Eppie's 42nd is Epic for Athletes

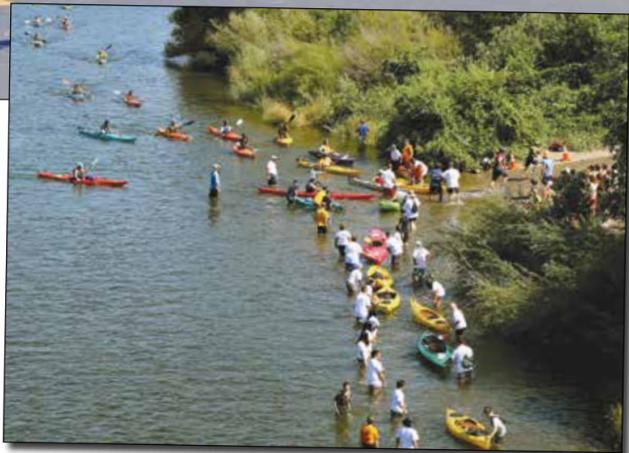

Story and photos by Susan Maxwell Skinner

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Almost two years after its founder died, Eppie's Great Race endures as restaurateur and philanthropist Eppie Johnson's legacy. Inspired by his love of the American River Parkway and dedication to fitness, Arcade resident Johnson began an annual event that has become almost as central to Sacramento summers as Independence Day.

For the 42nd Eppie's Great Race last weekend, the American River flowed cool and fast. In contrast, morning Parkway temperatures rose to challenge more than 1,300 athletes. As it has since 1974, the "world's oldest triathlon" set a cracking pace through stretches of Sacramento, Arcade, Carmichael, Fair Oaks, and Rancho Cordova. Participants ranged in age from 11 to over 80 years old. The overall winner was a 57-year-old Sacramento orthodontist, Dr. Vic Vicari. The Ironman sealed his 11th Eppie's victory in less than one hour and 50 minutes.

The race began with the national anthem at William Pond

Last weekend, Eppie's Great Race tested athletes from across the nation. 1,300 cyclists turned bike trails into speedways (top photo). Competitors completed the kayak stage below the Harold Richey Bridge. The event's three phases traveled Arcade, Carmichael, Fair Oaks, Rancho Cordova, and stretches of the American River and its Parkway (above).

DMV Issues Nearly 400,000 Licenses to Undocumented Applicants

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - During the first six months of implementing Assembly Bill 60 (AB 60), the California Department of Motor Vehicles (DMV) has issued approximately 397,000 driver's licenses to undocumented applicants who have met all requirements necessary to enjoy driving privileges in California. This figure represents more than half of the total 759,000 original driver's licenses that have been distributed during the first half of 2015.

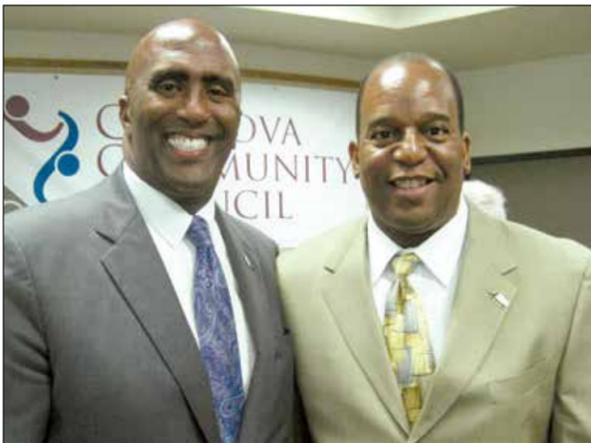

"The latest numbers reflect the continued successful implementation of AB 60," said DMV Director Jean Shiomoto. "The DMV was determined to develop a process that would not only meet the stringent requirements of this new law, but also the unique needs of our newly expanded customer base."

Since the Safe and Responsible Driver Act was implemented on January 2nd, 2015, the DMV has received approximately 687,000 AB 60 driver's license applications. As part of the process, applicants must prove their identity and California residency, as well as meet all other licensing requirements such as passing the knowledge and behind-the-wheel exams. Here is the approximate number of tests administered between January 1st, 2015 and June 30th, 2015:

- AB 60 Knowledge Test: 1,116,000
- AB 60 Drive Test: 436,000
- Statewide Knowledge Test: 2,324,000, with 47% passing and 53% failing
- Statewide Drive Test: 928,000, with 71% passing and 29% failing.

