Local Veteran Awarded New Roof

Above: Local leaders and Cal-Vintage Roofing step up to help a local veteran in need. At right: Cal-Vintage workers get the hard work done for the Pulido family.

By Shelly Lembke

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Business and government came together recently to award resident and military veteran Monica Pulido a new roof for her Rancho Cordova home. Pulido was on deployment overseas when she received word that her roof was leaking. She contacted her National Guard headquarters back home to see if anything could be done. She was pointed in the direction of Owens Corning and their Roof Deployment Project, created as a thank you for our nation's veterans.

The Roof Deployment Project matches Owens Corning products with top local contractors and provides new roofing to service personnel, based on an application process.

Pulido applied and was awarded a new roof, recently installed by Cal-Vintage Roofing, a Rancho Cordova-based company and Chamber of Commerce member. Family owned and operated, Pete Mazzuca Jr began the company about forty years ago, and came out for the event, along with son Pete Mazzuca III and daughter Lisa Mazzuca-Perry. Rancho Cordova mayor David Sander, city council member and military veteran Robert McGarvey were also in attendance. Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce members were on hand, including President Diann H. Rogers.

Pulido, a mother of three, holds down a regular civilian job in addition to serving in the National Guard. With winter weather and the rainy season fast approaching, the new roof comes at an opportune time. The city of Rancho Cordova was happy to help facilitate the free roof and take care of a local service member. With the aid of the City smoothing the permitting process, the support of the Chamber, the referral from the military and the generous donation of roofing materials by Owens Corning and the free provision of labor to install, work proceeded at a productive clip.

Mayor Sander was pleased to see the plan come together and benefit a deserving military family in need. "To see a local business partner with the military is great," he commented, referring to Rancho Cordova's rich military background. "We have so much history and regard and support in our community. It's great to do something like this," he said. ★

Cordova High Students Join in Forestry Challenge

GRIZZLY FLATS, CA (MPG) - Nine students from Cordova High School participated recently in the 2016 El Dorado Forestry Challenge, one group of a total of 84 high school students from 13 schools from northern California. The event was October 26 to 29 at Leoni Meadows Camp, near Grizzly Flats, California. Cordova won second place in the Pacing Contest and received two Four-Year Participation Awards for seniors Joi Jacobs and Jonae Curry.

One of the highlights for the students this year was learning how to conduct a "Brown's Transect", a method to quantify woody debris on the forest floor.

The study area was the site of a fuels reduction project in 2008. Students entered the data into a fire behavior computer modeling program to determine optimum conditions under which to conduct a prescribed burn in the project area. During the Challenge, teams of students also completed field training, followed by a field test, to assess their technical forestry knowledge and data collecting skills.

"Our students continue to have an amazing experience while job-shadowing foresters at this event, and even the rain this year did not dampen their enthusiasm," said Cordova High School teacher Bret Harden. Joi Jacobs, a senior at Cordova High School, summed it up as follows: "This experience has improved my teamwork skills, my confidence, and presentation skills. It was very fun and a great four-year experience."

eCigarette Sellers Face New Requirements

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Starting on January 1, 2017, sellers of electronic cigarettes (eCigarettes), vaping devices, and other related products will be required to obtain a Cigarette and Tobacco Products Retailer's License from the California State Board of Equalization (BOE). This license must be obtained prior to making retail sales of these products to consumers. It will cost $265 for a 12-month period, and must be renewed annually at this cost.

In accordance with Senate Bill x2 5, products requiring licensing will now include: any product containing, made, or derived from nicotine; any electronic smoking or vaping device that delivers nicotine or other vaporized liquids to the person inhaling from the device; and any component, part, or accessory, even if it's sold separately.

For example, selling eCigarettes, vaping tanks or mods, atomizers, and e-juice or e-liquid at a retail store will require a business to obtain a Cigarette and Tobacco Products Retailer's License. However, these products are not subject to excise taxes imposed by the Cigarette and Tobacco Products Tax Law, and retailers will not be required to maintain purchase invoices or obtain these products from a BOE licensed cigarette or tobacco products distributor or wholesaler. This licensing requirement does not apply to cannabis-related vaping devices that are sold in properly licensed cannabis dispensaries.

Sellers of eCigarettes, vaping devices and other related products should also have a California Seller's Permit. Retailers can register for the Cigarette and Tobacco Products Retailer's License online at www.boe.ca.gov.

Beginning January 1, 2017, anyone found selling or gifting any of these products without obtaining a valid license is in violation of the law and subject to a misdemeanor citation and seizure of inventory. Products seized by the BOE or other law

Health Officials Urge Californians to Remove Standing Water

Rains Can Lead to More Mosquitoes

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - California Department of Public Health (CDPH) Director and State Public Health Officer Dr. Karen Smith called on the people of California to help reduce the number of mosquitoes by eliminating standing water, especially in areas that have recently had rain and continue to experience warm temperatures. “Rainy weather can create new breeding grounds for mosquitoes if water is allowed to pool and remain stagnant,” said CDPH Director and State Public Health Officer Dr. Karen Smith. “Mosquito season in California peaks in October, making it critically important that Californians take action to empty even small amounts of water from our gardens and yards.”

