SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- With an overwhelming result nationwide on November 4th, most parts of the country sent notice to Washington that the status quo in leadership simply is not acceptable. The general populace is tired of the lousy economy (do your homework and research the real statistics), a crumbling infrastructure, failing policies, crushing new taxes, and the ongoing overreach of the Federal and State governments.

In the first few days after this election, it will seem like the politicians "heard us," but we must be diligent and not let them "herd us" any longer. It is well past the time for more real Americans to stand up and live and lead in their everyday lives. Not only by thought, but also by action. We could get far more done working with our neighbors if we could only get government out of our way.

Locally, one of the most contested races that is still undecided is the one between Congressman Ami Bera and former Congressman Doug Ose. The final results are due to be confirmed by this coming Saturday.

Doug Ose has a 3,011-vote margin over incumbent Ami Bera. The Sacramento County Registrar has stated there are approximately 90,000 county-wide ballots yet to be counted. Of those 90,000, it is estimated 70 percent are from California's 7th Congressional District.

The registrar will start counting those ballots Thursday, November 6th.

Let's hope that whichever candidate wins, he returns to Washington with the reverberating wave of the American public's opinion "bell" still ringing in his ears.

See election results inside this issue. Thank you for voting. Do good. ★

Supported by his wife Janine (left), Congressman Ami Bera delivers encouraging words for supporters at the Carmichael Elks Lodge. By mid-evening, the incumbent's early polling lead had diminished, and by morning, the election result remained too close to call.

Republican candidate Doug Ose was relaxed and in jovial company. Ose's campaign headquarters was located at Rudy's Hideaway Restaurant in Rancho Cordova. Supporters included Lynn, his wife of 26 years.

CHS Students Participate in the 2014 El Dorado Forestry Challenge

Eight students from Cordova High School recently participated in the 2014 El Dorado Forestry Challenge. GRIZZLY FLATS, CA (MPG) - Eight students from Cordova High School recently participated in the 2014 El Dorado Forestry

Challenge. A total of 64 high school students from 10 schools from the Sacramento area and central California participated in the event, which took place from October 22nd-25th at Leoni Meadows Camp near Grizzly Flats, CA.

One of the highlights for the students this year was the opportunity to advise the management at Leoni Meadows Camp on a grant proposal that will soon be submitted under the Fire Prevention Fee Grants Program administered by CalFire. After spending a day on the Leoni Meadows property collecting field data and interacting with natural resource professionals, students weighed in on which of many possible fuel reduction activities were most in line with the purpose of the grant program. During the challenge, teams of students also completed field training, followed by a field test, to assess their technical forestry knowledge and data collecting skills.

“I love bringing students up into the forest for this competition that emphasizes real-world applications, hands-on learning, and critical thinking skills. We are proud of our two teams,” said Cordova High School teacher Bret Harnden. Carmen Short, a senior at Cordova High School, summed it up, stating, “I had a great time learning new things outside and being able to say ‘I experienced the forestry challenge!’”

Project 680 Blitz Collects Needed Items for Homeless Students

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Using a “The 30 Day Blitz” theme, the Project 680 organization has been collecting much needed items for homeless students in the Folsom Cordova Unified School District. Needed items include new underwear, socks, hoodies, and personal items such as deodorant, conditioner, body wash, and umbrellas. The Project 680 organization is a grassroots volunteer group that finds ways to support local homeless students.

“The Blitz will end on Thursday, November 13th, just before Project 680’s annual shoe drive, which means homeless students who attend the shoe drive will get a care package with more than shoes,” said Lorianne Ulm, Management Technician for the City of Rancho Cordova.

For a detailed list of needed items and sizes, go to info@project680.org or call (916) 595-3735. Donations can be dropped off at Rancho Cordova City Hall, 2729 Prospect Park Drive.

“We can also accept checks and cash donations through Project 680’s non-profit 501c3 status,” said Ulm. “Checks should be made payable to Cordova Community Council with Project 680 in the memo line.”

A celebration of the Blitz will be held on the final day (November 13th) of the drive at City Hall from 5–8 p.m. The public is invited to drop by with donations and to mingle and help count and organize donations.

For more information, contact Ulm at (916) 851-8755.

