The State of City

Annual Retrospective Guides Future Perspective

By Annika Darling

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - On July 1st, 2003, after more than 20 years of advocacy, Rancho Cordova officially became a "city": the 478th in the state of California. With every passing year the city of Rancho Cordova blossoms a little more.

A huge part of the reason the community chose to incorporate, was they wanted to maintain a high quality of life for its residents and improve the city's identity—making it possible for positive growth, to forge ahead, and to continue to make Rancho Cordova an amazing place to live.

The city's success and thriving nature has never been more apparent than in this year's annual State of the City address at Rancho Cordova City Hall, where Mayor Robert McGarvey delivered a speech of resounding approbation.

To begin the ceremony the Color Guard marched the aisle, setting the tone and preparing the room for the annual address. Following the Color Guard the room was filled with angelic voices, resonating from the students of Cordova High School Choir. The choir graced attendees with many beautiful numbers, proving the talent of Cordova's youth.

The event's host, the Cordova Community Council, has been pivotal in organizing a number of inspiring and festive events throughout the year. This they represented well with a slide-show reflecting the variety of events that took place throughout the city in 2015...thus far.

The compilation of the slide-show exhibited the city's diverse culture through a variety of artistic events; highlighting organizations such as the Historical Society, the River City Concert Band, and Civic Light Orchestra.

The Kids Day in the Park was also address everyone moved to the lobby for pie; in true Rancho Cordova warm, welcoming fashion every single person got a piece of the pie. The pie was provided by Bel Air of Gold River. Photos by Rick Sloan

Syrian Refugees May Come to Sacramento for Assistance

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- After TheHayride.com broke the exclusive story on 10,000 Syrian refugees possibly resettling in Baton Rouge, Lafayette, and Metairie, it has now come to light that refugees are already coming into the New Orleans area. Four Sacramento area organizations are designated to assist these refugees, primarily males between the ages of 18 to 30 years old.

Catholic Charities will receive federal grants from U.S. Department of State/Bureau of Population, Refugees and Migration to assist refugees.

There are nearly 180 cities in the United States that are eligible to accept the 10,000 Syrian refugees. The full list of those cities can be found on TheHayride.com.

"Four Sacramento area organizations are designated to assist these refugees, primarily males between the ages of 18 to 30 years old."

The four local organizations designated with assisting these refugees are Opening Doors, Inc on Howe Avenue, International Rescue Committee on Hurley Way, Sacramento Food Bank and Family Services on Rio Linda Boulevard and World Relief on Auburn Boulevard, all in Sacramento.

The 10,000 Syrian refugees are first flown to the United States, according to the French news wire Agency France-Presse. Hayride reports that the United States State Department (meaning American taxpayers), is paying the International Organization for Migration (IOM) for the airfare.

Once the refugees arrive in the United States they could be dispersed across the 180 cities, including Sacramento, where they are aided within the first 30 to 90 days in settling and finding employment in the area.

After approximately 90 days, refugees are no longer eligible for the State Department-funded support that they were receiving through migrant and refugee services. They are then able to join support programs through the Department of Health and Human Services.

The State Department does not state how much the screening process for the 10,000 Syrian refugees will cost American taxpayers. The screening process is also unclear.

The State Department spent $1.1 billion resettling people from around the world in the country last year. That's about $16,000 per person.

Quiet Hero Awarded Keys to the City

By Shelly Blanchard

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - He has chatted it up with Jimmy Fallon on Late Night and told his story to Lester Holt on the NBC Nightly News, but this week international hero Anthony Sadler stood quietly with his parents at Rancho Cordova City Hall to be honored by his Rancho Cordova neighbors.

Sadler and his parents Maria and Anthony, 15-year residents of the Cordova Meadows neighborhood, were all awarded keys to the city Monday in honor of Sadler's now famous actions with two friends to thwart a terrorist attack on a moving train in France earlier this year.

Sadler and his parents led the Pledge of Allegiance, which customarily opens each Rancho Cordova City Council meeting.

Monday's event was decidedly low-key, compared with sitting courtside at a Los Angeles

The Rancho Cordova City Council presented Anthony Sadler and his parents —Anthony and Maria—with a proclamation and Keys to the City. The recognition honors Anthony's bravery and the family for being part of the Rancho Cordova community. School Board President to Run for County Board, District 4

School District Comes Through for Splash Program

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Folsom Cordova School Board President Teresa Stanley today announced her candidacy to succeed Roberta MacGlashan who is retiring after 12 years of service as Sacramento County Supervisor for District 4.

“I want to build upon Supervisor MacGlashan’s outstanding record of service for our communities,” declared Stanley who also serves as the Supervisor’s alternate on the Sacramento Transportation Authority Board. “The citizens of District 4 deserve a Supervisor who will stand up for our common sense values of fiscal responsibility, support for public safety and smart growth that preserves our quality of life. I raised my family and built my career here, and I am committed to making Sacramento County a safer and more prosperous place for all.

“As the owner of two local businesses, a priority as Supervisor will be to streamline the business permitting process to make Sacramento a better place for businesses to thrive and grow. We need to simplify the process to attract quality employers and jobs to our local communities.”

“Our communities cannot provide a great quality of life unless they are safe. As Supervisor, I will support law enforcement, fire protection and code enforcement services as the County’s top budget priorities. In addition, our County must take strong measures to preserve the safety of our neighborhoods, parks and business districts.

