The Case of Janus v. AFSCME

U.S. Supreme Court Rules Against Unions By Rich Peters, MPG Editor

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- This week the United States Supreme Court ruled in the case of Janus v. AFSCME that government workers can no longer be forced to contribute to labor unions that represent them in collective bargaining, dealing a heavy financial blow to public sector unions.

This revokes a 41-year-old decision that required employees to pay union fees to the state unions that represented them whether or not the workers chose to join.

Mark Janus works as a childsupport specialist for the Illinois Department of Healthcare and Family Services. Janus, who is not a union member, challenged the $45 per month that is deducted from his paycheck. That deduction goes to the local branch of the American Federation of State, County, and Municipal Employees.

Janus argued that any form of required payment to cover the cost of collective bargaining violates the First Amendment because it finances speech by the union intended to influence the government.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Noted last year as the closest recorded bald eagle nest to Sacramento, the same eyrie was this summer blessed with more eaglet babies. These made debut flights earlier this month.

Orangevale kindergarten pupils named the 2017 hatchlings Poppy and Peekaboo. Now 15 months old, these juveniles are established in new American River territory. The children retained naming rights and this year honored explorer Admiral Richard Byrd by choosing "Byrd" for the Alpha chick. They decided on "Rainbow" for the youngest. The twins busted from baseball-size eggs a week before they were first photographed on March 23.

Nourished by non-stop room service, they achieved their parents' great size in 12 weeks. At 13 weeks, they spread seven-foot wings and flew. Genders are yet uncertain; popular lore has the precocious Alpha

It's a First Class Fourth

By Shelly Blanchard, Cordova Community Council

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG)

- Two days of carnival rides, music, food and fireworks kick off Tuesday, July 3 as the Rancho Cordova Fourth of July Celebration kicks rolls into high gear for Rancho Cordova's biggest community bash.

Gates open at 4 p.m. on July 3 and noon on July 4 for two great days of fun. Admission is $2 and parking is $10.

July 3 features a focus on the 15th Birthday of the City of Rancho Cordova. The City is celebrating by sharing free LED wristbands synched up to concerts and fireworks shows, great on-stage performances and the return of a favorite Fourth of July attraction for all ages: the Lorikeet Encounter. All festival events will be open on July 3 from 4-11 p.m. The Happy Birthday Fireworks show features a choreographed show set to favorite birthday music.

July 4 features a long and busy schedule with the Rancho Cordova Fourth of July Parade at 10 a.m., which travels down Coloma Road before turning down Chase Drive. The parade will feature an astounding eight high school marching bands, all competing for cash prizes and bragging rights, sure to make for a great show.

The action in Hagan Park begins at noon when the gates open for another full day of activities which wrap up with the Rancho Cordova Fourth of July Fireworks Spectacular, the most artfully planned fireworks show in the region, all synched up to thousands of LED wristbands in the audience for what promises to be a stunning sight. Visitors can pick up their LED wristbands beginning at 4 p.m. each day while supplies last.

Free Kids Zone attractions include pony rides, petting zoo, Lorikeet encounter, Aerial Assault trampoline show, Crocker Art Museum Art Ark, military exhibits, archery tag, game truck, laser tag and more.

The California Carnival Company returns with favorite rides and games, and the Sacramento Cornhole Association will host their first-ever Fourth of July Cornhole tournament. There is something for everyone, organizers promised.

The Rancho Cordova Fourth of July Celebration, now in its 34th year, will attract 25,000 visitors to Hagan Park over the two days. The event is produced by the Cordova Community Council and an army of volunteers. For full details and information, visit www.ranchocordovajuly4th.com. ★ The unions argued that their alleged fair share fees pay for collective bargaining and other work the union does on behalf of all employees, not just its members. More than half the states already have right-to-work laws in place that ban mandatory fees, but most members of public-employee unions heavily populate the states that do not, including New York, California and Illinois.

The court's final ruling states:

"Neither an agency fee nor any other payment to the union may be deducted from a nonmember's wages, nor may any other attempt be made to collect such a payment, unless the employee affirmatively consents to pay." (p. 48)

The unions believe that the outcome could affect more than five million government workers across roughly two dozen states and the District of Columbia. Those workers' paychecks are heavily funded by the unauthorized dues collected from employees like Janus around the country. A 2015 national report showed that the average union president makes $170,000 annually in states with compulsory dues but only $132,000 in states with voluntary dues -a $38,000 difference.

