Los Rios and Partners Address College Affordability

Los Rios Community College District Press Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Los Rios Community College District announced the largest set of investments to address college affordability in Los Rios history. In total, Sutter Health, SAFE Credit Union, Wells Fargo and VSP Global will contribute $752,500 resulting in 1,234 Promise Scholarships that will remove financial obstacles to education for low-income students, like textbooks and living expenses, which are not typically covered by existing aid programs.

The new funds build on the state's newly announced two-year California College Promise Program, which guarantees free tuition for all first-time, full-time California community college students. These investments and state funds, along with partnerships with the City of Rancho Cordova and the City of West Sacramento and their respective Promise programs for the residents of those cities, will help Los Rios students reduce the financial barriers to academic success.

"Los Rios is committed to solving the financial challenges that our students face," said Brian King, Chancellor of the Los Rios Community College District. "We are proud to partner with the committed leadership at Sutter Health, SAFE Credit Union, Wells Fargo and VSP Global to address college affordability by building on the state's investment in our students and providing the support our students need to achieve their academic goals."

The combined total marks the largest contribution to address college affordability in Los Rios' 50-plus year history.

Sutter Health is providing the largest investment toward the Promise effort, committing $512,500 over five years. In a single year, this funding will support 180 students with $500 Promise Scholarships—helping reduce financial barriers and to support students' post-secondary and workforce success. Additionally, a portion of the investment will be added to the Los Rios Promise Endowment, ensuring that students

Olli to Introduce Autonomous Travel to Rancho Cordova

by Margaret Snider

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In a trial run that will begin August 7 and continue through October, the autonomous shuttle "Olli" will be present in the parking lot that encompasses the White Rock Corporate Center, across Prospect Drive from City Hall. It will be available for visitors, residents, and businesses to take a ride and experience the cutting edge technology. "We're at the forefront here in this entire region, if not the state and the country," said Rancho Cordova Public Works Director Albert A. Stricker as he addressed the Rancho Cordova Luncheon on July 19. "We're at a very exciting time in transportation."

The shuttle will provide helpful data for the City's Intelligent Transportation System project as well. A technician will be on board to monitor it during operation. "It's going to be really fun 10 years and 15 years from now to look back at this experience and see how transportation has taken a quantum leap," Stricker said.

Olli is just one part of the Intelligent Transportation System project. In another phase recently completed, the city connected traffic signals with 20 miles of fiber-optic lines. This will allow synchronization and coordination of the signals in the future, and will allow better response time to accidents and traffic issues. "We upgraded traffic controllers so that they're more efficient and are ready for an autonomous vehicle future," Stricker said. As well, new intersection cameras have been added which will allow monitoring in real time to identify problems and look for greater efficiencies. These cameras are separate from the red

God’s Hand was in the Details

by Shaunna Boyd

FAIR OAKS, CA (MPG) - In April, out of the blue, Nick Javier began experiencing pain in his right leg. It was so severe he couldn’t walk, and a lump formed. After an x-ray, an ultrasound, and various blood tests came back inconclusive, Nick asked for an MRI. The images showed a mass, and a biopsy revealed it was sarcoma – a rare malignant tumor.

After finding out he had cancer, Nick and his wife Joan decided to go skydiving: “It was literally a template for everything we’ve gone through,” said Nick. “It was pretty scary jumping out of that plane, and then there was a moment of bliss when the parachute opened. It’s helped us think through and deal with everything.”

The following day they met with the surgeon, who recommended amputation to remove the stage 3 tumor that had invaded the lower portion of his leg. A second MRI, just a day before the surgery, showed that the tumor had doubled in size in just a month. “It’s a miracle that it stayed local in my leg,” said Nick. “God’s hand was in the details.”

Joan said, “I could feel everyone praying for Nick.” While Nick was in surgery, Joan was overcome by a beautiful image: “I envisioned balloons going up to heaven — each with a prayer inside for Nick. ... I felt such awe and wonder, and that everything was going to be alright.”

After the tumor was removed, doctors found that it was synovial sarcoma, which is very rare —affecting between one and three out of a million people each year— usually children and young adults. “I always said he was a big kid, and one in a million,” said Joan.

