The Cripple Creek Band Brings Country Rock to Village Green

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - It's a little bit Rancho Cordova Friday Night Concerts rev up for another music-filled evening featuring The Cripple Creek Band.

With its origins in country music, this popular music style was formed by a wave of rock musicians who began to record albums with a country flavor in the late 1960s and early 1970s. As a musical phenomenon, country rock's commercial success hit a peak in the 1970s with hits by the Doobie Brothers, Emmylou Harris and Linda Ronstadt that all had a country flair. Hits like the Eagles' "Desperado" and "Hotel California" made country rock a crossover chart-topper.

Rancho Cordova concertgoers can get their country and a little bit rock 'n' roll when the fill of this unique blend of country music and southern rock at the Cordova Community Council's Friday Night Concert on August 28th as Cripple Creek takes over the Amphitheater Stage at Village Green Park, 3141 Bridgeway

> The Cripple Creek Band plays great music appealing to all and are influenced by artists including Lynyrd Skynyrd, Waylon Jennings, Alabama, Luke Bryan, Jason Aldean, Blackberry Smoke, Travis Tritt, Eric Church, Merle Haggard, and The Band.

Admission is free of charge and music starts at 7 p.m. Visit www.cordovacouncil.org and follow the links to hear a sampling of The Cripple Creek Band.

The Friday Night Concerts series wraps up on September 4th with a snow by Rancho Cordova's favorite party band, Superlicious.

Rancho Cordova Library to Hold Ice Cream Social

Story by Margaret Snider

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) -The Rancho Cordova branch of the Sacramento Public Library will celebrate the end of their Summer Reading Program on Saturday, August 29th from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the library located at 9845 Folsom

Boulevard. The celebration will open with juggling, magic, and "goofy stuff" by Owen Baker-Flynn. The ice cream social will begin at noon, with free ice cream and toppings for everyone, all sponsored by the Friends of the Rancho Cordova Library, said Carolyn Tucey, Youth Services Librarian at the branch. Adults and children are all invited to attend. The Summer Reading Program is held annually, and although the statistics have not been fully completed and compiled, Tucey said that more books have been read this year than last. As of August 21st, Tucey said, "Over 2,000 people have participated. As of last Saturday [August 15th], we had over 16,600 books read this summer."

Children get excited about the program for more reasons than the fun of reading. "Kids get a free book after reading five, and adults get a free tote bag after reading five books," Tucey said. "If the kids read over 25 books, they get this great sign that says 'I'm a library rock star.'"

Fall youth programming at the library will include an animal show, magic shows, and craft shows. More information about upcoming events can be found at www.saclibrary.org.

Congressman Ami Bera Presents Proclamation of Appreciation to Reed Flory

Story by Margaret Snider

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) Ami Bera, Representative for California's 7th District

in the United States House of Representatives, was the guest speaker at the Rancho Cordova Luncheon on August 21st.

"I'm going to start at the local level and try to honor a local hero who really has been doing quite a bit," Bera said. Bera presented a Proclamation of Appreciation from the House of Representatives to Reed Flory, reinvestment and housing opportunities manager with the City of Rancho Cordova. Flory for years has been diligently championing the Mather Veterans Village project and moving it forward.

'Mather Veterans Village was one of those unique opportunities that if you had a modicum of knowledge and could recognize opportunities, it was absolutely a no-lose situation," Flory said. "It did take us considerably longer than we'd hoped, but we're going to end up with 160 beds and units for disabled, homeless veterans."

Mather Veterans Village was one of those unique opportunities that was...a no-lose situation."

- REED FLORY REINVESTMENT AND HOUSING OPPORTUNITIES MGR.

Bera went on to address a number of topics at the luncheon, saying that the district he represents is one of the most evenly split in the country. Having a mixed district, he said, requires not only talking to one another, but more important, listening to one another.

"At the end of the day, we come together as Americans and we make a decision and we move forward," Bera said. "I'm not going to lie to you, that isn't the Congress that I'm in right now, because it does seem to be politics nonstop, 24/7, as opposed to saying, 'Let's put the people first, let's do our job." To that end, in his first term as a new congressman, Bera helped form Problem Solvers, an official caucus started with 23 Democrats and 17 Republicans for the purpose of working together to make something different happen in Washington. Over the first term, the membership grew to 100, including eight senators. "Yes, members from the opposite side of the aisle can actually become friends and get to know one another," Bera said. One bill that resulted largely from this caucus resulted in the merging of medical records between the Department of Defense and Veterans Administration systems. The consolidation facilitates the more timely provision of necessary medical services to veterans.