"Big loss for the coffers of the Democrats!" President Donald Trump tweeted after the 5-4 vote. The court ruled that the laws violate the First Amendment by forcing workers to support and pay unions they disagree with.

Dave Dravecky Pays Visit to Raley Field

Former Giant Throws Out First Pitch

A long line of fans waited to meet Dave Dravecky on a hot Friday night. Doyle and Rhonda Radford and their children Mason and Ellie were happy to get a few autographs from the former Giant.

WEST SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Former San Francisco Giant Dave Dravecky was honored by the Sacramento River Cats last Friday night. Dravecky held a meet and greet with fans prior to the game before throwing out the first pitch and then taking the time to sign autographs for a long line of fans during the early innings.

Dravecky played in parts of eight seasons with the San Diego Padres and San Francisco Giants from 1982-1989. He made his Major League debut with the was an all-star in 1983. The lefthander was acquired by San Francisco in 1987 and was 11-7 with a 3.22 ERA in 27 starts for the Giants.

A cancerous tumor was found in Dravecky's throwing arm in 1988 and, after a brief comeback, unfortunately ended his career during the Giants 1989 World Series run.

After several surgeries, his left arm continued to deteriorate. On June 18, 1991, less than two vears after his comeback with the Giants, Dravecky's left arm and shoulder were amputated. While his baseball career came Padres on June 15, 1982 and to an end, Dravecky has since gone on to have a successful career as an author and motivational speaker.

"The challenges I've faced in the years following have taught me volumes and I now travel the country sharing the lessons I've learned-lessons on how to navigate loss and suffering, and how to experience encouragement and hope," says Dravecky.

His story is an inspiration to Giants fans, baseball enthusiasts and beyond and that was clear to see through the admiration that he was shown at Raley Field. Visit davedravecky.com for more of his story.

as male; the timid Rainbow as female. Like Byrd's heroic namesake, the Alpha explored air, land and water during his dramatic maiden flight.

Fledge days are stressful for parents and observers. Flapping boldly between trees on June 11, Byrd over-flew home base. His triumph rapidly turned to trial. The novice clipped a high fence to crash-land near a public trail. Without strength or experience for ground-level takeoff, his confusion was agonizing. For 30 minutes, he beat a clumsy to-and-fro on the clay path. Observers formed a mobile shield against dogs and joggers until Byrd at last gathered speed and crested the fence to safety. Even after this trauma, the firstborn refused to return to the nest. He ignored his sister's anguished cries; he defied mama's voluble instructions. Explorer Byrd completed extraordinary traverses over the river at its widest. He drank from the waterside.

While on the lam, the eaglet was brought enough fish to prevent starvation but not so much as to reward rebellion. After three days, his parents coaxed him back to the family buffet.

Compared to Byrd's surfmanaged a text book effort.

Fueled by a room-service diet of fish, reptiles and rodents, the eaglets quickly grew juvenile feathers in place of hatchling fuzz.

A non-stop relay of prey ensured the eaglets' rapid growth.

Early on June 13, her papa delivered breakfast and evidently issued flying orders. Rainbow launched and, talons trailing untidily, flew 50-yards to an adjacent pine. Here she lurched before gaining confidence for the home flight. Papa soon encouraged an encore. This time, the debutant fell asleep on a foreign branch before heading home.

Born in the USA

Having raised at least three previous broods, Mama Bald is a nursery pro. Her mate is younger - this is only his second adult season - but he is now a prolific hunter and confident dad. The parents' combination of proand-turf debut, his little sister tection and tough-love comes with sacrifice. Exhausted four months of 24/7 hunting, mama and papa are now completing their parenting season. The nest is collapsing under the strain of many clumsy landings and sibling food-fights.

Repairs can wait. If this season follows the 2017 template - Byrd and Rainbow will be left in the care of sub-adult relatives while Mama and Papa wing off on distant vacation. By fall, they should return to rebuild and prep for a 2019 family. Hard lessons in self-sufficiency loom for the 2018 babies.