To help control mosquitoes, check your yard weekly for water-filled containers. Clean and scrub bird baths and pet watering dishes weekly, and dump the water from dishes under potted plants. Contact your local vector control agency if you detect unusual numbers of mosquitoes or you are being bitten during the day. The Aedes aegypti mosquito, an aggressive mosquito that bites during the day, has been detected in 12 California counties. This black-and-white striped mosquito has the potential to transmit Zika and other diseases, such as dengue fever, chikungunya and yellow fever. While the mosquito is especially active two hours after sunrise and several hours before sunset, it can also bite during the day. These mosquitoes often enter buildings through unscreened windows and doors and bite people indoors. To prevent mosquito bites, apply repellents containing U.S. Environmental Protection Agency-registered ingredients such as DEET, picaridin, oil of lemon eucalyptus, or IR3535 to exposed skin and/or clothing (as directed on the product label). During the times mosquitoes are most active you should wear long- sleeve shirts, long pants, socks and shoes. Be sure window and door screens are in good condition to prevent mosquitoes from entering your home. Source: CDPH ★

Trump Gives Attention to America’s Darkest Secret

Commentary by Harold Pease, Ph. D

In the third of three presidential debates Chris Wallace asked Hillary Clinton if there were any limits on abortion for her. “You have been quoted as saying that the fetus has no constitutional rights. You also voted against a ban on late-term, partial-birth abortions.” She made it clear that she supported Roe v. Wade “so long as the life and health of the mother are taken into account,” including late term abortion. In response to the same question Donald Trump responded. “Well, I think it’s terrible. If you go with what Hillary is saying, in the ninth month, you can take the baby and rip the baby out of the womb of the mother just prior to the birth of the baby. Now... Hillary can say that that’s OK. But it’s not OK with me, because based on what she’s saying...you can take the baby and rip the baby out of the womb in the ninth month on the final day. And that’s not acceptable.” Most media reaction was very critical of Trump saying, as did Hillary in the debate, that late term abortion “did not happen that way” and that the procedure was very rare. It was very dismissive but what was not emphasized is that Trump’s expressed position on abortion is the strongest of any presidential candidate since Ronald Reagan. So who is telling the truth? First, in the assertion that “the fetus has no constitutional rights,” Hillary is wrong. Reagan correctly gave clarity to this question in his Proclamation of Personhood rendered January 14, 1988, when he wrote that the God-given right to life, identified in the Declaration of Independence as an inalienable right, extended to all humans whether born or not yet born. “That right to life belongs equally to babies in the womb, babies born handicapped, and the elderly or infirm,” he wrote. Moreover, the right to exist, once existing, is defended in the Constitution under the 5th and 14th Amendments that “no person shall be deprived of life without due process of law.” Article II, Section 1, Clause 8 requires that the President swear an oath “to preserve, protect, and defend” the Constitution and this includes protecting all persons irrespective of their age. Reagan ended his proclamation with, “I will take care that the Constitution and laws of the United States are faithfully executed for the protection of America’s unborn children. Upon this act, sincerely believed to be an act of justice, warranted by the Constitution, I invoke the considerate judgment of mankind and the gracious favor of Almighty God.” Second, Trump is both wrong and right with respect to his assertion that, “you can ... rip the baby out of the womb in the ninth month on the final day.” Any review of abortion pictures on the Internet show tiny human body parts separated from the whole body, but these are depictions prior to 26 weeks of gestation when a scalpel was used to cut up the body making it easier to expel, probably not after that time. The law of the land regarding partial-birth abortion is stated in 18 U.S. Code 1531 and reads. “The term ‘partial-birth abortion’ means an abortion in which the person performing the abortion—(A) deliberately and intentionally vaginally delivers a living fetus until, in the case of a head-first presentation, the entire fetal head is outside the body of the mother or, in the case of breech presentation any part of the fetal trunk past the navel is outside the body of the mother, for the purpose of performing an overt act that the person knows will kill the partially delivered living fetus; and (B) performs the overt act, other than completion of delivery, that kills the partially delivered living fetus.” In practice, and depicted graphically on the Internet, a physician inserts forceps into the womb guided by ultrasound, grabs an infant leg pulling it into the birth canal and out. When all but the head is outside the mother’s body, scissors are used to make a hole in the back of the infant’s head large enough to insert a tube sucking out the brains and collapsing the skull killing what in a few seconds would be a living baby. The breach method is favored as the baby is killed in the womb rather than outside which feels too much like murder. Apparently, Trump’s graphic description of partial birth abortion is mostly correct, despite media objections. On a personal note, as my parents were returning from a movie my mother slipped and fell on the ice in front of their home. After assisting mother into the home and onto a bed, dad left to find a doctor and I arrived two months early delivered by my grandmother. Although small I was clearly a human, not just tissue or an unfeeling fetus. How can I not defend other preemies my age? And if I had constitutional rights five seconds after my birth how could I not have them five seconds before? The Declaration of Independence and the Constitution are supposed to apply to all Americans including Americans almost born and Trump is more right than wrong on the evil of partial birth death. When we finally get Justices that use the Constitution as framed, as promised by Trump, the Constitution will protect even the babies. Then America’s darkest secret will be exposed and removed, and Planned Parenthood will not be secretly selling baby body parts for research. *Dr. Harold Pease is a syndicated columnist and an expert on the United States Constitution. Rancho Cordova History at Your Fingertips

