Dust off Those Pedals, May is Bike Month

By Sarah Gallivan, SACOG

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) -May is here - and with it, the Sacramento Region's 15th annual May is Bike Month campaign. Take advantage of the beautiful spring weather and longer days, and join friends, neighbors, and co-workers in their commitment to bicycling to work, school, errands, or for recreation or training this May.

Cycling to work instead of driving not only reduces traffic congestion; it also reduces air pollution, which is better for the environment. There are also many personal health benefits, so dust off the pedals because the May is Bike Month challenge is back!

Participants can start a challenge at work, school or among friends. Cyclists that register and log miles are eligible for weekly prizes including May is Bike Month shirts, socks and more. Register today at mayisbikemonth.com.

In addition to registering for the challenge, be sure to check out bike events held throughout the Sacramento Region during May: Mav 1 - "May is Bike Month Kick-off Celebration" hosted by the Sacramento Area Council of Governments (SACOG), this event marks the official start to May is Bike Month. It will feature music, free yoga classes from Yoga Moves Us, food and raffle prizes for those who sign up to take the May is Bike Month pledge. May 9 - Join fellow cyclists for Capitol Bike Fest on the West Lawn at the State Capitol. In addition to prizes and music, the Sacramento Bike Fest will feature vendors such as local bike shops and clubs, nonprofit fundraiser bike rides, commuter information and more! May 16 - Sacramento Region Bike to Work Day. Biking to work is easy with trails and bike-friendly lanes all over the region. Find an event in your area and join in on the fun! For a full calendar of events in the Sacramento Region, check out the May is Bike Month Calendar. April 1-May 31 -SACOG will be out in the community attending events, encouraging cyclists to sign up for the challenge, and promoting May is Bike Month. For the latest news, event dates, locations and times visit the event page. The May is Bike Month challenge is full of fun, fitness, prizes and a chance to help the environment and cut back on roadway congestion. Talk to family, friends and co-workers about how to reduce vehicle usage and take full advantage of bike month!

Mentors Make a Difference

Story and photos by Shaunna Boyd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - On April 19, more than 100 young men participated in the Tim Brown 9-1-1 Playmakers Camp, sponsored by retired Oakland Raider and NFL Hall of Fame player Tim Brown and the 9-1-1 for Kids Foundation. The California Highway Patrol (CHP) hosts the annual event at their training academy in West Sacramento, and CHP officers serve as some of the mentors to the youth as they interact through football training drills.

Tim Brown explained to the participating kids that football was just a disguise for what they were really teaching at this camp. Brown said, "I want you to walk away with some sense of hope. Whatever your situation is right now, it can change."

Brown explained that his his life for many years while he was growing up, and that caused him a lot of pain. "If not for the teachers, by Greg "Coach Roz" coaches, and mentors who Roeszler, is a local nonwere around me at that time, especially when I was in high school ... I don't know what would have happened to me."

"You have people here who care about you," said Brown. "I think that's something that's very important. Because sometimes in this world we can think, 'Oh, no father was not involved in one cares about me' ... But needs kids - just providpeople do care."

Playmakers The Organization, founded profit that coaches character through leadership. Working together with Tim Brown, the 9-1-1 Playmakers Camp provides an opportunity for mentors to encourage and support at-risk kids.

"What we're doing here today with Tim Brown is a Playmakers activity fun day for at-risk and special ing for them a great day that's all based around character and doing the right thing and serving others in the community," said Coach football."

Coach Shannon Sauers coached with Coach Roz right out of college and, years later, he is still incorporating what he learned from Coach Roz in his own coaching: "He was that character was the most important aspect of coaching. He taught me that it's really about developing ing kids to participate in young men."

Lorenzo Walsh, one of Roz. "It's just a wonder- the Playmakers mentors, ful day of character and has 15 years of coaching experience, and he strives to get underprivileged kids fed, educated, and involved in youth football. Walsh said he knows all too well how difficult it is to grow up without the support and encouragement of a male the first one who taught me role model, so he wants to provide that support to as many kids as possible.

> Walsh said that bring-Playmakers is a way to "expose these kids to experiences and people they'd never have otherwise. I want to let them know that big dreams can be achievable."

Football players from Rio Americano and El Camino - high school teams whose bitter rivalry ended last season with a brawl - served together at the camp as coach's helpers, supporting the kids through the sports drills while teaching about character development.

