Now in its third year, the Rancho Cordova Fourth of July

5K Run/Walk gives participants an opportunity to exercise their bodies (along with their freedom!) and will also make a little Rancho Cordova history: It's a Color Run – Rancho's first ever – and you can be part of it. Watch from the sidelines or strap on your running shoes for this red, white and blue run. Sign up now at rancho-cordovajuly4th.com.

The highlight of the Rancho Cordova Fourth of July Celebration is two great nights of the best fireworks shows in the region. On Sunday, July 3 its "California Dreamin'" – a pyrotechnical salute to the Golden State, featuring an aerial show choreographed to the music that celebrates California.

On Monday, July 4, batten down the hatches as the Rancho Cordova Fourth of July Fireworks Spectacular lives up to its name, ripping holes in the sky over the American River in a no-holds-barred patriotic fireworks blow-out.

Illegal Pharmaceuticals, Counterfeit Goods Seized in Area Search

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The California Attorney General's Tax Recovery and Criminal Enforcement (TRaCE) Task Force served seven search warrants in the capital region turning up hundreds of boxes of foreign pharmaceuticals and thousands of articles of suspected counterfeit clothing.

U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement's (ICE) Homeland Security Investigations (HSI), the California Department of Public Health's Food and Drug Branch, Franchise Tax Board, and Department of Justice eCrime Unit assisted in the June 21, 2016 operation that involved more than 50 agents and investigators.

"The trafficking of counterfeit goods poses a triple threat," said Ryan Spradlin, the special agent in charge who oversees HSI operations throughout northern California. "Such activities deliver shoddy and often dangerous goods into the economy, rob Americans of good-paying jobs, and generate proceeds that are often funneled back into other criminal enterprises. HSI will continue to work with its enforcement partners to combat the distribution of counterfeit products, like those seized in Sacramento yesterday, that could put unwitting consumers at risk."

"This action was a big blow to the underground economy in Northern California, and that makes yesterday's raid a win for our whole state," said Board of Equalization Chairwoman Fiona Ma, whose district includes West Sacramento, one of the communities where the raids occurred. "I want to thank the hardworking agents and investigators who spent months of painstaking work in shutting down these illegal operations."

"Illegal activities hurt legitimate businesses and inflict unfair costs on law-abiding Californians," said Board of Equalization Member George Runner. "Law enforcement deserves a huge thank you for their ongoing efforts to fight the underground economy."

This warrant follows months of investigation into the sale of illegal foreign prescription and over-the-counter pharmaceuticals and counterfeit clothing by a couple and their adult son. Inside the family's homes and three area businesses – Fashion Moda in North Highlands, Victoria's Health Products in Citrus Heights, and Elena's Health Products in West Sacramento – investigators discovered and confiscated the foreign pharmaceuticals, clothing, and more than $10,000 in cash.

The Tax Recovery and Criminal Enforcement Task Force (TRaCE) is comprised of public officials from the California Department of Justice, Board of Equalization, Franchise Tax Board, Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, Employment Development Department, Department of Motor Vehicles, Federal Bureau of Investigation, U.S. Immigration and Customs Enforcement's Homeland Security Investigations, and the Santa Ana Police Department.

The mission of the TRaCE Task Force is to combat organized elements of the underground economy engaged in the manufacture, importation, distribution, and sale of pirated intellectual property, and other economic crimes resulting in the evasion of business, payroll and/or income taxes. For more information about TRaCE or to report a crime, visit www.boe.ca.gov/trace.

Volunteers Launch Kudos Program

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Rancho Cordova Volunteers in Neighborhood Services (VINS), working in partnership with the City of Rancho Cordova and the community, are committed to enhancing Rancho Cordova's quality of life.

The VINS team created a good neighbor recognition program called "VINS Kudos." The award includes a certificate recognizing a home being well-maintained and having great curb appeal. It is a way to say thank you to residents for taking self-pride in their home and surroundings!

During the first quarter of 2016, Republic Services and the City of Rancho Cordova kicked off a "Cordova Towne/White Rock Neighborhood Clean-Up" from Mather Field Road to Zinfandel Drive. White Rock Park was the central meet-up area. VINS Kudos were awarded to 15 residents with a $100 gift card from Republic Services, in addition to the "VINS Kudos Award". During the Rancho Cordova City Council meeting on April 4th, an additional $200 gift card from Republic Services was given via drawing to those residents that were able to attend. Mayor David Sander pulled winner Don and Sue!