Digital Grapevine Project Unwrapped for the Public

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - When Rancho Cordova's hometown newspaper first hit the streets nearly a half century ago, it could not have been imagined that the day would come when new generations would be scanning those pages from a home computer -- or even a phone. But that day has arrived with the launch of "Digital Grapevine," a City of Rancho Cordova Community Enhancement Grant project funded by Measure H. Partners in project were Messenger Publishing Group, owner of The Grapevine Independent newspaper, the Cordova Community Council and the Rancho Cordova Historical Society. Working together, the team has unlocked a treasure trove of local history as written on the pages of Rancho Cordova's historic and beloved hometown newspaper.

Using cutting edge digital imaging technology, the project allows users to log on through various website portals at The Grapevine Independent, City of Rancho Cordova, Cordova Community Council and others, and dive right into history. The search functions allow users to type in a name or date, click the search button, and presto -- a list of Grapevine editions in which the search title appears pops up. Users can then scan through the selections and select pages for a closer look. There they are: just as they appeared the day they were first published. Other functions allow for downloading pages, printing pages and forwarding pages. No password is needed, and up to five users can access the system at a time. The project was not all high-tech. Volunteers from the Rancho Cordova Historical Society spent many dusty afternoons sifting through boxes of yellowing copies of The Grapevine, selecting the best copies for imaging, putting them in chronological order and searching for elusive missing editions. It is believed that only 22 editions were missing from a collection spanning 48 years and nearly 2,400 issues once the project was completed. Considering the number of ownership changes, location changes and other events, and no organized effort to preserve this asset, this is a remarkable achievement. However, in a recent rummaging through old archived boxes, MPG staff has located most of the missing issues. They will be added to the project in the future. "We are proud to be part of the preservation of the Rancho Cordova story as seen through contemporary reporters and readers of The Grapevine through the years," said Paul Scholl, publisher and owner to The Grapevine Independent since 2013. "We understand that today's readers depend on The Grapevine to keep them informed about what is happening in their community. Digital Grapevine just shows how essential newspapers are to the communities they serve."

Grapevine Independent publisher Paul V. Scholl shares an archived copy of the newspaper with former editor Shelly Blanchard as they look the issue up online at Digital Grapevine. "I remember taking that photo as if it was just yesterday. Was it really 1998?" Shelly said.

"The more the community of Rancho Cordova evolves, the more important it becomes to preserve those community values upon which we were founded," said Shelly Blanchard, executive director of the Cordova Community Council and former longtime Grapevine editor. "It has always been true that newspapers print the first draft of the history book of a place. Through Digital Grapevine, this is all preserved forever." The Grapevine debuted on April 11, 1968 as a broadsheet. On the front page of that first issue the burning stories of the day included construction of Cordova High School, the Rancho Cordova Chamber fighting to have place name signs posted and Lincoln Village was asking for a park -- all variations on topics you might read today. "We would also like to make sure all the hard work by all of the volunteers who put their time and effort into completing this project does not go unnoticed. We realize they could have chosen to do a hundred different things with their time, but they made a conscious choice to preserve the history of the city they love." Scholl said. But over the years The Grapevine has also chronicled Rancho Cordova's little triumphs -- the school honor roll, the Little League homerun, the reminder it is time to order Girl Scout cookies -- painting a detailed picture of community life over the decades. U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Completed Five-Year Review of Cleanup at the Aerojet General Corporation Superfund Site

The EPA completed a Five-Year Review (FYR) of the existing Records of Decision (RODs), or cleanup actions in place, at the Aerojet General Corporation Superfund Site in Rancho Cordova, CA. This review covered the Western Groundwater Operable Unit (OU-3) and Perimeter Groundwater OU (OU-5), which are the only two OUs with remedies. An OU is a subsection of a larger EPA Federal Superfund Site. Superfund law requires that remedial actions which result in any contaminants remaining at the site above levels that allow for unlimited use and unrestricted exposure be reviewed every five years to ensure protection of human health and the environment. The FYR report was completed on September 22, 2016. The report is available at the site repositories below and online at <https://yosemite.epa.gov/r9/sfund/r9sfdocw.nsf/ViewByEPAID/CAD980358832>.

