Spring Testing Results to Be Released After Labor Day

New Online Resource Helps Explain New Scoring System

This spring, FCUSD students took new computerized assessments aligned with the state's new content standards. The results of the Smarter Balanced tests will be this month.

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In September, families of students grades 3-8 and 11 will receive results from the state's new computerized assessments that Folsom Cordova Unified School District (FCUSD) students took in the spring. The Smarter Balanced tests are aligned with the state's new content standards, which have raised the bar and expectations for students.

These tests represent a new starting point for measuring student achievement: FCUSD has hit the reset button, and teachers now have a better measure of where students are academically and how close they are to developing the skills necessary to succeed in college and the workforce. Students and families may have many questions about how to understand and use these score reports, and FCUSD schools, teachers, and staff look forward to discussing results in the coming weeks.

The state will release aggregate scores for schools, districts, and counties on September 9th. Families will receive individual score reports in the mail with a detailed overview of their student's performance in English/language arts and math.

To prepare, FCUSD strongly encourages families and community members to visit www.fcusd.org/testing. There, the District has posted answers to common questions, a video overview of the new score reports, and members of the public have the ability to submit questions directly to the District for a response. This site will be updated with information, resources, and more over the next several weeks.

Caltrans Behaving Badly

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - California's highways are crumbling. It's a simple fact that we need to send more funding toward fixing our transportation infrastructure.

Sacramento Democrats believe that funding must come from increased taxes on fuel and fees on drivers. But the knee-jerk reaction to go back to the public tax trough is unconscionable when multiple reports continue to show high levels of government waste. Consider the following facts:

- A recent report by the California State Auditor Report found that Caltrans approved the timesheets of an engineer who played golf for 55 workdays from August 2012 to March 2014.

- The Los Angeles Times recently reported that the government email addresses of dozens of California state workers were included in the hacked list of users of Ashley Madison, the online dating site for married people, including employees from Caltrans.

- A report by the nonpartisan and independent Legislative Analyst's Office recommends eliminating 3,500 redundant positions at Caltrans. The report found that this would generate $500 million annually for road repair, without impacting current construction projects.

If we can afford to pay 3,500 redundant employees to do things such as play golf and seek illicit affairs, we can afford to

Volunteers Needed for United Way's Annual Day of Caring

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - A thousand volunteers are needed to spend one day caring for the community on September 11th by signing up for one of 37 volunteer projects happening across the region on United Way's third annual Day of Caring, sponsored by Nationwide. The event, which kicks off the fall fundraising campaign, will start at 8 a.m. with a breakfast and rally at Cal Expo. Volunteer projects will begin at 9:30 a.m. To sign up, please visit <http://www.yourlocalunitedway.org/dayofcaring>.

"This is what United Way does best—bringing together companies, volunteers, nonprofits, and more to make a collective impact in our community," said Stephanie McLemore Bray, United Way president and CEO. "This high-energy day has grown each year because people like having an opportunity to dig their hands in and care for their community."

Last year, 662 volunteers completed 32 volunteer activities across five counties. Many of the participating nonprofits have expressed gratitude for the help volunteers bring on the annual Day of Caring.

"United Way has been a wonderful community partner for us throughout the years," said Suzanne Castaneda, public relations representative for nonprofit Atkinson Family Services. "We have made lasting relationships with the volunteers we get on Day of Caring. Many have continued to help up make a difference in the lives of our foster youth and our community long after Day of Caring is over."

For more than 90 years, United Way California Capital Region has brought people together as first responders on needs in the Sacramento region and changed the lives of hundreds of children, families, and adults. Now United Way is mobilizing nonprofits, companies, schools, government, and individuals across the region, state, and country to make a collective impact in the areas of education, financial stability, and health in Amador, El Dorado, Placer, Sacramento, and Yolo counties. To donate or volunteer, visit www.yourlocalunitedway.org.

