Hash Oil Explosions on the Rise in County

The most popular production method is BHO, or Butane Hash Oil, which utilizes the highly volatile solvent butane. The butane vapors evaporate during the process, but are heavier than air and often congregate in a low lying explosive cloud. Stock photo

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Homemade manufacturing of hash oil is widespread in Sacramento County. It causes explosions and fires in our neighborhoods and puts the safety of our residents at risk. Also known as wax, shatter, honey oil, hash, BHO, earwax, oil, concentrated cannabis, and dabs, hash oil is a highly concentrated form of THC, the psychoactive substance in marijuana. It is highly popular among both recreational and medical marijuana users.

The most popular production method is BHO, or Butane Hash Oil, which utilizes the highly volatile solvent butane. The butane vapors evaporate during the process, but are heavier than air and often congregate in a low lying explosive cloud. A pilot light, static electricity, overhead light switch, or an automatic switch such as that found in a refrigerator or air conditioning unit is enough to ignite the cloud. The result is a sudden, powerful explosion and ensuing fire.

There are several telltale indicators of hash oil manufacturing. Marijuana shake—the stems and leaves left over from trimming the mature buds of the plant—is often utilized in the process. PVC tubing, glass tubes, coffee filters, butane canisters, and hose clamps are also used. The resulting product is a brown, oily substance that hardens into a wax-like substance when the butane fully evaporates.

The recent BHO phenomenon is sweeping the United States, especially in states where marijuana is completely legal or partially legal due to medical marijuana laws. BHO production is relatively cheap and simple, and the resulting product is more valuable by weight than marijuana. In Sacramento County, the District Attorney's Office has prosecuted more than a dozen manufacturing cases in 2014. The year has seen multiple explosions and fires

Pioneer Trek Challenges Youth

Story by Margaret Snider

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In a recent pioneer reenactment, around 80 youths and 20 adults pulled and pushed 10 loaded handcarts following rough trails in the Sierras. The wilderness handcart trek of the Sacramento Cordova Stake of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints is typically carried out every four years or so. One of the purposes is to help the young people understand the hardships their ancestors may have endured.

"When we first started out we were all excited, we wanted to be one of the first ones up the hill," said Kyla Mavy, 17, of Mather. "When we first picked up the wagon we thought, this is actually pretty easy." Almost immediately, things started looking more serious. "As soon as we started, there was a big giant hill we had to go up," said 15-year-old Xander Green of Rancho Cordova. "Right after that I thought to myself, what the heck are we doing?"

A couple served as Ma and Pa for each of the handcart groups and were responsible for their trek "family," which included their "children," ages 14 to 18. They ate, camped, and pulled their handcart together.

One of the highlights of the two and a half day trek was the women's pull on the second day. Just after breakfast, men representing Army officers of the period enlisted the boys and men into the Mormon Battalion. The actual Mormon Battalion in 1846 and 1847 marched nearly 2,000 miles to take part in the Mexican-American war, though they never actually saw combat.

The girls and women carried on by themselves. Maria Standing, who was the Ma of her family group, was in the process of loading and tying down their cart with her family and her husband Kyle Standing when he and her trek sons left. "We're going to have to do this all by ourselves?" Maria thought, "It was crazy. I didn't know if we could do it. I was actually crying. It

The Search Begins for Abandoned Art

Historical Society Collects Oral Histories

Do You Have a Story to Tell?

Abandoned art pieces are easy to identify: the works have information on the back so finders can make contact with the artists and perhaps even send selfies and stories via email and Facebook, telling how they discovered their hidden treasures. SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Look under that park bench ... is there a painting to be found?

What's that sticking out from behind the potted plant at the coffee shop? Is it art?

That's the sort of questions that will be asked across Sacramento and the world. Rancho Cordova Arts struck with Abandoned Art on Friday, July 31st. About 2,000 pieces of art have been stashed; most are in the Sacramento Region, but some are in other states and other countries.

The pieces of art are easy to identify: the works have information on the back so finders can make contact with the artists and perhaps even send selfies and stories via email and Facebook, telling how they discovered their hidden treasures.

