Rancho Cordova Goes Farm-to-Fork

Rancho Cordova is getting on the map with its own movement to promote urban agriculture and food sustainability in partnership with residents, farmers, and businesses.

These citizens are leading the charge by serving restaurant meals with local ingredients, sourcing food from local artisans, farming fruits and vegetables, providing education programs, and so much

Now, the City of Rancho Cordova has proposed an urban agriculture ordinance following trends in other cities that have already reviewed and approved similar programs. The City is

- Should you be allowed to sell produce from your house only on certain days?

New Hybrid Class Format at Folsom Lake College's Rancho Cordova Center

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - A brand new state-of-the-art educational center of Folsom Lake College (FLC) is currently under construction at the intersection of Mather Road and Folsom Boulevard in Rancho Cordova. The Rancho Cordova Center will include more than 26,000 square feet of instructional space, nine classrooms, and a student learning center with an open-access computer lab. The new facility is expected to open in late October. Until then, college operations continue at the existing outreach location at 10378 Rockingham Drive in Rancho Cordova.

In anticipation of moving into the new space, the college has more than doubled its course offerings in Rancho Cordova to accommodate the increased demand for general education and transfer courses. Students can register now for summer and fall classes. A full schedule of course offerings can be accessed at www.flc.losrios.edu (click on "Class Schedules").

In order to enhance the selection of courses offered and respond to students' need for flexibility, FLC has incorporated a significant number of hybrid-format course offerings in its summer and fall schedule. Hybrid classes combine weekly face-to-face class meetings with online learning. The resulting combination utilizes traditional student-teacher interaction with modern out-of-class digital learning to keep students on track while also maximizing their schedule.

The summer session begins on June 8th. The fall semester starts the week of August 22nd and runs through December 17th. Other shorter-term or "Fast-Track" classes begin throughout the semester.

If you have any questions, the Rancho Cordova Center staff can help you find your success! Give them a call at (916) 255-0717.

Micro Grant Brings Neighbors Together

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Several years ago, the City of Rancho Cordova engaged a group of homeowners in the Cordova Meadows area. The residents got to know each other, formed a "Keep Cordova Meadows Beautiful" group, and completed several neighborhood projects.

To further grow the effort, the City started working with residents living in the apartments along West La Loma. The neighbors came together and decided to hold a block party for families and children of all ages looking for a fun adventure.

The residents applied for, and received, a micro grant from the City to fund the supplies, food, and activities for the event. The block party was held this past weekend and over 200 people showed up, including many families from the nearby apartment complexes.

"The event was a 10, and we were happy to see so many parents participating," said residents Juan and Claudia.

"We would do it again!"

The City started the micro grant program in 2014 to inspire creative and innovative thinking, connect with more citizens, and create new partnerships. The program provides a one-time cash award to eligible community groups for special projects in Rancho Cordova neighborhoods.

"You could feel the positive energy at the event, and there were so many thankful parents who were interested in how the event came about," said Volunteer Coordinator Lorianne Ulm. "They were amazed and wanted to find out how they could participate in future events in their neighborhood."

Unleash your ideas to brainstorm a fun project or event in your neighborhood! What about a Fourth of July neighborhood potluck, or a fun in the sun neighborhood barbecue, or a National Night Out event?

City Council Eyes Next Steps for Measure H Funds

By Julia Baum

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) -Local voters may be closer to seeing some of their dreams for their city come true after a recent in-depth discussion by the Rancho Cordova City Council concerning the future use of Measure H funds. Councilmembers at a June 1st City Council meeting spent more than an hour pouring over information related to the newly implemented sales tax that was passed in November and gave city staff feedback based on input from 16 Town Hall meetings that were attended by a total of more than 500 people during March and April. Members of the public contributed more than 250 ideas for short- and long-term goals to benefit the community during that time, including arts and recreational programs, infrastructure, and civic engagement projects.

Also received were 76 community grant applications from residents, which Councilmember Linda Budge called "pretty remarkable," based on the 2,000-plus responses from meeting attendees. The deadline for application submissions was June 1st.

Although applications could be presented to the council by mid-June, staff recommended that the meeting be used to create a framework for the Measure H program before presenting their evaluations to the council. Budge said it was important for all council members to review the applications personally since they had not undertaken such a process before, noting that the June

15th date for staff to present the council with applications for consideration could be too

"It may take some time, but we really at this point couldn't possibly have a good handle on what kind of projects have been submitted, or the range of projects," Budge said. "We do ourselves a disservice, as well as all the people who have applied, if we don't look at all 76 applications."

Councilmember Donald Terry didn't foresee the council being prepared for application presentations at their next meeting but wanted to find a way to make the process more efficient regardless.

"I'd want to have some kind of ranking done ahead of time by staff," Terry said. "I don't think there's an ability for the council to adequately hear from or review in public 70-someodd applications. I want to see them all, no matter what, but I think we have to have some sort of paring down."

Councilmember David Sander said it was likelier to adopt short-term projects first due to time constraints.

"Coming up with a process to roll out the long-term ones within a month doesn't seem likely," Sander said. "There's probably a little bias right now towards the short-term and achievable."

Calling the council's discussion "rich," Budge mentioned the importance of community involvement several times and the importance of not rushing the process.

"The most important part is people feel that they had a thorough hearing," Budge said. ★

Collaboration on Medical Cannabis Regulations Sets New Path for Legislature

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) -Assemblymember Rob Bonta

(D-Oakland) made the following statement after the Assembly Appropriations Committee passed AB 266, which was amended to make Bonta lead author on the bill to regulate the medical cannabis industry. The bill is jointly authored by Assemblymembers Ken Cooley (D-Rancho Cordova) and Reginald Byron Jones-Sawyer (D-Los Angeles).