Robert Rogel, a Cordova High School graduate and senior sales associate with Sun Valley Rice, attended the luncheon specifically to hear Bera speak. "I think there are many people in the Rancho Cordova area who are very happy with what he's done as far as the Veterans' issues," Rogel said.

In response to Bera's op-ed piece published recently in the daily metro newspaper in support

Breathe Fresh in Rancho Cordova

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) -

The City of Rancho Cordova is proud that nearly all areas accessible to the public are now 100% smoke and tobacco free.

The Rancho Cordova City Council passed an ordinance that prohibits smoking in many public areas, including outdoor dining areas and at public events. Here are the new regulations:

- No smoking in areas accessible to the public including outdoor dining areas and public events in Rancho Cordova.
- No smoking in any public parks, schools, and on any federal government properties.

 Smoking prohibition includes traditional cigarettes; electronic cigarettes; and pipes and hookahs containing tobacco, marijuana, or a liquid cartridge.

"It's a priority of the City Council to protect public health by striking a balance between the desires of persons who smoke and the need of nonsmokers to breathe smoke-free air," said Mayor Robert J. McGarvey. "Rancho Cordova is the first City in Sacramento County and one of 73 cities in California to prohibit smoking in outdoor dining areas."

The City is looking to partner with local businesses to join the Breathe Fresh campaign. Free decals and information cards are available for dining establishments. To get involved, contact Communications Specialist Ashley Downton at adownton@cityofranchocordova.org or (916) 851-8723.

Oh Deer, It's Hot Out There

American River Parkway Sizzles in Heatwave

Story and photos by Susan Maxwell Skinner

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Recent triple-digit days challenged species that endure without air-conditioning or on-tap water. Already taxed by drought, American River Parkway animals slunk into the shade and waited for cooling nights.

River rafters observed deer swimming near Ancil Hoffman Park; fawns and wild turkey waded in ponds. Squirrels flattened bellies on parched earth. Newly fledged birds panted in parkway trees. Near Jacob Lane, this observer watched an exhausted coyote slink over searing macadam to collapse in levy shadows.

Though parkway inhabitants have endured drought and heatwaves over millennia, they still suffer dehydration. The worst heat often occurs when their babies are at their most vulnerable and when creeks and vital food supplies have dried up.

But wild animals have instinctive behaviors for survival. "We often find deer and turkey cooling their heels in our pond,"

An animal that appears heatstressed is best left alone. "Wild animals are pretty good at finding a drink," Cooper advises. "If they're heading towards water, stay out of their way. Raptors and reptiles usually absorb enough moisture from what they

"Nature has ways to sort out the strongest animals to survive," she cautions. "Some will die from the drought. That's part of nature, too."

Some of the trees in Rancho are changing color already, even though it is still summer and it is August and it is not fall yet and... Oh well. The drought is affecting the trees too. The Sacramento Tree Foundation said trees drop leaves early sometimes to save themselves from the drought. I used a dead tree in the past, which is located in the front yard of a home in my neighborhood, as an example of what is happening to some trees. The tree is so dead that even the mistletoe on it is dead. I had a meeting with SMUD on Monday, and they are also watching trees through their whole area because of the danger those trees may cause when the rain and the wind start blowing them down. They are also depending on their customers to be their eyes too because we will probably see the trees next to our house before they do. If you see a dangerous situation developing when a stressed tree is close to power lines, call SMUD at (916) 732-5854. They will prune the tree or, if needed, have it removed. I know the cost of removing trees yourself is financially impossible for some residents, so call SMUD.

From the Mayor's Corner

Change Will Continue to Defy All Odds

Back to School Night has come and gone for some, and there may be a few schools that are still welcoming parents, grandparents, and children as the new school year begins to get into full swing. We went with two of our grandsons the other night to their Back to School Night and met their teachers. We got the rules and regulations that everyone is supposed to abide by, and most people do. But there are always a few who don't think they apply to them. Dropping your children off in the morning is a very busy time in front of the school, and when two or three cars are parked and locked in the driveway where they are not supposed to be, it really jams up traffic. It makes me think about the people on the freeway who have to slow down and see what is happening at an accident. The traffic behind them starts backing up immediately and more accidents can happen. The same thing applies in front of school when a car is parked and the flow through traffic doesn't!