Donations to Cordova Food Locker

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Cordova Food Locker was established in 1978 with the idea to hand out food to those in need with a focus on one word: Community. They have given out over 15.5 million meals and cover eight zip codes. Recently, the Cordova Food Locker obtained a freezer free of charge from the Sacramento Food Bank. The freezer will give the Cordova Food Locker access to any frozen products or cold items and increase the capacity to serve Rancho Cordova. They now need around $10,000 in donations to get the freezer to function.

Rancho Cordova Mayor Robert J. McGarvey (on right) presented a $1,000 check to Walt Little (left), executive director of the Cordova Food Locker. The Rancho Cordova Rotary Club Foundation has also given a donation of $4,395 dollars to assist the Cordova Food Locker in the necessary freezer repairs. Donations are still needed to reach the Cordova Food Locker's goal and can be made by calling (916) 364-8973. Photo courtesy of City of Rancho Cordova

Advocates Advise Disabled Veterans

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - A Carmichael program promises straight answers regarding benefits and rights earned by disabled veterans.

Disabled American Veterans (DAV) Chapter # 35 will host a clinic to supply advice to those challenged in health and daunted by bureaucracy. “Veterans of all ages have health problems that relate to their service,” explains Chapter Commander Dennis Modin. “Our event aims to get them started in finding help within the VA system.”

A van sponsored by the DAV’s National Service Office will bring Oakland-based representatives to the September 10th clinic at the Carmichael Veteran’s Memorial Building located at 5750 Grant Avenue. These advocates will supply free advice from 9 a.m. till 3 p.m. Veterans from all local areas are welcome and DAV membership is not required for participation.

Visitors should bring their Social Security number, existing claim documentation (if applicable), and records relevant to military service and health condition.

DAV Chapter #35 hosts regular meetings on the first Thursday of each month. Business Disabled veterans (from left) Dick Brink, Wayne Austin, and Dennis Modin are among volunteers who will assist visiting veteran advisors on September 10th.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Bernie Sanders Walks the Walk

From Tyler Allen:

To the editor,

Senator Sanders, once unknown to most Americans, is now a serious contender for the Democratic Party presidential nomination, most recently drawing 4,500 to a rally in Reno and tens of thousands more to rallies in other cities. I support Sanders for many reasons, but he first grabbed my attention, and continues to hold it, because he steadfastly commits to end the greatest threat to our democracy: the unlimited flow of money into our political system.

Senator Sanders refuses to accept Super Pac donations; instead, his campaign is funded by an average donation of $43. This puts him at a significant disadvantage to his rival candidates, but elevates him as a man of distinct integrity and courageous principle.

In 2010, Citizens United v. FEC made unlimited monetary donations equal to free speech in America. Billionaires and corporations, often working through Super Pacs, may anonymously give as much money as they choose to political candidates. Politicians who disagree with the billionaires are virtually unelectable. Candidates may moan about money in politics, but all hold out their hands. Look up any politician’s contributors; when talking about removing big money from politics, only Sanders walks the walk.

When elected, Senator Sanders vows to overturn Citizens United with a constitutional amendment and, like Theodore Roosevelt, he vows to actually hold accountable the banks and bankers responsible for the 2008 recession, those same who continue to profiteer off the American economy through manipulation and predatory practices.

Bernie Sanders has the courage to run against the moneyed interests that dominate the political, business, and media landscape of this country. He will not play the big money Super Pac game, and he alone is willing to honestly tackle the issue of money in American politics; for this, he is gaining national support. He certainly has mine.

Sincerely,
Tyler Allen of Rancho Cordova ★

Learning What We Can Do

one code or one ordinance that fits all.

The Measure H sales tax (Community Enhancement Fund) that was passed last November is beginning to be used this year as we learn what and how to use it. We will be more tuned in to what we can do or what we cannot do when we hit the second year and third year, etc. Here is one of those success stories in which we learn more of what we can do.