"Today represents a great demonstration of unity and collaboration among my Assembly colleagues on the critical issue of regulating the medical cannabis industry," said Assemblymember Bonta.

Assemblymember

Jimmy Gomez, Chair of the Appropriations Committee, applauded the bill. "By bringing together experts in medical marijuana and ensuring the structure for accountability with one central body, the intent of the voters and integrity of local communities will be respected. Cooperation between the state and local governments will provide patients with access while respecting a community's ability to make local decisions."

Although California was an early leader on the issue, the state lacks comprehensive regulations to ensure patient access, as well as to protect the environment, public safety, and public health. AB 266 combines critical components of two medical cannabis proposals introduced this year: AB 34, originally authored by Assemblymembers Bonta and Jones-Sawyer, and AB 266, originally authored by Assemblymember Cooley. AB 34 was amended to make Assemblymember Cooley the lead author, with identical language as the newly amended AB 266. AB 34 was then held in the Assembly Appropriations Committee.

Assemblymember Cooley highlighted the collaborative approach of the bill. "AB 266 is a great blend of ideas that grew out of productive conversations between members, stakeholders, and leadership. I am confident that this unprecedented legislative approach to medical cannabis regulation will serve California well."

"The new bill establishes strong local control, includes an unprecedented multi-agency effort toward regulation with one overarching agency overseeing the process, establishes strong licensing provisions, and provides protections for patients, the public, and the environment," Bonta explained.

Assemblymember Jones-Sawyer stated, "We have always intended to work toward one Assembly bill. We are very glad that that wish has come to fruition. We intend to continue working collaboratively to address the outstanding issues of all those interested in the regulation of medical marijuana."

Assemblymember Bonta concluded, "This joint effort demonstrates the great leadership of our house and is an incredible opportunity to finally provide a unified and coherent approach to medical cannabis regulation. I am committed to continuing to work with all stakeholders on an equal playing field, in strong partnership with my joint authors and colleagues in the Assembly, to ensure we create a robust framework for the industry."

AB 266 is now eligible to be heard on the Assembly Floor.

New Cat Cafe to Promote Adult Cat Adoption

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Sacramento County Bradshaw Animal Shelter staff and volunteers have come up with a novel approach to enhance visitors' experience at the shelter and promote adult cat adoptions with a brand new "Catfe."

The idea for the shelter's own cat cafe began as a simple one. Bradshaw Shelter staffer Star Stage wanted a novel way to promote the adoption of adult cats, and she and other Bradshaw Shelter staff had heard about cat cafes in various parts of the country that found success.

Staffers and volunteers knew the cat habitat at the Bradshaw Shelter's entrance was large enough to hold several people in the room comfortably. They also knew the habitat would be a wonderful way for visitors to spend time with adult cats and appreciate their appeal.

Open during shelter hours, the Catfe features free coffee, tea, or hot chocolate. Visitors can sip their favorite beverage and interact with social adult cats.

"Kittens are usually the first of the felines to be adopted at the shelter, and while they may be small and cute to begin with, kittens don't stay kittens for very long; they grow up and become adults," said Dave Dickinson, director of the Bradshaw Shelter.

The Sacramento County Bradshaw Shelter's "Catfe" promotes the benefits of adopting an older cat in a cafe-like setting.

"The Catfe is a wonderful way for people to spend time with and see firsthand the benefits of adopting an adult cat."

Adult cats are, on the whole, less maintenance than kittens as they are litterbox trained and understand the concept of approval and reward. Adopting a full-grown cat also gives the prospective owner an accurate idea of the cat's temperament, size, coat length, and more.

So far, the Catfe has been a success. Within 30 seconds of the Catfe's opening, a family came in to meet Duchess, a beautiful calico cat that they ultimately adopted. Charlotte, a shy tabby cat, met her new "forever" person soon after that. They both went home that day.

Please visit the Catfe at the Sacramento County Bradshaw Shelter, located at 3839 Bradshaw Road, Sacramento, CA 95827. Hours are Wednesday through Friday from 12:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. and Saturday and Sunday from noon to 4:30 p.m.

So many things are going on, but here are a few: I had an opportunity to talk to second and third graders in Cordova Gardens Elementary School. They asked many questions about being a Mayor, and a few of them said they wanted to be Mayor too. They were all elected to their student council, so they had a pretty good idea about how their election worked. I told them how their parents go to the ballot and elect people too. They were

The Memorial Day Ceremony at the Mather Veterans Memorial Plaza in front of the Mather Hospital was a wonderful way to show respect to our veterans—to veterans who gave their lives, those who were wounded, and those who are carrying on today protecting our country. There were over 800 people there, and it increases every year. I am glad we have such a great place to gather and thank our veterans for serving.

great program that shows participants the leaders they can be as they learn more than they ever thought they would.

Over the weekend, residents in West La Loma organized a block party using a micro grant they applied for and received from the City. Volunteers like Lorianne Ulm gave these residents the chance to see how much fun there is here in Rancho Cordova. Many of them don't have transportation so they haven't been able to go to Kids Day or our 4th of July celebration at Hagan Park. There were some wonderful smiles on kids' faces that made it a fun day. I wasn't able to be there, but there are great pictures that don't need any words to let us know how much they appreciated what was brought to them. I have to stop for now, but I'll put more in next week.