An early placement was discovered in the National Gallery of Art in Washington, D.C., and according to instructions, an unidentified discoverer had a photo taken of herself holding the piece and sent it back to the artist.

Some pieces will have RFID bar code tags which can be read by smart phones and will provide finders with a video. For a free application to read RFID tags, go to gettag.mobi.

The brainstorm of artist Victoria Smith, The Highway 50 Artists, Monto Kumagai and Transmedia Mirage, and artist Robyn Slakey, the Abandoned Art project is described as community performance art which promotes local artistic talent.

Art abandonments are not entirely new, but the explosion of social media has powered abandonment projects to new heights. Recent abandonments of small amounts of cash in some American cities set off search frenzies.

How can art abandonment happen? Sometimes art is abandoned by being tied to the branches of trees, or scribbled on napkins at restaurants. The idea is to create a piece of art and leave it for somebody else to find and enjoy; the artist gives a gift of art ... and moves on. Finders can keep the art, or re-abandon it.

"The spirit of it is in keeping with the 'random acts of kindness' concept," said Smith. "It brightens your day when you discover some art has been abandoned for you to find."

Finders should send a selfie or correspondence to abandonedart2014@gmail.com or the Abandoned Art Project 2014's Facebook: <http://goo.gl/S6FW9E> (case sensitive).

Who produced the art? "There are professional and amateur artists of all ages who are abandoning art for the community to find," said Smith. "My latest count is that there will be more than 2,000 pieces abandoned." Rancho Cordova artists are reaching out in a provocative and fun way. The mass abandonment will continue through 2014, Smith said. Other artists who want to get in on the action can continue to join up. To participate, artists should contact Smith at the email or Facebook address to get started.

A portion of the project is funded by Rancho Cordova Arts, a two-year old organization of artists who have formed a loose collaboration to support local art exhibits at Rancho Cordova City Hall, at public events, even a "Brushes and Brews" hook-up with the American River Brewing Company.

The visual arts group sponsors Plein Air art events and works hand in hand with the Rancho Cordova River City Concert Band and Rancho Cordova Civic Light Orchestra to nurture local artists and art activities, under the guidance of the Cordova Community Council.

"We think our Abandoned Art project expresses a lot about how we not only want to be a place where local art is supported and enjoyed, but a place where art happens," said Smith.

Happy hunting!

Rancho Cordova Historical Society members participated in the grand entrance parade at the City's 10th Anniversary Time Capsule event in 2013. In addition to collecting history, members share their findings with exhibits, archives, educational programs, and publications.

RANCHO CORDOVA, (MPG) - The City of Rancho Cordova is only 11 years old, but the Rancho Cordova community has a long history as a viable and important part of the region before the City incorporated. The Rancho Cordova Historical Society (RCHS) was established in 2009 to collect, preserve, and celebrate the rich history of the Rancho Cordova area.

RCHS has conducted more than 150 oral history interviews since it began. The group's historical interest and research extend to all eras of the region, including native peoples before the 1800s and pre-human history to the extent that it is known or may be discovered. The organization encourages people to tell their story. To schedule an oral history interview, contact RCHS at info@RanchoCordovaHistory.com.

In addition to its monthly meeting, RCHS sponsors special events such as its annual Afternoon at Kilgore Cemetery. Members also present history to the public with exhibits, archives, educational programs, and publications.

Welcoming American River Bank with Week-Long Celebration

GOLD RIVER, CA (MPG) - After thirty-plus years in Fair Oaks Village, American River Bank has moved to a beautiful state-of-the-art facility right here in Gold River. The American River Bank kicked off a week-long celebration starting on Tuesday, July 29th with a ribbon-cutting ceremony hosted by the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce. The event was catered by Mario and his staff from Zinfandel California Cuisine.

The celebration continued on Wednesday with coffee and donuts from President and CEO, David Taber, and Michelle Barber, Assistant Vice President of Client Services and Branch Manager. Taber and Barber also shared information on the many services American River Bank offers their customers. On Thursday, July 31st was a casual lunch of hot dogs, lemonade and ice cream with the American River Bank staff.

