SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Old couches. Leftover lumber. One-legged chairs. Used laptops and TVs. Broken refrigerators. Beat-up mattresses. Does this sound like your backyard or garage? Did you know the Sacramento County Department of Waste Management and Recycling will come to your home and pick these items up from your curb at no charge?

One Bulky Waste Pick-Up per calendar year is included in your garbage rate. The nocharge pick- up is good for an 8' x 4' x 4' pile, with a maximum material amount of 5 cubic yards - about the size of a pickup bed loaded to the top of the cab. Additional pickups are only $25!

Bulky Waste Pick-Up services are available by appointment only. To schedule your pick-up, call (916) 875-5555 or complete the Waste Management and Recycling form online. Acceptable items include: Appliances, E-Waste (TVs and computer monitors), Universal Waste (household batteries, fluorescent light bulbs less than 4 feet, and cell phones), Furniture/Mattresses, Pipes, Lumber, Lawn/Tree/Shrub Trimmings. Please use your green waste container as much as possible for leaves, grass, weeds and prunings. The more vou use vour green waste cart, the more space in your Bulk Waste Pick-Up for items that cannot go into a cart. Place these items to the side of your pile: Tires (no rims; maximum of 5); Junk. Lumber, pipes and trimmings should be no more than four inches in diameter and five feet long. Unacceptable items include: Commercial Waste, Dirt, Rocks, and Bricks, Glass Panes, Concrete, Vehicle Batteries, Household Garbage, Hot Ashes, Heavy Materials (like auto bodies, engines, etc.), Hazardous Waste. This includes paint, oil and chemicals. This material may be dropped off at the Household Hazardous Waste Collection Facility located at the North Area Recovery Station. Call (916) 875-5555 for hours. Customers are asked to place the materials in front of their property and on the same side of the street 24 hours before scheduled pick-up.

D-Day Remembrance with Living Legends at Aerospace Museum

Story and photos by Trina L. Drotar

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Seventy five years ago, Dwight D. Eisenhower authorized Operation Overlord sending 176,000 troops from England to France. The date was June 5, 1944. On the morning of June 6th, troops, including 18,000 parachutists, had landed or were landing on the shoreline of Normandy. An additional 13,000 aircraft had been dispatched to provide air cover for the troops. June 6th, 1944 is D-Day.

Clarence "Bud" Anderson was one of the pilots who flew 100 miles inland that day. He shared that story with a group of 100 visitors at the Aerospace Museum of California's D-Day commemoration event on Saturday, June 1st. Anderson, a retired colonel with the USAF, was joined by retired Navy Commander Dean "Diz" Laird for a talk about their experiences during WWII.

'We are so fortunate to have them here today," said museum director Tom Jones.

The men, a few years south of 100, entertained the audience for two hours, graciously posed for photos, and signed books, pictures, and memorabilia. They met the many attendees who stood in long lines for the opportunity to ask a question or to thank the men for their service, a phrase heard repeatedly.

Prior to their talk, museum volunteer Jim Ronko, dressed as a D-day glider pilot, led a group of nearly 50 people through a living history talk and reenactment. "Path to D-Day" began inside and finished outside in front of the C-53, a plane that would have carried gliders to Normandy. Volunteers dressed as parachutists sat inside and greeted children and adults. The tour set the stage for the talk.

WWII aces, Colonel C.E. "Bud" Anderson, USAF (Ret.) and Commander Dean S. "Diz" Laird, USN (Ret.) looked like the neighbor next door or a great uncle, belying the strength that both men displayed during WWII and continue to display.

"To all of our veterans, past and present, especially Bud and Diz, thank you for your service," said Jones who provided an overview of D-Day before introducing the Placer volunteer Jim Ronko reenacts the events leading up to the landing of troops at Normandy.

High School graduates.

Anderson, a triple ace, served in WWII and Vietnam, and received, among others, the Bronze Medal Star, World War II Victory Medal, Air Force Longevity Service Award, and Vietnam Campaign Medal. He is a National Aviation Museum, EAA Warbirds of America, and San Diego Air and Space Museum International Air and Space hall of fame inductee. He is also a Congressional Medal of Honor recipient.