“During my service on the Folsom Cordova School Board, I have worked successfully to balance budgets while promoting the highest standards of academics,” continued Stanley. “My relentless focus on quality educational programs like STEM, International Baccalaureate and accelerated academics has helped ten of our District’s local schools to achieve status as California Distinguished Schools, with two schools earning National Blue Ribbon honors. I will bring this same commitment to innovation and excellence to the County Board as our next Supervisor.”

“I am proud to support the election of Teresa Stanley to the Board of Supervisors,” declared Folsom City Councilman Ernie Sheldon. “Teresa’s outstanding leadership for our schools gives her the right experience to be an effective County Supervisor.”

“Teresa has a broad background in finance, negotiations, contracts, human resources, legal issues, teaching and learning as a school board member,” stated San Juan School Board President Pam Costa. “She will be an asset as Sacramento County Supervisor.”

“As a businessman, I know how important it is to have elected leaders who understand business and finance. Teresa’s extensive involvement with local business organizations is just the right kind of experience we need on the County Board of Supervisors,” said Architect Mike Kozlowski.

“I’ve known Teresa Stanley for many years and strongly endorse her candidacy,” stated Rancho Cordova Mayor Bob McGarvey. “She’s an independent and dedicated leader we can count on to work for the best interests of our community.”

Numerous other community leaders have joined in endorsing Teresa Stanley’s candidacy for District 4 Supervisor, including former Folsom Mayor Eric King; Sacramento County Board of Education Trustee Thomasya Glover; and Folsom School Board Members JoAnne Reinking; and Ed Short and Zak Ford.

“It is truly an honor to earn the support of these respected and politically diverse community leaders,” stated Stanley. “It demonstrates the broad base of community support that my candidacy is bringing together.”

Teresa Stanley owns and manages a small law practice and she also owns a local microbrewery. A member of the Folsom Chamber of Commerce for over 20 years, Teresa serves on their Governmental Affairs Committee. She also serves as the Educational Liaison to the grassroots organization Citizens Against Lawsuit Abuse.

Stanley has served on the Folsom Cordova School Board for 19 years and currently serves as Board President. She represents area schools as a delegate to the California School Boards Association.

Teresa has been married to her husband David for 27 years. They are blessed with four children and two grandchildren.

Story and photos by Margaret Snider

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - At a recent Rancho Cordova Luncheon, Emily Butler, executive director of Sacramento Splash, presented a moving account of Splash’s elementary school educational program on the Mather Field vernal pools. At the end of her address, she brought up the subject of two unfunded classes, adding a plea for help.

The cost is around $2,500 per program, $75 per student. “The per class cost that somebody used wasn’t accurate,” Butler said. That resulted in only 10 classes being covered, excluding two Cordova Villa Elementary School classes. Butler had assured the school that the problem would be resolved, whatever it might take. However, Butler said, she was “starting to get a little bit desperate.”

Splash will provide the program on investigating vernal pools to almost 90 4th and 5th grade classes across Sacramento County this school year, 12 of which are planned for Rancho Cordova. Vernal pools are temporary wetlands that occur in areas with wet winters and hot, dry summers. The Mather Field area in Rancho Cordova contains perfect examples of this type of environment, in which rare and specific types of flora and fauna thrive.

Moved by the plight of the program, Cordova High School Principal Dan Anklaam volunteered to take the matter of the underfunded program back to the Folsom Cordova Unified School District (FCUSD) and assured Butler he would do everything he could to make sure the Splash program at Cordova Villa Elementary was fully covered, even if he had to use money set aside for his own budget. Anklaam, formerly a biology and chemistry teacher at Cordova High, said that elementary schools have been neglecting science classes for some time because the schools are judged on how well they do on math and English testing, and science scores are not measured.

Concerning the video at the presentation, Anklaam said, “I saw something in the kids’ faces that was genuine. So I said, we have to do this.” He later added, “I had a little bit of a science geek-out. I really believe that outdoor education and all those kinds of programs are really integral to learning science, because you have to actually do science, you can’t just get it from a book.”

The program allows children to visit and study the unique wildlife area, an opportunity that is becoming much rarer for this generation of children growing up in an urban environment. Splash also takes action to preserve the vernal pools and their wildlife, educates the public on their part in protecting clean water sources, and provides for public agencies to meet the requirements for National Pollutant Discharge Elimination System (NPDES) storm water permits.

Until two years ago, Rancho Cordova fulfilled this requirement through Sacramento County Department of Water Resources. Now the City of Rancho Cordova is responsible for its own storm water program.

Funding for Splash’s program is complicated and comes from several sources, Butler said. The majority of the funding comes from local government agencies. Splash’s program integrates the message of controlling the level of pollutants flowing into storm water drains, with the desired result of cleaner water for everyone. Other funding comes from individual donors.

Jessica Hutchinson, principal of Cordova Villa Elementary, having received assurance from Butler, had no doubt that the programs for her school would go on as planned. She had taught and participated in the Splash program when she was a fifth grade teacher at Cordova Lane Elementary some years back. “It is a very extensive and amazing program and the kids completely enjoyed it,” Hutchinson said. She had fairy shrimp in her classroom, the kids studied different wildlife and plants, what makes vernal pools, and how important they are.