Remember when your parents took you to school, and they said, "What is being taught in school today sure isn't what they taught when I was going to school"? Well that hasn't changed. The tools the teacher uses aren't the same, and their speed is faster than before; what is being taught isn't the same. Some of the countries we had to locate on the world globe for example are no longer there. And the ones that still exist are now bigger or smaller, and they may have a different name. Does that sound familiar?

It is a shame that people like Hitler or barbarians like ISIS continue to appear somewhere in the world throughout history. They seem to be able to take over people's minds and then lead their followers to kill and slaughter others. What a waste.

Change will continue to defy all odds. Whether it is trees, or what is taught at school, or who the next "Hitler" may be, as President Kennedy said, "The one unchangeable certainty is that nothing is unchangeable or certain."

ying about one year ago today." From Mayor Bob Mcgarvey, God bless, and see you next of Planned Parenthood, Rogel asked for Bera's thoughts on the sale of fetal body parts by the organization. Bera said he would not want to defund Planned Parenthood. "If they were to ask me," Bera said, "I would tell them to focus on their core business, which is providing preventive health services and reproductive health services, and step out of that line of business." Bera is on the foreign affairs committee and has not yet taken a stand on the negotiations with Iran. "Most experts do think... that the deal as it stands, in the next 15 years will deter Iran's ability to obtain a nuclear weapon." However, he is concerned that after the 15 years is up Iran may, as a result of the agreement, be in a better position at that time to obtain nuclear weapons. "We go into this fully expecting that they likely will cheat," Bera said. Another concern is the number of terrorist groups that are funded and supported by Iran, and the possibility of Iran providing them with nuclear weapons.

Bera, son of East Indian immigrants who came to the United States in the 1950s, was born and raised in California and attended public schools "from kindergarten through medical school." Following a successful medical career first as an internal medicine practitioner and later as medical director of care management for Mercy Healthcare, he entered politics, he said, because he doesn't want "the legacy of my generation to be the first one that left our kids worse off."

olden Pond offers Independent and Assisted Living for seniors in studio, one, or two-bedroom apartments. Nestled in the quiet residential neighborhood of Rosemont, we provide meals, transportation and many other available services to make life easier for seniors.

Instead of being stuck inside, with limited exercise and stimulating company, why not choose a more active, social environment?

At Golden Pond we offer daily activities and attentive staff - to take the chill off those dark, winter days.

Call to schedule your personal visit today... we can't wait to show you around!

Donald the Whiner

Donald Trump is given to superlatives, so let's do him the honor of pronouncing him the most fabulous whiner in all of American politics.

By Trump's own account, he's the baddest, smartest thing going, except if you ask him a challenging question, in which case he kicks and screams and demands to know how anyone could treat him so unfairly.

Trump followed up his shaky-at-best performance at the first Republican candidate debate, hosted by Fox News, with days complaining that he hadn't been afforded the respect he deserves.

According to Trump, he'll bring Vladimir Putin to heel. He'll make Mexico pay for a border fence. He'll take the Middle East's oil. Assuming, that is, no one says a discouraging word to him. Then he'll lose it. The mogul did indeed get a series of tough questions from the Fox debate moderators (disclosure: I'm a Fox News contributor). But Trump, as Trump always reminds us, is leading in all the polls. It is not unusual -- indeed, it is to be expected -- that a front-runner gets more scrutiny than the also-rans.

Fox anchor Megyn Kelly asked him about how he would respond to inevitable attacks from Hillary Clinton in a general election over his crass insults of women through the years. This set Trump off, but does anyone think if, say, Jeb Bush had ever called woman a pig or a dog, he wouldn't get asked about it, too?

Trump handled the ensuing flap with his typical aplomb and class, which is to say he flailed about wildly and hurled witless insults. He denied that he said the things Kelly alleged he had, even though he did. He called Kelly an overrated lightweight. Finally, he bizarrely said that "there was blood coming out of her eyes, blood coming out of her wherever."

When this was interpreted as a reference to her menstrual cycle, Trump objected that there was no way he possibly could say something so crude -- all evidence to the contrary notwithstanding. He also insisted that when he said "wherever," he had been about to say Kelly's nose or ears, but stopped himself to get on with more important points -- which happened to be more insults of Kelly.

