RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Blessings in a Backpack (BIAB) Rancho Cordova will be shaking things up this fall with a new partnership and fundraiser aimed at broadening the local chapter's donor base as it also looks to expand its services to additional schools inside the district and out.

The Rancho Cordova Chapter of BIAB is partnering with the Sacramento Children's Museum to co-produce "Rocktober in Rancho," a ticketless fundraiser set for Saturday Oct. 7, with proceeds from sales for food, wine, beer and vendor shopping booths going to support the non-profit's mission to provide weekend meals for at risk and underserved kids.

Rocktober will run from 3 p.m. to 8 p.m. at Rancho Cordova City Hall and, according to Janice Davis, the chapter's co-founder and program coordinator, will replace the non-profit's annual, "Girl's Night Out" fall fundraiser, which has contributed to the raising of roughly $50,000 since the

Capital Airshow Connects with Visitors & History

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG)

- The 12th annual California Capital Airshow (CCA), presented by Sacramento County in partnership with the City of Rancho Cordova, welcomed crowds of veterans, families and thrill seekers on Sept. 9 and 10 at Mather Airport. From the heart-stopping roar of the U.S. Navy F/A-18 Super Hornet and battle-worn U.S. Air Force A-10 Thunderbolt II jets overhead, and some of the rarest vintage planes displayed on the ground, attendees got to experience first-hand the power, technology and art of aviation.

"The California Capital Airshow, and events like it, are an important opportunity for our children and grandchildren to see up close the innovation, ingenuity, bravery and perseverance that has shaped our country over the last century," said CCA Executive Director Darcy Brewer. "Thousands of people got to meet the heroes of current events and the living legends who changed history. They got to touch and climb on board the magnificent equipment we use to protect the freedoms and safety we all enjoy today, and that is life changing."

For the first time in 2017, CCA was host to the prestigious National Aviation Heritage Invitational, an annual competition that reviews nearly 20 rare and beautifully restored vintage planes against rigorous criteria developed by the Smithsonian Institution's National Air and Space Museum.

Also new this year, loyal fans and first-time spectators received a special surprise when the E-4B Nightwatch made its first-ever airshow fly-by. Often referred to as the Doomsday Plane, this is one of only four Boeing E-4 Advanced Airborne Command Posts specially modified to serve as a survivable mobile command post for the National Command Authority.

National Guard highlights included an aerial demonstration of the F-15C Eagle and an on-ground MQ-9 Reaper display showcasing the 66-foot remotely piloted aircraft.

"I want to give a heartfelt thanks to the brave men and women who were here to represent their branches and the aircraft they support, and I salute those who were called away from the show for critical rescue and recovery missions throughout the

City Operations & Maintenance Division Moves to New Corp Yard

By Asha Kreiling

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Many cities have a corporation yard, often called a "corp yard," and the City of Rancho Cordova now has one too. At the January 17, 2017 City Council meeting, Council members approved a resolution authorizing the Public Works Department to purchase the property located at 3303 Luyung Drive, including a 5,950 square foot building on a one acre lot, to house the City of Rancho Cordova Operations & Maintenance (O&M) Division's staff, equipment, and vehicles.

A division of the City's Public Works Department, the O&M Division oversees the operation and maintenance of the City's infrastructure, including streets, signs, trees, stormwater, sound walls, and Public Works vehicle fleet. The City outgrew the shared storage space adjacent to the City's Neighborhood Services Division, located on Gold Tailings Court, and moved the O&M Division from City Hall to the new Corp Yard over the past few months.

Supplies, such as street light poles and fixtures, fencing, and tools, are now stored at the Corp Yard. During wet times of the year, the Corp Yard will also serve as the City's sandbag distribution site. The City of Rancho Cordova expects the new Corp Yard will improve control of inventory and increase efficiency for addressing critical issues.

"The new corporation yard allows us to stock more materials. This means that instead of waiting for materials to be delivered, we are able to access them immediately to provide faster response times for repairs to City infrastructure," said Albert Stricker, Public Works Director for the City of Rancho Cordova.