The Fair Oaks Chamber of Commerce ended the week-long celebratory event with another Grand Opening Ribbon-Cutting on August 1st. There were muffins and coffee for everyone, and one lucky person was fortunate enough to win an Apple iPad Mini!

American River Bank is a solid bank with a desire to help and to be part of the communities they serve. That's not a slogan, but a mission for The American River Bank Foundation. According to a bank brochure, "The American River Bank Foundation was formed in 2004 to support organizations that create opportunity, enhance self-esteem and provide physical and emotional well-being for the most vulnerable women and children in our area".

Since it was established, the American River Bank Foundation has donated $652,600 to over 36 different organizations. Donations received by the Foundation are granted to community organizations. The Foundation is supported in whole by American River Bank, its employees and partners.

This year's Community Partner is Courage Worldwide, who provides services for minors who are victims of commercial sexual exploitation, and Legal Aid of Sonoma County, whose Child Abuse Prevention Program works to prevent child abuse and neglect.

Other grant recipients for 2014 include Operation Care, CASH, St. John's Shelter for Women and Children, Sacramento Life Center, Child Advocates of Placer County, Senior Gleaners, The Arc of Amador & Calaveras, The Living Room, and Wellspring Women's Center.

Stop by the newest location of American River Bank at 11220 Gold Express Drive, Suite #401, right here in beautiful Gold River. ★

Is it Really August?

"About three weeks!" In about three weeks after school starts, the vast majority of the kids are resigned to the fact that they had to go back to school and are actually glad to be back. They are with friends they may not have seen for a while and have also met new ones. It's kind of incidental, I guess, that they are also learning while they are at school (their "work").

The stores are ready to provide you with school stuff, fall stuff, and winter stuff, even though the temperature outside today is 105 degrees. The fact that it is as hot as it is right now is the "norm" for this time of the year, but I am hoping that this coming "rainy season" will at least get back to the "norm". If it is raining like we are all hoping, some of those fall and winter clothes will come in handy, indeed!

The election is coming up November 4th. And while it is not a presidential year, which usually brings out more voters, remember that you and every registered voter will be voting to hire public servants to do a job for you and them. You will be voting on some local and State measures which will affect you long after on the votes are counted. Every citizen should take or make the time to vote. Demand that our hired public servants in Washington, D.C. and at the State Capital in Sacramento get off the pedestals so many have seemed to place themselves on and do the jobs we hired them to do. There is no question that every citizen deserves that the work be done!

There is no reason that this generation of United States citizens, and the generations to come, cannot believe in this country. When we believe in ourselves, the rest of the world can believe in us, too.

We hear and read different philosophical ways of looking at life. There is always the saying by the down-to-earth and often quoted author (unknown): "Life is like a roll of toilet paper. The closer you get to the end, the faster it goes." And on the other hand, there is Carl Sandburg who said, "Life is like an onion: you peel it off one layer at a time, and sometimes you weep." Life needs to be cherished during the good and the bad. ★

From Vice Mayor Bob McGarvey, God bless, and see you next time.

Why You're Probably on an NSA Watchlist

By Mike Leahy

I was talking with one of my colleagues the other day, and he raised a very interesting question, one that deserves consideration by anyone worried about their digital privacy. He read an article that championed the idea that the more steps one took to protect their privacy by using anonymous Web-browsing tools like Tor, the more likely that individual would be targeted for "surveillance" by the NSA.

The article went on to say the NSA closely watched user accounts searching for information on non-Windows operating systems like Tails or Linux. The authors of the article suggest the NSA presumes anyone interested in using technology to protect their privacy is a potential threat to national security. On the other hand, those taking no steps to demonstrate privacy concerns (as evidenced by an interest in available tools) are not.

Let that sink in for a moment. Supporters of the sentiment that security must trump privacy will tell you that if you have nothing to hide, you have nothing to fear. A more apt statement to be garnered from the article is if you have something to hide, the government has something to fear.

Right now, the NSA operates an Internet surveillance tool called XKeyscore. This program allows them to place every Tor user in the world under ongoing surveillance. This completely negates the supposed anonymity the system was designed to provide.