There are moments in life when we think to ourselves that our timing is perfect. Strolling along the Sacramento State University campus early one morning heading to my office, I noticed fog had blanketed the area. It also seemed the fog was acting as a sound barrier and campus was eerily quiet. As I approached my destination, I realized that my timing was perfect. A short distance from me, a bright light was about to shine for all to see—the raising of our nation’s flag. The fog, miraculously, did not blanket this area!

Each school day, members of the Air Force or Army ROTC program practice the proper way to raise the flag under the guidance of a superior officer. Second Lieutenant Mark Ishizu, United States Air Force, is the admissions officer for the Air Force ROTC, Detachment 88, on the Sacramento State campus. Lieutenant Ishizu said, “there are many people who do not know about the history of our flag, and here, we also teach about the respect the flag deserves.”

I began to think more about the flag; how much do we really know about the flag of the United States of America?

On June 14, 1777, in order to establish an official flag for the new nation, the Continental Congress passed the first Flag Act. The U.S. flag is the fourth oldest national flag in the world

It Is a Grand Old Flag

(Denmark was first in 1219). The blue field on the U.S. flag is called the “union.” There are 50 stars on the flag that represent our 50 United States; there are 13 horizontal stripes, seven red alternating with 6 white. The stripes represent the original 13 colonies, and the colors of the flag are symbolic as well: red symbolizes hardiness and valor, white symbolizes purity and innocence, and blue represents vigilance, perseverance and justice. The actual name of the American flag is the Stars and Stripes.

Now I ask you, did Betsy Ross sew the first U.S. flag? There is much debate by historians about this. We probably will never know. We do, however, have a good idea about who originated its design. Credit for that achievement goes to Francis Hopkinson, a New Jersey representative to the Continental Congress and signer of the Declaration of Independence.

It was not until 1923, however, that a Flag Code was officially adopted. Although it is not an enforceable law, the code is the guide to flag protocol. The Flag Code answers questions regarding the flag, like how does a person properly destroy a flag? The Flag Code states: “always dispose of a worn flag properly, preferably by burning it.” To learn more about the Flag Code, you can go to www.americanflags.org.

The flag of the United States has at times been an emotional lightning rod when used by protesters to draw attention to their cause. The U.S. Supreme Court ruled in 1989 in Johnson vs. Texas that flag burning “constitutes a form of symbolic speech that is protected by the First Amendment.” Many Americans prefer to focus on our flag in more stirring and patriotic ways. We take pride in flying our flags; we take pride in watching as the flag takes center stage in our hometown parade.

We see images of our flag everywhere—in neighborhoods, public places, sporting events, and on t-shirts. Powerful images that contain our flag include photos of the three firemen in New York raising the flag at Ground Zero in 2001 and the 1980 United States Men’s Olympic Ice Hockey team standing on the victors’ platform as the flag was raised to the playing of our national anthem! The most iconic image of our flag, I believe, is its raising on Mount Sirabachi on Iwo Jima by U.S. Marines in World War II. Our flag is a Grand Old Flag! ★

Bob McGarvey

As I write this, today is Election Day. The last day of campaigning for this election is finally done and the people who vote will be able to start thinking about the holidays. At least we can watch TV without all the “vote no on yes” or “vote yes on no” that takes up so much time on the air. The Sacramento Bee headline said, “Voter turnout seen tumbling to new low.” The reasons why are guessed by many and some of the guesses may be right. But if there are fewer people casting ballots, the end result may not be what the majority wants or expects. We’ll have to wait until about midnight to find out. In 2012 here in Rancho, the election for an empty City Council seat was decided by eight votes. YOUR VOTE COUNTS!

Now, what about “tomorrow?” In the movies, a script tells what the end result will be, but in life we write our own script every day. The “Kung Fu Panda” movie had a wise turtle in it who said, “Yesterday is history, tomorrow is a mystery, today is a gift. That’s why we call it the ‘present’.” All of us set goals. When you are setting your goals, they may seem easy to reach but we usually find there are some obstacles that are unexpected and get in the way. There is a man named E. Joseph Cossman who made quite a bit of money in marketing. He said, “Obstacles are things a person sees when he takes his eyes off his goal.” Some of the people who are hoping to get hired (elected) have run into some obstacles they either didn’t want to see or run into, but did and may have to run again to reach their goals.