Partnering with Esther Santacruz at Republic Services has provided the following to the residents:

- Republic Services invoices now have a message to place trash cans behind the fence line.
- Created a cart hanger, like a door hanger reminder, to put trash cans away.
- Created stickers for the recycle cans to warn others to NOT scavenge through cans.
- Updated the "2016 Customer Guide" to help keep Rancho Cordova beautiful, and references the City code to keep cans behind the fence line.

VINS meetings are a great way to meet neighbors and learn more about City services. Please join the next meeting on Thursday, July 7th from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. at Rancho Cordova City Hall, 2729 Prospect Park Drive. The guest speaker is Bea Lopez, Program Manager with the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce.

Tale of Two Rallies

Story and Photos by David Dickstein, Gold River resident

In 1978, I stood in line for six hours to be among the first to ride the Colossus at Magic Mountain amusement park. In 1980, I arrived to an Orange County cinema six hours early to be the first to see “The Empire Strikes Back.” In 1984, on a movie set near Hollywood, waiting six hours beside a talent trailer scored me an autograph from Clint Eastwood.

So when it was announced that Donald Trump and Hillary Clinton were coming to Sacramento to hold political rallies last month, I knew exactly how early I’d need to get in line. If six hours was the sweet spot for a roller-coaster, sci-fi movie and A-list celebrity, then that strategy to optimize a bucket list experience should be sound for the Republican and Democratic presidential candidates. And it was. For Trump’s rally at the Sacramento Jet Center and Clinton’s at Sacramento City College, I was among the first 25 regular people to brave the elements – near-100-degree heat, profane protesters, line-cutters, etcetera – in hopes of getting as close as possible to the next president of the United States.

Considering how polarizing the two candidates are, it could very well be that my youngest son and I were the only people outside some of the local media and police to attend both rallies. Doing so guaranteed seeing a future president, and being able to share the dual experience with my youngest voting in his first major election was beyond special. My wife, a social studies teacher at Gold River Discovery Center, was bummed to miss Trump’s Wednesday rally due to commitments, but she did make Clinton’s Sunday event.

Having attended both, and making observations while wiling away the hours in both lines, I feel qualified to do a compare and contrast of the two political rallies. With no bias, here are my takeaways:

Crowd
Trump: Estimated at 9,600. Standing in the scorching sun caused one person to pass out.
Clinton: Estimated at 1,500. Two people needed medical attention inside the sweltering gym.

Punctuality
Trump: The Republican candidate spoke 15 minutes early.
Clinton: Clinton took to the stage 70 minutes late. No one, including the tardy Democratic candidate, offered an apology.

Protesters
Trump: Dozens of dissenters showed up at Trump’s, screaming accusations of bigotry. One guy wearing a hate-mongering sandwich board walked up and down alongside the lengthy cue with megaphones that amplified recorded messages that called Trump’s supporters “idiots and aholes.” I heard a little girl, one of many young children in line, ask her mom, “What is that man saying?” I never heard a discouraging word from a Trump backer; the only hate came from those professing love. A young woman held up a sign that read, without asterisks, “Fk Trump – Vote for Hillary.”

Clinton: One man quietly held signs saying “BILLARY IS A FRAUD” and “STILL LIKE OIL WARS?” No pro-Trump protesters were spotted.

Warm-Up Speakers
Trump: Former Congressman Doug Ose and Scott O’Grady, the U.S. Air Force pilot who was shot down over war-torn Bosnia and survived by hiding alone in the woods for seven days in June of 1995 before being saved by American forces.

Clinton: Congresspeople Doris Matsui and John Garamendi, Sacramento Mayor Kevin Johnson and his successor, Darrell Steinberg. A new graduate of St. Francis High School, a private institution with yearly tuition of $17,000, declared Clinton as “the voice of the little people” before telling the audience that she’s bound for Santa Clara University, where tuition is $43,000. Service Employees International Union Local 1000 President Yvonne Walker also spoke, telling the mixed-gender crowd, “If you want to get things done, always go with a woman.”

Dozens of dissenters showed up at Trump’s, screaming accusations of bigotry. One guy wearing a hate-mongering sandwich board walked up and down alongside the lengthy queue with megaphones that amplified recorded messages.

As supporters went wild, I imagined the barbs Trump would get if he ever said, “If you want to get things done, always go with a man.” Last I checked Clinton hadn’t disavowed Walker’s sexist comment and no men’s group has asked for the union leader’s resignation.