When asked how his players were feeling about working with the rival team, El Camino Head Coach JP Dolliver said, "At the end of the day... they're just kids playing football.... They shook hands. And this year's going to be a different experience because of it."

"I think it's just a great experience for the kids to give back to the younger kids.... It shows the importance of the leadership aspect of being a student athlete," said Dolliver. "It's good to bring them out here, and I think it's going to make them better football players themselves."

Players practice the basics of passing and catching.

Participants warm up with exercises in the gym before hitting the field.

The tug-of-war drill tests participants' strength and stamina while teaching the importance of teamwork.

The hurdles drill tests participants' speed and agility.

The Revival of the Miss Rancho Cordova Pageant

The girls who are crowned as queens will act as ambassadors for the Rancho Cordova. Photo courtesy Lucinda Witte

By Shaunna Boyd

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Lucinda Witte got involved in pageants at 15 years old and has maintained a passion for them throughout her life. She has been crowned Mrs. Rancho Cordova, Mrs. Greater Sacramento, Mrs. Sacramento, Miss Citrus a very diverse commu-Heights, Miss Metro, Miss California Talent, and Mrs. Roseville-City. She loves the gowns, the sparkly crowns, and - most of all — the wonderful and inspiring women. Witte's love of pageants has inspired her to bring back the Miss Rancho Cordova Pageant for a new generation of girls.

The last Miss Rancho Cordova Pageant was held in 2005. The pageant was originally run by the City of Rancho Cordova in the late 1970s and was later directed by Mary Purvis, who passed away in 2014.

As a long-time resident of Rancho Cordova, Witte has always been very involved in the local community, and she loves finding ways to get more people involved. With her extensive pageant experience, Witte is excited to take on the challenge of reviving the Miss Rancho Cordova Pageant.

Witte described many eant directors as cold

That's why people today still talk about her with a smile."

"She made an impression on me," said Witte. "I carry that with me." To honor Purvis' legacy, Witte plans to manage the pageant with the same warmth and care for her girls.

Rancho Cordova is nity, and Witte said that all girls over the age of 13 are welcome in the pageant. Unlike the Miss California Pageant, which has a citizenship requirement, the Miss Rancho Cordova Pageant is open to everyone. "I believe everyone should be able to participate," said Witte. Witte is also willing to waive the $50 application fee if interested applicants have financial hardships.

The Miss Rancho Cordova Pageant is a non-profit organization. Witte is currently funding the pageant herself, but she hopes to secure sponsorships to help cover the operating costs once the pageant is established as a community asset.

The pageant will crown the top-scoring girls as Miss Rancho Cordova, Miss Gold River, Miss Anatolia, and Miss Mather. The titles are all equivalent and will be assigned based on a preference ranking system. The girls will rank take advantage of nettheir title choices on their initial applications, with the become the women they highest scoring girl getting her first choice of title. The scores will be calcu-"Mary wasn't all busi- categories: swimwear, to show the girls' commitment to physical fitness; evening wear, to highlight their grace and poise; fun wear, to show their personality; and interviews, MissRanchoCordova.com★ to demonstrate their intelligence and eloquence.

An all-female panel will judge the competition and determine the final scores.

The girls who are crowned as queens will act as ambassadors for the Rancho Cordova, Gold River, Mather, and Anatolia communities. Witte said she wants the queens "to be an active presence" and serve as role models and mentors to younger children in the area. Their role as ambassadors will increase their self-confidence and help them become leaders in the community.

The associated community service work will enable the young women to interact with many different people and take on new responsibilities, which will provide various opportunities to further their personal and professional goals.

Witte said that participating in pageants "brought brightness" into her life. She hopes to bring that same illumination into the lives of local girls. For Witte, the measure of success is if the girls "flourish in all ways in their lives." She doesn't expect them all to go on to become Miss America; she wants them to serve the community, working opportunities, and

Rancho Cordova Police Lieutenant Honored by Sacramento State University

By Ashley Downton, Rancho Cordova Police Department

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - On April 13, Rancho Cordova Police Department (RCPD) Lieutenant Rob Patton was honored as a Distinguished Alumni at the Sacramento State University Division of Criminal Justice's 50th Anniversary Gala.

The gala theme was "50 Years of Justice Education Leadership" and honored nine distinguished alumni who have graduated from Sacramento State University with degrees in Criminal Justice. Lieutenant Patton was selected as an honoree for creating the Sheriff's Leadership Program (SLP) at the Sacramento County Sheriff's Department.