From Mayor Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next

I have been fortunate over the years to be "in the right place at the right time." I have met many people in a career that has allowed me this opportunity. For instance, when I was fundraising for a local nonprofit, I stood face to face with then-governor Arnold Schwarzenegger and shared a brief moment with him. When I worked at a major East Coast hotel, I rubbed elbows with Muhammad Ali. Recently, I touched history by interviewing members of the Tuskegee Airmen of World War II as well as a famous navigator from the Korean War. It got me thinking: What famous person would you want to share a moment with ask them?

I began by asking friends and relatives this very question, and what transpired has been fascinating as to the scope of the people they would like to meet and the question they would like to ask.

My track-star friend, Howard, said he would like to ask a question of Rose Mary Woods. You remember Rose Mary Woods of Watergate fame—and the missing 18½ minutes of tape recording of President Richard M. Nixon. Howard would like to know what was "really said" during that 181/2 minute gap. Rose Mary Woods admitted to mistakenly making a single erasure of  $4\frac{1}{2}$  to 5 minutes on the tape while making a phone call, but denied making the entire 18½-minute erasure.

John M., my fundraising colleague in the healthcare industry, sent me a question for Sir Thomas More. A quick history refresher on Sir Thomas More: Born in London, England, in 1478, Thomas More served as an important advisor to King Henry VIII of England, serving as his key counselor in the early and what question would you 1500s. He refused to accept the King as head of the Church of England and was tried for treason and beheaded. He was canonized by the Catholic Church as a saint in 1935. John's question: What gave you the courage to take your stand, knowing that in doing so vou would face opposition or even death? It would have been so easy for Sir Thomas More to agree with the King's wishes, but he chose death instead. There is a man who truly believed in his convictions!

My brother-in-law, Bobby, wanted to ask Milton Hershey why he gave away two tickets for the maiden voyage of the Titanic in 1912. Yes, that Hershey, the chocolate magnate! Rumor has it that his wife was ill and could not make the trip. Bobby continued with a follow-up question: Did the two people who used those tickets survive the sinking of the Titanic?

I'm sure we could all come up with a question or two for famous (or infamous) historical figures. Of course, we'll never know what their answers would have been. But it's interesting to ponder, don't you agree?

When Republicans Flip-Flop and Embrace Government Mandates

Matthews

If the presidential election process didn't begin in Iowa, ethanol would likely be a memory. But because the election process begins in Iowa, where nearly half of the corn grown is converted to ethanol, most Republican candidates, who make a career of denouncing crony capitalism, have come to embrace the ethanol mandate even as they decry Obamacare for forcing Americans to have health insurance.

The federal government's support for ethanol is long and costly. It began with the Energy Tax Act of 1978 when Congress created a 40-cent subsidy for each gallon of ethanol blended into gasoline. The goal was to create an alternative to gasoline at a time when U.S. crude oil production was starting to decline and more oil was being imported from countries that used oil for political leverage to achieve their policy agenda.

Congress increased that subsidy periodically until it reached 54 cents per gallon, but then began scaling it back, finally eliminating it for corn-based ethanol in 2011.

However, Congress didn't leave the ethanol industry empty-handed; the 2005 Energy Policy Act required gasoline to include up to 10% renewable fuel, known as the Renewable Fuel Standard (RFS).

Once Democrats took control of Congress in 2007, they passed, and President George W. Bush signed, a much more aggressive RFS, which included cellulosic biofuels made from several other organic products such as switchgrass.

Who has benefited from this decades-long support of ethanol? Not the public. Consumers really just want to get their gas at the best price possible and

And certainly not countries with large low-income populations-Mexico, for example—that depend on corn as a staple. The RFS created a huge increase in demand for corn, which at times pushed up the global price and made it unaffordable for some of those low-income populations.

But the ethanol producers, from the farmers to the processors, have benefited handsomely from the subsidies and the

So you might expect that the same Republican presidential candidates who claim that people should be able to buy the kind of health insurance they want, not the kind government tells them to buy, would make the same claim about gasoline.

You might expect that the same presidential candidates who claim that huge government subsidies and mandates are making health insurance more expensive—not less expensive, as the politicians promised would understand that the same thing happened to gasoline.

And you'd be right, a few months ago, since most of those Republicans were against the RFS (including former Texas Governor Perry and Wisconsin Governor Scott Walker) before they were for it—as presidential candidates stumping in Iowa. Their efforts to explain away their policy flip-flop are embarrassing—and revealing.

To be clear, there is nothing wrong with ethanol—if consumers want it in their gas tanks, which they would if the product were an efficient, cost-effective substitute for gasoline. In that case, the public, not the environmentalists and ethanol lobby, would demand it be blended in gasoline.

Now even some environmental groups, including the Natural Resources Defense Council and the Environmental Working Group, are having buyer's remorse as they realize the carbon footprint to create cornbased ethanol may be worse than the fossil fuel it replaces.

So as we move closer to the presidential primaries, watch for most Republican candidates to praise the Renewable Fuel Standard mandate even as they denounce the health insurance mandate. You might even ask them why, if health care freedom is so important, energy freedom

Obama Commands Some Faith-Based Organizations to Hire Homosexuals

Commentary from Liberty Counsel

The Obama Administration will soon require faith-based, charitable groups which receive federal grants to hire homosexuals and transsexuals, according to published reports from the Center for Family and Human Rights.

Last summer, the President signed an executive order requiring federal contractors to provide what Congress refused to pass, namely civil rights status for sexual behavior or subjective gender identity. Now Obama is reportedly adding the "sexual orientation and gender identity" mandate to humanitarian groups which receive federal grants as well. Federal contracts are awarded when a federal agency is acquiring something; grants are awarded when a federal agency is providing assistance.