With the help of the Community Enhancement Fund, the Rancho Cordova Police Department has implemented a Crime Suppression Unit (CSU). The CSU Team consists of one Sergeant and four Officers. On their first night, the CSU Team contacted a suspicious vehicle at the Red Roof Inn. A search of the vehicle was conducted pursuant to the probation status of one of the occupants. On the passenger floorboard where he was seated was a meth pipe, a digital scale, and narcotics. The suspect was arrested for several felony charges and transported to the Sacramento County Main Jail. Later in the evening, the CSU Team conducted a vehicle stop and recovered a loaded firearm. That suspect was transported to the Sacramento County Main Jail as well.

On day two, the CSU Team attempted to contact a suspicious person on foot at the Light Rail Station at Zinfandel Drive. The subject fled and a foot pursuit ensued. The suspect was apprehended, and the officers recovered a loaded firearm that the suspect dropped during the foot pursuit.

While the CSU Team is handling many proactive stops and encounters, the above highlights the felonious crimes that they are proactively addressing. In two days, they have taken two guns out of the hands of criminals.

I will be able to show more stories of how we are finding ways to use our new tool (Community Enhancement Fund) in our City. I am sure there will be a stumble or two, but as Pablo Picasso said, “I am always doing that which I cannot do, in order that I may learn how to do it.”

From Mayor Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

No Trophy for You

NFL quarterbacks fear Pittsburgh Steelers linebacker James Harrison. So should participation trophies, the ubiquitous trinkets given to children for merely showing up and rounding out the rosters of local sports leagues.

The other day, Harrison learned that his sons had brought a couple of them home and was none too pleased: “I came home to find out that my boys received two trophies for nothing, participation trophies!”

He swiftly returned the offending tokens and explained himself on Instagram: “These trophies will be given back until they EARN a real trophy. I’m sorry I’m not sorry for believing that everything in life should be earned and I’m not about to raise two boys to be men by making them believe that they are entitled to something just because they tried their best.”

Harrison can be forgiven for having any touchy-feely sentiment wrung out of him by clawing his way to the top of the most punishing meritocracy in all of sports. He was signed by the Steelers as an undrafted rookie, got cut multiple times and considered quitting and becoming a truck driver like his dad, until he finally caught on in the NFL, where they don’t honor you for participating.

Most people are still with Harrison, if a Reason-Rupe poll from last year is to be believed. It found that 57 percent of people think only winning players should get trophies, putting a clear majority on the side of the atavistic impulse to reward only victory.

The trophy has gone from exceptional reward for excellence, to nice gesture, to practically an entitlement. When a cash-strapped Little League in Oklahoma canceled its participation trophies a couple of years ago, one parent complained, “Thanks little league for failing my son and disappointing him as well.”

Writing in The New York Times, author Ashley Merryman cites a Southern California branch of the American Youth Soccer Organization that distributes about 3,500 awards per season, with about a third of players getting two awards each. Local branches of the soccer outfit, according to Merryman, spend as much as 12 percent of their budget on trophies.

The popular i9 youth sports league exemplifies the award-happy times. As a newspaper report explained, “To protect the other children’s self esteem, there are no MVPs. Every player is given a sportsmanship award, a participant award and a celebratory icon in their on-line i9 ‘Trophy Case.’” What, no ESPY Arthur Ashe Courage Awards?

There is such a thing as winning and losing, and excelling and failing. It’s OK for kids to understand that, and in fact, if they don’t, they are going to be shocked by life. There’s no reason to try to hide it under a raft of automatic trophies that will never be as valued as something truly extraordinary or truly earned.

Participation -- and effort -- should be its own reward. No one gave us trophies when my Little League team scuffled to a pathetic losing season on the dusty neighborhood ballfield. We participated, we got humiliated, and we moved on, having indubitably established what James Harrison said of his sons’ un-earned trophies: “Sometimes your best is not enough.”