County's Small Business Start-ups Hampered by Bureaucracy

Story by Jacqueline Fox

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG)

- Pent up demand in many parts of unincorporated Sacramento County, and the county proper for retail food chains and other small businesses, some developers and business groups say, is being stalled under the multiple layers of bureaucracy built into the county's complex permitting process and related issues.

Even opening a franchise for one of the country's largest and perhaps best-loved food and drink chains can take years. Case in point: Jamba Juice, which has been pushing to open its first location in Carmichael for more than a year. The wildly popular fresh juice and smoothie maker, originally slated for opening in August at Carmichael Village on Fair Oaks Boulevard, is once again pushing back its opening to late October, due in large part to set-backs in the permitting approval process, according to Brooks Erickson of Carmichael Village, LLC, developers of the retail complex.

Construction and the permitting process for Jamba Juice began more than 24 months ago. Meanwhile, next door, Wing Stop's approval took nearly a year to green light. It followed the oft-stalled opening of Noah's Bagels, also in the complex, which opened its doors in 2015.

With two open spaces left to fill at Carmichael Village, Erickson wonders how long it will take him to get the green light for what he hopes will be one more food and drink outfit and potentially a small medical related service provider to complete the development project.

"I would say it is a complex process and also can be very surprising when you think you have crossed every "T" and dotted every "I" to find out that you have to keep waiting," Erickson said. "I respect the idea of (the permitting and vetting process) being necessary, but it absolutely seems

Troy Givens said a typical time frame for a franchise like Jamba Juice (above) should be roughly 90-120 days and, while he doesn't know the specifics of what may be holding up the clearance for Jamba Juice in Carmichael, he would be happy to sit down with Brooks Erickson or any other business owner to help figure out where the snags are and how to expedite the process. Photo by MPG staff very burdensome. Even after you've won approval for the project, you're waiting on all kinds of things to be approved just to get construction done."

Erickson said Jamba Juice is just one of many examples of the frustration he and other developers, not to mention the franchisees and owners, face when it comes to dealing with the county permitting process, which includes clearance requirements from multiple agencies, usually at different intervals in the build out process, including health and safety, the fire department, and ADA regulators, each of which can potentially stall a previously approved permit or plan from one department with a non-compliance order or demand for changes to meet their own department's regulations.

A green lighted set of blueprints can hit a number of snags in the process, ranging from issues pertaining to noncompliance with ADA regulations or county fire and electrical system guidelines, to equipment model makes and locations and flooring types, as well as overall construction plans for new infrastructures or remodeling of existing ones.

"What puzzles me is that somebody like Jamba with a national brand would have so much difficulty with our little county,"

Erickson said. "It's a puzzle to have so many different rounds of changes."

Linda Melody, executive director of the Carmichael Chamber of Commerce agrees the county's permitting process often holds up construction plans for many small retailers, specifically eateries. Carmichael's revival along the Fair Oaks Boulevard corridor is enjoying a wave of expansion in the retail food sector. But the growth is being hampered at various levels and she and chamber members are eager to see the momentum continue.

Melody said her agency would like to see pre-approved permitting requirements for existing retail spaces grandfathered in when approvals have been given for one area as others are considered, and that a true one-stop agency for blueprinting approval right down to the plumbing and electrical code sign-off would help.

"I have a hard time with the county penalizing businesses who have already had components of their projects signed off on get rejected at another level and then see them have to go back to the beginning of the process," Melody said. "You always hear the politicians talk about how much they love business but the rules are often not really all that business friendly."

Diann Rogers, president and CEO of the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce, said her agency has long-been fielding similar complaints about the permitting process and that mitigating those concerns remains one of her agencies top priorities.

"Are there glitches, yes," says Rogers. "But in terms of the challenges, it is all over the board and it really depends on what type of business you're talking about and which layers of permitting and departments they have to go to."

Rogers said the Rancho Cordova department of economic development is preparing to launch a new "concierge" service to help business owners understand and work their way through the permitting process.

"It can be daunting," said Rogers, adding that she did not have specifics about the new program yet. "I know the goal is to help them navigate the process," she said. "I also can say that we have a (city) council that is open and willing to hear these issues, so they do listen to the biz community."