"Faith-based organizations are providing assistance in communities across America, such as adoption, youth centers, child care and development programs, youth counseling, shelter, and much more," said Mat Staver, Founder and Chairman of Liberty Counsel. "Not only will Christian youth programs be required to hire homosexuals, the facilities will be required to open housing, locker rooms and restrooms to people of the opposite sex who subjectively say they are the opposite of their obvious biological sex. This is ludicrous!" said Staver. "Christian organizations cannot offer biblical counseling and, at the same time, hire people who do not follow the Bible and their sexuality. Ultimately, this LGBT regulation is going to cause irreparable harm to the children and the needy."

"This is another example of the Obama Administration's hostility toward people of faith and biblical values," continued Staver. "Just like he has done with the use of state department funding for foreign nations, Obama is now using funding to force his immoral agenda on religious organizations. Obama is using the poor and disadvantaged hostages to advance his radical ideology. Congress has the power to halt funding and to resist the President in this clear abuse of power. I call upon Congress to have a backbone and finally do something to stop President Obama," said Staver.

SB 277 Opponents Rally at California Democrats State Convention

Dozens of Participants Switch Party Affiliation to Protest Senate Bill Passage

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Members of Our Kids, Our Choice (OKOC), a non-partisan, grassroots advocate for parental rights and medical freedom in California, together with other like-minded groups, turned out by the hundreds for a peaceful demonstration against California's controversial vaccine mandate, SB 277 (Pan/Allen). Dozens of OKOC members also participated in a voter re-registration protest at the California Democrats Convention. Disaffected democrats gathered at the Anaheim Convention Center to send a powerful message to their party leadership.

"We've been talking to our Senators for weeks, and many of them are not listening. We hope that after today, they will take the concerns of Californians more seriously," said Kristen Hundley, a spokesperson for OKOC.

Many OKOC members are concerned that SB 277 denies some children equal access to education, as it would prohibit children from attending school if not fully up to date with their vaccinations.

"Right now all over California there are thousands of families trying to figure out how they are going to homeschool their children; which of the parents will quit their job to stay home, which income is less necessary... trust me, they're not worried about getting a bullet train built, they're worried about how they will survive if this bill goes into effect. So many members of the California Senate are out of touch with their constituents," noted Krissy Alonzo, an OKOC member.

OKOC members have enthusiastically reached out to their Senators in recent weeks to voice their objection to SB 277. Disregarding the 74% (from a SurveyUSA poll of 1,000 voters conducted in April 2015) of Californians who believe that vaccination decisions should be made by parents, not politicians, the Senate passed SB 277 with a 25-10 vote Thursday, May 14th.

Undeterred, opponents vowed to keep making their voices heard. OKOC is committed to keeping politicians out of the doctor/patient relationship.

How to Compare and Locate Senior Housing Options

Dear Savvy Senior,

types of housing options available to seniors, and recommend some good resources for locating and choosing one? I need to find a place for my elderly mother, and could use some help.

Searching Daughter

Dear Searching,

There's a wide array of housing options available to seniors, but what's appropriate for your mom will depend on her needs and financial situation. Here's a rundown of the different levels of senior housing and some resources to help you search.

Independent living: If your mom is in relatively good health and is self-sufficient, "independent living communities" are a good place to start. Typically available to people over age 55, this type of senior housing is usually apartments or town homes that are fully functional. In addition, many of these communities also offer amenities such as meals served in a common dining area, housekeeping, transportation and a variety of social activities.

To locate this type of housing, contact your Area Agency on Aging (call 800-677-1116 to get your local number), or use online services like newlifestyles.com and caring.com. Most of these communities are private-pay only, and run anywhere from $1,000 to over $4,000 per month.

If that's too expensive, another option is "senior apartments," which are often subsidized by HUD for lower income seniors. You can locate these through your

Can you go over the different at hud.gov – click on "Find Rental Assistance."

> Assisted living: If your mom needs some help with daily living activities, an "assisted living facility" is another option. These facilities provide personal care (like bathing, dressing, eating, going to the bathroom) as needed, as well as meals, housekeeping, transportation, social activities and medication management. Many facilities also offer special care units for residents with dementia. Costs typically run between $2,000 to $5,000 or more per month. Most resident's pay for assisted living from personal funds, and some have long-term care insurance policies. But, some states now have voucher plans that let you use Medicaid money.

Another similar, but less expensive option to look into is "board and care homes." These offer many of the same services as assisted living facilities but in a much smaller home setting. Your Area Aging Agency is again a good resource for finding these facilities, as are the previously listed senior housing locater websites. And for help choosing a facility, the Assisted Living Federation of America offers an excellent guide at alfa.org/ checklist.

Nursing homes: If your mom needs ongoing medical and personal care, a "nursing home," which provides 24-hour skilled nursing care, is the next option. To find a good one, use Medicare's nursing home compare tool at medicare.gov/local housing authority or online nursinghomecompare. But be very expensive, costing anywhere between $4,500 and $11,000 per month depending on location. Most residents pay from either personal funds, a long-term care insurance policy, or through Medicaid after their savings are depleted.

Continuing-care retirement communities (CCRC's): If your mom has the financial resources, a "CCRC" is another excellent option that provides all levels of housing (independent living, assisted living and skilled nursing home care) in one convenient location. But, these communities typically require a hefty entrance fee that can range from $20,000 to $500,000 or more, plus ongoing monthly service fees that vary from around $1,000 to over $5,000. For more information see carf.org/aging.