The NSA's own description of XKeyscore suggests its use is widespread, collecting metadata and relational information about Internet and telephone usage. This is then stored and is searchable in real time. The interesting point about XKeyscore's use you should keep in mind is the NSA's decision that anyone interested in privacy is considered a potential terrorist. Think about that for a moment.

The Pew Research Center Internet and American Life sur-

"In the ongoing battle between government snoops and people interested in protecting their privacy, the snoops will always concentrate their activities where they will have the most impact."

vey found in September 2013 that: "86% of Internet users have taken steps online to remove or mask their digital footprints -- ranging from clearing cookies, encrypting their email, and avoiding using their real name, to using virtual networks that mask their Internet protocol (IP) address

"55% of Internet users have taken steps to avoid observation by specific people, organizations, or the government."

Or, more simply, more than half of the population of the United States that uses the Internet is categorized as potential terrorists requiring government surveillance to "protect us." From whom is the government protecting us?

Apparently, from ourselves. This is madness. Aside from this, there's another important point you need to be aware of. I remember arguments

I had with my peers when I was 10 years old. It was the height of the Cold War, and we were debating the need of missiles to stop intercontinental ballistic missiles. But it didn't stop there. We argued about whether we needed anti-missiles to stop the ICBMs. And anti-anti-missiles to stop those.

Similarly, you might remember the quote attributed to Willie Sutton, who supposedly said that he "robbed banks because that was where the money was." In the ongoing battle between government snoops and people interested in protecting their privacy, the snoops will always concentrate their activities where they will have the most impact.

Just as Apple computers have not been targeted with viruses by online threats nearly as much as their Windows PC counterparts, growing use of alternate operating systems like Linux, Tor and Tails raises the interest in their users. Quite simply, they choose to "hide" something.

As in all technology-dependent conflicts, each side will reinvent its tools to defeat the tools used by their opponents. Thus, it is important to acknowledge that the tools we use to "enhance" privacy are simply that -- tools. The only way to truly keep personal information "private" is to not share it.

Having said that, how many social media platforms (Facebook, et al.) do you participate on?

Think about it. ★

By Sal Arrigo, Jr.

I love it when people talk about their experiences when it comes to wine, wine tasting, or how much a good bottle of wine should cost. It's often done just to attempt to impress an audience. It amuses me when one "expert" is pitted against another "expert." For the beginning wine drinker, you can easily get taken in by them. I have learned about wine from wine makers and other qualified wine aficionados. It is with these individuals that you learn that wine is not all about the grape; the landscape plays a vital role in producing a great bottle of wine. You have other factors like disease and harsh weather conditions that are important to the growing process, but I will leave that for another day.

The wine growing business is about location and the type of grape you want to produce. A Pinot Noir grape likes the temperature cooler than a Zinfandel grape does. For instance, if you visit the southern part of Napa or Sonoma counties, the Pinot grape is getting that watery breeze from San Francisco Bay while the Zinfandel grape is grown in the northern part of these counties that doesn't get the same cooling wind. What we have here is a "reverse geography" region where it is hotter as you go north rather than the other way around. Dr. Greg Shaw, Chair of the Department of Recreation, Parks and Tourism Administration at Sacramento State says, "The climate of the region and how dry the soil is both impact grape growing." According to Dr. Shaw, one needs to consider whether "there is water nearby; is the ground flat or are we trying to grow grapes on a hillside? Water controls temperature, and can affect the growing season; grapevines don't have bud break until the average daily temperature reaches 50 degrees. Hillsides affect drainage and also determine wind flows. Look at the direction vines are planted on a hillside, it's often to either encourage air to flow past the grapes or block air. Everyone is trying to grow grapes. This is our biggest cash crop in California—and one that is legal!"

Wine Tourism: It's Not All About the Grape

Greg, whom I consider an A student of wine geography while I am a mere C student, wants people to "find a wine that is pleasing to your taste and then discover the different varietals." His passion is to introduce people to the world of wine as a tourism experience, believing that there are few landscapes more beautiful than vineyards; there is also a great deal of history that often surrounds wine country. In all of this, it still comes back to what grape is grown in a certain region. Take a trip to Avio Winery located in Sutter Creek, and you would think you are in Tuscany; the grapes grown there are similar to varieties in the Tuscan vineyards. Take a trip to Monterey and view the landscape; you'll see that different varieties of grapes are grown here than are grown in inland areas.

