Loud and Proud

The 2017 California Capital Airshow is proud to host the VFA-106 Gladiators and their "Super" Hornet Tactical Demonstration. Photo courtesy CCA.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Come out to Mather Airport, September 9th & 10th, and experience the full-tilt capabilities of this extraordinary aircraft. The use of maximum-afterburner will leave you spellbound as the skies above Sacramento come alive with freedom's roar! Absolutely nothing beats watching this mesmerizing show onsite. Get the inside scoop on the Super Hornet below!

All the way from Naval Air Station Oceana, Virginia, Strike Fighter Squadron 106 is proud to showcase the F/A-18 to audiences around the world. Airshows are the best place to see a Super Hornet in action.

The Tactical Demonstration or "Tac Demo" team flies the F/A-18 as close to the "edge of the envelope" as safety and prudence allow. The routine highlights the Rhino's maneuverability and slow-speed handling characteristics and is designed to showcase the mobility, versatility, and power of the F/A-18 for the citizens who look to the Navy for the defense of freedom. From the high "G" minimum radius turn to the slow speed "high-alpha" pass, the Demo flight puts the Rhino through its paces!

Each maneuver is meticulously rehearsed by Demo Team aircrew, first in the simulator, then in a series of qualification and practice flights. Demo aircrew are Fleet veterans, chosen for their abilities, knowledge, and experience. Throughout the show, adherence to procedure and the safety of observers are paramount. Although the maneuvers are dynamic, Demo team members adhere to guidelines established by VFA-106, the Navy, and the FAA to ensure their safety and that of the local community.

Larger and heavier than the Legacy Hornet, the F/A-18 Super Hornet represents the 21st Century's first truly multi-role

County Working Toward No Place Like Home Grant

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - No Place Like Home (NPLH) is a new State program that will provide counties with grants in 2018 to provide critically needed housing for chronically homeless individuals who are also struggling with mental illness. Sacramento County will be applying for NPLH funding as an essential piece of our "housing first" approach to reducing homelessness.

As a first step toward pursuing those funds Sacramento County will be working with a consultant to lay the groundwork for a plan that will align with No Place Like Home specifications.

"Permanent supportive housing options are critical to people experiencing homelessness and who are also in need of mental health services," said Patrick Kennedy, Sacramento County District 2 Supervisor and Governor Brown's appointee to the No Place Like Home Advisory Committee. "Securing these funds will be a critical component of success in addressing the needs of this vulnerable population in the Sacramento region."

Paul Lake, Sacramento County's Deputy County Executive for Social Services, worked to ensure collaboration with key stakeholders when the planning committees began to meet in late 2016.

"Broad representation from advisory bodies, advocates and cities was essential for ensuring the appropriate people were sitting at the table," Lake said. "Collaboration is imperative as we move forward to successfully address issues around homelessness in the Sacramento region."

Support Our Sisters Delivers Bras to Women In Need

Story and photos by Jacqueline Fox

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Lynne Shelton and Sheryl Smith are busy stuffing suit case after suit case with vacuum packed bundles of support bound for underserved women on farms in South Africa.

Mesh bags of bras, yes, that kind of support, adorned in pink polka dots, purple lace, black on black, white, leopard print, red satin, padded, non-padded, wired and soft framed, are strewn across the entryway and much of the dining room in Shelton's Rancho Cordova home. Bras are pretty much everywhere.

By late August, Shelton and Smith, with the help of a few other volunteers, will board a plane on Emirates Airlines with roughly 1,000 donated bras bound for four different farms in Mokipane, roughly two hours from Johannesburg, where shopping can cost a woman roughly nine month's wages, not mention prove an aggravating experience for many there who are well-endowed and know only the pains of wearing bras that are as much as two or three sizes too small for them, that is if they have ever even owned one.

"You would be surprised by the number of women working on these farms that either have never worn a bra, or are wearing bras that are too small for them," says Shelton, founder of Support Our Sisters™ (SOS), which delivered 522 donated new and gently used bras to South African women in need in August of 2016. "It's something that we take for granted here, but getting a bra for the first time, to these women, is a huge deal."

This year, the number of bras being packed into air tight packages and stuffed into roll on suitcases is nearly double the year prior, which is a good thing, because this year SOS will be serving roughly 400 women on four different farms, nearly double the number of women served in 2016.

"That's how fast this is taking off," says Shelton, a business attorney and owner of Shelton Law when the tanker hit a snag that would delay it for weeks. Shipping the bras via air is not cheap: Emirates charges $175 for each suitcase, but offers SOS a discounted price of $158 and donates the full cost of carrying five suitcases.

Sheryl Smith, a broker and owner of Smith Real Estate Services, Inc., also in Gold River, got involved through the same congregation. She serves as treasure for SOS. She says the growth of the initiative is supported by pure, grass roots energy.