A testament to the regeneration of a species threated with extinction only 50 years ago, this American River family is well now established in Sacramento County suburbia. The raptors' on-going residence is a joy to human neighborhoods in their flight-path.

Like the nation they represent, bald eagles are resilient. They're also selfless providers, committed to family. They are single-minded in preparing children for independence. They control vermin populations; they neither waste nor pollute. By instinct, they are fantastic stewards of the natural world.

Our national icon is wellchosen. From these fellow Americans, we might learn much.

RCPD Introduces New Problem Oriented Policing Officer

By Ashley Downton, City of Rancho Cordova

RANCHO CORDOVA. CA (MPG) - The Rancho Cordova Police Department is proud to introduce you to our new Problem Oriented Policing (POP) Officer William Winton! Officer Winton serves residents in the Anatolia, Cordova Meadows, Kavala Ranch, Lincoln Village, Somerset Ranch and Sunridge Park Neighborhoods.

When he was 18 years old, Officer Winton remembers working at Best Buy and watching the planes hit the Twin Towers live on the jumbotron. His entire family had served in the U.S. Navy, and this crucial moment made him want to do his part to serve our country.

Officer Winton enlisted in the U.S. Army and joined the infantry assigned to the Fort Campbell, Kentucky 101st Airborne Division. He deployed to Iraq in 2003 and served during Operation Iraqi Freedom and Operation Enduring Freedom. He was honorably discharged in 2005.

He wanted to continue giving back either by serving in the fire department or law enforcement. He was working at Mervyn's in Rancho Cordova in the Loss Prevention Department, and RCPD partnered with his team to detain individuals for shoplifting. An officer encouraged him to follow the path to join the Sacramento County Sheriff's Department, and Officer Winton did just that.

Officer Winton attended and graduated from the Sacramento County Sheriff's Department Academy in 2006. He worked for the Department for the next 10 years in the Main Jail and Patrol. Officer Winton enjoys teaching and is also a Firearms Instructor mostly for the Academy for the last four years, in addition to serving as a training officer at the Rio Cosumnes Correctional Center.

In July 2016, Officer Winton joined RCPD as a Patrol Officer. He was familiar with our community due to his time working at Mervyn's and on patrol training in Rancho Cordova.

New POP Officer William Winton attended and graduated from the Sacramento County Sheriff's Department Academy in 2006. He worked for the Department for the next 10 years in the Main Jail and Patrol

"I wanted to come back to and serve the Rancho Cordova community," said Officer Winton. "There are also additional opportunities at the Rancho Cordova Police Department to grow your experience as an officer in a variety of areas, such as in driving under the influence and traffic enforcement, which you can't find at other departments."

In 2017, Officer Winton joined the Problem Oriented Policing (POP) team. He enjoys building relationships with residents through community events and supporting residents by assisting with neighborhood concerns.

"I want to continue making the Rancho Cordova community a safer and better place for our residents to live," said Officer Winton. "I also want to partner with Neighborhood Watch groups and homeowners associations to create new programs and foster an even greater sense of community in Rancho Cordova neighborhoods."

Come meet Officer Winton at the next Neighborhood Watch Meeting. Visit www. RanchoCordovaPD.com for a map to easily identify and contact your POP officer and neighborhood officer. Simply enter your address, and the officer information will pop up.

Capitol City Mopars Invade Hagan Park for 25th Car Show

Get Together is the Largest All-Mopar Judged Car Show and Swap Meet in Northern California

Story and photos by David Jayne

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - For some of us, it's a 1958 Plymouth Fury. Other times, it may be the Chrysler 300. It may be a 50's boat or survivor Plymouth Road Runner Superbird that the 70-year-old owner was contemplating putting the six pack carburetors back on the day of the show. Whatever your poison, you could find it at the annual Mopars in the Park Show held at Hagan Park this past weekend.

Having known and loved Dodge/Chrysler/ Plymouth vehicles my entire life means this show is a pilgrammage not to be missed. You could find cars in colors like Top Banana Yellow, Plum Crazy Purple, Panther Pink, Tor Red, Sassy Grass, Sublime or Go Mango Orange. You could see incredibly rare offerings like AAR Cudas and fully customized 1966 Plymouth Satellites to feed that hunger all day, but really, who doesn't love the sound and feel of a monster 440 cubic inch engine in a 1970 Dodge Challenger?

