New Elementary School Named After City Councilmember

McGarvey said, "I am deeply grateful for this recognition, and I look forward to seeing what the future holds for Rancho Cordova's newest school" (photo at top). Artist's rendition (at left).

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - On February 7th, the Elk Grove Unified School District (EGUSD) Board of Education unanimously voted to name its new school in the Anatolia neighborhood of Rancho Cordova the Robert J. McGarvey Elementary School. The school is currently under construction and is expected to open in July 2017 for incoming Pre-K through sixth grade students.

"To have an elementary school in the great City of Rancho Cordova named after me is an honor I never expected," said Council Member McGarvey. "I am deeply grateful for this recognition, and I look forward to seeing what the future holds for Rancho Cordova's newest school."

Robert J. McGarvey has lived in Rancho Cordova since 1967, and he has been a steadfast leader in many community, church, and school organizations and activities.

McGarvey was instrumental in the incorporation of the City of Rancho Cordova in 2003, and he has served on the Rancho Cordova City Council since then. McGarvey also founded the annual Rancho Cordova Veterans Day and Memorial Day ceremonies at the Memorial Plaza at the Sacramento VA Medical Center.

"I am honored to have served on the EGUSD Names Committee and to have recommended the name for the Robert J. McGarvey Elementary School," said Mayor Donald Terry. "Council Member McGarvey personifies the importance of civic participation and is well-deserving of this honor."

McGarvey retired from PacBell after 33 years working in the central offices and network operation center. In his retirement, he continues to serve his community as a substitute teacher. He served in the United States Air Force from 1961 to 1967, with the last 2 ½ years of active duty spent at Mather Air Force Base. He and his wife, Terri, have four children and eight grandchildren.

Solar Company to Bring Jobs to County

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - China Sunergy Co., Ltd., a specialized solar cell and module manufacturer, announced today that Sunergy America LLC (a subsidiary of China Sunergy Co., Ltd.) entered into a lease agreement with McClellan Business Park in Sacramento County.

The new plant will be located in a 140,000 square-foot building in McClellan Park and will be the company's first U.S. facility. Expected to begin operations in May 2017, the company will create more than 200 new jobs locally.

"The arrival of CSUN Solar to McClellan Park is outstanding news for the region," said District 1 County Supervisor Phil Serna. "CSUN could have chosen any site in the United States for their manufacturing and assembly operations, and they recognized the value of doing business in Sacramento County. This signifies real progress as our business community continues to grow."

Sacramento County's Office of Economic Development partnered with other area organizations, such as the Greater Sacramento Economic Council, Sacramento Municipal Utility District (SMUD), the Sacramento Employment and Training Agency (SETA) and the California Governor's Office of Business and Economic Development (GO-Biz) to assist in completing the lease transaction.

The new plant will have fully automatic production lines and will aim to serve customers across the United States.

Are We There Yet?

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - With the many recent storms and an above average rainfall saturating the state, lawmakers are calling for an end to Governor Brown's drought restrictions on Californians.

We now see that with more rain and snow in the forecast that there are trillions of gallons of water rapidly flushing on to the ocean never to be harnessed again.

Senator Jim Nielsen recently stated in a release, "Californians dutifully conserved water during the drought. We took out our lawns and substituted drought-tolerant plants. We took shorter showers. We used more efficient watering systems on our gardens and farms. Perhaps most painfully, we felled our land and sold off our livestock out-of-state."

In a special report dated November 30th, 2016 from the Department of Water Resources titled "State Plan Seeks To Make Water Conservation A Way of Life" California Department of Water Resources Director Mark W. Cowin. said "Californians rose to the challenge during this historic drought and recognized that conservation is critical in the face of an uncertain future. This plan (The Governor's Water Action Plan) is about harnessing the creativity and innovation that Californians have shown during the driest years in state history and making water conservation a way of life in the years ahead. This plan will help make permanent changes to water use so California is better prepared for whatever the future brings."

The Department of Water Resources (DWR) manual snow survey recently reported “a snow water equivalence of 28.1 inches, a significant increase since the January 3 survey, when just 6 inches was found there. On average, the snowpack supplies about 30 percent of California’s water needs as it melts in the spring and early summer.

Measurements indicate the water content of the northern Sierra snowpack is 26 inches, 144 percent of the multi-decade average for the date. Stock photo

More telling than a survey at a single location, however, are DWR's electronic readings from 101 stations scattered throughout the Sierra Nevada. Statewide, the snowpack holds 31 inches of water equivalent, or 173 percent of the February 2 average (18.1 inches). On January 1 before a series of January storms, the snow water equivalent (SWE) of the statewide snowpack was 6.5 inches, just 64 percent of the New Year's Day average."

The report concluded, "Measurements indicate the water content of the northern Sierra snowpack is 26 inches, 144 percent of the multi-decade average for the date. The central and southern Sierra readings are 32 inches (173 percent of average) and 32 inches (200 percent of average) respectively.”

In his published statement to Governor Brown, Senator Nielsen commented, "Californians are now more mindful and aware of the scarcity of our water. You asked us to do our part to save. We dutifully complied. In fact, conservation had become widely practiced, particularly in agriculture, even before this most recent devastating and prolonged drought. Californians have done their part. Let's do our part and end the drought."

“Perhaps we could use all that cement planned for a Bullet Train to Nowhere on new innovation and creating a few more storage facilities for the rainfall when we actually get it?” said no one. ★

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Are you a Rancho Cordova resident seeking funding for college? Applications are now being accepted for the City of Rancho Cordova's 2017 Community Pride Scholarship.