At this time, EPA has deferred making a protectiveness statement for OU-3 and OU-5 until further information is obtained. Due to changes in vapor intrusion assessment procedures and changes in toxicity, reassessment of potential vapor intrusion pathways is needed. Vapor intrusion is a method volatile chemicals in shallow groundwater or soil may enter into future buildings or dwellings and affect indoor air quality. Once the investigation actions are complete, EPA will make a protectiveness statement.

EPA maintains information repositories including this FYR report, as well as other documents related to the investigation and cleanup at the:

And Another Thing ...

We Will Be Passing Out Vietnam War Veteran Lapel Pins Again Soon, and Giving Those Vietnam Veterans the “Welcome Home” They Deserved

I am writing this column before Tuesday evening to beat the editorial deadline, but the elections will be over by the time you read this. Most of the ballots will have been counted. Maybe the people you voted for or against were hired or not. Political ads and their personal attacks will be done for a while; then we can go back to the regular ads that annoy us on a daily basis. You know, the ones whose volume is about 20 or 30 decibels louder than the sound of the show you are watching. The voters are hoping for the best after the election, but there is more pessimism than has been heard for quite some time too. For two years, many people like broadcaster Thomas John “Tom” Brokaw has said that “whoever wins the presidential election has a responsibility to put a fractured America back together.” We’ll have to see if that can be done while also healing the fractured part of America called Congress. I still hear, echoing in the back of my mind, “A government of the People, by the People, and for the People.”

“Our political structure is badly fractured,” Brokaw said, discussing the proliferation of misinformation or outright lies through social media. Brokaw called social media the biggest unreported factor of this election. Through social media, he said, there is an “unregulated, unfiltered, group of people trying to prey holy havoc on our political system.” Brokaw advised that Americans develop their own “filtration systems” for the things they hear and read, whether on social media or in the news. I concur with Mr. Brokaw and what he said about this coming election, and as a side note, I also enjoyed the book he wrote about the “The Greatest Generation.” Those were the people of the generation that was there during the beginning of the Industrial Evolution, suffered through the Great Depression, and then stood up high and went on to win WWII. He said, “As he grew up on an Army base, Brokaw was raised in a community filled with veterans who rarely spoke of their war experiences, and instead committed themselves to building up the country. This country needs to have Congress and the executive branch to get past the congressional gridlock that has been the trademark of Washington D.C. for too many years,” and get back to doing the jobs they were hired to do by the people of this country.

And another thing that is important. I made reference in the past about the treatment that some demonstrators gave to veterans during the Vietnam era. We will be passing out Vietnam War Veteran lapel pins again soon, and giving those Vietnam Veterans the “welcome home” they deserved then, not some 50 years ago. I will have the date next week in my column. I spoke to a very thoughtful woman a few days ago who said that during the 60s, she was one of the demonstrators who blamed the administration and those in the military for Vietnam and everything that happened during that time. She understands now how wrong she and the rest of the demonstrators were in blaming everyone from privates to generals for starting and for not ending the Vietnam War, and how wrong they were in the way the troops were treated when they came back home from the war.

How our service men and women have responded to the physical and/or emotional aspects of the wars they were/are part of, is a continuing question that hasn’t been answered yet. PTSD is the newest medical term that is used in the news today of how war has affected our troops. The VA Hospitals of today have learned more, as the years and wars have gone by, of what to look for when they see or meet some veterans who are in great need, but don’t know what their needs are.

I read about a soldier who asked Stephen Joseph, Ph.D, about shell shock and PTSD and if they are the same thing. “Shell shock is a term originally coined in 1915 by Charles Myers to describe soldiers who were involuntarily shivering, crying, fearful, and had constant intrusions of memory. It is not a term used in psychiatric practice today but remains in everyday use. Is shell shock the same as PTSD? This is an intriguing question; one that I’ve been scratching my head over for the last couple of weeks. The answer I’ve come up with is that PTSD and shell shock are the same. And they are different. The same because shell shock was an intellectual forerunner to PTSD. PTSD was influenced by the experiences of psychiatrists working with veterans returning from Vietnam. As such the two ideas set out to do pretty much the same thing. The difference however is that shell shock was specific to the experiences of combat whereas the concept of PTSD has developed to be more wide ranging.” I was asked that question, but that answer as you read above, is only the beginning of a very complex question that ‘experts’ have been trying to understand for as long as wars have been fought.

From Councilman Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

Dave Says

You can't just cruise

Dear Dave,

I work for a small company that just won a cruise trip for all the employees. The prize covers just the cruise tickets, and we have to pay for everything else. The problem is that my wife and I currently have more than $50,000 in debt, not counting our home, and about $10,000 of that is in collections. We're trying to fix our finances and start saving money, but we just don't feel like we should take a trip right now. How do I tell my boss?

