Sign Up for Emergency Notifications

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The City of Rancho Cordova has a new way for you to be notified by phone, text or email in the event of an emergency in Rancho Cordova. All it takes is the click of a button and a few simple steps!

Visit Sacramento-Alert.org and select the "Sign up" tab in the gray toolbar. Then follow these steps:

1. Provide your personal information and select a username, password, and security question.
2. Select how you'd like to be contacted including cell phones, alternate numbers, text, emails and even landlines.
3. Register one or multiple addresses to get alerts about the places that mean the most to you, such as your home address, work address, your parent's address or your children's school. This system is used throughout Sacramento County, Placer County, and Yolo County, so you are covered wherever you go.
4. Select the type of alerts you'd like to receive. The City suggests you subscribe to the "Emergency" category and "City of Rancho Cordova" that can be found under the "Sacramento County" category. If you live or work in another area, you should sign up for alerts in those areas as well.

Sacramento Alert will enable the City to provide you with critical information in emergency situations, such as severe weather, missing persons, evacuations of buildings or neighborhoods, and other natural or human-caused disasters.

See how the system works! There will be a test of the emergency notification system on October 26, 2016. Sign up before then through Sacramento-Alert.org to participate. Please share this information with your family and friends to make sure they are prepared!

Flower Festival Promotes Unity and Education

By Shelly Lembke

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Saturday afternoon was the occasion for the Bathukamma Festival of Flowers Celebration at Bear Hollow Elementary in Rancho Cordova. Hosted by the Sacramento Telangana Association, the festival was open to the public. Families and individuals of all ages came out and opened the traditional Indian celebration to the community, featuring music, dancing, free food and warm welcomes for all who attended.

The festival honors and promotes a sense of community and has special significance to the state of Telangana in India. "The main theme of the festival is female empowerment, flowers and family. We hope this festival takes us through a journey of integrating multicultural (sic), arts, [and] environmental protection in our community," said Anil Kondakrindi, one of the festival's prime organizers and Vice President of the Sacramento Telangana Association.

are, in part, in thanksgiving to nature for the gifts of beauty and ecological health the earth provides. According to Kondakrindi, "In Telugu language,

Bathukamma means, 'Mother Goddess Come Alive.'

Lincoln Highway: City Dedicates New Historical Marker

history buffs, historical groups, Boy Scout Troop 363, Folsom, El Dorado & Sacramento Historical Railroad Association, local government officials and dozens of vintage automobiles, vendors and exhibits.

Beginning in Roseville, a caravan of approximately 60 cars, trucks and vintage emergency vehicles proceeded along a pre-determined route culminating at Mills Station. The building has been a vital part of the Rancho Cordova community for a century, serving at various times as a train station, general store, soda fountain, dance hall and all-round center for civic functions.

Rancho Cordova Mayor David Sanders set the tone in his remarks to the assembled crowds by taking attendees on a “time traveling” adventure. It was Sanders’ initial research that revealed Rancho’s Folsom Boulevard was initially known as part of the Lincoln Highway, so named in tribute to Abraham Lincoln. The original planners envisioned the Lincoln Highway as a network that would united the country from coast to coast just as President Lincoln had united the country in the sad wake of the Civil War.

Officially designated now as Rancho Cordova’s “Heritage Corridor,” the weekend celebration marked the unveiling of a new 4-sided monument memorializing the spot’s significance as a railway, Pony Express stop, community center and historic building. Kudos were given to current City Council member Linda Budge as having been instrumental in saving the building from certain devastation in recent decades. Thanks to Budge’s crusade, initial renovations stabilized the structure, which now, thanks to new funding obtained in large part by Supervisor Don Nottoli, will soon undergo further renovations to ready the venerable for building for new life for future generations.

Situated along Folsom Boulevard and Mather Field Road, Mills Station is one of very few historical buildings left in Rancho Cordova. Others include the Shepherd Inn, the American River Grange, one farm house and the Pfingst Station along the railroad on Folsom Boulevard.

The opening of Highway 50 markedly improved travel time for drivers traveling east-west through the Sacramento area, but it also initiated a death knell for many businesses that depended upon vehicle traffic for their livelihood. Coupled with the closure of Mather Air Force Base, the fortunes of businesses, citizens and the community in general became victims of the downturn that continued for decades.