The sounds and smells of American muscle has to be experienced to be believed. It's easy to forget how powerful these cars are and what the world was like at this particular point in our American history. But one trip back to this Mopar show is enough to get the juices flowing all over again. Enjoy, all my petrol head friends, enjoy!

By Bob McGarvey

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG)

- There are many things that become part of our history, and on June 22, 2018, my wife and I went to an event that is now part of our history and part of the children who moved on to their middle school (whatever that one may be). We went to the Robert J. McGarvey Elementary School Promotion Ceremony for Tracks A, B and C of the 6th graders. There were over 30 students who received different awards. They received awards from their teachers, the district, the principal, and more from the vice principal. It was a wonderful event that we were able to go to, because as you know, at times your original plans don't work out. Being honored by having a school named after you still keeps me stunned. I was asked to lead our Pledge of Allegiance at the ceremony and that was quite an honor too. The all-purpose room was where the ceremony was held, and it was filled with families and friends who came to watch and honor their 6th graders move on to the next steps of their education.

And another thing that crossed my mind is how important it is in our schools to teach our kids how much will depend on them as they grow up. The principal of the McGarvey school, Mr. Gulden, and many others included their school's Mission Statement in the program, "Our Robert J. McGarvey educational community develops inquiring, knowledgeable, and caring young people who take pride and responsibility in solving complex problems to create a more peaceful world." There are many children today in least can see what is possible.

In the movie South Pacific, the song "You've Got to Be Carefully Taught" is sung by one of the lead singers who falls in love with a young girl who is a native of the islands where he is fighting in World War II. He is talking about some of the things he was taught early in his life that he can't accept. "You've got to be taught to be afraid, of people whose eyes are oddly made, and people whose skin is a different shade, you've got to be carefully taught. You've got to be taught before it's too late, before you are six or seven or eight ... "

I hope you have had a chance to see the movie, and maybe your kids (who like musicals) have seen it too. The music is very enjoyable, but it can also make people think about how easily children can change or be changed. Things are changing so rapidly today, but the most important things that are changing are how the machines change our children's minds. Whether it was how children were changed in the past or not, we have to watch how our children (and ourselves) are changing for both the good and the bad.

And another thing going on today in 2018 - even with all the events which are 100 years old or more this year - is the League of California Cities is celebrating its 120th anniversary this year. Congratulations to the League and all it has done for the cities of California. Even with the 15 years that Rancho Cordova has been a city, the City of Rancho Cordova has seen quite a few changes as members of the League. We have even had some of our City Council members like Ken Cooley and David Sander on boards and positions of the League. Some of the rest of us have been members of committees as well. I just noticed that 120-year anniversary today

Declaration of Independence in Hagan Park. It stated, "We the undersigned residents of the greater Rancho Cordova community, including the neighborhoods of Tiffany, Lincoln Village, and Countryside, do hereby declare our intention to incorporate and become a sovereign city, thus forming an independent municipal government whereby we may improve our community's quality of life. It is our wish to strengthen our community image and spirit, increase public safety, improve local education, lessen traffic congestion, and provide a healthy mix of superior housing and safe neighborhoods for those who wish to make this wonderful community their life-long home. Our goal is to allow for local control by electing residents of Rancho Cordova as community leaders, to create a balanced community of industry, commerce, and residences, and to work alongside leaders of other nearby communities to make our region a great place to live, work, and play that will be an example not only for California, but for America."

When this was signed, the County Supervisors hadn't yet approved the papers from the Sacramento Local Agency Formation Commission, or set the election date. They did later that month of July 2002, and we were ready to decide on incorporation.

My copy of this declaration is only a picture, and I must admit I can't read all 26 signatures under the declaration, so I am not going to say only a few and miss the rest. However, I will get the rest of the signatures and will put them in in my next column.

From Vice Mayor Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time.

Riley Reviews COME FOR THE THRILLS OF DINOSAURS LOOSE IN "JURASSIC WORLD"

A Film Review by Tim Riley

JURASSIC WORLD: FALLEN KINGDOM (Rated PG-13)

Three years ago the theme park and luxury resort that was "Jurassic World" on Isla Nublar was destroyed by dinosaurs out of containment. "Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom" brings the main players back to the island that now resembles a post-apocalyptic vision.

