Heroes and Now Movie Stars Proud Moms Say "They're Still Our Boys"

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - In August 2015, the lives of three young Sacramento men changed forever. Travelling from Amsterdam to Paris by train, Spencer Stone, Alek Skarlatos and Anthony Sadler foiled a terrorist attack and saved countless lives. International fame, a book -- and now a movie -- followed the adventure.

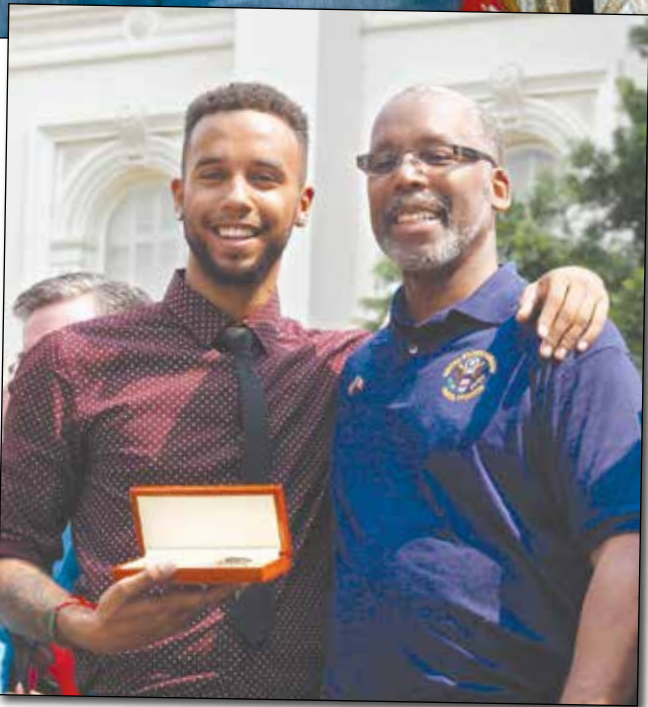

Life will never be the same for their moms, either. Joyce Eskel and Heidi Hansen have a hard time believing their sons -- together with their Rosemont friend Anthony -- are the stars of "15:17 to Paris."

Directed by film legend Clint Eastwood, the movie opens nationally on February 9. Stone, Skarlatos, Sadler and their families enjoyed a private screening last weekend in Sacramento. "The boys had seen the movie once before," explained Joyce Eskel. "They were extra nervous this time because we were all there. We were anxious too: we were seeing our lives exposed for all the world to see."

"The boys are still in awe that they've made a movie with Clint Eastwood," says Heidi Hansen. "He's their

Obey the Law, Go To Jail CA is Officially Out of Control

By MPG Staff

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - "We will prosecute those who violate the law," promised California Attorney General Xavier Becerra on Thursday, January 18th, as he threatened to fine employers, public or private, who voluntarily give information on employees, concerning their legal status to be in the country.

The State's Attorney General, willfully standing up for those breaking the law, warned that those who run business in California will be fined up to $10,000 if they offer any assistance to federal immigration authorities.

Becerra's threats are designed to prevent employers, public or private, from voluntarily sharing confidential employee information without a subpoena and requiring employers to notify their workers before a federal audit of their employee records. It gives the attorney general and labor commissioner exclusive authority to enforce new provisions of state labor laws. It also prohibits employers from re-verifying information on employment verification forms, unless compelled to by federal law.

The chief law officer for the State was blatant in his remarks, "It's important, to let people know, more specifically employers, that if they voluntarily start giving up information about their employees or access to their employees in ways that contradict our new California laws, they subject themselves to actions by my office."

The government of the State of California is officially out of control. ★

Doing, Not Just Talking Mayor Budge Gives Overview to Chamber

Story and photos
by Margaret Snider

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Mayor Linda Budge took a positive look into 2018 at the Rancho Cordova Luncheon on January 19. Budge agrees with previous mayor Donald Terry that Rancho Cordova is a city on the move. "We're actually proactively looking for solutions. We're not going to sit around and wait," Budge said.