Evan Jacobs co-chairs the economic development committee for the Citrus Heights Chamber of Commerce. He said the chamber is aware of the ongoing issues of "complexity" involved with the permitting process and insists it is an issue of ongoing concern and discussion.

"We are working collaboratively with the city to see more layers of bureaucracy removed from the process in order to both retain and attract businesses to the area," said Jacobs. "I know we and many other advocates are out there working toward finding a way to put a focus on this issue and see how we can make it easier for businesses to set up shop. There are many complexities involved."

Troy Givens, director of the Sacramento County Department of Economic Development agreed that the process for setting up a small business in the county can be burdensome, particularly for a restaurant, where you have many health code requirements in play. He adds, however, that the county is always pushing to improve the process, noting the availability of free and confidential programs established to help business owners navigate the permitting process.

"We know there can be difficulties, especially for smaller business owners, but we are always looking at how we can make the process more user friendly," said Givens.

speed through the permitting process, however, there are specific qualifiers. For instance, a commercial or industrial project must create a minimum of 50 new and permanent jobs or show it will generate at least $10 million in annual taxable sales. Neither of these options are likely for a small franchise, Jamba Juice included. Even if the revenue was in place, most fast-casual eateries employ part time workers.

Tom Scott is the state executive director for the National Federation of Independent Businesses based in Sacramento. His agency advocates for roughly 22,000 small and independently owned business members in California and thousands more nationwide. Scott said the layers of bureaucracy at the county with respect to permits are so imbedded and years in the making, a one-stop shop wouldn't put a dent

— LINDA MELODY
EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR OF THE CARMICHAEL CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Givens referred to the county's Business Environmental Resource Center (BERC) launched in 1993. BERC provides confidential support for new and existing businesses as they make their way through the initial phases of setting up shop. The county, he added, also recently brought in a small business liaison to help potential new business owners with financing-related questions and support. Many of the frustrations, he says, often stem from the varying number of scenarios that arise with every start-up, whether related to health permit issues or basic blueprint snags, and whether they are a fast-food operation or a clothing retailer.

"We have a service under our department that is free and confidential, which takes a look at the permitting process at the local, state and even the federal levels and helps businesses navigate the system," said Givens. "We do what we can to help make the process go as quickly as possible."

Givens said a typical time frame for a franchise like Jamba Juice should be roughly 90-120 days and, while he doesn't know the specifics of what may be holding up the clearance for Jamba Juice in Carmichael, he would be happy to sit down with Erickson or any other business owner to help figure out where the snags are and how to expedite the process.

"I'm more than happy to meet with Mr. Erickson and other developers to try to figure out if there is a certain area where we can step in," Givens said.

The county also has a fast track program to help certain projects in the problem, as it stretches way beyond the permitting process and in to areas concerning housing, rising rent costs, California's business taxes, (one of the highest in the nation according to recent studies), zoning issues, as well as employment-related legal complexities and wages.

"There's been a Carl's Junior effect in California for years," said Scott, referring to 2014 plans by the Southern California-based CKE Restaurants/Carl's Junior Restaurants, LLC to expand in the state. Faced with wait times of up to two years to expand in the state, the company moved into Texas and Nevada, where wait-times are roughly only two to three months.

Scott, who also sits on the planning commission for the city of Folsom, said the slow-pace of permitting and approving new eateries and other small businesses is rampant across all parts of unincorporated Sacramento County and the city proper. In some cases, there just aren't enough people to push applications through. In others, the rules are simply too draconian and driving business out.

"This problem is happening all over, and it's not just permitting," says Scott. "It's a chain reaction of things, and the bureaucracy has been building up for decades. Everyone wants the revenue from small business, everyone agrees small business is the backbone of our economy. But, on the other hand, they have created such a bureaucratic mess. So the real question is: OK, how do they undo it?"

By Bob McGarvey

Like many people over the last few days, my wife and I have been watching the weather in Florida and the path of destruction the hurricane has brought down on the people who live there. Our youngest daughter Erin and her husband Bart live in Jacksonville, and with the tail end of the storm hitting their city, we have watched it very, very closely. Another twist was added because when the hurricane was just beginning to hit the tip of Florida, they were getting a lot of rain in Jacksonville already. And not because of Hurricane Irma. The weather continues to be unpredictable, and our daughter said they were getting rain from a “Nor’easter.” From what I have gathered, that isn’t the time or the place when it usually appears, but what else is new?

