Sculptured Bike Racks Grace Rancho Cordova Locations

Thanks to Leadership Rancho Cordova Class XI and artist Gina Rossi (in back), both children and adults can lock their bikes on artistic and imaginative bike racks in locations around Rancho Cordova. Photo by Mika

By Margaret Snider

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - With a shower of sparks, metal sculpture artist Gina Rossi and Kinney High School welding student Charles Struble, 18, welded artistic and functional bike racks into place at Sacramento Children's Museum. The welding and ribbon cutting on May 8 marked the completion of Leadership Rancho Cordova Class XI's project, following nine months of leadership and business training, and lots of work to make the project happen. Kristin Goble was the project lead, providing organization and liaison between artist and team members.

Maria Kniestedt, a member of the class, said the group raised over $25,000 in funds for the project. "Our class decided that it wanted to build on the City's current status as a bicycle friendly city," Kniestedt said. "They also wanted to support residents who had a desire to bike through the city, and so that is how we came up with our project."

The six locations for the bike racks consisted of Sacramento Children's Museum, Hagan Community Park, Village Green Park, Folsom Lake College Rancho

Cordova Center, Mather Veterans Village, and Rivergate Shopping Center. Each location had its own unique and imaginative design, fashioned by Rossi in collaboration with the class. Rossi started as a child making sculpture from hangers and socks. Always interested in metalwork, she later became a certified welder and started receiving commissions for bike racks. "That became my niche," Rossi said. "It's art, yet it's functional and everybody wants them." Rossi also teaches welding classes for all ages at her Sacramento studio, Rossi

Community Meeting Announced for South Sac Habitat Conservation Plan

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - A community meeting will be held in the City of Rancho Cordova to provide information about and gather feedback on the draft South Sacramento Habitat Conservation Plan (SSHCP).

The SSHCP will streamline permitting processes for future development and infrastructure projects in much of south Sacramento County, including the area of Rancho Cordova south of Highway 50, while protecting habitat, open space and agriculture lands. The draft SSHCP and accompanying Environmental Impact Statement/Environmental Impact Report and Aquatic Resources Program can be reviewed by visiting www.southsachcp.com/documents.html.

The community meeting will be held on Monday, June 26 at 7 p.m. at Rancho Cordova City Hall, 2729 Prospect Park Drive, in the American River Room North. A 90-day comment period for the draft plan and accompanying documents runs until September 5, 2017.

"This process included a coordinated, systematic approach in identifying and preserving sensitive habitat and has provided a great opportunity to develop a strong partnership among local entities and state and federal agencies," said Cyrus Abhar, Rancho Cordova City Manager.

The SSHCP plan area encompasses 317,656 acres that are bordered by Highway 50 on the north, San Joaquin County on the south, El Dorado County to the east and the Sacramento River to the west, and includes Galt and the area of Rancho Cordova south of Highway 50.

Within the SSHCP plan area, 36,282 acres would become part of an interconnected preserve system, including approximately

Cordova Shooting Center Slated to Close

By Shelly Lembke

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Amid controversy and a packed room, the Cordova Recreation and Park District (CRPD) this week held a public meeting regarding the fate of the Cordova Shooting Center. The range has been open with its current lease since 1979. Budgetary, environmental and social concerns have led the CRPD staff to recommend closure of the facility to its Board of Directors.

A May 17, 2017 report states, "Staff recommends that the Board of Directors authorize the District Administer to notify Marksmanship Consultants, Inc. that the District will not extend the term of the current Concessionaire Services Agreement beyond the term stated in the agreement of June, 2018."

With a six-month deadline of notification looming, the CRPD Board voted Monday night to continue the issue at their July meeting. Marksmanship Consultants, Inc., which operates the range, notified CRPD that funding would be needed to bring the current facility up to federal health and safety codes for the Occupational Health and Safety Administration (OSHA) and the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), as required.

In addition to accessibility upgrades, the Board is facing other hot button questions relating to lead abatement at the site and the financial requirements needed to keep the facility open. A 2014 estimate commissioned by the CRPD Board put forth a $2 million price tag for the necessary upgrades, which included adding a rangemaster building along with ADA-compliant restroom and parking facilities.

Marksmanship Consultants, Inc. has reported an annual average of approximately $183,000 in revenue income for the CRPD, yielding a ten-year window for recouping upgrading costs. The Board must weigh this with all its other projects to determine how it can best serve the community's needs. The recent development along the area of South Sunrise Boulevard, where the Cordova Shooting Center has been since 1979, has called into question the viability of the range's location.