Thanks to champions such as Budge and Nottoli, the incorporation of Rancho Cordova as a city and the vastly unsung efforts of local citizens, businesses, community organizations and gritty determination, Rancho Cordova is at last beginning to emerge with a new identity that incorporates the heritage of the area, making Rancho Cordova a place that knows what it is today and what it can be tomorrow.

Recent improvements implemented by the city to beautify Folsom Boulevard in Rancho Cordova, along with ongoing shopping, new housing and shopping development have improved the corridor in recent years. The designation and celebration of the road as Rancho’s very own “Heritage Corridor,” championed by the City Council, Cordova Community Council, Rancho Cordova Historical Society and other groups continues to bolster the city’s image as a place to live, play, visit and do business in a vibrant city with small town appeal. ★

And Another Thing ...

“The Question Isn’t Who is Going to Let Me; It’s Who is Going to Stop Me”

It’s finally beginning to look like fall has fallen. The trees are changing color and are losing leaves. “The falling leaves drift by my window...”; I know I’ve used that song before but I haven’t found another that fits any better. The weather folks are predicting rain the end of this week and into next week too. A sweater or a windbreaker feels good in the morning when you are going to work or taking the kids to school. There are Charlie Brown shows for Halloween, Thanksgiving, and Christmas coming on TV soon. All of these can bring good feelings and warmth to our thoughts when they bring back good memories of when you were growing up. Like Charles M. Schulz said, “All you need is love. But a little chocolate now and then doesn’t hurt.” I guess that’s when the pumpkin pie, fudge, Christmas cookies, and so forth come in to play (along with the falling leaves).

The Mather Veterans Village apartments are giving a home to some of the Veterans who were expecting another cold and wet winter. Trying to get homes for Veterans who may still be on the street, or who might be expecting to lose the home they have, is hard. I am looking at other cities and organizations who may have more answers to that question. The Mather Community Campus is still operating under the auspices of the Volunteers of America, and while there are still over 300 people in that program who are getting back on their feet, I worry sometimes about that program in our City. The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) is focusing more now on permanent housing, and giving less focus on temporary assistance for those who may still need direction and help. I guess we’ll have to see what direction HUD will go as 2017 rolls around.

And another thing to remember is something that happened in November 2002. We voted and created the City of Rancho Cordova. Now I know we officially incorporated on July 1, 2003, but 14 years ago is our voting birthday. We needed to give ourselves control of our lives. Ayn Rand said, “The question isn’t who is going to let me; it’s who is going to stop me.” In her book Atlas Shrugged, she talks about human values and needs, economic conditions, and political necessities. Incorporation gave us the ability to set our own values, needs, and political necessities without having to wait for the county to decide whether it would answer our questions or not.

Walter Cronkite said, “I can’t imagine a person becoming a success who doesn’t give this game of life everything he’s got.” We have become a successful city, and I think we continue to “give this game of life everything we’ve got.”

From Councilman Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

Golden State Water Company Recognized with National Award for Management Innovation

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The National Association of Water Companies (NAWC) recognized Golden State Water Company (Golden State Water) as the winner of its 2016 Management Innovation Award for pioneering a new way of engaging customers on water conservation through the “Collaborative Conservation Education Campaign.” The award was presented on Monday (Oct. 3) at the NAWC’s Water Summit in San Diego.

“We are honored to receive this prestigious award that celebrates innovation,” said Robert Sprowls, president and CEO of Golden State Water. “Golden State Water takes great pride in how we engage with customers, and pioneering a new approach like the Collaborative Conservation Education Campaign to create an open dialog on conservation aligns with our goal of always pursuing creative and progressive ways to share important information and maintain that valuable connection we have with the communities we serve.”

The Management Innovation Award is presented annually by the NAWC to celebrate groundbreaking, industry-changing ideas implemented by private water utilities. Judging was based on innovation, short- and long-term benefits to the company, value to the water utility industry, the ability to be recreated by others and presentation quality.

“Each of the Management Innovation Award entries from NAWC members this year were impactful, creative and showed excellent thought leadership,” said Michael Deane, NAWC executive director. “Entries included everything from conservation efforts and management plans to technological advancements and community support initiatives.”