The "Jurassic World" sequel explores the motivations of various players who return to the abandoned island off the coast of Costa Rica when the dormant volcano threatens to blow everything to bits.

Only briefly, Jeff Goldblum returns as Dr. Malcolm, warning Congress that Mother Nature charts her own course and saving prehistoric beasts from extinction may not be wise. The thought of "I told you so" may come to mind later, probably even more so in an inevitable sequel.

Meanwhile, former park manager Claire Dearing (Bryce Dallas Howard) travels to an isolated forested area where the reclusive raptorwhisperer Owen Grady (Chris Pratt) is building his own cabin overlooking a scenic vista.

Having evolved into an animal-rights activist fixed on the previously extinct variety, Claire is very much aware that the prehistoric creatures need to be relocated to a new sanctuary, for which the details seem to be a little hazy.

Once romantically-linked to the Indiana Jones-type explorer, Claire now appeals to Owen's deep connection to the velociraptor named Blue that he had nurtured from a hatchling and trained to show empathy to match its innate intelligence.

The former partner of the now-deceased John Hammond, the eccentric dying tycoon Benedict Lockwood (James Cromwell), runs his empire out of a creepy, gothic mansion, which has a massive subterranean lab and holding cells being used by corrupt geneticist Dr. Henry Wu (BD Wong).

Lockwood's precocious 10-year-old granddaughter Maisie (Isabella Sermon), lives at the estate under the care of her nanny, Iris (Geraldine Chaplin). She becomes a pivotal character in learning bad things are happening that her incapacitated grandfather would not approve.

The right-hand man in charge of Lockwood's affairs, Eli Mills (Rafe Spall) recruits Claire and Owen to corral the dinosaurs and assorted beasts in an expedition to transport them to a private reserve. Like many others, Mills probably has a scheme up his sleeve.

The operation itself requires a lot of resources and manpower, which end up being overseen by ruthless mercenary Ken Wheatley (Ted Levine) using trigger-happy goons to fulfill his own secret agenda.

Besides Claire and Owen. the only decent folks on the rescue effort are offbeat veterinarian Dr. Zia Rodriguez (Daniella Pineda) and hacker Franklin Webb (Justice Smith), a tech nerd nervously uncomfortable with the multiple dangers lurking in the jungle.

Having been lead astray by the malignant desires of Lockwood's people, the group of four plucky heroes take on the herculean task of trying to thwart the venal Wheatley's greedy schemes to cash in on a huge payday.

There's plenty of great action on the island, from Owen desperately rescuing Claire and Franklin from a gyroscope sinking into the ocean to dodging fast-moving lava to the perils of interactions with the dinosaurs. It's the formula that has worked before.

Added twists come in the form of double-crosses and the revelations of sinister motivations that infect everybody except the intrepid heroes and the smart little girl fending mostly for herself at the Lockwood estate.

Working out of the cavernous basement of the Lockwood gothic mansion, Dr. Wu, the mad scientist, has gone rogue with his unholy tampering with dinosaur DNA to create the genetically monstrosity known as the Indoraptor.

This creature is deadly not only because of its size but also due intelligence, speed and ability to follow orders when properly inclined. Dr.

Wu has created the perfect weapon and the Lockwood's underground lair is turned into an auction house for nefarious buyers.

The astute moviegoer should know that in a movie like this the best laid plans of malevolent schemers could easily go awry when the gutsy band of heroes assisted by Maisie throw a wrench into the works.

The guilty pleasure of "Jurassic World" is seeing a bunch of bad people getting the poetic, if not brutal and savage, justice of learning the hard way not to mess with altering vicious beasts for their own self-serving exploitation.

Despite it all, the draw of "Jurassic World: Fallen Kingdom" is seeing the dynamic action of beasts rampaging through the island with lava at their backs, posing threats to humans and busting loose from cages in a vicious stampede.

MANAGAN P

All Their Hard Work Goes Up in Smoke

Story and photos by David Dickstein

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) -

On a rare private tour inside one of the world's biggest fireworks factories, deep in China's mountainous Hunan Province where pyrotechnics were invented over a millennium ago, an American journalist surprises his hosts by veering off the footpath on the sprawling grounds. The large single-story building with busy workers inside looks too intriguing not to make a pop-in.