Laird, born in Loomis, suffered from motion sickness but he had his sights set on flying. Among the 100 airplanes he has flown are the F4F Wildcat and F6F Hellcat. He scored victories in both the European and Pacific Theaters, set a record during the 1949 National Air Races where he flew an F2H Banshee. He is the recipient of Distinguished Flying Cross and Audie Murphy Award, among many others. He is also a ongressional Medal of Honor recipient.

"Gentlemen, I salute you," said Jones.

The audience applauded and many saluted the two men.

'We were the hottest damn fighter squadron in the world," Laird said, his voice quiet but strong. "We were told this, and we believed them.<sup>3</sup>

He talked about the new requirement to be qualified for night landing saying that most pilots were not enthusiastic and that reports from the executive officer "did nothing to bolster our morale." Laird recalled a sky filled with 72 fighter pilots circling and trying to get into a traffic pattern. The men, https://aerospaceca.org.

constantly ridiculed, trained nightly. During the third week, Laird finally entered the traffic pattern, made several passes, and was determined to make the next pass his last. But he was going 10 - 15 knots too fast, caught only the top wire and was turned upside down.

"Damn Diz, we thought you were dead," said the flight officer.

Laird did not have to make another attempt until he was back in the United States.

"It was a rather rough six months, learning new things from people who didn't know how to do it in the first place."

He threatened to punch his ops officer if he did not get a good mission. The mission, it turns out, nearly killed him, but he is a survivor who jumped out of an airplane for his 90th birthday and flew his 100th aircraft three years ago.

After flying a six hour mission, he returned to the ship, was seen by a doctor, and moved to sick bay where the doctor removed his appendix.

"You are one of the luckiest guys I know," the doctor told him.

Anderson, it turns out, is also one lucky guy who credits the P-51 Mustang and Major General Jimmy Doolittle's new instructions that fighter pilots could pursue and destroy while climbing to 18,000 ft. altitude. Previous mandates limited the planes to 15,000 ft. and required them to remain very close to the bombers.

"What a lucky break that was for us," said Anderson. "That's when victories soared."

They were able to kill the experienced Luftwaffe pilots, leaving them with planes and inexperienced pilots. Anderson was the second flight to take off in the early morning hours of June 6th. Two squadrons of 32 aircraft were dispatched.

"Our destination was south of Normandy on the other side," he said. The third flight leader said, "You know, that Bud Anderson seems to get home all the time. I think I'm going to follow him." The mission lasted 6 hours, 55 minutes. A normal mission lasted 4 <sup>1</sup>/<sub>2</sub> hours. For additional information on Aerospace Museum of California, visit:

Continued from page 1 classes on car seat use and keeping babies safe while sleeping. It offers separate programs for fathers and mothers, employment and homework assistance, support for grandparents, transportation, and much more.

The Family Support Initiative, on the other hand, works with families and caregivers who have a first child under 24 months or are pregnant with no other children. In an effort to reduce the number of infant deaths, families will be connected to additional resources like health care, bill paying, employment, or housing, and gain insight on how babies learn and grow through scheduled visits that will continue for the long term.

"We don't turn anybody away," said Slama, saying that they will meet with families in the community.

Neither do the 28 libraries and two book mobiles of the Sacramento Public Library system.

"We will always be the book place," said Katie DeKorte, who whipped out her library card, the gateway to DVDs, books, audiobooks, e-books, and adventures.

and Hoopla. To learn new skills, read a newspaper, finish high school, or learn one of 100 languages, Sacramento Public Library is, according to DeKorte, the place to look.

English conversation groups, job coaching, adult literacy, and veterans' services are also available at different libraries. Rancho Cordova's library has a dedicated Veterans Connect program. Even passport services are available, which surprised many attendees.

DeKorte began her career as a teen volunteer, moved up to a paid position as a shelver, and now focuses on programming and services for young people including Read to a Dog, summer reading program which kicked off May 15, and coordinating volunteers for her library.

"Our goal is 1,100 this year," said DeKorte, about the program offered at each branch from June 10 through August 3 for children and teens.