I am glad to see we have finished the Sunrise Boulevard resurfacing and other rehabilitation work, that the ground breaking for the Mather Veterans Village was successful, that the Rancho Cordova Folsom Lake College Center is making great progress, and that the Performing Arts Building at Cordova High is beginning to take shape.

All of us in the City of Rancho Cordova will definitely be interested in how the end result of this election will affect us. There are so many possibilities on what this coming year may bring to us and all we can do is wait for that mystery of tomorrow to come..

From Vice Mayor Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time. ★

By Ronnie McBrayer

Lately, I’ve been thinking about my friend, Charles, and missing him. He was a husband, father, English teacher, social worker, canoeist, bluegrass player, therapist, connoisseur of green-apple moonshine, and a good friend.

He spent the last decade of his life as the Director of Student Services in my hometown school district, on the front lines of advocacy for some of the most vulnerable children in the community. It was a role he relished almost as much as playing Gordon Lightfoot and John Prine songs on his guitar.

Charles died a few years ago, succumbing to leukemia. Friends of his gathered on a scraggly piece of land along the Tallapoosa River in North Georgia for his memorial service. I am certain that we gathered exactly where Charles wanted us. He loved that piece of land and the river that runs through it. He used it as a retreat for his body and soul. It was his sanctuary.

I use the word “sanctuary” intentionally, for Charles wouldn’t enter a church. You see, there was always a rebel’s spirit behind Charles’ jolly smile, and he had lost a good deal of faith in politics, education, matrimony - in the human race in general. He seemed to have lost the most faith in religion.

He and I would often speak of religion. At such times I could always count on him to sum up his faith by quoting Emily Dickinson: “Some keep the Sabbath going to church; I keep it staying at home; With a bobolink for a chorister, and an orchard for a dome...God preaches - a noted clergyman - and the sermon is never long; So instead of getting to heaven at last, I’m going all along!”

Yet, for all the lost confidence, Charles never lost his hope for living in a better world. This was, after all, his calling. He wanted life to be better, more just, peaceful, and whole. While often disappointed, he kept wishing - and working - for nothing less than the Kingdom of God (though he disagreed with my terminology).

The “Kingdom of God,” can invoke images of a faraway heaven where we will live in the sweet by-and-by. I don’t think that is accurate, because heaven is just not that far away. Jesus taught that while there is an eternal element to Christianity, having faith is not so much about moving up and out when we die; it is about embracing and fostering the presence of God in this current world.

Imagine (to quote another of Charles’ favorite musicians) a world with “nothing to kill for.” Imagine all people “living life in peace.” Imagine a world where the “lion will live with the lamb, where swords are beaten into plowshares, and justice rolls down like the waters.” But do more than imagine such a future - do more than simply wish for it - work for it. Implement it. Practice it. Live it.

I believe, with all my heart, that one day all of creation will be remade. I believe the universe will be divinely washed clean of all that has gone wrong, and the world will be set right. But I do not believe such faith gives me permission to be a spectator waiting for utopia. Such faith compels me to act, as Charles did, living as God would have this world to be.

So it never troubled me that Charles didn’t go to the “House of God” on Sundays. Rather, it encouraged me that he went to do the work of God every day. I was never bothered by his claims to have no faith. Rather, I was challenged by how he actually practiced his faith. So what if he wanted the church to be “better?” He was making the world better.

Let this be a challenge to us all - especially those of us who enthusiastically gather each Sunday or Sabbath: Not all of God’s work is done within the four walls of the church house. In fact, the lion’s share of it is done outside. And that’s good, because that is where it is needed the most.

Supporters Line the Streets to Show Respect for Fallen Sheriff's Deputy

Engineer-Paramedic Brendon Brown and his fellow Sacramento Metro Fire department comrades wait with solemn respect for the funeral procession of Sacramento Sheriff's Deputy Danny Oliver to exit Interstate 80 to Greenback Lane. Hundreds of first responders were on hand to show their respect.

Christian Church in Roseville and traveled to the East Lawn Cemetery in Sacramento for the family's private burial service.

"All of us in the first responder industry, from the police to fire, we all consider each other brothers and sisters," said Sacramento Metro Fire Department Captain Brad Reynolds. "It's vitally important that we all share in this and show our support for their family members. As sad as an event as this is to bring us all together, it's very heartfelt to see this all happen."