Responding to the need, FCUSD stepped up. “The District is funding the gap to make sure that all of our students can receive this hands-on learning opportunity,” said Daniel Thigpen, spokesman for the District. “It was very generous of Dan to take action to make that happen, and we don’t want him to have to use his own budget.” ★

Local Organizations Receive Grants from the Community Enhancement Fund

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - At Monday's City Council meeting, the Rancho Cordova City Council presented checks to local organizations who received grants from the Community Enhancement Fund (Measure H). Over 60 organizations received funding this fiscal year for various projects to support community priorities. Source: City of Rancho Cordova ★

The first check was presented to the Sacramento City Unified School District. The third grade classes at a.m. Winn and Abraham Lincoln Elementary Schools will be attending Effie Yeaw Nature Center during the school year. The funding covers the registration for the field trips and school bus transportation. (Pictured left to right: Council Member Donald Terry, Area Assistant Superintendent for Sacramento City Unified School District Olga Simms, Vice Mayor David Sander, Abraham Lincoln Elementary Principal Laura Butler, Mayor Robert McGarvey, A.M. Winn Principal Michael Kast, Council Member Dan Skoglund, and Council Member Linda Budge.)

The second check is for the Cordova Community Council Foundation's Rancho Cordova Civic Light Orchestra. The funding will provide educational opportunities to musicians and allow them to acquire equipment and obtain guest performances. These services will benefit the City and its residents by enhancing the quality of the arts in general and increasing opportunities for residents to hear and become educated about classical music. (Pictured left to right: Council Member Donald Terry; Ed Lowry, President of the Rancho Cordova Civic Light Orchestra; Vice Mayor David Sander; Mayor Robert McGarvey; Larry Stafford, Chairman of the Cordova Community Council Board; Council Member Dan Skoglund; and Council Member Linda Budge.)

The third check is also for the Cordova Community Council Foundation to digitize past issues of The Grapevine Independent. This will create a searchable, online archive of 46 years of the publication, preserving this historical resource that documents contemporary Rancho Cordova history, including the incorporation of the City. The Rancho Cordova Historical Society is volunteering hundreds of hours to prepare the editions for digitizing. # Less Stress This Thanksgiving

Seven Easy Steps to Your Best Turkey Yet

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (STATEPOINT) - Selecting, preparing, and cooking the centerpiece of your family’s Thanksgiving meal can pile on a lot of stress. However, there are some easy ways to simplify the process.

“There are a lot of great choices, but they can certainly be overwhelming during a busy holiday,” said Theo Weening, global meat buyer for Whole Foods Market. Here are seven basic rules to ensure you have the perfect turkey for your holiday meal.

Plan ahead: Frozen turkeys can take several days to fully thaw. The safest method is by placing it on a tray in its packaging to catch drips, and put it in the refrigerator on the lowest shelf. Plan for one full day of thawing for every five pounds of turkey. If you’re short on time, put your turkey in a leak-proof wrapper and submerge it completely in cold tap water. The water should be changed every 30 minutes. Plan for 30 minutes of thawing time per pound.

Research: There are many different types of turkey to choose from. Some grocers carry a variety of birds and additionally have in-house butcher experts behind the counter to help you choose what is right for your taste and budget. Here are the five types of turkey found at Whole Foods Market:

- Organic: fed organic feed (that means no GMOs, among other things) and given access to the outdoors.
- Classic: known for their trifecta of flavor, quality, and value.
- Heritage: rich, succulent, old-world breeds cherished for flavor.
- Heirloom: robust flavor with a higher percentage of dark meat.
- Kosher: certified kosher.

Size matters: A good rule of thumb is to buy 1.5 pounds of turkey per person, providing everyone a healthy portion while allowing for those sought after leftovers.

Read the label: The best birds are raised with the highest standards. This means no antibiotics, no animal by-products in their feed, no added solutions or injections, and no added growth hormones. To make it simple, shop at a store that only carries turkeys raised with these standards, such as Whole Foods Market. Their turkeys are also 5-Step Animal Welfare rated.

Brine: Soaking turkey in a saltwater solution for four to 24 hours before roasting keeps it tender and juicy. Try a brine kit for a simple and easy recipe.

Time it: It takes approximately 13 minutes per pound to cook a turkey at 350 degrees, and the turkey is done once it reaches 165 degrees. Use a meat thermometer and insert it into the thickest part of the thigh (without hitting the bone) to test the temperature.

Rest: Wait 30 minutes before carving the turkey. Giving the turkey time to rest allows the juices to redistribute for better flavor.

More turkey tips are available at www.wholefoodsmarket.com/turkey. When it comes to choosing and cooking your holiday turkey, preparation is key. Do your research, know what you like, and enjoy the rest. ★

Cordova Food Locker Looks to Community for Help

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Cordova Community Food Locker is looking to the community for help to make Thanksgiving and Christmas meaningful to the poorest of our brothers and sisters.

With the addition of hundreds of clients over the past year, the Food Locker is in need of at least 1,200 turkeys for Thanksgiving. Last year, the Cordova community stepped up and did the impossible. Community members challenged each other to prove to be a caring community.

And it worked.

The Cordova Community Food Locker asks: Can we do it again?

On Monday, Nov. 23rd, the Locker will distribute what they have gathered to those in need.

Turkeys can be dropped off at the Food Locker or the St. John Vianney Catholic Church Office, 10497 Coloma Rd, Rancho Cordova, CA 95670.

Weekdays: 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.
Saturday, Nov. 14th: Noon to 5 p.m.

The State of City

nostalgically presented in photographs, as was the Fourth of July celebration (how could anyone forget that spectacular event) and the International Festival, which was full of dancing and fun; there didn’t seem to be one photo in this series that lacked smiling faces.