I spoke about our Rancho Cordova Memorial Day Observance in last week's column. As Chairman of the Rancho Cordova Memorial Day Committee, I would like to thank our committee members who have come and gone, and those who are still with us today. I looked back over the years since our committee has been in existence, and it is amazing the number of people and organizations who have contributed and helped create our Memorial Day and Veterans Day observances here in Rancho Cordova. Some of our first committee members were also some of the volunteers and veterans who created and built the Veterans Memorial Plaza in front of the Sacramento VA Medical Center, We've had committee members from the Veterans of Foreign Wars, Bob Burns and Rick Swinford from the Rancho Cordova Elks Lodge who are still members, Stacy Delaney and many other City staff members, the Cordova Community Council joined three or four years ago, and the list goes on. I looked at Park on July 3rd and 4th. the list on the back of one of last year's event programs, and there were 26 different individuals, groups and organizations we try to thank every year. So many come to help, and without them, it would be impossible to accomplish all that we do. So thank you everyone!

Be sure to put on your list of things to do the Moonlight Movies taking place every Friday night in June at Village Green Park. This year, the theme is the "Dogs Day of Summer." The movies are Secret Life of Pets on June 7, A Dog's Purpose on June 14, Lady and the Tramp on June 21, and Bolt on June 28. I know I've seen Lady and the Tramp, but the rest are all new to me. The two-day celebration at Hagan Park, Fourth of July parade, pictures, picnics and fireworks all remind us how lucky we are to live in the U.S.A. on July 3rd and 4th. Every Friday night in August, there will be bands performing at Village Green Park as part of the Summer Concert Series. The bands are End Game on August 2, Neon Playboys on August 9, Big Crush on August 16, Popular Demand on August 23, and Take 2 Band on August 30. The only cost of anything I just mentioned is a $2 admission fee to Hagan see you next time.

The movies and concerts at Village Green Park are all free, and you can't beat that price.

It is only a few days into June, and it feels like summer with temperatures in the 90s finally. The unpredictable weather is now the "new norm" I guess. On Monday, the last test of the amount of snow in the Sierra showed that instead of 100% of normal snow depth for this time of the year, it is 202% of normal snow depth. The rivers are running fast and cold, and they will be like that most of the summer. There is a saying about if you don't like the weather, then wait until tomorrow and it will change. Wednesday's weather is supposed have a high of 98 degrees, the next day will be 87 degrees, and the day after that will be 81 degrees. Our grandchildren want it to be hot, and the youngest asked me if I could fix it for them. I said being Mayor of the City of Rancho Cordova is a wonderful job, but the Mayor can't change the weather either. All they can do right now is to enjoy not having to go to school during the summer. Besides, I heard a long time ago, "Don't mess with Mother Nature!!!!!!"

No Apology Needed on Crime Bill

Donald Trump and Bill de Blasio agree: Joe Biden should be ashamed of his support for the 1994 crime bill.

The bipartisan legislation that was long a point of pride for Bill Clinton, who signed it into law, is now in such malodor that CNN the other day identified it in a chyron as the "infamous" crime bill.

Trump says that African Americans won't vote for someone who supported the crime bill, which he calls a "dark period in American History" that Biden should apologize for. De Blasio, the no-hope presidential candidate, agrees, deeming the crime bill "a painful era in our nation's history."

Biden will have a lot of explaining to do about the bill, in the primaries and -now, it's clear -- even in a potential general election.

typical of sweeping bipartisan federal legislation. But the bill was, overall, a politically necessary response to a devastating decades-long crime wave.

It is our good fortune to have forgotten the visceral fear and loathing engendered by the crime wave beginning in the 1960s. Violent crime increased 350% from 1960 to 1990. Criminologist Barry Latzer points out that from 1970 to 1995, almost 675,000 people were murdered in the United States, Civil War-level carnage.

Charles Lane of The Washington Post notes that 49 percent of people in 1994 said crime was the top problem in the country. This wasn't white voters alone. The crime bill had the support of nearly 60 percent of nonwhites. Thirty-nine black pastors signed a letter supporting the legislation, and 10 black mayors urged the Congressional Black Caucus to back it, which most members did.

The bill's funding of more police officers probably helped, and the emphasis on greater incarceration certainly did as well.