For someone who prides himself on being the bold truth-teller, Trump has a penchant for trying to litigate his way out of his controversial statements. When he said a few weeks ago that John McCain wasn't a war hero, he backtracked and tried to prove that he hadn't said what he obviously had.

If "never complain, never explain" is a good rule of life, Trump is 0 for 2.

If he didn't want to be wrong-footed on the biggest stage of the campaign so far, he could have thought about what questions he might have been asked and about possible answers. This is what candidates have done before debates since time immemorial. Trump was satisfied with Plan B: to wing it and, when it didn't go to his liking, whine like a spoiled child who didn't get a pony for his birthday.

DEAR PAW'S CORNER: Last year, our beloved Sheltie "Charlene" disappeared. We'll never know if she ran off, got lost in the woods and injured, or if someone took her. I let her out in the backyard and that was the last we saw of her. Charlene had a microchip installed by her veterinarian, but we had never followed up with registering the chip. So we'll never know if she was found and her chip scanned. Please let your readers know that they need to register their pet's microchip with the manufacturer, and provide a copy of the registration to their vet. And they need to update the information each year or if they move to a new address. Otherwise they lose a vital tool in locating a lost pet. - Carol in Wisconsin

DEAR CAROL: You told them, and I hope they'll heed your advice!

Despite Microchip, Dog Never Found

If you know your pet is chipped but have lost the information, you can still check to see if the chip is registered. The American Animal Hospital Association maintains a database online at www.petmicrochiplookup. org with registrations for most, but not all, microchip manufacturers listed. If you haven't yet registered your pet's microchips, now is a great time to do so. Find the microchip registration information that was provided to you by the vet at the time your dog or cat received its chip. If you lost it, contact the vet's office to see if they have the manufacturer and date of chipping on file, as well as the microchip number.

PICKS OF THE WEEK

Blythe Danner in "I'll See You in My Dreams"

"I'll See You in My Dreams" (PG-13) - Carol (Blythe Danner, making an excellent turn as the lead of a film) is a retired teacher and vocalist, whose been living alone since her husband passed 20 years ago. She's trying to find her way without moving into the retirement community with her gal pals. She learns how to enjoy this new phase in her life through an unlikely friendship with her pool cleaner, Lloyd (Martin Starr). While that friendship helps her connect with a lost part of herself, Carol also is drawn into a romance with the handsome and age-appropriate Bill (Sam Elliot. whom you may recognize as the stoic cowboy from every movie ever).

The script cleverly dodges cliches endemic to retirement-age dramas and lets Danner explore every part of her character. The movie as a whole has a great sense of pacing and balance between heavy and light moments, making it a strong film that's easy to watch.

"Mad Max: Fury Road" (R) -The Road Warrior rides again in this glorious spectacle of roaring machines and suicidal stunts. Tom Hardy stars as the titular lunatic hero, who starts the film caught in a white-knuckle chase with an army of crazed marauders hot on his dust-trail. Max's life is in the makeshift mechanical hand of the movie's real hero, Imperator Furiosa (an almost unrecognizable Charlize Theron, ruling the screen with a steel grip). Instead of going the usual rebootroute of giving us another origin story for an already-loved protagonist, this movie has the respect to start us off in the thick of the action and let the pieces of the story jostle into place along the ride -- and it works. If we're going to get a glut of franchise films every year, may there be more like this one: True to what was great about the original, and more than able to rock in their own right.

"Boulevard" (R) - Nolan (Robin Williams) is a quiet man dealing with the passing of his parents and a gap between him and his wife (Kathy Baker). On latenight drives from the nursing home, Nolan is drawn to a young male prostitute. Williams gives a nuanced and restrained performance in this dower drama that's unfortunately weighed down with some cheesy dialog. While this is his last dramatic feature, Williams' final appearance is set to release in a sci-fi comedy with an ensemble of British comedians who can operate at his comic

"Good Kill" (R) - Thomas Egan (Ethan Hawke) is a veteran Air Force pilot, whose latest mission has him blowing up Taliban from an air-conditioned drone-control base in Las Vegas. As his targets erupt on video monitors, the seasoned soldier struggles to make sense of his role in this new kind of war. This struggle pushes him ever further from his vexed wife, Molly (January Jones of TV's "Mad Men"), and forces him to question his core beliefs about war.

