A City on the Rise

Blue Shield's Ribbon Cutting Ceremony Marks Positive Movement for Both Company and City

By Annika Darling

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG)

- With the cutting of a giant blue ribbon with a pair of great big scissors, Blue Shield of California officially moved into the heart of Rancho Cordova.

In a gesture of genuine hospitality, Blue Shield's "opening of the doors" ceremony on Nov. 4th both recognized those involved in procuring the 175,000-square-foot campus, and welcomed the renowned insurance company to the city. The event was by invitation only, open to employees and guests.

In attendance, to formally welcome the company to Rancho Cordova, were State Sen. Tom Berryhill, Rancho Cordova City Council Member Dan Skoglund, and Chairman of the Board of Directors for the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce Steve Milner.

This move is big for both Blue Shield and the city of Rancho Cordova, and the lease, a monster. According to the Sacramento Business Journal this is one of the largest deals Rancho Cordova has seen in years. Blue Shield has signed-on for the next 10 years to occupy the two buildings at 3300 Zinfandel Drive and 10834 International Drive, called Zinfandel I and II. Approximately 700 Blue Shield employees will grace this new space.

Zinfandel I and II appealed to Blue Shield for numerous reasons: the ability to add parking, room for future growth, and close proximity to light rail.

"It's really an ideal fit for Blue Shield," said company spokesperson Sean Barry, explaining how building owner Strada Investment Group also Steve Millner, chairman of the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce Board; Rancho Cordova Council Member Dan Skoglund; Senator Tom Berryhill; Todd Walthall, senior VP of Customer Experience at Blue Shield; and Juan Davila, executive VP of Health Care Quality and Affordability at Blue Shield. has 14-acres nearby that Blue Shield will partially use to build a 700-stall parking lot.

Juan Davila, Blue Shield executive vice president of Health Quality and Affordability, reiterated Barry's statement, adding that the access to public transportation, and retail and restaurants within walking distance was also ideal for employees.

"The move to Rancho Cordova supports Blue Shield's growth and business strategies while providing employees with great amenities and modern conveniences to enhance their work experience," said Davila.

Barry agreed with this statement, calling the location "an ideal nexus for employees and guests."

Tenant improvements on the two buildings were expected to take six months, yet, they only took five. Millie Virgil, director of Corporate Services at Blue Shield, said the opening of the location was done in "record time."

During the ceremony, Virgil said, "It took only five months to take the building from nothing to move-in, everyone in seats. The team took the stance of 'failure is not an option.'"

Part of these improvements included a cafe and fitness center; a fitness center which seems to be the center of a lot of excitement.

Todd Walthall, senior vice president of Customer Experience, voiced his

VA Hospital Accountability Bill Introduced

Inspiration for the Bill Comes After Tragic Death at Mather VA

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Citing the tragic death of a veteran at the Mather Veterans Affairs hospital last year, Congressman Ami Bera, M.D. introduced a bill to implement additional accountability measures at Veterans Affairs hospitals across the country.

His bill, the VA Quality Care Act, includes additional oversight measures to ensure all problems at VA facilities are reported, communicated, and fixed across the network.

"The tragic death of this veteran illustrates problems within the VA system that must be addressed," Bera said. "My bill increases transparency and reporting so that any issues in the delivery of care at one facility are shared with other facilities in the system. The information from my requested investigation suggests that VA facilities are not sharing best practices and other quality improvement measures effectively. This bill will ensure doctors, nurses, and staff are all operating efficiently and effectively and collaborating across health centers to deliver the best care possible to our nation's heroes."

Last October, a Sacramento County Vietnam veteran died after a do-not-resuscitate bracelet was incorrectly placed on his wrist. Bera requested an investigation with the Office of the Inspector General; their report found that Mather was responsible for a "delay in life-saving intervention."

"Our service members have sacrificed for our country and it is our responsibility to ensure they receive top quality care," Bera said. "Based on the findings in the Inspector General report, there are institutional problems that are seriously affecting the quality and delivery of care. Reporting requirements in my bill will help correct and improve care. We must do all we can to ensure this does not happen to any other veterans."

Operation Gobble Donates 100 Turkeys

Golden State Water and Senator Berryhill Join Forces for 25th Annual Holiday Effort

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA - On Wednesday, Nov. 4th, Golden State Water Company launched its annual Operation Gobble effort donating 100 Thanksgiving turkeys to community organizations in Rancho Cordova, in partnership with Sen. Tom Berryhill (SD 8). Community organizations that received turkeys included the Cordova Community Food Locker and Elks Lodge 2484. Representatives of both organizations were on hand to accept the donated turkeys.

The Thanksgiving turkeys were distributed to community-based organizations that serve individuals and families with limited resources to assist members of the community who may otherwise go without a meal this Thanksgiving holiday. Golden State Water is partnering with elected officials and community leaders throughout the state during November to distribute more than 8,000 turkeys through the Operation Gobble effort.