State Assemblyman Jim Cooper Speaks at Rancho Cordova City Hall

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - State Assemblyman Jim Cooper, who grew up in Rancho Cordova, spoke at the Cordova Community Council's July luncheon about his history and also his experience in the eight months since being elected a member of the California State Assembly.

A former Elk Grove city councilman and mayor, Cooper said that accomplishing objectives in government is easier at the local level. "At the local level you're dealing with just five members, so you really do get a lot done," Cooper said. "In the Assembly, there are 80 members, so your chances of getting things done aren't as good."

Nevertheless, Cooper has not wasted any time in getting to work. "I've got a lot of bills this year," Cooper said, "but my signature bill was AB 390, and that's the DNA bill."

A former Sacramento County Sheriff's Department captain with 30 years in law enforcement, Cooper introduced AB 390 to fix an unintended consequence of Proposition 47. The proposition passed in November of last year and reduced some felonies, mostly drug and theft crimes, to misdemeanors. Since DNA is collected only on felony offenses, the DNA database has taken a big hit.

"What I proposed in that bill is that if you are convicted of a misdemeanor on those crimes, to go ahead and give me a DNA sample," Cooper said. The bill sailed through the Assembly, Cooper said, in a 70 to 2 vote, but it got stuck in the State Senate in the Public Safety Committee, where it went down 4 to 3.

"I am disappointed that four committee members failed to see that DNA evidence is an essential tool for district attorneys to convict the guilty and exonerate the innocent," Cooper said. The bill will be reconsidered next year and Cooper expressed his hope that it will eventually pass.

Cooper admits that compromise is sometimes necessary. "A big part of leadership, too, is sometimes you're expected to vote a certain way, but I don't always drink the Kool-Aid," Cooper said. "So I kind of do my own thing sometimes but it's been good. It's good to see the work of the legislature."

During his law enforcement career, Cooper put in nine years in undercover narcotics and gang work. "My passion has always been kids, even before I had kids, and one of the reasons

Ladies and gentlemen, today we will witness a contest between two mighty fast-fired pizza chains. Both are contending for Rancho Cordova's business, opening mere months and 1.2 miles apart.

On the Rancho Cordova side of Sunrise Boulevard, in Rivergate Shopping Center (2350 Sunrise) and wearing olive green trunks and a white shirt, is Pieology. Born in 2011 and out of Rancho Santa Margarita, Pieology claims to make pizza come to life with an artisan's touch, using a delicious variety of fresh quality toppings, homemade crusts, and signature sauces, and baked to perfection in about three minutes.

On the Gold River side of Sunrise Boulevard, in the Gold River Town Centre (2137 Golden Centre Lane) and wearing orange trunks and a white shirt, is Blaze Pizza. Born in 2011 and out of Pasadena, Blaze claims to make pizza with exceptional quality at lightning-fast speed using fresh made-from-scratch dough, healthful, artisanal ingredients on the assembly line, then fast-fired to perfectly crisp perfection in about three minutes.

Today we'll see punches powered by a culmination of multiple dine-in and take-out visits to each restaurant. Although both places sell salads and a signature dessert, at least food-wise, fighters must keep their eye not on the tiger but the pizza. I mean, who goes to In-N-Out for the lemonade? Price, process, and pleasantries also are paramount for these pitting pizza places.

We welcome our pay-per-chew audience on ESPN (Economical and Speedy Pizza Network) for this six-round fight. Let's get ready to crumble!!!

Battle of the DIY Pizzas: Pieology vs. Blaze

Round 1: Price

Each quasi-Italian Stallion is in the center ring, jabbing with signature pizzas and build-your-own pies with unlimited toppings. Pieology might have Blaze against the ropes, advertising that its personal-sized pizzas are 11½ inches, which would be a half-inch larger than its rival and, based on size alone, justify a 20-cent difference ($7.95 versus $7.75). But Pieology misses with a left as four pies made on two separate days had wingspans of between 10 and 11 inches, never reaching the touted diameter. Low blow! Two more low blows, but of the good kind, are direct hits to the wallet. You can actually go cheaper at either place; a pie with mozzarella and red sauce costs $5 at Blaze and $6.95 at Pieology. There's the bell. Although price isn't everything, Round 1 goes to Blaze.

