City Optimistic About Economic Recovery

Rancho Cordova Presents Business Outlook and Economic Forecast

By Shaunna Boyd

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - On Friday, February 27th, the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce presented the Business Outlook and Economic Forecast. Speakers at the program were Dr. Jeffrey Michael, director of the Business Forecasting Center at the University of the Pacific, who presented a comprehensive perspective; Jack Robinson, editor of the Sacramento Business Journal, who offered a regional examination; Rancho Cordova City Manager Brian Nakamura, whose speech focused on City context; and Reuben Nazareno of Real Estate America, who presented the results of the business index and business confidence survey.

The good news is that California is in recovery: household debt burden is down, job growth is up, and interest rates are low. There has also been an increase in consumer spending.

In California, the tech industry is still going strong, especially in the Bay Area, but all areas of California are now contributing to the economic recovery. San Francisco has the fastest growth in the state, and while the Sacramento region is in the process of recovery, the region generally has not yet reached pre-recession rates.

Residential investment such as development and construction is down but is expected to grow in the next few years. However, business investment is up and its growth is expected to continue.

Employment rates are rising and some sectors with the most growth are professional and business services, healthcare, hospitality and leisure, state government, and construction. However, declining employment rates are projected in finance and insurance. Employment rates in California are expected to grow by 2.4% in 2015.

Rancho Cordova has some specific challenges such as the lack of a walkable downtown section that would attract businesses and thus encourage job growth in the area. There is a need for a magnetic anchor store to draw more retailers and consumers to the area. Another challenge for Rancho Cordova is the high tenant vacancy rate in retail spaces in the area.

However, there is a lot of good news for Rancho Cordova. The City has an excellent location within the region with good transit connections. Rancho Cordova also has an ambitious city government that uses city taxes to make important developments such as supporting the construction of an event center, which would attract new retailers

"Cork & Fork" Welcomes Patrick Prager as the Event's Guest Chef

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Patrick Prager has worked with some of California's most demanding chefs, leveraging his time with Wolfgang Puck, Traci Des Jardins, George Morrone, and Michael Mina into expertise in classic French technique as well as simple, seasonal California cuisine.

Asked about his approach,

Chef Patrick Prager has expertise in classic French technique as well as simple, seasonal California cuisine. Prager is a frequent guest at the farmers market and likes to buy local ingredients that he can use to create dishes with the farm-to-fork philosophy. You can experience Prager's culinary expertise by attending Rancho Cordova's premier event, "Cork & Fork," on Friday, March 13th from 6:30 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. at the Sacramento Marriott Rancho Cordova. Prager will be featured as the evening's Guest Chef. Photo courtesy of Patrick Prager

37-year-old Prager said, "You can take a simple idea and make it taste fantastic and look gorgeous. Here at Formaggio Taverna and Patio, we concentrate flavors, stay focused on the main ingredient, and don't overwork the dishes."

Prager is a frequent guest at the farmers market located across the street from the Sacramento Marriott Rancho Cordova and likes to buy local ingredients that he can use to create dishes with the farm-to-fork philosophy. "We stay true to that philosophy and manage the line daily to ensure consistency," said Prager.

Prager also loves "the feel of the restaurant and everything that Formaggio Taverna and Patio can provide for business guest or families traveling on leisure."

Prager grew up in Alameda and took his first high school job at an ice cream shop where his love of the culinary arts began. In his early 20s, he signed on as a line cook at Wolfgang Puck's Postrio, learning the business from Chef David Lutz. He built on that basic education with stints at One Market, Aqua, Jardiniere, and various Michael Mina restaurants, working his way into chef and sous chef positions.

Prager has found a way to channel his management skills with a hands-on presence in the kitchen. "I'm a knife-wielding chef, expediting the food during lunch and dinner so that every plate comes out to the same

Fresh Digs at Rancho Cordova Cemetery

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Matthew Kilgore Cemetery is a revered landmark in Rancho Cordova that tells the story of Rancho Cordovans who came before us and also serves as a picturesque location for events.

Beginning in early March, the City of Rancho Cordova will breathe new life into the Cemetery located at 2897 Kilgore Road by building 322 new plots. Construction is expected to be completed in summer 2015.