The George Washington Carver School of Arts and Science graduate came highly recommended for the scholarship for her dedication to serving her community, as well as for her exceptional leadership abilities.

The Community Pride Scholarship program was established in 2009 to demonstrate support by City employees for youth and education in Rancho Cordova, and to provide opportunities for local youth to attend college.

“Your success is our only business”

Dream Big

Louis McNerney

They say owning a home is a big part of the American Dream. However, Lou McNerney, an alternative career coach for The Entrepreneur’s Source, will argue that owning a business is equally significant, especially in today’s employment climate where some corporations are downsizing and cutbacks are often the way to stay relevant.

Lou suggests that if you have been successful at your job, why wouldn’t you also be successful at owning your own business.

“Most of my clients want something different, and I help them understand how the skills they have developed in their career, are transferrable to business ownership”. I show them how these skills apply to many business models being offered in the self-employment arena.

What does it take to become a successful business owner? You need a support team consisting of an accountant, an attorney, and a technical person. You may also need a mentor, plus the support of any partners (wife, significant other or any other close family members) or you will not succeed. Your business model must have little or no competition, a service that will be recession proof and you must be able to provide consistency in your product.

Consider a Franchise

I joined the Entrepreneur’s Source as a franchise owner several years ago, after 28 years at a major corporation. Today I help clients explore franchise opportunities that meet their Income, Lifestyle, Wealth, and Equity goals. Owning a franchise instead of starting your own business has its advantages and I can advise them based on my own experience.

Many franchise offerings today have back office support, training, financing options and technical support. Statistically 90% of all franchises remain in operation after the first 10 years compared to 10% of new individual business startups. Franchising has been among the top job creators in the economy for both 2015 and 2016.

Louis McNerney is a Franchise Coach/Alternative Career Coach with The Entrepreneur’s Source. As a leader in the corporate environment, Lou aligned resources on the Corporate Program teams he lead, helping them achieve maximum results. Lou will listen and work with you to help you identify an opportunity most suited to meet your Income, Lifestyle, Wealth, and Equity goals. # And Another Thing ...

*Whatever Befalls the Earth
Befalls the Sons of the Earth*

will give the workers in Oroville the time they need.

Science fiction stories about the future assume that science has given mankind control of the weather; you know, the wind, the rain, and the temperatures both hot and cold. But there have been some very wise people over the centuries who have been able to look at what is real, and what is not. One of these wise men named Chief Seattle, who was a chief of the Suquamish Tribe and Duwamish Tribe in the 1800s, said “Whatever befalls the Earth befalls the sons of the Earth. Man did not weave the web of life, he is merely a strand in it.” So I will continue to keep my umbrella handy, my weather ‘resistant’ coat close at hand, and pay my PG&E bill (yes, our bill has gone up, too) to keep our home warm.

From February 15th through March 15th, you will have a great opportunity to apply for funding from the Fiscal Year 2017/2018 Community Enhancement Fund. More information can be found on the City’s website at www.cityofranhocordova.org/communityenhancementfund. You can also see the inaugural citizen report, an overview of Community Enhancement Fund projects and how the past year went, and information that will help if you have a project in mind.

Happy President’s Day, President Lincoln’s Birthday, President Washington’s Birthday, and Happy Valentine’s Day. I always think of holidays being celebrated in the fall. You know, beginning with Labor Day, Halloween, Thanksgiving, Veterans Day, Christmas, and New Year’s, and then everything winding down for a while. But I am wrong, of course, because people find many ways to celebrate events and people in our city, county, and our country. The first ones I mentioned above are the ones I think of at the moment. Valentine’s Day is a little more personal than President’s Day, and I found a quote from Franklin P. Jones in which he says, “Love doesn’t make the world go round. Love is what makes the ride worthwhile.”

Now there are many ways people celebrate Valentine’s Day, and like other holidays, some people don’t celebrate it at all. Personally, I think letting a person know how you feel about them can be both easy and difficult at the same time. Another quote I like is from Mignon McLaughlin who said, “A successful marriage requires falling in love many times, always with the same person.”

My wife and I will be celebrating our 52nd wedding anniversary this coming November, and here’s another quote, this time from Michael Leunig. “Love one another and you will be happy. It’s as simple and as difficult as that.” Many things are said about how to celebrate Valentine’s Day, and while some of those suggestions are very nice, you can always find others that are not. But everyone has different memories, and I hope this Valentine’s Day will be one that you will be able to cherish.

From Councilman Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

The rains have come, and so far, they don’t look like they are ready to leave for a while. Looking out the window at my office, I am very grateful for the storms that have arrived, carrying the moisture we have been hoping for to end the drought. The areas of the state that are still suffering from the continued drought are looking for the same relief we have received so far this year. During the first four years of the drought, when the whole state was suffering at different levels, the clouds would come and go and leave us still praying and hoping for the rain and snow.

Now, with all that being said about hoping for more rain, snow, etc., I am glad that the rain and snow has stopped for a few days and the engineers and dam experts will have a chance to look at the damage that has been done to the Oroville emergency spillway and the main spillway. Their possibilities are very limited because of the water and snow that is still coming later this week and more this year, so at the moment, they are going to do what they can to limit any more damage. I am not going to say anything else about what is being done at the Oroville Dam because things are changing minute by minute. I’ll just keep my eyes on the reports like you, and hope and pray for the best. I also hope that being allowed a short respite between storms

Dave Says

Husband's business is dying

Dear Dave,

My husband and I have four kids, and I make $50,000 a year. He runs a small business that has been floundering for a while now, so we're basically living off my income. Part of that income is going into the business. Plus, we don't have much in savings, and we're behind on our house payments. Do you have any advice?