- Ricky

Dear Ricky,

First, let me say how proud I am of you and your wife. Most people would be really irresponsible in a position like this and simply borrow more money to take the trip. The fact that you're behaving like mature adults tells me you're on your way to getting out of debt and solving your financial problems.

I've got to wonder, is there a lot of pressure from your company to go on this trip? I understand the benefits of team building and socializing with colleagues, but when you have no savings and are that deep in debt — and a chunk of that includes some in collections — it's no lie to say you can't afford to go. A decent company will understand.

Just sit down with your boss or owner, and explain why you can't make it happen right now. You don't have to unload all the details, but let them know that you can't do something like this in good conscience when you're trying to get your finances under control and already owe a lot of money.

That's one heck of a temptation you're standing up to, Ricky. I love that you and your wife are on the same page and have made the decision to take control of your finances together!

—Dave

Travel medical insurance?

Dear Dave,

I'm a senior in high school, and I have a job after classes and on weekends. I made a down payment of $2,500 on a $7,500 motorcycle last week, because I always wanted to have one before I got out in the real world and had bills and other responsibilities to think about. I asked my dad if that was a smart move, and he said I should ask you. So, what do you think? Should I go ahead with the purchase?

- Tad

Dear Tad,

I'm glad you're working and learning the value of money and having a job. But I think your dad set you up on this one. I've got a feeling he knew what I'd say, and he wanted you to hear it from me.

I teach people how to stay out of debt and build wealth. And there's always one thing I remind folks of when it comes to buying anything — if you can't afford to pay cash for the whole thing, then you can't afford it. The only thing I back off on is when it comes to buying a house.

I love shiny things that go fast, and so do a lot of people who work here at my office. Right now, there are about six or seven motorcycles sitting in our parking lot, and they're owned by folks who make good money. And the bikes sitting out there probably range in value from about $1,000 to $10,000. But you know what? Whoever rode in on the $1,000 bike had just as much fun as the one who owns the $10,000 bike.

A motorcycle is a toy, and you should always pay cash for toys if you want to be wealthy one day. Having lots of payments and handing your paychecks over to the bank is not the way to build wealth. I would advise talking to the guy at the bike shop to see if you can rework this deal for a ride you can actually afford!

Marijuana Wins Big on Election Night

Commentary from Drug Policy Alliance

This Election Day was a watershed moment for the movement to end marijuana prohibition, with the results expected to accelerate efforts to legalize marijuana in states across the U.S., at the federal level, and internationally.

"Marijuana reform won big across America on Election Day - indeed it's safe to say that no other reform was approved by so many citizens on so many ballots this year," said Ethan Nadelmann, executive director of the Drug Policy Alliance. "But the prospect of Donald Trump as our next president concerns me deeply. His most likely appointees to senior law enforcement positions - Rudy Giuliani and Chris Christie - are no friends of marijuana reform, nor is his vice president."

"The momentum for ending marijuana prohibition took a great leap forward with the victories in California and elsewhere, but the federal government retains the power to hobble much of what we've accomplished. The progress we've made, and the values that underlie our struggle - freedom, compassion, reason and justice - will be very much at risk when Donald Trump enters the White House."

The most significant victory was California's Proposition 64, which legalizes the adult use of marijuana and enacts across-the-board retroactive sentencing reform for marijuana offenses, while establishing a comprehensive, strictly-controlled system to tax and regulate businesses to produce and distribute marijuana in a legal market. Experts are calling Prop. 64 the new "gold standard" for marijuana policy because of its cutting edge provisions to undo the most egregious harms of marijuana prohibition on impacted communities of color and the environment as well as its sensible approaches to public health, youth protection, licensing and revenue allocation.

"With its carefully crafted provisions for helping to heal the damage caused by the war on marijuana to poor communities and people of color, Prop 64 represents the new gold standard for how to legalize marijuana responsibly," said Lynne Lyman, California state director for the Drug Policy Alliance. "This not only protects youth from accessing marijuana products, it also protects them from being harmed by the criminal justice system. Young people can no longer be arrested for marijuana offenses, which data consistently show us is a primary gateway to the criminal justice system. And with hundreds of thousands of residents eligible to have their records cleared, Prop 64 is a major victory for Californians who care about justice."

By shifting away from counterproductive marijuana arrests and focusing instead on public health, states that have legalized marijuana are diminishing many of the worst harms of the war on drugs, while managing to raise substantial new revenues. A recent Drug Policy Alliance report found that Colorado, Washington, Alaska and Oregon have benefitted from a dramatic decrease in marijuana arrests and convictions, as well as increased tax revenues, since the adult possession of marijuana became legal. At the same time, these states did not experience increases in youth marijuana use or traffic fatalities.