Overeating Puppy Isn't So Cute

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: I watched a “cute” commercial today where a toddler sneakily pours dog food on the floor for the family puppy to eat. I think it was really irresponsible of the dog food company to show that without noting the risks to dogs that overeat, particularly puppies. Maybe a better commercial would be the mom rushing the dog to the veterinarian to make sure he doesn’t die of bloat. Why would the company present this as cute? -- Shocked in Syracuse, New York

DEAR SHOCKED: You don’t need me to answer why the pet food company presented the commercial in that way. Cute sells, right? Because you’re concerned about the way the situation is presented, with no apparent consequences for the puppy (bloat is a possible risk for dogs that eat a large amount of food in one sitting), you can contact the company either through its website or in writing. Now, what if that situation happened in real life? Your toddler gets into the dog food and sits there happily feeding the family pet, for who knows how long before you discover them. You’ll need to monitor the dog closely. Bloat, known clinically as GDV (gastric dilatation-volvulus), happens when a dog’s stomach enlarges, twists and puts pressure on surrounding organs. It’s a very serious condition that can cause death in just hours. Overeating is one possible cause of bloat. If your dog’s stomach is distended, it tries to belch or vomit without success, it’s weak, panting and salivating, rush it to the vet. If your pet shows no symptoms but you’re concerned, contact the vet for instructions.

Slim Randles' HOME COUNTRY

“Tell That to my Hens”

There are a few universal truths in our lives: the sun comes up in the east, it rains in Ketchikan, and you can tell what the weather's like by eavesdropping on the senior members of the world dilemma think tank ... meeting daily at the Mule Barn coffee shop since God made dirt. “My hens,” said Doc, “were sweating this morning.” “Now Doc,” said Steve, “you know chickens don’t sweat.” “Tell that to my hens,” he said. Dud Campbell looked up. “My shirt blistered yesterday. Couldn’t help it. I should’ve known better’n to buy a flesh-colored shirt.” “Bring it by the office later, Dud, and I’ll put something on it.” “Salve?”

“Yes, we might be able to save it.” Bert hit Doc squarely with a cracker packet. “Reminds me of the summer when it didn’t rain,” Bert said. “We’ve never had a summer when it didn’t rain,” said Doc. “I know. I think this may be the one.” It’s true this has been a hot, dry summer here in Home Country. A few wells have begun to dry up, actually, and the local farmers and ranchers are sweating blood as well as sweat. “We might seed some clouds,” Bert said. Bert inflicts his retirement on his friends by reading up on scientific stuff. “I’ve got the seeds if you’ve got the clouds, Bert.” “You know what I mean. They can fly up in a cloud and put chemicals in them, and cause it to rain.” “You seen any clouds lately?” said Steve, our owlish cowboy. “There is that,” Doc added. And then, before Dud could start telling about the lizards carrying canteens, they all asked Loretta for refills ... on their iced teas. Brought to you by the Home Country podcast at http://www.doublewidenetwork.com/index.php/MusicStarWorldwide/detail/home_country ★

Continued from page 1 pay to fix some potholes! The majority party put crumbling roads in the back seat while they pushed forward with fast-lane new spending programs during this year’s budget planning. Assembly Republicans have offered a nine-point plan to provide $6.6 billion to fix our roads without raising taxes, but

Democrat leadership has stalled on the plan. It’s long past time for the majority party to come to the table to discuss... or maybe they’re just stuck in traffic. For more information, please contact the Assembly Republican Caucus at (916) 319-2012. Source: Assembly Republican Communications ★

Tips for Fishing Heavy Cover

A mistake a lot of fishermen make when flipping and pitching is dropping the bait on the outside edge of the structure or cover, and that spooks any resident bass. Instead, drop it right at the base.

Most fishermen naturally don't want to get hung up, but you have to get over that if you are going to improve your flipping and pitching skills and begin catching bass in heavy cover. Most of the time you will find that the thickest spots are holding the biggest fish, so this is where you should put your first flip or pitch.

Practice flipping and pitching at a target around your house so when you are on the water you have the confidence you need to put your lure where you need to. Then you won't have to worry about getting hung up as much. Besides, you aren't fishing where you can catch big fish if you aren't losing a few lures.

Cordova Boys Soccer Looking to Make Another Run

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Off to a 2-2-1 start, the Cordova High School boys soccer team is looking to have another strong run this season.