Golden State Water customers throughout California have saved nearly 19 billion gallons of water over the last 21 months (beginning January 2015), compared to 2013 usage. To learn more about the conservation resources and programs available to Golden State Water customers, please visit gswater.com or follow @GoldenStateH2O on Twitter.

Cooley’s Bill to Expand Foster Youth Access Signed by the Governor

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Assemblyman Ken Cooley’s (D-Rancho Cordova) AB 2417 was signed in to law by Governor Brown this afternoon. AB 2417 expands foster youth access to court appointed special advocates, known as CASAs. These are volunteers who are appointed by a judge to provide one-on-one mentorship and advocacy to abused and neglected children who are under the jurisdiction of the juvenile court. Children with court appointed special advocates have demonstrably better long-term outcomes: they are more likely to find a safe permanent home, half as likely to reenter the foster care system, and have far greater success in school. However, there are currently not enough CASA volunteers to advocate on behalf of the foster children in need of their services.

CASA programs are required by law to fingerprint each volunteer to screen for a criminal background before allowing them to mentor and advocate for youth. Non-profit organizations that serve children do not have to pay the California Department of Justice fees for background checks, but CASA programs are currently excluded from this benefit. This places an undue financial burden on this critical child advocacy program.

AB 2417 enhances foster youth access to CASA volunteers by including CASA programs in the existing fee exemption that other child-focused non-profit organizations enjoy.

“Foster kids face obstacles that affect their long-term education, job prospects and even housing stability,” said Assemblyman Cooley. “AB 2417 expands access to CASAs that provide foster youth vital support and services they need to transition into independent adulthood.”

“We applaud Assemblymember Cooley for his leadership and Governor Brown for his approval of this simple legislative change which will result in more children in foster care having the caring advocacy of a Court Appointed Special Advocate,” said John Lipp, CEO of the California CASA Association. “This represents a great savings to our local CASA programs that they will leverage to recruit, train, and supervise CASA volunteers, whose advocacy improves and transforms the lives of abused and neglected children.”

AB 2417 will take effect January 1, 2017. ★

circle around them, clapping and singing folk songs in the evening. “Women seek good health, prosperity and happiness for their families,” said Kondakrindi.

Rancho Cordova and surrounding areas have numerous immigrants from the state of Telangana. The festival itself is central to Telangana and the Sacramento Telangana Association wanted to share this very special event with Rancho Cordova because of the city’s unique ties to so many ethnic groups around the globe. The bright and beautiful floral arrangements echoed the bright and flowing traditional Indian garb worn by so many in attendance. This year’s festival welcomed approximately 2,000 people from Rancho Cordova and surrounding areas. ★

Make It Fun and It Will Get Done!
The Secret to Being Organized
Pam Young's Corner
It's So Selfish To Do It All Yourself!

Have you ever helped someone clean up their mess and then came home to your own chaos, that's bigger than your friend's mess? In Mathew 7, 3 – 5 he says, "How can you say to your brother, "Let me take the speck out of your eye, when all the time there is a plank in your own eye? You hypocrite." Matthew sure didn't mince words in those days! But you have to remember, Matthew was a man and Mother Nature did NOT endow any man with mother's instinct, so Matthew didn't understand how we are drawn to help those who need us, in spite of our own messes. We're helpocrites.

As a helpocrite, it's very important to understand your motivation behind helping others to the detriment of your own well-being. Is there part of you that thinks, 'I gotta get out of here, my house is a mess and I don't want to be here.' And another part of you thinks, 'I want her to be happy and she needs help and I love to help people.' And yet another part of you thinks, 'I want her to like me and when she sees what I can do to make her feel better, she'll like me better.'

Here's the deal, take care of you first and then take care of others. Here's why. Once you're in balance by getting enough rest, recreation and work, you'll be healthy mentally and physically and you'll be able to help 10 times more than you did while the plank was in your eye.

Because most of us are caregivers by nature (mother's instinct) we carry that message, to care for others, in our DNA. Because of that, it's not easy for us to ask for help. Have you ever considered that not asking for help is selfish? Because you're reading my column, you're interested in getting and being organized and you're probably in a mess and need help. It is what you need and chances are you can think of a BO (Born Organized friend or relative or even acquaintance) who is dying to help somebody like you. But wait a minute! You're embarrassed. How can you open your home to someone and thereby let them see your dirty little secret?