Wine education can be as complex as you want to make it. Dr. Shaw is the instructor of a class every spring semester at Sacramento State titled, "Wine Tourism." (He does not have any problem filling the seats for this class!) If you take a class to become better informed about wine and wine tasting, please don't forget that the environment and landscape have as much to do about producing the wine as any other factor. On your next visit to a winery, experience it as more than just a wine tasting; savor the moment with a basic understanding and knowledge of wine as you raise your glass to those "experts." Vi auguriamo buona salute! (We wish you good health!) ★

And The Heat Goes On... And On... And On

This past week found me in a bit of trouble with the Gracious Mistress of the Parsonage... well, more than normal. It has become rather normal for me to be in trouble with her. No matter how hard I try "not to be," it always is "to be."

This week was a high point for me getting into trouble. I never relish getting into a pickle with her, but sometimes it is unavoidable.

All week long, I had been murmuring and complaining about how hot it was. "I've never seen such hot weather," I grumbled. "I don't know how long I can take this hot weather."

You would think that someone my age would have learned long ago that some things should not be vocalized. This is America, and we all have the right to speak our mind although much of the time we should not speak our mind aloud; at least, not to the point that someone, especially someone living under the same roof, can hear you. I have found that the thing that enhances romance is the sounds of silence.

I guess it was getting a little wearisome with all my complaining, but after all, the weather was really hot.

Then, she looked at me and said, "If I hear you complain about the weather one more time, I'm... I'm... I'm..." The look on her face indicated that she was not at a loss for words; she was just trying to control herself and save herself from early widowhood.

I truly respect people who have the ability to control themselves, especially the people who live under our roof.

I almost said something, but for some reason I had a flash of temporary sanity. I said nothing, but smiled. I am not boasting here, but I am really good at saying nothing. Even when talking, my wife tells me I am saying nothing.

Saying nothing has gotten me out of many a jam, particularly with my wife. There are times when husbands and wives should sit down and have a rather invigorating conversation. Then there are times when the husband should shut up. I never know which time is which.

It was then that my wife laid out the facts for me to evaluate. How she can remember everything is simply beyond me. However, how do I know she is actually remembering things as they were and not making them up?

It seems, according to her impeccable recollection, that a few months ago I was complaining about how cold it was and anxious for the hot weather to come. "You were just as grumpy about how cold it was as you are now about how hot it is."

Then she put her hands on her hip and looked at me with "that look," and said, "I don't mind you complaining about one or the other but I really do mind you complaining about everything. You're going to have to make up your mind whether you hate the cold or the heat, and then stick to it."

That put a new light on the situation, and a new burden on me. Now, according to her latest admonition, I need to choose the heat or the cold. I am tempted, although I know better, to complain about this. I do not think it is fair that I have to choose one or the other. I think I should be able to hate both the cold and the heat.

However, here is the problem. If I choose to complain about the heat, then what do I do in the wintertime when it gets cold? Faced with a real dilemma I took it to my good wife and asked, "Can I hate the heat in the summer and hate the cold in the winter, if I alternate it every other year?" To me this sounded like a very reasonable request. After all, I was accommodating her request and getting in my share of complaining.

If you would spend as much time thinking of positive things to say as you do complaining it would be absolutely wonderful.

But how can you think of something positive about the heat when you are sweltering? And, how can you think about something positive about the cold when your bones are shivering to death? Mistakenly I told my wife my dilemma.

"I think I have you figured out," she said. "You're positively negative about everything."

There is only one thing worse than having your wife figure you out. There must be, but I cannot think of any thing right now.

I will not say my wife is right, only that she is not wrong. I must say I have a tendency to complain about everything. Some people can see the silver lining in every cloud whereas I see a cloud over every silver lining. I guess it is a person's perspective.

Thinking along this line, I remembered a verse in the Bible. "Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things" (Philippians 4:8).

