the Republican Senate primary in Oregon, has associated herself with Q and expressed disappointment when her sellout campaign team tried to hide her enthusiasm for the conspiracy theory. Lauren Boebert, the upset winner of a primary for a Republican House seat in Colorado, said of Q in a radio interview, “If this is real, then it could be really great for our country.”

The rise of Q shouldn't be exaggerated. Surely, most Republicans aren't even aware of this dreck, and the Q caucus in the next Congress might number one or two. Almost every political movement has a fringe that marinates in paranoia and is prepared to believe – or invent – the worst about the other side.

Yet, the spread of QAnon shows that the Trump-era GOP has weakened antibodies against kookery. Trump himself sets the tone. He's an indiscriminate tweeter of disreputable Twitter accounts, and he's floated all sorts of ridiculous conspiracy theories over the years – just ask Ted Cruz's father, or Joe Scarborough. Trump fulsomely praised Greene upon her primary victory as a Republican rising star.

In 2017, Greene posted a long, hilariously earnest and completely bonkers explication of Q posts to YouTube. She had read them closely and spent time trying to figure out their import. The time and energy you'd hope an eventual congressional candidate would devote to understanding the federal budget or, say, how to reform military procurement, she'd poured into Q, and was clearly invigorated and alarmed by it.

Q has a special draw for a segment of Trump supporters. The author's lurid inventions involve people who are already villains of the populist right, the likes of George Soros and John Podesta. Q promotes a radical distrust of traditional sources of information and makes Trump's stumbles into master chess moves, both of which are pleasing to Trump superfans.

All of this is an explanation, not an excuse. Q is deeply corrosive of the qualities necessary to live in and govern a republic. It invites its adherents to suspend reason – how else to credit all the prophecies that haven't come to pass? – and believe that a swath of the American establishment isn't just wrongheaded or incompetent, but engaged in monstrous secret crimes.

Marjorie Taylor Greene has already been criticized by Republican congressional leaders for her incendiary rantings about Muslims. She deserves, too, to be shunned her for attraction to Q, even if the president of the United States is unbothered by it.

Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

The undersigned or its predecessor caused said Notice of Default and Election to Sell to be recorded in the county where the real property is located. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. Do Crises Help or Hurt Tax Hikes?

By Dan Walters
CAL Matters

Does the trauma enveloping California this year – pandemic, recession, heat waves, blackouts and disastrous wildfires – make voters more or less likely to vote for tax increases?

Sponsors of a $12 billion a year hike in taxes on warehouses, office buildings, factories and other commercial property hope it's more.

Proposition 15 would raise that money for schools and local governments by changing Proposition 13, the iconic 1978 ballot measure that imposed tight restrictions on property taxes. If it's passed, taxable values of commercial property would be increased to current market levels.

Public employee unions and other advocates of government spending have long yearned to crack Proposition 13 via what's called a "split roll" and after many starts and stops, finally decided that 2020's presidential election, with a high voter turnout, would be the best time to give it a try.

Even before California and its economy were hammered by COVID-19 and recession, polling indicated that the measure had no better than a 50-50 chance of passage. The iffy climate for new taxes was also signaled in last March's primary election, just before the pandemic hit home, when more than half of hundreds of local tax and bond measures were shot down.

Nevertheless, split-roll advocates forged ahead with what became Proposition 15, setting up what promises to be a titanic political war with commercial property owners and other business groups. Pandemic and recession are likely talking points for both sides.

Some local authorities have pulled back long-planned tax increase proposals, believing that chances of passage even in a high-turnout presidential election have faded.

One of those instances occurred in July, as a deadline for placing measures on the ballot approached. The Sacramento Transportation Authority, which had decided to ask local voters for a half-cent sales tax increase, abruptly reversed course when polling indicated it would likely fail.

"We understand the public sentiment at this time given the pandemic and social unrest, people are focused on other things," transportation authority board chairman Darren Suen, a member of the Elk Grove City Council, said.

However, it appears that most local government proposals to raise taxes, including bonds that would be repaid from increased property levies, will remain on the ballot.

The California Taxpayers Association counts 237 local tax and bond measures to be decided in November, including 176 direct tax increases totaling roughly $1.5 billion. Voters also will face $13.1 billion in local school construction bonds and $1.9 billion in other local bonds, Cal-Tax says.

Most are traditional increases in sales taxes or parcel taxes on property, but they also include local levies on legal marijuana sales, property transfer documents, utility services and hotel rates.

A semi-new taxation wrinkle is being tried in several San Francisco Bay Area communities – direct taxes on business. San Francisco itself has two business tax measures on the ballot, including a gross receipts tax based on the difference in pay between corporate executives and their employees. Richmond proposes a new tax on telecommunication services and video streaming.