- Paige

Dear Paige,

First of all, you and your husband have to get on the same page financially. Sit down together, and do a household budget and a profit and loss statement on the business. A profit and loss statement will tell you the money that comes in minus the money that goes out.

Here's the thing. If you're putting other money into a business account, that's a clue that you're not making money on the business. Put his rent, supplies and any other business expenses on the profit and loss list, and write out — step by step — what it will take for you to break even in the business each month. If you don't at least break even, then it's time for him to do something else for a living.

I'm an entrepreneur and a business owner. I get the allure and excitement that goes along with running your own business. But family and your financial responsibilities come first. You don't need to put any money into the business account, except for the income he creates. And while you two are sorting this out, use your income to get current on your house payments and attack any other debt!

much that we're actually endorsing it on some of our podcasts and a few other places. It's a cloud-based program for small business, and it's a pretty simple accounting system.

Honestly, you don't want anything super complicated for small-business accounting. You just need something that allows you to write out invoices and keep up with your expenses while categorizing them. It's important you know what's going on in your business — to be able to continually analyze what's happening — and have the ability to look in your rear-view mirror and see if anything's coming up behind you!

—Dave

Keep it simple

Dear Dave,

I'm looking for a good accounting program for small business. Do you have any suggestions?

- Julie

Dear Julie,

The best one I've seen is called FreshBooks. I like it so

Aerojet Receives NASA Glenn Research Center Award

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Aerojet Rocketdyne, Inc., a subsidiary of Aerojet Rocketdyne Holdings, Inc. (NYSE: AJRD), has received NASA Glenn Research Center’s Large Business Prime Contractor of the Year award for its work on the space agency’s Next Evolutionary Xenon Thruster-Commercial (NEXT-C) Gridded Ion Thruster System, which was built by Aerojet Rocketdyne. The

In April 2015, NASA Glenn Research Center awarded Aerojet Rocketdyne a contract worth about $18 million to complete the development of NEXT-C.

NEXT-C Gridded Ion Thruster System is designed to power government and commercial spacecraft to deep-space destinations faster, farther and more fuel efficiently than any other propulsion technology currently available.

“This is an incredible honor,” said Aerojet Rocketdyne CEO and President Eileen Drake. “Without question, this high-performance technology will change the future of planetary and commercial space missions. It has allowed us to build on our extensive development and flight experience with arcjet, Hall and ion thruster systems, and we look forward to the exciting opportunities that lie ahead.”

In April 2015, NASA Glenn Research Center awarded Aerojet Rocketdyne a contract worth about $18 million to complete the development of NEXT-C.

Under the contract, Aerojet Rocketdyne will complete the development of both the NEXT-C Gridded Ion thruster and power processing units (PPUs), and deliver two complete flight systems to NASA. The PPUs convert the electrical power generated by the solar arrays into the power needed for each component of the thruster. As part of the work on the PPU, Aerojet Rocketdyne is working with ZIN Technologies of Cleveland, Ohio, which is categorized as a small disadvantaged business concern, to develop key elements of the electronics.

According to NASA, the NEXT-C System is capable of performing a variety of missions to deep-space destinations while reducing cost and trip time. In 2013, NASA completed a record-setting 50,000-hour life test of the NEXT-C Gridded Ion Thruster System, establishing the performance and lifetime capabilities required for a wide range of demanding missions. Operating at three times the power level of the current NASA Ion Propulsion Systems, the NEXT-C Gridded Ion Thruster System produces three times the thrust level. This higher-power operating capability enables commercial applications in addition to science missions.

Aerojet Rocketdyne has a long history with NASA Glenn Research Center in the development of advanced electric propulsion and power systems, and continues to build upon its core expertise in this field. With this program, NEXT-C, as well as other recent NASA awards for the Advanced Electric Propulsion System, a Hall thruster-based system, Aerojet Rocketdyne continues to solidify its leadership role in the development of Electric Propulsion systems for NASA science missions.

Aerojet Rocketdyne is an innovative company delivering solutions that create value for its customers in the aerospace and defense markets. The company is a world-recognized aerospace and defense leader that provides propulsion and energetics to the space, missile defense and strategic systems, tactical systems and armaments areas, in support of domestic and international markets. If your New Year’s Resolution was to get organized, you’ve had a month to play around with your resolution. Did you tell many people of your plans? When I got organized in the late seventies, I decided to keep my “project” a secret from my husband, kids, parents and best friend. I’d read that when you want to make a transitional change in your life, keep it to yourself and wait for “them” to come to you and say, “What’s happened to you?” or “You seem happier and you’re always on time lately, what’s up?”

What I discovered by keeping my mouth shut on my plans was I had more energy! There was a certain excitement in “my secret.” Also, those closest to us have probably heard us talk about needing to change, wanting to change and planning to change, so to make a chronic announcement, “This year, I’m going to get organized,” “lose weight” or “budget and get out of debt,” your friends and family are liable to say, “Yeah, sure Martha, what’s new?”

There is power in sharing your intentions with those who have the same goal. I’m so thankful for the internet platform I’ve been able to create so we can help each other and share our triumphs as well as our failings. I’m just talking about keeping it a secret from our loved ones, until they start seeing results.