Although the tumor was successfully removed, Joan

Nick and Joan Javier’s faith has helped them through Nick’s cancer diagnosis and amputation, and they are optimistic about the future.

explained that this type of cancer sends out “sleeping cells” that could cause new tumors to grow, so Nick has to undergo extremely aggressive chemotherapy. Starting on July 15, he’ll spend five days in the hospital receiving chemo and then three weeks at home recovering, repeating the cycle four or five times.

Joan said that this type of cancer responds well to the proposed treatment, so Nick has an excellent prognosis: “The challenge is that they haven’t had a 65-year-old with this cancer, so they don’t know how he’ll respond, but I said, ‘They don’t know Nick. ... He’s ready.’”

“I’m bolstered by God’s confidence. I do have the courage to come out the other side cancer-free,” said Nick. “They say God never gives you more than you can handle, so we’ve been leaning on that credo, and so far it’s been true. ... It’s really been a miracle.”

Joan had her own battle with cancer last year — a stage 2 melanoma. Doctors had to remove the lymph nodes from one side of her face and neck, and Joan was incredibly lucky that the cancer had not yet spread into her lymphatic system. “They called that a miracle too,” she said.

Nick said, “Our faith is strong. We’ve been married 26 years, and God has always been the center of our life. He never ceases to amaze us. ... Our faith has buoyed us and has continued to provide inspiration and encouragement.”

For 45 years, Nick has been working as an MC for weddings and corporate events, and while waiting for his diagnosis he even worked events on crutches. Now he’s had to reassign all his 2019 bookings to colleagues while he focuses on his recovery. Joan works as a lease negotiator, and is now only working part time while she helps care for Nick.

Nick also hosts DJ Trivia Nights three times a week, and shortly after the surgery he was already back at it. “They took my leg, but they didn’t take by mind or my intellect,” said Nick. “The fact that I can still do this under the circumstances makes me feel whole.”

Nick and Joan have lived in Fair Oaks for 18 years, and they have received so much support from the people of the community. Joan said, “It’s really been humbling.”

While walking their dog recently, a neighbor came out to push Nick’s chair. “Little things like that show what a great community this is,” said Nick.

A fundraiser through Go Fund ME has already raised over $15,000 of the $20,000 goal, which will create a financial safety net for the Javier family. Night's Dream delivered the laughs in three performances this past weekend. Young actors from the Rancho Cordova community presented Shakespeare's comedy classic to enthusiastic audiences. Nearly as soon as it had begun it came to an end, a magical end, but an end nonetheless for this year. The team of teachers, high school and college students, and theatre professionals worked hard from June 10 to July 21 to learn lines, build the set, assemble costumes and rehearse together. The first year of the summer program was largely a success with 20 young adults participating and a little over 300 fans enjoying the show.

The program is funded by the City of Rancho Cordova Community Enhancement Fund with in kind support from the Cordova Recreation & Park District and the Folsom Cordova Unified School District. Sponsorships from the Rancho Cordova City Councilmembers, Sacramento County Supervisor Don Nottoli, and Golden State Water also helped ensure the performances would be free to the community.

For some in the audience, it was their first time at the Cordova High Performing Arts Center, built in 2016 with school bond funding, approved by Rancho Cordova residents. This is the community's theatre and the community's program.

The City of Rancho Cordova has approved a second year of funding for the CAPA program. Watch for more information about next summer's show. Help CAPA grow the program for more young adults, bigger community audiences and even more fun ahead! ★

"The history of Rancho Cordova is closely linked with some of the most talented athletes in the country," said Conrade Mayer, chairman of the Hall of Fame selection committee. "We need to look at this sports legacy and allow it to inspire our entire community, especially our youth."

By Bob McGarvey

In last week’s column, I went back to July 20, 1969 and the Apollo 11 landing on the Moon. Looking back even further at the Apollo program in the early 1960s, I was in the United States Air Force at Mather Air Force Base. I remember driving along the taxiway on my way to work on the ground power equipment that wasn’t working properly on the alert pad where the B-52s were ready 24 hours a day, every day of the year. As I came close to the turn at the end of the runway, I had to stop for quite a few minutes. Ahead of me, a huge rocket was entering the back gate into the Air Force Base off Douglas Road. It was on even larger tracks on a trailer and traveling about one to two miles an hour. The rocket was actually the second stage rocket of the Apollo program. I watched as it came through the gate and moved onto the taxiway,