"This is very close to my heart," says Smith. "I've always been drawn to helping women in crisis of some kind, so I love what I'm doing. And by no means are we doing this alone. It's a pure grass roots effort. I'm even calling up my clients and saying 'Hey, I'm doing this. Would you like to be involved?' And they are all in."

Some are jumping in via the SOS Facebook page, coming on board to help with little or no connection to the group but the simple urge to help. And, it's not just women.

"We had a male donor find us on Facebook who asked us what we needed," says Smith. "We said we needed money to ship the bras overseas on the plane. He asked how much. We told him and he just said 'done.'"

Employees at Harrah's Casino in Reno took up a collected and recently donated 100 bras to the cause and family and friends of SOS volunteers are making donations from as far away as Kansas.

This year, the number of bras being packed into air tight packages and stuffed into roll on suitcases is nearly double.

& Associates in Gold River. She launched SOS in 2015 as an initiative of her foundation Raising a Nation (RAN), which she also founded in 2015 to provide support to the Institute For Ministry Development (IMD) South Africa chapter, with which she got involved through a member of her church, Lakeside, Folsom.

"I was asked by the IMD to go to Bad Se Loop to speak at a conference and I learned about what they were doing and I decided to start a foundation to support them," Shelton said.

IMD International is headquartered in Denver and has chapters around the globe. IMD, South Africa, under the direction of Koos Basson and his wife, Jenny, is amidst building ministries in the townships near Mokipane, which will offer educational classes, as well as vocational and goal setting workshops, weekend camps and other resources for youth ages fourth grade and up to 30.

"The goal is to help these people learn about how their government works, how to advance their skills and better their lives," Shelton says. "You have to think about South Africa, or villages and farms outside of the major cities, as just coming out of a third-world scenario," she adds. "It has only been just a little over a couple of decades since the end of Apartheid and they don't have the kind of access to governmental information and education that we have."

An older, South African woman and farmworker was introduced to Shelton on that trip and, when it was learned she'd been suffering from severe pain a little investigation proved the culprit to be the size of the woman's bra.

"When she bent over she'd wince in this terrible pain," says Shelton. "We learned that she'd been wearing a bra that was way too small for her. But that's how it is there. If you can get the money for a bra, you're lucky. These women often can't even afford one, let alone get their hands on the size they need because the sizes available to them are limited."

With Raising a Nation barely off the ground, Shelton decided to launch its first initiative, Support Our Sisters™, with a mission to bring donated bras to these women. And it turns out there is a lot of support out there for the cause.

"These women have little money and they are often living in the kind of bunkers you'd associate with plantations or farms of the south decades ago," Shelton says. "Also, because a lot of these women are mothers who have had several children, they are very well-endowed. Our largest size was a 54 DDD. The smallest was 28DDD."

Volunteers jumped in to help with the packaging and shipping.

SOS accepts new and gently used maternity and sports bras, as well as regular ladies bras. There is a high demand for sizes 32, 34 and 36 B or larger, Shelton said.

SOS had hoped to use a cargo liner for the 2017 shipment of bras, but that plan was derailed

SOS has also donated bras to local groups helping women in need, including 75 bras to WEAVE, a provider of crisis intervention services for survivors of domestic violence, sexual assault and sex trafficking in Sacramento County, and the Twin Lakes Food Bank.

fighter. Using the lessons learned from the original Hornet, the "Rhino" brings advances in avionics, weapons capabilities, radar and sensors, and stealth technology. The Rhino not only carries combat artillery but also can provide valuable reconnaissance and air-to-air refueling support to the U.S. Fleet.