Economic development is the most important priority. "Given the curious nature of California's constitution, all of our cities really need economic development in order to thrive," Budge said. Sales tax, which among other things supplies the community enhancement fund, is very important.

Statistics show that over 3,500 businesses have chosen to locate in Rancho Cordova, and over 55,000 talented people work in those businesses. "They're the reason for our thriving economy," Budge said. Though some of those are big business, the majority of the businesses employ 14 or fewer people. "A lot of it is our local homegrown talent," Budge said.

An important City goal has been to provide housing for these thousands of people who come to work in Rancho Cordova. The City has approved the Rio del Oro development, Capital Village is about to "build out," and Elliott Homes models across from Stone Creek Park will open in the spring. The executive apartments going up at Capital Village will open later in the year. “Right now, our city manager, Cyrus, is working with several home builders who actually want to start construction this year,” Budge said. “These are projects that were delayed during the recession, and now they’re very interested in making this happen.”

Dick Stultz, Vietnam veteran, retired Air Force fighter pilot, and artist presented Mayor Linda Budge with a plate he decorated during the January Rancho Cordova Luncheon. It reads, "Her Babeship' Budge," a title Shelly Blanchard gave Budge while introducing her.

Homelessness is a problem that every city in the United States is dealing with. Mather Veterans Village in Phase 1 has provided a home for many of the area’s veterans. Phases 2 and 3 of MVV are going to construction later this year. “It’s taken us seven or eight years to get to this point where we finally are able to provide another hundred homes for both our men and women veterans,” Budge said. “. . . Perhaps we can’t take care of all of the homeless, but we can at least house our homeless veterans.”

Two full time police officers added to the City’s homeless outreach team, the Homeless Navigator, police code enforcement, and a variety of nonprofit organizations add further resources to deal with homelessness. “Rancho Cordova is doing the things that we say, and not just talking about them,” Budge said.

County Supervisor Don Nottoli, present at the luncheon, considers Budge to be a good friend and tremendous leader in Rancho Cordova and the broader community. “Her energy, enthusiasm, and efforts in the City, and collaborative work with regional partners,” Nottoli said, “have been invaluable.”

In 2017 the public works department completed $17 million in improvements. The building out of Folsom Boulevard is one part of another $17 million slated for 2018. The department will carry out sidewalk improvements, and repairs and resurfacing of roads and streets.

Budge went on to describe new Rancho Cordova businesses now open and those coming soon, and the growing barrel district with craft beer, craft cocktails, and mead. She also mentioned the determination to maintain a balanced City budget.

“Whether you live, work, shop, play or just drive through Rancho Cordova, I want to leave you with a very important thought. You will always be proud of Rancho Cordova,” Budge said. “I want to thank every one of you for your part in that.”

Vietnam veteran and retired Air Force fighter pilot Dick Stultz of Fair Oaks attended the luncheon with his wife, Sandy.

They have known Budge since the 1980s. “When it involves anything in Rancho Cordova, Linda Budge is there,” Dick Stultz said. “I thought that little presentation today was just an example of what a professional that woman is.”

Budge has lived in this area for more than 40 years and was the only woman elected to a seat on the first city council when Rancho Cordova became an incorporated city. The council rotates the position of mayor through its members, and this is now her fourth year-long term as mayor. ★

By Bob McGarvey

I watched the news talk about each other the other day. They commented about each other, and of course in today’s news world, the majority of the time was spent criticizing the President. The end result of all the criticism was that they agreed that it is important to continue criticizing the President and that it wasn’t as important to be negative about each other. Personally, I think the news should spend more time reporting about the rest of our country and its people. There are some wonderful people in the USA, and I think they need to be given more coverage than the press will give them. The old saying about “if it bleeds, it leads” is still true, but I have met too many good people who accomplish great things. Their stories should be first instead of last or ignored.

The younger generations are connected in an unprecedented way in a fast-paced world, both to its advantage and disadvantage. Their connections, however, seem to be through different electronic devices that have too much of their attention as they, for example, walk

And Another Thing ...