Lieutenant Patton has been with the Sheriff's Department for 20 years and worked in a variety of assignments. He joined RCPD one year ago as the Day Shift Watch Commander supporting patrol officers in their role responding to 911 calls, critical incidents and traffic accidents.

While he was working for the Sheriff's Department, Lieutenant Patton decided to pursue a Master's Degree in Organizational Leadership from National University and graduated in 2014.

"I realized at that time that my passion and purpose in life was leadership," said Lieutenant Patton. "Once I started to look within at what I was good at in my career, I realized a lot of things that I was doing weren't working, change from within."

Once he graduated with his Master's Degree. Lieutenant Patton created SLP, which is open to his colleagues at the Sheriff's Department. The goal of the program is to help his colleagues learn, lead and grow as people and employees so they are prepared for leadership opportunities in their current roles, specialized assignments and supervisory positions.

SLP is a three-month program that includes two days each month of facilitated instruction and group dialogue, which covers a variety of leadership methods, styles and concepts. Twenty-five employees are selected to participate in each program, and SLP is now in its sixth class.

In addition to teaching in SLP, Lieutenant Patton travels throughout and I needed to create California with the California Peace Officers' Association teaching eight hour courses Transformational on Leadership at other law enforcement agencies.

> Lieutenant Patton was humbled to have been honored by Sacramento State University for his leadership roles at the Sheriff's Department and RCPD.

"It's humbling to have been honored because I have struggled my whole life until I joined law enforcement," said Lieutenant Patton. "Leadership is not about you, it's all about you. It's about how you affect change in yourself before affecting change in people and teams. In other words, be willing to look within in order to have the impact you want on others."

By Bob McGarvey

Most of this article is about what is going on in Rancho Cordova during the last three days of April and the first three days of May. I am thinking of how fast the year is going by, and our grandkids wish it was going faster so school would be finished and summer would arrive. I am sure sometime in the past, I was thinking the same thing. But that was then, and this is now. And for me, the time is going fast enough.

I am working on this article the Friday and Monday before it will be published because there are so many things happening this coming week that I know I'd better get with it. On Saturday, April 27, 13 families throughout three neighborhoods in Rancho Cordova received home and landscaping improvements during National Rebuilding Month – all at no cost to the homeowners. The joint efforts of the City of Rancho Cordova and Rebuilding Together Sacramento improves the quality of life for residents who can't do everything that needs to be done financially or physically. It is the fifth year this program has happened in Rancho Cordova, and it wouldn't be possible without the 400 volunteers who offer their knowledge and skills to help residents who need their assistance.

On that same day, Kids Day in the Park took place from 11 AM to 3 PM, and we celebrated the 30th Anniversary of the event. The event actually began trip have a return for that and see you next time.  $\star$ expanded to the point they had to move it to Hagan Park where there is enough room for the 5,000 to 6,000 people who come to the event every year. The price is free for admission and activities. That's the best price around. There are free rides, crafts and games, as well as free vision, hearing and dental checks. Plus, the Rancho Cordova Police Activities League's Bike Rodeo is always popular and gives away 100 free bikes to kids. This year, Amy Hiramoto, who has been at the event every year since it began, said there were more people at Kids Day in the Park than ever before. It is a wonderful event that gives so much to families and individuals.

The next thing on the calendar will be Sacramento Area the Reading Association's Writer's Showcase at Rancho Cordova City Hall on Wednesday, May 1. Participating student authors and their families, teachers and principals are invited to the Writer's Showcase. In addition to receiving the prestigious Writer's Showcase Award, participants will meet a local author who will sign their own book.

The Cap-to-Cap trip to Washington D.C. will take place from May 4-8. As our 2019 Cap-to-Cap Chair Mac Clemmens said, "Our theme this year is collaboration. We aim to continue to leverage that collaboration to achieve great things for our capital region." The successes of Cap-to-Cap over the years have shown that the investment in the hundreds of elected officials, staff and those who represent many other organizations who go on the McGarvey, God bless, > Something that many, many people are looking forward to is the 2019 Amgen Tour of California from May 12-18. It is quite an honor to host the Men's Stage 2 Start here in Rancho Cordova on Monday, May 13. There has been a change in the Men's Stage 2 race start time. The original start time was going to be at 10:05 AM, but now the start time is going to be at 9:30 AM. Timing is subject to change, so check CityofRanchoCordova.org/ Amgen leading up to the race for time changes. We have been notified by the U.S. Forest Service that due to the well above normal snowfall in the Sierra Nevada this year, they will not be able to open Mormon Emigrant Trail in time for the Men's Stage 2 Race. As a result, the race route and thus the race start time had to be modified. I believe there will be quite a few people here at City Hall in the morning, and there will be many people along the side of the road who want to see the racers go by on their way to South Lake Tahoe.