Patrick Fintel of Sacramento County was present for the entire half-hour long procession to honor the sacrifice made by Deputy Oliver and his family. "I came to show respect to the fallen officers and their family and to let them know that we're all thinking about them,"

Sacramento Sheriff's Deputies lead the funeral procession of fallen Deputy Danny Oliver eastbound on Greenback Lane to the Sierra Hills Memorial Park and East Lawn Cemetery on Monday afternoon. Oliver, a 15-year veteran of the Sacramento County Sheriff's Department, was killed in the line of duty on October 24th, 2014.

said Fintel. "It is very important to come out and support our community and law enforcement."

Donna Martinez of Placer County had a more personal inspiration. Her husband is a Sacramento County Sheriff officer. "The community support, I think it's fabulous," she said. "Oftentimes you don't realize how big your community is or how much they care about your officers until something like this happens, which is unfortunate. But it is a truly good thing to see these people out here today."

Deputy Danny Oliver, a 15-year veteran of the of the Sacramento County Sheriff's Department, was killed in the line of duty on October 24th while investigating a suspicious vehicle on the 2000 block of Arden Way. He is survived by his wife and two daughters. ★

Nichole Johnston of Citrus Heights brought her daughter Lilly, 6, and son Vinny, 3, to watch the funeral procession of fallen Sacramento Sheriff's Deputy Danny Oliver as it traveled from Roseville to the East Lawn Cemetery in Sacramento on Monday afternoon. "I wanted them to see how you support your community," she said.

Any information obtained may be used for that purpose. NOTICE TO POTENTIAL BIDDERS: If you are considering bidding on this property lien, you should understand that there are risks involved in bidding at a trustee auction. You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call (714) 730-2727 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this Internet Web site - www.servicelinkASAP.com - for information regarding the sale of this property, using the file number assigned to this case: 117724. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the Internet Web site. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. A-4493213 10/24/2014, 10/31/2014, 11/07/2014 ASAP#4492123 141015 11/17/14

It was a contemplative kind of morning, each member of the vaunted World Dilemma Think Tank seemed to be content to think silently for a change, just sipping on the coffee refills and waiting for Loretta to bring more.

Steve, the professional cowboy of the bunch, was reading

Slim Randles' HOME COUNTRY

the house copy of the Valley Weekly Miracle. Somebody else had already done the crossword, the sports page was old news, and if he wanted to keep up on church news, he'd probably attend every now and then. So Steve was belly deep in the personal ads in the classifieds.

He looked more closely, then glanced around the philosophy counter at his fellow thinkers. “Here’s something you don’t see every day,” he said.

The room grunted in reply. “I’ll read you the whole ad,” he said, “‘cause it’s short.”

Doc looked up. “What’s it say?”

“Send one dollar to Box 87 here in town.”

“One dollar for what?”

“Doesn’t say. Just says to send one dollar.”

“You’re kidding.”

Steve handed Doc the paper and pointed to the ad.

“That’s what it says,” Doc said, nodding.

So then the conversation got going. Some were of the opinion that a mistake was made when the ad was put in the paper, and you’re supposed to get a cookie recipe or something for your buck. Others were of the school that this was placed by some joker as a gag.

“When I was packing mules,” Steve said, “the pack boss swore he was going to put a wooden box with a slot in it at the trail-head and write ‘Scenic Route. One dollar’ and see if anyone was dumb enough to pay extra for scenery.”

“Aren’t all those trails scenic?”

“Of course. He never did it, though.”

“And this ad,” said Doc, shaking his head. “How many people would be dumb enough to just mail a dollar to Box 87 for no reason?”

Dud looked up and smiled. “Six so far, Doc. Six so far.” ★

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - The Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce celebrated its 16th annual golf tournament October 3rd. Tournament committee chair, Nick Sikich (Atlas Disposal), reported the event was sold out. Participants were treated to food, drink, and fun activities at every tee.

One lucky golfer won round-trip tickets to anywhere in the United States, courtesy of Tournament Pros. His unique golfing style resulted in a hole in one. He took the shot on his knees, using his son's driver, which had been cut down to a child's size. Rumor has it Rory McIlroy has contacted him for a demo.