Critical Spouse

I was married to a very critical person and my disorganization affected our marriage and made it worse. As I got control of my routines and changed some very bad habits, my house was turned into a home. But the criticism didn’t stop. In fact his criticism began to stick out like a pimple on Gwyneth Paltrow’s nose would. It made me know we have to change for ourselves and only for ourselves. It’s enlightened selfishness.

When I decided to lose 35 pounds and document my journey in “The Mouth Trap: the butt stops here!” I kept it a secret from my friends and family for three months. Since I’m the one who cooks our meals and sets the table, I wanted to see how long it would take Terry (my second husband with not a critical bone in his body) to notice. He never noticed because non-critical people don’t notice much. I wanted to see how long it would take before he did. Curiosity has energy!

Nelly, my inner child loved keeping the secret! We began to bond in a way I hadn’t counted on, because we discovered no one really cares about what we do until it affects them in a negative way! So we teamed up as best friends with our secret that nobody knew.

I lost 17 pounds before Terry ever noticed! Of course when he did, Nelly had to open her big mouth and tell him how we knew he wouldn’t notice and that all he thinks about is HIMSELF! He didn’t like those words one bit, but in a very sweet voice he said, “It’s like when you have kids and they change so slowly you don’t notice because you see them every day.” I apologized for my selfish judgment, but that judgment gave Nelly and me such energy keeping it a secret.

If you are serious about changing, try keeping it a secret between you and your inner child. You’ll be amazed at your new energy level.

If you are serious about getting organized, I recommend my latest “how to” book called “The Joy of Being Disorganized.” It’s available on Amazon. You’ll learn step-by-step how to get organized just enough to please you!

DATE: January 27, 2017
CASE: Carl Simmermacher (Case #15F07372)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney James Wax, Cyber Crimes Unit

Carl Simmermacher was convicted by a jury of felony communicating with a minor to commit oral copulation or sodomy, and misdemeanor annoying or molesting a child under 18.

In November of 2012, Simmermacher commented on a photo that the female victim had posted on her Facebook page. The two began direct messaging and she told him that she was 15 years old (she was in fact 13 years old). Over the next five days, Simmermacher sent her numerous sexual messages, stating he could pick her up in his car, bring her to his apartment, and teach her about sex. Simmermacher described the various sex acts he wanted to perform on her. The chat was interrupted after the victim's mother messaged him directly, telling him to stop communicating with her daughter.

Simmermacher faces a maximum sentence of 1 year, 6 months in prison. He will also be required to register as a sex offender for life. Sentencing is set for February 27, 2017, at 1:30 p.m. in Department 61 before the Honorable Michael Sweet.

DATE: February 2, 2017
CASE: Arthur Taylor (Case #14F07333)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Allison Dunham, Domestic Violence Unit

Arthur Taylor was convicted by a jury of attempted murder with use of a knife causing great bodily injury, assault with a deadly weapon, assault with a deadly weapon causing great bodily injury, domestic violence with personal use of a deadly weapon, and domestic violence with use of a knife causing great bodily injury.

On June 22, 2014, Taylor became angry when the victim told him she wanted to end their relationship. When Taylor took the victim's wallet, the victim struggled to get it back. Taylor then grabbed a crowbar from his car and hit the victim over her head, causing a laceration to the back of her head. While two warrants were issued by the District Attorney's Office for Taylor's arrest another incident occurred. On October 11, 2014, Taylor accused the victim of cheating on him. The victim again told Taylor she wanted to end the relationship. This time, Taylor grabbed a knife and stabbed the victim more than 20 times all over her body. The victim begged for her

DATE: February 3, 2017
CASE: Keenan Scott Williams (Case #16FE018556)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Erin Blake, Domestic Violence Unit

Keenan Scott Williams was convicted by a jury of domestic violence with great bodily injury, battery causing serious bodily injury, false imprisonment, criminal threats, and unlawful possession of a firearm. The jury also found true that Williams had prior convictions for first-degree burglary and assault with force likely to produce great bodily injury.

On September 23, 2016, Keenan Williams was with the victim at her apartment when he started accusing her of cheating on him. When the victim denied the allegations, Williams repeatedly struck her on her face, chest, legs, and back. Williams threw the victim into the shower, and ripped off her clothes. When the victim tried to escape, Williams grabbed her and choked her until she lost consciousness. The following morning, Williams dragged the victim into the bedroom where the victim's gun was located, and told her he was going to shoot her. Williams repeatedly struck the victim in her face and shoved the gun against her lips, breaking her front tooth. Williams then took the victim's wallet, iPad, cell phone, and gun before leaving the apartment in the victim's car. As a result of the attack, the victim suffered a head injury, a laceration over her eye, and bruises all over her body.

Williams faces a maximum sentence of 41 years to life in prison. Sentencing is set for March 24, 2017, at 9:00 a.m. in Department 17 before the Honorable Delbert Oros. ★

A Film & TV Review by Tim Riley

JOHN WICK: CHAPTER 2 (Rated R)

The unexpected success of Keanu Reeves as a legendary hit man in the titular role of “John Wick” in 2014, a demanding task of full-blown action requiring a blend of martial arts and gunplay, screamed for a sequel.

With an even higher body count when Reeves’ John Wick takes on various henchmen of criminal enterprises, “John Wick: Chapter 2” delivers the high-octane action thrills on a much grander scale of mayhem than the original.

Remember that in the first film it was the senseless killing of his dog that threw John Wick into a fury of brutal vengeance. It all kicks off this time when he retrieves his beloved 1969 Mustang from a treacherous Russian gang.