There is also a 2019 Amgen Tour of California Women's Race from May 16-18. Stage 1 is in Ventura on May 16, Stage 2 begins in Ontario and ends in Mt. Baldy on May 17, and Stage 3 begins in Santa Clarita and ends in Pasadena on May 18. We are more involved in the men's race here in Rancho Cordova, but I thought there are many people who would also be interested in the women's race. Visit www. AmgenTourofCalifornia.

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Men's Stage 2 Start of the 2019 Amgen Tour of California is coming to the City of Rancho Cordova on Monday, May 13! This is the first time Rancho Cordova has been selected as an Amgen Tour of California Host City. This race will bring an international team of elite cyclists to our city for a Tour de France-style race, and we invite all residents and businesses to get involved.

The Men's Stage 2 Start will kick off on Prospect Park Drive in front of our iconic Rancho Cordova City Hall with a festival at 8 am and the race at 9:30 am. Heading east from the start, the route will follow White Rock Road through the City of Rancho Cordova, ending 133.3 miles later in South Lake Tahoe.

Experience the excitement of the Amgen Tour of California by joining the City and Rancho Cordova Travel & Tourism for the Men's Stage 2 Start. Here are five ways you can participate and welcome the event to Rancho Cordova:

Show Us Your Blue & Gold! Let's "paint the town" in blue and gold-two of the official race colors-to show our Rancho Cordova race spirit! Show Us Your Blue & Gold by taking photos and posting them on social media with the hashtag #BlueGold4AmgenTOC.

Need Blue & Gold Ideas? We've got you covered! Go to CityofRanchoCordova. org/Amgen for cool downloadable blue and gold signs, pinwheel templates, and other creative blue and gold ideas.

Cheer on the Riders when the race begins at 9:30 am. Come on out to the Men's Stage 2 Start in front of Rancho Cordova City Hall, or find a viewing spot along White Rock Road between Prospect Park Drive and our eastern City limit. Note: The race start time has been changed to 9:30 AM. Check CityofRanchoCordova. org/Amgen leading up to the race for any additional time changes

Join us at the FREE Festival starting at 8 am in front of Rancho Cordova City Hall to see the riders and experience the excitement. Stop by the City booth for some free blue and gold cheering items, while supplies last.

Host a Viewing Party at home or at work. Stream the race when it goes live Monday afternoon, May 13. Make it a party by serving food and drinks, playing games, decorating with blue and gold colors, or whatever fun idea you come up with.

The City has mailed a race guide to every home in Rancho Cordova to help residents get ready for the festivities on Monday, May 13. The race guide includes background on the race, fun facts, road closures and a map of the race, so keep an eye on your mailbox. The race guide and additional information are also available by visiting CityofRanchoCordova.org/ Amgen.

Sorry, Democrats, Your Stars Are Socialists

There was Bernie Sanders at a Fox News Channel town compelling stars of the party hall, not giving an inch in a forum every Democratic presidential candidate has shunned.

His reward was a cataract of good reviews, and monster ratings. Sanders had a solid hour to try to reach people not favorably inclined to his worldview, at the very least ond -- sometimes first -- in demonstrating that he's willing to show up outside his political silo.

Why hadn't any of the it before? Because they lacked the verve and ideological self-confidence of Sanders, as well as the independent streak to buck the Democratic Party's attempt to hold the line against Fox. As a message candidate, Sanders is willing to take his anywhere.

Speaker Nancy Pelosi, miraculously transformed into a relatively moderate Democratic elder stateswoman, has been pushing back against the notion that she leads a socialist party defined by a few radicals in the House.

On "60 Minutes," she stalwartly declared: "I do reject socialism as a economic system. If people have that view, that's their view. That is not the view of the Democratic Party." She dismissed the left wing in her caucus as "like, five people."