You have to humble yourself and ask for help from those who are gifted in areas you're not, and that's when you'll see why it's selfish not to ask. When you see the joy the helper takes, you'll see how we all need each other for the skills we've uniquely been given.

Because "Sidetracked Home Executives: from pigpen to paradise" was a best-seller, it exposed my sister and me to hundreds of thousands of people who were struggling to create clean, cozy homes out of their chaos. It was an honor to hear from thousands who said the book was an answer to prayer. (That's because when we wrote the book, we prayed every morning before we picked up our pens (we wrote it in long-hand on legal pads.) asking to be guided to write from our hearts to our reader's hearts.

When you pray for help you do get it, then it's up to you to use it.

For more from Pam Young go to www.cluborganized.com. You'll find many musings, videos of Pam in the kitchen preparing delicious meals, videos on how to get organized, ways to lose weight and get your finances in order, all from a reformed SLOB's point of view. ★

Dave Says

Married people can't live this way and win in their relationship or with money.

The two of you desperately need to seek marriage counseling together. This relationship is on the rocks. You and your husband obviously have no trust or respect for each other, and there's a definite lack of communication, unity and shared goals. I don't know what happened to bring things to this point, but the preacher didn't pronounce you guys a joint venture when you got married; he said you were now one.

A little maturity, extra work, and living on a simple budget will go a long way toward fixing most personal finance issues. But your marriage is in big trouble, Peggy. Please seek help!

—Dave

Why save before paying off the mortgage?

Dear Dave,

I just read The Total Money Makeover, but I'm still unclear as to why you recommend saving for an emergency fund and retirement before paying off your home. Shouldn't a house be paid off as quickly as possible, since it's a liability?

—Mark

Dear Mark,

I appreciate the fact that you're asking questions and thinking things through. But please don't fall into the trap of thinking of your home as a liability. That mindset is way off base, in my opinion.

Your house is definitely an asset; it's the mortgage that's a liability. Some folks may try to position a house as a liability simply because it costs you money. But the truth is your home will make you more money than it will cost you over time. Therefore, it is an asset.

Some of the saddest situations I've seen in all my years of teaching are seniors who have paid-for homes and nothing saved or invested. Money isn't the most important thing on earth, but it is a fact of life. That's why I encourage people to build an emergency fund of three to six months of expenses and begin saving for retirement before they tackle paying off their homes.

Then, after all that is addressed, take every dollar you can scrape together and put it toward paying off your mortgage as fast as possible. Good question, Mark!

—Dave

Dewey Decker showed his new business cards to the other guys at the Mule Barn Truck Stop’s philosophy counter, and each member of the world dilemma think tank got to keep one.

Steve, our owlsh-appearing cowboy, scratched his head as he studied the card.

Slim Randles’ HOME COUNTRY

“... It Means I Raise Worms”

“Okay, Dewey, I’ll bite ... what’s a verm-a- ....?”

“Vermiculturist, Steve,” Dewey said, proudly. “It means I raise worms.”

Dewey, the beloved accident-prone member of the think tank, began his new career with just a shovel and his pickup, spreading manure in people’s yards. Now, thanks in great part to the genius of his girlfriend, Emily Stickles, (she of the magnificent cheekbones) he was earning a decent living. Back when they fell (literally ... he tripped) in love, she took this crash-and-burn disaster and molded him into a multi-dimensional businessman, while still keeping him away from sharp objects or things that crush.

Dewey has branched out now into compost, worms (excuse me ... vermiculture) and fertilizer tea. The tea goes on the lawn, not in the tea cups.

“Dewey,” said Doc, “this vermiculture stuff now ... how much work is it, really?”

“That’s the good part about it, Doc. You see, I don’t have to do anything at all, really, except keep them in ... product, you know. They reproduce without any outside help, and turn manure into the best compost in the world. Then you can sell them to other people to work their compost piles, or to fishermen.”

“Well, Dewey,” said Herb, “it looks to me like simply being a vermiculturist doesn’t really cover the subject. Wouldn’t those red wigglers also make you a compostocologist?”

“Hadh’t really thought about ...” Dewey said.

“And when it comes to selling them to fishermen,” Doc said, “wouldn’t you be an ichtymasticationsdietician?”

“I ... I ...”

“Yes, Dewey?”

“I refuse to be anything I can’t spell.”