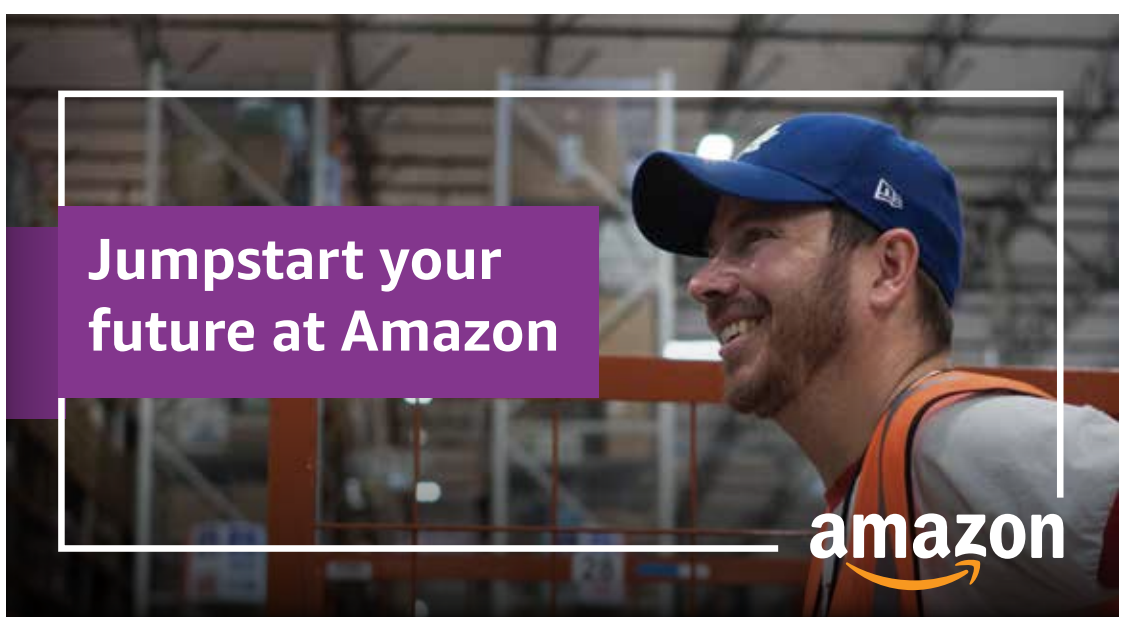

After entering service with the Fleet, the Rhino quickly found itself in combat in the skies over Afghanistan and Iraq.

Its increased fuel and ordnance carriage make the Rhino an asset to American combat operations around the world. With the capability for future growth in weapons and on-board systems, the Rhino will remain a credible strike-fighter for years to come.

Designed and initially produced by McDonnell Douglas, the Super Hornet first flew in 1995. Full-rate production began in September 1997, after the merger of McDonnell Douglas and Boeing the previous month. The Super Hornet entered service with the United States Navy in 1999, replacing the Grumman F-14 Tomcat, which was retired in 2006; the Super Hornet serves alongside the original Hornet. The Royal Australian Air Force (RAAF), which has operated the F/A-18A as its main fighter since 1984, ordered the F/A-18F in 2007 to replace its aging F-111C fleet. RAAF Super Hornets entered service in December 2010.

Department of Toxic Substances Control August 2017

Public Notice

The mission of DTSC is to protect California's People and environment from harmful effects of toxic substances by restoring contaminated resources, enforcing hazardous waste laws, reducing waste generation and encouraging the manufacture of chemically safer products.

HAZARDOUS WASTE EMERGENCY PERMIT
AMPAC FINE CHEMICALS
HAZEL AVENUE & HIGHWAY 50
RANCHO CORDOVA, CALIFORNIA 95741

On August 3, 2017, AMPAC Fine Chemicals requested an Emergency Permit from the California Department of Toxic Substances Control (DTSC) for onsite treatment of expired chemicals at Hazel Avenue & Highway 50, Rancho Cordova, California. The items to be treated include 8 chemicals in 19 containers. These chemicals are Tetrahydrofuran (2x4 Liter, 2x100ml), Ethyl Ether (1x1 Liter), Acetaldehyde (1x500ml), Butyl Ether (3x100ml), Methyl tert-Butyl Ether (3x100ml), Diazald (2x25 grams), Nitromethane (1x50ml) and Ethyl Diazoacetate (4x50ml). The Clean Harbors Environmental Services has been contracted to conduct this treatment. The chemicals are potentially reactive and unsafe for transport in their present state. The treatment involves the addition of liquid solution to the containers to stabilize the chemicals. Once the chemicals are treated, they will be transported offsite for proper management. DTSC has determined that the chemicals pose an imminent and substantial endangerment to human health and the environment and therefore an emergency permit should be issued. This Emergency Permit is effective from August 17, 2017 through October 15, 2017. The Emergency Permit includes measures to minimize any adverse impact to the community and the environment.

CALIFORNIA ENVIRONMENTAL QUALITY ACT (CEQA): DTSC has determined that the project is exempt from the requirements of CEQA and has filed a Notice of Exemption (NOE) with the State Clearinghouse on August 8, 2017. The Emergency Permit, NOE, and AMPAC Fine Chemicals' request for this project are available for review at the file room located at:

millions of people putting aside petty arguments for just a little to witness beautiful eclipse

Last Monday, something happened that no human being could do. The eclipse of the sun had tens of millions of people putting aside the petty arguments, gripes, and road rage, etc. for just a little while to look up to the sky to see the beauty and amazement and simply accept what was offered to them. We could see how little we are when the universe opens the sky and lets us see what is really possible. Our grandkids were able to see the eclipse at their school by using the special sunglasses that were given to the school as a gift. The school was given 400 pairs of those special glasses. I was very glad that they were taught how much damage could be done to their eyes if they just stared at the sun without any protection. At any rate, for just a little while, millions of people could look and hold their breath because of the beauty that was presented to them if they could or would just look.