There's also a new wrinkle in the long-running conflict over spending taxpayer money to persuade voters to endorse new taxes and bonds. Such advocacy is illegal, although almost never prosecuted. But California's Fair Political Practices Commission recently fined Los Angeles County's government for waging a million-dollar campaign for a 2017 tax measure under the guise of "information."

Watchdog organizations will be monitoring local governments this year to see if the FPPC fine has an effect on how local governments spend public funds to present their tax increase pitches to voters.

CRISIS FATIGUE

Is there such a condition as crisis fatigue? Wouldn't surprise me, especially after I spoke with Dr. Carole Lieberman on my POPPOFF Radio Show. With the covid19 pandemic, hurricanes, and then pile on protests and riots, looting, and tearing down statues, we don't know what comes next. With the virus numbers climbing, Dr. Lieberman told me if you have three of the following ten symptoms, you have crisis fatigue.

1. Feeling overwhelmed and exhausted all the time...even when you wake up.
2. Emotional numbness interrupted by random spurts of raw feelings from sadness to anger.
3. Eating too much or too little.
4. Berating yourself with feelings of failure and guilt.
5. Helplessness and a sense that nothing is worth the energy it would take to do it.
6. Dreams and nightmares that are vivid and disturbing...such as having to fight off wild animals.
7. Self-destructive behavior...from over-indulging in food, alcohol or drugs to sabotaging your work or relationships.
8. Pessimism...feeling that there is going to be no end to the chaos and stress of the world around you.
9. Fear that you won't be able to survive in the chaos...and that you'll die from the covid19, or some other medical problem because you're too scared to go to a doctor's office during the pandemic, or getting injured by rioters.
10. Suicidal thoughts...because taking control of your own death seems preferable to waiting for the other shoe to drop.

But there are ways to deal with these symptoms. Dr. Liberman has ten.

1. First of all, acknowledge that these are unusually stressful times and be compassionate towards yourself.
2. Take a breath, pause and tell yourself that you may not be able to go at your usual fast pace 24/7...and that's okay for now.
3. Realize that your #1 priority should be to keep yourself (and your loved ones) physically and mentally healthy. Everything else is secondary, if you want to come out of this chaos alive and well.
4. Stop obsessing over checking on the latest news and filling your days with it. It only makes things worse.
5. Try to always practice the basics: eating healthy food, taking vitamins, getting enough sleep and exercise.
6. Add stress-relieving activities to each day...listen to music to dancing in your living room or taking a walk in nature.
7. Add at least one hour of laughter to your day...from watching cartoons or comedies to reading jokes or playing silly games. Laughter is the best medicine.
8. Reach out for social support from your friends and family and provide support to them.
9. Volunteer somewhere at least once a week: a food pantry, a homeless raising funds for your favorite charity.
10. Get psychological help from therapists and hotlines...especially if the symptoms are getting worse or if you're feeling suicidal.

Dr. Lieberman is a Board Certified Beverly Hills Psychiatrist. She also hosts two radio shows/podcasts and has authored several books. When she isn't seeing patients or testifying as a forensic psychiatrist/expert witness, she appears on TV from Fox News to CNN and POPPOFF of course! ★

Life Changes Quickly

with web applications, the Microsoft Suite, Skype and more.

“It was a godsend having Randy here,” Lam said. “Centene is so big and constantly changing and moving. I now have to do everything I used to do with just a keyboard and screen reader.”

And it’s working – last year she trained her first class completely on her own with no vision. It was successful and feedback was great. Ironically, the biggest area of improvement noted was that she needed to include more visual aids – they needed to be able to see, even though she cannot. Now she has proven that she can train the sighted or the visually impaired whether or not she has sight, thanks to Randy Owen’s help.

“Randy was my mentor and my pep rally coach,” Lam said. “He has a great personality, is highly knowledgeable and really cares about his students. I hated to think about him leaving at the end of the year, but I knew I could do it.”

Until the shutdown, Lam would go into work early and leave late to make up for having to work more slowly than she used to. But she said it was worth it, and she hopes to be able to open doors for people who are disabled and help train them.

“I’m so grateful to Society for the Blind and Centene for helping me continue to do this job that I love,” Lam said. “This whole experience has helped me become a better human. I used to be constantly on the go and didn’t take time to appreciate the people I was walking by. Now I know how to stop and smell the roses.”

Lam just celebrated her 16th anniversary with Centene and has successfully adapted to working from home during the stay-at-home order.

“I want to be a living example that people can do or become anything they want,” Lam said. “Doubt should never belong in anyone’s thought process or attempts to obtain their goals. Society’s way of believing, showing and demonstrating independence is truly powerful.”