Need Help?

Consider hiring an aging life care expert (aginglifecare.org) who can evaluate your mom's situation, and find appropriate housing for a fee - usually between $300 and $800. Or, you can use a senior-care advising service like A Place for Mom (aplaceformom.com, 866-344-8005) for free. (They get paid from the senior living facilities in their network.)

Some other helpful resources include the National Clearinghouse for Long-Term Care Information (longtermcare.gov), and your State Health Insurance Assistance Program (shiptalk.org), which provides free counseling.

Send your senior questions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit www.savvysenior.org. Jim Miller is a contributor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- A stark contrast between obsolete technology and urgent wildlife care will bring the nonprofit Wildlife Care Association, SMUD, the Sacramento Tree Foundation, Southside Rental Equipment, and volunteers from the community to the former radar dome on the west side of McClellan Park. The old technology "palace" now houses the non-profit Wildlife Care Association, providing intake, care, and release for displaced or injured wildlife in the Sacramento region.

All types of injured birds and animals are sent to the volunteers at Wildlife Care Association, where they are cared for and released back to the environment. Photo

To provide shade, native habitat, a windbreak, an on-site outdoor natural education area, and improve the public appeal of the old tech facility, 21 trees will be planted as part of the longterm change at the two-acre site. A program of SMUD and the Sacramento Tree Foundation, the drought-tolerant native trees offer a natural way to soften the harsh former-USAF facility to meet its current need in providing the essential and unique resource for the region's wildlife. "Gray" or recycled washing machine rinse water will be used to help establish the trees after planting.

In this region, everything from hummingbirds to coyotes are sent to the volunteers at Wildlife Care Association, where they are cared for and released back to the environment. Volunteers are always needed, as 98% of the effort comes from caring volunteers, and 88 cents of every dollar donated goes to wildlife recovery and release.

The tree planting event will be held on Saturday, June 13th from 7:30 a.m. to noon at 5211 Patrol Road, on the west side of McClellan Park off Winters and

On the Streets

An Uncertain Future for Area's Homeless

May, a homeless woman who stays near Loaves and Fishes for daily access to their services, spends her afternoons sitting on the curb of North 14th Street with dozens of others who jump at the opportunity for a bottle of water or a free meal.

Story and photos by John-Michael Kibrick

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- Sheriff's Deputy Paul Pace begins his day calmly, climbing into his cruiser and reviewing his to-do list. His last two years assigned specifically to answering complaints about homeless campers and panhandlers have been a welcome change after a long career policing prostitution and narcotics.

Throughout the years, Pace has handled the emotional stress of his job the same way. "It's just business; it's not personal," he said before leading this journalist on a ride-along. "At some point, you have to have a disconnect and go into cop mode."

But policing the homeless isn't as black and white as handling homicide or drug abuse. Although the county passed ordinances against aggressive panhandling and sleeping outdoors, being homeless is not a crime in and of itself.

A New Approach

Public debate has been raging on the issue for years and dozens of activists are present weekly at Sacramento City Council meetings. They berate the government's homeless policies and call for a long-term solution. Opinions on how to reduce Sacramento's chronic homelessness are as varied as the people giving them, but public pressure and data showing the heavy financial burden of the status quo seems to be having an effect.

In the last months of 2014, Sacramento County named Eduardo Ameneyro as Department of Human Assistance Division Manager, a new position working specifically on the homeless issue. Sacramento City also created a new job to work opposite Ameneyro, naming Emily Halcon as Homeless Services Coordinator. The appointments indicate that officials are approaching homelessness with more energy and resources than ever before.

11 The idea is that it's easier to treat somebody's issues if they're in housing than it is if they're on the street. It's cheaper and more effective." SSF External Affairs Director Maya Wallace

The moral line is also blurred: The general public sees the plight of some to be legitimate but voice frustration over others with drug abuse problems and those who remain on the streets due to choice, not necessity. Officer Pace estimates that 80% of regular panhandlers in his north Sacramento beat have homes, vehicles, and collect social security, facts not reflected by their signs claiming hunger and homelessness.

Pace and his fellow officers refer to one such panhandler as "Santa Claus," thanks to his long white beard. Who would guess that Santa owns a house in Antelope, drives a Cadillac, and uses the money he makes on the street to go gambling? Apparently Santa is immune from his own naughty-or-nice list.

Halcon and Ameneyro work in close collaboration with Sacramento Steps Forward (SSF), an umbrella organization intended to coordinate and unify the efforts of a multitude of non-governmental organizations (NGOs) and other homeless service providers in the region. In just a few months of work, a vision of unified services and a new strategy is starting to emerge.

"The dialogue in our region is now starting to move towards this 'housing first' dialogue that you see in other parts of the state and the country," said SSF External Affairs Director Maya Wallace. "The idea is that it's easier to treat somebody's issues if they're in housing than it is if they're on the street. It's cheaper and more effective."

"The city is fully on board with housing first," said Halcon. "All of the city's services, at this point, are directed toward programs that meet housing first initiatives."

From the county's perspective, Ameneyro said, "The overall target is to go the same way. The challenge is to find the affordable housing that goes with it."

Even the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development is supporting housing first, and the inter-organizational agreement to follow this path suggests true cohesion and consensus on a difficult issue. But other factors, including the sheer complexity of the also says that finding affordable housing is difficult due to "land use policy at the city and the county level." Ameneyro cited limited federal funds as a severe barrier to affordable housing for

The Best Brings Out the Worst

Meanwhile, the shortcomings of even the best-intentioned programs can be seen and felt on the streets surrounding Loaves and Fishes, one of Sacramento's best-known and most-successful providers of basic survival

One 50-year-old man who wished only to be identified as Chris, spends most of his time on the streets near Loaves and Fishes or in Friendship Park, a private facility also run by Sister Libby. But on a hot afternoon on the corner of North C Street and Ahern Street, Chris said that he had chosen to be homeless.

