RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - On Friday, December 20, community volunteers and members of the military community at Move America Forward put on a concerted effort to ship some 2500 Christmas boxes to members of the armed forces stationed abroad. "Those gifts are donations made through the nation's largest grassroots, pro-troop organization grateful for its service men and women," said Shawn Callahan executive director for the organization.

"In addition to being a beautiful holiday gesture," says Move America Forward outreach director

Scott Raab, "this national organization is dedicated to providing year-round provisions for those deploying from the Sacramento area."

Dressed up as one of Santa's elves for the occasion, volunteer Darlene Markus said, "I began volunteering for MAF on a regular basis after my husband, a Vietnam veteran, passed away, and I wanted to be involved supporting others going through that experience."

After receiving a Move America Forward care package via U.S. Postal Service, U.S. troops stationed in foreign and oftentimes hostile lands appreciate the bond of solidarity the 501(c)3 charity fosters.

Sac County Assists Placer County Veteran's Office

By Janna Haynes,
Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The Placer County Health and Human Services (HHS), Veterans Services Office (VSO) recently lost its Veterans Services Officer, a critical staff person, to another career opportunity. As a result of the loss, Placer County reached out to Sacramento County VSO to provide a Veterans Services Representative who could provide claims assistance and training for their dedicated staff. The Sacramento County Board of Supervisors has since approved the rendering of payment for services on behalf of Sacramento County.

Since August 2019, the Sacramento County Veterans Services Office has been providing weekly supportive services related to claims processing and training staff. Veteran Claims Representative Restivo has been providing this weekly training and assistance to the Placer County VSO and just since August has helped them serve more than 250 veterans that were in need of appointments to file disability, pension and survivor benefit claims.

In addition to traveling to the Placer County office, Sacramento County has welcomed many Placer County veterans into our local office for assistance with their claims. Sacramento County VSO is also supporting Placer in two monthly service "blitzes" that serve a large population of veterans in just one day. At one event in December, three Sacramento County officers were able to provide assistance to more than 45 clients in just six hours. They will further assist with claims at a second event scheduled for later in December.

In addition to filing claims for veterans, Michael Restivo has also been assisting the Placer County Veteran Services Office with closing out their backlog of more than 1,900 pending claims by printing the Veteran Administration award letters and entering the information in the CALVET system.

"Assisting the Placer County Veteran Services Office in taking care of veterans is a benefit for us all, especially the veterans we serve," said Veteran Services Officer Rochelle Arnold. "Our mission is to serve all veterans and their families with respect, dignity and compassion by providing prompt and courteous assistance in preparing, submitting and presenting all claims for benefits to which they may be entitled and serve as their principal advocate on veterans' issues; no matter where they reside." ★

Rancho Cordova Holiday "STARS" Shine Brightly

By Ashley Downton,
City of Rancho Cordova

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Holiday STAR (Student Talent Achievement Reward) program returned to Rancho Cordova for the third year in a row on Thursday, December 19!

The City of Rancho Cordova, RCPD and Rancho Cordova schools recognized 45 preschool and elementary school students in the city who, despite challenging financial circumstances, have worked hard to become high achievers both academically and behaviorally.

The program kicked off with breakfast for the Holiday "STARS," their parents and school principals. Then, each student was recognized on stage and presented with a new backpack, clothes and shoes. Finally, each Holiday "STAR" was paired with an RCPD officer or city staff member and enjoyed a $100 holiday shopping spree at Rancho Cordova Walmart!

"The City of Rancho

Cordova and RCPD are proud of our students and the hard work and effort they put into school," said Sergeant Rich Merideth. "This program is a great way for us to come together during the holiday season to show our students how much we care about their success and future in Rancho Cordova."

Salmon Run Out In Wild Season

Steelhead Spawners Swim In

A courting pair of bald eagles find easy pickings as spawning Chinook salmon struggle upriver near Gold River.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The recently-finished 2019 spawning season brought glad tidings for scientists monitoring annual chinook salmon runs on the American River. Returning adults this season greatly outnumbered 2018 spawners.