Volunteers from Heald College and ITT kept the tournament running smoothly. Chamber board chair, Steve Millner (US Bank), praised the volunteers and the tournament committee for their hard work. Of course, the sponsors are a huge part of making a successful golf tournament. Chamber President and CEO Diann Rogers praised Northstar, Rancho Cordova, Black Diamond Electric, WoodCrest Development, RDR Builders, SMUD, Folsom Lake Ford, West Coast Events, American River Brewing Company, Vehicle Wraps, BlueApe Signs & Graphics, RC Travel & Tourism, Fairfield Inn & Suites, City of Rancho Cordova, Republic

Services, The Kings, Residence Inn, Hyatt House and Hyatt Place, and Best Western. "We couldn't have done it without you," said Rogers.

The Alpenmeisters provided some fun, live music, in keeping with the Octoberfest theme.

It was a perfect 'Chamber of Commerce' day for golf. Mild weather, smooth greens, fun people. Course manager, Asa Jennings, keeps Mather Golf Course green, using water saving techniques during the current drought.

Don't be left out next year. Register early to reserve your spot in next year's tournament. Visit the Chamber's website at www.ranchocordova.org for details on all the upcoming events. ★

Lancers Football Bitten by Diamondbacks

Cordova players Azat Kudbalayan (77), Terion Guichard (68), Brandon Buck (7), and Carlos Cuevas (8) bring down an El Dorado football player in a recent game. The Lancers lost to Union Mine, 35-0, in an SVC game last week, and must beat Rosemont tonight to clinch an at-large Sac-Joaquin Section playoff berth. Photo by Rae Lynn Filippo

By Mike Bush

EL DORADO, CA (MPG) - Four Cordova High School football players led the team in tackles in their Sierra Valley Conference contest at Union Mine on Halloween, but it was the Diamondbacks who provided the tricks with a 35-0 victory. Lancer outside linebacker Brandon Buck led with 13 tackles. He was followed by middle linebacker Jordan Richard and defensive end David Domashuk, both of whom had 11 tackles each. Defensive tackle Vincent Spikes had 10. But Cordova (1-3 in the SVC, 6-3 overall) got off to rough start in the first quarter when Union Mine running back Austin Rigsby returned the opening kickoff 90 yards for a 7-0 lead. Union Mine (3-1 in the SVC, 5-4) added two more scores before the first quarter was over for 21-0 advantage. The Lancers' offense was constantly harassed by the D'backs' defense. The result was Union Mine recovering a fumble and intercepting Lancer quarterback Unique Perez twice. Despite the miscues, Mueller was pleased with the team's play in the third quarter. The D'backs were kept out of the end zone. "We came out in the second half determined to get back into the game, and I thought our kids played real hard," Mueller said. Cordova looked like it was going to score its first touchdown of the game in the third quarter when it drove down into Union Mine's red zone. But two consecutive penalties now had the Lancers pushed back further from the end zone. "We went from first-and-10 in the red zone to first-and-30 back on the 40 (yard line)," Mueller said. Union Mine added two touchdown runs in the fourth quarter to seal the win. Tonight, Friday, Cordova will be fighting for its playoff life when it plays its SVC finale at Rosemont (3-1 in the SVC, 5-4) in the rivalry game. The picture is simple for the Lancers—win tonight and clinch an at-large Sac-Joaquin Section playoff berth. Lose, and the season is over. "I think they understand what's at stake," Mueller said. "I think they like the fact that we're finishing (the regular season) on a rivalry note. I think our kids are really excited about it." Game time for today's game is 7:15 p.m. In the junior varsity game, Cordova fell to Union Mine, 26-18. The loss gives the JV Lancers a 1-3 mark in the SVC, 4-5 overall. ★

Cordova Soccer Wins SVC Finale

Cordova defender Jose Trejo (8), moves the ball around a Liberty Ranch player in a recent game. Trejo and the Lancers soccer team advanced to the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III playoffs and opened first-round action Tuesday at American Canyon. Photo by Rae Lynn Filippo