Patriotism
Trump: An advance speaker led the crowd in the Pledge of Allegiance, which the thousands did to a large American flag hung especially for the event on the inside back wall of the hanger. Live and recorded patriotic music played for hours before Trump’s dramatic arrival by personal jet.

Clinton: No Pledge of Allegiance, no patriotic music, but Mayor Johnson led the crowd in a chant: “... One state, no sweat; two states all set; three states she’s our bet; California, better yet!”

Veteran Support
Trump: Two rows of seats at the very front were reserved for veterans. Waiting for them on their chairs were a Trump sign and T-shirt. Once seated, they were offered cold water by volunteers. During the rally they were also recognized for their service.

Clinton: Clinton asked if any veterans were in the crowd and four raised their hand.

Posters
Trump: Besides what was held up by the confrontational and oftentimes vulgar anti-Trump protesters, seen among the crowd were posters that read, “LATINOS 4 TRUMP” and “FBI INDICT CROOKED HILLARY.”

Clinton: Homemade signs were not allowed per Hillary for America rules on the invitation and at the door. However, dozens of campaign-made posters written in red, white and blue paint were handed out by Clinton’s staff to members of the crowd standing on risers behind the stage. Campaign staff seemed to match each poster to a desired demographic; e.g., an “I’M WITH HER!” sign went to a man, another reading “RISE TOGETHER” went to a woman. Two young girls behind the podium, perfectly positioned for the cameras, were handed a poster that said “FIGHTING FOR US.” Moments later a staffer took that sign away from the girls and gave it to a man three rows up. Based on how choreographed the sign distribution and people placing were, I wouldn’t be surprised if someone was concerned about children condoning any type of “fighting.”

Despite the hours of investment and standing like veal calves with virtually no mobilization once inside the baking venues, I’d do it all again. And with Clinton’s double-digit lead narrowing in the California polls, chances are good that both major candidates will return to the Sacramento area before the November general election. When they do, the sparks will surely fly and I’ll be there to see them six hours early. ★

Folsom Lake College and City of Rancho Cordova Announce College Promise Program

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - More than one hundred Rancho Cordova high school graduates will attend their first year of Folsom Lake College free of charge, thanks to the Folsom Lake College/Rancho Cordova College Promise, an innovative grant program recently launched by Folsom Lake College, the Folsom Lake College Foundation, and the City of Rancho Cordova.

Designed to improve access to higher education and degree completion for Rancho Cordova residents, the “Promise” program encourages local high school seniors to further their education and reach their academic goals. This program, the first of its kind in the region, will provide the first year fee-free for any 2016-17 high school graduate who is a Rancho Cordova resident and enrolls in Folsom Lake College full-time for the fall semester of 2017. Eligible students will receive funding that can be applied toward tuition and fees, textbooks, or transportation.

“By partnering with the Rancho Cordova City Council and supportive local businesses, Folsom Lake College can increase access to postsecondary education, which means a well-educated workforce, and one that will inevitably advance the regional economy,” said Folsom Lake College President Dr. Rachel Rosenthal.

Modeled after the Long Beach and Ventura College Promise programs, studies have identified that similar programs result in improved student performance and degree/certificate achievement rates as compared to non-Promise students. According to Dr. Rachel Rosenthal, “The findings indicate that Promise students stay in school after their first year at double the rate of non-Promise students. They also are more likely to remain in the local community after graduation. This is truly an investment in our community.”

“The FLC/Rancho Cordova College Promise program exemplifies Los Rios Community College District’s commitment to providing high quality public higher education where our students live, as outlined in our 2001 plan, ‘Educating a Region,’ that first planted the seed for the Rancho Cordova Center. We hope to see this unique program flourish and replicated throughout the region,” said Los Rios Chancellor Dr. Brian King.

Folsom Lake College has operated for more than 40 years out of several locations in the area. In October 2015, the first permanent location of the Rancho Cordova Center opened, at the corner of Mather Field Rd./Paseo Dr. and Folsom Blvd., and currently serves as an educational hub for this close knit and diverse community. “Many of our students do not have the financial means to attend college,” said Rancho Cordova Center Dean Brian Robinson. “The new Promise program will help remove some of those economic barriers.”

The Rancho Cordova City Council voted unanimously in support of the program by allocating $100,000 from the Measure H Community Enhancement Fund. “The Promise program is an innovative way to continue making Rancho Cordova a vibrant community that values education, opportunity, and partnerships,” said Rancho Cordova Mayor David Sander. “Rancho Cordova high school seniors have been given a superior opportunity to attend a state-of-the-art college in their hometown and in the midst of potential employers.” The Community Enhancement Fund is funded by Measure H, a ½ cent local sales tax measure that was approved by Rancho Cordova citizens in November 2014 and provides locally-controlled funds for local priorities. The City awarded approximately $1.8 million in community grants for Fiscal Year 2016/2017.