At any rate, Erin called us Monday morning and said there have been some trees in their neighborhood that were blown down, and they have lost power, but they have been very fortunate with no damage to the homes where they live. But the news this morning showed that the water was knee deep now, and they are predicting that before it quits, the water will be 4 to 6 feet deep. So more to be concerned about, but that’s about all you can do. Plus, we’ll have to watch Hurricane Jose, which is not too far out in the Atlantic.

The California Capital Airshow last weekend was a wonderful success. The weather was pretty warm in the 90’s, but there were some places where you could cool off if the heat was getting to you. And, there were booths and tents where you could get cold water, soda, and beer, and also some booths that were ready to help if you needed it. In the Raley’s booth, for example, they were giving out free fruit, and there were some chairs where you could sit down in the shade. Plus, to all of the wonderful people who put so many hours into those booths, my hat is off to you. In addition to those booths, there were other events like Aerojet Rocketdyne’s Space & Aviation Launchpad, meeting the pilots of the aircraft, and meeting those who came down in parachutes carrying our American Flag. There were far too many memorable events to talk about, but the California Capital Airshow has a goal of reminding all of us about our heroes of the past and the present, and to definitely encourage young people to dream big and achieve greatness.

And Another Thing ...

We Are Continuing to Work Towards Completing Phase 2 and Phase 3

And another thing. When we finished Phase 1 of Mather Veterans Village and were able to watch 65 to 70 homeless veterans move in to those 50 apartments, giving them permanent housing, we all celebrated. We already began working on Phase 2 and Phase 3. At least we thought we were working right into those next phases. I know, “The best-laid plans of mice and men often go awry.” No matter how carefully a project is planned, something may still go awry with it. And unfortunately, that is what has happened.

Now the veterans who live in those apartments are very grateful, just as we are, and we are still working on the next steps. I asked our staff for information about Phase 2 and Phase 3. Here is part of what they told me: The City has submitted an application to the California Department of Finance Community Based Transitional Housing Program with a $2 million request to fund Phase 2. If Phase 2 is awarded the full amount requested, the project will be fully funded. Construction will begin approximately six months after that award. If it is not awarded the full amount, we will continue our efforts to secure funding from other public or private sources.

As far as Phase 3 is concerned, we are in a similar situation. The project developer, Mercy Housing, submitted a funding request for the June round of the federal government’s Low Income Housing Tax Credits for approximately $13 million. If awarded, the project will be fully funded and will proceed with construction within six months. If it is not awarded, we will continue efforts to secure additional funding from other public or private sources to strengthen our next tax credit application for either March or June of 2018. With such a large gap in funding, Phase 3 would be very difficult to complete if it were not for the tax credit program. We will know if we are awarded either of these opportunities by the end of this month.

I have to admit that we were stopped in our tracks when the unknown tank was found next to the two story building. That was where Phase 3 was going to be built, and we are glad that another tank wasn’t on the other side of the building. That would have stopped Phase 1 from being done and those veterans would probably still be waiting for the apartments. So keep your fingers crossed that at the end of this month, we will be able to celebrate the beginning of both Phase 2 and Phase 3 in just a few months.

From Councilman Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

The Saturday and Sunday shows were kicked off by the Patriots Parachute Team, a group of four former Navy SEALs who presented the American flag as part of their precision descent and landing. The show was headlined each day by the Patriots Jet Team, which features former U.S. Air Force Thunderbirds, U.S. Navy Blue Angels and Royal Canadian Air Force Snowbirds pilots, and highly celebrated pilots Steve Hinton, Bill Stein and Kent Pietsch wowed the crowds with aerobatics and iconic planes of the past.