"2018, was an adequate but not fantastic season," reports Nimbus hatchery staffer Laura Drath. "This year was very good: we saw more fish this fall than we have in years." In 2018, Drath noted that 5700 adults climbed the hatchery ladder. In the season just past, 8,000 fish made the same climb. Nimbus processing figures do not include thousands of fish that spawn outside the hatchery. These mate in river gravel beds where the females build nests and deposit fertilized eggs. Fish that reach the hatchery are relieved of eggs and milt and artificially spawned.

This harvesting ended before Christmas and the steelhead trout run - which continues until February - is now in full throttle. Meantime, some late-coming chinooks of the 2019 season are still reaching breeding grounds. At three or four years old, they are completing lives - and epic migrations - that include thousands of river and ocean miles. Hell-bent on reproduction, mature salmon leave Pacific waters in autumn; their mass upstream swim is an instinctive return to hatching places. The annual "run" can be observed from Arcade, Carmichael, Rancho Cordova, Fair Oaks and Gold River outlooks. Thanks to December rain, river water levels were helpfully high for the 2019 spawners. But 30-pound chinook still crawled over riffles and gravel bars with much of their bodies exposed. Battered and close to death, the adults used fins, tails and entire bodies in the struggle against the icy current. Salmon die soon after mating; their carcasses drift downstream to provide winter food for fish, birds, mammals and microorganisms.

From the Nimbus Hatchery harvest, edible salmon parts are salvaged and shipped to Seattle for processing. The meat is then distributed to food closets. Artificially fertilized eggs hatch in about 40 days and are nourished in man-made ponds. In spring, they are about three inches long and begin their river-to-sea migration as smolts.

Operated by the California Department of Fish and Wildlife, The Nimbus Hatchery is now processing the 2019/20 steelhead run. This operation continues until late February. Rainbow hued, spotted and sportive, these anadromous fish may spawn several times in their lifecycle. Though they face similar challenges as the Chinooks in their upstream migration, the urge to breed is stronger than most obstacles that nature or man put in their way.

New Habitat Restoration Project Nurtures Record Number of Salmon Nests

Submitted by Bruce Hartzell, Sacramento Suburban Water District

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Kat Perkins, a scientist with the Sacramento Water Forum, poured over an aerial image of the lower American River near Sailor Bar in Fair Oaks, looking for redds - underwater depressions or "nests" created by female salmon to lay their eggs. Part of an annual ritual to systematically count redds first by inspecting aerial imagery and then in person, last year she found zero. This year was a different story - the area teamed with redds - more than 345 this time around.

The difference? A new habitat restoration effort completed in fall to protect salmon and steelhead in the lower American River, spearheaded by the Water Forum in partnership with the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation and other federal, state and local agencies. Over three weeks in September, the project placed more than 14,000 cubic yards of cleaned and sorted gravel into the river and carved out a new side channel to help fish spawn and rear their young.

"The results are gratifying," said Tom Gohring, Executive Director of the Water Forum, a nearly 20-year-old organization that represents a diverse group of local water providers, environmental organizations and governments focused on safeguarding the lower American River for both drinking water and wildlife.

"Salmon were here long before we were. Nurturing their survival is not only important to sustaining a species but to also sustaining our region's identity and quality of life."

The lower American River is home to 43 fish species, including struggling fall-run Chinook salmon and federally threatened Central Valley steelhead, and is a major water supply source for nearly 2 million people. The river and parkway, which runs 23 miles along the river's shores, hosts up to 8 million visitors and brings $364 million into the economy each year.

The restoration project at Sailor Bar is part of the Water Forum's ongoing science program that uses cutting-edge techniques to further understand how to improve the river's environment for fish survival. Over the past several decades Water Forum studies have produced detailed information about the conditions salmon and steelhead find ideal for spawning and rearing their young, including:

Detailed underwater maps of the lower American River to identify the best locations for enhancing habitat that also won't impact flood safety;

The ideal size of gravel and river flow for spawning;

How long it takes for salmon to use a restoration site after construction, and how long they continue to use the site.

How cover (woody material, branches or tree roots) in a side channel improves survival for juvenile fish.