It's not true, as de Blasio says, that the "crime bill was one of the foundations of mass incarceration." The legislation was a Incarceration began to mixed bag, representing increase in the 1970s as the blunderbuss approach the crime wave built, and Synd., Inc.

the crime bill most directly affected the federal system, accounting for less than 10 percent of all prisoners.

According to a study by the National Academy of Sciences, the drivers of mass incarceration were increases in prison commitments per arrest and in time served. Time served for murder went from five years in 1981 to 16.9 years in 2000, and for sexual assault from 3.4 years in 1981 to 6.6 years in 2009.

It is true that the arrest rate for possession and use of drugs increased 162% from 1980 to 2006. We shouldn't exaggerate, though. At their height in 1990, drug offenders were about 20% of state prisoners and are currently less than 15%. Overall, the U.S. incarceration rate is now at its lowest in 20 years.

Almost any public policy has its trade-offs, and in the fullness of time, with crime having fallen so dramatically, it is natural that the priorities -- and overkill -- of the 1990s will look different. But no one should apologize for having worked to get dangerous people off the streets at a time when they were causing untold grief and rending the civic fabric of America.

Connecting Kids to Dental Care

Andrea Sandoval, Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Did you know that tooth decav is preventable and when kids have healthy teeth, they feel and do better in school? Sacramento County Public Health is working with community organizations to increase access to dental care and to educate parents about how to prevent dental disease so the whole family can live healthier lives without dental pain.

Sacramento County Public Health Officer, Olivia Kasirye, said, "Tooth decay in children results in dental pain, missed school days and hinders student success. Cavities do not heal on their own, and therefore, need intervention by a dentist. Together, we can work to prevent tooth decay, tooth loss, and help our children be successful in school."

First – let's increase dental access; If you have Medi-Cal, you have dental benefits. In Sacramento County, approximately 58% of children who have Medi-Cal do not regularly visit the dentist even though dental care is a covered benefit. Studies show that children are more likely to visit the dentist if their parents do, too. Be the oral health role model your children need.

If you don't have Medi-Cal, call Sacramento Covered at (916) 414-8333 to help determine if you qualify and/or to sign up for free or low-cost health coverage. If you don't qualify, Sacramento Covered will provide other options to help you get the dental care you need. The Sacramento County Department of Human Assistance also helps determine eligibility for Counts! pilot projects use

Second – let's brush up on dental facts:

Cavities are not something that everyone gets - you can prevent cavities and dental disease by brushing twice a day, making healthy food/ drink choices, and visiting a dentist regularly;

If you are pregnant or planning to get pregnant, see your dentist for a checkup;

From day one, protect baby's dental health by the following: Wipe baby's gums after feeding with a soft cloth or finger toothbrush; Only put water in a baby's bottle at bedtime (if a bottle is needed); Make baby's first dental appointment when their first tooth comes in or by their first birthday;

Baby teeth matter for the development of healthy permanent teeth, speech and proper eating;

2x2x2 - Brush with fluoridated toothpaste twice a day for two minutes and visit your dentist twice a year;

Dental sealants and fluoride varnish greatly reduce the risk for cavities;

Make healthy food choices and limit sugary snacks and drinks.

Third – let's learn about the Sacramento County Public Health's Oral Health Program. Sacramento County Public Health offers oral health education; dental provider resources; referral assistance for parents, school staff, and public health professionals; and works to improve access to dental care services.

Dental Transformation Initiative – To increase access to dental care for Medi-Cal eligible children aged 0-20 years old, the Every Smile

Medi-Cal, CalFresh and more innovative strategies to reach families including the Virtual Dental Home, Medical/ Dental Partnerships, and Community Outreach and Parent Education;

> Rethink Your Drink – A campaign to teach children and parents about the amount of sugar and calories found in commonly consumed beverages, and the impact it has on physical, as well as oral health;

> Tobacco Cessation -Developing and delivering evidence-based training and resource materials for oral health professionals to assist clients in making healthy choices;

> Kindergarten Oral Health Assessment - To help connect children to needed dental services, the County works with community partners to increase the number of students that receive a dental assessment and the number of schools and school districts that report the data.

> Call the Sacramento County Oral Health Program to learn more about oral health education and resources at (916) 875-5947, and be sure to check out the First 5 Sacramento Dental website for dental information specific to 0-5-year-olds.