One of the most memorable events of the year reflected in the slide-show was the 10th Annual Veterans Day Ceremony, where for the first time in this area the legacy and heritage of the 100th/442nd regimental combat team and Nisei veterans were honored; making this a very memorable and historical day for all the attendees and everyone involved.

Mayor McGarvey’s speech was filled with warmth as he reminisced on not only the happenings of the past year experienced by the community at large, but personally and by his family. He embraced the room intimately in this way, with the perspective that the community was one big family, was his family. His love for the community was apparent, and he said, “Rancho Cordova has the nicest, warmest people you’ll meet anywhere.”

Mayor McGarvey recently attended his last full City Council meeting as Mayor of Rancho Cordova. On Dec.7th, David Sander will be sworn in as the 2016 Mayor, and Donald Terry will be sworn in as Vice Mayor. However, Mayor McGarvey did announce, “to stop all the rumors,” that you will see him on the ballot again.

After the mayor’s address everyone moved to the lobby for pie; in true Rancho Cordova warm, welcoming fashion every single person got a piece of the pie. The pie was provided by Bel Air of Gold River.

Overall, the impression the State of the City gave, was that this is a city on the rise. That with every day it gathers momentum, and with their positive, warm-hearted and involved community, there is nothing this city cannot achieve. ★

A Stupendous Bounty

We live in an age of miracles. Throughout all of human history, material progress essentially didn't exist until around 1800. The economic trajectory was flat until the human lot began to improve in ways that would have been unimaginable in prior millennia.

This change gave us the world as we know it. In her brilliant book on the transformation, "Bourgeois Dignity," Deirdre McCloskey writes how the average person in the world subsisted on roughly $3 a day during humanity's long economic stasis. Then, with the breakout, countries that experienced modern growth over the past couple of centuries saw their material well-being increase by at least a factor of 16 -- a transformational leap ahead for nearly everyone living in those countries.

Thanksgiving is, in part, a festival of abundance, and despite the steep recession and grindingly mediocre recovery, we still are better situated to celebrate it than people in any other age or place.

America has always been materially blessed, relative to other parts of the world. In the Colonial period, American men and women were already taller than their British counterparts, thanks to a better standard of living. "Americans achieved modern heights by the middle of the 18th century," according to economic historian Robert Fogel, and had already "reached levels of life expectancy not attained by the general population of England or even by the British peerage until the first quarter of the 20th century."

Life was nonetheless still characterized by deprivations almost completely alien to us. Across the 20th century, the routine misery lifted and we witnessed the profusion of almost all of the things we now take for granted.

Between 1900 and 2000, indoor toilets, telephones and automobiles in the U.S. went from rare to practically universal, according to the study "Century of Difference." In 1920, about a quarter of Americans owned an automobile. Now, 57 percent of households own two or more cars.

McCloskey catalogs the other indicators of progress. In 1875, people spent roughly three-quarters of their income on the basics of food, clothing and shelter. By the mid-1990s, the figure had shrunk to 13 percent. Meanwhile, spending on recreation doubled. (The author Gregg Easterbrook points out that in 2001, Americans spent a greater amount on recreational watercraft than the gross domestic product of South Korea.)

The bounty of consumer comforts and goods has extended to poor households. In 2010, 80 percent of poor households had air conditioning; only about third of all Americans had it in 1970. Even poor households have televisions (96 percent), and washers and dryers (68 and 65 percent, respectively). None of this is to deny that material deprivation exists, but what once were the hallmarks of middle-class life are now widely diffused.

The American public's economic discontents are justified, with the job market not yet healed, with incomes stagnant, and with income mobility too limited. But the epoch of the nearly inevitable $3-a-day livelihood is past. Compared to most of human history, when, in the words of Deirdre McCloskey, "illiteracy, disease, superstition, periodic starvation, and lack of prospects" were the norm, we live in the sunlit uplands. For that, we should be grateful.

Hunting Isn't Answer to Feral Cat Problem

female cats were. (www.avma.org/News/Journals/Collections/Documents/javma_225_9_1354.pdf) I wrote about the problem those many years ago, advocating TNR.

Fast-forward to 2014: A TNR study conducted in Alachua County, Florida, found that increasing awareness among area residents and encouraging them to TNR feral cats helped reduce the number of cats entering the local shelter by 66 percent. (www.sciencedirect.com/science/article/pii/S1090023314001841)

So, providing local education and resources to residents helps them actively and humanely participate in the gradual reduction of feral cat colonies. Fewer cats in an area can help the local wildlife rebound. Whether or not you own pets, you can play a role in reducing the feral cat population without using a bow and arrow. Start with organizations dedicated to achieving this, such as Alley Cat Allies at saveacat.org.

But for the Rancho Cordova residents present it was a chance to get up-close to someone who has displayed, and what has been viewed worldwide as, rare and inspirational heroic actions.

Mayor Robert McGarvey presented a proclamation honoring "service to the community and the world" and ceremonial keys to the city to the entire family, because, "Your parents are heroes, too."

Then, without adding any remarks, the family made a dignified retreat while those in Council Chambers gave him a standing ovation.

Sadler, a student at Sacramento State University, was at the center of a now familiar story of everyday heroism, where he and two friends—U.S. Airman Spencer Stone and Oregon National Guardsman Aleksander Skarlatos—jumped into action to subdue a terrorist on an Amsterdam-to-Paris train, preventing injury and loss of life on Aug. 22nd.