LEO (July 23 to August 22) Learning how to live with a decision is a challenge, but one you Leos and Leonas could really enjoy. You'll also be pleased to see your social life take that upsurge you've been hoping for.

VIRGO (August 23 to September 22) Use your perceptive Virgo instinct to help you see the positive aspects of what, at first, appears to be a disappointment. You could find that it proves to be quite the contrary.

LIBRA (September 23 to October 22) Your ability to maintain a balance between sense and sentiment once again helps you sort through apparently conflicting choices and ultimately arrive at the right decision.

SCORPIO (October 23 to November 21) Before you seek the advice of colleagues about a potential career move, you might be better off getting counsel from someone who won't be affected by the choices you make.

SAGITTARIUS (November 22 to December 21) It can be a challenging week for some relationships if the normal give-and-take flow changes with one side doing most of the giving and the other the taking.

CAPRICORN (December 22 to January 19) A new opportunity could bring with it much anticipation along with some anxiety. Take time to sort out your options as well as your emotional considerations.

AQUARIUS (January 20 to February 18) Are you sure you have all the facts you need to let that matter move to another level? Don't be rushed into a decision unless and until you feel it's the right thing to do.

PISCES (February 19 to March 20) Pace yourself as you prepare to take on that more demanding project. Be careful not to let your energy reserves drain away. Take time to relax with people close to you.

BORN THIS WEEK: You have the ability to see both sides of a situation. You would do well as a counselor or a judge.

- Many people know American counterculture figure Ken Kesey as the author of the 1962 novel "One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest," which presents a disturbing portrait of life in a mental institution. It's less well known, though, that Kesey got an inside view of the system when he worked as a janitor in a mental hospital before he became famous

Lancer Football Prepares for Opener

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In its scrimmage at Lancer Stadium last Saturday, August 22nd, the Cordova High School football team showed forward progress on both sides of the ball against Capital Christian High squad.

On offense, the Lancers' first string offense moved the ball effectively on the ground against the Cougars' defense on Cordova's first series. Afterwards, Cordova made strides on its next possessions.

"Our offensive line was getting out played by CC in the first series as our younger guys adjusted to the power, strength, and speed of varsity football," said Cordova head coach Darren Nill. "We were still gaining chunks of yards running the zone

Lancer quarterback Unique Perez did an excellent job deciphering his reads and executed very well, according to Nill. Running backs Seth Trujillo and Kenny Haney hit holes extremely hard when Cordova went to moving the ball on the ground.

"When we were in a two-back set, Clifford Bright was outstanding as a lead blocker," Nill said.

Lancer wide receiver Isaac Black has emerged as a powerhouse receiver to compliment Devin Baldwin, noted Nill. "Both had excellent outings," Nill said. "Maybe it was all of

Cordova linemen who helped the offense as the scrimmage progressed were Albert Garcia, Damian Jackson, Maxx Mudrow, Joseph Salcedo, and Michael

"The offensive line found its groove and began to execute on their second drive on all those blocks they were missing on the first series," Nill said. "Very proud of the way they battled back to establish dominance."

On defense, the Lancers had limited success in slowing down the Cougars' offense on the ground and air. "We faltered in our deep coverage several times," Nill said. "We were try ing some new things and it did not quite work out. I think we'll be OK going into our first game."

At defensive tackle, Joseph Salcedo played well, as he placed as a starter right at the start of the scrimmage. Garcia also sparkled on the defensive line for the Lancers. "This defense is going to be successful when all 11 swarm to the ball," said Nill. "Our young guys are still figuring it out a bit."

On Friday, August 28th, Cordova will open its season at Pioneer of Woodland in a nonleague game. Game time is 7 p.m.

Pena Ready for New Duties at CHS

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) -Throughout this month, Tom Pena has been kept very busy. Pena was busy preparing for his classes at Cordova High School (CHS), where he's an instructor and department leader of the special education department. Teaching at CHS for the last 17 years, Pena now has a new task as the new CHS athletic director. He replaces Shane Jackson, who resigned over the summer. sports fan for the above category.

But doing so a little while back, something happened that happens all the time, but this time it jumped out. Houston Texans kick-returner Chandler Worthy made a nice runback and as he went to the sidelines teammates and coaches were swatting him on the helmet in recognition of his great effort.