State Easing of Public Safety Laws Emboldens Criminal Behavior

Killer of Sacramento Sheriff's Deputy had Lengthy Record and Was Wanted by Federal Authorities

From the Office of Senator Jim Nielsen

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - According to authorities, Thomas Daniel Littlecloud fired multiple shots at officers who knocked on the front door and walls of a motel room in their search for a different parolee's room. Littlecloud struck and injured two CHP officers before he attempted to exit through the back balcony. Using a high powered assault rifle, he shot Sacramento Sheriff Deputy Robert "Bob" French, who died on the way to the hospital.

"Convicted criminals like Thomas Littlecloud should not have been allowed out on our streets," said former Chair of the Board of Parole Hearings Senator Jim Nielsen (R-Tehama). "State laws, court decisions and initiatives have turned the criminal justice system inside out."

Senator Nielsen added, "The lack of meaningful penalties has emboldened career criminals like Littlecloud. This individual has been apprehended with firearms on multiple occasions."

Since the passage of Assembly Bill 109 and Propositions 36, 47 and 57, criminals like Littlecloud now face diminished to no consequences for their continued criminality.

Senator Nielsen and others have made many attempts to strengthen laws to protect police officers and the public.

The Democrat-controlled Legislature denied passage of his proposals to support public safety. Earlier this year, Senator Nielsen introduced Senate Bill 652 to change current law to require that felons with firearms would return to state prison if they had been previously convicted of a violent felony. Even this modest change was rejected in committee.

Unfortunately, the weakening of the state's criminal justice system allowed for the release of convicted felons like cop-killer Littlecloud whose criminal record spans 14 years.

The San Francisco Chronicle laid out the "extensive criminal history" of Littlecloud's life that included: Assault on officers and first responders; Drug possession; Robbery; Grand theft; Assault with stun gun; Battery on emergency personnel; Two counts of assault on peace officer or firefighter; Six counts of assault with or possession of firearms; Federal indictment on charges of possession with intent to distribute methamphetamine, illegal possession of a firearm and ammunition, using a counterfeit credit card and identity theft.

"Littlecloud's wide-ranging criminal behavior speaks for itself. Legislative acts, court decisions and initiatives facilitated this behavior," Senator Nielsen added.

Senator Nielsen represents the Fourth Senate District, which includes the counties of Butte, Colusa, Glenn, Placer, Sacramento, Sutter, Tehama and Yuba ★

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - More than 1,000 local residents are needed to spend a day caring for the community Sept. 22-23 by signing up for one of dozens of volunteer projects happening at nonprofits, schools and community parks across the region during United Way's Day of Caring. The event, sponsored by Nationwide, will begin with a kickoff breakfast and rally at Cal Expo. To sign up for Day of Caring: <http://www.yourlocalunitedway.org/day-caring>.

Last year, volunteers gave 5,450 hours through the event, which equated to more than $128,000 in volunteer time that many nonprofits, schools and groups could not have otherwise afforded.

"This is the single largest volunteer day in our region, and we hope people will be as enthusiastic about it as they are about Big Day of Giving," said Stephanie Bray, president and CEO, United Way California Capital Region. "This our chance to give big through our time and energy as we dig our hands in to help the hardworking nonprofits, parks and schools that do so much for our community every day."

As part of Day of Caring, United Way is holding its Stuff the Bus campaign to collect school supplies for Robla School District in Sacramento through Sept 22. All donated school supplies will be placed in a school bus and driven to Robla School District at the end of the day. To donate to Stuff the Bus: <http://www.yourlocalunitedway.org/StufftheBus2017>.

Nationwide is the presenting sponsor for Day of Caring and Stuff the Bus, and Cal Expo is the kick-off rally sponsor. Project sponsors include Dr. Pepper Snapple Group, ESM Prep, KPMG, Law Offices of Deon R. Stein, Nelson Staffing, SAFE Credit Union, SMUD, Social Interest Solutions, Sutter Health, Syzmanowski Orthodontics, TaxAudit.com and Zurich. Media partners include Entercom Radio's ESPN Radio 1320 AM, 98 Rock, Eagle 96.9 FM and 106.5 The End. To sponsor: www.yourlocalunitedway.org/day-caring.