Lancer head coach Eric McCahon has a mixture of returning and newcomers on this year's team. Center midfielder Luis Aguilar, a four-year starter who has been an all-Sierra Valley Conference (SVC) first team player the last two seasons, joins Miguel Medina, a three-year starter at forward, and midfielder Alex Casal. They helped last year's team post a 14-6-2 mark and a third place finish in the SVC.

"Their talents of leadership will be huge factors in our success this fall," said McCahon of the trio.

Newcomers are seniors Abraham Gamez and Jose Rodriguez and goalie Kevin Bejines, a sophomore. "All three are talented players who fit right into our system of play," McCahon said.

ball to determine field position. "Luis, Alex, and Miguel have the ability to quickly win balls in the important areas of the field and quickly turn those into attacking opportunities," McCahon said. "All three boys not only have the individual skills but take great pride in making their teammates around them better."

Cordova's non-league schedule is loaded. The Lancers played Antelope on Tuesday, when they lost 2-1. On Thursday, September 3rd, Cordova hosted top-ranked Jesuit, Capital Christian, Chavez of Stockton, and Edison of Stockton. "We have opportunities to be successful as well as opportunities to test ourselves against some of the best programs in the area," McCahon said.

In the SVC, McCahon feels Galt, Liberty Ranch, and Rosemont will be the teams to beat. "I feel strongly if we can stay healthy we will be competing at the top of the SVC," McCahon said. "Our goal is to make back-to-back playoff appearances and be in contention for a possible run at the SVC title."

On Monday, Labor Day, Cordova will play at Capital Christian at 6:30 p.m. Then on Tuesday, September 8th, the Lancers play at Center at 6:45 p.m., followed by another road game at River City of West Sacramento on Thursday, September 10th at 7 p.m.

Cordova's next home game is a non-league contest against Edison on Thursday, September 17th. ★

Lancers Win Season Opener

By Mike Bush

WOODLAND, CA (MPG) - Four touchdowns in the second quarter set the tone for the Cordova High School (CHS) football team, which posted a 48-14 season-opening win over Pioneer that gave new head coach Darren Nill his inaugural head coaching win on August 28th.

Leading 14-0 after the first quarter, the Lancers (1-0) added more points in the second quarter, led by quarterback Unique Perez who completed 13 of 17 passes for 320 yards and five touchdowns in the game. His longest completion was a 60-yard pass. "He was extremely posed," said Nill of Perez. "He made some good throws. The results are what they were."

Cordova wide receiver Devin Baldwin had 174 yards on four receptions and three touchdowns. Additional receivers who were at the end of Perez's touchdown passes were Isaac Black, Nate Williams, and Trevor Chew.

"All of our receivers were able to out speed them," said Nill of the Lancers' receiving against the Patriots' defensive secondary. "When Pioneer had to adjust to stop our receivers, we took what was available."

That was Lancer running back Seth Trujillo, who had 20 carries for 118 yards and a touchdown. Perez was 8-35. For the game, Cordova had a combined 502 offensive yards.

"I think we had an extremely good game plan against them," said Nill on the Lancers' offense against the Patriots' defense. "They played a defense that we were able to exploit. We studied it. The coaches put their heads together and came up with a great game plan."

Cordova's final touchdown came in the third quarter. Pioneer scored its touchdowns in the second and third quarters.

On defense, the Lancers were led by defensive backs Aaron Giles and Terrill Johnson, who had nine tackles each. Linebacker Michael Gonzalez followed with eight tackles. Black joined defensive lineman Joseph Salcedo with five tackles each in the game.

Cordova's defense held Pioneer to a combined 295 yards. "We matched up on what they were trying to do [on offense]," Nill said.

Winning his first game as a head coach was also very rewarding for Nill. "I had 30, 40 text [messages] the next day," Nill said, "from administration, coaches who have coached there [CHS] before, teachers, administrators. It's a great feeling."