This project will be implemented in partnership with the Folsom Cordova Unified School District and will include a corporate matching program with initial commitments from Safe Credit Union, VSP Global, and Dignity Health.

For more information on the Folsom Lake College/Rancho Cordova College Promise program, please contact Sally Howard, Director of College Advancement, at (916) 608-6643 orhowards@flc.losrios.edu.

And Another Thing ...

July 1 is Our ‘Independence Day’

this next generation only knows that Rancho Cordova is a great city and that they are able to enjoy these events. That is how they will remember their childhood. The kids we watched at the park last Friday will only remember some of the fun things they will be passing on when they talk about “when I was growing up”. After the movie, we were leaving the park and saw Lee Frechette just looking across the park at the families and the kids with a very happy smile on his face.

Now Lee is one of those people who puts in a lot of work (and volunteer time) to make sure that many things work smoothly during these different events, but he was just watching how the next generation of parents and kids are able to enjoy what is part of Rancho Cordova. He said, “You know, we were able to provide many of these things because we became a city.” His comments got me thinking about what I said earlier.

It is great to be in the City of Rancho Cordova because you see in the news how many cities and communities don’t have the connections, nor do they have the diversity that allows us to move forward like we have. It is easy to see how the past has allowed us to provide many of the things that are part of our present. The history of Rancho Cordova was (and is still) built on the dreams of the people of the former Mather Air Force Base, Aerojet General, our small businesses, and the new communities like Anatolia. They were built and are still being built to provide homes for the people who are new here, and also for those who have been residents here who are maybe looking for a new home.

There are thousands of acres here that provided the space we needed in the past, and fortunately, there are still thousands of acres that have never been built upon. We are among the few cities that are not built out and can now only use property that needs to be used again. About two thirds of our city is green, so we have time and space to continue to dream and dream BIG. And as I have said in the past, on the wall of my office in City Hall it says, IMAGINE – DREAM – BELIEVE!

From Councilman Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time.

Berryhill Flex-Work Week Legislation Defeated in Senate Labor Committee

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Senator Tom Berryhill (R-Twain Harte) announced the defeat, once again, of the California Workplace Flexibility Act. Senate Bill 985, introduced by Berryhill and Senator Patricia Bates (R-Laguna Niguel), is similar to previous workplace flexibility measures defeated in the Senate Labor Committee.

One June 22nd, 2016 the Senate Labor and Industrial Relations defeated SB 985 on a party line vote despite testimony from multiple employers and Human Resource experts that the current system does not give employees and employers the flexibility to devise flexible work schedules.

“As Yogi Berra said, ‘It’s like déjà vu all over again.’ I keep bringing this measure up because there is a problem in our labor law that the Legislature is ignoring. Current law does not allow for some workers to easily make scheduling changes. It is ridiculous that the Legislature refuses to acknowledge this problem and accommodate the needs of our workforce” stated Senator Tom Berryhill (R-Twain Harte). Under federal law, in California’s bordering states, and in nearly every other state except California, it is simple for employers and employees to adopt “alternative workweeks” such as 4-10’s, or 3 -12’s. Working a four-day workweek can provide for up to 50 extra days off each year for the average full-time employee. In California, however, the system is complicated, and requires employers to jump through multiple hoops designed to stymie any flexibility. Ultimately this process discourages any possibility of choosing schedule options such as flextime, part-time, job sharing, telecommuting and compressed workweeks.

“Current law does not allow for some workers to easily make scheduling changes. It is ridiculous that the Legislature refuses to acknowledge this problem.”
Tom Berryhill,
Senator (R-Twain Harte)

“In a world where many Californians work outside the confines of a 9 to 5 world, it’s disappointing that the majority party preferred to maintain the outdated status quo. Despite today’s vote, we will continue to support workers who want to achieve a better life/work balance and help the environment. Our economy needs labor laws that reflect the changing reality of work”, said Senator Patricia Bates (R-Laguna Niguel), who is a joint author of SB 985.

The Employment Development Department estimates only 2% of the state’s employers are currently utilizing the alternative workweek schedule option.