Gun control and local policy are part of the puzzle the CRPD Board must wrestle with. Proponents, such as the National Rifle Association (NRA), stated publicly that they would rather work with government agencies and the public on safety and education, than see the total loss and closure of the Center. In an area already having been subject of environmental clean-up efforts, the range originally essentially bordered Mather Air Force Base, arguably useful for military personnel. "This recreation activity is no longer financially feasible," according to the CRPD's May staff report.

The Center has expanded through the years to offer rifle and pistol, as well as trap and skeet shooting. It also provides some revenue via retail sales. The current agreement states that any major infrastructure repairs over $1,500 are the responsibility of the CRPD.

The May report also contends that the CRPD is in need of an overall plan for the park district's future concerning all sites and facilities. Referring to other "high-priority" projects like the longstanding need for repairs to the Cordova Community Pool, the Cordova Shooting Center and the CRPD are looking at some very tough decisions in the upcoming weeks. ★

Women's Veterans Event Honors Many Who Served

The women veterans who attended the event were an impressive group who served our nation and now need our support in return.

Story and photos by Paul Scholl

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Dedication to our nation was on display at a recent event held to support women veterans of the United States Armed Services. A very impressive group of women who have served our country came together at the gathering and celebration, hosted by American River Brewing Company.

The Women Veterans Alliance, created to support female veterans who have specific needs separate from male veterans, has as their mission is to impact and empower the lives of women veterans. They are the only group focused on directly impacting the quality of life of women veterans.

Attending the event on Friday, June 2nd to recognize the honorees were Congressman Ami Bera and Assemblyman Ken Cooley. Dave Mathis, co-owner of American River Brewing Company has become a big supporter of the group.

During the presentations each of the veterans took to the microphone and announced their branch of the military and their term of service. It was truly impressive to hear each of their individual commitments, with some still engaged.

American River Bank was the major sponsor for this event. Be sure to tell them "Thank You" when you visit one of their local branches. Food was provided by Culinerdy Cruz.

To get more information about the Women Veterans Alliance go to www.WomenVeteransAlliance.org.

"We believe strongly in supporting our veterans, and especially our women veterans. They all gave so much for us. It is time for us to stand up and do more for them" said Dave Mathis, co-owner of American River Brewing Company.

American River Brewing is located at 11151 Trade Center Drive, just off Sunrise Blvd. in Rancho Cordova. ★

Genetic Disaster or Uncertainty in Your Genes-Huntington's Disease?

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Individually, they battled ALS, Parkinson's, Alzheimer's and Huntington's. They all lost. ALS beat baseball great Lou Gehrig; Parkinson's knocked down Muhammad Ali; Alzheimer's erased rock music legend AC/DC founder Malcolm Young; and Huntington's disease silenced Singer/Songwriter Woody Guthrie.

Called 'the cruellest disease' Huntington's is like having ALS, Parkinson's and Alzheimer's at the same time. Imagine! And many are unaware the HD is in their family history.

Neurological degeneration becomes the life of people impacted by the genetic disaster called Huntington's disease or HD. Caused by a genetic mismatch many won't know they carry within their makeup.

Local families are uniting to provide help for today and hope for tomorrow at the Team Hope Walk, William Land Park Saturday, June 24, 2017. The ninth annual walk in this beautiful setting helps raise awareness of HD, support for local families and funds for ongoing research to find treatment and a cure.

Often unknown before symptoms, Therese Crucher-Marin of Auburn and Dawn Doster of Fair Oaks have lived with Huntington's disease dedicating their lives to helping others understand the fate, learn about testing and help support local families thru the HDSA Sacramento Chapter. They are just two regional families talking about how Huntington's changed their lives.

Democrats Deny Funding for Critical Levee Repairs Needed after Oroville Dam Spillway Failure

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Despite the support of a bipartisan coalition of lawmakers, businesses and local agencies, legislative Democrats in Sacramento rejected funding to repair the state's water infrastructure that was severely damaged as a result of the failure of the Oroville Dam spillway.

Senator Jim Nielsen (R-Tehama) and Assemblyman James Gallagher (R-Yuba City) led an alliance to obtain money in the state budget to repair California's critical levees in Northern California, which are used by the State Water Project to deliver water to the Central Valley and Southern California.