This year's effort at Sailor Bar was the region's ninth project restoring fish spawning gravel beds and improving juvenile fish rearing habitat on the lower American River. Since 2008, the Water Forum and its partners have invested more than $7 million to create over 30 acres of spawning beds and 1.2 miles of side channels.

"These projects truly represent what can be accomplished when local, state and federal agencies work together toward a common purpose," Gohring said, noting that the team responsible for this project includes scientists from Reclamation, the Water Forum, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, National Marine Fisheries Service and California Department of Fish and Wildlife.

Additional project partners included the Sacramento Area Flood Control Agency (SAFCA) and Sacramento County Parks, as well as the City of Sacramento Department of Utilities, which provided their crews and heavy equipment to the project.

To learn more about the Sacramento region's habitat restoration work on the lower American River, visit <https://www.waterforum.org/the-river/habitat-management/>.

Established in 2000, the Sacramento Water Forum is a diverse group of business and agricultural leaders, citizen groups, environmentalists, water managers and local governments working together to balance two co-equal objectives: to provide a reliable and safe water supply for the Sacramento region's long-term growth and economic health; and to preserve the fishery, wildlife, recreational, and aesthetic values of the lower American River. Unit regularly recognizes students at elementary schools in Rancho Cordova for living the values set by their schools. This holiday season, the City and RCPD aimed to make high achieving students' wishes come true.

"We're so thankful to have this event to recognize the hard work of our students who have overcome some pretty significant challenges," said Principal Laura Butler of Abraham Lincoln Elementary School.

"This event brings so much joy to local families during the holiday season."

The City and RCPD worked with local community partners to surprise and reward these Holiday "STARS," including Rancho Cordova Walmart, Famous Footwear, Bearpaw, McDonald's, Serve Sacramento, Center of Praise, Golden State Water and Republic Services.

Rep. Bera Votes to Pass USMCA

Ami Bera

By Travis Home

WASHINGTON, DC (MPG) - The House of Representatives overwhelmingly passed in a bipartisan manner the United States-Mexico-Canada Agreement (USMCA). The vote follows months of negotiations by House Democrats to secure improvements to the original USMCA negotiated by the Trump Administration.

"I'm pleased to see that House Democrats were able to secure important changes to the original USMCA draft," said Rep. Bera. "The version of USMCA that passed includes strong protections for American workers, important enforcement mechanisms to ensure all countries are compliant, and key environmental protections.

The revised version of USMCA is a win for the U.S. economy and American families, and will bring vital jobs to California."

And Another Thing

All Vietnam Veterans Deserve; A Welcome Home

On December 19, I went to Mather Veterans Village and had the honor of presenting eight more veterans who served during the Vietnam War era with the "Vietnam Veteran Lapel Pin." I realize that I have spoken about the pin before and have been given the opportunity to present that lapel pin to a few hundred veterans who served. Those eight veterans who are now living at Mather Veterans Village are supported by other veterans who live there, and that warmed my heart. Some of the others had a hard time after they came back from the Gulf War, or Iraq, or Afghanistan, but they didn't have to wait for so many years to be welcomed home. That is what all Vietnam veterans deserve; a welcome home. There are still many, many veterans who haven't received that welcome home. I will continue doing that for as long as I can.

Many of us know how the weather feels when we walk out of our homes, and how nice it feels when we can get back inside out of the rain, and wind, and cold. Some of the veterans who supported those Vietnam veterans weren't spit on or called baby killers when they came home, but what they thought would happen when they came home didn't occur. And eventually, they found themselves out on the street. Some of them now have a home that they can go back to. We haven't been able to help all the homeless veterans, but there are many who have been given the assistance they deserve. There are many who still need that help, but the year 2020 will be another year of veterans receiving help from the people of Rancho Cordova.

Speaking of the new year, how will you begin your new year? Benjamin Franklin said, "Be at war with your vices, at peace with your neighbors, and let every new year find you a better man/woman." I must admit Benjamin didn't finish with "man/woman," but today, every man and woman would like to be a better person. Maybe I will use that general idea about being a better person as I enter 2020, instead of making a resolution that is very specific about one particular item. Making a resolution about being better, period, may really be hard enough. But I'll give it a try.