“Statistically it is ludicrous to believe only 2% of California’s workers ever need to adjust their schedule to care of a sick loved one, an ailing parent or have a personal situation requiring flexibility. That statistic alone tells the story. SB 985 should fall under the category of improving the lives of our workers and keeps our employers competitive with our neighboring states”, Berryhill said. SB 985 would have enacted a five-year pilot project giving employees and employers the ability to adopt a mutually agreeable alternative workweek schedule.

Surveys have shown the biggest threat to an organizations’ success is attracting and retaining the best employees. HR professionals believe the best way to recruit good talent is to provide flexibility in the workplace.

“Employees consistently cite increased workplace flexibility as the most desired benefit, including above additional compensation. SB 985 would have fixed an anomaly in the Labor Code and provided increased flexibility to hard-working Californians. Unfortunately, the unions once again denied individual private sector employees greater control over their work-life balance, even though SB985 specifically exempted unionized work forces and even though these unions provide to their members the same benefit they hope to deny to private sector employees. We applaud Senator Berryhill for his leadership in trying to provide much desired work-life balance to California employees through this sensible reform” said Michael Kalt, Government Affairs Director, California Society for Human Resource Management

The measure is supported by a broad pro-business coalition, including: California Chamber of Commerce, California Retailers Association, California League of Food Processors, Society for Human Resource Management, and the California Manufacturers and Technology.

Senator Berryhill represents Rancho Cordova and the counties of Amador, Calaveras, Inyo, Mariposa, Mono, Stanislaus, Tuolumne and parts of Fresno, Madera, Sacramento and Tulare.

Highway Patrolmen Endorse Sheriff Scott Jones For Congress

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Sheriff Scott Jones continues to be the overwhelming choice of law enforcement in his campaign for California's 7th Congressional District. Today Sheriff Jones announced receiving the endorsement of the California Association of Highway Patrolmen (CAHP). Founded in 1920, today CAHP represents more than 14,500 uniformed officers of the California Highway Patrol.

CAHP President Doug Villars stated in his endorsement, "Both active and retired members of the CAHP are sincerely appreciative of having the opportunity to work with you on issues affecting law enforcement, the California Highway Patrol and the citizens of California. Through your actions you have demonstrated a real concern for the safety of the public and the members of our Association. We appreciate the cooperative relationship that exists between you and our representatives."

“Both active and retired members of the CAHP are sincerely appreciative of having you on issues affecting law enforcement, the California Highway Patrol and the citizens of California.”

Doug Villars,
CAHP President

"The men and women who risk their lives to keep us safe know that Sheriff Jones will be a champion for public safety and security and will fight against those politicians who unfairly demonize our law enforcement officers. That is why Scott Jones remains the number one choice for law enforcement." stated Jones campaign consultant Dave Gilliard in response to the announcement.

CAHP adds their name to a list of law enforcement endorsements that is near unanimous in its support of Sheriff Scott Jones. Previously announced endorsements include; District Attorney Anne Marie Schubert, Sacramento Police Chief Sam Somers, Sacramento County Deputy Sheriffs Association, Sacramento Police Officers Association, California Peace Officers Association, California Police Chiefs Association and many others. For a full list of endorsements please visit www.ScottJonesForCongress.com.

The election for the 7th Congressional District is sure to be one of the most watched congressional elections in the entire nation this year. The 7th Congressional District is nested entirely within Sacramento County including the cities of Folsom, Elk Grove, Citrus Heights and Rancho Cordova.

Fire Camp Lets Kids Be Firefighters (For a Week)

Each day of camp, kids are given a chance to see and learn the varied disciplines of today's fire service. Photo courtesy of Sacramento Metro Fire Dept.

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Metro Fire recently opened the application period for Fire Camp, a day camp that takes place from July 12-15, 2016. Fire Camp provides local children a once-in-a-lifetime opportunity to experience today's fire service, first hand. The program is designed to instill self-confidence, teamwork, teach life safety skills and provide a basic understanding of the firefighting profession, in a fun and exciting atmosphere. Campers are grouped in "strike teams" of eight campers, and each strike team is mentored by two Metro Firefighters. Campers learn valuable life safety skills, while discovering what it means to be a firefighter. To attend Fire Camp, applicants must be 11, 12 or 13 years of age, with preference given to those living within Metro Fire's boundaries. Applications are processed in the order in which they are received, so apply early for a better chance of securing a spot. Deadline to apply is June 6, 2016. Dave Says paraphrasing, of course, but his line was something like, "If you don't work, you don't eat." He had a job, remember? So, suggesting that someone work outside the ministry while trying to do God's work isn't mean or unfair. No one should do this to their child, and it's going to be hard to unravel it all and turn it into a respectable situation. I hope everyone will consider sitting down with a mature third party, and developing a situation where you're no longer giving or lending them money. In the meantime, read a book called Boundaries by Dr. Henry Cloud. After that and some objective intervention, I think this situation will become a lot healthier for everyone. —Dave