The act of valor landed all three in the international limelight as examples of how everyday people can find themselves in a position to prevent a terrorist attack.

The juncture of courage and celebrity was not lost on Councilmember David Sander, who in congratulatory remarks noted that Sadler had received rare and valuable insight.

"You have been given a remarkable gift," he said, noting how most people wonder what they would do if ever faced with a life or death situation. "You found out what you have inside you," he said.

He urged Sadler to use his unforeseen celebrity to share the values of selflessness and courage demonstrated by the trio of friends that fateful day in August. ★

A public auction sale to the highest bidder for cash, cashier's check drawn on a state or national bank, check drawn by a state or federal credit union, or a check drawn by a state or federal savings and loan association, or savings association, or savings bank specified in Section 5102 of the Financial Code and authorized to do business in this state will be held by the duly appointed trustee as shown below, of all right, title, and interest conveyed to and now held by the trustee in the hereinafter described property under and pursuant to a Deed of Trust described below. Street Address or other common designation of real property: 3009 Winchester Way Rancho Cordova, CA 95670. Described as follows: As more fully described on said Deed of Trust. A.P.N #: 077-0105-002-0000 The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the street address or other common designation, if any, shown above. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. # AUTUMN TIPS FOR OUTDOOR LANDSCAPING

Golden State Water Company wishes to thank you, our customers, for the steps you have taken to reduce water use during the drought, and is offering these tips to help you maximize your water-use efficiency this autumn.

Lawn Irrigation Tips

- Autumn should bring rain and cooler temperatures, presenting an opportunity to scale back irrigation.
- Turn off lawn irrigation systems during rainy periods, and avoid watering during and 48 hours following measurable precipitation.
- Install a weather-based smart irrigation controller and water-efficient sprinkler heads.
- Check to make sure sprinklers are positioned to irrigate your lawn and not your sidewalk, driveway or gutters
- While hand watering your lawn, focus on dry spots and pay close attention to avoid runoff.
- Avoid watering your lawn on windy days to limit overspray and evaporation.
- Survey your lawn irrigation system and fix any sprinklers, valves and lines that may be damaged or leaking water.
- SAVE YOUR TREES: Capture the water that runs while your shower warms up, and use it to water your trees.

Lancer Gridders Earn Awards

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Cordova High School football players Unique Perez and Devin Baldwin have been recognized by Sierra Valley Conference head coaches and Lancer teammates.

Perez, the Lancers' quarterback the last two seasons, was named the SVC's Most Valuable Player. The signal caller completed 193 passes out of 297 attempts for 3,085 yards, which is a new school record, 35 touchdowns and only 10 interceptions. He finished with a combined 4,744 yards and 51 touchdowns.

"Unique was the clear choice for (the SVC's) player of the year," said Cordova head coach Darren Nill, who guided the Lancers to a 2-3 mark in the SVC and 5-5 overall this season. "He put it all together."

Baldwin, a wide receiver, earned the conference's co-Best Offensive Player with Galt running back Zach Orman. Baldwin pulled in 88 receptions for 1,760 yards and 20 touchdowns. Both Baldwin and Perez are seniors.

"Unique and Devin were two of five choices for MVP, and deservedly so," said Nill of the duo.

On Tuesday night, Perez and Baldwin were also honored by Lancer teammates at the program's banquet held at Mills Middle School. The duo was named the team's co-MVPs.

Another Lancer who was named to the all-SVC's first team offense was junior wide receiver Angel Garcia, who finished with 46 receptions for 573 yards and six TDs.

On defense, Cordova linebacker Kenny Haney, defensive back Aaron Giles and strong safety Terrill Johnson were recognized. All juniors, Johnson led the team in tackles with 100, followed by Giles at 75 and Haney 58.

Three more Lancer players were also honored on the SVC's second team and honorable mention lists. On the second team, wide receiver Isaac Black and free safety Nate Williams, a junior, were tapped. Black had 29 receptions for 338 yards and five touchdowns. Williams had 49 tackles.

Cordova linebacker Jason Johnson rounded out the SVC selection, named to the conference's honorable mention list. He had 68 tackles for the season.

More team awards:

Joining Perez and Baldwin in winning team awards were Giles, Defensive MVP; Williams, Most Improved; Michael Gonzalez, Lineman of the Year; and Seth Trujillo, Lancer Award.

"He (Trujillo) was the guy who held us together," said Nill of Trujillo. Cordova Football 2016

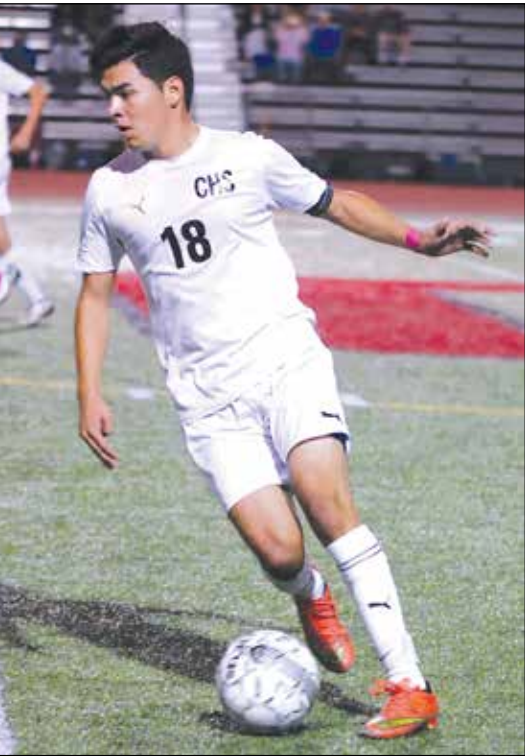

Out of the 10 Lancers who were named to the SVC's first, second and honorable mention teams, eight are juniors.