By Mike Bush

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - One thing was certain for the Cordova High School boys soccer team going into its Sierra Valley Conference finale at Rosemont on Oct. 29th—advancing into the Sac-Joaquin Section Division III playoffs. But the question remained: Would the Lancer booters win their final regular season game against their rivals? That question, too, was answered in the final 40 minutes of the game that led to a 3-0 win. Cordova (5-3-2 in the SVC, 14-5-2 overall) scored all of its goals in the second half after a scoreless first half. Anthony Acosta scored two of those goals for the Lancers, while Miguel Medina scored the other. Acosta and Alex Casal recorded an assist each. "In the second half, we picked up the pressure in the midfield and created more scoring opportunities," said Cordova head coach Eric McCahon. "Not only were the boys able to get even with our local rival, but our offense found its form again." With the win, the Lancers take third place behind Liberty Ranch and conference champion Galt. The Wolverines finished in fourth place. Cordova enters the playoffs as the No. 9 seed in the Division III bracket. On Tuesday, the Lancers played at No. 8 seed American Canyon. "It will be a tough road as a nine seed, but it all starts with American Canyon," McCahon said. If the Lancers won their playoff opener, they will advance to Thursday's quarterfinal game against the Vallejo-Christian Brothers winner. Christian Brothers is the No. 1 seed, and Vallejo is the No. 16 seed. ★

Ten Things to Do With That Panda Hat

There is nothing quite like a championship parade to make fans feel all warm and fuzzy inside, even when the celebration goes down in the cold and rain on a crowded workday afternoon. The San Francisco Giants' family, friends and fans in The City's streets, throughout Northern California and around the country were really feeling the good vibes Friday during the third World Series title party in the last five years. Yes! Yes! Yes! Everybody around Major League Baseball wants what Giants Nation is having. When the Giants closed out The Series in Game 7 last Wednesday, 3-2, behind the heroics of skyrocketing superstar Madison Bumgarner — suddenly Jimmy Fallon's favorite player (he might even try on those MAD BUM underwear) — The Nation was overwhelmed with unbridled joy. This determined group of beloved Giants players, underappreciated on the grand national stage, had defied the prognosticators once again to win it all. The excitement, exhilaration, exclamations and exultations carried on for days, right through to the heart of San Francisco at City Hall. The throng on hand there, representing the sentiments of TheNation as a whole, rejoiced in the accomplishments of this third band of baseball brothers, that persistently claimed that the members of this unit consistently gave their greatest efforts for the good of the whole, their teammates and fans. It was all about The Team, The Team, The Team! But as the party dispersed late in the afternoon and some people escaped to their chauffeur-driven limousines, Lincoln Town Cars, Bentleys, Escalades or such, while many others hit the streets to find their own cars, a cable car, a bus, a cab or BART, there was, undoubtedly, at least one common thread in the Giants conversations:

"What's going to happen with Pablo?" Giants third baseman Pablo Sandoval, The Panda, became a free agent at the conclusion of the World Series. Recognizing that is a reminder to all fans that in the stark realities of professional sports it is too often about The Money, The Money, The Money! The Panda, of course, has been a cuddly fan-favorite since coming up through the Giants' ranks and arriving on the MLB scene in 2008. He has been a .294 hitter since in his Giants career. This regular season he posted not bank-breaking numbers of 16 homers, a .279 average and 73 RBI. He has never matched his figures of his first full season in 2009 of 25 homers, a .330 average with 90 RBI. But The Panda has shown that he is "money" in October. In the last two championship drives, Sandoval has rung the register for the Giants. He was the World Series MVP in 2012, when he smashed three homers in one game, a la Reggie Jackson. This time he could've been part of a three-headed MVP, along with Bumgarner and Hunter Pence, hitting .429. Over ten postseason series in his career, 39 games, Sandoval has hit .344 with a .389 on-base percentage, with 13 doubles, six home runs and 20 RBI. In 12 World Series games he has hit .426. Chaching! And, big No. 48, who also played a Gold Glove-caliber third base this season, is only 28 years old and figures to be — weight issues permitting — entering the prime of his career. The Panda will surely have many suitors during his open-market tour and it will be interesting to see just how much value that good ol' Giants-family feelin' carries in Pablo's heart. Several well-heeled franchises will likely be more than willing to open wide their pocketbooks to lure Sandoval to greener pastures. No! No! No! Here at the End of the Bench we always hate debating the money issues in pro sports — particularly the actual specifics — because the millions upon millions could always be spent on more deserving issues than a bunch of ballplayers (another story for another time). But, for now, the question is who is to know just how the dollars-dynamic will affect the Giants' roster going forward? The team has several other matters to contend with beyond third base. The Giants have age, injuries and inconsistencies to deal with on the pitching staff. Other than Pence, they have health and performance issues in the outfield and the bench is not particularly strong. How this team won it all with the current collection of players was a giant surprise to many. The roster will require in-depth examination on the part of the highly-successful front office if the team is to meet the expectations (another series win in a year, maybe two) of the fans and there will be explanations needed if Sandoval slips away. The greater question, however, is will The Panda be greeted with cheers or boos if he returns to San Francisco as a Dodger, a Yankee or Red Sox? And what would happen to all of those Panda hats? You could use yours to wash your car or line the bird cage. You could use it for a foot-mat on the mud porch. You could get fifty cents for it at your garage sale or use it for fire-starter at your next tailgate party. You could make a sweater out of it for your Chihuahua or make a bed for your cat. You could use it to clean up all of your Giants memorabilia or to dust off those Giants World Series DVDs you just ordered. Or, you can wear it and cry while sitting alone in the dark watching Giants games next season. ★