Tuesday's results also have monumental international ramifications, as momentum grows to end marijuana prohibition in Europe and the Americas. Over the past two years, Jamaica has enacted wide-ranging marijuana decriminalization; Colombia and Puerto Rico issued executive orders legalizing medical marijuana; and medical marijuana initiatives have been debated in Argentina, Brazil, Mexico and Italy. In 2013, Uruguay became the first country in the world to legalize marijuana on a national level, and Canada's governing Liberal Party has promised to do the same.

California voters approved Prop 64, which allows adults 21 and older to possess up to an ounce of marijuana and grow up to six plants at home. The initiative also legalizes the industrial cultivation of hemp. The Bureau of Medical Marijuana Regulation will be renamed the Bureau of Marijuana Control, and will oversee 19 different licenses for businesses and cultivation. The initiative does not allow large-scale cultivation for the first five years, so small farmers have an advantage. A 15% excise tax on marijuana sales and a cultivation tax will be used to pay for the regulatory structure. Additional revenue will go toward youth substance abuse prevention, medical marijuana research, environmental protection and remediation, and local governments. The initiative also allocates substantial resources toward economic development and job placement for neighborhoods most in need, and creates a system for sentences to be retroactively reduced and past marijuana convictions to be expunged.

The Drug Policy Alliance and its lobbying arm, Drug Policy Action, played a key leadership role in the California campaign -- co-drafting the initiative, coordinating the political mobilization, social media, public relations and more, and raising over $5 million to fund the effort.

Uncle Sam Needs a Better Handle on Your Money

Commentary by Nick Pacifico, Other Words Reprinted by permission

A decade ago, thousands of California National Guard troops reenlisted to fight in Iraq and Afghanistan. For valiantly responding to a shortage of troops, they were promised a signing bonus.

This October, the Pentagon ordered these thousands of veterans to pay back their bonuses — a decision that sparked immediate and justifiable national outrage. Fortunately, the secretary of defense has since promised to stop clawing back the bonuses until a more careful review can take place.

Of course, soldiers who fell victim to a scam perpetrated by their peers and superiors shouldn't be required to return their money. But the reality is that the National Guard recruitment program was plagued by mismanagement and fraud, costing taxpayers millions of dollars in what watchdogs term "improper payments."

Broadly speaking, improper payments are funds the government disburses in the wrong amount, to the wrong people, or for the wrong reason. They can either be overpayments or underpayments, but the vast majority that we know about involve the government paying more than it should.

Examples include Medicare paying for unnecessary procedures due to bad documentation, the IRS sending bloated tax refunds because it doesn't have access to the data it needs, and the Pentagon overpaying military and civilian service members due to clerical errors.

Every day, Uncle Sam is losing money — your money — because of mistakes, waste, and abuse.

Anybody who's been overcharged at the grocery store knows how frustrating it can be when your hard-earned dollars seem to disappear with nothing to show for them. However, unlike the grocery store, where you can show your crumpled receipt to the manager to resolve the problem, the federal government has no comprehensive system in place to track and follow up on the massive number of payments it makes every year.

As a result, we don't know exactly how much is being wasted by such mistakes — so there's little accountability. According to conservative estimates, improper payments now cost the government more than $100 billion per year. Since 2002, according to these figures, more than $1 trillion in total has been wasted.

In order to assess the true scope of this problem, however, we need more accurate and reliable data. Without it, it's impossible to know whether the government is running its programs effectively and meeting the needs of those our tax dollars are intended for.

The government currently relies on estimates from agencies to determine the extent of improper payments, but this method has serious deficiencies. Some federal agencies, such as the Pentagon, aren't reporting data accurately. And even among agencies that do a better job of providing reliable information, such as the Department of Health and Human Services, there are still large parts of budgets that don't get appropriately scrutinized for improper payments.

Thankfully, the problem isn't unmanageable. Solutions begin with the government prioritizing the need for more accurate estimates of improper payments, more closely scrutinizing contracts and grants to avoid potential abuse, and involving inspectors general more closely in the prevention and recovery processes. It's also crucial that federal agencies improve the way they share information with each other.

These reforms will make the government more effective and accountable. It's our money. We need the people who spend it on our behalf to take better care of it.

Sacramento County DA Reports

*Defendant Convicted for Inflicting 2nd-Degree Burns on Child Defendant Sentenced to Life for Sexual Assault of Natomas Woman
Defendant Convicted of Multiple Child Molestation Charges,*

DATE: October 27, 2016
CASE: Joseph Zeno (Case #15F02799)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Monica Robinson, Special Assault & Child Abuse Unit

Joseph Zeno was convicted by a jury of child abuse. The jury also found true the allegation that Zeno personally inflicted great bodily injury on a child under the age of 5. On the morning of October 17, 2014, Zeno was alone with the 2-year-old victim. The victim's mother later noticed a large blister on the bottom of the victim's foot. The victim was treated at Shriners Hospital for second-degree burns covering the bottom of her foot. It was found that the only item that could have caused the burn was a hot frying pan. Zeno denied injuring the child, but admitted he had a form of discipline called "Hot Feet," where he would smack the bottom of a child's foot with his hand or hanger.