Another man sucked on a marijuana pipe and yelled at his canine companion as he sat next to Chris services, functioning entirely on on the sidewalk pavement. Chris's but she will be there to keep them going until they are. The NGO leader admitted that there have been many instances of violence within the homeless community in the area—Chris was involved in a fight in Friendship Park and a friend of his was recently killed. Officer Pace also said he receives frequent reports from been robbed or attacked by others living in the streets. "A lot of what happens to the homeless goes unreported," said Pace. However, SSF has begun one initiative designed to make Pace's job a little bit easier by marrying his policing duties with a moral approach. The deputy is now paired with a trained "navigator" who emerged from homelessness himself and acts as a counselor and advisor when they encounter vulnerable individuals. Pace knows the law and his companion knows how and where to get individuals into the proper services.

Joining cops with trained social workers has proved to be a powerful and effective tool in other areas of local law enforcement, but only time will tell how many of Sacramento's homeless can be convinced to enter programs after years of suspicion and disappointment when dealing with the authorities.

Nowhere to Go

Halcon insists that a new approach is taking hold that will mark the turning of the tide for those on the streets. "Sacramento is on the cusp," she said. "We want to do something that's more purposeful and linked to real outcomes."

Indeed, SSF is in the midst of collecting and analyzing data on the homeless that could provide new ideas and improved results. However, with increased insight could also come increased moral debate. Who deserves to be helped and why? How should the public view those who can't or won't be helped with government funds? Those are common questions that data may struggle to answer.

Ameneyro added that the county had set a goal of housing 300-400 families by the end of the current fiscal year, but according to the 2013 census of Sacramento's homeless, 2,538 total individuals were identified in emergency shelters or living in "places not meant for human habitation." A more liberal estimate from the Sacramento Regional Coalition to End Homelessness claims that 5,000-7,500 are out on the streets, and Ameneryo admitted that, "locating them (homeless individuals) right now is a little bit difficult." New numbers are expected this year after a census took place on January 28th, 2015.

Despite an apparent leap forward in addressing homelessness in Sacramento County, the region still faces an up-hill battle to solve one of its most expensive and contentious issues of the past decade. When asked where a homeless person can go or who they can call for help, SSF's Wallace replied, "There's no good answer to that right

Wallace claims that inefficiencies between Sacramento's organizations have stymied progress on providing the complete package of services that prevent and reduce homelessness. She private donations.

Wallace, Halcon, and Ameneyro all cited the organization run by Sister Libby Fernandez as a safe haven for Sacramento's homeless, but City Councilmember Jeff Harris estimated that some 300 homeless individuals now remain in the vicinity, dependent on the

"I don't need it but it's there and convenient, so I'm going to make use of it," he said. "Just because I get a free meal doesn't mean I'm leeching off of society." Sister Libby said that a "hand-

Lancers Well Represented Stacy Grabs Honors at Optimist Game

By Mike Bush

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Guy Anderson and Brandon Buck will represent Cordova High School baseball on Saturday, June 6th in the 44th annual Optimist High School Baseball All-Star Game.

Anderson, who served as the Lancers' head coach for 45 seasons, and Buck, a recent CHS graduate who started in the outfield this past season, are part of the South Small School Squad. Anderson is serving as head coach, and will be assisted by Rosemont's Bill Mattingly as they oversee the 22-player South roster. This is the fourth time Anderson has served as head coach for the all-star game.

"Quite an honor to have," Anderson said.

Buck had a 0.274 batting average for the Lancers this past season. In addition, he stole seven bases and three doubles. In the outfield, Buck registered a 0.974 fielding percentage in 27 games. Anderson said Buck is scheduled to start tomorrow's game in right field.

Anderson and Buck will be surrounded by players from the Sierra Valley Conference (SVC), which Cordova rejoined this past school year after being in the Capital Athletic League four years prior. Three players from SVC champion El Dorado, including conference MVP Nick Bonniksen, are on Anderson's

The hope is that this game will give players exposure to community college and fouryear college baseball programs. Over the years, Major League Baseball scouts have also been on hand at these games.

"This game is for the kids," Anderson said. "A chance to Sutter's Sara Stephenson was named the North's Outstanding Player.

Tiana Brown, who was one of Stacy's teammates on this year's Lady Lancers squad, which took second place in the Sierra Valley Conference (SVC), had a hit in the game for the South.

Joining Stacy and Brown were players from Rosemont, Galt, and Liberty Ranch. There were also players from Capital Christian. Dixon, Golden Sierra, Sacramento High, West Campus, and Winters. ★ finals on May 29th and was clocked at 49.25 seconds for seventh place. The top three finishers advance to the California Interscholastic Federation State Track and Field Championships at Veterans Memorial Stadium at Buchanan High School of Clovis. In the trials of the Masters the day before, Jones was seventh at 49.59.

Elk Grove High School. Recent CHS graduate D'Mitre Jones raced in the 400 meter

Cordova's Marissa Smith turns the corner in the girls 400 meter race at last week's Masters track and field championships.

Currying Favor for a Front-Row Seat

attractive family members in the very first row. What a welldeserving group. Good for them.