"The failure to prioritize our state's infrastructure is incomprehensible," said Senator Jim Nielsen. "Millions of Californians depend on water that passes through these critical water conveyance systems."

Senator Nielsen added, "Our request would have provided for an investment in the state's water infrastructure, which would protect lives, preserve property and save the state billions of dollars in emergency repairs."

On February 7, the Oroville Dam spillway failed causing nearly 200,000 people and their pets to be evacuated. In addition, water system levees suffered significant damage that may prevent them from functioning properly in the next high-water event unless emergency repairs are completed this year.

The $100 million funding request was also supported by Senators Bill Dodd (D-Napa), Cathleen Galgiani (D-Stockton), Dr. Richard Pan (D-Sacramento) and the following organizations: Central Valley Flood Control Association; Sacramento Area Flood Control Agency; Northern California Water Association; Metropolitan Water District of Southern California; Western Growers; California Farm Bureau Federation; Yuba Flood Control District; Yuba City; Operating Engineers Local 3.

Senator Jim Nielsen represents the Fourth Senate District, which includes all or portions of Butte, Colusa, Glenn, Placer, Sacramento, Sutter, Tehama and Yuba Counties. To contact Senator Nielsen, call him at (916) 651-4004, or via email at senator.nielsen@senate.ca.gov.

Sculptural Designs.

“She (Rossi) has such a passion for this, and so much creativity and vision,” said Kniestedt. “The fact that she wanted to layer in an educational component by including our students from Kinney High School, their welding program, made it truly an amazing partnership.”

Eight of the more advanced welding students at Kinney participated, three of whom were present at the Sacramento Children’s Museum on the 8th. Besides Struble, the others were Dacari Crawford, 16, and Nathan Douglas, 17. Struble is interested in welding as an occupation. “I think mostly everybody who’s taking the class is there because they want to become a welder.” Struble is currently working on his welding certification.

Douglas plans to continue welding classes. Though he said that sitting down working was relaxing to him, it was definitely hard work. “You’ve got to be willing to have patience for trial and error,” Douglas said, “because you’ve got to mess up to learn what you have to do.”

Kinney High School welding instructor Richard Smith was glad for the opportunity the work presented for the students. The kids have also worked on a piece of exercise equipment for the U.S. Army, and are looking forward to another collaborative project with a private school, fabricating benches.

Because the ongoing fundraising and the various approvals needed took time to come through, the actual work by the students at Kinney started about nine days before school let out for the year. In spite of the short timeline, the project was completed on time.

“I had to work magic to get it done,” Rossi said. “. . . Everybody just pulled together toward the end, like that last hurdle in a race. We started to get energy, we just started getting it, making it happen.”

Access to Farm Products Blooming in Rancho Cordova

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The Goethe Loop Farmers’ Market, stationed at the Sacramento Area Sewer District in Sacramento County, opened on June 1st, making it the fourth farmers’ market in the area from which Rancho Cordova residents and business professionals can purchase local and seasonal fruits and vegetables.

Goethe Loop Farmers’ Market offers freshly harvested produce, as well as cut flowers, dairy products, eggs, baked goods, meats and other specialty items from local farmers and vendors. The Goethe Loop Farmers’ Market occurs every Thursday, from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. between June and November. Visit the market at 10060 Goethe Road.

There are three other farmers markets in the Rancho Cordova area that provide similar offerings at Soil Born Farms, the Sunrise Light Rail Station parking lot and the Sacramento VA Medical Center.

Soil Born Farms operates its seasonal farmstand on Saturdays, from 8 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. between mid-May through November. Farm apprentices and interns help manage the farmstand, and all sales support the Soil Born Farms Urban Agriculture & Education Project. Visitors are encouraged to meet farmers who grow their food and the animal residents of American River Ranch. Residents may also subscribe to their weekly or biweekly Community Supported Agriculture (CSA) produce box program and pick up their boxes at the farmstand. Visit the farmstand at 2140 Chase Drive in Rancho Cordova. The Soil Born Farms farmstand also accepts EBT benefits.

The Sunrise Station Farmers’ Market occurs year-round every Saturday, from 8 a.m. to 12 p.m. in the Sunrise Light Rail Station parking lot at the intersection of Sunrise and Folsom Boulevards. This market, which has been operating at this location since 2010, features about 35 farmers who sell only what they themselves have grown on their California farm.