"We appreciate this partnership with Senator Berryhill, and hope that today's event will both provide holiday meals for those in need and raise awareness of the issue of hunger in our community," said Paul Schubert, Northern General Manager for Golden State

Water. "Operation Gobble has been a Golden State Water tradition for 25 years, and we have partnered with elected officials and community leaders to distribute more than 216,000 turkeys since the program's inception."

"Operation Gobble is a great way to help our community and raise awareness of an important issue that impacts people in our region every day, not just during the holidays. I am very pleased to be here with the folks at Golden State Water," said Senator Berryhill. "It is my hope that these turkeys ease the burden and brighten the holidays for folks that are struggling this year. Thanksgiving is all about sharing, and that is exactly what Golden State Water Company is doing today."

The Legend of a Nisei Veteran

By Annika Darling

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Kiyo Sato is a 92-year-old Nisei veteran who was forced to live in the Poston War Relocation Center in Arizona during the summer of 1942. It was one of the largest American concentration camps during World War II for those of Japanese descent.

She resided in the camp for several months before becoming one of the first women freed from Poston in order to attend school: she was in elementary school at the time. She later went on to Hillsdale College in Michigan.

After graduating from Hillsdale College, Sato had the grades and skills to apply to some of the most prestigious nursing schools in the country. Every single school sent rejection letters saying they didn't allow someone of her ancestry to attend their school.

"There were so many laws against Asians in the early days," said Sato. "We couldn't marry anyone outside of our race, we couldn't buy land, and there was the Oriental Exclusion Act."

But even then, Sato said, "there was something about America that gave you hope."

"When my father came to this country in 1911," Sato recalled, "he went through a great deal but he saw what America was all about: he studied the Constitution. Even though it was rough, you worked hard and pursued your goals."

At that time no Asian could become a citizen by law. It wasn't until 1952 that first generation Japanese immigrants were able to get naturalized.

In her youth, not only was Sato rejected in her attempt to enter nursing school, but when she tried to enlist in the Army and the Navy she was also rejected.

"I wanted to join, but I was the wrong color for them," Sato said.

In 1951 she was accepted by the Air Force and enlisted as a nurse, where she achieved the rank of Captain by the time her service ended.

Of her resilience to serve her country, Sato said, "You serve because it's your country. I feel that we need to give back."

Not only did Sato herself serve her country after being sent to live in an internment camp, but so did five of her eight siblings, all of whom were by her side at camp in 1942.

"I never faced discrimination in the service," Sato said. "But we, the Nisei, looked like the enemy."

Sato is now an educator. She speaks and does presentations at schools to educate our youth on this aspect of our history, this tragically under told story of the Nisei soldiers.

Sato has been involved with the local Veterans of Foreign Wars Nisei Post 8985, and her group has been speaking to students about their lives and time in the armed forces for almost 30 years.

"We have been speaking to schools within 100 miles of here," said Sato. "We developed a PowerPoint presentation called 'Lessons from Our Lifetime; The Internment of Americans of Japanese Descent and the U.S. Constitution.'"

Some of the gaps that Sato and her group are filling, in terms of educating students about the Nisei soldiers, is that the most highly decorated unit, for its size and length of service, in U.S. history is the 442nd combat team, an all Nisei unit. "These soldiers all served in the Pacific," said Sato. "Yet, hardly anybody knows about that."

Over the years, and undoubtedly due to woman like Sato, Nisei veterans are gaining more and more recognition for their sacrifices.

Washington, D.C., recently recognized the soldiers of the 442nd unit, with a three day ceremony awarding them with the Congressional Gold Medal. Two of Sato's brothers qualified for this award.

Also, for the first time this year, Rancho Cordova honored the Nisei soldiers for their service in the city's 10th Annual Veterans Day Ceremony at the Memorial Plaza at the Sacramento VA Medical Center. Sato was a guest speaker at the event.

"Of course I think it's great," said Sato of the ceremony. "There was so much work put into this program, this event."

Veterans Day has always been a personal and an important day for Sato. "We need to remember all those guys and gals who didn't come back," reminds Sato. "I think about that so much. ...I have been to many of these memorial services, and it makes you think about the whole of life.

“When my father came to this country in 1911, he went through a great deal but he saw what America was all about: he studied the Constitution. Even though it was rough, you worked hard and pursued your goals.”

— KIYO SATO
92-YEAR-OLD NISEI VETERAN

Hopefully we will come to a point where we won't have to go to war."

Sato said that the current conflicts around the world are very discouraging.

Three years ago Sato found herself revisiting her history, face to face with her past, when she was invited by the Smithsonian to "stop by" to speak, among other things.