Now back to the usual things which seem to devour our time every day. The war in Afghanistan continues. The brutality and savages of the terrorist organization called ISIS, ISIL, or the Islamic State, or other official names throughout the world, also continues.

Some "historic purists" want all of history to be taught whether it is good or evil because you can't change what was done in the past; nor can you change the facts by erasing what is said in a history textbook.

Some people seem to want the slavery and then the Confederacy to be removed from the history that their children are taught because that part of history "shouldn't have happened." Unfortunately, it did happen. Removing Confederate statues today doesn't remove what was done in some of the states during the Civil War. Only telling part of a story is the same as quoting part of a sentence, when in fact the whole sentence needs to be quoted to be true. That would be the same as removing the Alex Haley statue and the mini-series "Roots" out of circulation. The background of his family told the story about history because they were part of that history. I can't imagine someone trying to remove Alex Haley's story so it couldn't be seen, or heard, or read. Sometimes people have to put up with and accept what they would prefer not to accept. History is a very valuable tool, but you really want to be accurate when you are talking about history and using it.

If you haven't had a chance to stop by the new Raley's shopping center at Sunrise Boulevard and Douglas Road, you should drop by. That part of Rancho Cordova is just outside of the entrance of what was the Douglas Road gate to enter Mather Air Force Base 24 years ago. Is 24 years ago a long time or a short time? I guess it all depends how you look at it, or how much of your life 24 years ago is. Either way, all of Mather Air Force Base was and still is part of Rancho Cordova. Some folks seem to think that that part of Rancho Cordova is something new or different from what it is or was. The shopping center is definitely something new for that part of the City of Rancho Cordova, so drive on by and check it out.

And another thing, I have been asked about giving the Vietnam War veteran lapel pins to some of the veterans who either weren't able to receive them in the past, or didn't hear about them until recently. Since the lapel pins are a national pin of recognition, I will be giving the lapel pin to veterans in the City of Folsom later next month. There are still many Vietnam War veterans who will be receiving the lapel pin across the country. When they receive the lapel pin, they are told, "On behalf of our nation, I am privileged to present you this lasting memento of the nation's thanks. Thank you for your service and for the sacrifices you and your family made for all of us!"

Tax Pros Warned of New Scam to Steal Their Passwords

By David A. Tucker, IRS Media

The Internal Revenue Service, state tax agencies and the tax industry recently warned tax professionals to be alert to a new phishing email scam impersonating tax software providers and attempting to steal usernames and passwords.

This sophisticated scam yet again displays cybercriminals' tax savvy and underscores the need for tax professionals to take strong security measures to protect their clients and protect their business. This is the time of year when many software providers issue software upgrades and when tax professionals are working to meet the Oct. 15 deadline for extension filers.

These types of phishing scams are why the IRS, state tax agencies and the tax industry, acting as the Security Summit, launched the 10-week Don't Take the Bait campaign currently underway. This awareness effort highlights the many tactics of cybercriminals as well as the steps tax professionals can take to protect their clients and themselves.

This latest scam email variation comes with a subject line of "Software Support Update" and highlights an "Important Software System Upgrade." It thanks recipients for continuing to trust the software provider to serve their tax preparation needs and mimics the software providers' email templates.

The e-mail informs the recipients that due to a recent software upgrade, the preparer must revalidate their login credentials. It provides a link to a fictitious website that mirrors the software provider's actual login page.

Instead of upgrading software, the tax professionals are providing their information to cybercriminals who use the stolen credentials to access the preparers' accounts and to steal client information.

The Security Summit reminds tax professionals that software providers do not embed links into emails asking them to validate passwords. Also, tax professionals and taxpayers should never open a link or an attachment from a suspicious email.

Tax professionals can review additional tips to protect clients and themselves at Protect Your Clients, Protect Yourself on IRS.gov.

Tax professionals who receive emails purportedly from their tax software providers seeking login credentials should send those scam emails to their tax software provider.

For Windows users, follow this process to help the investigation of these scam emails:

1. Use "Save As" to save the scam. Under "save as type" in the drop-down menu, select "plain text" and save to the desktop. Do not click on any links.
2. Open a new email and attach this saved email as a file.
3. Send a new email containing the attachment to the tax software provider, as well as a copy to Phishing@IRS.gov. ★

Make It Fun and It Will Get Done!
The Secret to Being Organized
Pam Young's Corner
Let's Try to Be More Tolerant

Let's Try to Be More Tolerant

A few years ago my son Michael and his wife Meredith were invited by the FOX network to go to the Super Bowl and Terry and I were invited to babysit our two grandchildren Jack, age eight, and Brooklyn, age eleven. I have such fun with these two!