In sheer numbers this is true, but it's the wrong way to count

The fact is that the most are self-declared socialists with a knack for generating controversy and media attention, and with committed mass followings. Pelosi might wish it weren't true, but poll numbers, fundraising and follower counts don't lie. Sanders is reliably secnational and state presidential polling. He's outraised everyone else in the field and, with his massive small-donor other Democrats done base, probably can continue to do so for the duration. More than anyone else, he has defined the Democratic Party's current agenda.

It'll be much harder to maintain that the Democratic Party isn't socialist if it nominates one as its presidential candidate, which everyone paying attention realizes is a real possibility.

If this happens, it won't be the work of conservatives hoping to negatively brand the Democrats, but of the party's faithful. The same Synd., Inc.

goes for the prominence of Alexandria Ocasio-Cortez. She has been on the cover of Time magazine, Rolling Stone (with Nancy Pelosi), Hollywood Reporter and Bloomberg Businessweek. Annie Leibovitz photographed her for Vogue. She's been interviewed by "60 Minutes."

She was among the top 10 House Democrats in fundraising the first quarter, and had the highest percentage of small donors (her ally, Ilhan Omar, also excelled).

It's obviously vexing to Pelosi to see a House majority built by the careful avoidance of ideological extravagance and won in marginal districts hijacked, at least in terms of public attention, by a few freshmen and a 77-year-old Vermont socialist.

Yes, there are vast numbers of Democrats out there who aren't on Twitter or Instagram. Maybe there are enough of them to nominate Joe Biden, or a Pete Buttigieg can win on a progressive platform clothed in a moderate demeanor.

But the party's stars will have something to say about it. The great Zionist Theodor Herzl maintained, "It is the simple and fantastic which leads men." As Bernie Sanders showed, it's also willing to go on Fox News.

Effective Life Change Deal with Structural Issues

By Chris Cheney

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) -Someone tried to break into her home in the middle of the night. He'd already broken into the neighbor's. She prayed specifically. The thief left all of the stolen items on a neighbor's lawn. Find out what specific prayer is and how to do it.

This true experience illustrates how the secure structure of our daily lives often seems interrupted by the unexpected.

a bit of a metaphor for our lives," says practitiospeaker Janet Hegarty. "Permanent, substantive change in our lives often needs more than a new look, a different job, or even a pill. To find lasting peace and even physical healing, we have to go deeper than just managing Carmichael. Her ideas surface symptoms."

Hegarty continues, "Like a building needs a based method of healing strong foundation, we can called Christian Science. find a secure life foundation by discovering the unfailing source of our being. This source is the one, all-good God-not with Key to the Scriptures, speaker for a free, public talk on "How to Make Change for the Better."

an unpredictable man in "This example can be the sky who arbitrarily blesses some and condemns others, but Life ner of Christian Science and Love itself, the very healing and international Principle of everything real and good."

> Hegarty will give a free, public talk exploring this fresh perspective of God titled, "How to make change for the better," on Thursday, May 9 @ 7 PM: 4949 Kenneth Ave. come from the Bible and are practiced in a prayer-Christian Science is fully explained in the book, which Hegarty will reference, Science and Health written by the movement's founder, Mary Baker Eddy.

Hegarty will also share her own experiences that illustrate effective change, like being cured of an allergy and recovering from a sudden career derailment.

Before becoming a Christian Science practitioner, Janet Hegarty had a career producing original music for theatre and film. Though finding success, she felt an underlying sense of fear for her health and uncertainty about the future. The new concepts about God found in Christian Science moved her to a feeling of fulfillment and security. More than a superficial change in attitude, Hegarty felt the life-changing power of God's goodness.

Today she helps others find this kind of healing too, and travels from her home base of St. Louis, MO, to talk with audiences as a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship.

Janet Hegarty is available for interviews. Contact Chris Cheney at 916-285-5666.

Rotary Funds Training to Prevent Human Trafficking

Story by Shaunna Boyd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Human trafficking is a $150 billion industry and is the fast-growing criminal activity in the world. California has the highest volume of sex trafficking, and the Sacramento region is a hotbed for trafficking in the United States.

The local Rotary District 5180 has undertaken a largescale campaign to combat the issue of human trafficking in the Sacramento Region.

Rotary members Brian Gladden and Bob Deering (former District Governor) than three years ago. Through their research, they discovered that education is the key to preventing human trafficking. District 5180 raised more than $383,000 in grant funding to educate youth and the general public about the risks of human trafficking.

District 5180 partnered with local non-profit 3Strands Global in a public awareness campaign that reached approximately 78 million people.