That gives Nill and his coaching staff many reasons to smile when juniors and sophomores who were part of the Cordova junior varsity football team that posted an 8-2 record this season hit the weight room in January.

"They are going to be leaders," Nill said.

Aguilar Named SVC's MVP

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Four members of the Cordova High School boys soccer players were named to the Sierra Valley Conference's first team.

Out of the quartet, Lancer midfielder Luis Aguilar was named the conference's Most Valuable Player. A three-year starter, Aguilar had 22 goals and eight assists.

Three other Lancers making the SVC's first team were forward Miguel Medina, another three-year starter who also had 22 goals this season, midfielder Alex Casal (five goals for the season) and goalie Kevin Bejines, who had 24 saves.

"I was really happy for and proud of the boys this season," said Cordova head coach Eric McCahon. "It was huge for Luis to receive league MVP... I feel it was well-deserved."

In addition, McCahon was named the conference's Coach of the Year. He led the Lancers to a third place finish in conference at 5-3-2 and 12-10-3 overall. Cordova also advanced into the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III playoffs.

END OF THE BENCH BY GERRY SCHOU All Under the Same Umbrella

Leaving the house at 4:30 in the morning, the sky is clear, stars are out. There's the Big Dipper, Leo, Hercules, Pegasus, Orion's Belt. Planets are bright: Venus, Jupiter, Mars. Is there anybody out there? To hear our pleas?

It's dark, but for a lone street-light and a few porch lights. The neighborhood is peaceful and quiet, just beginning to awaken. The usual suspects are starting to stir and prepare to start their cars to head off to work to the tunes of a rooster's crow and the dogs' first barks.

Just like yesterday. Just like tomorrow. Other than the gradual changes of the seasons, things don't change all that much.

But, for today, there is a different feel, a somber sense engulfing it all, a heavy heart carrying the weight.

Another vile crime against humanity has punctured the soul of the love for life. For the love of humanity, will it ever stop? Given our history, it is difficult to imagine that happening. Perseverance is a must.

The setting for first hearing the news of the abominable terrorist attacks in Paris could not have been a more stark contrast --- sitting with close family, sharing ice cream and fun, downtown after a four-year-old's first -ever, cute-as-could-be dance performance. From the purest of joys to, as we would learn more later, a most horrible atrocity committed against the innocent --- people like us.

People like us, we don't know the answers. We don't understand the reasons why. Again given our history, we've never been able to figure it out. We seem destined to have things similar to these repeat themselves for as long as we inhabit our planet. We wonder, given the capabilities of modern man, how long will that be?

Starting the truck to hit the roads and begin the daily routines is not the time to dwell on those sorrowful questions. In a smaller world, time marches on...

Away we go, starting the day to the sounds of sports talk radio, but with awareness to the latest news, switching back and forth for the awful updates until we can't live with it anymore. People like us feel a pain and are sympathetic to the hurt and losses suffered by the victims of this latest senseless violence. They are people like us who like dining out, rock concerts and sporting events, but while appreciating those things they were damaged irreparably.

It seems there is little that we little people can do to help. There may be some way we can reach out. For the moment, in our world, we keep going, keep living from day to day.

We sports fans reenter that world to hear about the escapades of our favorites and their adversaries. Will coach Tomsula survive this rocky season for the 49ers and return next season? Gabbert, Kaepernick or somebody else at quarterback? Is Brady a cheater? Will the Patriots go undefeated? Is Peyton Manning done? Will the Warriors ever lose? Is MVP Steph Curry the best player in basketball today and the best pure shooter of all time? Is LeBron a good guy? Is DeMarcus Cousins a good guy and it is only that smirk on his face that bothers us so?

Why can't we get up-to-date box scores in the newspaper anymore? Will the Giants sign Grienke? About time Brandon Crawford won a Gold Glove. Is Tim Lincecum finished? Matt Cain? How many Oakland A's will we recognize in next season's starting lineup? Are the Raiders going to L.A., again, just when they are getting good?

What happened to the Packers all of a sudden? And the Seahawks? Too bad Stanford lost its chance for a national title. Cal is still Cal, plenty of offense and not much defense, but can the Bears win this Big Game? Either way, Cal hoops should be interesting, but are they really 14th in the country? That meeting with St. Mary's could be something.

All these things we have interest in have lost their edge today. Their importance has again been put into a more proper perspective.

Will the Super Bowl be a good thing for the Bay Area? Now there is a question. Will it be another target for evil? It likely did not occur to the 79,000 spectators at Stade de France last Friday for a soccer "friendly" between France and Germany that they would be targeted, but three unsuccessful suicide bombers outside the gates had them in their sights.

These abhorrent assaults on peace alter the way we will all continue to go about our daily lives; they will alter the way we will enjoy the sporting experience, among many other things. But every time some event so awful as this does its damage, the recourse for the rest of us is to sustain our resolve to do and be better in our daily lives.

If only Hercules could mount Leo, the Lion, and Orion sit upon Pegasus, the winged stallion, and both drink up the power from the Dipper to lead chariots from the sky to our rescue. Boarding the chariots to help save the day would be Mars, to lead the way in the war against all evil, Jupiter, to protect us and shed his grand light upon all our minds and lives, and Venus, to spread love throughout.