Construction will take place Monday through Friday between the hours of 7 a.m. to 6 p.m. However, the Cemetery will remain open to visitors during construction.

The Cemetery is named after one of its original owners, Matthew Kilgore, who purchased the property in 1874 from James and Ann Locy. The City of Rancho Cordova assumed ownership in 2004 after years of upkeep by various individuals and organizations.

The City spent over $1 million to restore and improve the property, with the addition of a parking lot and a niche wall for cremated remains. Soon after, the County Historical Cemetery Association designated Matthew Kilgore Cemetery as a historical cemetery.

“I remember the New Orleans jazz-style funeral procession we held to celebrate the grand re-opening of the Matthew Kilgore Cemetery in 2007,” said Mayor Robert J. McGarvey. “The event was fun and exciting but, more importantly, it gave the cemetery the respect that it deserves. We want to continue getting fresh ideas to showcase the Cemetery to ensure our City’s history will be remembered.”

The Cemetery has been the location of the 10th Anniversary time capsule burial scheduled to be opened in 2053, historical re-enactment events hosted by the Rancho Cordova Historical Society, and Plein Air art events hosted by Rancho Cordova Arts.

“The Kilgore Cemetery is an authentic location with a lot of history, and it’s our history,” said Victoria Smith, Rancho Cordova Arts member. “The Plein Air 2014 event held at the Cemetery was a pretty magical day. The painting I did was of one of Rancho Cordova’s founding family members Mrs. Yost’s tombstone and a living history model who portrays her standing nearby.”

To budget for future improvements, the City has started selling niche wall spaces at the Cemetery. For more information, contact City Clerk Mindy Cuppy at (916) 851-8721.

When you doubt, you’ve stopped trusting the power that created the Universe. Such a silly thing to do when it’s put that way, don’t you think? If you plugged a lamp into the socket, and the light didn’t go on, you’d figure the bulb was burned out or you hadn’t paid the electric bill. In other words it would be something on your end that caused the light not to work. You would never doubt that the power of electricity was no longer effective.

So when you doubt yourself or have doubts about some event or other person, the problem is on your end, because the power that created the Universe has your back and there is nothing to worry about. So how do you fix your end of this deal? I’ve come up with 5 ways to get rid of doubt so you can stay hooked into the joyful source of your life and see the truth that all is well.

1. Put yourself first

The most important thing to do when you feel doubt is think something that makes you feel good. Sometimes it helps to go outside to summon happy thoughts or read spiritual material that fills you with positive energy, or look through a travel magazine and focus on a dream vacation.

2. Stay alert to your mood

When you get used to rehearsing a problem you can get into

Pam Young’s Corner

5 Ways to Get Rid of Doubt

the habit of negative thinking. When you decide to focus on feeling good, then it’s important to monitor your thoughts carefully. It gets easy to do with practice and it’s quite fun. When a negative doubt comes in you’ll be able to say, “Oops, you can’t come in”.

3. Don’t pick up what you went to bed with

When you sleep, your mind gets to defrag and you actually wake up positive. If you’re not careful though, if you went to sleep worrying those worries will emerge.

If you have good thoughts ready to start thinking that make you feel good, instead of thinking, ‘What was I worried about yesterday? Oh yeah, I’m sad because Calvin left me,’ you’ll just pick up the yesterday’s doubt like a garbage man picks up garbage.

4. Play and do something you love

When you’re working through a negative situation (we have to have them and I’ll talk about that in a minute) be selfish about doing what you love. Sing, play with your cat, call a friend, get a massage, read your favorite book, watch an uplifting movie are some ideas.

5. Put your doubt on your dog

Our animals know when we’re not happy and they can absorb our negative energy and magically neutralize it. There’s a whole new field (thank God) in which animals are trained as therapy animals. Dogs are the best transformers, but then I’m a dog lover. I suppose horses are too, but I’ve not met a therapy horse. Tell your dog the whole problem and then get busy thinking happy thoughts and doing happy things.

Why do we have to go through negative stuff?