The Mayor's Corner

I Hope there will be New Astronauts Landing on the Moon and maybe Mars, too then onto the runway where a specialized plane was waiting for it. The plane was going to take the rocket to the Kennedy Space Center in Florida. The body of the plane was much larger than usual, and I wondered how it was going to take off. But some people say that the regular honey bee’s body is much larger for its wings, and it shouldn’t be able to fly. The bee hasn’t read that though, so it flies anyway. I guess the same goes with that “Pregnant Guppy” airplane. It flies anyway. I watched the Airmen swing the nose of the plane to the left, lift the rocket on hydraulic jacks, push the rocket into the plane, swing the nose of the plane back, close the plane, and take off. Some of the local TV stations talked about how Sacramento was part of the Apollo program. On Douglas Road is a large building that is part of Security Park today. But during the 1950s and some of the 1960s, the McDonald/Douglas company developed and tested the Apollo rockets there before they delivered them to Mather Air Force Base to be sent to Florida. Like the rocket that was sent on the “Pregnant Guppy.” It didn’t seem to have as much attention being paid as the Aerojet Rocket company. I know that the small fine detail rockets on the Apollo spacecrafts were the rockets that allowed them to maneuver in space. They also gave the astronauts the ability to place themselves on the Moon, and they also took them off the Moon and got them back to the Earth. At its peak, Aerojet employed 22,000 people in their plant near Rancho Cordova. It was exciting to see the spacecraft and astronauts move forward until they reached their goal (our goals, too) and landed on another planet. Just think of the billions of people who watch the Moon every night as it rises on the horizon of the earth. There have only been 12 people who have had the ability to see the Earth rise over the horizon of the Moon. I hope there will be new astronauts landing on the Moon and maybe Mars, too

From Mayor Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

Governor Newsom Releases DMV Strike Team Report

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Following through on his commitment to improve and revamp the way the California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) does business, Governor Gavin Newsom released the DMV Strike Team report. The report makes recommendations on ways the department can improve going forward with an emphasis on transparency, worker training and performance, speed of service and overall consumer satisfaction. “Today marks an important step forward for the DMV,” said Governor Newsom. “This is about deep systems change and creating a DMV culture that puts customer experience first.” In January, just days after taking office, Governor Newsom announced a DMV Reinvention Strike Team, to be led by Government Operations (GovOps) Secretary Marybel Batjer. The Strike Team was charged with comprehensively reviewing the department’s operations and to make recommendations to the Governor within six months for new long-term leadership and reform at DMV. “I am impressed by the dedication and hard work of so many DMV employees,” said GovOps Secretary Marybel Batjer, who led the Strike Team. “While there are still challenges ahead, I believe our efforts and new leadership will continue to move the DMV on a path of success.” The Strike Team’s report also outlines significant progress that has already been made at the DMV, which includes: Decrease in Wait Times: Overall wait times for DMV customers have decreased by 58 minutes from August 2018 to May 2019 in the DMV’s largest offices. In August 2018, 16 percent of customers had a wait time of more than two hours and in May 2019 that number was 0.005 percent of customers. In addition, customers waiting one hour or less improved from 58.5 percent in August 2018 to 87 percent in May 2019; Credit Cards: The Department entered into a contract to bring credit cards to DMV field offices. The project will start with the first pilot at the Davis DMV by the end of September. The pilot will be followed in October by three additional locations – Fresno, Victorville, and Roseville – before expanding to all 172 field offices. Pop-Ups: The Strike Team and the DMV have held two “pop-up” DMVs at major California businesses to allow several hundred business travelers to get their REAL ID without going to a field office. Better Access to Mobile Kiosks: The Strike Team has helped the DMV add 100 new remote kiosks that will be in place by the middle of August 2019 and another 100 by the end of the year in strategic locations. Improved Staff Training: The Strike Team organized “Operation Excellence: DMV Training” on REAL ID procedures. “I want to thank the Strike Team and to the thousands of career professionals who serve the public each day,” added Governor Newsom. Source: Governor’s Press Office ★