Deering spoke at a recent Fair Oaks Rotary meeting to explain just how insidious trafficking is in our area and to update local Rotary members about the project's progress.

Deering said that traffickers initially contact most victims online and that approximately 65% of the victims come from broonline begins showing them love and attention, the children are extremely vulnerable to becoming a trafficking victim.

Deering explained that one of the reasons Sacramento has such high trafficking rates is due to the prevalence of gang activity. He said that trafficking is "quickly becoming the number one revenue producer for gangs."

While drugs can only be sold once and there are numerous risks in obtaining more to sell, the traffickers view young people as merchandise that can be sold repeatedly.

Because Interstate 5 and Highway 80 both run right through the Sacramento region, traffickers can easily transport victims throughout the state. Deering said that the practice of frequently moving the victims to new locations leaves them in a constant state of confusion because they don't know where they are or how to find help.

Deering said that the initiated the project more project's most important component was getting the 3Strands Global educational trainings into local schools. Deering described AB 1227. the Human Trafficking Prevention Education and Training Act, which was sponsored by 3Strands Global Foundation and signed into law in 2017.

The law requires California public schools to train county leadership, administrators, and educators in how to identify children who have been, or who are at risk of being, exploited — as well as how to proceed when potential victims are identified. The schools must also provide human trafficking prevention education at least once in middle school and once in high school as part of sexual health education.

Due to the passage of ken homes. When a stranger AB 1227, Deering thought it would be easy to get the 3Strands curriculum into local schools, especially since District 5180 would be paying for it with grant funds. But Deering soon found that navigating the politics of the local school boards was no easy feat.

At many of the schools, Deering said it took months for the local curriculum committees to review and approve the 3Strands training curriculum. He explained that some individuals at the schools didn't appreciate outsiders coming in and suggesting curriculum improvements and that those individuals believed the schools already knew how to handle the problem.

Deering said they also dealt with one angry parent who mistakenly got the impression that the training targeted students of color. Her frequent complaints that the training was racist made that particular school board initially hesitant to accept the trainings.

But Deering knew just how crucial it was to bring these trainings to the students, especially because the average age of trafficking victims is 12 - 14 years old. So they kept pushing, and now they have educated over 25,000 students and more than 650 teachers.

The trainings are already having a significant impact. Deering said that at each training, at least a few students approach the trainers afterward to say they now recognize they were being groomed for trafficking or that they are already being trafficked and want help getting out.

Students surveyed after the trainings say that they can define human trafficking, they understand how traffickers recruit victims, they know how to contact the human trafficking hotline, and they know how to protect themselves and others from trafficking.

Deering expressed his thanks to all the clubs in the District for supporting this project. He estimates that the remaining grant money will be spent by the end of the year, so he asked that local clubs consider using some of their funds to sponsor trainings in their neighborhood schools.

"We want to find ways to keep this going even after the initial funding runs out."  $\star$

STD Awareness: Prevent, Test, Treat

By Andrea Sandoval, Sacramento County

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Three common STDs - chlamydia, gonorrhea and syphilis - are surging across the United States, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and especially hard-hit are those between 15-24 years old, which are estimated to account for half of all new sexually transmitted infections each year.

Sacramento County is no exception. In 2017, there were 5,581 reported cases of chlamydia, 1,174 gonorrhea cases, and 97 syphilis cases reported among this same age group.

"Looking at the issues that can threaten the health and well-being of our children, families and communities, the Sacramento County Public Health Division works to raise awareness of critical health issues and provides the information and tools to help prevent chronic diseases and infectious disease outbreaks," said Sacramento County Public Health Officer Dr. Olivia Kasirye.

The consequences of STDs are especially severe for young people. Chlamydia and gonorrhea often have no symptoms; therefore, many infections go undiagnosed and can lead to lifelong repercussions for a woman's reproductive health, including pelvic inflammatory disease and infertility.

Early detection through testing is key to avoiding these consequences, yet research has shown many young people don't talk with their health providers about sexual health issues at all during annual health visits.

All but eradicated 20 years ago, syphilis is making a comeback. In 2017, California was reported to have the second highest syphilis rates in the U.S. by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention; And Sacramento County last year saw three times the number of cases than in 2015.

Although syphilis is treatable with antibiotics, for those who aren't treated, the infection can be dormant for years and lead to neurological or cardiovascular complications. Mothers with untreated syphilis can transmit the disease to their unborn babies with dire consequences – including blindness, developmental delays, physical deformities, and death.