Having attempted to retire from the underworld when he got married, the now widowed Wick has been trying to put his criminal life behind him, but to no avail when the bad guys are restless and unforgiving.

After a high-speed chase on New York City streets, John’s plans to have a quiet civilian life are cut short when Italian gangster Santino D’Antonio (Riccardo Scamarcio) shows up on his doorstep with a marker compelling the repayment of past favors.

the imperious Winston (Ian McShane), Wick realizes he has no choice but to respect the ancient code of fulfilling a marker, no matter how odious the assignment.

As a result, Wick is off to Rome to do Santino’s dirty work and soon comes to know that the contract killing would have the very unfortunate consequence of granting Santino a seat at the “High Table,” an international criminal cartel.

Penetrating an ornate villa during a gala event to fulfill the hit, Wick is soon chased through the ruins of a Roman bathhouse by an endless stream of heavily-armed thugs.

But the best confrontation is with his target’s devoted bodyguard Cassian (Common) as well as with Santino’s lethal colleague, the mute but dexterous androgynous fighter Ares (Ruby Rose).

The second chapter of “John Wick” ends with the seemingly obvious allusion to another installment, where it appears without any doubt that the body count will mount even higher as the titular character will face off with an ostensibly endless throng of assassins.

TV CORNER – “POWERLESS” ON NBC NETWORK

In the DC Universe of comic book heroics, comedy is rare when it involves the apocalyptic battles between villains and superheroes. The NBC network aims to change that with its new series “Powerless.”

Young actress Vanessa Hudgens, best known for the “High School Musical” TV shows, takes the lead role of Emily Locke, who has been recruited to take a job at Wayne

Security in Charm City.

The joke is that Wayne Security is a failing subsidiary of Wayne Enterprises in Gotham City, where the unseen Bruce Wayne apparently has become impatient with the leadership of his incompetent cousin Van Wayne (Alan Tudyk).

Actually, Van does have ambition to get out of Charm City, if for no other reason than the daily grind of life in this boring metropolis results in the constant need for its citizens not to become collateral damage in the epic superhero vs. villain battles.

In her new position of the head of research and development, Emily is tasked with the improbable duty of motivating the apathetic employees of her division, and that would especially include engineers Teddy (Danny Pudi) and Ron (Ron Funches).

The problem for Emily is that she’s not experienced enough to be an authority figure, and she unwisely struggles to become friends with her employees who take pains not to let her in on their superhero online fantasy league.

Both Danny Pudi and Ron Funches have made their marks in other network comedies, which would be “Community” and “Undateable” respectively. As such, they are well-equipped with comedic chops to push back with nice quips.

While the best lines belong to Tudyk’s Van Wayne, his secretary Jackie (Christina Kirk) has funny counter-punches in her effortless mocking of her boss’ noticeable insecurities, including the fact that he’s omitted from the photo of the Wayne Dream Team on prominent display.

The good news for “Powerless” is its half-hour running time, which affords even the most casual viewer time to catch up on the first few episodes and gives this character-driven comedy a chance to make an impression, whether good, bad or indifferent. ★

NASA Report: San Joaquin Valley Land Continues to Sink

DWR: Groundwater Pumping Causes Subsidence, Damages Water Infrastructure

CALIFORNIA REGION, CA (MPG) - New NASA radar satellite maps prepared for the California Department of Water Resources (DWR) show that land continues to sink rapidly in certain areas of the San Joaquin Valley, putting state and federal aqueducts and flood control structures at risk of damage.

“The rates of San Joaquin Valley subsidence documented since 2014 by NASA are troubling and unsustainable,” said DWR Director William Croyle. “Subsidence has long plagued certain regions of California. But the current rates jeopardize infrastructure serving millions of people. Groundwater pumping now puts at risk the very system that brings water to the San Joaquin Valley. The situation is untenable.”

A prior August 2015 NASA report prepared for DWR documented record rates of subsidence in the San Joaquin Valley, particularly near Chowchilla and Corcoran, as farmers pumped groundwater in the midst of historic drought. The mapping was focused on the California Aqueduct, the main artery of the State Water Project, which supplies 25 million Californians and nearly 1 million acres of farmland. The report shows that subsidence caused by groundwater pumping near Avenal in Kings County has caused the Aqueduct to drop more than two feet. As a result of the sinking, the Aqueduct at this stretch can carry a flow of only 6,650 cubic feet per second (cfs) – 20 percent less than its design capacity of 8,350 cfs. To avoid overtopping the concrete banks of the Aqueduct in those sections that have sunk due to subsidence, water project operators must reduce flows.

The California Department of Water Resources (DWR), which operates the State Water Project, is analyzing whether the subsidence-created dip in the Aqueduct will affect deliveries to Kern County and Southern California water districts. If the State Water Project allocation is 85 percent or greater, delivery may be impaired this year due to the cumulative impacts of subsidence in the Avenal-Kettleman City area.

The NASA analysis also found subsidence of up to 22 inches along the Delta-Mendota Canal, a major artery of the Central Valley Project (CVP), operated by the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation. The CVP supplies water to approximately three million acres of farmland and more than two million Californians.