California Deserves a Comprehensive, Independent Audit

By Jacqui Nguyen, California Senate Republican Caucus

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Senate Republican Leader Shannon Grove (R-Bakersfield) issued the following statement in response to the Governor’s announcement of new leadership at the Department of Motor Vehicles and release of results from the DMV Strike Team: “After years of mismanagement, illegally registering foreign nationals to vote, and changing the voter registration of tens of thousands of Californians, the governor needs to acknowledge that the DMV is structurally-flawed. The only thing the DMV has been good at recently is wasting taxpayers’ time and money. “Like the mismanaged High-Speed Rail Authority, Democrats’ solutions for failing government bureaucracies seem to throw more money at them and hope for the best. I wish the new director and staff well, but fear we are just rearranging deck chairs on the Titanic. “Senate Republicans have been calling for a comprehensive, independent audit and all Californians have gotten are excuses from the DMV. Californians deserve nothing less than a top to bottom audit of the DMV,” said Senate Republican Leader Shannon Grove. Senate Republican Leader Shannon Grove represents California’s 16th Senate District which encompasses large portions of Kern, Tulare and San Bernardino counties and

Sheriff Hosts Unity in Community Picnics

Susan Maxwell Skinner

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Sacramento Sheriff Scott Jones and staff are continuing a summer tradition for Unity in Community events. Carmichael's Gibbons Park was a recent venue for the family-oriented open day and Jones will host a similar picnic at Rosemont Community Park, on Sunday, July 28.

Along with a barbecue and free burgers, the Rosemont event will offer friendly time with men and women in blue. Sheriff Jones will join his staff and department mascot, Crime Dog McGruff, to be on hand for photo opportunities. A helicopter will land and kids are invited to view its cockpit and chat with crew. Visitors can meet toothy K-9 law-keepers during doggie down-time. On this occasion, petting is allowed. SWAT and bomb-disposal teams are among other units who will volunteer off-duty time with kids and parents. Children's bicycles will be raffled and free life jackets will be given to the first 50 kids who arrive at the park. The event runs from 10 am till 2 pm.

Staged annually at several unincorporated Sacramento

Sheriff Scott Jones met families at the recent Gibbons Park "Unity in Community" picnic along with Crime Dog McGruff.

Parks, Unity events are an outreach to personalize police officers. "We're showing people we want to be good neighbors," said a Sheriff's spokesman. "We're all regular guys who love to do regular stuff with our families." Rosemont Community Park is located at 9326 Americana Way, Sacramento. Learn more about the Sheriff's Unity in Community picnics at www.sacsheriff.com ★

SacRT's Henry Li Honored as Best Public Transportation CEO

SacRT General Manager CEO Henry Li. Courtesy Sacramento Regional Transit

By Jessica Gonzalez, Sacramento Regional Transit

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Henry Li, Sacramento Regional Transit District's (SacRT) General Manager/CEO, received the 2019 Outstanding Public Transportation Manager Award from the American Public Transportation Association (APTA). This prestigious and highly competitive award, described by APTA as the equivalent of an Oscar award to the industry, is presented to a manager who has made outstanding contributions to the advancement of public transportation in North America.

APTA is the leading force in advancing public transportation entities providing bus, rail, subway, ferry and paratransit services throughout North America. "Li is a visionary and transformational leader who is well deserving of this award, which is given to the best public transit CEO in North America. His leadership at SacRT has created phenomenal results not only in the quality of service, but also in the restoration of positive financial ratings, increase in ridership, implementation of innovations, and the rebuilding of public trust. It takes a true leader with a focused vision to achieve the impressive results seen in his three year term at SacRT," said APTA President and CEO Paul P. Skoutelas. "On behalf of the 1,500 member organizations of APTA, I congratulate him."

Li's selection is a testament to his vision, dedication and leadership to take SacRT to the next level as a world-class transit agency. He implemented historic improvements over the last three years as GM/CEO, including ridership growth for SacRT, as our industry is still struggling with downward trends. He is highly praised by the Sacramento community and the industry for implementing a solid and comprehensive transformation of SacRT in record speed.

Li has proved to be a powerful change agent, overseeing a massive transformation to a solid culture of "Customers First and Business Optimization," and dramatically improving key aspects of organizational performance, including safety, security, cleanliness, fiscal health, rail system modernization, service reliability, customer satisfaction and ridership improvements.

"I am truly humbled and grateful to receive this honor, but this is genuinely about the community and our commitment to improving mobility in our region," said Li. "It is through the leadership and support from the Board, the hard work and dedication of our employees and the collaboration and support from riders, community stakeholders and advocates that we have been able to achieve transformational successes."