The first night we were with them, when it was bedtime they both wanted me to tell them a bedtime story. Since they slept in separate rooms I sat in the hallway with the light on so they could both see me if they sat up and it was easy for them to hear me. I love to make up bedtime stories because I never know what I'm going to say myself. I guess I should say Nelly (my inner child) loves to hear my stories or maybe she's the one who makes them up? Whatever, I love to do it.

Here's the story I told that night:

Rabbit Ears, Elephants, and Donkeys

Once upon a time there was a wonderful family that was happy and healthy. There was a mom and a dad and a boy, eleven and a girl eight. (I reversed the ages for the story so the kids wouldn't think this story was about them.) The family lived way out in the country and the mom home-schooled the two children (neither of them knew what that was). There was one small, genetic problem with the family; they were born with bunny ears. Beautiful, long soft bunny ears. The parents raised the children to be thankful for their ears. They showed them pictures of human ears and of course their ears were much better looking because human ears are just plain ugly!

One day the parents told the children that Mom was going to have to go to work and she would no longer be able to home school them and they would have to go to public school. They explained to the children that when they got in school there probably would be some children who would be mean and tease them about their bunny ears, but that they should just ignore them.

Sure enough, on the first day of school, the boy was out on the playground and a nasty, mean girl came up to him and said, "Hey rabbit ears, want a carrot?" The boy ignored the wicked girl, but she wouldn't relent. "Hey, can't you hear with those big ears or are you just stupid?" She was just one of those people who is intolerant of people's differences.

At this point in my story, Jack, my sweet eight-year-old love, said, "Was she a republican?"

Now I was already sitting on the floor so I didn't have far to fall in my hysterics! I laughed till I couldn't breathe and then I said, "Jackie, did you know I'm a republican?" Both children sat up in bed and stared at me as if I'd said, "Did you know I'm a witch and I'm going to eat you alive?"

When their liberal parents came home, I forgot to tell them about the incident, but a few weeks later I was on the phone with Michael and remembered to tell him what happened. He laughed and said, "You know Jack came to me a few days after you guys left and said, 'Dad, did you know Gramma's a republican?' I told him I did."

Then I said, "Michael, you know it might just be the right time to explain to the children that we need to respect each other's differences. You'd have thought I'd confessed to murder with the shocked reaction I received." It was quiet on the phone.

I love America! I am a republican and some of my best friends are democrats. My husband is a democrat and our votes probably cancel each other out, but that's what makes this country great! We can never go too far left or right. If you are a democrat, be nice to a republican today. If you are a republican, be nice to a democrat today. That's all I'm ever going to say about politics.

Dave Says

Home improvement debt?

Dear Dave,

I'm debt-free except for my home, and I'm considering having solar panels installed on the roof of the house. It would cost about $27,000. I have $80,000 in savings, but the company doing the installation will finance it all for just one percent interest. It's almost like free money. My electric bills average around $310 a month, and I thought this would be a good way to save money in the long run. What do you think?
- Michael

Dear Michael,

If you have to finance the project, my answer is no. My guess is the break-even analysis you're trying to give me is the sales pitch your solar panel company gave you. That's how they sell solar panels, but it doesn't justify going into debt.

You told me you have around $80,000 in savings right now. Why not just write a check? Let me ask you a question. What if you could borrow $10 million at one percent interest and put it in the stock market? Would you do that? Of course, not. It would be way too risky, right? Basically, we're talking about the same kind of thing. I made you feel the risk by scaling things up in my scenario. You're not feeling the risk right now because we're talking about $27,000 instead of millions.

This move wouldn't bankrupt you, but wealthy people don't do the kind of thing you're talking about. Either pull the money out of your savings account and buy the panels, or don't buy them at all!

—Dave

Problem plan

Dear Dave,

I make $48,000 a year, and I have $35,000 in credit card debt. I owe $25,000 on my home, and I was thinking about taking out a loan against my house to pay off the credit cards. Is this a good idea?
- Mike

Dear Mike,

I would never advise anything like this, unless it's to avoid bankruptcy. Here's the problem with that kind of plan. Most people who do that kind of thing don't change their financial habits. In fact, they end up with a new mortgage and new credit card debt somewhere down the line.

You need to start building a track record of paying off debt. Cut up the credit cards, slash your spending, and start living on a tight, written, monthly budget. Prove to yourself that you're not going to take out a mortgage and turn around and run up a bunch of new credit cards.

I want to see you not take on any new debt and reduce that $35,000 credit card bill dramatically over the next six months. If you can knock out half of it in a year, you can take care of the other half in another year or less. Then, you wouldn't need a second mortgage!

Aerojet Providing Propulsion System Support to Strategic Program

By Glenn Mahone, Aerojet Rocketdyne

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Aerojet Rocketdyne, Inc. will support Northrop Grumman, which was recently awarded a contract by the U.S. Air Force for the Technology Maturation and Risk Reduction (TMRR) phase of the Ground Based Strategic Deterrent (GBSD) acquisition program. The GBSD program aims to develop a replacement for the current Minuteman III Intercontinental Ballistic Missile (ICBM) system that was first deployed in the 1970s.