Now I want to talk about going through negative times. I think deep down inside our psyches we need and actually enjoy contrasts. If we were never sick we wouldn’t love feeling good. If we didn’t get tired, we wouldn’t enjoy being rested as much. If we didn’t get hungry we wouldn’t enjoy our meals. If someone said to you right after you ate a nice dinner, “You wanna go out and have dinner at your favorite restaurant?” You wouldn’t want to. It wouldn’t even sound good to you.

So if you’re going through a time that’s less than happy, first and foremost, know it’s temporary and then make your priority be to feel good no matter what.

What do you think? It has always been important to me to listen to what others think, believe, want, etc. With that in mind, I said at our retreat in January that I wanted to have open public meetings to hear what the people believe can/should/could be done with the Measure H income tax revenue. It was great listening to the people who came to the first two town hall meetings at Cordova Villa Elementary School and White Rock Elementary School. By the time this column is printed, there will have been two more town hall meetings: one at Cordova Meadows Elementary School and the other at Cordova Gardens Elementary School. There will also have been an opportunity for businesses to share their thoughts at the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce Breakfast at Casa Ramos on White Rock Road. Listening is much more logical than trying to tell the voters and businesses that their hired public servants have all the answers. None of us believe that.

From the Mayor’s Corner

Measure H

There are so many ways to spend money, but too many times, the best ideas are not heard or shared. To hear the ideas of voters and businesses, it is much simpler to go to the neighborhoods of the citizens at their local schools. It offers an opportunity for those who don’t have transportation to attend public meetings to talk and to listen to what many people think their money should be spent on. Getting great ideas from the people to solve problems makes much more sense that not listening and perhaps having ideas that continue to fail.

Thomas A. Edison said, “I have not failed. I have just found 10,000 ways that won’t work.” Granted, you would learn if you go that way, but I think that getting together will give us a much better chance of using the Measure H sales tax revenue without having to “find 10,000 ways that don’t work.” We have learned and added meetings that will help, inform, and educate the general public, businesses, and organizations. Those changes are available on our city’s website (www.cityof-rancho-cordova.org) and in the Grapevine Independent.

The 1/2 cent sales tax that was approved by the citizens of Rancho Cordova will allow us to make some improvements that many people have been waiting on for quite a few years.

It will also give us a backup revenue source as we continue to make payments to Sacramento County for Revenue Neutrality Taxes (taxes that are owed for becoming an incorporated City). That is important for our future too. Not everyone agrees, of course, with everything the City has done, nor do they agree with everything I have said and done. But, to me, I find myself fitting into what Augusten Burroughs said, “I myself am made entirely of flaws, stitched together with good intentions.”

And to close, you never have time to do everything. “Life is what happens while you’re making other plans,” like John Lennon said. Time with my family was more important than completing last week’s column, and that is why it was missing. My wife’s father died on February 17th after living over 95 years. Our younger daughter said, “Now he is dancing with Grandma.” If you are as fortunate as we were, you learn that you have many wonderful family members and some great friends. Thank you all for everything you said and did. We appreciate the support we received, and that has helped us move forward.

By Ronnie McBrayer

Marvin had spent more than two weeks in the hospital trying to clear up a clogged lung. When the final test results arrived, he had more than respiratory issues. He had cancer. Marvin wasn't surprised. I visited him as he recovered from the minor surgery that placed a plastic tube into his chest. This tube will deliver the cancer-killing chemicals to his malignant lung. And while the treatments will not cure Marvin, these will give him a few more months.

"Look here preacher," he greeted me holding the end of his newly inserted chemo-line. "They can plug me right into the cappuccino machine now!" We had a great laugh, spoke of lattes, espresso, and how decaffeinated coffee was a waste of otherwise good water. "Let me tell you a story," Marvin said. So I pulled up a chair. On previous visits, Marvin had begun to weave the tapestry of his life for me. He had recounted a number of very bad decisions. He spoke of terrible mistakes. And he shared regrets over a life of addiction and squander.

"I was hung over one Sunday morning when my friends came to get me to help them find a lost canoe in the river. We went down to the river, and like fools, plunged in without a thought. It wasn't long until they were all asleep on the bank, exhausted. But I kept looking for that canoe.

"By myself in the river I got caught in a vortex, and it sucked me under the water. I fought for what seemed like an hour, but I know now it was only for a few minutes. I could see daylight, but couldn't reach it. I knew I was going to drown. It was then God spoke to me: 'Son, go on down,' He said. But I kept fighting. He spoke again, 'Son, go on down.'