"I didn't realize until about three years ago [during the Smithsonian visit], what

[the government] went through to get me released," said Sato. "It was quite an experience. I felt like an ancient, ancient person. [At the Smithsonian] they put us in this cubby hole, this little room, and then they brought in this tray of documents. These documents were letters that I and my brothers, and others, had written to our elementary school teachers here at Edward Kelly School—this is one of the oldest schools in our state. We had all written letters to Mrs. Cox, she was my school teacher for eight years, a wonderful teacher, and these letters were in a file in the Smithsonian."

What had happened was a military intelligence officer, assigned to Sato's case during the war, drove all the way to Sacramento and confiscated 60 letters that Mrs. Cox received from all her students in the internment camps as part of his campaign to get the children released. In total, there were ten internment camps in the U.S. from here to Arkansas. This military officer's job was finished at the end of the war, and not knowing what to do with those letters but knowing he couldn't dispose of them, he called the Smithsonian.

Upon learning this and seeing the letters, Sato wished to speak with the man who was such an integral part of her release.

"I wanted to talk to him, but knew he had to be old. I was 90 at the time, and I knew he had to be older than me for sure.

"But lo and behold," said Sato, "when I got home I got a call from him. Would you believe that? I got this call from Dr. Gerald Lamboley himself."

During their conversation, Sato recalls Lamboley commenting: "Somebody should write a book, you people have lived in horrendous conditions."

At which point Sato laughed, and replied: "Apparently you haven't read my book."

Lamboley died in 2012, shortly after they spoke.

"Life is so interesting," said Sato. To learn more about the inspirational Kiyo Sato, read "Dandelion Through The Crack," which was re-published with the name "Kiyo's Story." The book tells of a family formed by both ancestry and by the American way of life, and their perseverance through both the Great Depression and World War II. It is available online and at Barnes & Noble. ★ excitement regarding the state-of-the-art exercise facility as well as the nearby, local breweries—alluding to how the two could go hand-in-hand. “We can all live happier, healthier, fuller lives,” he said.

Beyond that, in his speech at the ceremony, Walthall said, “There are lots of reasons to be in a great mood. This facility is tremendous. The best part about working for Blue Shield of California is the pride that comes with being an employee here. ...This is a big day for Blue Shield. This is a big day for our [employees]. Enjoy this moment.”

The new space was a necessity for the company. Over the years space at their four-building 250,000-square-foot campus in El Dorado Hills, built in 2001, became less and less sufficient: the campus, intending to hold 1,500, was holding 1,800.

Sen. Berryhill presented the Certificate of Recognition to Blue Shield during the ceremony, and hailed the economic development boost of the new facility.

Skoglund echoed Berryhill's remarks, saying: “Blue Shield is a terrific addition to our community. ...We're excited about the potential for new jobs in this region's growing health care sector.” This, however, came after he apologized, as he stepped to the podium slowly, saying he had just had knee surgery, but then quickly reassured the crowd he would be fine, pulling a card from his pocket with a little blue cross on it saying: “Because I have Blue Shield.”

The crowd responded with laughter and cheers.

As the celebration went on, it was clear that there were indeed many reasons to be in a good mood, the alacrity was infectious, it was in the air.

Blue Shield joins Aetna, Anthem Blue Cross, Delta Dental, Dignity Health, Health Net and McKesson, among others, as the latest health care company to have a presence in Rancho Cordova. ★

PG&E Implements Pipeline Safety Initiative

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - PG&E is implementing a Community Pipeline Safety Initiative to ensure that first responders like firefighters have immediate access to PG&E’s gas transmission lines in the event of an emergency or natural disaster like an earthquake.

While it may not be visible to the naked eye, certain trees, brush, and even structures can threaten gas safety because they block first responders from getting to the pipe during emergencies. It is really the same reason you can’t park your car in front of a fire hydrant. Fire officials do not necessarily need access to the hydrant on a regular basis, but during an emergency they need it immediately or the emergency could become much more severe very quickly.

The program became necessary because over the course of years items like trees, sheds, and shrubs have been placed directly over gas transmission lines, this presents an access problem for first responders. That’s why PG&E is working with customers to move or replace trees on their property if they block first responders from having the access they need during an emergency.

Any re-landscaping required would all be done at PG&E’s expense—and they will not move forward until the customer is happy with the plan. They want to ensure that when the work is complete every situation is left better than when they found it.

PG&E is committed to building the safest and most reliable gas system in the country. As part of an effort to do that they have invested over $3 billion dollars in gas safety programs—the Community Pipeline Safety Initiative is part of that overall effort.

PG&E understands how important trees and landscapes are to families, community, and environment. They want thier customers to know that if a tree needs to be replaced for safety reasons, they will listen to concerns and work together with the property owner to ensure the natural beauty of the area is restored.