Round 2: Crust

Both fighters are coming out weak in this critical round. A pie baked for three minutes isn't going to have stellar crust, no matter how sophisticated the oven is. Based on lowered, more realistic expectations, Blaze's edges are superior—a crisp, lightly charred exterior—while the interior of Pieology's pies is more evenly baked, making for slightly sturdier slices. Still, depending on the type and weight of the toppings, chances are your slice will not hold up between carton and mouth. Both accommodate requests for more fire but at the sacrifice of those lightly charred edges. Whether it's a dough thing or a heat thing, there's no excuse for having mushy middles.

You get the same result even when adding only dry toppings. Maybe both should throw in the towel when it comes to crust, or get a better trainer. Round 2 is a draw.

Round 3: Ingredients and Taste

The boxers are tangled up. The variety of sauces, cheeses, meats, and toppings for custom-made pies is awesome at both. Differences are subtle, but notable. Blaze works a jab to the body with a tasty spicy red sauce, but add-ons to the house red at Pieology can match the flavor. The chicken morsels at Pieology taste more natural and fresh. Blaze offering ovalini mozzarella and goat cheese is a nice touch. Blaze doesn't have cilantro or corn, but lands a solid right with a menu of signature pizzas more extensive than the list of "Pieologist's Favorites" at the competition. Taste of all pizzas from both places is quite good for a pie made in the time it takes to brush one's teeth. Overall, Pieology had more flavor, but better edges at Blaze even things out. Round 3 is a draw.

Round 4: Hospitality

On multiple visits to each place, a friendly welcome was received at both. But Pieology's assembly line workers have the other guys on the ropes by being more obliging about loading on the toppings. During one dine-in visit, four Pieology workers came by our table to ask if everything's great and if we needed anything. At Blaze, only once out of four dine-in visits did someone come by our table. Smiles and energy ooze at Pieology. In fairness, Blaze has several months on the other guys, so perhaps one can't expect a full-grown dog to be as spry as a puppy. Round 4 goes to Pieology.

Round 5: Ordering and Pick-up

This is where the fighters show the biggest difference in style, at least based on this judge's experiences. Not once was building my own pie a perfectly smooth experience at Blaze. Workers seem to step over each other when it's busy; and once when it wasn't, an employee abruptly walked away before the saucing stage, leaving my wife and me to stand there like dopes for a minute before someone from the back rescued us. One time my son's pizza came out burnt, and the Blaze workers were anything but apologetic. Two employees were observed rolling their eyes over the problem, among other displays of smugness. Over at Pieology, which has virtually the same assembly-line system, things are run more like a well-olive-oiled machine. Pick-up is more dignified at Pieology, too. They give you a number whether you're dining in or taking out. When the pizza is ready, they find you with food in hand. At Blaze, you need to stand around until they call your name and the type of pizza you ordered. When busy, the yelling can be downright grating. Blaze takes a clean hit to the head and backs into the corner. Round 5 goes to Pieology.

Round 6: Environs

Gold River Town Centre is more upscale than Rivergate Shopping Center, so Blaze gets in a solid punch. Eating al fresco is nicer at Blaze unless you fancy a view of concrete and cars instead of an artsy water fountain and cars. Parking is a challenge for Pieology customers, no thanks to a crazy layout that makes Scooter's Coffee an obstacle with traffic flow. Pieology lands a hard hit business-wise with much better street visibility. And there's the final bell. Round 6 goes to Blaze.

The Decision

Now that both fighters are in their respective corners awaiting the judge's decision, let's take a minute to address the elephant in the ring. Pieology, Blaze, and the other "DIY" pizza players do for quality pizza what Subway did for the New York-style hero sandwich and Chipotle for authentic Mexican burritos. For my pizza fixes, give me an hour's wait at Chicago Fire any day. However, when you don't have the time or money for your favorite fine dining pizza place, how cool it is to satisfy a hankering in mere minutes and for a few bucks? Plus, Blaze and Pieology are so darn convenient.

OK, the scorecard has been tallied. In a close and competitive fight, the winner is Pieology. Food-wise, it's a draw; better customer service and a smoother assembly line at peak times were the deciding factors.

I smell a rematch. And hot pizza. ★ was in the gang and narcotic world you see a lot of abuse," Cooper said. "So that kind of fed my passion. I got involved in kids' sports and charities, and I did that for quite a number of years."

Malvero Woods, who was on the Cordova High School football team with Cooper, liked his emphasis on youth.

"I like the fact that he is so committed to giving back to the children, making sure that children go down the right path," Woods said. "I guess his experience in law enforcement has allowed him to see things that most people don't see." Woods now works for the Franchise Tax Board.