Small Businesses Praise Senator Nielsen's Voting Record

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Citing his experience and strong advocacy of small businesses, the National Federation of Independent Business/California (NFIB) awarded Senator Jim Nielsen (R-Gerber) a perfect score of 100 percent.

“California continues to be a difficult place to do business – from the burdensome regulations to the out-of-control lawsuits,” said Senator Nielsen. “Elected leaders must do all we can to hold the line and help small businesses thrive. I am humbled to have received such an honor from NFIB.”

“Senator Nielsen is a leader we turn to in our efforts to support small businesses. We applaud his dedication and passion in supporting small businesses and protecting them from additional taxes, mandates, and complex regulations,” added Tom Scott, NFIB/CA State

Executive Director.

NFIB assessed lawmakers on 12 bills vital to the health of small business in California. Twenty-nine lawmakers out of 120 had impressive 100 percent scores; however, 62 legislators failed small business this year with scores ranging from 27 percent to just eight percent.

Lawmakers' voting records are compiled and scored annually to provide Californians with a valuable tool to determine how state legislators acted on major mandates, regulations and tax legislation, and to hold elected officials accountable for anti-small business votes.

Established in 1946, the National Federation of Independent Business has been the Voice of Small Business, taking the message from Main Street to the halls of Congress and all 50 state legislatures.

NFIB has 350,000 dues-paying members nationally, with over 22,000 in California. NFIB annually surveys its members on state and federal issues vital to their survival, and as they are America's economic engine and biggest creator of jobs, the growth of the American economy.

Senator Nielsen represents the Fourth Senate District, which includes the counties of Butte, Colusa, Glenn, Placer, Sacramento, Sutter, Tehama and Yuba.

New CFR Report Distorts Facts and Aims to Crush U.S. Energy Revolution

Commentary by David Williams

A new report from the Council on Foreign Relations is music to the ears of environmental activists. It claims to show that if the federal government ended its "preferential" tax treatment of the oil and gas industry, public revenues would jump by billions and climate change would slow considerably.

This is pure fantasy. The report's methodology is fundamentally flawed, confusing tax deductions with subsidies and completely overlooking the vital role oil and gas plays in the American economy.

Subsidies are a direct transfer of money from the U.S. Treasury to a private company. American oil and gas companies receive zero -- that's right, zero -- subsidies.

What these firms do receive, however, is the same tax treatment as all other businesses, which, in part, allows them to deduct certain operating expenses. This deduction is typically used to offset the substantial costs of drilling and preparing wells -- and that's a good thing. These deductions encourage energy companies to grow and create jobs.

And the biggest tax benefits aren't going to Big Oil. Back in 1975, federal lawmakers partially repealed a tax code provision known as "Percentage Depletion," which allowed fossil fuel producers to deduct the depreciation of their reserves. Only small and independent operators are now allowed to make such write-offs. ExxonMobil, Shell, and other large oil companies cannot. Likewise, credits such as the Enhanced Oil Recovery Tax Credit and Well Tax Credit are almost exclusively used by small and mid-sized operations.

These facts have been lost on both the media, which regularly repeats the myth that energy companies receive special tax treatment, and the White House, which has long advocated for steep tax hikes on the energy industry.

If the CFR report informs policy and the federal government does indeed eliminate tax deductions for fossil fuel producers, the American economy would be deeply damaged. After a decade of steady growth, this sector now supports more than 9 million jobs. It would contract under a heavy new tax burden, eliminating many of these positions and putting Americans all over the country out of work.

The CFR report also claims that ending energy tax "breaks" would help fight global warming, chiefly because it would afford the United States the moral standing needed to effectively pressure other nations to end their preferential tax policies and shrink their own fossil fuel sectors.

This claim ignores that fact that, counter intuitively, America is leading the world in emissions reductions thanks to the fossil fuel industry.

Thanks to the rapid expansion of America's natural gas sector, electricity plants have switched from coal to gas. Largely because of this migration, America's annual carbon emissions are now at a 20-year low. What's more, fossil fuel companies have poured billions into researching and developing carbon reduction technologies. Since 2000, oil and gas companies have invested more than twice as much as any other industry in such technologies.