The VA Mather Farmers’ Market occurs year-round every Wednesday, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Sacramento VA Medical Center, 10535 Hospital Way. It features up to 20 vendors and offers special deals for veterans. The VA Mather Farmers Market also accepts EBT and WIC benefits.

Increasing access to local and seasonal farm products in Rancho Cordova signifies the growing farm-to-fork trend that the Sacramento region has been known for – a trend that doesn’t seem to be slowing down anytime soon.

I was able to welcome the members of the AMVETS Department of California 72nd Annual Convention here in Rancho Cordova at the Marriott Hotel on Saturday morning, June 10, 2017. The people there were able to enjoy each other's company, share information and stories, and know that the members of the AMVETS still respect their country and what it has meant and still means to us and the rest of the world. It is hard to imagine what this world would be like if the U.S. hadn't been created by our founding fathers.

What are you going to do today or tomorrow with time? “All we have to decide is what to do with the time that is given to us,” said Gandalf the Grey. He was the wise man in the movie The Lord of the

And Another Thing ...

What Are You Going to do Today or Tomorrow with Time?

Rings: The Fellowship of the Ring who gave advice to others in that story. Many of the characters in the movie paid attention and used their time wisely, while others wished they had. Many of us in the real world also use some of our time wisely. I know that none of us can use all of our time wisely because we are human and make mistakes and errors. Using our time well is hard, but we make better good use of it than bad.

Last Monday, my wife and I, along with one of our sons, were able to go to the Sacramento Valley National Cemetery and witness the beautiful internment ceremony that was held for my brother's ashes. He died last November 3, 2016, and we waited for better weather here for the ceremony. He was a veteran who served in the U.S. Navy during the Vietnam War, and as a veteran, he was given an honorable place there with other veterans who served our country. Volunteer sailors came in uniform and served as the honor guard for my brother's burial ceremony. We all think it was a time that was very well spent, and we were glad we made the time for it.

Some veterans there have served in times of war, others in times of peace, and some in times of both war and peace. If you haven't had the opportunity to drive to and see that national cemetery, and what a beautiful job they have done there over the 10 years it has existed, you will be very glad with what you will see. Now I know that not everyone feels comfortable doing that, but if you can, it is worthwhile.

I have received many emails over the years, and one I received (with no author listed) was, “3 things you cannot recover in life: the WORD after it's said, the MOMENT after it's missed, and the TIME after it's gone.” So whether it is meeting and talking to people you want to meet, perhaps listening to advice from someone you respect, or making the time necessary to see someone you may only have 'one more chance' to see, make the time. You will be glad you did.

From Councilman Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time.

and sign up to participate in the painting of one of the murals.

Residents may sign up to participate by filling out an online form on the City's website by Friday, June 16th. 14 groups of up to four members per group will be randomly selected by the City to help paint the mural at City Hall on June 27th. The

Free Worm Composting Workshop at Soil Born Farms

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Soil Born Farms, Republic Services, and the City of Rancho Cordova are hosting a free worm composting workshop at Soil Born Farms American River Ranch on Wednesday, June 28th, 2017 from 5:30 p.m. to 6:30 p.m. The class will teach participants the basics of starting, maintaining and harvesting worm compost, which uses various specific species of worms to break down organic matter, such as kitchen scraps and paper materials. Vermicompost, the product of worm composting, is used by small scale farmers and gardeners as a nutrient-rich organic fertilizer and soil conditioner. Worm composting also helps divert organic material from landfills. To register, visit soilborn.org/events/composting-6-28-17 little more toward the three-month side with your emergency fund before you start saving for a house. Then, after you're all moved in, you could revisit the emergency fund and beef it up to six months.

Just stay on course and stick with the plan, Dawn. Fifty isn't old. You two have plenty of time to get your finances in order, find a great home, and look forward to many great years ahead!

—Dave

Midlife adjustments?

Dear Dave,

My husband and I are in our 50s, and we have just $12,000 to pay off before we're debt-free. We've paid off almost $70,000 in debt in the last two years. We would like to buy a house soon, but we know we also need an emergency fund. It would take us almost a year to build up an emergency fund, so should we make adjustments to the Baby Steps since we're getting older?

- Dawn

Dear Dawn,

No! It shouldn't take you two a year to build up an emergency fund considering the rate at which you've been paying off debt. You need a fully funded emergency fund or three to six months of expenses set aside before you start saving for a down payment on a home.