The News Should Spend More Time Reporting About the Rest of Our Country and its People down the sidewalk not seeing where they are going. The latest of the younger generation, millennial generation, is disconnected from the political system in which the hired public servants forget why they were hired. That could be a good part of the reason they are as disconnected as they seem to be. Today, many people are connected to others of their generation around the world in a way that no other generation could have ever thought of. And as I said earlier, having connections around the world, mainly through social media, has its advantages and disadvantages.

And another thing: the President signed the papers today to have the government operate again, at least until February 8. Then we will see whether the people we hired to go to Washington D.C. have learned that sometimes compromise is the only way they can move forward and make progress. I hope they have learned their lesson in 2018 since they apparently forget that the same thing was done in 2013. Short-term memory? A quote from President Harry S. Truman seems to fit here, “I remember when I first came to Washington. For the first six months you wonder how the hell you ever got here. For the next six months you wonder how the hell the rest of them

The weather is showing some promise about bringing the rain and snow we need to be ready for the coming summer. The next storm should bring more rain for the valley and snow for the Sierra. The prediction is that the snow level could go down to the 2,500 foot level. I hope the rain prediction is correct and that the snow will do the same. We worry about our need for water coming up short and also the millions of trees that have died in the Sierra and in the valley too. With the drought looking around the corner again, the weather is a bit more to talk about than just being the beginning of a conversation.

And speaking of trees, your city has programs to help you with your trees. The program helps put in new, free trees if you want a tree, or helps you remove dead trees or remove tree stumps for free. If you go online and put in www.cityofranchocordova.org/freetrees, you will be able to learn about the programs and who to contact to participate. I mentioned this last year about some dead trees I have seen in Rancho Cordova, and more than one of them was so dead that the mistletoe on the tree was dead too. Now that is really dead.

From Vice Mayor Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

‘Healing for Veterans’ at the Rancho Cordova Library

By Margaret Snider

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The program at the Rancho Cordova Library from 2-3:30 p.m. on Saturday, February 3, is titled Healing for Veterans. But it is meant to help anyone who’s had trauma or extreme grief in their life, and everyone is welcome to come. Admission is free and no registration is necessary. “If you just want to talk, or share, or are ready for a big change in your life, come meet Chris Lambert,” the program brochure states.

At the age of 18, in 1968, Lambert volunteered for the Marines during the Vietnam War. By the time he was 19 he had been wounded three times and was discharged. When he returned home, Lambert said, “If you just did something that in my perception you were in any way trying to go against me, I could turn on you in a heartbeat and hurt you.” Married when he went into the service, his wife eventually divorced him, saying, “I married a sweet, kind, loving young man and you turned into an animal.”

For 12 years he lost himself in alcohol and drugs. He learned to help others with their problems when he went into recovery, but didn’t address his own combat issues until he retired. “I tucked Vietnam into a little private box after I got sober and I didn’t open that box for anybody,” Lambert said. Now 60 years old, married and retired with grown children, he may volunteer 50 hours a week, and presents his program around the country, all on a volunteer basis.

Though the primary function is for combat trauma, his program is not only for veterans. It includes others who have experienced guilt and terrible trauma, who need to forgive themselves and start the healing process. A lot of traumatized people want to run away when they see the doors opening within them. “But the longer you keep it in, it’s going to pick up more momentum in the negative area and the harder it’s going to be,” Lambert said. “Kind of like avoiding a

Groups tend to be more effective than one-on-one therapy, Lambert said. His goal is to let people see that they have opportunities for a better quality of life. He likes to keep his program down to an hour and a half. He has a break within that time, with an eight-minute movie in the middle about the combat experience. “If I do a good job we’ll laugh and we’ll cry, and you’ll learn a bunch,” Lambert said.

He focuses on combat veterans because many of the young kids today have never had any kind of adversity. “We’ve been so busy not hurting their feelings that they have no skills,” Lambert said. “So you take a kid that for 21, 22, or 23 years has virtually seen almost no negative consequences. Then you train them for five, six, seven months, then you throw them into the worst place you could possibly be. And ask them to kill people.” Worst of all is that there is nothing more exciting than a fire fight. “I think Winston Churchill said, ‘The most exciting thing in the world is being shot at, as long as you’re not hit.’ Then you come home and that high is really hard to replace,” Lambert said. “. . . You’re with a great team, and all of a sudden you don’t have a team.”