There are so many things that we have forgotten to say, or people we wish we had talked to one more time. The year 2020 is a new beginning for the City of Rancho Cordova and its wonderful people. People will try for something new, or a child will suddenly reach the goal he or she has been working on and hoping for all the year before. The adult will finally achieve something he or she has been working on for so long. Peggy Toney Horton is a writer who said, "Each New Year, we have before us a brand new book containing 365 blank pages. Let us fill them with all the forgotten things from last year—the words we forgot to say, the love we forgot to show, and the charity we forgot to offer." Think about the year 2020! You will have 366 blank pages to fill. I wonder if that extra day will be the one which you have been looking for. I hope so.

From Councilman Bob McGarvey. God bless, and we'll see you next time. ★

Honoring the Son of One of Our Nation's Founders

Daughters of the American Revolution Press Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Sacramento Chapter, National Society Daughters of the American Revolution laid a wreath on the Sacramento Historic City Cemetery grave of William S. Hamilton, son of Founding Father Alexander Hamilton, on December 9, 2019. William S. Hamilton came to California for the Gold Rush and died in 1850 of cholera.

"It isn't commonly known that the son of one of our Founding Fathers is buried in Sacramento," stated Emily Browne, Chapter Regent, of Carmichael. "The musical, Hamilton, introduced a new generation to Alexander Hamilton. We hope that introduction creates interest in learning more about the men and women who sacrificed everything for the promise offered by the United States of America," she continued. Janet Fulton, Sacramento Chapter Historic Preservation Committee Chair, of Davis, added, "The Sacramento Chapter has maintained William S. Hamilton's grave for almost 100 years. It is located in a beautiful cemetery, surrounded by the graves of California and Sacramento pioneers. A visit to honor William S. Hamilton can be a fascinating adventure."

The grave of William S. Hamilton is found in Hamilton Square within the Sacramento Historic City Cemetery, 1000 Broadway, Sacramento.

The National Society Daughters of the American Revolution was founded in 1890 to promote historic preservation, education and patriotism. Its members are descended from the patriots who won American independence during the Revolutionary War. Dave Ramsey Says

Starting Off on the Right Path Together

Dear Dave,
 I'm getting married next summer. My fiancé and I are in agreement about how to handle money, and we both follow your plan. Do you recommend pre-marital counseling? If so, what do you feel are some of the important areas of agreement for couples before they get married?
 — Allison
 Dear Allison,
 Congratulations! I'm glad you're both on the same page with your finances, too.
 I've worked with thousands of couples and numerous marriage counselors over the years. In that time, I've learned fights over money — and the resulting problems from those disagreements — are probably the biggest cause of divorce in America. In my opinion, in-depth pre-marital counseling is an absolute must. The idea of entering into something that's supposed to be a life-long commitment, without thoroughly addressing all the issues — and potential issues — is a really bad idea.

 With that said, it's been my experience that couples have a high probability of a successful marriage if they agree on four things, in detail, before the big day — kids, money, religion, and in-laws. With kids, the big question is do you want them? If so, how many and when? Are you going to let them run wild, or are you going to provide structure and make them behave?
 When it comes to money, something it sounds like you two are already in agreement on, get all your cards out on the table, and construct an intelligent game plan for your finances that you both agree on. Staying away from debt, living on a written, monthly budget, and saving for the future are important parts of this.

 Also, be in agreement on religion. Statistically speaking, two people from the same faith have a better chance of making a marriage work. And finally, when it comes to your future in-laws, you need to learn who they are and what you're getting into. What are they really like? What are the boundaries when it comes to their influence on your lives?
 All these topics should be discussed at length, dealt with, and agreed upon before the rings are exchanged. God bless you two, Allison!

Division of Boating and Waterways Offers Grants to Help Keep California's Waterways Clean

California State Parks Press Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Division of Boating and Waterways (DBW) is now accepting grant applications from public government agencies for the purchase and deployment of floating restrooms on California waterways. Interested applicants should review the grant guidelines and submit a grant application to DBW's office by Tuesday, Jan. 21, 2020 at 5 p.m. PST.