"Henry hit the ground running and has been a difference-maker in improving the safety of our transit system and expanding the suite of mobility options for Sacramentans of all ages and abilities," said Congresswoman Doris Matsui, U.S. Representative for the Sacramento Region. "Henry's commitment to safety, accessibility, and innovation are positioning SacRT for a bright future, and I congratulate him on this well-deserved and prestigious award."

"By emphasizing clean, safe and convenient, relentlessly pursuing business optimization and putting the customers first, he has won over the hearts and minds of the community," said SacRT Board Chair and Sacramento County Supervisor Patrick Kennedy.

"Henry is a champion of innovative mobility solutions," City of Sacramento Mayor Darrell Steinberg said. "From on-demand microtransit to partnering with TNC's and micro-mobility providers, SacRT is at the forefront of the integrated transit solutions that is fueling our economy and creating the smart city of the future," he finalized. ★

Los Rios and Partners Address College Affordability

benefit from Sutter's generosity for generations to come. They will also be using some of their contribution to create an endowment for the Los Rios Colleges Foundation Student Emergency Fund, which will build a sustainable source of funding to provide emergency grants to Los Rios students in their time of greatest need.

"As a not-for-profit organization, Sutter Health reinvests in the communities we serve. We appreciate the opportunity to form strong partnerships that support impactful programs, which help meet our communities' most pressing needs," said Keri Thomas, vice president of External Affairs, Sutter Health Valley Area.

"Education is one of the foundational pillars to the health of any community. We hope that these Promise scholarships provide the reassurance and spark the inspiration students need to continue pursuing their dreams and reaching for their goals. Students of today will help shape our communities of tomorrow," he continued.

Wells Fargo was the first corporate partner to support this effort, giving $90,000 total over the past two years. Their gifts will fund 80 of the 120 inaugural Promise scholarships this fall, at $500 per student, and another 90 scholarships next year. Their gift will also support an additional $10,000 for the Los Rios Colleges Foundation Student Emergency Fund.

SAFE Credit Union's gift of $120,000 will be shared between the Los Rios Promise Scholarship, providing 120 student scholarships, as well as supporting students who serve as program assistants at the STEM Center at American River College's innovative new STEM building under construction. SAFE's first pledge payment created the Los Rios Promise Endowment, and 10% of all future Promise Scholarship gifts will be invested into the endowment so that funding can support Los Rios students in perpetuity.

VSP Global's recent gift of $30,000 to the Promise Scholarship will help support 54 students with $500 scholarships and $3,000 contributed to the Los Rios Promise Endowment. Several years ago, VSP Global designed 'Professional Pathways' - with VSP Global, a school-to-work/college program in partnership with Los Rios, Cordova High School, Folsom Lake College and the City of Rancho Cordova. The program helps local underserved students successfully transition to a path aligned with their career aspirations following high school.

The cities of Rancho Cordova and West Sacramento have been leaders in this effort, having dedicated local voter-supported tax measures to help residents of their cities with the cost of attending college. In Rancho Cordova, those funds have supported student tuition fees, book vouchers and other mandatory fees. In West Sacramento, the funds have covered tuition and other student fees as part of the city's West Sacramento Home Run program.

Along with the generous support of corporate partners, the Los Rios Promise effort is supported by a number of individual donors, who are making it possible for the Los Rios Colleges Foundation to award 40 Promise Scholarships in 2019-2020.

The Los Rios Community College District is one of the nation's most respected learning institutions and the second-largest community college district in California, serving the greater Sacramento region. Los Rios includes: American River; Cosumnes River; Folsom Lake and Sacramento City colleges; and six major education/outreach centers. ★