City of Rancho Cordova tree counts:

- 49 Trees on public property that will need to be replaced

- 109 Private Property Trees to be Reviewed (some of those will not need to be replaced, we will need to review the trees to determine that)

Obamacare Is Still Failing

For the press, the debate about Obamacare is over. There may be a few proverbial Japanese soldiers wandering on isolated islands yammering on about the failure of Obamacare, but word will eventually filter down to them, too.

This assumption is so deeply embedded that it is impervious to new evidence that Obamacare is an unwieldy contraption that is sputtering badly. Yes, Obamacare has covered more people and has especially benefited those with pre-existing conditions (to be credible, Republican replacement plans have to do these things, as well), but the program is so poorly designed that, surely, even a new Democratic president will want to revisit it to try to make it more workable.

Enrollment is falling short. The Obama administration projects that it will have roughly 10 million people on the state and federal exchanges by the end of next year, a staggering climbdown from prior expectations. The Congressional Budget Office had predicted that there would be roughly 20 million enrollees.

Premiums are rising. Not everywhere, but steeply in some states. Indiana is down 12 percent, but Minnesota is up 50 percent. Health-care expert Robert Laszewski points out that it is the insurers with the most enrollment and therefore the best information about actual enrollees who have tended to request the biggest increases -- a sign that they don't like what they're seeing in their data.

Relatedly, the economics are shaky. According to a McKinsey & Co. analysis, last year health insurers lost $2.5 billion in the individual market that Obamacare remade. Obamacare co-ops that were supposed to enhance choice and lower costs have been failing, and almost all of them are losing money, a victim of the absurd rules (no industry executives on their boards, no raising capital in public markets, etc.) imposed on them by the law.

The problem with Obamacare in a nutshell is that on one hand, by imposing motley regulations and mandates, it increases the price of health insurance, and on the other hand, by providing subsidies, it tries to hide the cost -- but not enough.

According to an analysis of the health consultancy Avalere, the poor or near-poor have been signing up, but enrollment steeply drops off further up the income scale as the subsidies fall away. It found that three-fourths of uninsured people earning less than 150 percent of the federal poverty level got coverage through Medicaid or the exchanges, while a small fraction of the uninsured making more than 250 percent of the federal poverty level have enrolled.

For them, it's just not a good deal. A study of the Obamacare exchanges by researchers at the Wharton School concluded that "even under the most optimistic assumptions, close to half of the formerly uninsured (especially those with higher incomes) experience both higher financial burden and lower estimated welfare."

As Robert Laszewski points out, on the individual market, Obamacare is essentially a monopoly. It gives money to people to buy its product and through the individual mandate punishes those who don't. And yet it is still having trouble making the sale.

The soldiers who haven't given up yet are right -- this isn't over.

Should Mom Let Boy Adopt Pit Bull?

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: We're going to adopt a dog now that I'm 10 years old. I saw a pit bull puppy that I liked at the shelter, but my mom said no, because they're vicious. My friend said that's not true. What can I do to persuade her to adopt this dog? -- Braedon in Alpharetta, Ga.

DEAR BRAEDON: Before I answer, I do want to tell you that your mom has your best interests and safety in mind. And because of the many publicized incidents about pit bull attacks and aggressive behavior, her first reaction is to keep you from getting hurt.

Ultimately, she will be the one to approve the type of dog to adopt. But you can try to sway her opinion with a few myth-busting facts, courtesy of the American Pit Bull Association (americanpitbullfoundation.com/pit-bull-myths-debunked):

- Pit bulls' temperament is often better than that of other breeds. In temperament testing (atts.org/breed-statistics/statistics-page1), American pit bull terriers had a passing rate of 86.8 percent, and other pit bull breeds scored above 82 percent -- well above the general dog population's average of 77 percent.
- Pit bulls originally were bred as working dogs and are typically energetic, intelligent and stubborn. Like other working breeds, they do best when socialized early with other dogs and humans, and with lots of training and attention.
- Pit bulls' jaws are not stronger than other dogs, nor do they "lock" when they bite.

You and your mom should look for certain traits in every dog you're considering. Each dog's temperament is unique; ask the shelter about current and past behavior. Meet a potential dog with as many family members as possible. And research each breed before deciding which dog to adopt.

Send your questions or tips to ask@pawscorner.com.

You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. lost.

“Once I got a call on the cell phone from the owner, who said he was lost and couldn’t find his way back to the house. So I asked him where he was and he said he was right there, sitting on a rock and close to a pine tree.”

He chuckled. “That narrowed it down to about 13,000 acres. Well, I managed to find him, and after that, I put these signs up. I tell them now, if they get lost, to drive until they come to Home Road and then head downhill. It solved the problem.”

on a drive-around tour of the place. It's a huge, private ranch, with tiny ex-logging roads winding around through 13,000 acres of pine trees and rocks. A real paradise.

But I was horrified to see wooden street signs nailed to trees wherever two of these old logging trails came together.