> The Sacramento County Dental Health Program receives funding from the California State Department of Public Health through Proposition 56, the California Healthcare, Research and Prevention Tobacco Tax Act. As part of this grant, the Oral Health Program undertook a countywide oral health needs assessment to develop projects to support the California Oral Health Plan and to meet the unique needs of county residents. *

Spring Cleaning? Schedule Your Bulky Waste Pick-Up

Sometimes, people without access to trucks or trailers will illegally dump unwanted items along roadsides or in rural areas of the county. This causes blight and costs taxpayers tens of thousands of dollars every year to address.

Ted Horton, superintendent of operations for the Department of Waste Management and Recycling, says that each year the county removes about 23 million pounds of household junk through the Bulky Waste Pick-Up program.

Couches, beds and wood are the most commonly disposed of items. "But we'll even take old hot tubs, as long as they are cut in pm.

half," said Horton.

Appointment availability varies. Depending on demand there may be a wait of up to 3-4 weeks.

If you'd like to get rid of household junk or have questions about the program, please email sacgreenteam@saccounty.net or call Customer Service at 916-875-5555, Monday - Friday, 8:00 am - 4:30 of Trustee's Sale is estimated to be $214,169.50 (Estimated). However, prepayment premiums, accrued interest and advances will increase this figure prior to sale. Beneficiary's bid at said sale may include all or part of said amount. In addition to cash, the Trustee will accept a cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, a check drawn by a state or federal credit union or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, savings association or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the California Financial Code and authorized to do business in California, or other such funds as may be acceptable to the Trustee. In the event tender other than cash is accepted, the Trustee may withhold the issuance of the Trustee's Deed Upon Sale until funds become available to the payee or endorsee as a matter of right. The property offered for sale excludes all funds held on account by the property receiver, if applicable. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. Notice to Potential Bidders If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a Trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off. before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. #### Jeers to The Bachelorette Reunion for ignoring two of its original singletons. The most dramatic part of ABC's giggly two-hour gathering of the franchise's former stars? The fact that nobody even mentioned Season 2's MIA Meredith Phillips (pictured) or her successor, Jen Schefft.

Cheers to S.W.A.T.

for its high-caliber heart. CBS's macho hit recently explored some emotional armor as Hondo (Shemar Moore) tried to save a kid from his own gang past, Luca (Kenny Johnson) revealed a teacher's lifealtering influence and Deacon (Jay Harrington, right, with Moore) used a tragic truth to steady a suicidal shooter. Now that's true heroics.

Cheers to NCIS

for that OMG twist. Proving why it's still the No. 1 drama, CBS's military-law procedural blew our minds by bringing back Cote de Pablo as long-MIA fan fave Ziva to drop a dire warning on Gibbs (Mark Harmon) in the season finale's final moments. Consider us reenlisted for Season 17!

Why Is Sela Ward Leaving FBI?

Question: Why is Sela Ward leaving FBI after just one season? She was perfect for the role and has a strong following on TV. – J Long

Matt Roush: It was reported that Sela Ward had signed just a one-year deal with the series, so this wasn't entirely unexpected. Some actors – see Connie Britton, who similarly left 9-1-1 after just one season though, so I hope we'll see to: tvinsider.com

I'm only speculating here, because I'm not aware of any exit interviews or the like, but knowing that Ward spent time in the trenches of CSI: NY, I imagine that while she was grateful for the FBI gig, being part of a procedural ensemble may not always be the most rewarding job for an actor. her on TV again soon. Question: Who thought it was a good idea to make Watson a blonde in Elementary? - Gordon

Matt Roush: By all accounts, that was Lucy Liu's call. And while it's maybe surprising, it's undeniably striking. (The change of hair color is referenced in the season opener, suggesting that it's a reaction to Watson wanting to mix things up now that she's adjusting to life in London.) It's not like this could do any damage to the show, which knew going in that this would be the final season. Enjoy while you can.

Offending Christians: The Bladensburg Cross Case

Commentary by Dr. Paul Kengor

One of the major Supreme Court are demanding the removal of a large cross that memorializes veterans in the town of Bladensburg, Maryland because the cross resides on public property.