Cooper grew up in Rancho Cordova and returned recently for a Sports Hall of Fame event. "I got to see a lot of my coaches from high school," Cooper said. "I got to thank them for what they did for me. It's good to do that, because I would not be where I am without them."

Also present at the luncheon was Phoebe Austin, who graduated the same year as Cooper from Cordova High School and is now assistant to Elk Grove City Councilman Darren Suen. She liked Cooper's acknowledgment of the influence of his teachers and coaches. "It's amazing to acknowledge that you didn't just do it all on your own, you had a lot of help and influences as a youth," Austin said.

In the past, Rancho Cordova was a military town, and Cooper's father—who was in the Air Force—came to Rancho Cordova when his son was an infant. Cooper finished his early schooling through high school there. He later graduated from West Point Leadership Academy and FBI National Academy, and earned a Master's degree in organizational leadership from St. Mary's College.

"Rancho Cordova's past provided a rich tradition," Cooper said. "We're all Rancho Cordova products. It was a great school system, everything was great about Cordova; it still is. And that really made me who I am." ★

Splish Splash Summer Fun at the Aquatic Center

By Sal Arrigo Jr.

How many times have you driven near or bicycled past that lake located on Hazel Avenue just off of Highway 50? This is Lake Natoma, home to the Sacramento State Aquatic Center, a facility that opened in 1981 and is open to the general public, but is the best-kept secret for water recreation activities in the area. Perhaps residents believe it is a private facility only to be used by Sacramento State faculty and students, but let me tell you, they are missing one quality aquatic venue.

training and was instrumental in averting a potentially dangerous situation that occurred on a family outing.

I asked Cindi about the highlights of her time at the Aquatic Center, and she pointed to the many photos she has accumulated over the years of people who have taken classes in water safety and now have gone on to help educate others, not just in boating safety, but in learning the teamwork and leadership skills that are also taught at the Aquatic Center. The Center employs a small full-time staff and many part-time employ-

There are water activity programs for all ages and abilities at the Aquatic Center, and if you are afraid of the water, the Aquatic Center staff is available to assist you in conquering that fear. If you have ever wanted to sail or kayak, here is your chance to learn in an atmosphere dedicated to teaching you the proper techniques and, above all, how to be safe on the water. Cindi Dulgar, associate director of the Sacramento State Aquatic Center and veteran water enthusiast, told me about an eight-year-old girl who took a boating safety class from her many years ago. The girl remembered her safety

ees. Many are students from Sacramento State who have an interest in outdoor recreation.

Cindi mentioned that the Aquatic Center is very affordable for a family to enjoy, and they see families from "all walks of life." I asked Cindi to name some of the major reasons why people enjoy recreation at the Aquatic Center, and she said, "There is no pressure or competition to learn how to kayak; you go at your own pace." The facility also has meeting rooms, birthday party packages available for the general public, and a barbecue area. It is a beach party right here in the Sacramento region without having to go to the coast.

Some of the opportunities available include basic windsurfing, basic sailing, basic kayaking, river kayaking, basic canoeing, and stand-up paddling. There are special events such as the Sunset Paddle, or if that is too late in the evening for you, then try the Breakfast Club that launches at 6 a.m.! The Aquatic Center is home to the Sacramento State Rowing Team along with many collegiate and state championship events.

There is still time to sign up and enjoy the Aquatic Center. Classes are available now through Labor Day and beyond. Summer vacations may officially end at this time, but the Sacramento State Aquatic Center is open for business! For more information, go to www.sacstateaquaticcenter.com or call (916) 278-2842.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Measure H Funds: Overhead Street Signs

From Jerry Drobesh:
I came up with this idea on April 11th, 2015, my mother's birthday, and had been thinking about it for some time. We need a way to let people from other communities and tourists know the name of our city and that we are proud of our community and its history.

The idea would be quite simple. You install two steel or metal poles, much like a flag pole, on each side of two main streets running into the city's outer boundaries of Rancho Cordova. These streets would be Sunrise Blvd. and Folsom Blvd. The decision on where to place the poles would be up to the city planners, but it would be best on each end of these main boulevards as you enter the city boundaries. The poles would be designed to hang two large white canvas signs from small steel cables, one above the other. The top sign would have large red and black letters spelling out "Welcome to Rancho Cordova

— All American City of Gold Since 2003."