Finding the right motivation

Dear Dave, My husband and I make $180,000 a year combined, and we have a net worth of about $1.6 million. We've been blessed financially, and lots of times motivated by a survival point of view, but what do you do when you're not motivated by that kind of thing anymore? How do you find and live out God's purpose for your life? —Lisa
Dear Lisa, Congratulations on your success! You guys really have been blessed, and it sounds like you've worked hard for your wealth. If you've ever studied psychology a little bit, you may remember Maslow's hierarchy of needs. Basically, once you get physiological and safety needs met, you feel a need to find other things to motivate you. It sounds like you're a performance-oriented person. So am I. People like us get our relaxation and even fulfillment away from work in different ways than most people. My suggestion would be to start thinking about ways you can serve and help other people or causes you care about. This could even mean becoming a stay-at-home mom for a while and really pouring into your kids, if you have them. If it's something else, that's okay too. How about this? You've obviously been thinking about this stuff for a while. Take a day all to yourself, away from everything and everybody, and bring along nothing but some food and drink, a bunch of notepads and pencils, and a Bible. Open up your mind and your heart to the things you care about and all the possibilities. You have to have a goal that is worthy in your mind, and you don't have that right now. I can't tell you what your calling is, Lisa, but I can say this. There's tons of joy and fulfillment to be found when you're working in a way to serve the people and things that matter most in your life! —Dave

Apple Fritter: the Fruit of My Choice

Dr. James L. Snyder

Most people in America pride themselves on the ability to make their own choices. "Freedom of Choice," is the cry you hear all around our country these days. Yet, most people do not have the freedom of choice they think they have. Somebody is influencing the choices they make without them realizing they are being influenced. That is called marketing. The Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage and I were watching television the other night, trying to watch a favorite TV program. Finally, from an end of the room that was not my end, came an exasperated sigh. I tried to ignore it, but you know how that works. It was in the middle of some commercials and so I turned to her and said, "What's got you in such pain tonight?" "These commercials," she moaned so painfully, "I can't stand all these commercials!" I responded as cheerfully as I could, "Well, my dear, somebody has to pay for our television viewing privilege." I felt a cold yet burning stare in my direction. "Can't they run those lousy commercials when I'm not watching TV?" Commercials are a way in which manufacturing companies influence our choices. Every product has 100 different companies marketing the same product. The same company makes the same product but sells it under a different name. There are two categories of products. There is the name brand, which cost a fortune. Then there is the generic brand, which is only a fraction of what the name brand cost. It is the same product, made by the same company, but advertised by different venues. This is where choice comes in. Some people choose the high-priced product because they think it is better. Some of us choose the low-price product because we know better. Another night as we were watching television and it seemed most of the commercials had to do with dieting of some kind. There were high calorie diets, low-carb diets and diet that really did not make sense to me. Watching all of those dieting commercials, I did not see one that I would die for. Anybody can lose weight; it is all a matter of choice. Personally, I do not plan to lose any sleep because I cannot lose weight. I think it is going to be rather funny if when we go to heaven everybody is fat. Wouldn't that be something?

We plummet ourselves almost to death trying to lose weight and get to heaven and everybody is fat. My wife is a great one for fruit and vegetables. Every day of our life is fruit and vegetables. To mix things up a little bit one day it will be vegetables and fruit. She prepares the fruit and then invites me to make a choice. I am sure she did not see all of this in any television commercial; at least I hope she hasn't. She is proud of the display of fruit choices she has for me. Actually, and do not tell her I said this, but my fruit of choice is the humble Apple fritter. It has everything my heart desires and a few things my body desires, too. I like with David said, "Delight thyself also in the LORD; and he shall give thee the desires of thine heart" (Psalms 37:4 KJV). It is all a matter of choice, that is, making the right choice. POPPOFF!

with Mary Jane Popp

Shark Tank

Are you looking to start a news business? Maybe you want to turn a hobby into a payday. But money is scarce, right? Well, I spoke with Roberto Fiebig, President and CEO of Tigre Capital on POPPOFF, and he shared six effective way to raise money for your venture.