On Friday, September 4th at 7:15 p.m., Cordova will play its first home game of the season at Lancer Stadium when Bella Vista of Fair Oaks comes in for a non-league game.

"Bella Vista is a much improved team over last year," said Nill of the Lancers' long-time rival Broncos. "I'm expecting a very close game." ★

END OF THE BENCH BY GERRY SCHOU The Ones Flying Over the Cuckoo Nest

When Forty Niners head coach Jim Tomsula retreats to his office and plops down into his chair and exhales that long, deep sigh of exasperation that has been building up for months, the words of Randle McMurphy might spew forth. "I must be crazy to be in a loony bin like this."

Tomsula has only himself to blame. Having accepted the role of leader of the 49ers' version of a psych ward back in January, Tomsula should've known what he was getting himself into, having been around for eight seasons as the team's defensive line coach. He has witnessed first-hand most of the nonsense that has been going on around 49ers quarters. It has been well-documented. It has been a lot. It has been nuts.

With successful, but self-combustible, former coach Jim Harbaugh having flown the coop to roost at his alma mater, University of Michigan, it is up to Tomsula to douse the flames of the burning pile that was left behind.

It did not begin well for the 47-year-old, first-time (in the NFL) head coach, starting with that forgettable, uncomfortable, unimpressive, initial news conference. Maybe he decided it would be a good idea to "take a look at the film," as they like to say, of that regrettable opener and work on his game. Since then, he has "overcome adversity," as they also like to say, and has performed admirably in his media appearances, all the while dealing with continuing weird issues with player personnel, and trying to stabilize the dysfunctional nature of the 49ers' roster and on-field results.

Maybe this is the right guy to restore some order and normalcy to the operation. They say the players really like him, at least by comparison to the sometimes seemingly maniacal Harbaugh, who had a reputation for rubbing people the wrong way and wearing out his welcome, despite his great winning percentage.

At least Tomsula has his defensive experience to fall back on...since he joined the staff in 2007 the 49ers have ranked in the top four in the league in fewest total rushing yards and lowest average per carry allowed, and fewest points and yards allowed per game. The return of arguably their best player in linebacker NaVorro Bowman will bolster the defense that has lost key players in Justin Smith, Aldon Smith and Patrick Willis Tomsula rose through the ranks in modest fashion, compared to most of the top coaches. He played and later was an assistant coach at little Division II Catawba College in North Carolina, spending time away from his family and living out of his car for a while to get his feet wet teaching the game. He coached several years in NFL Europa, including 2006 as head coach of the Rhein Fire. But, perhaps, a guy who chose to tag his son (James) with the middle name "Bear" might have the right mindset for this job.

An impressive coaching team has been assembled to surround Tomsula. Four members of the staff have been defensive coordinators in the NFL. Three have been offensive coordinators. Two have been head coaches, Eric Mangini (def. coordinator) and Tony Sparano (tight ends; hello, Vernon Davis?). And, there is no more "Fear of Harbaugh" in the building.

Quarterbacks coach Geep Chryst was promoted to offensive coordinator, a move reportedly (CSN Bay Area) endorsed by QB Colin Kaepernick. "...He's very open to what the players' input is during the game, during the week...open to taking shots down the field and opening up the playbook." Sounds like the all-controlling Harbaugh kept things under his thumb last year, when the offense sputtered with frustrating clock-management and red-zone efficiency problems.

The 49ers finished 8-8 and out of the playoffs last season, Kaepernick seemed to regress as the leader of the offense, and the production on that side of the ball was well below typical 49ers standards. The team ranked 25th in total points, 20th in total yards and had the third fewest passing yards. The hope is that Kaepernick's off-season workouts with former MVP QB Kurt Warner and the addition of deep threat Torrey Smith will help in those regards.

The defense appears to be coming around, but the offense has been uninspiring through three preseason games and is unlikely to be divulging any precious secrets in the final one at home against the San Diego Chargers. It's a wait-and-see situation.