The bottom sign would only be put up for special events, such as the 4th of July event and California's greatest Paper Mache Contest and Festival! You haven't heard of that one? You will! The cost for the signs would be small compared to the community pride, tourism, and maybe a boost to our jobs and economy. Let's get started on this one now!

Q&A with Buyers & Sellers

This column is here for you as a resource in sorting out buying and selling property. When you ask a question we answer here so everyone benefits. What don't you know about buying and selling property? Let me help.

It's easy, just email your question to us and we share the answer so everyone can learn from it. Email: ellenherrle@hotmail.com or leave a message at 916-761-2108.

Q: We are a young couple hoping to purchase our first home. We have been looking but haven't found exactly what we want. It looks like interest rates will go up soon, so is that going to be a problem for us in financing the loan?
Jenna, Orangevale

A: Yes, as rates goes up, the result could be devastating to people who are borderline qualified at today's rates. For renters, first-time buyers and 'upsizers' who don't want to be 'locked out' of a new home now is the time to 'lock in' a loan rate. The old wisdom is 'he who hesitates is lost' and it applies to how much you are going to pay to borrow money as rates rise.

Rates are set by the Federal Reserve and have been artificially low in helping the economy recover from the recession years. Fed Chair Janet Yellen has indicated in testimony that it may be time to bring rates up, so people saving money can find a return on their dollars. That could happen soon. My recommendation to those that are looking at real estate or in the process of getting approved is to lock in their rate and not gamble on it going down. The trend is up.

For those who get in touch each month you'll also receive one of three pamphlets on buying and selling strategies, and be entered in a random drawing for a dinner for two at one of our great Sacramento or Placer restaurants!

Don't spend more than you have too, or sell for less than you deserve by asking the expert first! Visit <http://www.showcaserealestategroup.com> or call us to help when you decide to buy or sell at 916-761-2108.

Next time: Scary mortgage and lending trend changes in the works! ★

CORDOVA SPORTS

Locals Compete at Dusty Baker Baseball Camp

Story by Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - There were 82 boys between the ages of 13 to 17 who converged onto the Cordova High School varsity baseball field to take part in the Dusty Baker Baseball Camp this week.

Former Cordova High School varsity baseball coach Guy Anderson, who served as the Lancers' skipper for 42 years and is second among winning high school baseball coaches in California, was one of the coaches at the camp.

Bruce Carmichael serves as general manager and director of operations for the camp. Carmichael is a former Major League Baseball player who played for the Chicago Cubs. He has coached at baseball academies and clinics for the last 30 years. He has also coached high school and college baseball.

At one of the practices earlier this week, Anderson and Carmichael worked with some of the players on hitting. Carmichael threw pitches and Anderson watched and worked with the players' batting stance.

"Absolutely fun," said Anderson about working with the kids. "You're just coaching and teaching the kids on how to play the game and how to appreciate it. This week has been real good. The kids are here to learn."

On the other side of the Lancers' field, there were other groups of players who were learning how to bunt and hitting off tees.

"I think the fun part of this camp is hitting," Anderson said. "And I think that they think the same thing. We're trying to show the importance of drills and the importance of practice."

The two coaches also worked with the players on defensive drills such as fielding and throwing.

"It's a challenge to hit the ball and to get the guy out," Anderson said. "But let's have a good time while we're doing (the drills)."

Along with Anderson and Carmichael, there have been many former MLB players who have stopped by the camp this week to work with the diamond players, including the former MLB player and manager for whom the camp is named after.

"It's been fun," Anderson said. Other former MLB players at the camp were Bob Oliver, a hitting instructor who played with the Kansas City Royals and New York Yankees.

"He's got a wealth of information on hitting," said Anderson of Oliver.

Former MLB designated hitter Lloyd Mosby joined Oliver, along with Hal Steinback, pitcher Jim Barr, and catcher Clint Brill. All men lived in the Sacramento region before they reached the MLB levels. The camp conclusion included a pizza party and awards ceremony at a Rancho Cordova hotel for players and their families. ★

Park in Carmichael. Runners followed a six-mile route to the Guy West Bridge near California State University. Here, the bike transition initiated a 12-mile pedal to the beach below Sunrise Boulevard Bridge. Boarding kayaks and braving the San Juan Rapids, the competitors followed the American River downstream to celebrations at River Bend

Park in Rancho Cordova. An estimated 4,000 supporters and 1,000 volunteers cheered participants throughout the event's three stages.