Evelyn Figeroid, who helped open the Rancho Cordova Veterans Resource Center, discovered Lambert at a monthly meeting of Volunteers of America where he was presenting information about his program for veterans. Figeroid has since retired, but Rancho Cordova Library Branch Supervisor Jill Stockinger said of Lambert, “He’s considered like a national treasure and he goes across the United States doing these talks. People say he is truly amazing. He really helps people heal.”

Family members and friends are invited, as well. “In fact, it doesn’t have to be about a war if you’ve got a trauma or you’ve got a pain,” Lambert said. “I will talk about that when I start the presentation. Because we all have our own personal war.” ★

CHP Offers Free “Start Smart” Class for Young Drivers

CHP Special Release

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The leading cause of death for Americans 15-20 years old is motor vehicle collisions. In an effort inform and to reduce motor vehicle collisions in California, California Highway Patrol (CHP) North Sacramento area will offer a free Start Smart class. According to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA), mile for mile, teenagers are involved in three times as many fatal crashes as all other drivers. Recent collisions involving teenagers in our area demonstrate the importance of these types of classes. The classes are used to promote traffic safety to both parents and teens. We encourage both parent/caregivers and teens to attend the class. The CHP’s Start Smart program is a driver safety education class which targets new and future licensed teenage drivers between the age of 15 -19 and their parents/guardians. The Start Smart class will cover collision avoidance techniques, driver responsibility, collision trends, distracted driving laws, alcohol related driving laws and the provisional license process. The program also offers an opportunity for new drivers and parents/guardians to ask CHP Officers clarifying questions. The class incorporates videos and classroom discussion. Persons interested in signing up for the class will need to register for the class by following the link to our Eventbrite page on our Facebook account at Facebook.com/chpnorthsac or Twitter account at @chpnasac. It is highly encouraged that at least one parent/guardian attend the class with their teen driver. Funding for CHP’s Start Smart programs is provided by a grant from the California Office of Traffic Safety through NHTSA. ★

Student Exchange Seeks Host Families for Upcoming School Year

NorthWest Student Exchange places international high school students with families all over the country, including here in our community. Visit the NWSE web page at <https://www.nwse.com> and click on Host an Exchange Student for more info.

By Sheryl Longworth

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Responsible parents looking for ways to supplement the educational and personal growth opportunities for their children should consider hosting a teenage exchange student for an academic semester or year. Children and adults alike, by interacting daily with a new, international family member, broaden their perspective on the world and discover new facts and ideas. NorthWest Student Exchange places international high school students with families all over the country, including here in our community. Exchange students add a dimension to the family dynamic that cannot be achieved in any other way. The benefits to the exchange student are obvious: honing their English language skills; learning about the educational system in this country; understanding U.S. social, political, and cultural values; and establishing international friendships. Benefits to the hosts are similar: Not only can host families learn about another culture and its values; they can view the U.S. through another’s eyes, and thereby gain a broader understanding of our own country. Families do not need to have children at home to host! Many childless couples, empty nesters, and single-parent families have enjoyed exchange students. NWSE places students from dozens of countries who have varied interests. I will do my best to match a student to your family’s lifestyle and interests. Those who cannot host can earn financial incentives for referring to us families who do host. While host families are not compensated for hosting, tax deductions may be available. Check with your tax preparer. NWSE exchange students are closely screened for appropriate motivation, academic and language skills; our students have solid emotional and practical support from NWSE professional partners abroad, and from the students’ natural parents in their own countries. Our students come with their own spending money and health and accident insurance. NWSE local