"Finally, with water filling my lungs I gave up and let the vortex suck me down into the river. I popped right out on the surface and just feet from the bank and lived to fight another day." Marvin then fell silent for a long time. When he broke the silence he said, "I guess it's true. God looks out for fools and drunks; because I've been both of those."

Marvin will not be cured, but he sure is getting well. He's healing. There is a difference between the two. A cure is a quick fix, an alleviation of suffering, an elimination of symptoms. A cure will help the body and might add days to life. But getting well, healing, being made whole – this is something different altogether. Getting well may not help the body, but it can restore the soul. And Marvin, he is getting well.

I love the New Testament story where Jesus encountered a man not unlike Marvin. The man had been an invalid for nearly forty years. Jesus asked him one question: "Do you want to get well?" The man immediately began speaking of his powerlessness, his useless body, his lack of assistance with his disease and with a cure.

Jesus ignored these protests and told the man to rise and walk. He was cured, but as the story unfolds, he was also made well. He leaves the pages of the New Testament testifying to the transformation that had overtaken him; a transformation that reached far beyond the physical.

My buddy Marvin left the recovery room testifying himself, about a restored faith in people, in himself, and in his God. I refused to entertain the notion that he was "terminal." At that moment, with a new diagnosis of cancer and difficult days of treatment ahead, he was very much alive and well.

I hope I get a few more visits with Marvin before his Ultimate Healing. I want to hear more of his stories. I want to learn, once again, of the relentless pursuit of God's grace. And I want to scrape together the clues of how we can all be healed. "God looks out for fools and drunks." Amen, Marvin. He sure does.

City Is Optimistic About Recovery

and boost the local economy. The City is adapting and changing to respond to the current economic challenges. Property taxes and sales tax in the City are used to create more opportunities for residents. The City’s “Fresh Take” campaign is all about creating infinite opportunities within the City.

“The City of Rancho Cordova’s economy is one of the strongest in the Sacramento region, and the City’s new Fresh Take approach essentially opens the door for retaining, expanding, and attracting retail, commercial, and industrial opportunities that continue to improve our quality of life, further highlighting Rancho Cordova as a great place to live, work, educate, and recreate,” said Rancho Cordova City Manager Brian Nakamura.

The presentation of the Rancho Cordova Economic Index showed extremely optimistic trends for the City. The Economic Index measures the performance of the local economy based on five components (sales tax, transient occupancy tax, building permits, employment, and housing). The Index used 2007 as the base year and compared those pre-recession rates to rates during the recession and to current rates. According to the Index, Rancho Cordova is currently 9.1% above pre-recession levels thanks to strong recovery in all components. Sales tax has fully recovered with a 49.6% increase above 2007 rates. Transient occupancy tax (hotel bed tax) is currently the most recovered component at 80.4% above 2007 rates. The total dollar value of building permits is the most volatile component as it is still down 56% from 2007. Employment, however, is nearing full recovery; current rates show the City is just 1.4% away from reaching pre-recession levels. Housing prices are still 26.8% away from full recovery but are on a strong upward trend.

Diann Rogers of the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce said, “We’re not 100% recovered from the recession, but we’re heading in the right direction. We’re excited about the opportunity and where we can go. It will take collaboration from the business community, the Chamber, and the public sector. It’s a collaborative effort. No one does it on their own.”

Engineering and Environmental Work Underway on Connector Segment

Joint Powers Authority Board Approves Contract With Dokken Engineering

The 35-mile Connector will connect Interstate 5 south of Elk Grove to Highway 50 at the new Silva Valley Parkway interchange just east of El Dorado Hills. “The Connector will provide a safe travel option to Highway 50 while relieving congestion along that crowded corridor,” said Rick Liptak, Dokken Engineering president. Image courtesy of Endicott Communications

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The Capital SouthEast Connector Joint Powers Authority (JPA) has approved a $1.4 million contract with Dokken Engineering for preliminary engineering and environmental documentation for the 5.5-mile segment on White Rock Road from Prairie City Road in Folsom to Latrobe Road in El Dorado Hills.