“Oh no,” I said, out loud.

“What’s the matter?” Bob asked.

“I see you’re planning a subdivision here.”

Bob started laughing when I pointed at the signs. “Those are for the owners,” he explained. “They live Back East and visit here one weekend a year. When they get out here, they take the pickup and drive around and get

Jerking for Crappie

Want to try something a little different when crappie fishing this spring? Try jerking for them. Jerking is a technique that's been used in some parts of the country for quite a few years but is just now catching on in others. Here's how you do it. Rig a minnow or jig under a bobber, cast it around crappie cover, then move it with short, quick jerks every minute or two. Beneath the surface, your jerks make the bait dart erratically for a second and then flutter down, simulating a wounded baitfish, and that really excites a crappie.

When using this tactic, expect strikes to come within a few seconds of one of those quick jerks. The darting movement will get a big crappie's attention, and the slow fluttering fall that immediately follows will be too much for them to resist.

AUTUMN TIPS FOR OUTDOOR LANDSCAPING

Golden State Water Company wishes to thank you, our customers, for the steps you have taken to reduce water use during the drought, and is offering these tips to help you maximize your water-use efficiency this autumn.

Lawn Irrigation Tips

- Autumn should bring rain and cooler temperatures, presenting an opportunity to scale back irrigation.
- Turn off lawn irrigation systems during rainy periods, and avoid watering during and 48 hours following measurable precipitation.
- Install a weather-based smart irrigation controller and water-efficient sprinkler heads.
- Check to make sure sprinklers are positioned to irrigate your lawn and not your sidewalk, driveway or gutters
- While hand watering your lawn, focus on dry spots and pay close attention to avoid runoff.
- Avoid watering your lawn on windy days to limit overspray and evaporation.
- Survey your lawn irrigation system and fix any sprinklers, valves and lines that may be damaged or leaking water.
- SAVE YOUR TREES: Capture the water that runs while your shower warms up, and use it to water your trees.

Cordova Lancers Capture "Sledgehammer" in Season Finale

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In four of its games this season, the Cordova High School football team lost by four or less points.

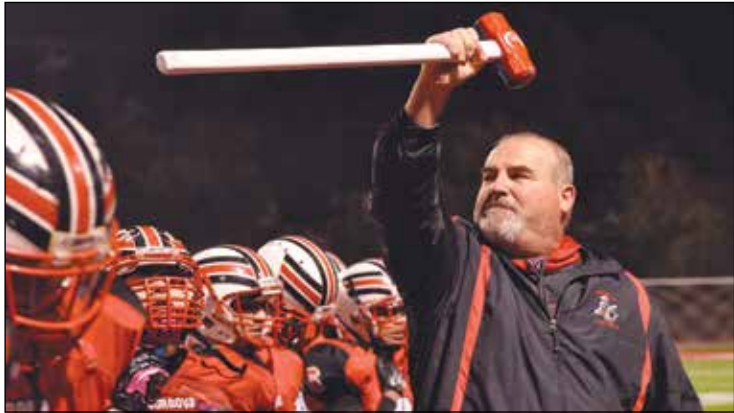

But in last Friday's Sierra Valley Conference home finale against rival Rosemont, now titled the "Sledgehammer Bowl," the Lancers were on the winning end of a very close game.

Hanging onto a 22-20 lead entering the final quarter, Cordova tacked on two more scores to post a 34-26 win over the Wolverines at Lancer Stadium. The Lancers finished their season with a 2-3 mark in the SVC and 5-5 overall.

Cordova's arsenal attack in the air was slowed down by Rosemont's defense. That's when the Lancers found success on the ground that led to the two touchdowns that made the difference.

"[Rosemont] really cut down on our throwing opportunities," said Cordova head coach Darren Nill.

"They emptied out the box to try to [cover Lancer wide receiver] Devin [Baldwin] and our other receivers. So we just started running the ball. We adjusted to what the defense was giving them."

But the Wolverines' plan backfired, as Lancer running back Deante McCullough scored on a 50-yard run in the final quarter, cushioning the team's lead.

"He put it in an extra gear I haven't seen all year," said Nill of McCullough's run. "He just flew in-between [the Wolverines' safeties] and raced them into the end zone."

After a scoreless first quarter, Cordova scored two touchdowns in the second for a 14-0 halftime lead.

But in the third quarter, Rosemont (2-3 in the SVC, 5-5) erupted for three touchdowns to trim the Lancers' lead before the fourth quarter finish.

McCullough finished the game with 10 carries for 91 yards. Lancer quarterback Unique Perez completed 9-of-24 passes for 137 yards and four touchdowns.

More Lancers on offense stood out as wide receiver Angel Garcia caught two of Perez's TDs. Nate Williams and Devin Baldwin had one TD each.