Academic Coordinators recruit, screen and orient local host families and provide close support throughout the program. My family has personally hosted students from France and China and we keep in touch with every student even years later! While they stayed with us, they shared games they play with us and cooked their favorite meals for my family. We also have been invited to stay at their family’s homes when we go to their country. One of our French students even calls me his “American Mom.” It’s easy to get more information about hosting. Potential hosts can call me, Sheryl Longworth, Area Coordinator at 916-833-1218 or sheryl6663@yahoo.com; or by contacting NWSE at 877-850-3312 or info@nwse.com. Or, you can visit the NWSE web page at <https://www.nwse.com> and click on Host an Exchange Student. Student placements for the fall must be made before 8/31/18. Spring semester-only placements will be available towards the end of this year. ★

NOTICE TO READERS
California law requires that contractors taking jobs that total $500 or more (labor and/or materials) be licensed by the Contractors State License Board. State law also requires that contractors include their license numbers on all advertising. Check your contractor's status at www.cslb.ca.gov or 800-321-CSLB (2752). Unlicensed persons taking jobs that total less than $500 must state in their advertisements that they are not licensed by the Contractors State License Board.
DISCLAIMER
Be wary of out of area companies. Check with the local Better Business Bureau before you send any money for fees or services. Read and understand any contracts before you sign. Shop around for rates.

Trump and Mental Fitness

Commentary by Dennis M. Scholl, PhD

To my knowledge there is no published guideline, guide-book, code of conduct or the like for someone to behave “Presidentially.”

As a Licensed Professional Psychologist with forty-three years of doctoral level experience I do know there are professional standards, ethical guidelines, and codes of conduct in my profession as well as for physicians and for other mental health specialties – including psychiatry.

I acknowledge many, especially Democrats and the MSM (Main Stream Media), are concerned about the “Unpresidential” sometimes blunt, perhaps hurtful to others, brash, and at times crude comments and “tweets” by our Commander-In-Chief.

But more troubling to me as a responsible mental health professional is the audacity of other mental health specialists rendering “professional” opinions and even diagnoses for anyone, let alone our President, when they’ve not met a person face-to-face!

We may not like some of President Trump’s behaviors – but such emotional reaction does not ethically justify rendering professional opinions or diagnoses about mental or emotional stability or sanity! It is harmful, if not outright wrong, for qualified mental health professionals to make public technical pronouncements about our President’s stability and character.

Such unprofessional behavior further amplified by biased MSM could lead the public to unduly worry there is present some genuine danger to our national security from unsubstantiated attribution of mental and emotional problems for our President.

Knowing President Trump is a “counter puncher” I would not be surprised to learn his personal attorney files lawsuits or complaints to appropriate professional licensing authorities against unprofessional actions – although malpractice might be excluded because the President WAS NOT A CLIENT/PATIENT OF THE “Professionals” involved nor was any responsible party such as Congress or the President’s physician!

It is doubly unprofessional for mental health “experts” to opine or publish derogatory or defamatory assessments of anyone, let alone the US President, without first engaging the health/medical professional having a doctor to patient relationship. And, of course, the actual professional/physician involved must first receive the patient’s permission to disclose the information.

It is a blessing in America that we are free to express personal opinions – but I would not, ethically, render a “professional” opinion without having done a qualified professional assessment and evaluation up to appropriate standards – and I would only provide my professional findings to those with a legal right to the information.

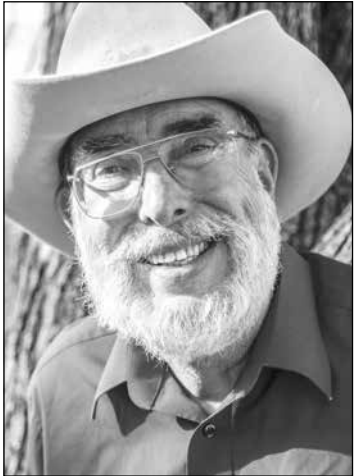

My personal opinion is Americans, and others, should be more confident about the truthfulness of statements and more comfortable about the stability of behavior of a duly elected President [who from the outset stated he would not be politically correct - if attacked personally he would respond in kind, and who has been a successful businessperson, entertainer, and now effective Leader from outside the political class] than they should be in “Experts” who appear unable to act responsibly within the ethical guidelines of the Professions to which they claim adherence.