Day of Caring and Stuff the Bus are part of United Way California Capital Region's Square One Project, a 20-year promise to significantly increase the number of local students who graduate from high school ready for success in college and beyond. Through nine decades of work and research across Amador, El Dorado, Sacramento, Placer and Yolo counties, United Way believes ending poverty starts in school and is working to ensure kids meet important milestones for success in college or career. The property offered for sale excludes all funds held on account by the property receiver, if applicable. If the Trustee is unable to convey title for any reason, the successful bidder's sole and exclusive remedy shall be the return of monies paid to the Trustee and the successful bidder shall have no further recourse. Notice to Potential Bidders If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a Trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a Trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same Lender may hold more than one mortgage or Deed of Trust on the property. Notice to Property Owner The sale date shown on this Notice of Sale may be postponed one or more times by the Mortgagee, Beneficiary, Trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about Trustee Sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call In Source Logic at 702-659-7766 for information regarding the Trustee's Sale or visit the Internet Web site address listed below for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case, CA08004120-15-1. CDPH Launches Cannabis Public Education Campaign

By Corey Egel, CDPH

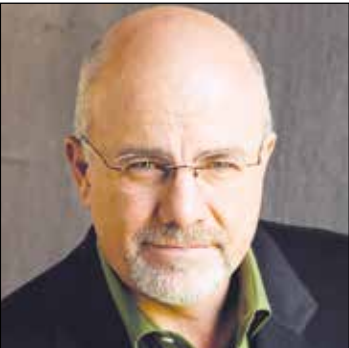

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The California Department of Public Health (CDPH) has launched a health information and education campaign about what's legal in California and potential health impacts of cannabis use. Senate Bill 94 (SB 94) - Medicinal and Adult Use Cannabis Regulation and Safety Act (MAUCRSA) - makes it legal for adults 21 or older to possess, consume and cultivate cannabis in California. Sale of cannabis from licensed retail outlets will become legal January 1, 2018. CDPH received funding to develop a campaign, as detailed in SB 94, describes: The scientific basis for restricting access of cannabis and cannabis products for persons under the age of 21 years; The penalties for providing access to cannabis and cannabis products to persons under the age of 21 years; The potential harms of CDPH engaged in extensive conversations with stakeholders in California and partners in other states with legalized cannabis to target the most vulnerable populations and apply their lessons learned.

using cannabis while pregnant or breastfeeding; The potential harms of overusing cannabis or cannabis products. "CDPH engaged in extensive conversations with stakeholders in California and partners in other states with legalized cannabis to target the most vulnerable populations and apply their lessons learned," said CDPH Director and State Public Health Officer Dr. Karen Smith. "We are committed to providing Californians with science-based information to ensure safe and informed choices." CDPH has and will continue to incorporate the latest data available into public messages to increase awareness about how cannabis affects bodies, minds and health. On CDPH's website, individuals can find information about legal, safe and responsible use, and health information for youth, pregnant and breastfeeding women, parents and mentors, and health care providers. CDPH produced fact sheets with safe storage tips and the important things Californians need to know about purchasing and possessing cannabis for personal use. An educational digital toolkit for local governments and community organizations will be available in the future. For additional information, visit the Let's Talk Cannabis web page at www.cdph.ca.gov

you to focus less on the ones that aren't doing so well. So yeah, you need to keep a separate business account, and preferably a separate checking and savings account on your business. Make sure 100 percent of the income from the business goes into those accounts, and only expenses associated with the business come out of those accounts. With really small side businesses, your checkbook register can almost become a simplified profit and loss statement. —Dave

Balance rebuilding and repaying

Dear Dave, My wife and I have had marriage problems, and a lot of them were related to money. We're working through those issues and are on Baby Step 1 of your plan. In the process, we're talking more and things are getting better. We have $40,000 in credit card debt, along with a combined income of around $70,000, so I talked to her about taking an extra job or two. She said she would rather I be at home so we can spend more time together in working on our marriage. What should I do? —James

Dear James, First and foremost, I would urge you two to begin seeing a good marriage counselor together. Money problems and fights over money are the number one cause of divorce in our country today. Continuing to deal with these issues, with the help of a good, caring counselor, will create even more communication. I think you've both realized you're going to be in a mess if you don't address your income and money management issues. However, her concern about spending more time together and becoming closer is valid. Since you've just started the rebuilding process, maybe you could put off the extra jobs for a month or two — but no longer. That should give you both time to talk, hug on each other a lot, and start developing a solid plan together for the future! —Dave

Thrilling Finish Leads to Victory Over Rio Linda Knights for Cordova Football

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Johnene Sanders and Anthony Diaz are going to remember one particular Cordova High School football game for many years to come.