You've been making great progress, and you obviously have a good income to be able to pay off debt that quickly. Maybe in your case you could lean a

Skiping to the altar

Dear Dave,

My wife and I make good money, and our daughter's college education is pretty much paid for through pre-paid tuition and scholarships. We just started your plan to get out of debt and take better control of our finances. When we get to Baby Step 5, which is saving for college, can we substitute that with saving for a wedding?

- Braden

Dear Bob,

That would be fine. I'm glad you're thinking ahead. It's always a good idea to save toward a wedding if you have the financial resources to do so, because weddings are real and they're coming.

The average wedding in America today runs around $35,000. Of course, you don't have to pay anywhere near that amount to make it a beautiful occasion. Your household income, debt, savings and other factors will all play into how much you can afford.

Just remember to pay cash for the wedding, Bob. If you have to go into debt to make it happen, then you're talking about too much money. It's as simple as that. Crunch the numbers with your wife, and see what you two can handle.

And remember, there's absolutely no correlation between the cost of a wedding and the success of the relationship!

END OF THE BENCH

BY GERRY SCHOU

No Poopers Invited to This Party

When Kevin Durant announced last July 4 that he would be signing on with the Golden State Warriors the fireworks had just begun.

They never stopped all throughout the NBA season. When The Finals concluded Monday night with a 129-120, highly-entertaining Warriors' win over the Cleveland Cavaliers to wrap up a 4-1 series triumph and Golden State's second championship in three seasons real live fireworks were lighting up the Oakland sky in celebration.

Over the course of the last year the so-called “fireworks” took many other forms. When Durant's intentions were made public the minds of Warriors fans were immediately consumed with fantastic visions of grandeur. From many other fronts the “fireworks” took the shape of criticism of Durant and the Warriors.

As for the team itself, the firepower that Golden State has accumulated – that included four All-Stars this year – exploded on the basketball court, establishing a record-setting pace that no other team could match this season and few to none have matched in league history.

While Durant blended his many talents with those of two-time Most Valuable Player Steph Curry, sharp-shooting/premier defender Klay Thompson, explosive and multi-talented Draymond Green, a cast of selfless, seasoned veterans and a couple of young talents the Warriors put together a 67-15 season, giving the Dubs an unprecedented combined mark of 207-39 over a three-year run.

They didn't stop there. No team had ever rolled through the post-season undefeated and the Warriors shot at that ended when the Cavaliers prevailed in a wild Game 4 in Cleveland, 137-116, last Friday night. But the Warriors 16-1 record to their title still ranks as the best ever. Their fans will continue to dance in the streets to celebrate it all at Thursday's parade around Oakland.

Unbelievably but yet not that surprisingly, a lot of people are not all that happy about any of it. The old song sings that every party has a pooper, but Dub Nation doesn't want to hear it anymore.

Durant, when he became a free agent, decided to exit his original team, the Oklahoma City Thunder (formerly, the Seattle Supersonics), whom the Warriors had defeated in the 2015-16 playoffs. That he chose to join that 73-regular-season-wins Dubs outfit angered many basketball fans (out of jealousy that KD didn't join their team?) and many media members responded to his move as “weak.”

Some of his former OKC fans booed Durant when he returned to play there as a Warrior, some wore “KowarD” T-shirts and many chanted and held up “cupcake” signs. Jilted lovers take it hard.

Media people love to hear themselves talk – that is their job – and attract more attention when they stir things up, whether or not if what they say makes any sense. In Durant's case, a lot of them were simply not making any sense. One might say Durant was wrong to chase a championship, yet say there is nothing wrong with a player such as Carmelo Anthony chasing the money in New York. What?

Durant's detractors knocked the four-time NBA scoring champion for leaving Russell Westbrook and a good OKC team to join a better one in Golden State. Anyone “free” to search for a better job situation would likely be inclined to move up, rather than sideways or backward. Media guys would do that every time if they could.

Durant got hammered relentlessly for hooking up with a “Super Team.” AS IF – the Warriors are the first “Super Team” in NBA history.

LeBron James, heroic and incredible in defeat with his Cavaliers in The Finals this year – the first player to average a triple-double in points (33.6), rebounds (12.0) and assists (10.0) – made “The Decision” in 2010 to “take his talents to South Beach” to join superstars Dwyane Wade and Chris Bosh on the Miami Heat. James spent four seasons there, went to four straight Finals, winning two, then chose to return to “The Land,” and enticed free agent Kevin Love to join his new Cavaliers “Super Team” that has gone to three straight Finals, winning one.