In 42 years, the triathlon has raised more than one million dollars to aid programs for Sacramento County Therapeutic Recreation Services. "Eppie loved the activities it provides for disabled people," said a race spokesperson. "And he loved this race. It was his baby." ★

Love May be Blind, But Familiarity Can Breed Contempt

We met up with an old friend last week who does love his sports, but is not into them to quite the same extent as we are here. He loves his college basketball to no end, making it a point each season to take some time off from work to be particularly reclusive during the NCAA Men's Basketball Tournament.

He can't stand professional basketball—the egomania, the outrageous level of money-grubbing, and the top-star-driven nature of the sport are so much that he can't be convinced that granting it any of his attention is a worthwhile endeavor. That, and he has limited interest in football beyond his alma mater, Cal. Go, Bears!

As for baseball, he has always liked the Giants, but leaned more toward the Oakland A's since that franchise's historic dynasty in the early '70s. (We all loved them then). Our friend's allegiances are undergoing a gradual shift that has been picking up speed as of late because he can't stand what the hell has been going on in Oakland in recent years. (None of us can).

Every tuned-in baseball fan is well aware of the Oakland A's modus operandi through recent seasons under the scrooge-like, current billionaire ownership—sell/trade high, stay cheap, take advantage of revenue-sharing, cash in as much as possible, don't bother fixing the plumbing because we're not sure we're going to be sticking around. (Granted, at least that keeps A's games as the most affordable option among the choices in the Bay Area). We want to love them, too. But enough, already! We're mad as hell and we don't want to take it anymore!

Discussing the Giants, the topic of the announcing team came up. All loyal "gamers" just adore the Kruk and Kuip duo (the down-home Dwayne Kuiper and the sentimental Mike Krukow). But our friend "can't stand" Krukow, and he's not that crazy about Jon Miller either. That screams of blasphemy; but, after some thought, maybe our prospective convert has some good points.

How many of us dedicated viewers cringe every time that Kruk tells us who is "in the squat?" How many use the DVR to skip quickly past the introductory bit about the pitchers and what they throw—too impatient for the game to actually start—rather than listening to, "he has a fastball, 88-92; he throws a four-seamer and a two-seamer that moves in on the right-handers and away from the left-handers; he has a slider and a curve; and he'll throw anything at any time,?" And what about all of that "back-spinning it right out of here" business? Are the hitters intentionally doing that? Wouldn't they do it every single time if they could? Or are they just trying with all they've got to just make some kind of contact with that hard little projectile that's coming at them in the blink of an eye at almost 100 miles per hour, all the while trying to make sure it doesn't strike some exposed part of the body because the part might break? (Don't rub it).

We day-to-day gamer dudes and babes have come to blindly love our guys, but if we open our eyes to our deeper feelings we may realize we do have some contemptuous regard for certain familiarities.

Kuip is another story. Everybody just loves him and thinks that he is simply the best. He's got that low-key, witty style along the lines of the old favorite, Hank Greenwald, who broadcasted for the Giants for two stints, '79-'86 and '89-'96. Kuip's home run calls are top-notch. But, you know what, surely you've noticed that our beloved Kuip sometimes makes the silliest of mistakes, including screwing up names. Remember the former pitcher Roy Halliday? That was HALLIDAY, Kuip, not HOLIDAY! Ugh!

We agreed with our friend that Jon Miller can come off like a Mr. Know-it-all on the television side of things (probably from spending too much time around Joe Morgan), but suggested that the Hall of Famer's style is more suitable and much more entertaining on the radio side. His storytelling and descriptive abilities weave into the fabric of the companionship between the radio broadcast and the listeners more easily than his techniques connect with TV viewers.

As for the fourth amigo, Dave Fleming, the young (39) Swiss-army knife broadcaster, he's still too young to be universally loved, or not (he did go to Stanford), even though he's been with the Giants since 2004 and has been on many historical calls. Maybe that's because he's so slick and well-trained and has split duties with ESPN, college football and basketball, and the NBA and the Little League World Series. He's not "all-Giants-all-the-time," and not as cute and cuddly as the older guys. Despite all that, he's really good.

We can quibble and criticize the faults and the "homer-isms" of our fabulous foursome. There can be some minor issues with how they paint the Giants' picture from time to time (easily overlooked when the team is winning), but, as we told our friend, we're really, really lucky to have them.