We will all find out in due time if the rebuilding, regrouping and establishing a new comfort-zone with the new staff will translate to more victories on the field, and reestablish San Francisco's status as an upper-echelon organization in the league.

The 49ers, just 4-4 at home last year, host Minnesota (7-9, 2-6 on the road) in the opener, a Monday night special, Sept. 14.

You've got to be crazy to play football at the NFL level, as young, retired former 49er Chris Borland would tell you. And when Tomsula prepares to send his band full of lunatics out there to bash against the Vikings, we recommend he finishes off his pregame pep talk in McMurphy style... "Which one of you nuts has got any guts?!!!" ★

Josh Donaldson, acquired from the A's in an offseason trade, is enjoying a big season with Toronto. The third baseman is a strong AL MVP candidate.

Offseason deals: A look back

Donaldson starring in Toronto; Ramirez, Sandoval struggling in Boston

There's always a frenzy about the trade deadline, and this year's deadline was no different — arguably the wildest one in years. But the moves made by MLB teams in the offseason have a much greater impact on all 30 teams.

This past winter, teams spent over $1.7 billion on free agents, not to mention various extensions given to players already under contract. Some have gone well, but many (see: every Red Sox move) have not gone so well. Here's a breakdown of the five best and five worst signings and/or trades of the 2014-15 offseason:

FIVE BEST MOVES

Josh Donaldson, Blue Jays

Donaldson has been playing at a high level for three years now, but he's truly blossomed into a bona fide star and MVP candidate this season for Toronto. Giving up Brett Lawrie, top prospect Franklin Barreto, and two young pitchers is no small fee, but Donaldson is lighting baseball on fire, hitting .301/.369/.584 with 36 home runs and an AL-best 7.4 WAR.

Max Scherzer, Nationals

Scherzer signed the second-largest contract ever for a pitcher this winter with the Nationals and has fully lived up to the $210 million price tag. He's currently sporting a career-best 2.88 ERA and 0.98 WHIP to go with an excellent 209 strikeouts over 178 innings. Scherzer threw a no-hitter in June — which was a perfect game until the 27th batter, Jose Tabata, was hit by a pitch that he leaned into.

Yoenis Cespedes, Tigers (then traded to Mets)

Cespedes has already tied a career high in home runs and has a decent shot to set career highs in batting average and slugging percentage as well. He was acquired from the Red Sox for Rick Porcello, who turned out to be one of the worst acquisitions of the offseason, posting a 5.47 ERA after getting an $82.5 million extension. As a comparison, Cespedes is currently sixth among hitters with 5.7 WAR.

Nelson Cruz, Mariners

Cruz was one of the best values of the offseason two winters ago when he produced 3.7 WAR on a one-year, $8 million deal with the Orioles, but he's been even better this season after getting $58 million over four years from the Mariners. The All-Star is on pace to set career highs in home runs, on-base percentage, slugging percentage, WAR and walks, even while playing in the pitcher-friendly confines of Safeco Field.

Jason Heyward, Cardinals

Heyward came at a high price — All-Star pitcher Shelby Miller and prospect Tyrell Jenkins — but he's been as strong as ever in his last season before free agency. With excellent defense as always, he's hitting a career-best .291 and is on pace to set a career high in stolen bases. He's currently 22nd among hitters with 4.0 WAR.

FIVE WORST MOVES

Hanley Ramirez, Red Sox

Ramirez has consistently hit well throughout his career whether he's been playing shortstop or third base, so the Red Sox wanted to get his bat in the lineup — even if it meant putting him at a position he hadn't played before, left field. Not only did his bat completely sour (.249/.291/.426), Ramirez has been rated as the worst defensive player in baseball according to UZR and DRS and worst overall player according to WAR — all for a gaudy $88 million price tag.