With a break in the action after disposing of the Houston Rockets and waiting for the NBA Finals to begin this week, the league's MVP took in a Giants' game Friday night at AT&T Park. Welcome to the owners' seats.

Golden State Warriors superstar sharp-shooter Steph Curry, his wife, Ayesha, and his parents, Dell and Sonya, were right up front all decked out in a bunch of brand new Giants garb. (Hey! Where was the kid, 2-year-old daughter Riley, who has been stealing the show at all those post-victory press conferences lately? Was general manager Bob Myers babysitting again?).

Giants superstar and an MVP himself, Buster Posey, greeted the Curry clan with a firstinning, two-run homer that propelled the Giants to their sixth straight win at home, a 4-2 win over the Atlanta Braves that moved them into first place in the West for the time being. Buster will likely be following in Hunter Pence's footsteps, having earned himself a shot at some courtside Warriors playoff seats with that timely blast.

Wouldn't you just love to have seats like those sometime? Courtside. For the NBA Finals. Watching mega-star LeBron James and his galloping Cleveland Cavaliers going at it against your high-flying Warriors for the title. Or front-row for the Giants in their next World Series run.

What does a life-long, loyal

The "baby-faced assassin" fan gotta do to get himself into slide into the prime spots are looked so handsome and happy one of those precious seats? not true fans, but just a bunch of sitting there with his proud, Sorry to have to break the schmucks who buy their way in. news --- as if you didn't know already --- but you just need to be independently wealthy, or a superstar of some kind. That's all.

Are the Currys front-runner fans? Steph and his fellow "Dubs" have been tabbed as the front-runners to win the NBA title, but the team's fearless leader has admitted he is actually a Boston Red Sox baseball fan (ugh!) and a Carolina Panthers football fan (other than the fact that Charlotte was his old stomping grounds, why?). He says that he is also a fan of both the Giants and the Oakland Athletics, who happen to play their home games just yards from where Curry stars at Oracle Arena.

So, why did he show up at AT&T instead of the Coliseum? Apparently, the Giants rolled out the red carpet first. And, who would you rather have your group photo taken with, Willie Mays, or Shooty Babitt? Some factions within A's Nation got their feelings hurt. But the other Splash Brother, Klay Thompson, eased the suffering when he showed up for the A's-Yankees game the next night --- sitting somewhere around the ninth or tenth row. Where was his best friend, Rocco? While GM Billy Beane was dog-sitting, he traded Klay's sidekick to a Dawg Pound in Cleveland for a player to be named later.

Now, who is going to be occupying the coveted courtside chairs at Oracle for these NBA finals? For the most part, with the exceptions of Jack Nicholson, Billy Crystal and Magic Johnson, the people that

Thank A Veteran Today

We'll probably see some guy who made a bunch of lousy records that inexplicably sold several million copies.

There will be another guy who makes his living punching guys in the face for big bucks. There will be some unethical billionaire entrepreneurs that have sold their souls to the devil. You know, the usual undeserving suspects.

There are many thousands of "real" fans out there that have followed sports and their beloved local teams for years upon years and that are very great at whatever they might do, and who are much more deserving (if only they had a few grand to throw down for a basketball game):

"I've been a mailman for, like, forever, and even your junk mail got delivered through rain or sleet or snow."

"I'm a waitress, and none of my customers ever got a fly in their soup." "I'm an auto mechanic, and I've never charged anybody for anything they didn't really need."

"I'm a milkman, and I've never cried about it and never spilled a drop." "I'm a window washer, and

I've never missed a spot." "I'm a fast-food worker who has never, ever forgotten to ask, 'Do you want fries with that?""

But, alas, even though being there in the first row just one time might make a sports-world life complete for the vast majority of dedicated fans, we must face the harsh, unfortunate realities of the modern sports dynamic and settle in to watch it all unfold on the trusty tube.  $\star$

The Best 25-Man Roster of Players Age 35 and Older

ast week, I selected the best 25-man roster of 25-and-under players. Now it's only appropriate to give equal time to the graybeards. Players who qualify for this team were age 35 or older as of Opening Day.

Lineup

C A.J. Pierzynski, Atlanta

Manager Fredi Gonzalez was able to pick advantageous spots for Pierzynski in April and the catcher responded with a .422 average. He's batting just .131 in May.

1B Albert Pujols, Los Angeles Angels

Pujols is a faint shadow of what he was in St. Louis, but he's still an intimidating presence in the batter's box.

2B Chase Utley, Philadelphia

Not a tough choice when the only competition is Dan Uggla.

3B Adrian Beltre, Texas

Now in his 18th season, Beltre had started every game for the Rangers this season until his recent thumb injury.

SS Jimmy Rollins, Los Angeles Dodgers

The veteran shortstop has the lowest slash line (.210/.278/.352) of his career, but there's something to be said for being the shortstop on a first-place team.

LF Matt Holliday, St. Louis

Holliday recently set a National League record by reaching base safely in the first 43 games to start this season. And he's batting .444 with runners in scoring position.

CF Torii Hunter, Minnesota

The athletic Hunter is named on this squad for the fourth consecutive year, and must now patrol center field for the old guys. Prior to his 35th birthday, he was a .275 hitter. From 2012-15, he's batting .299.

RF David DeJesus, Tampa Bay

14. Rays

15. Braves

The spry outfielder is carrying the highest batting average (.328) on this team.

DH Alex Rodriguez, New York Yankees

I'm not sure which is most surprising: that A-Rod has played in 46 games, that he has caused zero distractions, or that he's carrying a .922 OPS.

Bench

C David Ross, Chicago Cubs

The veteran backstop doesn't get regular playing time this season, but his presence has been invaluable for the young Cubbies.