It's crucial to realize that the cross wasn't erected yesterday. The "Peace Cross" was constructed in 1925 in honor of 49 fallen veterans of World War I. It was designed by the Gold Star mothers and erected by the local post of the American Legion.

The case is known as The American Legion v. The American Humanist Association. The "humanists" argue that the memorial is unconstitutional because it's fashioned in the shape of a cross on government property, and thus stands in violation of "separation of church and state"-a phrase, of course, not found anywhere in ity toward religion. They likewise the U.S. Constitution. That language was expressed by Thomas Jefferson in his 1802 letter to the Danbury Baptists, and has been badly abused and misinterpreted ever since.

The fact that the cross is a cross is what makes it unacceptable. (Replace it with a statue of humanists would withdraw their objections.) Secularists appeal to the First Amendment of the Constitution, which says, in part, that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion." Obviously, allowing the old not create a congressional "establishment of religion." Anvone who thinks allowing this cross decisions we'll soon hear about is to remain means that the feds are the Bladensburg cross case. This conspiring to implement a national is the case in which secularists theocracy needs to have his head examined. As they invoke that select handful of words from the First Amendment, the secularists misleadingly do what they always do, namely—avoid the remainder of what the First Amendment says about freedom of religion: the government "shall not prohibit the free exercise thereof." The American Legion and Gold Star mothers of Bladensburg exercised their freedom of religion in 1925 to honor their fallen brothers and sons. They naturally commemorated them with the cross that represents their faith

> The secularists, however, refuse to view it that way. And that's quite unfortunate. They would never view themselves and their actions as hostile, but, in reality, that's what they are. This is hostilwould never view themselves and their actions as intolerant, but, in reality, that's likewise what they are. This is yet another remarkable example of their intolerance. How can people who preach diversity be so blatantly intolerant of the beliefs of others?

For a sense of the lack of Barney the purple dinosaur and the respect, consider one of the worst affronts in the case:

> A federal appeals court in October 2017 had ruled the cross unconstitutional, asserting that it "excessively entangles" the government with religion. That verdict was rendered in a 2-1 decision by cross to continue to stand would the U.S. Court of Appeals for the similarly large memorials on gov- baker, florist, or marriage clerk. I 4th Circuit in Richmond, Virginia, which argued that the Peace Cross "aggrandizes the Latin cross" and thereby constitutes a U.S. government endorsement of Christianity. So said a 33-page opinion written by Judge Stephanie Thacker and ioined by Judge James A. Wynn Jr.

Thacker's overall opinion demonstrated a troubling lack of historical-theological awareness. Worst of all was the insensitivity displayed during oral arguments. Thacker, an Obama appointee approved by the U.S. Senate in 2012 by a vote of 91-3, offered a truly novel solution. During oral arguments, Thacker asked the attorney defending the memorial: 'What about ... my suggestion of chopping the arms off?"

Yes, the judge offered a compromise: slice off the horizontal arms. You heard that right: slice off the arms from the cross of Christ.

Can vou imagine? Can vou picture it? Grab a photo of the memorial and do your own airbrush. How does it look?

For the record, the Peace Cross, mercifully, does not have a corpus. Thus, the demolition crew wouldn't be sawing off the arms of Jesus. Nonetheless, imagine the precedent proposed. Presumably, using the Thacker Solution, similar large memorial crosses on government property could all be targeted for arm-removal.

In fact, that prompts this thought: in the interest of fairness and equality, why stop with crosses? Shouldn't we thus also target the horizontal parts of the Star of David-another religious symbol—if we find them as ernment property? Should they be hunted down? Should they be permitted to remain only if we sawed off the horizontal parts? Of course, the star would no longer be a star, but apparently dismembering it would be a triumph in this greater good of not "entangling" government with religion.

Do we go down this road?

I pose a serious question to Judge Thacker and the secularists: Do you not see how your objections to the cross of Christ might be offensive? In the name of not offending, you're offending. In the name of inclusion, you're excluding. In the name of tolerance, you're engaging in intolerance.