- 1) HOW MUCH CAPITAL DO I NEED? Although many resources provide information on starting a business with little or no money in the bank, remember that if something sounds too good to be true, it probably is. Don't be misled by the popular literature. Having little or no capital is a primary reason why businesses fail.
- 2) HOW DO I RAISE NEW CAPITAL? The most common source of startup capital is the business owner him or herself in the form of credit card advances, home equity loans, and loans from family members. Federal and state governments sponsor numerous subsidized loans and grants for startups through the Small Business Administration and its counterparts on the state level.

3) WHAT IS THE VALUE OF MY COMPANY? The value of a company is important because it is the basis for determining the "cost" of the new capital when seeking equity additions to the capital structure. Simply explained, a company with a $1 million valuation and no debt seeking a new capital of $1 million would be worth $2 million after the investment. The old owners would own 50% of the new $2 million company (for their contribution of the old company with a $1 million value), while the new investors would also own 50% interest for their contribution of $1 million cash.

4) WHO MIGHT BE INTERESTED IN INVESTING IN MY COMPANY? As the amount of the funds needed increases, you will be required to access an increasingly sophisticated investor seeking maximum return for assuming the risk of a new venture. Family and friends are typically the first group sought by business owners seeking capital. They are less discriminating than professional investors, and are more likely to invest due to the relationship than the economics of the business proposal. On the other hand, family investors bring their own set of problems, including the possibility of strained relations if the investment fails.

5) WHAT ARE MY LEGAL RESPONSIBILITIES TO POTENTIAL INVESTORS? Generally, business owners seeking funds from individual investors are required to provide forms and specific factual information in understandable language to potential investors so they have the ability to evaluate the investment and determine whether it is right for them. Offerings and continued legal obligations of companies to their investor owner are regulated through the US Securities Act of 1933 and the Securities Exchange Act of 1934.

6) HOW DO I NEGOTIATE A WIN-WIN AGREEMENT? A funding event, whether for a startup or an ongoing operation, involves two parties: the investor and the company. In some cases there is a single investor; in others, multiple investors. In the latter case, such as a crowdfunding event, the investors participate as a unit, each sharing a portion of the same investment. In some cases, funding is take-it-or-leave-it; in others, there is intense negotiation. In each case, the parties strive to reach an agreement that accomplishes their respective goals.

It can be complicated, but if the dream is there, go for it! For more information, check out www.TigreCapital.com. GOOD LUCK! ★

The Secret to Being Organized

Pam Young's Corner

God Bless Our Families and God Bless America

A child, we've watched grow up in our little town of Woodland, Washington, graduated from college and we were invited to the party held in her honor. It was in the backyard of the grad's parent's home. We've known this family since we moved to Woodland 13 years ago and we've grown to love them. They are kind and generous and they absolutely serve the best Mexican food in town. The parents are restaurateurs in Woodland.

The party consisted mostly of family, many of whom came up from California to celebrate. I don't speak Spanish, so I couldn't enjoy conversations that sounded really exciting and interesting. When you don't understand a language as it's spoken in conversation, it's so fun to imagine what's being said to elicit such joy, concern, horror, curiosity and such. With a good imagination you can make up wonderful scenarios! Everyone was gracious to us and they all spoke flawless English when speaking directly to us.

There was a young couple I was drawn to because of their nine-month-old baby named Camilla. They were so kind to spend some time with us "in English," when most were enjoying their native language, which I totally understand. Generally I don't write about parties we attend, but this morning as I sat down to my computer, I couldn't get this young father out of my mind.

The couple just moved up to Washington from San Jose, California a month ago. The man had worked for one of the construction companies that built the Apple headquarters. He moved to Washington mainly because of the baby and the cost of living in California. He got a job right away (with benefits) and the cost for a two bedroom apartment in Washington turned out to be half what a one bedroom apartment was in California. This man was so grateful for everything, his work, his country (he's a US citizen), his wife and his baby that he was close to bliss speaking about them. I had to know more, as I had Camilla's attention with my sparkly bracelet.

He told us he never dreamed he'd leave his job in California even though it didn't pay that much. He'd worked for the company, without benefits, for 15 years, since he was a young boy. He also never dreamed he'd settle down, get married and have a baby. When his wife got pregnant, he said he was scared, because he never wanted kids, he didn't know anything about them and he felt he'd made a mistake. He talked about his shame for not being very excited when his wife was pregnant. He wished he could do the whole nine months over again. Now, he wants another baby and can't wait until they can. He was telling us this as he was spooning refried beans into Camilla's mouth to her glee (she clapped after every bite).