NBA history has featured several dynasties. In the 1950's the Minneapolis Lakers won three straight titles. The Boston Celtics won nine in ten seasons ('57- '66) with a roster full of Hall of Fame players that included Bill Russell, for whom The Finals MVP award is named (won by Durant in his first title run, averaging 35.2 ppg., 8.4 rpg., 5.4 apg., 1.6 blocks).

The L. A. Lakers and Boston dominated the '80's. The “Showtime” Lakers led by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (all but stolen from the Milwaukee Bucks), Magic Johnson, James Worthy and host of other stars won four titles, and the Celtics behind Larry Bird, Kevin McHale, Robert Parrish (ripped off from the Warriors), Dennis Johnson, Bill Walton and others won twice.

Then came the Chicago Bulls with six titles through the '90's, three-peating twice led by the best player of all-time, Michael Jordan. Nobody hated them – everybody wanted “to be like Mike.”

The Lakers won five titles between 2000 and 2010, after hijacking Shaquille O'Neal from Orlando and stealing Kobe Bryant from the Charlotte Hornets in a draft-day trade.

Most people embraced and admired all of those champions – however those teams were put together. Why such a fuss over what the Warriors have done? This was the most-watched Finals since Jordan's last; somebody must like them.

What is not to like about this dynamo? Under coach Steve Kerr (and his wealth of assistants) the Warriors play the epitome of team-ball, averaging more than 30 assists per game and consistently deflecting praise upon their teammates. They play with a unique energy with constant movement and sharing of the basketball, and boast a top-flight, cohesive team defense. The roster is full of smart, likable fellows who enjoy one another's company. They play together and are fun to watch.

Together is a beautiful place to be. ★

Make It Fun and It Will Get Done!

The Secret to Being Organized

Pam Young's Corner

Having Too Much Stuff is a Good Thing IF...

If you’ve spent a lot of time reading about de-junking, decluttering, streamlining and simplifying and the information hasn’t helped you with your issue of having too much stuff, maybe considering this will help. Having too much stuff is a good thing! Think about it. All of your stuff, your books, furniture, household utensils, food, clothes, and on-and-on are answers to your desires. Even the stuff you inherited or someone gifted you; represents the answers to your desires. “Ask and it shall be given.”

It’s likely you are financially better off than your parents and maybe if you experienced poverty in your childhood you’ve had a stronger desire to have nice things, than someone who always has had them.

In the 80s, Peggy and I helped 100s of women streamline their homes through Project CHAOS (Can’t Have Anyone Over Syndrome).

Many were women who had parents who lived through the Depression in the 1930s. Our mom was one who remembered that Depression and while she was always organized and never had too much stuff, she wanted to have nice things and spent her life continually improving our home and its contents.

I remember that she watched the soap operas of her day with the sound turned down so you couldn’t hear what was going on. She said, “You can follow the latest fashion trends in clothing and household interiors by paying attention to the Hollywood sets and wardrobes. They hire top fashion experts and interior decorators to present the latest trends. I turn off the sound so I can concentrate on what’s in.” She’d watch a few episodes each season, taking copious notes in her notebook. Our home always looked like a fashion magazine spread!

Whatever your past was, it’s what has lead you to now and what you have. Look what you’ve been able to have! In fact the more you have, the more evidence you have of your ability to fulfill your heart’s desire.

The beauty of having too much stuff is that sooner or later (hopefully sooner than later when you find yourself a feature on a hoarder show) your desire to simplify your life will rear its lovely head and you’ll easily go from receiving mode to giving mode! What an exquisite plan God has put in place for us.

Giving Mode

Instead of thinking of having to get rid of stuff, try thinking of getting to give away stuff. The thought ‘What do I get to give away today?’ has such power in it. Set your timer for 15 minutes and see how much you can collect to give away today. With that thought in mind, pull out a drawer that’s crammed full of full-filled desires, and remove all the items you haven’t used in the last year. See if you can fill a box or a bag, knowing that somewhere out there someone is in desire mode and will be thrilled to get your no longer needed stuff. Think of how wonderful it feels when you’re in desire mode, to find something you want! Your drawers, closets and boxes filled with stuff you no longer use, are literally filled with future wonderful feelings that’ll be felt by those in desire mode once you give them away. Have you ever thought that every item in your house that you no longer use, has within it the energy of joy to be experienced by its next owner?