Some people (like me) see a glass as half empty while others see it as half-full. There are those few souls (like my wife) who are thankful that there is any water in the glass of all. ★

Dare to Live Without Limits

Your Adventure

by Bryan Golden

"Security is mostly a superstition. It does not exist in nature, nor do the children of men as a whole experience it. Avoiding danger is no safer in the long run than outright exposure. Life is either a daring adventure or nothing." -- Helen Keller

"Twenty years from now you will be more disappointed by the things you didn't do than by the ones you did do. So throw off the bowlines. Sail away from the safe harbor. Catch the trade winds in your sails. Explore. Dream. Discover." -- Mark Twain

It's astounding how Helen Keller, who couldn't see or hear, had more insight than so many people who have all of their senses. Life is truly filled with incredible wonder and unlimited potential. However, if you don't recognize this, or believe it, for you it doesn't exist.

There are those, who like Helen Keller, make their life an adventure. At the same time, many others have convinced themselves that life is a disappointing struggle littered with broken dreams. Your beliefs create your reality. If you think you can do something, you are right. If you think something is impossible, you are also right. The choice is yours.

How you experience life is a chain reaction. Your attitude determines your outlook which in turn controls your actions. Your actions determine what happens. If you aren't happy with the direction of your life, only your action will change it.

Regardless of where you are now, you can have a great adventure. It doesn't matter how old you are. All it takes is fanning your desire and taking action. You can do anything you desire; travel, explore, meet people, expand your career, get a promotion, change careers, start a business, or get a degree, etc.

People who have a great adventure don't wait for things to happen, they make them happen. If you want or need different circumstances, go out and start doing whatever it takes. However, you first need to know what is important to you and where you want to go.

Avoid paralysis by analysis. A perfect life long plan isn't required. Your desired destination can be modified at any time. Figure out what you want to be doing right now. Set priorities.

Concentrate on what's most important. An extensive list of priorities will dilute your energy.

Create a plan which delineates the necessary steps required to take you on your chosen adventure. Break down each step into small, manageable segments. Taking many small steps is much more effective than not taking big steps.

Don't be deterred by the potential for failure. Failure only occurs when you give up. In response to stumbles or falls, get back up and keep going. Adjust your direction or strategy as needed.

Setbacks and obstacles are a normal part of any adventure. Overcoming challenges makes you stronger and smarter.

Maintain your focus to stay on track. Set priorities so you don't get diverted from your adventure. However, keep your mind open to all possibilities that will present themselves.

Adventures are adjustable at any time in order to maximize unexpected opportunities.

You don't want to be haunted by things you intended to do but didn't. When you have great adventures, you will look back at your life with satisfaction rather than regret. Your life will be rich in experiences. You can experience any adventure you want. Have fun. Life is meant to be enjoyed. ★

Hash Oil Explosions in Sacramento County

caused by the manufacturing process. In January, an explosion inside a Rancho Cordova apartment complex resulted in the lengthy hospitalization of two people and the displacement of over 140 others, including many children, for two days. In March, an explosion inside an Arden Arcade home resulted in major fire damage to the structure. Two children ages six and two were lucky to escape the fire, although their pet dog perished. In May, a south area home was completely destroyed after an explosion and fire gutted the inside; a firefighter suffered burn injuries while battling that blaze. Earlier this month, a Wilton area home was burned after an explosion led to a fire in the kitchen area. Two children ages three and five were fortunately not home at the time, but they too lost their pet dog as a result of the fire.

Each of these fires was completely preventable as each was directly caused by people manufacturing hash oil. The explosions and fires that commonly result cause enormous property damage; severe burns; and permanent disfigurement to those engaged in making the hash oil, innocent bystanders, and first responders.

The manufacture of Butane Hash Oil is illegal in California. There is no defense under either Proposition 215 (the Compassionate Use Act of 1996) or the Medical Marijuana Program of 2003. Manufacturing hash oil is a felony and is punishable by up to seven years in a county jail. If a fire is caused, arson related charges may be brought which can result in a state prison commitment. If someone is seriously injured as a result, an additional three years in prison is possible. If children are present, child endangerment charges are likely. If someone dies as a result, homicide charges can be brought.