What caught my heart about this man (and the Mexican culture in general) was his love of family. His child transformed him in ways he wasn't expecting. With her birth he suddenly was a completely different man. He had such compassion as a father and you could feel the love oozing out of his pores. After nine months, he still was amazed at what this child had done to him.

Oh if we could keep that enthusiasm over the years as we raise our children. I remember when my son Michael was five-years-old saying to his Aunt Peggy as she gushed over her newborn, "I wonder when she's going to figure out it's just going to grow up to be a regular kid?"

God bless our families and God bless America.

A Film Review by Tim Riley

INDEPENDENCE DAY: RESURGENCE (Rated PG-13)

Pretentious film snobs, namely those who would probably prefer action films to have been crafted with the erudite dialogue of a "Masterpiece Theatre" production, are not the intended audience for "Independence Day: Resurgence" and probably should stay home to watch PBS.

But no, many of them will actually venture forth to the multiplex if only so that they may vent their frustrations with director Roland Emmerich's passion for global destruction, and then write a column disparaging the public appetite for this type of summer blockbuster.

As the sequel to "Independence Day" twenty years later, this new adventure may not add much to the pantheon of cinematic annihilation of the Earth. Only recently the capital of Great Britain was leveled in "London Has Fallen" and every so often a "Godzilla" film destroys Tokyo.

Not surprisingly, a disaster film that builds upon the premise that the next alien invasion will be bigger and badder must actually deliver the goods. For starters, several key nations have banded together to colonize the moon with a military base to fight aliens.

One of the heroes of the 1996 battle with the aliens was President Whitmore (Bill Pullman). Now out of office, the former commander-in-chief is seen as a little worse for the wear physically. On top of that, he's haunted by chilling nightmares of a pending alien invasion.

The former president is not alone in having terrible dreams of impending doom. Just now coming out of two decades in a coma is alien expert Dr. Brakish Okun (Brent Spiner), and he's also haunted by similar dreams.

On the lunar military outpost, training exercises are always underway as we get introduced to the modern generation of cocky flyboys. You know right away that they'll play a pivotal role in a climactic battle.

Riley Reviews

ALIEN INVASION PACKS A BIG WALLOP FOR "INDEPENDENCE DAY"

One of them is the son of Will Smith's character, the brash, hot-tempered Dylan Hiller (Jessie T. Usher), who happens to have a major beef with hot-shot fellow pilot and former best friend Jake Morrison (Liam Hemsworth).

Meanwhile, Jake's girlfriend is none other than the feisty, pretty daughter (Maika Monroe) of former President Whitmore, and because she's also a trained fighter pilot her role is more than just window-dressing.

Jake's co-pilot Charlie (Travis Tope) is smitten with Chinese pilot Rain Lao (Angelababy), the daughter of the stern high-ranking military officer Commander Jiang (Chin Han).

Combat missions may provide Charlie the chance to swoon over the attractive fellow soldier, but his primary role seems to be exchanging wisecracks with Jake so that much needed comic relief is introduced during the midst of tense action scenes.

While the young may be the bright future of intergalactic warfare, the aging veterans of the first alien war still have major roles. Jeff Goldblum returns as scientist David Levinson, and his meddling father (Judd Hirsch) saves a busload of kids.

As another alien attack is imminent, the only saving grace is that the military leaders have adapted alien technology into their weapons systems. But then, the aliens, under the command of a Queen living in a fortified hive, are even more sophisticated in warfare.

Devastation to Earth is inevitable given that the alien warship now looming in the skies is 3,000 miles wide, a virtual floating continent capable of wiping out entire cities with an ease that even Godzilla would envy.

When not lifting cities into the air only to drop them back down elsewhere, the massive alien spaceship busies itself with drilling to the Earth's center in order to tap into the vital power source of the molten core.

The interesting thing about the aliens is that they are hideous-looking creatures, even more horrific than what might have emanated from the fevered mind of surrealist artist H.R. Giger had he been inclined to expand on the work he did for the "Alien" franchise.

Moviegoers aren't coming to "Independence Day: Resurgence" to admire the set design or the artistic creation of the alien creatures. Action is what is needed, and that's what director Roland Emmerich is committed to delivering.

There's nothing particularly bright or intellectually stimulating about this sequel, but then, who really cares?

It's all about the thrills of global destruction, and boy, there is plenty of that with entire cities destroyed in the full glory of spectacular visual effects.

"Independence Day: Resurgence" is a rousing salute to fighting back to repel the alien invaders. This is action-fueled summer blockbuster entertainment as it is meant to be: simple fun with lots of thrills, explosions and excitement. ★