"Oh, excuse me ... OK, OK, go ahead," chirps Hengda Fireworks' factory manager Wang Qunying in translated Mandarin, smiling and showing no signs of concern over what the writer for Messenger Publishing Group may see inside. The impromptu detour causes a bit of a stir for the 35 or so employees inside. All women and wearing company-issued blue coats to offset a springtime chill, their surprised reaction could be more about their boss' presence and less a rare Caucasian visitor with a camera. Within a minute, however, the spacious assembly room is back in full production for a visual this assertive foreigner finds absolutely fascinating, not unlike how Charlie felt upon first sight of the diligent Oompa-Loompas.

What revelers throughout Sacramento County will light off and be dazzled with for maybe a minute or two requires an army of people and dozens of hours to manufacture. The process involves numerous stages, mostly by hand, and if the work isn't tedious, it's perilous.

Chinese factory workers package and label fireworks by hand, much like they did here over 1,000 years ago

The roomful of hard-working women is where the final stages are performed. Even though they're working with explosives, the task of mixing chemicals and filling cardboard tubes with powder is done by individuals working solo in isolated bunker-like buildings elsewhere on the grounds. It's a messy job mixing the 400 tons of black powder Hengda will need this year, but someone's got to do it -- for the equivalent of $500 to $600 a month, a decent salary in the Hunan Province.

While some of the assembly department workers adhere fuses and tissue paper to the tubes, all manufactured on the premises, others at long tables a few feet away are giving the fireworks their final shape by fitting the precut cardboard pieces together.

The stage before boxing, storing and shipping is labeling, done pretty much the same way for over 1,000 years here -- with bowls of liquid glue, brushes and a lot of stamina for assembly linetype repetition.

For two diligent assemblers in the corner, that and cardboard pieces to form a handle are the supplies needed to put the finishing touches on a beer stein-shaped fountain named Brew Haha, one of Phantom Fireworks' top sellers in California. Since fountains, spinners, novelties and smoke items are the only types legally sold in the Golden State, there's a decent chance these ladies' handiwork will be delighting folks 6,500 miles away. For Sacramento County and parts of Placer County, the legal selling and lighting period is June 28 through July 4.

Hengda sends on slow boats from China, which makes 100 percent of what California will be celebrating with on America's birthday. Located in Liling, which together with Liuyang 50 miles away are the collective heart of China's $4 billion fireworks industry, Hengda is also home of Phantom's popular Funky Monkey, Moondance Premiere and King of Bling, along with fountains bearing the TNT Fireworks brand.

As the factory tour moves away from operations and toward the entrance so we can safely light a sample of products, including Phantom's Illuminati Triangle Fountain debuting in California this season, out of nowhere a throng of chatty blue-jacketed workers joins us on the walkway. It's lunchtime for the factory's 400 employees, and they're scurrying off to the chow line. The faster they eat the more they earn because pay is based on output.

The herd of mostly female workers keeps its distance from the tour group except for one playfully curious woman in probably her late 50s. She yells something lighthearted in Mandarin to friendly colleagues as she catches up with the Caucasian reporter. Feeling puckish, the languagelimited foreigner startles the worker when he stops in front of her and shouts, "Wo ai ni!" which means "I love you." The woman is first taken aback, then breaks into laughter as she clutches her heart.

The affable employee might have thought the visitor was kidding around, but after gaining a better appreciation of the intricate, monotonous and hazardous labor it takes to make something so dazzling, yet fleeting, this newly schooled, fireworks-loving American meant each of those three little words.

Illuminati Triangle Fountain, debuting this season in California, is tested at Hengda Fireworks in China.

Stop playing with gold and silver, and pay off that debt! Dear Dave,

I make about $240,000 annually, and I will be maxing out my 401(k) contributions this year. I have $60,000 in student loan debt I'm trying to pay off, a small amount left on my home mortgage, plus I've been investing in a lot of gold and silver. Those investments are worth about $30,000 right now. In addition to this, I've got $10,000 in cash just sitting in a savings account for emergencies. Should I stop the gold and silver investing, and focus on paying off the loans, or keep splitting my money between them? -Adam

Dear Adam,

I'd stop investing in gold and silver completely. I don't put money in precious metals at all, because they have a lousy longterm track record.