Certainly, those professionals who are behaving badly should be aware they have done harm to the public reputation of their professions.

Dennis Scholl, PhD, an eminent psychologist for 42 years and has done psychological analysis of personnel for both the US military and civilian agencies. ★

Slim Randles’ HOME COUNTRY

“This Here Doc?”
Said the Caller.
“The Doc What Lost
His Squirrel?”

“Only thing is, Doc. Need to be sure this is your squirrel, right? So can you describe him for me?”

“All gray squirrels are gray, now, ain’t that right? How about any distinguishing marks? Tattoos?”

“No tattoos.”
“So far so good. Now you said in the ad his name is Chipper. Well, I called him Chipper and the son of a gun bit me.”
“He did?”

“What I mean to ask here, Doc, is ... did you and your squirrel get along? No squirrel problems? He looks like he needs a square meal to me. You feed him good?”

“What?”

“You know ... like Squirrel Chow free choice, or did you put him on a nut ration? I mean, he ate like there was no tomorrow. Dang near ate up the whole five dollars and a quarter reward money in squirrel food.”

Steve and Dud walked back into the café, then, with the cell phone still at Dud’s ear, and the laughing began.

“You were right all along, Doc,” said Bert. “In winter, everyone can use a good hoax.”

Doc bought the coffee.

Stories, laughs and great classic country music. Tune in to Home Country with Slim Randles. Check your local stations for the times. ★

California Must Follow Trump's Lead and Cut Taxes Now

By Senator Ted Gaines

President Trump's federal tax reform held up a mirror to tax-loving California politicians and they are afraid of what they saw. At major issue to the panicked Progressive political class is the state and local tax (SALT) deduction, which, until now, has allowed taxpayers who itemize the ability to deduct their state and local taxes on their federal tax returns. The average California SALT deduction per claimant was nearly $39,000 in 2015, but the deduction is now capped at $10,000. California was the largest beneficiary of the now-reduced deduction, with tax filers claiming roughly $100 billion in 2014. This deductibility has softened the blow of our state's punishing tax regimen and helped cover up the fact that our politicians have been shoving our taxes into the stratosphere. With the capped deduction, coupled with California's sky-high taxes, could California taxpayers lead another Prop. 13-like revolt and tear down the high-tax, high-spending edifice that so comfortably houses fat cat politicians and their political allies?

It's this fear that's led to the absurd, over-the-top howling about the tax bill, with embarrassingly apocalyptic rhetoric about this much-needed reform and the tired talking point that the Trump plan, by letting people keep more of their own money, was somehow "looting" the treasury. That would only be true if all money you earned belonged to the government and was doled back out to you by their grace. But that belief says much more about entitled legislators than the legislation itself. The problem is not SALT deductibility, it's the taxes themselves.

California's top marginal tax rate of 13.3 percent is the nation's highest, by far. Our state's base sales tax rate of 7.25 percent is also the nation's highest, and local add-ons push it above 10 percent in some cities. Even those punitive rates might be tolerable if California delivered first-class infrastructure or schools, for example, but our roads are crumbling and our schools hug the bottom of the achievement curve. What exactly have California taxpayers been getting for their money, whether it's deductible or not?

At the very least, SALT changes could spotlight the terrible bargain California taxpayers get and drag state legislators into an era of greater accountability. But until then, California politicians will be working overtime to figure out an end-around on the President's tax plan that will keep taxes high but allow continued SALT deductions, so they can pull the veil back over the people's eyes.

I have a better solution and I'm going to introduce a bill to make it happen: Cut California taxes. By lowering our income tax rates, we could help people in every tax bracket keep more of their paychecks, spreading prosperity throughout the state.

Instead of investing time and energy scheming a way around the Trump plan, let's take this opportunity to provide tax relief to California's citizens.

Instead of complaining about deductibility, let's take a page from the majority of states with far lower taxes and give Californians lower taxes themselves. Why not aim to add to the tally of the six states, including deep blue Washington, with no state income tax at all.