"Aerojet Rocketdyne propulsion systems have flown on every U.S. ICBM ever fielded," said Aerojet Rocketdyne CEO and President Eileen Drake. "Propulsion is our core business. We are advancing technologies for a variety of applications and will offer those that best meet GBSD requirements for performance and affordability."

Aerojet Rocketdyne long supported Northrop Grumman as the prime contractor in charge of sustaining Minuteman III. In its capacity as the Original Equipment Manufacturer for the post boost propulsion system, Aerojet Rocketdyne completed a life extension under Northrop Grumman in 2014 and continues to provide engineering support for that system to the U.S. Air Force today.

The recent award to Northrop Grumman for the TMRR phase of the GBSD acquisition program will last approximately three years and will culminate in a weapon system preliminary design. During that period, Aerojet Rocketdyne will evaluate multiple propulsion options and provide early designs that meet specific prime contractor ICBM configurations.

"Over the last decade, Aerojet Rocketdyne has supported U.S. Air Force strategic propulsion research and development activities that were focused on advancing technology and keeping sharp the engineering and manufacturing skills associated with designing propulsion systems, most notably large solid rocket motors," added Drake. "In conjunction with these investments that have direct applicability to GBSD, we are well positioned to provide the most reliable and most affordable propulsion system solutions to Northrop Grumman."

Aerojet Rocketdyne is an innovative company delivering solutions that create value for its customers in the aerospace and defense markets. The company is a world-recognized aerospace and defense leader that provides propulsion and energetics to the space, missile defense and strategic systems, tactical systems and armaments areas, in support of domestic and international markets. Dud had been sitting there looking at his computer for 20 minutes and he hadn't gotten any more done on the book.

You know the one. Dud calls it "Murder in the Soggy Bottoms," and the rest of us call it "The Duchess and the Truck Driver" because the two main characters are . . . yeah, you understand.

The rest of us have only been able to look on while our pal Dudley has been going through this agony for the past several years. If we're asked to explain the book to those not in the literary loop around here, we generally hem and haw and say something like, "I think the duchess and the truck driver love each other, and there's some murders in it, too."

At least, that tends to be a summation of the main theme, because we can't see the book from Dud's perspective. To Dud, this is the next "War and Peace" but he doesn't want it to be that long. Also, to Dud, sitting there at his computer now for 26 minutes, he has no idea what his characters would do for 800 pages. He is still trying to figure out how to keep them busy for 300, and that hasn't come easily.

You see, the truck driver (he's a handsome guy, of course) is on special assignment to the European country where the duchess (naturally drop-dead gorgeous) lives. Dud hasn't figured out the special assignment yet, either, but it beats having his hero haul groceries in the middle of the United States. And the duchess, well, turns out she had a love child by the truck driver when he was over there 20-some years ago on his last special assignment. And the truck driver doesn't know he has a European son, but the duchess knows. Well, of course the duchess knows. I mean, she was there as the duke-let's mom all those years, right?

So how do we reconnect them? Well, maybe his truck could accidentally crash into her castle?

Or she could open a truck wash down at the truck stop . . . no, that doesn't seem duchess-like. But Dud's been sitting here looking at his computer for half an hour now. Know what? There's a football game coming on television.

Later on, maybe . . . Brought to you by Cedar Ridge Leather Works, fine custom leather for the shooting sports. www.archeryleather.com. ★

SMUD and GridX Roll Out the First Bill Analysis Tool to Help Customers Transition to Time-of-Day Rates

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - SMUD and GridX, Inc. will partner to roll out a new bill scenario analysis tool that will allow SMUD's customer service representatives (CSRs) to help customers learn more about how the transition to time-of-day rates (TOD) will impact their bills.

GridX is a provider of big data billing and billing quality analytics solutions for energy companies using smart grid infrastructure. Its advanced technology enables utilities to design, promote and operationalize new energy products and programs.

Under a traditional tiered rate system, bills are calculated based on the volume of energy customers use. Under time-of-day rates, when customers use energy will be just as important as how much they use.

After SMUD transitions all of its customers to time-of-day plans by the end of 2019, about 44 percent of customers will pay less over the course of a year than they do under the current system, even if they make no changes to their energy use. About 49 percent of customers will pay about $2 more per month on average under the new plan, and about 8 percent will pay about $6.80 more per month. If these customers make adjustments to when they use energy, they may be able to reduce their bills and save money on a time-of-day plan.