Two Cordova defensive players had double-digit tackles; defensive back Terrill Johnson had 1; and linebacker Chance Manzanares had 10. Lancer defensive back Jason Johnson followed with nine tackles, and linebackers Michael Gonzalez and Kenneth Haney had six each.

Lancer defensive lineman Clifford Bright and Johnson had an interception each in the finale. Johnson also recovered a fumble.

The idea of playing for the sledge hammer came before the start of the season by Rosemont head coach Thomas McKenna, who is in his first year. He suggested to Nill that they get a sledge hammer, with one side painted in Cordova's main school color of red and the other in Rosemont's blue.

"We both thought it was a good idea," Nill said. "It put a whole new layer onto the rivalry game. It was really awesome."

In the frosh/soph game, Cordova finished its season with a 40-16 win over Rosemont. The Lancers finished with a 3-2 mark in the SVC and 8-2 overall. ★

END OF THE BENCH BY GERRY SCHOLL
Bummed Out Searching for a Theme

This is a day of reckoning. We are here solely to deliver insufficient payment of our debt. We are here to honor our obligations, to try in vain to fulfill our promises of presenting some worthwhile feature for your entertainment purposes.

"We" are neither "royal," nor "majestic." "We" are simply a single person with far too little to offer. This is a day when "we" are finding it difficult to put two and two together. What, four?

At almost every turn while searching the sports landscape we find a lack of inspiration. There's too little support for fandom. It's discouraging. The talking points seem redundant. There's so much negativity and it only seems to be getting worse.

Since bad news always sells far better than good news (for some twisted reasons), the ugly stuff consistently rises to the surface, comes to the forefront and overruns the territory --- a scourge upon the land; a royal pain in the you-know-what. The majesty of sport is constantly threatened by the cloak-and-dagger.

It all can be borderline depressing. Within our wide world we wish we could pacify ourselves with the idea that "it's only a game," but the games within and beyond the actual games remind us that it's more than just a game. With so much (money) at stake, pro sports is riddled with undesirable activities employed to gain any edge.

There's an endless list of bad, sick guys like Dallas' Greg Hardy --- whom Cowboys owner Jerry Jones refers to as "a team leader" and had no qualms signing because the guy is a good player --- around the NFL appearing on police blotters, but showing up on the field on game day. And MLB is not immune...the latest entry being the Rockies' Jose Reyes and his own domestic violence arrest while on vacation in Hawaii with his wife. There is far too much of that sort of thing in the news.

There's always a steady stream of recruiting and program violations in the college ranks. And the shady characters climb to the top: (In basketball) Rick Pitino and his fine, upstanding reputation at Louisville; John Calipari (Kentucky); Jim Boeheim (Syracuse); etc., etc. (In football) Urban Meyer (Ohio State); Pete Carroll (while at USC); Penn State, North Carolina, Miami, SMU, Oklahoma, and on and on...

There's a troubling mess at the University of Missouri. Coming on the heels of the racial tensions last year in Ferguson, Mo., months of protests at the university over racial matters and a failure on the part of the administration to adequately address the incidents, and other issues have come to a head. It took a hunger strike and a supporting walkout and threatened boycott on the part of the Missouri football team ($$$) to bring it to national attention. The university's president and chancellor have stepped down under the pressure. Hit them where it hurts --- in the pocketbook --- and action will result. Sad, but true.

It's hard as a fan to have to recognize the reality that the almighty dollar always rules the day.

We constantly hear about the criminals, cheaters, abusers, arrests, suspensions, corruption. It seems no sport has been left untarnished, including the Olympics, soccer, cycling, golf, Little League....

It's too much! We're mad as hell and we don't want to take it anymore! But, it's such a sad state of affairs, we fans feel powerless. Could we affect change by not attending or watching? Perhaps, but then we would be denying ourselves of what we desire...to just enjoy a good game. (It would be a good thing if we kind of liked some of the guys we're rooting for, too).

Lately, locally, even seeing a good game has come into question. The Sacramento Kings' season is all but over just eight games in --- star DeMarcus Cousins missing several games due to injury (again), leading to a 1-7 start and a "players-only" team meeting. Not good. Even with an influx of new talent, the team is a mess. Despite a 17-16 win behind replacement QB Blaine Gabbert, Sunday over a bumbling Atlanta Falcons team that should've taken the game, the 3-6 San Francisco 49ers are mired in the midst of a long, ugly transitional period.

Just when fans were beginning to be inspired by the recent play of the Oakland Raiders (4-4), the defense collapsed at the end of an entertaining game against Pittsburgh and lost it, 38-35, to put a damper on the team's playoff aspirations. The ho-hum San Jose Sharks are a mediocre 7-7 to begin their NHL year.

Baseball ended with the Oakland A's continuing to do business as usual, making it difficult to care, and the Giants falling out of it due to a ridiculous rash of injuries.