Letting people and businesses keep more of their money expands our economy and personal freedom. Trump knows this far better than California's leading politicians, who will fight tooth-and-claw to keep state taxes among the highest in the country.

Here's hoping they fail, and President Trump's tax cut becomes the catalyst for a tax cut in the Golden State.

Senator Ted Gaines represents the 1st Senate District, which includes all or parts of Alpine, El Dorado, Lassen, Modoc, Nevada, Placer, Plumas, Sacramento, Shasta, Sierra and Siskiyou counties. ★

CORDOVA SPORTS

Victory Puts Cordova in Three-Way Tie for First Place

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Joe Danielyan scored 15 points for the Cordova High School boys basketball team in a big Sierra Valley Conference home game on Tuesday.

Nine of those points came at the right time.

The Lancers' senior point guard was perfect from the free throw line in the final quarter. That helped Cordova shock defending conference champion Liberty Ranch 69-57 inside Lancer Gym.

The victory puts Cordova, Liberty Ranch, which has won back-to-back SVC championships, and Union Mine in a tie for first place with 3-1 records. Last week, Liberty Ranch defeated Union Mine, which will host Cordova Friday.

Cordova (3-1 in the SVC, 10-9 overall) outscored Liberty Ranch 27-15 in the fourth quarter, with one-third coming off the shooting hands of Danielyan. The Hawks led 42-36 after the third quarter.

"The game was very exciting," said Cordova head coach Fletcher Johnson. "Liberty Ranch pushed tempo all night, and we prepared for a fast-paced game."

Danielyan finished his scoring in the fourth quarter with a three-pointer, which was a plus against a Liberty Ranch (3-1, 18-3) team that has averaged 78.6 points per game this season.

The Lancers came up with a game plan to slow down the high-flying Hawks.

"We tried very hard to limit dribble penetration and open looks when on defense," said Johnson of the Lancers' game plan against the Hawks. "We hit some timely three-pointers and grabbed some big rebounds. Outstanding team effort."

Another perk for the Lancers is having guard Calvin Augusta back on the team. A senior, Augusta had been recovering from a broken bone near his knee from an injury he sustained while catching a pass for the Cordova football team last September.

"Gives us an all-league guard to handle the ball, freeing Joe to play shooting guard and get open looks," said Johnson of Augusta, who finished with 16 points.

Augusta and Danielyan were two of three Lancers who scored in double figures against Liberty Ranch, ranked No. 5 among boys basketball by The Sacramento Bee. Shooting guard Sam Danielyan had a team-high 20 points. Guard Tyreke Tate followed with six points and forward Kenneth Brown four. Liberty Ranch guard Jalen Patterson led all scorers with 25 points, and Chandler Garcia and Jaime Gonzalez finished with 10 points each.

Cordova 68, Galt 28

In another SVC home game on Jan. 19th, the Lancers dominated the Warriors.

After tonight's road game at Union Mine, Cordova opens the second half of SVC action against rival Rosemont at Lancer Gym next Tuesday. Next Friday, Cordova welcomes El Dorado. Both games are scheduled to tip-off at 7 p.m. ★

Falcons Hang in with Wolverines; Give Sierra a Scare

Men's Basketball

SACRAMENTO REGION, (MPG) - The FLC men were equally intent on scoring an upset at Sierra on Friday night as they took a two point lead into the locker room at halftime, 39-37. The second half was not kind to the Falcons, though, as free throws and rebounding proved to be their nemesis leading to the 84-69 loss. With the exception of Isiah Maun, the Falcons struggled with their shooting, managing 33% from the floor and a dismal 18% (2 of 11) from the line. Conversely, Maun was 10 for 21 (48%) from the field and 7 of 8 (88%) from the line, totaling 31 points. The Falcons (1-8, 2-16) will host Big 8 leader Santa Rosa (9-0, 16-4) on Tuesday at 5:30, then play at American River (2-7, 5-13) on Friday.

California, the Sierra College women could easily have been unconcerned about their opponent on Friday night. But the Folsom Lake Falcons definitely got the Wolverines' attention when they took a 4-point lead early in the 3rd quarter.