OF Ichiro Suzuki, Miami

Ichiro is getting on base at a .344 clip and is the only 35-plus player with as many as 40 plate appearances who has seen time in center field this season.

1B Ryan Howard, Philadelphia

Howard and Pujols are both batting .250 with 10 homers, so Howard would see some time at first base.

1B/OF Michael Cuddyer, New York Mets

The reliable Cuddyer has batted .341 over his last 12 games.

UT Clint Barmes, San Diego

The infielder hasn't played regularly since 2012 and has just 13 starts this season. But this old team needs a backup infielder.

Rotation

John Lackey, St. Louis

The hero of the 2002 World Series is having his best season since 2007.

A.J. Burnett, Pittsburgh

The Pirates have won six of his 10 starts and scored just five runs total in the four losses.

Chris Young, Kansas City

The Princeton product was the AL Comeback Player of the Year last year with Seattle. He joined the Royals' rotation in May and is 4-1 with a 1.55 ERA and 0.861 WHIP.

Aaron Harang, Philadelphia

The big righthander has made 10 starts with a 1.93 ERA, but the Phillies have won only half of them.

Mark Buehrle, Toronto

The lefthander just keeps on producing. He's coming off 14 straight seasons with 200-plus innings and is 6-4 after 10 starts this season.

Bartolo Colon, New York Mets

The 42-year old would be the ace of a 40-plus team. He's 7-3 in 10 starts with 52 strikeouts and only five walks.

Bullpen

CL Koji Uehara, Boston

The right-handed closer came to the U.S. at age 33. During his time in the States, Uehara has 430 punchouts and just 257 hits allowed with 50 walks.

RH Joaquin Benoit, San Diego

Now in his second season in San Diego, Benoit has appeared in 39 closing situations and posted 24 holds, 12 saves and blown three as a Padre.

RH Brad Ziegler, Arizona

In 43 plate appearances this season, righthanded batters are hitting just .146 with a .186 OBP and .171 slugging percentage. That's a .357 OPS.

LH Javier Lopez, San Francisco

During his career, this lefty specialist has held esteemed hitters Chase Utley, Carlos Gonzalez, Andre Ethier, Ryan Howard, Adrian Gonzalez, Freddie Freeman and Todd Helton to a .132 batting average.

LH Matt Thornton, Washington

Thornton has nine holds in nine opportunities this season and has allowed just one of 15 inherited runners to score.

.245 team batting average drops to .217 from seventh inning on.

AROUND THE HORN

Poor Jon Lester. As well as the lefthander has pitched for the Chicago Cubs this season, there is increasing attention given his work with the bat. Well, actually, it's his lack of work with the bat that's the issue. Lester has gone to the plate (presumably with a bat in his hands) 66 times in his career. He has yet to crack the hit column; no wounded duck, not a single bleeder, not even one ground ball with eyes. But there was that big game back in 2010 at AT&T Park against the Giants. That's the game when Lester hit a sacrifice fly and received the only walk of his career. Both in the same game, imagine that. And the beauty is that this player without a single hit in the majors owns a game-winning RBI. With the score tied, Lester faced the Giants' Tim Lincecum with the bases loaded and one out. Lester launched a (towering, I'm sure) fly ball to right center and drove home the go-ahead run. Later, San Francisco relief pitcher Guillermo Mota, evidently having seen Lester's earlier plate appearance, walked him with a runner on third and two outs. Since then, Lester's work at the plate has been pretty dismal. There have been seasons of greater futility than Lester's 66-plate appearance career though. Back in 1962 Bob Buhl, a pitcher for the Milwaukee Braves and Chicago Cubs was 0-for-70, which bested Bill Wight's performance for the Chicago White Sox in 1950 when he went hitless in 61 at-bats... Jason Kipnis of the Indians has been on the opposite of that spectrum. The second baseman enjoyed a torrid month of May batting .429 with a 1.217 OPS. Paul Goldschmidt of Arizona posted a .365 average and a .476 on-base percentage to go with his .750 slugging percentage for the month. And Bryce Harper of Washington continued to wow fans with a .360 average and 1.379 OPS...Speaking of Goldschmidt and Harper, both are chasing the National League triple crown. If they don't knock each other out of that accomplishment, it likely could be a Marlin who spoils their bids. Miami's Dee Gordon leads the batting race with a .377 average. Goldschmidt is second at .354 and Harper fourth at .325. Harper is the home run leader with 18, Goldschmidt and Giancarlo Stanton of Miami each has 15. Stanton has 44 RBIs. one ahead of both Harper and Goldschmidt. Nelson Cruz of Seattle is making his own triple crown run in the American League. He leads the circuit with 18 homers, trails Josh Donaldson by one RBI and is third with a .335 average.

NUMBERS GAME

.385/.385/.385

Last week, Dee Gordon of the Miami Marlins batted .385 with no walks and no extra-base hits, which yielded a redundant slash line.

TURN BACK THE CLOCK

June 5, 1989

The Toronto SkyDome, a modern marvel, opens in Toronto. The stadium features a $100 million fully retractable roof, the world's largest video board, a hotel and a Hard Rock Cafe. Oh, by the way, the Milwaukee Brewers spoil the opening with a 5-3 win over the Blue Jays.

TRIVIA CORNER

Alex Rodriguez continues to check off milestones each week, it seems. But there's another active player moving up significant lists as well. Can you name the only active player (other than Rodriguez) with 1,200 runs, 2,600 hits, 400 home runs, 500 doubles and 1,400 RBIs?