We may be ramblin' man, but we're doin' the best we can. We understand if you've given up on us by now, because nobody loves you when you're down and out. Sorry, but right now we're seeing the sports skyline as gray and dark and cloudy.

A true sports lover, though, must seek the silver lining, and these days it is golden --- the Golden State Warriors, champions of the world! Defending last season's title, the "Dubs" are off to an 8-0 start through Tuesday --- the only remaining undefeated team in the NBA behind the unbelievable play of reigning MVP Steph Curry.

Longtime fans of the Warriors residing north of the line of demarcation, that lies somewhere around the Nut Tree in Vacaville, rarely were able to see their team on TV in the past and had to settle for the hapless Kings. Now that the Warriors are the stars of the league, national broadcasts often feed their games into our living rooms. Cheer up. ★

Coach Nill Reflects on Season

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Cordova High School football head coach Darren Nill had reasons to smile after last Friday's Sierra Valley Conference home finale against Rosemont.

His Lancers posted a 34-26 win over the Wolverines in the rivalry that is now titled the "Sledgehammer Bowl."

"We finished on a high note," Nill said.

Cordova finished its season at 2-3 in the SVC and 5-5 overall. In four of their four losses, the Lancers lost by a combined 15 points.

"Being that close will help us fuel this off-season and get ready for next year," Nill said.

Two Lancer players who played their last prep grid game at Lancer Stadium were offensive standouts in quarterback Unique Perez, who finished with 193-of-297 passes for 3,085 yards and 35 touchdowns. The other is wide out Devin Baldwin, who had 88 receptions for 1,760 yards and 20 touchdowns.

"The Unique to Devin combination, no doubt, will be missed," said Nill of the duo. "Those two could keep us in any game."

Other Cordova football players who are seniors are linebacker Chance Manzanares, wide receiver Isaac Black and running back Seth Trujillo.

A large group of juniors are expected to return next season. Plus four sophomores were on this year's varsity squad: running back Clifford Bright, lineman/linebacker Jacob Yang, and offensive/defensive linemen Joseph Salcedo and Jose Colvin.

In addition, the Cordova frosh/soph football team went 3-2 in the SVC and 8-2 for the season.

In January/February 2016, Nill said returning players will hit the weight room. That will carry over into the spring and summer months and will include workouts on the field.

The Lancers have also made some changes to their non-league schedule for the next two seasons. For the Week 0 opener, Cordova opens against Rio Americano. The two programs faced each other when Cordova was in the Capital Athletic League for all sports from fall 2010 to spring 2014. Cordova will also play Vista del Lago, replacing McClatchy. ★

A Busy Time of Year

When is the best time to write a column? The answer is whenever you get the time, or more accurately, when you make the time. The rest of the year will probably be when I make the time because in addition to the holidays (which are flying by) we all have personal celebrations that work into and in-between the holidays: Labor Day, Halloween, Thanksgiving, Christmas, to mention a few, and then family birthdays, graduations, anniversaries, what a minute...I’m going to stop on the anniversary celebration.

Thanksgiving this year is on Nov. 26th, and the day after Thanksgiving is Nov. 27th. Now businesses have decided to call the day after Thanksgiving: Black Friday. This year, however, we are calling the day after Thanksgiving: Gold Friday. At least it is for my family, because this Nov. 27th, my wife and I are celebrating our Golden Anniversary. And for those who may not know, that means we have been married for 50 wonderful years. Not every year has been kind to us, but everyone has had a rough year or two of different kinds; financial, family members have died, job problems, etc. But we stayed together one step at a time, and one day at time. So as I said, this year it is Gold Friday instead of Black Friday.

When you read this column, we will have celebrated our 10th Veterans Day celebration in the City of Rancho Cordova at Mather’s Veterans Memorial Plaza. Our theme, while we are honoring all veterans as we do every year, will also be honoring the legacy and heritage of Nisei veterans. The stories of the Nisei veterans and what they did in the European Theater during WWII is another example of what American GI’s did to win the war. The speakers at the Veterans Day will have spoken about that chapter of WWII.

A change of direction takes us to the Digital Cities Survey Awards at the Broadway Ballroom in the Omni Hotel in Nashville, Tenn. on Nov. 5th, 2015 at the National League of Cities conference.

“The top-ranked digital city governments in this year’s survey are using cloud services, data analytics, and mobile apps—among other technologies—to help citizens interact with government more easily than ever before,” said Todd Sander, executive director of the Center for Digital Government. “These cities are true innovators and we applaud their efforts to increase transparency and open government, encourage citizen participation, and enhance cybersecurity. Congratulations to the winners!”

This is the third year that Jay Hadley and our IT Department have been recognized nationally. Congratulations!