Another trend the Department of Health Services has become aware of is the overlap of syphilis and meth use. The divisions of Public Health and Behavioral Health's Alcohol and Drug Services are working together and this issue will be a topic for the upcoming May 9 Sacramento County Methamphetamine Coalition Meeting.

Sacramento County Director of the Department of Health Services Dr. Peter Beilenson said, "Meth use can increase risky behavior, which increases the odds of contracting sexually transmitted infections. To preserve health and prevent the spread of disease to others, it is important to know your risks, learn how to prevent STDs, get tested for STDs and get treated."

The total reported in Sacramento County for all ages in 2017: 9,803 Chlamydia cases; 3,344 Gonorrhea cases; 454 Syphilis cases (primary/secondary/early latent)

STDs: Prevent, Test, Treat

To prevent the spread of STDs, the Sacramento County Division of Public Health's HIV/STD Prevention Program provides residents with a variety of STD/HIV prevention and education services including: STD/HIV education and prevention information and condom distribution; Chlamydia and gonorrhea screening; HIV antibody testing and risk reduction counseling; Linkage to HIV and STD treatment; Community involvement through the Sacramento Workgroup to Improve Sexual Health and the HIV Health Services Planning Council; Other STD/HIV outreach activities and social marketing campaigns.

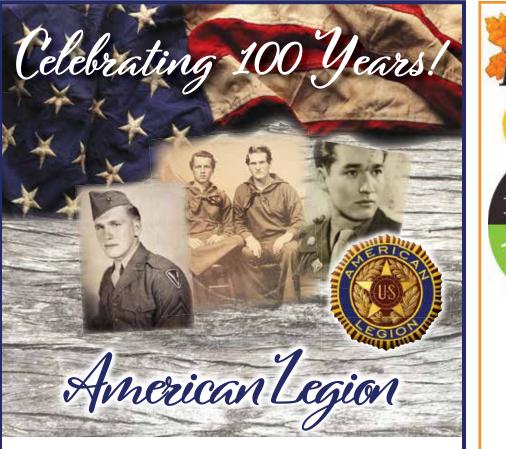

In addition, the Sacramento County program funds and promotes other local community organizations and HIV/STD testing sites, provides free home chlamydia/gonorrhea tests for women and promotes local pharmacies that provide non-prescription sale of syringes to reduce the spread of blood-borne diseases.

Getting tested for STDs is one of the most important things a person can do to protect their health, but it's not the only thing. There are several ways to prevent STDs.

The most reliable way is to not have sex, but there are many options if you are sexually active: talk openly with partners and healthcare providers about your sexual health; get testing for STDs including HIV; use latex or polyurethane condoms correctly and each time you have sex; and know the sexual histories of your sexual partners.

If you test positive for an STD get treated right away - and be sure your partner is also treated to lower the risk of getting infected again. And finally, if you are a parent, talk to your kids about STDs and their sexual health.

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Cordova Lancers boys' varsity volleyball team may have only won a single game this spring during their 2019 season, but within the walls of the Cordova High School gym, the improvement within the program is all the talk.

On the scoreboard, the Lancers' lone victory came at Natomas on March 21. But according to Cordova head coach Mark Reuter, many smaller victories were had every day throughout the season as his young team worked on their craft.

"Every season is filled with promise, and this one was filled with many matches that showed the promise of a young team," he said. "Cordova volleyball has continued to improve every year that I've been with the program, and this year was no exception. Having a JV team this year greatly helps with continuity and allowing the varsity program to build on existing skills instead of going from the ground up."

This year's team headded.

Story by James Darnell featured a graduating class that included outside hitter Gabrienn Acuna, middle blocker Daniel Aniceto, and two team captains in outside hitter Thuan Tat and libero Thomas Drobkov. The leadership on and off the court by the upperclassmen has helped set an example that Reuter hopes the younger players on the team will follow as they continue to develop and help the program improve.

> Looking ahead to next season, Reuter is looking forward to a trio of seniorsto-be in Kenny Brown, RJ Stallworth and Jehosophat de Vera, who will be relied upon as cornerstones of next year's team. Juniorto-be Marius Culibaba will also be counted on as an on-court captain.

According to Reuter, the improvement of Brown and Stallworth will be keys to their success going forward.

"Both of them are very athletic and dynamic players, quickly picking up the overall goals and body knowledge required to accomplish those goals," *