DBW's Floating Restroom Grant Program helps reduce pollution from recreational boater sewage by providing floating public restrooms in areas with limited land-side access. Over the years, DBW floating restrooms have become known as S.S. Relief stations. California State Parks' engineering group re-designed the restrooms this year to achieve ADA compliance. The floating restrooms are solar-powered and the holding tanks capture about 500 gallons of sewage. That's more than one million gallons of sewage kept out of our waterways each year.

A total of $840,000 in federal and state funding is available this year for the purchase and deployment of approximately six DBW-designed and developed ADA compliant floating restrooms. More than 260 floating restrooms have been placed on California lakes and reservoirs through this grant program since 1972. About 160 restrooms are currently deployed.

To be eligible for funding, grant applicants must operate a California lake or reservoir that is open to the public. General information on the grant requirements and the online application can be found on DBW's Floating Restroom Grant webpage.

The competitive grant applications will be scored and ranked according to need, as well as the ability to operate and maintain the floating restrooms for at least 10 years. DBW expects to announce grant recipients in spring 2020.

The Floating Restroom Grant Program is available through the Clean Vessel Act, which is funded by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife, Wildlife and Sport Fish Restoration Program and the Harbors and Watercraft Revolving Fund. Grants are also available to offset the ongoing operation and maintenance costs of these units through a Sewage Management Equipment Operations and Maintenance grant. ★

Ask Toni

Why Is My Medicare Part B Costing $704?

EXTRA or a penalty!! You have been charged for 5 months of Medicare Part B premiums because you are not receiving a Social Security check to have your Medicare premiums taken out of.

Feel better now! Most that are paying their Medicare premiums monthly have the premium taken from their Social Security check. Social Security will automatically take the Medicare premiums monthly from a person's Social Security check. Social Security will send a letter informing the Medicare beneficiary that Social Security is deducting the monthly Medicare Part B premiums from ones Social Security check. David this is not your situation.

The average Part B premium for those who income is $87,000 or less as an individual or $174,000 or less as a couple is $135.50 for 2019 and $144.60 for 2020. David, if you divide your premiums of $ by 5 months is around $141 per month. Which is $135.50 per month for November and December and $144.60 for January thru March.

Medicare has a program that can allow one to pay premiums on a monthly basis by either paying via check, bank draft, debit card or credit cards. The program is called

"Medicare Easy Pay" One can GOOGLE "Medicare Easy Pay" online or search on the www.medicare.gov website for Medicare Easy Pay to set up Medicare Easy Pay or form to download to pay monthly.

If one does not stay current paying their Medicare premiums, whether it is Part A, B, C and/or D, then they can lose their benefits and may be charged a penalty when they re-enroll. (When one does not have 40 working quarters to qualify for Medicare, then they may have to pay a premium for Part A.)

It may take about 6-8 weeks to have the "Medicare Easy Pay" form processed and you should make sure that you keep up with your monthly premiums being paid, so that your Medicare Parts A, B, C and/or D are kept on a current basis.

David, I am proud to announce that the Toni Says Medicare team now has a Toni Says Medicare hotline at 832/519-8664 to help America answer questions concerning the maze of Medicare.

Toni King, author of the Medicare Survival Guide® is giving a $5 discount on the Medicare Survival Guide® Advanced book to the Toni Says Medicare column readers at www.tonisays.com. ★

Toni:
My Medicare began on November 1 st and on December 16 th I received my first bill which is $704.80 for my Medicare Part B. This bill is due December 25th and it is only giving me 10 days to pay which making this not a very Merry Christmas or Happy New Year.
I do not see this Medicare cost anywhere on the Medicare site or in any information I received when I came into the Toni Says office for my Medicare consultation.
Am I being charged the Medicare Part B penalty? I signed up before I turned 65. What is wrong? I thought the monthly Part B amount would be around $135. Any suggestions because this has placed an unexpected financial hardship on me. Thanks, David from Conroe

Reflections from our First Year on the School Board

Aerojet Rocketdyne's CEO and President Named One of 2019's Most Influential Corporate Directors

Joshua Hoover

David Reid

By Joshua Hoover and David Reid

One year ago this month we participated in our first board of education meeting with the Folsom Cordova Unified School District (FCUSD) after being selected by the voters to represent them in November 2018. While we ran separate campaigns, we shared a similar message: we wanted to be board members that prioritize students, advocate for parents, and utilize our education policy backgrounds to ask tough questions while seeking thoughtful solutions. Now, a year later, we have learned a number of lessons in pursuit of these goals and made some great progress on many of our priorities, including the following policy changes that we pushed in 2019.