Urban Meyer and the Ohio State Buckeyes are closing in on yet another Big Ten title. They play Michigan State and Michigan in the final two weeks of the regular season.

Battle in the Big Ten

Sparty visits Michigan State in crucial East Division showdown

MICHIGAN STATE AT OHIO STATE

Ohio State, winner of an amazing 30-straight Big Ten games, closes the season with games against the two best opponents on its 2015 schedule (Michigan State and Michigan). The Buckeyes stamped themselves as a legitimate national title contender last year with a surprisingly dominant 49–37 win in East Lansing in November. This year, they are almost a two-touchdown favorite to make it two straight vs. the Spartans. Michigan State could be without senior quarterback Connor Cook, who was forced to leave the Spartans’ win over Maryland twice due to an injury to his throwing shoulder. Junior Tyler O’Connor, who has attempted 41 passes in three seasons, will get the start if Cook is not available. Regardless of who starts for MSU, the Spartans will need to play well on defense to win this game. The usually stout Spartan defense has been rather mediocre this season, ranking ninth in the league in total defense (364.0 ypg) and tied for seventh in scoring defense (22.3 ppg). Ohio State 34–23

BAYLOR AT OKLAHOMA STATE

We knew there would be some huge showdowns in the Big 12 in November. Few of us were expecting Oklahoma State to be a prominent player in any of them, however. But here are the Cowboys, 10–0 overall after a 35–31 win at Iowa State on Saturday. That victory, like a lot of Oklahoma State’s this season, wasn’t overly impressive, but Mike Gundy’s club remains in the College Football Playoff hunt for the simple fact that it has yet to lose a game. Baylor lost for the first time on Saturday night, falling at home to Oklahoma. The Bears did manage 34 points but were held to a season-low 416 total yards, and true freshman quarterback Jarrett Stidham threw two interceptions. That loss might not have eliminated Baylor from the Playoff, but the Bears will need to win their final three games (at Oklahoma State, at TCU, vs. Texas) in impressive fashion and hope for some help. Baylor 41–35

UCLA AT UTAH

UCLA, despite being one game behind both USC and Utah, controls its own destiny in the Pac-12 South because the Bruins still play the other two teams. Utah, which lost to USC last month, needs to win on Saturday and hope UCLA defeats the Trojans in the final weekend of the regular season. Neither of these two programs, however, has had the look of a championship team of late. Utah is 2–2 in its last four games, with losses at USC and Arizona sandwiched around wins over Washington and Oregon State. UCLA lost at home to Washington State last weekend and is only 3–3 in its last six. UCLA is the more talented team, but the Bruins have been far too inconsistent this season. Utah 27–20

USC AT OREGON

Oregon has quietly played outstanding football since quarterback Vernon Adams Jr. returned to the lineup. The Ducks have won four straight, highlighted by Saturday night’s thriller at Stanford. In those four games, they have averaged 5.8 yards per play (vs. Washington), 7.2 (Arizona State), 8.5 (California) and 9.1 (Stanford). That indicates that this team is capable of dominating on offense even without Marcus Mariota running the show. USC, too, has won four straight, the last three by one score or less. At 5–2 in the league and with a win over Utah on their résumé, the Trojans control their own destiny in the Pac-12 South. Winning their final two games, though, will be a tall order: Oregon is playing as well as any team in the Pac-12, and UCLA features one of the most talented rosters in the league. Oregon 38–27

MICHIGAN AT PENN STATE

Michigan fans are frothing at the mouth in anticipation of Ohio State’s visit to Ann Arbor in two weeks, but that game won’t be nearly as important if the Wolverines lose this Saturday at Penn State. The first season of the Jim Harbaugh era has been a huge success, but this team hasn’t been as effective defensively in recent weeks. The Wolverines gave up 461 yards (and 6.8 yards per play) in a surprisingly close 29–26 win at Minnesota on Oct. 31 and allowed 527 yards and 41 points at Indiana last week. Penn State has had more than its share of offensive struggles in the James Franklin era, though the numbers indicate the ’15 Nittany Lions have been far more efficient and consistent this season. They only have averaged more than 6.0 yards per play once this year (vs. Rutgers in Week 3), but they haven’t averaged less than 5.0 in any of their six Big Ten games — something they did six times in 2014. Penn State 23–17

TCU AT OKLAHOMA

You could make a strong case that Oklahoma has the worst loss (vs. Texas) and best win (at Baylor) of any strong College Football Playoff contender. The committee seemingly will put more stock in the quality win, which has put the Sooners in position to earn a berth with victories over TCU this weekend and at Oklahoma State on Nov. 28. The date with TCU appeared to be far more formidable earlier in the season. The Horned Frogs lost two weeks ago by 20 points at Oklahoma State and survived a scare on Saturday, only beating hapless Kansas by six. And to make things worse, quarterback Trevone Boykin and wide receiver Josh Doctson — two of the best players at their positions in the nation — are dealing with injuries. This one could get out of hand if Boykin is not available. Oklahoma 41–20

STOCK REPORT

A Southern Miss’ long nightmare is over. The Golden Eagles pounded Rice 65–10 on Saturday to improve to 7–3 and secure a winning record for the first time since 2011. This once-proud program — which averaged 7.9 wins from 1996–2011 — fell off the national radar by winning a combined four games from 2012–14.