Also of concern is the Eastside Bypass, a system designed to carry flood flow off the San Joaquin River in Fresno County. The Bypass runs through an area of subsidence where the land surface has fallen between 16 inches and 20 inches since May 2015 – on top of several feet of subsidence measured between 2008 and 2012. DWR is working with local water districts to analyze whether surface deformation may interfere with flood-fighting efforts, particularly as a heavy Sierra snowpack melts this spring. A five-mile reach of the Eastside Bypass was raised in 2000 because of subsidence, and DWR estimates that it may cost in the range of $250 million to acquire flowage easements and levee improvements to restore the design capacity of the subsided area.

There are thousands of groundwater wells near state infrastructure that could be contributing to the subsidence recorded by NASA.

In response to the new findings, and as part of an ongoing effort to respond to the effects of California’s historic drought, state officials said they will investigate any legal options available to protect state infrastructure. DWR also will investigate measures for reducing subsidence risk to infrastructure, including groundwater pumping curtailment, creation of groundwater management zones near critical infrastructure, and county ordinance requirements.

DWR is conducting its own study of the effects of subsidence along the 444-mile-long California Aqueduct and other State Water Project features and in coming months will identify potential actions to remediate damage. A comprehensive rehabilitation to restore the full California Aqueduct to its original design capacity would likely cost in the hundreds of millions of dollars. A focused triage to address conveyance losses in the most affected portions of the canal may cost tens of millions of dollars per location.

In addition, DWR will work with local water managers to identify specific actions to reduce long-term subsidence risk and consider whether to incorporate further emphasis on reduction of subsidence risk into the ongoing implementation of the Sustainable Groundwater Management Act (SGMA).

An historic package of laws enacted by the Governor in September 2014, SGMA requires local governments to form sus-water control structures on the Aqueduct and on the CVP’s Delta-Mendota and Friant-Kern canals.

Besides aqueducts, the increased subsidence rates have the potential to damage levees, bridges, and roads.

There has been no comprehensive estimation of damage costs associated with subsidence. Due to the gradual nature of the impacts, costs will often be covered as part of normal operations and maintenance. Subsidence-related repairs have report released recently shows that two main subsidence bowls covering hundreds of square miles grew wider and deeper between spring 2015 and fall 2016. Subsidence also intensified at a third area, near Tranquillity in Fresno County, where the land surface has settled up to 20 inches in an area that extends seven miles.

Additional aircraft-based NASA radar

tainable groundwater agencies that will regulate pumping and recharge to better manage groundwater supplies. The Act requires groundwater-dependent regions to halt overdraft and bring basins into sustainable levels of pumping and recharge by the early 2040s. Groundwater supplies between 30 percent and 60 percent of the water Californians use in any year. Bringing basins into balance will eliminate the worst effects of overpumping, including subsidence and the dewatering of streams.

San Joaquin Valley land subsidence due to groundwater extraction was observed as early as the 1920s. The most extensive monitoring and research related to subsidence in the Valley was carried out in the 1950s through the 1970s because of concerns about subsidence-related damage to the state and federal water projects. The SWP’s 444-mile-long California Aqueduct was designed to take into account subsidence risk. Since the 1960s, subsidence has required repairs such as the raising of canal linings, bridges, and West Washington Road where it crosses the Eastside Bypass, a constructed floodway for the San Joaquin River.

Long-term subsidence already has destroyed thousands of public and private groundwater well casings in the San Joaquin Valley. Over time, subsidence can permanently reduce the underground aquifer’s water storage capacity.

cost the SWP and CVP an estimated $100 million since the 1960s.

U.S. Government vs. California, Let the Battle Begin!

Commentary
by Jon Fleischman

On Tuesday, (February 7th) former Attorney General Eric Holder, one of President Barack Obama's longest serving Cabinet members, paid a visit to one of his newest clients: the California State Legislature.

Holder, who returned back to private practice as a partner with the law firm of Covington and Burling in the fall of 2015, was hired by the California Legislature as part of an aggressive posturing by California's Democratic leaders against the presidency and policies of Donald Trump.

On November 9, the day after Trump won the election, State Senate President Kevin De León and Assembly Speaker Xavier Rendon issued a strong joint statement that began with them saying that they "... woke up feeling like strangers in a foreign land ...".

The statement went on to say, in part, "While Donald Trump may have won the presidency, he hasn't changed our values. America is greater than any one man or party. We will not be dragged back into the past. We will lead the resistance to any effort that would shred our social fabric or our constitution."

In January, as the legislature was hiring Holder, Democratic Governor Jerry Brown delivered a fiery State of the State Address, issuing a de facto broadside against the then-President-elect, making it clear that the State of California would defend itself against efforts by the federal government to encroach on the Golden State's ability to protect illegal aliens, preserve government healthcare, and continue programs designed to combat global warming.

When the hiring of Holder was announced in early January, it was revealed that his firm would be paid $25,000 a month. But it remains unclear exactly what Holder will be doing for that hefty compensation. And whatever he is doing is apparently being kept under wraps.

At the State Capitol on Tuesday, Holder, along with a phalanx of lawyers from his office, spent the morning in separate meetings with the State Senate and State Assembly Democratic Caucuses - and then in the afternoon they met with Governor Brown, De León and Rendon behind closed doors (with newly-appointed Attorney General Xavier Becerra not present, but calling in).

It is noteworthy that the legislature's minority Republican members were specifically excluded from the meetings that Holder had with Democrats - which is concerning, because Holder and his firm are being paid with taxpayer funds.

Holder made a brief appearance outside of the Governor's office to make a statement to the press. He said: "I'm here just to assist these gentlemen and the people they serve in trying to protect the interest of the people of California."

But when questioned further on how he would do that, Holder coyly responded, "Well..."