Middle-Class Joe Cashes In

The American middle class just got a lot richer. Joe Biden, who invariably and tiresomely refers to himself as "Middle-Class Joe," made $15 million the first two years after the end of the Obama administration. According to one estimate, it takes an annual income of $420,000 to be in the top 1% of earners. Biden made 26 times that in 2017. He used to be remarkable among top politicians for not being very wealthy, but even in the old days of straitened circumstances, he and his wife were making about $400,000 a year, enough to make the top 1% in Delaware. This doesn't discredit any particular Democratic policy proposal, but it shows that in inveighing against the 1%, many top Democrats are attacking a group they are happy to be part of. The Bidens bought a $2.7 million vacation house on the beach, a luxury far out of the reach of the vast majority of Americans. If Biden has felt any guilt, he has yet to show it. We shouldn't begrudge Biden, or anyone else, getting what the market is willing to pay him, and spending it on things he enjoys. But what's true of Biden is as true of other denizens of the 1%, a category that includes people across all sorts of industries and professions. What distinguishes the buck-raking of a politician like Biden is that he is simply cashing in on his fame, rather than adding any true value the way an entrepreneur does, or providing important services like a doctor or an accountant. Writing books (often with the help of a ghost-writer) and showing up and giving speeches is perhaps the easiest money in America, and it is uniquely the path to wealth of politicians. This road is so paved with gold that even Sandinista-friendly avowed socialists can make a bounty, as Bernie Sanders has without apology, indeed with a prickly defensiveness. "I didn't know that it was a crime to write a good book, which turned out to be a bestseller," he huffed at a community meeting. It's also not a crime to use tax loopholes to keep from paying more than necessary to the IRS, as Biden can attest. The Wall Street Journal reports that the former vice president, a longtime critic of tax loopholes exploited by the rich, himself used a loophole that Democrats have long tried to eliminate to save about half a million on his tax bill. Biden is by no means the lead scourge of the wealthy in the Democratic field. He's been outflanked on this issue by Sanders and Elizabeth Warren, who herself made nearly a million dollars last year. At a recent fundraiser, he said that rich people shouldn't be demonized. Of course, Biden was talking to a room of fellow rich people. On CNN the other night, he was back as usual to calling himself Middle-Class Joe. It's probably too much to ask him to give up that shopworn self-image. Still, he and many of his colleagues would be truer to how they live their own lives if they began to more fully embrace and promote the idea of their fellow Americans getting rich. TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you

CITATION TO PARENT
DATE: August 19, 2019
TIME: 11:00
DEPT: 124

CALIFORNIA
TO: Thomas Isack, DSS Social Worker and anyone claiming to be a parent or having any interest regarding the minor child, JULIAN DURELL WARD, born October 18, 2010 in Sacramento, California
By order of this Court you are hereby notified that you may appear before the judge presiding in Department 124 of this Court on August 19, 2019 at 11:00 am at 3341 Power inn road Sacramento, California, then and

JULIAN DURELL WARD should not be declared free from your custody and control for the purpose of freeing JULIAN DURELL WARD for placement for adoption.
The following information concerns rights and procedures that relate to this proceeding for the termination of custody and control of said minor as set forth in Family Code Section 7860 et seq.

The minor will not be present in court

2. You are required to be present at the hearing; however, if you appear without counsel and are unable to afford counsel, the recommendations, all your parental

4. If the court terminates your parental rights, the order may be final.

hearing whether or not you are present.

CHEERS & JEERS

By Damian Holbrook

Cheers to Stranger Things' Secret Weapons.

After being a bit backburned in Season 2 of the Netflix hit, Will Byers (Noah Schnapp) – the kid who first took us to the Upside Down! – is back with some juicy stuff for Season 3, as is our new favorite, Max. We should all be as lucky as Eleven to have a bestie like her.

Cheers to Pop TV

for knowing a good thing when it sees it. As if we didn't love the cable outlet already for the comedy glory that is Schitt's Creek, it won our eternal admiration for snatching up the fabulous One Day at a Time (starring Justina Machado and Marcel Ruiz, pictured) from Netflix's cancellation heap.

Jeers to The View

for losing sight of its intentions. Originally designed to showcase all sorts of perspectives, the ABC talk show has become such a one-sided conversation that conservative cohost Meghan McCain is ready to bolt. Like her or not, she represents a part of the audience that deserves a place at the table.

Jeers to Big Little Lies

for not warning us about Zoe? Kravitz. While all the ads for the HBO drama have been "Streep! Streep! Streep!," the Monterey Five's hippie-dippie Bonnie has been the quiet storm of Season 2 as she tries (and fails) to hide her pain over Schitt's Creek, it won our eternal admiration for snatching up the fabulous One Day at a Time (starring Justina Machado and Marcel Ruiz, pictured) from Netflix's cancellation heap.