If you have paid any attention to sports highlights from other broadcasts from around the country—OMG! We've got it good around here. ★

About East Lawn's Water Conservation

At East Lawn we are doing our part to conserve and Save Water

As we all know, our state is facing serious challenges due to the current drought.

Recently Governor Brown initiated a directive for the reduction of residential and commercial usage and conservation of water. Here at East Lawn, we are in full compliance with the Governor's mandate. As a matter of fact, East Lawn voluntarily began making significant water reductions back in 2013. We have been, and continue to be, a responsible participant in any and all appropriate community efforts and standards to conserve water resources.

All three East Lawn cemeteries are independently provided with water through our own well and pump systems.

We do not receive water through the municipalities. Our wells and pump systems are professionally inspected and serviced regularly for maximum efficiency as are our sprinkler systems. Self-supplied well water entities, such as East Lawn, are required by the Governor's Executive Order B-29-15, to reduce potable water usage by 25%; however, our goal is to continuously try to find the most efficient means possible to reduce water usage and we have exceeded the mandate by conserving over 50% and significantly minimized run-off.

We have elected to temporarily stop the flow of water in our fountains. Unfortunately, due to these water cutbacks a few brown spots have appeared in some areas of our parks. We are cognizant of the responsibility we have to properly maintain the beauty of the cemeteries as Endowment Care facilities. We ask for your patience and understanding as we negotiate this drought; however, should you notice a problem that needs to be addressed, please do not hesitate to contact us.

On-the-Job Training Increases, Employment Pool Shrinks

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Employee retention, qualified applicants, and specialized skills are motivating more in-house training and opportunity in the Sacramento area. Internships and probationary and apprenticeship programs are growing as the pool of skilled workers shrinks. For several quarters, an increasing number of Sacramento's top regional companies have noted growing problems with finding enough qualified applicants (those with specific, often technical skills) and keeping the employees currently on the job. Falling unemployment, recovery from recession years, and an aging workforce are thinning the formerly large numbers applying. Pacific Staffing discovered a "back to the future" approach when polling local companies, finding a vast majority (76%) report having existing or now using more on-the-job training in meeting specific workforce needs in hiring. Sacramento regional employers were asked, "Is it time for employers to open work to entry levels and train on the job for specific proprietary needs?" Just 23% didn't have or support on-the-job training, while 1% didn't answer. The apprentice or "old school" approach to filling employment needs has never gone completely out of style with Sacramento regional companies. As some HR contacts noted when surveyed directly between May 19th and June 19th, 2015, a policy to recruit from local sources and train within the company for specific skills also reaps greater loyalty and individual company and geographic identity. The Sacramento employment trend continues to rise in the third quarter of 2015 with 67% of companies planning to hire in July, August, and September; 17% of demand was attributed to seasonal needs in the next three months. Workforce expansion continues to rise with 51% of expected hires motivated by growth while 38% was described as replacements for attrition over the next quarter. No layoffs were noted. While federal changes in healthcare lead all complaints through the last two years, now the most challenging issue for HR pros is California's sick leave policy; 18% said they were struggling with implementation or compliance as their greatest workforce challenge in the next quarter. Qualified applicants and retaining current employees were also noted as a continuing issue with 13% of companies surveyed directly by phone. Skills Demand The majority of Sacramento regional employers are seeking manufacturing/product assembly workers, sales, and general office. Challenges The biggest workforce challenge noted by regional employers is compliance with new California sick leave policy, followed closely by finding qualified applicants and retaining current employees. Sacramento Region Bank Robber Caught

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Sacramento Sheriff Robbery Detectives have made an arrest in the bank robbery series that began on July 1st, 2015. Detectives reached out to the public to request their assistance in identifying the female suspect connected to five recent bank robberies that occurred within various financial institutions on Manzanita Avenue, El Camino Avenue, Fair Oaks Boulevard, and Kiefer Boulevard in Sacramento. Detectives immediately received tips from the public directing them to several individuals; however, detectives were able to identify and confirm Sacramento resident Dominique Marie Polani, 22, as the bank robber. A warrant for her arrest was obtained and she was captured outside of the Northern California area on July 17th. Polani was booked into the Sacramento County Main Jail on robbery charges, where she is currently being held on $500,000 bail. Sheriff Robbery Detectives would like to thank the public for their assistance in helping identify this robbery suspect and spreading the word on social media. They realize the important role the public can hold in providing information leading to the identification or arrest of individuals who criminally affect our communities.