The 35-mile Connector will connect Interstate 5 south of Elk Grove to Highway 50 at the new Silva Valley Parkway interchange just east of El Dorado Hills.

“The Connector will provide a safe travel option to Highway 50 while relieving congestion along that crowded corridor, and we’re excited about playing a direct role in moving the project forward,” said Rick Liptak, Dokken Engineering president.

Barring unforeseen delays, the preliminary engineering and environmental review work is expected to be completed by the end of 2015, after which final design, right-of-way acquisition, and construction can begin when additional funding is secured. This could occur as early as 2018.

“This contract is an important step for the project as it will enable us to put any available funding to work quickly once the initial alignment and right-of-way is set,” said Tom Zlotkowski, JPA executive director.

The total estimated cost to design and construct the segment, which connects with a recently improved two-mile segment to the west on White Rock Road between Prairie City Road and Grant Line Road, is $54.5 million. In addition to revenues from the Sacramento County Measure A transportation sales-tax program, funding is expected to come from a combination of state and local sources.

The Connector’s overall first phase, envisioned to be completed between 2018 and 2023, will include construction of a Connector “backbone” over the 35-mile alignment that includes four continuous lanes; expanded at-grade intersections; a separated path for pedestrians, bicyclists, and equestrians; and right-of-way preservation for the project’s full build out.

The project’s second phase includes interchanges and additional high occupancy vehicle (HOV) lanes, or car-pool lanes, as needed in some segments and would be completed as demand necessitates and additional funding is made available.

Construction of the Connector is expected to create more than 5,400 new full-time jobs and generate $310 million in new labor income, $831 million in new regional economic output, and more than $23 million in new indirect business tax revenue. Over 20 years, the Connector is expected to create more than 25,000 total new direct and indirect jobs and generate $2.5 billion in new economic output and $182 million in new indirect business tax revenue.

Celebrate St. Patrick’s Day With Free Outings at Deer Creek Hills

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - To celebrate St. Patrick’s Day, the Sacramento Valley Conservancy (SVC) is hosting three “Green For No Green” outings on Saturday, March 14th at the Deer Creek Hills Preserve. All outings are free to attend; please register online at www.sacramentovalleyconservancy.org/calendar.asp. And while you’re there, don’t forget to keep an eye open for the lucky four-leaf clover!

Free Birding: Explore gently rolling green hills from 7:00 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. on a docent-led bird watching hike. Roam through Deer Creek Hills Preserve and take in the beautiful gifts of spring. Participants will witness the activity of the Lewis’s woodpecker; all ages are welcome to attend.

Free Hiking: Get into the Irish spirit and celebrate the color green with a hike through beautiful Deer Creek Hills Preserve from 9:00 a.m. to 1:00 p.m. Participants will experience the beauty of the Preserve as this free docent-led hike roams through the abundant greenery of the rolling hills.

Free Equestrian Ride: Get back in the saddle from 10:00 a.m. to 2:00 p.m. and explore more than 4,400 acres of cattle-made trails. You will be escorted through a working cattle ranch by SVC equestrian docents.

With your equine pal, look out over the Central Valley flat lands, Downtown Sacramento, Mt. Diablo, and Rancho Seco from the vantage point of the Sierra Foothills. You’ll be set back in time with the untouched beauty of the expanding blue oak woodlands.

Approximate ride time is two and a half hours. You will ride through open country over a variety of terrain, including water crossings and climbing and descending hills. Horses should be accustomed to riding in groups and in open fields. Most groups are from 10 to 20 people in size and travel at a walk. Participants must bring their own horse and be over 16 year old.

Directions to Deer Creek Hills Preserve from Sacramento: Take Hwy 50 to the Bradshaw exit, turn right (South) onto Bradshaw, turn left (East) onto Jackson Road (Hwy 16), continue East past Sloughhouse, and turn left (North) onto Latrobe Road. After you pass Scott Road, travel 1/8 of a mile to a severe right turn onto Stone House Road; do not make this turn, but travel straight onto a dirt road. The dirt road is Latrobe Road. Travel approximately one mile to Eagle Camp Corral where participants will gather and start the outing. When crossing Crevis Creek, it is highly recommended that you cross at the extreme left side of the road since this is the shallowest section of the creek.