The duo, both juniors, led the Lancers to a thrilling 34-33 non-league win over Rio Linda on the Knights' field on Friday, Sept. 8th. With four minutes remaining in the fourth quarter, Cordova (2-1), which led 20-18 at the beginning of the quarter, found itself behind at 33-27.

That is when the Lancers started their come-from-behind victory after the Knights scored their final touchdown on the ground to take the short-lived lead. As time ticked off the clock to 20.3 seconds remaining in the game, Sanders found Diaz across the middle for a 10-yard touchdown to tie the game at 33-33.

"He just caught a beautiful pass," said Cordova head coach Darren Nill of Diaz's catch.

Alvin Banks booted the extra-point that gave the Lancers the win.

Prior to the winning score, the Lancers had the ball but was faced with a 4th down and long from their own 30-yard line. That led to punting the ball, but the Knights' punt returner bobbled the punt, which was recovered by Diaz at the Knights' 30-yard line.

"He came up big," said Nill of Diaz.

Nill had a hunch his Lancers would have the ball again on offense, but it was sooner rather than later in the final minutes of the quarter.

"Even though we were down by six points, we had two timeouts and I was hoping that we could get the ball back," Nill said.

The Lancers went with the air game against Rio Linda's offense, and proved to be successful. Sanders completed 26-of-38 passes for 410 yards and four touchdowns. Banks, who is one of the Lancers' wide receivers, was on the end of three of those scores, and had 11 receptions for 252 yards.

"We were struggling to get a little offense going on the ground," Nill said. "We were regulated to passing the ball."

Wide receiver Calvin Augusta also completed a pass for the Lancers that led to a touchdown. He and Diaz also caught a TD pass in the game. Augusta had 10 receptions for 101 yards. As a team, Cordova had 453 total offensive yards.

On defense, free safety Tyreke Tate, who had started as quarterback for the Lancers in the first two games of the season, had 12 tackles. Outside linebacker Ryan McMoore followed with 11, and fellow outside linebacker Yusef Pugh had eight. Defensive tackle Jaizyn Phelp-Reis finished with seven. The Knights' offense had 468 total offensive yards against the Lancers.

Today, Friday, Cordova continues its pre-season schedule at Vista del Lago of Folsom. Since the school opened its doors earlier this decade, Vista del Lago

(1-2) had played all of its home games at Folsom High School while waiting for completion of its stadium that was completed earlier this year. Game time is scheduled for 7 p.m. ★

Lady Lancers Looking to Make 'Pieces Fit'

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Next week begins a new chapter for the Cordova High School volleyball team. That is when the Lady Lancers begin Sierra Valley Conference action. Entering conference play at 0-1, Cordova will host rival Rosemont on Thursday, Sept. 21. Match time is scheduled for 6 p.m. "Going into SVC action, we're looking to improve consistency," said Cordova head coach Mark Reuter. "This will not be a conventional team. Look for the team to figure out its identity and how to make all of the pieces fit." Officially, Cordova has played two matches. But its Sac-Joaquin Section Foundation home contest against Casa Roble, which Cordova lost 3-0, does not count toward a team's record.