V The Pac-12’s hopes of sending a team to the College Football Playoff took a major hit over the weekend when Stanford and Utah — the league’s only two legitimate contenders — both lost for the second time this season. Stanford dropped a 38–36 decision at home to Oregon, and Utah lost in double overtime at Arizona.

A Arkansas is surging down the stretch for the second straight season. The Hogs, who were 2–4 after a 13-point loss to Alabama, have won four straight games, highlighted by consecutive road wins at Ole Miss and LSU. On Saturday, Arkansas outgained LSU on the ground 299-to-59 in its 31–14 win in Baton Rouge.

V UCLA’s struggles at home continue. The Bruins dropped to 2–2 in Pac-12 games at the Rose Bowl this season with a 31–27 loss to Washington State on Saturday. Jim Mora’s team is now just 4–6 in its last 10 league home games dating back to the end of the 2013 season.

The Few. The Proud. The Marines.

By Sal Arrigo, Jr.

Recently I had the privilege to meet Commandant Mark P. Hite of the Marine Corps League, Elk Grove, Calif., and Detachment 1238. Hite was a combat Marine working to help fellow Marines and their families through the Marine Corps League. Established in 1923 and receiving its Federal Charter in 1937 through an Act of Congress, the League’s mission is to “join together in camaraderie and fellowship for the purpose of preserving the traditions and to promote the interests of the United States Marine Corps...”

There are several programs within the League that Marines work toward for the betterment of the community. For example, the Toys-for-Tots program, a well-known program of the Marine Corps, is assisted by the League through collecting support to wounded, critically ill and injured Marines and FMF (Fleet Marine Force) Corpsmen and their families.” The fund, established in 2004, has issued 103,000 grants totaling more than $118 million dollars in assistance, with little to no red tape. Hite told me that nearby housing is provided for families when a Marine is rehabilitating or spending time in the hospital. “It is a major hardship for families” Hite said.

Commandant Hite mentioned that his grandfather was a Marine and that he always admired him for serving. I thanked Hite for his service and let him know that it was an Thanksgiving, and there are only 45 days before New Year’s Day. At least that’s what most of the ads are declaring as businesses begin to prepare to open their doors for 24 hours a day. Now I have to admit that I’m really not sure which stores will be open for 24 hours, nor am I sure about the rest of the stores and how long they will be open. I know that many retailers depend on business sales during the holiday season to make it through the rest of the year. I hope all of our Rancho Cordova businesses are prosperous and successful, both the new and well-established businesses, the rest of the year.

I am also looking forward to what our grandkids will be bringing home from school. I appreciate what the teachers have them working on so they learn what Thanksgiving is really about. Being grateful and appreciative of what they have is difficult sometimes when there isn’t as much at home as they would wish. But as children grow older, they learn that the definition of peace in the United States of America is quite different than the definition of peace that is “doing what you are told.” Peace as we know it and freedom in a free society come at a price. The terrorists who killed 129 people and wounded over 300 more in Paris last week are bringing war to civilian life. Over 400 citizens have been killed by terrorists with the Russian Commercial Airliner being blown from the sky and the killings in Paris.

The first attack that was planned in Paris back in August was stopped by Anthony Sadler, Alek Skarlatos, and Spencer Stone. That much we know. They have been given honors around the world for their heroism. We were able to thank one of them Monday night at our City Council Meeting. We gave Anthony Sadler a Key to the City, and we were also able to give his parents, Anthony Sadler Sr. and Maria Sadler, a Key to the City too. We also gave them a proclamation honoring the family. Anthony’s parents live in Rancho Cordova in the Cordova Meadows neighborhood, and we appreciated the opportunity to thank them for raising and guiding Anthony to be the wonderful young man he has become. All parents know they can only do so much when you have children. You teach, and guide, and help in every way you can. But what that child becomes when they grow up is up to them. Anthony and Maria Sadler are very proud of their son.

Monday night was my last full City Council meeting as Mayor of Rancho Cordova. On Dec.7th, David Sander will be sworn in as your 2016 Mayor, and Donald Terry will be sworn in as your Vice Mayor. I will begin that meeting, but as you have seen in the past, the meeting will take a break as we change positions. I will still be on the City Council, and I will still be writing columns for the paper, but it won’t be headed “From the Mayor’s Corner” after the Dec. 4th issue.
And to stop all the rumors about next year’s election, you will see me on the ballot again.

From Mayor Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★ during the Vietnam War, having served from 1964 through 1970. He achieved the rank of Staff Sergeant E-6 and was attached to the 6th Marine Regiment. I told Hite that I heard about the phrase: “Once a Marine, always a Marine;” and asked him if this rings true for him? “I am a Marine in another phase of my life,” was his answer.

The “other phase” of Commandant Hite’s life is and distributing toys to needy children, and by raising needed funds for the program. The League also has a scholarship program to help students with their college expenses.

One aspect that many people are unaware of is the Semper Fi Fund (www.semperfund.org). Semper Fi, always faithful, is the well-known motto of the U.S. Marine Corps. This fund provides “immediate financial assistance and lifelong honor for me to interview him. In fact, it is quite admirable what the Marine Corps League is doing in the greater Sacramento region. They are a nonprofit organization and if you are interested in making contact with them, try calling Commandant Mark P. Hite at (916) 687-8208 or send an e-mail inquiry to elkgrovemcl1238@mail.com. Their meetings are held the first Thursday of the month at the Elks Lodge in Elk Grove. ★