This Council on Foreign Relations study claims that oil and gas firms receive special public subsidies. That isn't true. The sector simply benefits from the deductions afforded all other businesses. And these write-offs have helped the industry grow, create economic opportunity, and invest in clean energy technologies. The Council -- and its activist allies -- need to check their facts.

David Williams is president of the Taxpayers Protection Alliance, a nonprofit, nonpartisan organization dedicated to educating the public on the government's effects on the economy. ★

CORDOVA SPORTS

Cordova Blows Out Galt to Win Homecoming Game

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In what was expected to be a close Sierra Valley Conference opener at Lancers Stadium turned out to be a blowout.

From kickoff until the final seconds ticked off the clock on the north end of the field, the Cordova High School football team dominated Galt that led to a 46-0 win on Oct. 7th. The game was also the Lancers' homecoming game.

On offense, Cordova (1-0 in the SVC, 4-2 overall) racked up a combined 402 yards; 224 on the ground and 178 in the air. Leading the Lancers' ground attack was running back Deante McCullough, who had nine carries for 109 yards.

"We thought that their defense matched up really favorable to our game plan," said Cordova head coach Darrin Nill of the Warriors' defense. "We ran the ball, we passed the ball. We were able to do pretty much whatever we wanted to do."

The majority of the Lancers' offensive attack took place in the first half in front of large homecoming crowd. Cordova led 39-0 at halftime.

Cordova quarterback Xavier Johnson completed 13-of-23 passes for 178 yards and four touchdowns. Two of those scores went into the hands of wide receiver Alvin Banks, who finished the game with four receptions for 54 yards.

The Lancers' defense held

Galt running back Zach Orman, who needed only 118 yards to become the school's new all-time rushing leader. Cordova held him to only eight carries for 23 yards. He currently sits at 4,152 in his three-year varsity career. The current record is 4,247 yards.

"He's a really good runner," said Nill of Orman. "We focused a lot of attention on him. We had two weeks to prepare for him (Cordova had the bye two weeks ago before the start of conference play). Our defense knew where (Orman) was at all times."

Cordova held Galt to a combined 50 yards; 29 on the ground and 21 in the air. The defense accounted toward one of the touchdowns. Lancer defensive back Tyreke Tate had two interceptions, including one that turned out to be an 82-yard return for one of the Lancers' scores in the second quarter.

Another Cordova defensive back in Raymond Flite also had an interception in the game. The Lancers' defense picked off the Warriors three times in the game.

Lancer defensive back Terrill Johnson led in tackles at nine. Cordova defensive end Clifford Bright had three tackles, and had what Nill called a "break out" game in creating havoc on an opponent's offense.

"I thought he played an outstanding game," said Nill of Bright. "The entire front seven really played good gap defense."

Cordova defensive linemen Zariahn Zimmer and Joseph Salcedo had five quarterback sacks each, another plus in keeping the Warriors' offense from gaining yards. Registering six tackles each for Cordova were linebacker Yusef Pugh, defensive end Kelechi Njoku and Tate. Lancer middle linebacker Kenny Haney had four tackles.

Tonight, Cordova continues SVC action but on the road. The Lancers travel into El Dorado County to play at Union Mine (0-1 in the SVC, 1-5), which lost to defending SVC champion Liberty Ranch, 56-14, in their conference opener in Galt last Friday. ★

The Falcons took over sole possession of first place in the Big 8 Conference with a 1-0 victory over Modesto JC on Friday afternoon at Falcon Stadium. After a scoreless first half, Falcon freshman Santiago Peniche scored the only goal of the match in 49th minute of play. Falcon goalkeeper Jackson LaCasse was named "Man of the Match" for his outstanding efforts between the posts a he recorded his third consecutive shutout and fourth of the season. will look to rebound on Tuesday evening when they host Sacramento City (0-7 Big 8, 2-11 overall) at Falcon Stadium at 6:00 pm.

Lady Linksters Preparing for SVC Tournament

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Two seniors are leading this year's Cordova High School girls golf team, which close out the regular season this week.

Angela Jones, who is the Lady Lancers' overall points' leader, and Machailee Lawrence, is the squads' two leaders. Part of the team is Keary Lopez, a freshman who has cracked into the starting five.

Cordova linksters rounding out the roster is Gina Spikes, a senior, plus two sophomores in Claire Kell and Lasai Wagner.

Cordova has a record of 3-5 in Sierra Valley Conference action. Last