Zeno faces a maximum potential sentence of 12 years in prison. Sentencing is set for December 2, 2016, in Department 15 before the Honorable Kevin McCormick.

DATE: October 28, 2016
CASE: Anthony Ray Jones (Case #15F05868)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Maria Wilson, Adult Sexual Assault Prosecution Unit

The Honorable James McFetridge sentenced Anthony Ray Jones to 150 years to life plus 41 years consecutive in prison. On September 21, 2016, a jury convicted Jones of two counts of forcible rape, three counts of forcible oral copulation, and one count of forcible digital penetration. The jury found true the allegations that Jones was armed with a deadly weapon and that the crimes were committed during the commission of first-degree burglary on all six counts. Jones was also convicted of three counts of assault with a deadly weapon, two counts of felony sexual assault, assault with intent to commit rape, two counts of false imprisonment, first-degree burglary, criminal threats, and child endangerment.

On September 21, 2015, the victim returned home with her 3-year-old son. As the victim entered her apartment, Jones forced his way inside. When the victim screamed, Jones pointed a gun at her son and threatened to shoot him if she didn't stop screaming. Jones continued to threaten the victim to follow his orders or he would shoot her and her son. Jones then ordered the victim to take her clothes off and proceeded to sexually assault her multiple times, including raping and forcing her to perform sexual acts on him. Jones videotaped the victim during the assault with his phone. When the victim's husband returned home, Jones ordered him into the bathroom at gunpoint and threatened to shoot him. Jones then left the apartment and told the victim that if she called the police, he would come back and shoot the whole family.

DATE: October 18, 2016
CASE: Steven Ramos (Case # 13F05434)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Jeff Harry

Steven Ramos was convicted by a jury of 22 counts of child molestation charges, forcible rape, and attempted forcible rape.

In the mid-90s, Ramos began molesting two girls when they were 5 and 6 years old. In 1997, the victims disclosed the sexual abuse to El Dorado County law enforcement and charges were filed against Ramos. Due to outside pressure, both victims recanted their disclosures to law enforcement nearly a year after initially disclosing. Charges were then dropped against Ramos.

Ramos began abusing both victims again and continued to do so until the victims were 16 years old. In 2012, when the victims were then in their early 20s, they reported to law enforcement the years of continued sexual abuse at the hands of Ramos. Their motivation to report was to prevent Ramos from sexually assaulting other potential victims.

Ramos faces a maximum potential sentence of 55 years, 4 months in prison. Sentencing is set for November 18, 2016, at 10:30 a.m. in Department 20 before the Honorable Michael Sweet. ★

Cordova Football Captures SVC Crown with Win

By Mike Bush

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - In the first quarter, the outcome of the Cordova High School football team winning its first conference title in 25 years was decided by the offense.

That led to the Lancers posting a 59-0 win over Rosemont in the Sierra Valley Conference finale on the road last Friday. The annual Cordova-Rosemont meeting is also dubbed as the Sledge Hammer Bowl, now in its second year.

On top of that, Cordova wins a share of the SVC title with Liberty Ranch and El Dorado; each team is 4-1. Two weeks ago, the Lancers lost to Liberty Ranch 7-6 in Galt. The week prior, Cordova (4-1 in the SVC, 7-3) beat El Dorado 40-14 at Lancers Stadium. Earlier last month, El Dorado edged Liberty Ranch 27-24.

All three squads advance into the Sac-Joaquin Section playoffs, which started last night, Thursday, and today, Friday. Cordova opens the Division III playoffs tonight against Christian Brothers. Read elsewhere in the Sports section on the Lancers' post-season run.

The Lancers scored three touchdowns in the first quarter to take a 22-0 over the host Wolverines. Two of those touchdowns were on the ground by running back Deante McCullough and one in the air by quarterback Xavier Johnson, both to wide receiver Calvin Augusta.

"We did what we wanted to do," said Cordova head coach Darren Nill, in his second season. "We knew how we wanted to attack and we just went out and did it."

In the second quarter, Cordova scored only one touchdown, on a run by running back/middle linebacker Kenneth Haney. The Lancers still led 29-0 at halftime.

Moving to the third quarter, the Lancers continued to score often again. This time, Haney scored his second touchdown, plus the 2-point conversion for a 37-0 lead.

Haney recorded a hat trick for the Lancers later in the quarter, this time on a touchdown pass from Johnson. That led to a 45-0 score.

Tyreke Tate scored for Cordova in the fourth quarter, on a 5-yard run that increased the lead to 53-0. The Lancers' final touchdown came later in the quarter. Isaiah Wimberly booted most of the Lancers' extra-points in the game.

Nill and his coaching staff kept their starters in the game. But as the quarter, entering the fourth quarter, was present, the coaches started to substitute freely.