The strong posturing by California Democrats is setting the table for a major battle between President Trump and the Republican Congress on the one hand, and the ideologically left-wing leaders of the largest state in the union on the other.

Yesterday's confirmation of Attorney General Jeff Sessions is a harbinger for what will likely be the first point of confrontation. Sessions, like President Trump, is an immigration hard-liner, and we can expect the Justice Department to start cracking down on "sanctuary cities" (many of which are in California) right away, which can mean cuts in federal funding. There are other, even more controversial tools available to Sessions to deal with those flaunting American laws.

The response to this threat to sanctuary cities from Democrats in the legislature? De León has introduced and fast-tracked Senate Bill 54, which would in essence make California a sanctuary state, by restricting all local law enforcement agencies throughout the state from cooperating with the federal immigration authorities.

Of course, no state in the union is more invested in Obamacare than California, and Democrats fear (for good reason) that Republicans in Washington will soon be removing the federal funding for this program, leaving Sacramento Democrats with a massive hole (estimated to be more than $15 billion dollars) in their considerable state budget, as well as considerable heartache.

As President of the United States, Donald Trump is America's leader and Commander-in-Chief. He will face many foreign policy challenges all around the globe. But many of those may pale in comparison to the policy war that is about to take place between the United States of America and her largest state.

This promises to be one hell of a match, with the fighters having taken their corners.

Scam: "Can You Hear Me?"

Use Caller ID to screen calls, and consider not even answering unfamiliar numbers. If it's important, they will leave a message and you can call back.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Better Business Bureau is warning consumers about an old scam with a new twist. The "Can You Hear Me?" scam has long been used to coerce businesses into purchasing office supplies and directory ads they never actually ordered, but now it's targeting individual consumers, as well.

In the last few days of January, more than half of the reports to BBB Scam Tracker have been about this one scam. Consumers say the calls are about vacation packages, cruises, warranties, and other big ticket items. So far, none have reported money loss, but it's unclear how the scams will play out over time, or if the targets will be victimized at a later date.

Here's how it works: You get a call from someone who almost immediately asks "Can you hear me?" Their goal is to get you to answer "Yes," which most people would do instinctively in that situation. There may be some fumbling around; the person may even say something like "I'm having trouble with my headset." But in fact, the "person" may just be a robocall recording your conversation... and that "Yes" answer you gave can later be edited to make it sound like you authorized a major purchase.

BBB is offering consumers the following advice:

- Use Caller ID to screen calls, and consider not even answering unfamiliar numbers. If it's important, they will leave a message and you can call back.
- If someone calls and asks "Can you hear me?", do NOT answer "yes." Just hang up. Scammers change their tactics as the public catches on, so be alert for other questions designed to solicit a simple "yes" answer.
- Make a note of the number and report it to bbb.org/scam-tracker to help warn others. BBB also shares Scam Tracker information with government and law enforcement agencies, so every piece of information is helpful in tracking down scammers.
- Consider joining the Do Not Call Registry (DoNotCall.gov) to cut down on telemarketing and sales calls. This may not help with scammers since they don't bother to pay attention to the law, but you'll get fewer calls overall. That may help you more quickly notice the ones that could be fraudulent.

Report scams to BBB Scam Tracker (bbb.org/scamtracker). For more than 100 years, Better Business Bureau has been helping people find businesses, brands, and charities they can trust. # CORDOVA SPORTS

Elijah Morgera Moving Forward to Graceland University

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Elijah Morgera enters this up spring season as one of the captains on the Cordova High School boys track and field team. Last fall, he played wide receiver and defensive back on the CHS football team that posted a 7-4 record that included a share of the Sierra Valley Conference title, and a Sac-Joaquin Section Division III playoff berth.

As Morgera, now a senior, prepares for Lancer boys' track and field team, he will also have his thoughts on the next chapter of life outside of Rancho Cordova after he graduates this spring.

At Cordova's campus in front of parents Dean and Erica, plus friends, coaches and the school's administrators on Feb. 8th, Morgera signed his National Letter of Intent with Graceland University in Lamoni, Iowa. Along with plans to obtaining a college degree in criminal justice, Morgera is slated to play wide receiver on the Yellowjackets' football team.

Morgera is the second Cordova football player to sign with a four-year college. Two weeks ago, middle linebacker Kenny Haney signed to play at Southern Oregon University.

Morgera said there were two dozen colleges he applied. The friendly atmosphere at Graceland University drew his interest.

"The coaches were very welcoming," Morgera said. "They sent me lots of e-mails, text messages every day to see how I was doing, and if I was still interested in coming. I felt a family environment."

Playing in only four football games last fall – Morgera broke his collarbone in the Lancers' season opener against Rio Americano, but returned later in the season – he had 5 receptions for 64 yards.

As a junior last spring, Morgera posted impressive numbers in short distance races for the Lancers. In the 100 meters, his best time was 11.84 seconds at an SVC dual meet against Liberty Ranch. In that same meet, he was clocked at 24.04 in the 200 meters.

Last April, also at an SVC meet against Galt, in the 400 meters, Morgera recorded his time in the 400 meters at 52.94. In addition, he helped anchor two relay teams; the 4x100 boys relay team that registered at 45.76 and the 4x400 boys relay team at 3 minutes, 35.67 seconds. Both were set at the SVC championships.

Being involved in Cordova's football and track and field programs have been a blessing, Morgera stated.

"The coaches I've had," Morgera said.

He further credits Cordova track and field head coach Shane Jackson, and sprinting coach Roger Parker for training him over the years.