Perry's death. More promos should be touting her killer performance! ★ and casts like these get overlooked, but for all of its virtues and success, Queen Sugar doesn't tend to make a lot of noise. (From what I can tell, The Have and Have Nots didn't even submit itself for an Emmy, understanding that it's a guilty pleasure at best.)

Question: When will Suits get some Emmy love? – Nancy H

Matt Roush: If it were ever to happen, it would have happened by now. Suits will have to settle for love from its fans, and media champions including the cover story in the current issue of TV Guide Magazine.

ASK MATT

BY MATT ROUSH TV Guide Senior Critic

Why Don't Shows On Own Get More Emmys?

Question: The awards shows are geared to the regular networks and the streaming shows. There are some excellent series on OWN like The Haves and Have Nots and Queen Sugar. Why are they never nominated for the awards? – Joyce H

Matt Roush: I'll concede that in a less insane environment a show like Queen

Sugar, which is serious in approach and beautifully acted and produced, would have a chance, and be a smart choice in an industry looking to reward diverse content. The series' creator, Ava DuVernay, has broken ground with an all-female directorial team, and she is likely to fare very well at the Emmys (I hope) with her Netflix miniseries When They See Us. There's no satisfying answer to why shows

Carol, Cody and the Cordova Swim Community

By Cady Nagy-Chow, Cordova Recreation & Park District

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - If birds of a feather flock together, then fish from the same water swim together. Carol Kraus and her family are the perfect example of this.

Carol, the Cordova Blue Marlin’s Board of Director’s Registrar, has been a part of CRPD’s community for most of her life. If she wasn’t living in the District, she was visiting regularly to see family. “Even though I’ve lived in different places, I’ve always had family in the area and came back almost every year to visit my mom or sister in the summer. On these trips, I would take my nephew to the Cordova Community Pool to swim, just like had been done for me,” Carol said.

While some families make it a summer tradition to visit iconic destinations like Hawaii or big amusement parks, Carol’s family lives and breathes their community events and swimming. “Growing up I spent all my summers at Hagan Community Park, because we lived on Ambassador Drive. While my parents worked, my eldest sister took care of us. And what do you do on a hot day? We’d walk down the street to the full pool complex to use our pool punch card or hit the river by Hagan. Plus, every year we’d go to the 4th of July celebration. I still walk to it this day,” Carol said.

When Carol decided to return to the Cordova community permanently, she not only reconnected with her initial support system, but found avenues for herself to become more involved and advantageous relationships for her son. “As my son, Cody, got older and more interested in sports, his best friend, Tom Higdon, encouraged him to join the swim team. Which, of course, I was on board with being back here where I fell in love with swim,” Carol said.

Cody had acquired the “fish gene,” as Carol calls it, and followed in his mother’s footsteps. He joined the Marlins at age 9 and swam competitively until he graduated from high school. After graduation, Cody decided to attend CSU Bakersfield, but wanted to remain involved with the Cordova swim community on his summer breaks at home.

“I became a swim instructor with CRPD 3-4 years ago. But I remember the turning point came after coaching one year of the Marlins. I kept thinking ‘I would have to leave this to go back to Bakersfield’ and, to me, it was like why don’t I go to school in this area so I can continue coaching and teaching. I was already so involved in the community, you know. I wanted to stay so I could continue passing on my knowledge to younger swimmers and keep those important relationships, those that raised me, nearby,” Cody said.

Cody gushed about the kids he instructs, as another huge reason he decided to transfer to CSU Sacramento from Bakersfield and return to this community. “I love those moments when kids break that wall of being able to get their face under the water. It’s so exciting and rewarding to see them so happy about obtaining a new skill. Being a source of positive reinforcement for these kids is what it is all about,” Cody said.

While swim is both an athletic outlet and career path for Cody, and was a major part of Carol’s upbringing, it has also been vital to their family’s health. When Carol’s youngest son and Cody’s younger brother, Joshua, was diagnosed with Perthes Disease, swimming became physical therapy along with a beloved family activity. “Perthes is so challenging for a young kid because it means no sharp impacts and severely limits activity. Try telling your little one they can’t enjoy bounce houses! But we’re really lucky because he loved swimming just like the rest of his family, so while it was therapy, it was also a truly enjoyable activity for him,” Carol said.

After overcoming adversity, Joshua joined the Marlins at age 10 just like his brother, friends and neighbors.