It isn't like this cross was planted yesterday or is being scheduled for construction in 2020. It has been there for nearly a hundred years. It's as much historical as spiritual. Can't you leave it alone at least for that reason? This isn't a bronzed statue of a Confederate general who whipped slaves on a plantation. This is a testimony to the faith of the men who died for their country in World War I-for peace. Do vou not see the aggression in vour actions? Why go on the offensive with bulldozers? Leave it alone.

If this was a giant Star of David on public land, I'd be the first to stand with a group of rabbis demanding that secularists back off and respect a centuryold memorial. I will fight for the rights of every Christian and Jew and cross and Star of David. The same isn't true for secular liberals. They pick and choose. They're the first to harass, fine, sue, shut down, and toss in jail the Christian will defend the liberty of a Muslim baker in Dearborn as well as a Christian baker in Colorado. I will defend the right of an Orthodox Jewish caterer to decline a wedding on the Sabbath just as I'll defend the right of a Christian florist in Washington state to decline a same-sex wedding ceremony that violates the teachings of her faith and her freedom of conscience.

Far too many secular liberals, however, will not. To this day, Jack Phillips, the Christian baker in Colorado, is hounded with new legal challenges. Militant secularists will not back off from badgering him.

And yet, a colleague of mine who's an attorney on religious-liberty cases tells me he's unaware of a single case in which a same-sex couple has sued a Muslim baker for declining a same-sex wedding ceremony. Progressives will not pursue Muslims, even as Muslim bakers likewise openly refuse homosexual couples. They leave them alone. It's a double standard they impose against Christians.

If they insist there's no double standard, then let's see it. Prove otherwise by having the decency to leave the Bladensburg memorial cross alone.

A Place to Call Digital-Home

By Noah Howard

Every video game enthusiast has their own selection of small details or aspects of games that they appreciate. The small joys of mastering a new skill, painting a set of armor, completing a small task, or the oft-requested ability to pet in-game dogs should not be underestimated when it comes to measuring overall enjoyment of a game. But arguably the most important and popular small detail that has frequently echoed throughout the gaming community has been the ability to customize a home.

Though online games like Second Life had featured home-building as a central feature for some time, home-building was first thrust into the gaming mainstream with Minecraft, the survival game/digital set of Lego bricks that remains one of the best selling video games of all time. In Minecraft's survival mode, building a home was essential as a fortress against the hostile creatures of the night. And in the monster-less creative mode, players created masterpieces of architecture that took the internet by storm.

Other major games got on board with the trend at a micro-level. The Mass Effect series allowed you to retreat from the perils of intergalactic war to your private quarters, where you could listen to music, feed pet fish, and collect model spaceships. The Elder Scrolls V: Skyrim similarly allowed you to purchase and cultivate a house, allowing you to find a spouse and to decorate your home with spoils from your adventures.

More recently, homes in games have skyrocketed in popularity. Major releases like The Division and Wolfenstein II: The New Colossus feature homes prominently as both mechanical and narrative devices. Some indie games have similarly embraced the trend; FTL: Faster than Light, Sunless Sea, and Subnautica create emotional attachments to your vessels/bases, making it all the more devastating if they're destroyed. Far: Lone Sails makes this craft-attachment its primary mechanic, as you peacefully pilot your steampunk mobile home across a desolate landscape.

The trend makes sense: even though it may seem small, having a personalizable space in an otherwise daunting environment can allow players to place their personal stamp on a massive world, creating a feeling of ownership and control over a small corner of a huge game. Collecting mementos and decorations to personalize a home can be a pleasant distraction for the player, a side activity that differs significantly from the thrills and violence that characterize many games.

But the in-game home can also compliment the more exciting aspects of a game. Though the best video games are consistently entertaining, they are not always "fun": players may be placed into desperate or frantic situations, or might have to contend with tough moral choices. Having a safe place to retreat to can alleviate the emotional intensity that the best games are able to convey (or, in particularly sadistic twists, games can increase that intensity by destroying or modifying spaces the player considers "safe").

In-game homes are a versatile choice for designers, offering a bevy of options to shift the emotional flow of gameplay. But games should be willing to include this feature even if it isn't essential to their creative vision. Because for players, even if it isn't central to a game, having a cozy, personal place to call home can be as comforting and refreshing in the digital world as it is in the real one. To Respond To Noah's Articles Email Him At Digitalartsnoah@ Yahoo.com