"They've been very helpful in the process," Morgera said.

Jackson added, "He's been an amazing two-sport athlete for us. He's done a lot of the hard work himself. He took care of business in the classroom, and that's one of the biggest things. He was never one we had to worry about."

Cordova football head coach Darrin Nill said that Morgera is "a great kid" who echoed that academics are more important than athletics, and that will carry Morgera through life. ★

Lancers End SVC Action with Win

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - A long night ended with a happy ending of the regular season for the Cordova High School boys basketball team.

Playing at Union Mine in the Sierra Valley Conference finale on Tuesday, the Lancers overcame a long night that included the freshmen contest going into overtime. That extended into a late start of the junior varsity contest. Before the varsity game started, the Diamondbacks had Senior Night to honor their seven seniors on the squad.

But the Lancers finished the game with a 72-36 win over the D'backs that concludes the regular season with an 8-2 record in the SVC and 15-11 overall.

"We wanted to make sure that we came out very aggressive," said Cordova head coach Fletcher Johnson, "and that we shot the ball very well."

That's exactly what the Lancers did in the first half. Cordova jumped out to a 20-10 lead. That expanded to a 37-16 lead at halftime, en route to the win.

Leading scorers for Cordova were Markell Briggs with 29 points, which included four 3-pointers in the first half. Calvin Augusta followed with 14 points, Najee Clark and Joe Danielyan seven points each, Jason Novik and Mike Brown six points each and Caleb Clark three.

Liberty Ranch 88, Cordova 78

In Friday's SVC game at Lancers Gym, the conference title was on the line for both teams. Both were tied for first place in the conference at 7-1 each.

The first quarter had visiting Liberty Ranch jump out to a 23-14 lead. But the Lancers countered back with their own scoring frenzy with 27 points. That knocked down the Hawks' lead to 45-41 at halftime.

Halftime adjustments to the Hawks' offense allowed the Lancers to take the lead in the third quarter. Cordova guard Jason Novik blocked a shot from a Liberty Ranch player in last Friday's SVC boys basketball game. Photo by Rick Sloan as Liberty Ranch retook the lead, and hung onto a 70-67 advantage entering the fourth quarter. The game was marked with many fouls that included technical fouls called on both teams; excessive celebration after points were made to keep the game close. That led to Cordova and Liberty Ranch to attempt nearly 50 free throws – combined – in the game.

"They came out pretty aggressive," said Johnson of the Hawks. "By the time the third quarter came around, we had countered adjusted."

Briggs was one of three Lancers who scored in double figures with 27 points. Augusta had 14 points and Novik 11. Brown finished with nine. Liberty Ranch's Chandler Garcia and Jalen Patterson had 24 points each.

The top three SVC teams earn automatic playoff berths. That includes Cordova, along with conference champion Liberty Ranch and third place Rosemont (7-3 in the SVC).

Yesterday, Thursday, the Sac-Joaquin Section was scheduled to release the playoff brackets for boys and girls basketball. To see who Cordova is playing to start the playoffs, visit www.cifsjs.org. ★

Baseball Sweeps Doubleheader; Men's Tennis Brings Home Trophy; Women's Tennis Earns Honors

Men's Baseball

The Falcons took full advantage of the sunny weather and home field as they swept a doubleheader from Gavilan College on Saturday at Falcon Field, 6-5 and 6-2, to even their season record at 4-4. Freshman Grant Dragmire continued to shine as the team's top starter as he earned the win, going seven innings while allowing three earned runs on five hits. Sophomore Brandon Bachman got the save with a perfect ninth, including two strikeouts. Offensively, freshman centerfielder Aidan Malm had two hits and drove in two runs to lead the Falcons. Rightfielder Carson McCusker, after tripling to deep right field to lead off the seventh, scored what turned out to be the winning run on Mason Allen's RBI single.

In the afternoon game, freshman starter Landon Mitchell threw six innings of shutout ball while giving up just two hits. More importantly, he allowed just one walk and kept runners off the bases. Meanwhile, the Gavilan pitchers were doing the opposite as they hit six Falcon batters and walked five, and with Rams' fielders committing four errors, fell behind 5-0 after five innings. The Rams managed to get two runs in the eighth to make it somewhat interesting before Falcon freshman Josh Winkler (who played third base in both games) came on in relief and shut them down in the ninth with two strikeouts. Aidan Malm and backup catcher Jack Rotteveel each had two hits in the game.

The Falcons will host perennial playoff contender Fresno City College at Falcon Field today at 4:00 pm. Come on out to see this exciting team in action; FLC faculty, staff, and students get in free with I.D.

Men's Tennis

The FLC men's tennis team earned their first-ever team trophy over the weekend with a second-place showing in the 12-team Modesto Tournament. Every Falcon entry (6 singles and 3 doubles) finished third or better with five of six Falcon singles players taking home second place medals.

Women's Tennis

The Falcons took a pared-down squad of four to the Mission Tournament in Santa Clara on Saturday due to conflicting work obligations and an adjusted tournament schedule. Still, the Falcons brought home some individual hardware. Freshman Nicole Chumpitaz finished second at #6 singles, then she and sophomore Michelle Doyle combined to reach the #2 doubles semi-finals before losing to a pair from Cañada College. Freshman Erin Cline finished second in #3 singles consolation, and Michelle Doyle was second in #4 singles consolation.

Both tennis teams will return to action on Tuesday, Feb 21 when they open their Big 8 Conference schedule at American River College.