Wait a minute! Play that back... Nine times within a few seconds Worthy took a blow to the head. His head took a jolt each time. They were not little love taps, but hits with some force of rushing adrenaline behind them in the excitement of the moment.

Guvs, you get hit in the head enough during practice and games. In this concussion-conscious era can you stop being so foolish. How about a smack on the shoulder pads, a pat on the back, or a tap on the buttocks, if that's your preference.

Cris Carter, the Hall of Fame receiver, has been voicing his thoughts as an ESPN analyst for some time. Of course he knows his football, but one opinion has considered him a fool in some respects and he has made a strong case for removing all doubt. It recently came to light and has gone viral that at the 2014 NFL Rookie Symposium Carter made what the NFL now has termed "unfortunate and inappropriate" (in layman's lingo --- "stupid") remarks when speaking to help enlighten the newcomers to the ways of the world in pro football.

He advised, "In case y'all not going to decide to do the right thing, if y'all got a crew, you got to have a fall guy in the crew." That was noteworthy among his several regrettable comments.

Let that be a lesson to you young football players out there. If you just can't help yourself but to commit a crime or two, be sure you have a patsy tagging along game would definitely qualify this the time. Designated-divers and the playing field and the stands. designated-drivers should be prerequisites to playing in the NFL.

> Speaking of old fools apparently incapable of changing their ways, take owner Daniel Snyder and team president Bruce Allen of the Washington Redskins (that looks awful in print). That pair still chooses to speak out and insist they will never change their team's (offensive to many) nickname even if it becomes an obstruction to getting a new stadium built. C'mon boys, evolve with the times.

And, hey, NFL, those joint practices being held during preseason workouts that keep turning into brawls --- you might consider cutting those out of the program.

USC head football coach Steve Sarkisian joined the club. Note to Steve: If you are going to give an inspirational speech at the preseason family banquet, the Salute to Troy, make it a sober one just to score some style points and keep your job.

We've all become appalled but somewhat accustomed to a certain amount of foolery --- not by the kids, but by the older folks involved --- surrounding the Little League World Series, as in the Chicago Jackie Robinson West team being stripped of its U.S. championship for using ineligible players. The nonsense has spread to the Little League Softball World Series. A team from South Snohomish, Wash., was accused of deliberately trying to lose a game in order to avoid an undesirable matchup against Central Iowa if it had won. A protest was upheld and the two teams were forced to play a tiebreaker, won by Iowa.

It's also time for Major League Baseball to snap out of its Rip Van Winklian slumber and provide more adequate protection for its patrons. It is past time for the pastime to be precautionary rather than reactionary and install Watching an NFL preseason in the entourage willing to do additional safety netting between Those high-rollers in the primodeluxe seats behind home plate have gotten used to it.

> Roughly thirty times per game fans may be at risk of injury from foul balls or flying bats that find their way into the crowds. Sunday a woman was hospitalized after being hit by a line drive foul at Chicago's Wrigley Field. Last Friday a fan was injured behind the Detroit dugout, prompting several remarks of concern by Tigers star Justin Verlander. Earlier in the year, a fan was seriously injured by a piece of broken bat at Fenway Park in Boston.

MLB cannot count on the undivided attention of fans in the seats, or expect them all to bring gloves to defend themselves. They are oftentimes preoccupied with finding their seats, attending to their children, chowing down on stadium fare, keeping score, checking their phones or looking for cameras for a chance to be seen on TV. Any number of reasons might be cause for a fan to be looking away from the action at just the wrong instance.

On a somber note, the loss of 37-year-old husband and father of two young daughters Justin Wilson Sunday at Pocono Raceway (PA.) was the second fatality (Dan Wheldon) in four years for U.S. motor sports. The IndyCar driver was struck on the head by flying debris on the track, a type of incident that appears could be avoided if the stubborn powers-that-be would create some form of protection for the open-air cockpit style that persists in IndyCar racing (even if it means the cars are slowed a couple MPH). Learn from the terrible mistakes; act on what you've learned.

Former No. 1 overall pick Stephen Strasburg is 7–6 in an injury-plagued 2015 season. His ERA (4.22) and WHIP (1.296) are both career highs.

Capital Disappointment

Talented Nationals are on the verge of missing the postseason

ashington was supposed to be too big to fail. After winning 96 games in 2014, the Nationals already had one of the most talented teams in baseball. Then they went out and signed one of the game's best free-agent pitchers, righthander Max Scherzer.