The Wolverines proceeded to regain the lead and control of the game as they pulled away to a 83-65 victory, but not before the Falcons served notice that they can play with anyone. A balanced Falcon scoring attack was led by Alma Perez with 20 points, Faith Wilson with 14, and Angelina Contreras and Abby Malekos with 12 each. This week, the Falcons (1-8 in Big 8 Conference, 4-14 overall) will host Santa Rosa (3-6, 7-12) on Tuesday night, then play at American River (5-4, 14-7) on Friday. ★ hero.” The screen legend befriended the boys after he presented them with a “Guy’s Choice” award in 2015. The irrepressible 22-year-olds suggested he should make a movie from their book. Eastwood read “15:17 to Paris” and struck a deal. His casting people considered many actors to portray the heroes but Eastwood liked Stone, Skarlatos and Sadler as is. “He loved the connection between them and felt it might translate well to screen,” explains Hansen.

“They’re Still Our Boys”

Gobsmacked, the boys asked if they should get acting lessons. “Clint said no,” says Eskel. “He wanted them to be themselves. He took a risk but he was right; the boys did a great job. The way they interact on screen is exactly how they are together. They hardly had to act at all.”

The 90-minute drama leaps from their childhood to August of 2015. Then Sadler was at college in Sacramento; Skarlatos was in the Oregon Army National Guard; Stone served the US Air Force at Travis. Spencer and Alek had been inseparable since grade school. They battled war games in Schweitzer Grove and played on the Del Campo High football team. “The script explains how they grew to trust each other; how they always had each other’s back,” explains Eskel. “Though Anthony Sadler and his family lived further away, the three boys had been friends most of their lives.”

Carmichael scenes were restaged in an Atlanta neighborhood. Actors played the two moms and Anthony’s dad, Pastor Anthony Sadler. “They never met us or got a chance to get to know us,” says Eskel. “Heidi and I are always laughing. The two screen moms are so serious. But the movie’s a drama and actors have to play the script they’re given.”

The reenacted train attack was painful for all the parents. “It brought back how August 21 could have been the worst day of my life,” explains Hansen.

Watching the same scene, Pastor Sadler reached for his son’s arm. “I was aware of the violence from what the guys had shared with me,” he said. “It was challenging to watch. I really felt how close we came to losing Anthony. Our pride in him is secondary to our gratitude to God for saving his life.”

“The moment when the attacker lifted his gun to Spencer’s face and pulled the trigger was overwhelming,” says Eskel. “Even though I knew the gun malfunctioned. It was awful watching all the other weapons come out and seeing my son being slashed. It was a miracle everyone survived. I was worried when the boys told me they were taking that train to Paris. I was uneasy; I asked God to watch over them.”

The morning after the film screening – as often before -- the young men attended Pastor Sadler’s Shilo Baptist Church in Sacramento. All three were raised in Christian homes and have good reason to believe providence shaped their lives. Before Alek served his 10-month National Guard tour in Afghanistan, his mom invoked divine protection. “I prayed and felt God telling me Alek would be all right in Afghanistan,” says

Hansen. “But He also told me that something very exciting was in store for him. I told Alek this. “After the train attack, Joyce and I flew to Paris and met the boys at the American Embassy. I remember running up the embassy stairs, holding my son and saying: ‘this is what God was talking about.’ Alek just smiled.”

Both now 25, Alek and Spencer are honorably discharged from military service. Alek placed third in Dancing with the Stars and Spencer bounced back after a stabbing incident outside a Sacramento restaurant; he now lives in Southern California. Alek has returned to Oregon and Anthony (also 25) has graduated from CSUS with a degree in sports medicine. All three are interested in acting careers and for now, are committed to weeks of promotional touring for their movie.

“They’re living exciting lives and it’s thrilling we get to share it,” says Joyce. “But our sons are still the boys they always were. When they visit, they sleep in their own beds. I still tell Spencer to pick up his room.”

“Alek leaves candy wrappers around,” reports mom Heidi. “America may see them as heroes and movie stars but to us, they’re just our boys.” ★