My advice would be to cash out every bit of your gold and silver, and put the money toward paying off your student loans. That would instantly cut your student loan debt in half. Then, with your salary, you should be able to pay off the rest in just a few months.

The key will be to start living on a very strict budget. Don't spend on anything that's not absolutely necessary. I also want you to temporarily stop contributing to your 401(k). Do this just until you get the student loan debt wiped out, then pick it up again like before. If you want to put even more toward retirement, you could check with a quality investment professional - one with the heart of a teacher — to see if you're eligible for a back-door Roth IRA. When it's all said and done, Adam, I want you to have 15 percent of your yearly income going toward retirement.

You already know the value of saving and investing. With your income, once you knock out your debt and begin investing again, you have the very real potential to become a millionaire in just a few years!

June 5 Election Recap

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Final results from the June 5 Statewide Primary Election have been reported and Sacramento County's first election under the Voter's Choice Act (VCA) is one for the books. We sat down with Alice Jarboe, Interim Registrar of Voters for Sacramento County, to catch up on how the election went and learn more about what we can expect for future elections.

How did it go?

With Sacramento County being the largest of the five counties to implement the VCA beginning with the June Primary Election, the pressure was on. The implementation took months and months of planning and coordination by all Sacramento County Department of Voter Registration and Elections (DVRE) staff and what resulted, was a very successful election where voter turnout reached 42 percent, significantly surpassing the 2014 Statewide Primary Election of 29.6 percent.

Voters in Sacramento County were very receptive to the new voting model and took advantage of the Vote by Mail option, returning a record breaking amount, higher than the past three Primary Elections. In fact, based on the results from the Voter Experience Survey, 79 percent of respondents said they were very satisfied or satisfied with their overall voting experience.

What were the top three questions the department received?

What security measures were taken?

Every precaution was taken to safeguard the system and all data is housed on a secure closed network with no internet connection. Additionally, access to the system and ballots is limited to authorized employees under 24/7 surveillance and all staff, both permanent and temporary are sworn in as election officers and anytime there is a ballot in the room, there are always two or more people present.

This year, the results released on election night were different than in years past. While they still included any Vote by Mail (VBM) ballots received by June 2, the difference was the low volume of in-person votes from Vote Centers.

When will the ballots be processed and counted?

This year, the results released on election night were different than in years past. While they still included any Vote by Mail (VBM) ballots received by June 2, the difference was the low volume of in-person votes from Vote Centers. In total, there were only 18,104 in-person votes and 106,505 VBM ballots to report election night. Since the majority of voters waited until June 5 to return their VBM ballot, those were not included in the initial results but counted in the days and weeks after the election.

It's important to remember that getting timely received Vote by Mail ballots through the verification processes such as comparing signatures, separating ballots from envelopes, unfolding the ballots and finally, counting them, does take time. For those concerned with how long it took to release final results, this election was actually certified faster than the November 2014, June 2016 and November 2016 elections.

What are the hours of operation and locations of Drop Boxes and Vote Centers?

Under the VCA, traditional polling places were replaced with 78 Vote Centers where voters could go to any open location to register, drop their ballot off or vote in person. Additionally, we more than tripled the number of secure Drop Box locations.

Although we do encourage residents to make a plan for how they want to return their ballot, there was some confusion over Drop Box locations hours of operation. Since these were inside the designated facilities, they were only accessible during the facilities business hours but moving forward, we will be working with facilities to have more uniform hours for all the locations. Additionally, we will be redesigning the maps and reference pages in the CVIG and VBM packet to more clearly provide that information to voters.

What can we expect for future elections?

Higher voter turnout. This is an incredibly exciting time and we expect to see increased voter turnout in the November 2018 election. As more voters become familiar with the new voting model, we anticipate more VBM ballots being returned so we are working to prepare for that.

Additional outreach. Based on my 20 years of experience at DVRE, I have found that it takes at least two to three elections for voters to really acclimate to voting changes. As this is the case, we will continue our efforts to educate all residents in Sacramento County about the changes to voting under the VCA and all of the opportunities available to them.

With the November election around the corner, Sacramento County residents can expect to see additional outreach in the coming months. For more information about upcoming elections, registration information or the VCA, visit DVRE's website.