The Sacramento Valley Conservancy (SVC) is celebrating over 24 years of protecting open space and accreditation by the Land Trust Alliance Accreditation Commission. The SVC is a private, non-profit land trust founded in

The SVC buys land only from willing sellers and works cooperatively with private landowners and public and private funding sources to create win-win solutions. upright and fillable position. She brought the pot and filled it.

“I always thought you liked watermelon, Steve,” Doc said. “I’ve eaten it with you, even.”

“That’s why it’s watermelon’s fault, Doc,” he said. “We love watermelon, and that lulls us into a false sense of security, and the first thing you know, we think other gourds are edible.”

“Other gourds?”

“Yeah ... squash!”

There was something in the way he spat out the word ... we knew, of course, that squash is one of the ugliest words in the English language, along with maim, hirsute and duodenum. Hey, we told Steve, who wants to eat something that sounds as if it’s been sat on?

“Makes you wonder just how severe Mr. Zucchini’s crime was to live on through the ages as an ugly squash,” Doc said.

“I think summer squash is not too bad,” Dud said. We looked at him. “But hey,” he said, “you have to have a lot of butter and cheese on it.”

“Why not just eat the butter and cheese? It’d taste better.”

“Yes it would, Doc. Yes it would.”

“And the worst part of it is,” Herb threw in, “there are farmers who grow squash deliberately!”

We bemoaned the imminent crash and burn of civilization as a result of this.

“Well,” Steve said, “to be fair, now, if you boil squash for a while and don’t let it get too close to your mouth, you can grease wagon wheels with it.”

“Nope,” said Dud, “you’re thinking of okra.”

Sacramento International Airport Named Among Top Five for Customer Service

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Repeating its success from three previous years, Sacramento International Airport has been ranked fourth in North America for customer service by Airports Council International (ACI), the international trade association for commercial airports.

The awards were determined by the cumulative results of Airport Service Quality (ASQ) surveys collected in 2014. ASQ Awards recognize the best airports based on passenger surveys and are the only global survey measuring passengers' satisfaction while still at the gate. All airports use the same questionnaire and follow the same scientifically designed methodology.

Sacramento International Airport won fourth place in the category of Best Airport by Region-North America. The region includes the United States and Canada.

Since their creation in 2006, the ASQ Awards have become the world's leading airport passenger satisfaction benchmark, with more than 280 airports participating.

Sacramento International Airport also took top honors in 2012 and 2013.

"An award like this is the result of teamwork," said John Wheat, Director of Airports for the Sacramento County Department of Airports. "Airport and airline employees, the TSA, vendors, and partners are to be congratulated for creating a culture of customer service."

Airports ranking ahead of Sacramento in the Best Airports by Region-North America category were Indianapolis (first), Tampa (second), and Jacksonville (third).

For more information on the ASQ awards, visit the ACI website at www.aci.aero/Airport-Service-Quality/ASQ-Awards/2013-Winners.

The Sacramento County Department of Airports is responsible for planning, developing, operating, and maintaining the county's four airports: Sacramento International Airport, Executive Airport, Mather Airport, and Franklin Field. The regional economic impact of the Sacramento County Airport System is more than $4 billion annually. For more information, visit www.smf.aero.

Are You Carrying Bricks In Your Backpack?

Procrastination! Ugh! What a word that is. But, we're all guilty of it - whether it's putting off laundry or doing your taxes - it's usually related to some task or chore we just don't want to do.

The same is true about making final arrangements. Who wants to think about, or talk about, death. And with so many more fun things to spend our money on, who wants to pay for it?

Well, just like taxes, death is something unavoidable, and when it's done - what a relief that is. You can then unload that brick from your backpack and have some peace of mind. If you still need motivation, consider these points:

- You get to arrange what you think is best and not expect family members to know your wishes
- You can know that once your pre-arrangements are made, your wishes will be carried out
- You get to relieve your family from that burden of planning your funeral when they are grieving
- You can minimize disputes between your well-meaning relatives
- You can set up affordable monthly payments so the financial burden does not fall to your surviving family members
- You will show your love in a way your family will never forget

We hope these tips are useful. Call us today for an appointment and let us help you unload some bricks from your backpack!