BEST OF THE BIG TEN

The league’s top two teams battle at Spartan Stadium in East Lansing

OHIO STATE AT MICHIGAN STATE

The last two unbeaten Big Ten teams meet Saturday night in East Lansing. The winner will all but wrap up the East Division title and remain alive for a spot in the College Football Playoff. Ohio State has a more difficult path to the Playoff because of its relatively low ranking (No. 16 in the initial CFB top 25) and a bad loss on its résumé (at home to Virginia Tech), but a win at Michigan State likely would vault the Buckeyes into the top 10. Michigan State, with a No. 8 ranking and consistently strong play throughout the season, is in much better shape. The Spartans have a “good” loss (at Oregon in Week 2) but only have one quality win, in early October over Nebraska at home. It’s not only important for Michigan State to win this game, but the Spartans need to look good doing so in order to impress committee members who might be questioning the strength of their schedule. Michigan State by 7

NOTRE DAME AT ARIZONA STATE

Arizona State is quietly emerging as one of the top programs on the West Coast. The Sun Devils, the defending Pac-12 South champs, are 15–2 in the their last 17 league games dating back to the final month of the 2012 season. Todd Graham has taken his share of criticism over the years — some of it deserved — but the guy is clearly one of the top coaches in the country. Though his teams in recent years have been known for their prowess on offense, Graham has a background on defense, and his 2014 team — after a slow start — has done a terrific job on that side of the ball. The Sun Devils have held their last three opponents — Stanford, Washington and Utah — to an average of 12 points and 273 yards. Replicating that type of performance against Notre Dame will be difficult. The Irish’s schedule to date hasn’t been overly taxing — Stanford and Florida State are the only two quality defenses they have faced — but ND is averaging 35.4 points and 458.6 yards per game. Slowing down quarterback Everett Golson will be a challenge. Arizona State by 7

ALABAMA AT LSU

This matchup is always appointment viewing, but LSU’s recent rise — the Tigers have won three straight after an 0–2 start in the SEC — has made this game far more dangerous for Alabama. LSU has leaned on its running attack of late, averaging 254 rushing yards in wins over Florida, Kentucky and Ole Miss. During this three-game stretch, the Tigers have completed

STOCK REPORT

▲ Florida State showed its championship mettle by recovering from a 21–0 deficit in the first half to rally past Louisville 42–31 on Thursday night. True freshman Dalvin Cook, who rushed for 110 yards and two TDs, was the best player on the field in the decisive second half.

▼ Penn State recorded only 219 yards of offense in a 20–19 loss at home to Maryland. The Nittany Lions had 373 yards vs. Rutgers in their Big Ten opener but have not cracked the 275-yard mark in league play since. They are averaging 3.1 yards per play over their last four games.

▲ Florida stunned the college football world with a dominating 38–20 win over rival Georgia in Jacksonville. Led by Kelvin Taylor and Matt Jones, the Gators rushed for 418 yards (on a 7.0-yard average) en route to the most improbable win of the Will Muschamp era.

▼ Is the magic gone at Stanford? The Cardinal dropped to 5–4 overall and 3–3 in the Pac-12 with a 45–16 loss at Oregon. After playing in a BCS bowl in each of the last four seasons, Stanford must now win one of its final three games simply to reach bowl-eligibility.