The Cordova swim community is a family environment. Blood-related or not, an inclusive feeling is evoked from participants, Board Members, coaches and CRPD staff, as well. “It takes everyone to raise these kids, whether they are our swim athletes or their siblings at meets, we all have to take care of each other. It takes a village, and our village is Cordova,” Carol said.

Cody also feels the people he works with have shaped him and hold the same family dynamic he felt while swimming for the Marlins. “The fact that staff, both who trained me and who I work with, grew up here and swam with the Marlins too, you can feel that everyone cares about each other and the swimming experience. Whether I was on the swim team, a coach, a lifeguard or a swim instructor with CRPD, everyone involved has an incredible family dynamic. Each summer we come together to make this program happen. It’s cool because we’re not just coworkers, we’re all friends and bond in making this program not only possible, but fun for the kids,” Cody said.

Both Carol and Cody reiterated that there’s more to the community than swimming that makes them feel at home. “The joy of parks is there’s always something cool going on, and always something to do. It’s hard to zero in on one thing that stands out here because we’ve had so many incredible memories in this community, especially at Hagan Park” Carol said. “A huge reason I returned to the District is because I missed being able to grab a friend and head to the park, or the river,” Cody added. “Plus, I have my network here to support me while I’m finishing school and working.” ★ will utilize the trail system, with around 25 miles of separated bicycle and pedestrian trails throughout the City. These allow safe access and connectivity between neighborhoods, transit, businesses, and schools. “It’s great to go out there in an evening,” Stricker said. “I see families out walking with their strollers or people just out for an evening ride.”

Rancho Cordova resident Robert Van Cleef came from Silicon Valley and moved to Rancho Cordova with his wife last December. Transportation for them is a relative non-issue. “We have many stores within walking distance, and 90% of the stores we use regularly are within a five mile radius of our home,” Van Cleef said. “It is 15 minutes from our house to the light rail station.”

In some areas of the city, the use of alternative transportation encounters some serious difficulties. The project now underway at Chase Drive and Coloma Road involves students attending Mills Middle School and Cordova High School. This critical intersection lacks sufficient pedestrian and bicycle amenities. Particularly, the plaza that provides a place for students waiting to cross is inadequate, and students overflow into adjacent areas. This can encourage jay-walking and other situations dangerous to both students and drivers.

To address that, the city will provide a larger and safer plaza for students, and improve pedestrian and bicycle crossing space. This project is underway and scheduled for completion this fall. The project is funded through $270,000 in grants, $530,000 in our community enhancement funds, and the total project is $1.1 million dollars.

This year the City is working on another sidewalk improvement and repair project. It is funded through $100,000 in Federal grants, and community enhancement funds, Measure H, is funding $90,000. The total project value is $240,000 to repair broken sidewalks, curbs and gutters at 26 locations. “That project is already started,” Stricker said, “and we expect it to be complete within the next couple of months.”

These projects and others not only improve safety and efficiency of function, but also improve the appearance of the community, as can effectively be seen by the sidewalks, landscaping and other work that has already been done on Folsom Boulevard.

Stricker reviewed many other projects at the luncheon, but said, “That is a view of just some of many, many projects that are either underway or coming up very, very soon. I could go on for hours.”

Assemblyman Cooley is Pleased with Yosemite Historic Landmark Names Settlement

By Jillena Hernandez

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Assemblyman Ken Cooley (D-Rancho Cordova) released the following statement after news broke that a lawsuit settlement will permit Yosemite National Park to resume using its historic landmark names.

“I am very pleased to hear the news that historic Yosemite names like the Ahwahnee Hotel, Curry Village and the Wawona Hotel have been rightfully restored. In 2016, after learning that the former Yosemite concessionaire had outrageously claimed ownership of treasured Yosemite names, I authored the California Heritage Protection Act (AB 2249) with my colleagues Adam Gray and Frank Bigelow to change the law and make certain a private company could never trademark an historic state park landmark.

“Our parks showcase the beauty and incredible history of California, and should always serve the interests of the people.”

WELL-BEING

Mom is a social butterfly with a green thumb. When her big garden and home became too much, we knew exactly what we wanted in a community: gardens to tend and new friends. Our search brought us to Eskaton Lodge Gold River. When we toured, we knew. The people were so friendly, and the patio gardens seemed to call her name. Here, they care about what Mom calls well-being, and I am experiencing peace of mind.