I hope you will have been able to come to City Hall on Thursday to hear my State of the City speech and presentation. We have been able to accomplish so much in the City of Rancho Cordova over the last year that it is impossible to talk about all of the enormous advances we have made in neighborhoods, roads, building, bringing back a grocery store where needed, and bringing in more businesses with more jobs. The year of 2015 will end showing more progress in almost all aspects of our City, and the people of Rancho Cordova will continue to show more pride in our young, prosperous, and growing city.

From Mayor Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

Invasive Mosquitoes Detected

State Public Health Officer Warns Californians of Two Specific Species

"It is important to know these species of mosquitoes because they are not what we're used to in California, and they can transmit diseases such as dengue fever, chikungunya, and yellow fever," Dr. Karen Smith said.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- California Department of Public Health (CDPH) Director and State Public Health Officer Dr. Karen Smith is warning Californians to protect themselves from two invasive mosquito species recently found in California. Both species can transmit infectious diseases, such as dengue fever, chikungunya, and yellow fever. This warning comes as two more counties are added to the list of counties where Aedes aegypti (the yellow fever mosquito) and Aedes albopictus (the Asian tiger mosquito) have been detected.

"It is important to know these species of mosquitoes because they are not what we're used to in California, and they can transmit diseases such as dengue fever, chikungunya, and yellow fever," Dr. Smith said. "While the risk is still low in California, infected travelers coming back to California can transmit these viruses to mosquitoes that bite them. This can lead to additional people becoming infected if they are then bitten by those mosquitoes."

In September 2015, Aedes aegypti was detected for the first time in San Bernardino and Riverside Counties. Since 2013, when this species was first discovered in Madera, Fresno, and San Mateo counties, it has been found in Tulare, Kern, Los Angeles, San Diego, Imperial, Orange, and Alameda counties. Also in September, Aedes albopictus was detected in Kern and San Diego counties and has expanded in regions of Los Angeles County.

Neither of these mosquitoes is native to California. They are known for their black-and-white stripes, biting people during the middle of the day and readily entering buildings. The more-familiar Culex mosquitoes bite primarily at dusk and dawn.

"There is no vaccine or treatment for chikungunya or dengue fever. To prevent these diseases from becoming established in California, it is important for everyone to take steps to keep these mosquitoes from spreading" Dr. Smith said. "If you notice that you are being bitten by mosquitoes during the day, or notice black-and-white striped mosquitoes, call your local mosquito and vector control agency. Your participation in mosquito surveillance greatly aids in efforts to detect new infestations."

To prevent mosquito-borne illnesses present in California, such as West Nile virus disease, or abroad, such as chikungunya and dengue, Dr. Smith offers the following tips:

- Apply mosquito repellents containing DEET, picaridin, IR3535, and/or oil of lemon eucalyptus to your skin and clothing.

- Wear long sleeve shirts, long pants, socks and shoes when mosquitoes are most active.
- Use air conditioning, and keep mosquitoes from getting into your home by having intact window and door screens.
- Eliminate potential mosquito-breeding sources, such as water-filled containers, from around your home and where you work. Drain water that may have collected under potted plants, in bird baths and discarded tires. Check your rain gutters to make sure they aren't holding water, and clean pet water-dishes weekly.
- Aedes aegypti mosquitoes can lay eggs in containers holding as little as a teaspoon of water, and eggs, which are laid just above the water line, can survive dry conditions for months. This is why it is important to dump, drain, or eliminate unnecessary sources of standing water around your home and scrub containers to dislodge eggs.

If you travel to Mexico or other countries in Latin America, it is especially important to be aware of Aedes mosquitoes and the diseases that they can carry. This year, Mexico has had a dramatic increase in the number of chikungunya cases. So far, about one-third of the 120 chikungunya cases imported into California were contracted in Mexico, with 91 percent of cases coming from Latin America. Sixty-nine imported cases of dengue have been reported in California this year.

More information on Aedes mosquitoes, including prevention tips and a map showing the known detection sites, can be found on CDPH's website: www.cdph.ca.gov.

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG)

- Thousands of residents in Sacramento County are seniors or adults with disabilities who are at risk due to multiple safety and health hazards in their homes. Rebuilding Together's Safe at Home program helps residents age safer at home by installing safety and accessibility features such as grab bars and shower and bath aids. These kinds of simple and often low-cost home safety modifications can reduce falls by 50 percent and also help to increase physical independence. The Safe at Home program is now available for free to qualified low-income households located in most communities in Sacramento County, and is available for a reasonable fee for those above the income guidelines.

Rebuilding Together Sacramento is a nonprofit that preserves and revitalizes homes and communities to ensure that people who are low-income, elderly, disabled, or families with children can live independently in comfort and safety. Call (916) 455-1880 to find out if you or your family member is eligible. You can also join the effort to help create safe and healthy homes by becoming a Rebuilding Together volunteer. Skilled and unskilled volunteers can participate in our Safe at Home programs or other programs.