CORDOVA SPORTS

Cordova Boys Hoops Ousted in First Round

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In its Sac-Joaquin Section Division III home playoff opener on February 25th, the Cordova High School boys basketball team had many reasons to be confident. Winners of the Sierra Valley Conference title with a perfect 10-0 record, the Lancer earned the No. 4 seed. Plus, Cordova was riding a 15-game winning streak.

But No. 13 seed Rio Americano shocked the Lancers with a 59-58 win. In the first quarter, Rio Americano jumped out to a 20-10 lead.

Cordova recovered in the second quarter as it outscored the Raiders 17-11, which trimmed Rio Americano's lead to 31-27 at halftime.

Although Rio Americano led 48-46 entering the final quarter, Cordova held a five-point lead with five minutes left in the game. But decisions on moving the ball toward the end of the final quarter proved to be fatal for the Lancers.

"We didn't execute well," said Cordova head coach Fletcher Johnson of the final minutes of the game. "Not executing down the stretch."

Rio Americano made key baskets in the final minutes that sealed the Lancers' post-season early exit. "It was just one of those things where things didn't go our way," Johnson said. "A couple of bad shot selections."

Cordova guard Jordan Roberson (No. 23) splits past two Rio Americano players for the ball in last week's Sac-Joaquin Section Division III playoff home opener. Photo by Rick Sloan

Out of the 14 players on this year's squad, Johnson loses six seniors. This includes guard Jordan Roberson who averaged 31.8 points per game. He was named the SVC's co-MVP with Liberty Ranch's DeAndre Stallings.

Other key Lancers who will be lost to graduation this spring are guard JaQuan Lewis and center Christian Munoz, who averaged 11.1 and 11.6 points per game respectively. Key players expected to return next season—all guards—are Kyle Lorena, Joseph Gomez, and brothers Devin and Damion Baldwin.

"Overall an outstanding season," Johnson said.

Nill Understands Passion for Lancer Football Program

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Darren Nill is ready for his new role as the Cordova High School varsity football head coach.

Last season, Nill served as the Lancers' defensive coordinator. Before being named the new leader of the grid program, he helped devise defensive schemes for previous head coach Vance Mueller, who ran the program for the last three seasons. Mueller stepped down for personal reasons almost two months ago.

Cordova posted a 6-4 record last season, its first winning season in more than five years, and a 1-4 mark in the Sierra Valley Conference. The Lancers were one win shy of earning a Sac-Joaquin Section playoff berth.

The Lancers' 4-4 base defensive alignment and their spread offense that averaged 25.3 points per game will remain in place for the upcoming season, Nill said. "When we executed, we were one of the top defenses in the Sac-Joaquin Section last year," said Nill, whose Lancers held their non-league opponents to a touchdown last season. "We will be consistent in the type of defense we play."

New Cordova High School varsity football head coach Darren Nill is shown here during a game last season, where he served as defensive coordinator. Nill has started preparations for his coaches and players for the upcoming 2015 season. Photo courtesy of Darren Nill

An off-campus coach, Nill is planning to put in full-time hours in the Lancer football program. "I understand there is a lot of passion in the Rancho Cordova community about this football team," said Nill. "I want everyone to know that I welcome sitting down and talking to everyone about this program."

This includes meeting returning and upcoming players from last year's Lancer frosh/soph squad in preparing for the upcoming season. "I am in the process of scheduling one-on-one meetings with every player who wants to play football this season, or thinks they may want to play football," Nill said. "They are encouraged to bring a parent or guardian to the meeting. The purpose is to give all parties an opportunity to get to know each other better."

Off-season weight training has already started in preparation for the upcoming season, Nill noted. The Lancer players lift weights Monday through Thursday after school.

Before coming to Cordova with Mueller, Nill served as an assistant coach for Mueller on the Oak Ridge High School's freshmen football team, coaching the offensive lineman and linebackers.

Prior to coaching at Oak Ridge, Nill was the defensive coordinator and offensive line coach at Prospect High School in San Jose. He also coached defense and offensive line at Santa Clara High School.

Nill graduated from Peterson High School in Sunnyvale, where he played football all four years. He went on to graduate from UC Davis.