Four of the Lancers' 13 players on the roster returning from last season are libero Kimberly Yang, outside hitter Yelena Melnik, middle blocker Shaieve Clore and hitter Elizabeth Luis. On Sept. 7th, Cordova played at Valley in a non-league contest. The host Lady Vikings won in four games; the final scores were 25-12, 25-14, 23-25, 25-12. During the contest, Reuter saw improvements that he feels will continue to develop going into conference action. "Serving was strong and consistent, and we touched a lot of balls on defense," Reuter said. "We were making a lot of good moves, just not executing the skills." One area of improvement for the Lancers is play at the net. "Our setters were also running around everywhere because passing was too far off the net," Reuter said. After its match against Rosemont, Cordova will host Galt on Tuesday, Sept. 26th. ★

Volleyball Wins Home Opener, Women's Soccer Humbles Modesto in Big 8 Debut

Women's Volleyball
SACRAMENTO COUNTY, (MPG) -After two tournaments on the road (and another postponed due to lack of air conditioning), the FLC women's volleyball team finally had their 2017 home opening match on Tuesday afternoon at Falcon Gym and made the most of it. In a match that was every bit as close as the set scores, the Falcons defeated a pesky DeAnza College squad in 4 sets (25-23, 25-23, 20-25, and 25-22) to remain undefeated in 2017. Sophomore Kylie Haverson was again the Falcons' biggest weapon as she led the team in kills, and Rilyn Campbell punctuated the win with a massive kill to end the match.

The Falcons will hosted the Folsom Lake Classic Wednesday at Falcon Gym, with matches beginning at 2:00 pm. Folsom Lake will open against Butte College while Cabrillo takes on Ohlone. The Falcons will open Big 8 Conference play on tonight when they host Diablo Valley at 6:30 pm. ★ chapter’s inception three years ago, but excluded an important component of its donor base: Men.

Rock On: Blessings in a Backpack Fundraiser Set for Oct. 7

“We took a look at the Girl’s Night Out event we were doing previously, and, although it was well-attended, we realized we were kind of just shooting ourselves in the foot by making it a women only event,” says Davis, who alongside her husband, Rickey, launched the BIAB Rancho Cordova Chapter in 2014.

Rocktober will be open to all and, in addition to live music from a popular Sacramento-based funk band, will include more than 75 vendors, food trucks, a wine and beer garden sponsored by Claimstake Brewing and Thin Line Brew Co., a Cappuccino Classic Car Club show, a giant bake sale produced by junior volunteers for BIAB, as well as a large kids’ play area offering free yoga and tae kwon do lessons, book readings, face painting, games and other demonstrations.

The Sacramento Children’s Museum in Rancho Cordova has partnered with BIAB Rancho Cordova to co-produce Rocktober. The museum’s Executive Director, Sharon Stone Smith said linking the concept of learning with a non-profit supporting basic needs of children is a no-brainer.

“We think it’s a perfect partnership,” said Stone Smith. “We promote learning and exploring and creativity but we know that in order for those things to happen, kids need to begin with having a stable source of food and support at home. So Blessings is providing that critical piece of ensuring a kid can have the brain power he or she needs to want to keep learning and growing.”

This marks the fourth school year the BIAB chapter has been sending some 200 kids home on weekends with backpacks loaded with food. Many of its recipients receive free or reduced meals at school each week, but often go without on weekends. BIAB strives to bridge the gap so that school children have access to food every day of the week.

“You would be surprised to learn how many school-aged kids go without access to regular meals on the weekends,” Davis said.

The Rancho Cordova chapter has adopted five elementary schools in the area as program participants including, Rancho Cordova, Cordova Villa, Williamson, White Rock and Cordova Meadows. The chapter is preparing to add Cordova Gardens Peter J. Shields elementary schools to its list in the coming months and expanding outside the Rancho Cordova School District.

“We are planning to extend to schools in our area but also to some in the Sacramento district, such as Lincoln Village,” said Davis. “But first we want to make sure we are taking good care of the schools we currently have in place, which is what our fundraisers are all about.”

Of particular need is a new location for a larger storage locker for all of the donated food items that come in to the non-profit via the community, whether through corporate donations or via community and individually sponsored food drives.

All proceeds from the Rocktober event will be split between the museum and BIAB Rancho Cordova, Davis said. Having the cachet of the museum, as well as its community connections, she added, are wildly beneficial.

“Partnering with the Children’s Museum has opened doors for Blessings in a Backpack,” Davis said. “They have contributed vendors, a mascot for our event, kid’s activities, and reached out to businesses via the Rancho Cordova Chamber, and the list goes on. They truly have been partners with us in putting this together.” ★