Mental Health and Counselor Ratios

There is no doubt that now, more than ever before, it is critical for our district to protect the mental health and social emotional welfare of our students. Due to a number of factors, including the growth and saturation of social media, cyber bullying is on the rise and the rates of youth suicide are the highest they have been since 1995. With this in mind, our Board unanimously voted to reduce the ratio of school counselors at our high schools from 600-1 to 500-1. This will result in more counselors at Folsom High School and throughout the district as our high schools continue to grow. In addition, we also directed staff to study the use of cell phones in the classroom and develop a plan to address this issue in the new year.

Transparency and Accountability

One of FCUSD's top priorities is to engage families in the decision-making process and uphold the highest levels of transparency and accountability. In this vein, the Board directed the Superintendent to implement live video streaming of our board meetings. This will allow parents, teachers, and community members to track what is going on at our meetings even if they are unable to attend.

Access to School Facilities

Another win for families was a new policy the Board adopted to ensure outdoor school facilities remain accessible after the bell rings at the end of the day. As taxpayer-funded facilities, we believe it is important that the public can enjoy the amenities that they helped pay for. The Board adopted a policy this year that will ensure these facilities remain unlocked outside of school hours so the community can take advantage of the play structures, basketball courts, ball walls, and athletic fields.

Fiscal Responsibility

There were also a number of fiscal decisions that we made to ensure the responsible use of public dollars. We provided the necessary votes to authorize the first ever competitive bond sale in FCUSD history, a process that requires banks to compete to give our district and our community's taxpayers the best possible deal. We also voted with our colleagues to create an irrevocable trust that will protect teacher retiree health care savings and keep them from being diverted to general fund purposes.

In addition to these pursuits we hosted two community coffees, one in Folsom and one in Rancho Cordova, where we had the opportunity to meet with parents and teachers to discuss issues facing our schools. We look forward to hosting more events like this in the coming months.

While we are very thankful for our successes, it did not come without its challenges. Some decisions we faced were very difficult, including budget cuts to ensure the fiscal integrity of the district and adjustments to elementary school boundaries to alleviate overcrowding. But through it all we strove to make the best possible decisions for students and families across our community. We are honored to be your representatives on the school board and welcome any feedback you have as we move into the new year.

Cordova Preps Holiday Roundup

Story by James Damell

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Although the temperatures outside are getting colder, things are just warming up across the board for Cordova Lancers winter athletics.

During Christmas week, the Lancers boys basketball team hosted the Cordova Christmas Classic holiday tournament from December 26-30. After beating Casa Roble 78-38 in their opening round matchup, the Lancers dropped their second round game 66-60 to McClatchy and were eliminated from the tournament.

Official tournament final results were unavailable upon time of printing.

Lancers boys' hoops will wrap up their preseason on Tuesday, January 7 at Rocklin before opening Greater Sacramento League play when they host visiting Johnson at 8:00 p.m. on Friday, January 10.

Girls Basketball

Following a loss at Grant on Monday, December 23, the Lady Lancers basketball team dropped to a 6-5 preseason record. With three straight home games this week against Argonaut (December 30), Capital Christian (January 2) and Laguna Creek (January 3), the team will have the opportunity to get on a roll prior to beginning league play at Johnson on Friday, January 10.

Boys Soccer

The Lancer boys' soccer team has had an underwhelming start to their first season under new head coach Kyle Novak, compiling a 2-5-1 preseason record. The team did enter the holiday break and new year with an 8-0 victory at home against visiting Sac High on December 18, however.

The team will return to the field on Tuesday, January 7 when they travel to Antelope to face off against Center High. Three days later, the Lancers will travel to Johnson in their league opener on Friday, January 10.