The new bill scenario analysis tool will allow a SMUD CSR to accurately calculate a specific customer's bills on a new rate. It will also allow the CSR to discuss various energy use scenarios with the customer and calculate how their bills will be impacted by shifting energy use to different time periods, adding or removing programs, deploying rooftop solar, adding an electric vehicle or possibly switching to SMUD's fixed rate option. The bill scenarios are personalized to each customer and calculated in real time while customers are on the phone.

"As we transition our customers to time-of-day rates, we want to help them learn as much as possible about how their bill may be impacted and what they can do to control their energy costs," said Nicole Howard, SMUD's chief customer officer. "By working with GridX, we'll be able to roll out an accurate, responsive tool that will allow us to provide specific numbers to our customers so they can make informed choices."

"Transitioning an entire customer population to TOD rates is a significant undertaking," said Jian Zhang, CEO of GridX. "SMUD clearly recognizes the needs for, and benefits of, a real-time billing scenario analysis tool to help customers make more informed decisions about their rates and energy use. We are thrilled to partner with SMUD, a long-recognized industry leader in customer service, to deploy this solution and, ultimately, develop best practices supporting the transition to TOD rates."

FOREIGNER: HOT BLOODED AT 40

Story by Jacqueline Fox
Design & Layout by David Jayne

SACRAMENTO COUNTY CA. (MPG) - Wanna know what love is? Just ask Tom Gimbel about Rock-and-Roll and his 25 years as a member of the platinum-selling, British-America rock band, Foreigner, celebrating its 40th anniversary with a best hits album and a nation-wide tour, which includes a stop at the Toyota Amphitheater in Wheatland September 1.

"I love rock and roll and being a part of this amazing band," says Gimbel, 57, a Berklee College of Music graduate who plays rhythm guitar, sax and a number of other instruments. Gimbel joined the band on a "temporary" basis in 1992 after a short stint with that other, quintessential 1970s and early 80s rock and roll outfit, Aerosmith. Obviously the love between Gimbel and Foreigner founder and, according to Gimbel, the mastermind behind the band's longevity, Mick Jones, was mutual.

Foreigner's 1976 debut included break-out hits, such as "Cold as Ice" and "Feels Like the First Time."

In celebration of the tour and the anniversary of its founding, the band have released a new CD titled "40-Forty Hits from Forty Years," which includes popular tunes such as "Long, Long Way From Home," "Hot Blooded," and perhaps one of the band's most popular, softer rock hits of the 1980s, "I Want To Know What Love Is," which is on Current Foreigner members are (left to right): Chris Frazier – drums; Tom Gimbel – rhythm guitar, saxophone, flute, backing vocals; Kelly Hansen – lead vocals; Mick Jones (founding member) – lead guitar, keyboards, backing vocals; Jeff Pilson – bass, backing vocals; Michael Bluestein – keyboards, backing vocals; Bruce Watson – rhythm and lead guitar. the Wheatland lineup and will be performed with back up from the Lincoln High School Choir.

"This is something we do on our tours every time," says Gimbel. "We have a contest for the local schools and our publicist works with the choir's to submit their video performances and the winner gets to join us on stage and perform. It's an awesome experience, for them and also for the band."

Foreigner donates $500 to each of the high school choirs selected for a performance on the tours and the choir in turn sells the new CDs during the shows to raise funds for Foreigner's charity partner, The Grammy Foundation, which provides support for music education in schools across the country, among other things.

"Our fundraisers help us support a cause that is very close to our hearts," says Gimbel. "It is very important for us to keep music education in schools strong. There are many kids out there who are in their school bands and that is the only thing that keeps them going back every day. Don't even get me started about the studies that have been done on the benefits of art and music on a young person's development."

The band will perform with Cheap Trick as well as Jason Bonham's Led Zeppelin Experience. Bonham is the son of late Led Zeppelin drummer, John Bonham. Cheap Trick also made its debut in the 1970s with hits including "Surrender" and "I Want You To Want Me."

So, now that we know what love is, what keeps it feeling like the first time?

"I think the key to our band's longevity and success is the fact that our original founder, Mick Jones is always steering the ship," Gimbel says.

Mick Jones (above) and Foreigner, are celebrating their 40th anniversary with a best hits album and a nation-wide tour, which includes a stop at the Toyota Amphitheater in Wheatland September 1. Photo courtesy Foreigner

"Foreigner was his vision and it has always been his vision. He is constantly overseeing the band and who is in it, how they are playing. It's very subtle, but he's in charge. If we get too far off the mark, he comes in and gets us back on course."

The band's music, in fact much of the music from the 1970s, including that of Led Zeppelin, Cheap Trick, Aerosmith and the Rolling Stones, among others, just as popular today among youth across the country and worldwide. Vinyl record sales of classic rock are strong, and the 1970s rock-and-roll genre, with loud, in-your-face guitar and strong rock vocals driving the beat, are as popular with many new music fans as they were upon their first release decades ago.