They didn't even need Scherzer, either. He was just the cherry on top of what was supposed to be the best rotation in baseball. In 2014, Washington had three starters with ERAs under 3.00, plus Stephen Strasburg (3.14) and Gio Gonzalez (3.57). The Scherzer signing bumped Tanner Roark (2.85) to the bullpen. In addition, the Nationals had a pair of pitching prospects waiting in the wings in Joe Ross and A.J. Cole.

And yet here the Nationals are, one game above .500 and five games behind the Mets in the NL East through games of Sunday.

How did it get to this point? Many reasons, obviously, but injuries and lack of production from the lineup have been the biggest culprits. In 2014, Washington produced the fifth-highest offensive WAR in the league (26.1), highlighted by four players producing a WAR of at least 4.0.

But despite Bryce Harper leading the league with 7.2 WAR this season, the Nationals are on pace to produce only 16.6 WAR, less than what Anthony Rendon, Jayson Werth, Denard Span and Ian Desmond combined for last season. Of course, a large reason for the team's drop-off is the fact that those four have only produced 0.9 WAR this season due to age and injuries.

WAR is far from a perfect stat, but it does a good job of capturing how well a player performs and how talented a team is. Last season, the Nationals produced 49.2 WAR but are on pace to produce 37.9 WAR in 2015. That 12-win gap is going to be about equivalent to their drop-off in wins thanks to all these injuries.

Injuries happen to every team, but the Nationals' replacements have not stepped up. Michael Taylor is the only player who has done an adequate job in a bigger role, but he's reaching base at only a .290 clip, making up for that low OBP with superb defense.

Whereas the strength of the team last season was its depth of great players, the Nationals have a serious lack of contributors this season. Besides Harper, no player on offense has produced more than 2.2 WAR, and 10 players have produced negative WAR, topped off by Werth and Tyler Moore combining to produce -2.0 WAR.

But aside from the lack of contributions, one glaring problem for Washington has been the managing style of Matt Williams, a former star third baseman with the Giants and Diamondbacks. Hired without any managerial experience, Williams has struggled at times with his bullpen management, and he is too reliant on small-ball techniques such as sacrifice bunts.

Teams can overcome some injuries. They can overcome a few players regressing. And they can overcome poor managerial decisions. But when all three come together at the same time, it can sink a team even as talented as these Washington Nationals.

Other notable disappointments:

Boston Red Sox

The Red Sox went into the 2015 season with the hope that a stacked lineup could make up for mediocre starting pitching. Hasn't happened. The lineup hasn't been nearly as potent as expected, and the starting rotation has been worse than expected.

The result? The second-worst record in the American League.

Boston's big free-agent signings were Pablo Sandoval and Hanley Ramirez, who signed for $95 million and $88 million, respectively. But despite their large price tags, they've been among the worst players in baseball, combining to produce -2.6 WAR and ranking as the 152nd and 154th best players, respectively, out of 154 players who qualify for the batting title. Those two albatross contracts contributed to the team's decision to hire Dave Dombrowski as President of Baseball Operations, effectively replacing GM Ben Cherington.

But we can't forget about the pitching. Rick Porcello was given an $82.5 million contract before the season started and has rewarded his new team with a 5.81 ERA. Other new acquisitions Justin Masterson (5.61) and Wade Miley (4.41) haven't been much better. Clay Buchholz hasn't been healthy, and Joe Kelly has been demoted to Triple-A.

Oakland Athletics

After winning the AL West in 2014, the A's reshuffled their roster quite a bit, including trading Josh Donaldson (a strong MVP candidate) to the Blue Jays for Brett Lawrie and several prospects.

Clearly the team's offseason transactions haven't worked out, but a large reason for the A's AL-worst record has to do with bad luck.

Oakland is actually 14th in baseball in run differential at plus-11. Since the A's have scored more runs than they have allowed, one would expect them to have a record above .500 — certainly not 17 games below .500.

Where the Athletics have really struggled is in one-run games; they are only 14–29. Having a bullpen that ranks 29th with a 4.58 ERA certainly doesn't help in close games, but most teams win close to half of their onerun games. Sometimes in baseball, it just comes down to luck.

David Wright is expected to be activated from the DL early this week by the New York Mets. He has been out since April 14 with a hamstring injury and spinal stenosis. ...