Victor Martinez, Tigers

After averaging 3.1 WAR over the first 10 full seasons of his career, Martinez was rewarded with a new four-year, $68 million deal from the Tigers that has been a spectacular failure. He has career lows in batting average (.239), on-base percentage (.295) and slugging percentage (.361) — all by fairly wide margins — and he missed a month with inflammation in his left knee. His negative-1.5 WAR is topped only by Hanley Ramirez

Pablo Sandoval, Red Sox

Sandoval turned down larger offers from several teams to come to Boston for $95 million over five years, and he's gotten off to an inauspicious start. He has career lows in batting average (.251), on-base percentage (.300) and slugging percentage (.384) while looking far worse defensively than he has in the past. His negative-1.4 WAR is the third-lowest mark in baseball.

Ervin Santana, Twins

After pitching consecutive seasons with a sub-4.00 ERA, Santana was rewarded with a four-year, $55 million deal from the Twins. But three days before Minnesota's first game, he was slapped with an 80-game suspension after testing positive for stanozolol, a performance-enhancing drug. Even when he has pitched, Santana has a 5.40 ERA with a career low 6.23 K/9 and more walks and home runs allowed than he has averaged for his career.

Billy Butler, A's

Butler was one of the first players to sign a major league deal over the offseason, a three-year, $30 million contract with the Athletics that was surprisingly large considering he produced negative-0.5 WAR in 2014. He's following that up with career lows in batting average (.238), on-base percentage (.311) and slugging percentage (.358) with a negative-1.2 WAR that is sixth-worst in the league.

AROUND THE HORN

The Seattle Mariners fired GM Jack Zduriencik, who joined the organization in October 2008. The Mariners went 505–595 overall during his tenure and failed to make the postseason. Zduriencik had three top-three picks in the draft, and none turned out well for the franchise. Dustin Ackley (No. 2, 2009), Danny Hultzen (No. 2, 2011) and Mike Zunino (No. 3, 2013) have produced 8.0 total WAR over eight seasons. ...

Jake Arrieta threw a no-hitter Sunday night, the first for the Cubs since 2008. He struck out 12 batters and allowed only two baserunners — Enrique Hernandez on a walk in the third inning and Jimmy Rollins on a walk in the sixth inning — to earn his league-leading 17th win of the season. ...

The Toronto Blue Jays will name former Cleveland Indians president Mark Shapiro to the same position. Shapiro was the Indians' GM from 2001-10, when he was promoted to team president. Shapiro, 48, was named Executive of the Year twice. His teams made the postseason only three times, but the Indians never did finish last in the division during his tenure. ...

Marlins outfielder Giancarlo Stanton was on track to begin his first rehab start Tuesday after he broke the hamate bone in his left hand June 26. He is expected to join the High-A Jupiter Hammerheads. ...

Red Sox DH David Ortiz hit his 494th career home run, passing Lou Gehrig and Fred McGriff for 27th on the all-time list. He's on pace to hit his 500th career home run before the season ends. ...

Boston's Hanley Ramirez will make the transition to first base after making the transition to left field from shortstop this season. He has struggled defensively, earning the league's lowest Ultimate Zone Rating score (minus-16.7) and Defensive Runs Saved score (minus-19). ...

MLB won its case against Barry Bonds when arbiter Frederic Horowitz ruled that teams did not collude against the former Giants slugger by not signing him. In 2007 — at the age of 42 — Bonds led the league with a .480 on-base percentage with 28 home runs but did not receive a single contract offer, even after publicly saying that he would play for the league minimum.

NUMBERS GAME

Entering Tuesday's start, Atlanta pitcher Shelby Miller is 0-10 over his last 18 starts despite an ERA of 3.24 over that span.

TURN BACK THE CLOCK

Sept. 4, 2003

Mike Maroth, a lefthander with the Tigers, became the first pitcher to lose 20 games in a season since Brian Kingman lost 23 games with the A's in 1980. Kingman was actually in attendance for the game with a voodoo doll — he wanted to remain the game's most recent 20-game loser — to watch the Tigers blow a 5–2 lead that ended in an 8–6 Blue Jays win.

TRIVIA CORNER

Joe Kelly won six games for the Red Sox during the month of August after being added back to the major league rotation in late July. Who was the last Red Sox pitcher to win six games in a calendar month?