"It's the ultimate compliment," says Gimbel. "That gives me hope. I see the guitar as this faded image. The sax hangs around. It's in the music of the Rolling Stones, Bob Seger and Bruce Springsteen. But the guitar sound has been on vacation for a while. Rock music, per se, has not really dominated the airwaves for a while now, so it's great to know there is interest again."

And how long can the love go on?

"We're thinking as long as people want us to do this, we are going to keep playing," Gimbel said. ★

The Folsom Lake College women's soccer team will open their fifth season on Friday night, August 25, at Cabrillo College in Aptos with hopes of continuing their phenomenal run of success. Since their inaugural season in 2013, the Falcons have won four straight conference titles – three as members of the Bay Valley Conference and one (2016) as co-champions of the Big 8 Conference – and have qualified for the CCCAA state playoffs in each season.

The 2017 Falcons feature several returning starters from their 2016 team, including Big 8 all-conference 1st team forward Keionna Claypoole and all-region defender Megan Trent at center back. Other key returnees for the Falcons include forward Andrea Martinez (2015 Bay Valley Conference FLC head coach Donny Ribaud is also excited about the crop of new players on his roster. Freshman midfielder Riley Spitzer (Oakmont HS) and freshman forward Shayla Merene - who recently moved to Folsom with her family from Bowie, Maryland - are expected to provide valuable minutes for the Falcons. Sophomore transfers Tiara Webb (forward, Univ of San Francisco) and Rachel Roberts (defender, San Diego Christian College) also look to have an impact.

Coach Ribaud predicts the Big 8 to be another dogfight for the title with Diablo Valley

(2016 co-champions) and Santa Rosa (3rd place in 2016) leading the way. The Falcons will open their home schedule on Friday, September 1 with an afternoon match against Solano College, their first of 11 home matches. ★

The NPLH Steering Committee includes Sacramento County's Director of Homeless Initiatives as well as representatives from the County's Departments of Human Assistance and Health and Human Services, the Mental Health Services Act Steering Committee and the City of Sacramento's Mayor's Office.

Additionally, the NPLH Advisory Committee includes the County's Homeless Services Manager, Veterans' Services Officer, and Behavioral Health Director as well as representatives from Mental Health and Alcohol and Drug Advisory Boards, the Homeless Continuum of Care Advisory Board, the Sacramento Housing Alliance, and the Steinberg Institute, among others.

Members on the Program Development Work Group include representatives from the Cities of Folsom, Elk Grove, Citrus Heights, Galt and Sacramento.

NPLH funding is vital for the County because in order to fund NPLH, the State will be withholding the County's Mental Health Services Act growth revenues, which will create shortfalls in funding mental health programs.

However, through prudent use of reserves, the County will continue to sustain those programs while pursuing new opportunities the NPLH grant will provide to address chronic homelessness in the Sacramento region.

The permanent housing will be linked to on- or off-site flexible, voluntary and individualized services to retain housing, improve health, and live and work in the community.

The county's next step is submitting the grant application, due September 30. Project funding is anticipated to begin in 2018.

TEEN HEART SCREENING

Sponsored by FOLSOM CORDOVA UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT

INVITED: All teens and young adults ages 12 to 25 years are invited to participate in Via Heart Project's heart screening event.

WHY: It is estimated 1 in 500 school-aged children suffer an undiagnosed heart defect, which can lead to sudden cardiac arrest and death. A typical annual physical does not screen for advanced heart abnormalities. This screening does not take the place of your annual or pre-participation sports physical.

WHAT: Screenings take 60-90 minutes (wait times may vary). A team of medical volunteers; including cardiologists, sonographers, and nurses from the Sacramento and Bay area, will conduct a health history questionnaire review an EKG test, and if warranted, an echocardiogram. The entire process is non-invasive—no needles or x-ray exposure—and we ensure each teen's confidentiality, privacy and individual modesty is respected throughout all aspects of the screening.

HOW: Your child must be registered online in advance. Please bring their completed Health Form to the event. Please register and access forms at <http://viaheartproject.org/screenings> Registration opens August 7, 2017 until noon on September 15th, 2017. Registration is limited to 750 students.

WHEN: Sunday, September 17th, 2017, from 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m.

WHERE: Cordova High School, 2239 Chase Drive, Rancho Cordova, CA 95670

COST: VIA Heart Project screenings are offered free of charge thanks to sponsors. Consider paying it forward to allow VIA to keep saving young lives. Just $25 helps them screen another teen. Donations may be made at the screening or during the online registration process.

2016 FCUSD Event Results: 286 students screened

- 20 students needed follow up:
- 3 for asthma
- 8 for high blood pressure/hypertension
- 9 for cardiac issues (3 were serious issues)
- 89 echos were performed