Sacramento County DA Reports

Defendant Convicted for Multiple Sexual Assaults

DATE: June 7, 2017

CASE: Steven Anthony McCarter (Case #16FE002313)

PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Tate Davis, Adult Sexual Assault Prosecution Unit

Steven Anthony McCarter was convicted by a jury of two counts of rape by force with personal use of a deadly weapon, two counts of assault with a deadly weapon, two counts of assault by means likely to produce great bodily injury and assault with the intent to commit rape against two separate women.

On November 21, 2015, a homeless victim was sitting on a street curb near Sacramento State. McCarter offered to drive her to get food, which she accepted. McCarter then provided her with alcohol and asked her to stay in his motel room. The victim agreed to stay in his room with the understanding there would be no sex. The victim later awoke to find McCarter naked with his arms around her neck. McCarter punched and elbowed the victim in the face several times, choked her until she couldn't breathe, and wrapped his belt around her throat in an attempt to suffocate her. When the belt broke, the victim begged McCarter to stop beating her. McCarter proceeded to rape the victim twice. The victim escaped the next morning and was taken to a hospital for her injuries and a sexual assault exam. The District Attorney's Crime Lab analyzed DNA collected from the exam, which was later matched to McCarter's DNA.

On January 23, 2016, a second victim was walking and carrying grocery bags in south Sacramento. McCarter offered to give her a ride, which she accepted. The two talked about meeting again later that night. When the victim became stranded at a light rail station, she called McCarter and asked for a ride home. McCarter picked her up and drove to a liquor store. He then stated he was too drunk to drive and asked if they could stay in a motel for the night. The victim agreed with the understanding there would be no sex. When the victim was in bed, McCarter demanded she remove her clothing. When she refused, McCarter punched her in the face and hit her in the eye with a liquor bottle. The victim was able to fight McCarter off and escape. The next day, the victim went to a hospital and reported the attempted rape. She later identified McCarter in a photo lineup.

Allegations that McCarter suffered four prior convictions will be determined at sentencing.

Sentencing is set for July 14, 2017, at 10:00 a.m. in Department 17 before the Honorable Bunmi Awoniyi.

Defendant Sentenced for Attempted Murder of His Children

DATE: June 7, 2017

CASE: Charles Ewers (Case #15F02083)

PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Quirina Orozco, Special Assault & Child Abuse Unit

The Honorable Jaime Roman sentenced Charles Ewers to 18 years to life in prison. On May 4, 2017, Ewers pled guilty to two counts of attempted murder and admitted to two enhancements for causing great bodily injury and using a deadly weapon.

On April 4, 2015, sheriff's deputies responded to Ewers home after receiving a call from his estranged wife, who was concerned about her children after Ewers failed to return them at the agreed upon time. Deputies heard the sound of a running car motor from the garage. They forced entry into the garage, where they found two children in the car, ages 8 and 10, with bloodied heads and faces. Yellow hoses were connected from the exhaust pipe to a small opening through the rear passenger window. Deputies immediately removed the children from the vehicle. Ewers remained in the driver's seat with a replica airsoft gun on his seat before he was later removed.

Ewers admitted to deputies that he had given his children Ambien to make them drowsy and had planned to suffocate his children by carbon monoxide poisoning. When they failed to get drowsy, he used a mallet to strike them each repeatedly on their heads, causing extensive injuries to their head and bodies. After physically assaulting them, he then forced the children into his running car and told them they were all "going to Heaven."

When questioned by law enforcement, Ewers stated, "I am in control. I am not in a rage. I am in control and I am sad that it didn't work out. If I could try again, I would." He later explained that he had planned the act for several months and was looking for the right time to do it. ★

CORDOVA SPORTS

The Face and Future of Area Rugby

By Shelly Lembke

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Nick Freitas is a coach, ambassador and all-round representative for area youth rugby. Freitas grew up near Auburn in Applegate. With a degree in fine arts, his wife, and fresh from the film industry, Freitas has returned to the area to spread his passion for rugby.

Artist and athlete, Freitas likes to stay creative and on the move. When it comes to unwinding, he still seems to stay in motion. “We love to go to the river, we like to hike, bike, swim, basically anything active. I also fancy myself and inventor and painter. Having a BFA (Bachelor of Fine Arts) I like to experience as many art forms as I can. Athletes can be artists and artists can be athletes. Unfortunately, often our society forces kids to choose one or the other, which I feel is doing us all a disservice.”