Kings on the Road and Road Warriors

The hardest part of the professional-sports lifestyle has got to be all the time spent on the road, flying around from city to city, waking up wondering "Where am I?"

All the days spent away from home and family and living out of suitcases has to be tough. It might be a whirlwind of excitement for awhile, especially for the younger players, but at some point it has to grow old and tiresome.

In the concentrated post-All-Star Game NBA schedule the traveling can cause some real problems, unless you are LeBron James — because they never call traveling on King James (Hello, Cleveland!).

The team sleep specialist will probably be kept quite busy during the Sacramento Kings' current nightmare road trip than began Tuesday in New York. The struggling Kings are faced with playing in eight cities in twelve days, including games on back-to-back nights three times. In one stretch they will have four games in five nights.

The team will cover over 9,300 miles through the trip that consists of stopovers in San Antonio, Orlando, Miami, Atlanta, Charlotte, Philadelphia and Washington. Jack Kerouac, Willie Nelson and Roger Miller would be proud.

It seems as though the boys would have no time at all to enjoy The Big Apple, the River Walk, Disney World, South Beach, the World of Coca Cola, Carowinds Amusement Park, Independence Hall or our nation's capital along the way.

Unfortunately, unlike the Harlem Globetrotters, these gypsies will not be winning every game, based on recent history. The Kings hit the road with a 20-37 overall record, 7-18 away from home — fifth-worst in the NBA.

It has been a rough, low road for quite some time for the Kings, now playing out the string of their ninth straight season missing the playoffs after having reached the postseason in eight straight years under coach Rick Adelman. (Why did they ever let him go anyway?). The hope is that recently-hired veteran coach George Karl, the third coach this season and ninth since Adelman left, will eventually turn things around. The two-time cancer survivor has led his teams into the playoffs 22 times over 25 seasons and is the sixth-winningest coach all-time with 1,133 victories (Adelman, now retired, is eighth at 1,042).

Down the freeway in Oakland, the Golden State Warriors are in the fast lane on the high road, battling day-to-day with the surprising Atlanta Hawks for the best record in the league. With four of five starters having five years or less in the league, the W's figure to be riding high for some time to come. This season will mark their third playoff appearance in a row, after making only one in the previous 18 seasons.

After completing a six-games-in-nine-days "roady" Monday, the Warriors were 46-12 overall, 22-10 on the road — second only to the Hawks — and a healthy 19-5 against the Eastern Conference after splitting the six games that took them to Indiana, Washington, Cleveland, Toronto, Boston and Brooklyn. That also finished off a stretch of 12-of-15 away from Oracle Arena.

It looked as though it was really wearing on the Warriors in the fifth game of the trip in Boston, as they fell behind by 26 points before rallying for the biggest comeback in the league this season behind Steph Curry's 37 points, 106-101.

Coach Steve Kerr spoke of "the importance of being poised" after that win. But poise and Curry would not be enough in the finale. After stealing one from the Celtics, the Warriors reached their hotel in Brooklyn after 3 a.m. the next morning for a game that night. Kerr knew it would be a test, but acknowledged that everybody has to play a difficult regular-season schedule. "That's just the way it is."

The Warriors were clearly off their usual game against the Nets, trailing by double-digits most of the game and were still down 10 points with less than four minutes left. The Nets may have been running out of gas, too, playing their first home game in 24 days, and squandered the lead as Curry scored 18 fourth-quarter points and the Warriors tied the game 108-108 with seconds remaining.

But former Warrior Jarrett Jack connected on the game-winner with 1.1 seconds left.

Coming up on Golden State's schedule later in March the Warriors host Washington before heading north to play Portland the next night, kicking off a period of seven of eight games on the road over fifteen days — that will make the one home visit feel like a road game. Brutal. The Kings still have future trips of four games in eight days and three games in five days. That record will not be looking too good by season's end.

But hard-working fans of the teams are not about to be lending any shoulders for NBA players to cry on, knowing that they are paid like superstars, treated like kings and granted first-rate accommodations everywhere they go.

This is all just to say that battling the rigors of the NBA schedule is a challenging path to navigate to reach the playoffs, and you can't win them all. It's all about preparing and positioning your team to be the one holding the hardware after a victory in the grand finale of the playoffs --- the second season.