"Once we called the dogs off, we put a lot of the second and third string kids in so they can get some playing time in," Nill said. "You can't tell them to take it easy, they want to play football. We kept it on the ground, but we were to control them (Rosemont) pretty good."

On offense, the Lancers had 425 yards rushing, and 549 total yards. McCullough had 14 carries for 155 yards and two touchdowns, both in the first quarter. Johnson had 10 carries for 99 yards, running back Terrill Johnson 5-78 and Haney 7-37.

In the air, Johnson completed 7-of-15 passes for 124 yards. Augusta was on the end of all of those passes, and had two touchdowns in the game.

Cordova linebacker Michael Gonzalez led the team in tackles on defense with five. Defensive back Bryan Estrada had four, plus an interception. Haney and defensive back Raymond Fite also had interceptions in the regular season finale.

In the frosh/soph contest, Cordova also won, a 22-0 score over Rosemont. The Lancers finished the season with a 4-1 record in the SVC, 4-6 overall.

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Cordova High School football head coach Darren Nill was hoping to reward the city of Rancho Cordova with winning the Sierra Valley Conference title.

That was done last Friday when the Lancers posted a 59-0 win over Rosemont to win a share of the title with Liberty Ranch and El Dorado.

Next, the coach and his Lancers were looking to host Sac-Joaquin Section playoff game for the first time since 2003. The last time Cordova was in the playoffs was in 2006.

Cordova (4-1 in the SVC, 7-3) was hoping to add extra icing on its title cake with a first round home playoff game. That sort of came to pass.

Tonight, Friday, Cordova, the Division III No. 14 seed, makes the short trek to Sacramento to play No. 3 seed Christian Brothers (8-2), which captured the Capital Athletic League with a perfect 5-0 record. The game will be played at Hughes Stadium at Sacramento City College campus. Game time is scheduled for 7 p.m.

"We were hoping for, at least, an eighth seed, so we'd have a first round home game," Nill said. "What I really wanted was a hometown game for the community."

Christian Brothers has played seven of its 10 games this season at SCC.

Cordova has averaged 39.4 points per game on offense. On defense, the Lancers have given up an average of 19.6. The host Falcons flies on offense at 37 points per game, and defense giving up 20.6.

"My guys play well on the road," Nill said. "I think we match up well with Christian Brothers. We will be ready to play."

The Cordova-Christian Brothers winner will play the Burbank-Benicia winner. Burbank is the No. 11 seed and Benicia No. 6.

The SVC's tri-champions all play tonight - Cordova and Liberty Ranch, the No. 7 seed in D-IV and plays at No. 2 Placer. El Dorado, also in D-IV, is the No. 5 seed, and plays at No. 4 seed Los Banos.

Women's Soccer, Volleyball Win Again; Men's Soccer Loses at Santa Rosa

Women's Soccer

The Falcons traveled to Modesto on Friday afternoon and came home with a 1-0 victory over the Pirates, earning their third consecutive win. Sophomore Allie Miller scored the only goal of the match midway through the first half after she took a pass from fellow sophomore Karina Torres for the 1-0 lead. The shutout was the seventh of the season for Falcon goalkeeper Aubrey Hall, while the Falcons have not allowed a goal in the last four matches. They will attempt to keep that streak alive when they host Sierra College on Tuesday night at Falcon Stadium. When the two teams met a month ago at Sierra College, the Wolverines prevailed 1-0. Tuesday's match will be the last regular season home match of the season for the Falcons and Recognition Night for the Falcon sophomores.

five-set victory over a ranked opponent as they defeated Delta College on Friday night in Stockton. After easily winning the first set 25 -13, the Falcons dropped the next two sets by identical 22-25 scores. But the Falcons responded with a 25-19 win in the fourth set and came home with a victory after winning the final set 15-11. Kylie Haverson's 14 kills led the Falcons, while Isabel Mason provided 18 assists. The win was FLC's second in a row against a ranked opponent - Delta entered the match ranked number 7 in NorCal - and fourth in a row overall. The Falcons improved to 8-5 in Big 8 play (17-7 overall) and moved into fourth place with just three matches remaining. They will play at Cosumnes River (0-13, 5-18 overall) on Wednesday night at 6:30 pm before Friday's showdown against third-place American River in Falcon Gymnasium.

days prior, a chance for redemption awaited the Falcons as they faced the Bear Cubs on Friday afternoon in Santa Rosa. The Bear Cubs would have none of it though, as they scored just six minutes into the match and added two more first-half goals to win, 3-0. The loss was the Falcons' sixth in a row and dropped them to fourth place in the Big 8 with a 3-5 record (6-8-4 overall). With just two matches remaining, the Falcons will face Modesto (5th place, 2-4-2) on Tuesday afternoon in Modesto and Delta (6th place, 0-5-3) on Friday afternoon at Falcon Stadium at 4:30.