Employed by Rugby NorCal, Freitas is Youth Development Officer for Sacramento Valley and his days are full. “I’m either chasing down leads for schools, sports clubs, churches, after school programs, etc. to help implement offering flag rugby in their program. I also help start leagues like the one about to start here in Rancho Cordova. My goal is to get as many kids as possible to play the game at least once. Sometimes I refer to myself as the Jonny Appleseed of Rugby.”

“Nick Freitas collects forms from girls and boys from Williamson Elementary who are interested in signing up for the rugby program.

While Freitas wants to bring the sport to the whole area, Rancho Cordova is Ground Central for the group’s development of youth rugby. “Short term goals are to get flag leagues up and running through schools, parks and after school clubs such as Boys and Girls Club and YMCA,” said Freitas. “We are also offering for the first time in many years, youth rugby teams in Rancho Cordova. We are very excited about this. We will be offering a summer flag league and in the fall and winter we will have teams that will compete in the Rugby NorCal tackle league. We will have an under 10, under 12 and Middle School teams for both boys and girls.”

Keenly aware of Rancho Cordova’s sports legacy, he sees rugby as complementary to other established sports. “I want to build on that sports legacy. I have seen the caliber of athletes in this city and I believe we would become the next hot spot for professional rugby players. Fifteen of USA Rugby’s players are from Northern California. The national talent development already has their eyes out here, we just need to show them Rancho Cordova athletes. I also believe that Rancho Cordova can be a shining example of how rugby can help build positive community focused on working together.”

Freitas sees major possibilities (including college scholarships) for Rancho Cordova and the Sacramento area. “Ideally I want to see a school league and a competitive club. If we are talking 10-year plan I would like to see a professional rugby team in Rancho Cordova, which could be closer than you would think. Absolutely! The city of Glendale, CO [built] one of the nicest rugby stadiums in the country and because of this Glendale is called “Rugby Town USA.” I believe Rancho Cordova could show them what a “rugby town” really looks like.”

Acres of land at the former Mather Air Base have been leased from the county to build a world class rugby complex, spotlighting Rancho Cordova and Sacramento County as a sports destination. “Yes, the rugby complex will be an amazing addition to the City,” commented Freitas. “A huge benefit will be it bringing in the international rugby matches. USA Rugby is scouting for a new home and we could be a viable option for them, which would have a massive impact on the economy of the City. The complex will also offer a premier training facility for rugby players and teams from around the state.”

In the meantime, Freitas has more pressing concerns. While the reception from local cities, especially Rancho Cordova, has been warm, he appeals to teachers, students, parents and officials to get involved. A home field for kids is what he needs most. “Don’t worry we’ll train you. But most of all right now we would love a little land. While the complex is being built, I’m trying to get a bit of land to set up an after-school rugby facility. This would be a place for kids of all ages to come after school, play, practice rugby, eat some healthy food and get assistance with homework. So, my call would go out to anyone who might have some land so we can build our little field of dreams for the kids.”

Fast paced, fun, and inclusive, rugby stresses safety, camaraderie, respect and teamwork, with studies showing far fewer injuries than “mainstream” sports, points out Freitas. For more information see rugbynorcal.org and lancerrugbyclub.org.

River Cats and Bogle Vineyards Unveil First-Ever Ballpark Vineyard

Planting a vineyard inside Raley Field is a perfect tie back to our region’s longstanding farming traditions along the Sacramento arenas throughout the country, this is the first time the family has planted its own vines in a professional sports stadium.

“The Bogle family first planted wine grapes in Clarksburg in 1968 and today we are thrilled to carry on that tradition of firsts by planting a vineyard inside one of the finest baseball venues in the country,” said Warren Bogle, President of Bogle Vineyards. “We are grateful to the Savage family and the River Cats for allowing us to create a living vineyard that truly exemplifies Sacramento region’s farm-to-fork movement.”

The Cabernet Sauvignon vineyard, planted in May of 2017, is expected to begin producing fruit by fall of 2019.

In addition to the vines, six wine barrel tops are etched with entertaining baseball and Bogle facts for fans to read while attending a River Cats game. The barrel tops were laser cut by Sacramento artist, Jake Castro.

The vineyard unveiling comes on the heels of the River Cats renewed commitment to serving high-quality concession options featuring locally based, farm-to-fork inspired spirits and dishes.