Those contemplating making hash oil should be aware of the extreme danger involved, that it remains highly illegal, and that it is unaffected by the state's medical marijuana laws. Those suspecting someone of making hash oil should contact law enforcement and evacuate the area immediately.

The District Attorney's Office is committed to stemming this dangerous threat to people and property in our community and will continue to aggressively prosecute BHO manufacturing and related crimes. ★

Rancho Cordova Seniors and Their Families Invited to Ribbon-Cutting for New Housing and Care Services Community

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Local seniors and their families are invited to attend the ribbon-cutting and ceremonies to open Northstar Rancho Cordova, the city's first large-scale assisted living and memory care community at 2341 Vehicle Drive (near Sunrise Boulevard) on Thursday, August 14th from 2:30 p.m. to 5:30 p.m.

State Assemblymember Ken Cooley, Rancho Cordova Mayor Dan Skoglund, Rancho Chamber of Commerce President Diann Rogers, Summerset Assisted Living Managing Members Neil Heuttenhain and Rick Beasley, Northstar Senior Living CEO Rick Jensen, Northstar Rancho Cordova Executive Director Deborah Pontynen Godt, and others will take part in the ribbon cutting and Grand Opening ceremonies.

Community Relations Directors Jennifer Willard and Denise Evans, along with other staff team members, will be on hand to provide tours of the thoughtfully designed, brand new, richly appointed environment. They will describe the community's features as well as its life enhancing benefits and programs. Refreshments will be served giving attendees an opportunity to sample foods prepared by the community's Executive Chef. Attendees will also be able to learn how to earn one month's free rent as a new resident.

The community is located on Vehicle Drive near Sunrise Blvd., providing easy access along the Highway 50 Corridor . . . from Sacramento, to Folsom, to El Dorado Hills. It is surrounded with ample free resident parking. The three-story building is comprised of 80,000 square feet, primarily living area as well as ample space for shared dining, recreation, and social activities.

There are 113 apartments offering choices of studio, semi-private, or one- and two-bedroom floor plans. Because rent is on a month-to-month basis, there is no high-cost buy-in required or long-term lease.

The community is richly appointed and furnished. A beautiful lobby offers an abundance of comfortable seating and a baby grand piano. The living room provides additional gathering space and a cozy fireplace.

There is a full service beauty-barber shop onsite as well as complimentary laundry facilities. A card and game room features complimentary coffee and tea; there is a meeting/activity room with a large-screen TV, and a library.

Hallways are wide, well-lighted and equipped with handrails for added safety. The apartments, too, have strategically located grab bars as well as a state-of-

Apartments also have individual heating and air-conditioning controls and low-step or roll-in showers. Apartment maintenance as well as water, garbage, electricity and cable TV is included in the basic rent. The community is pet friendly.

Housekeeping is provided weekly with daily tidying and personal laundry and linen service are available. There are concierge-type services for dry cleaning pickup, errand running and arrangement of theater tickets, etc.

Restaurant-style meals from open menus and snacks are prepared and available onsite daily and include heart-healthy and diabetes-smart choices along with accommodation of special diets.

Northstar Rancho Cordova includes a full calendar geared to resident interests of activities, entertainment, educational opportunities and off-site excursions each month. Scheduled, complimentary transportation takes residents to local drug, grocery and other stores, banks, medical and dental offices as well as social outings.

Residents with health conditions that limit their ability to manage every day activities will find individualized care services available to them, including medication management, and assistance with ambulation, eating, dressing, bathing and using the restroom. With all these details of life tended to, residents and family members will be able to share more meaningful and pleasurable visits.

Short-term residency, commonly referred to as respite care, also is available. Family caregivers can relax, pursue neglected activities or even take a vacation while their senior loved ones become part of Northstar's extended family and enjoy its enriched lifestyle.

The community has a special environment and program for dementia care. The term dementia describes a wide range of symptoms of progressive brain diseases, like Alzheimer's. Dementia is characterized by a decline in memory, judgment, and other thinking skills that reduce a person's ability to perform self-care. Northstar's signature Journeys memory care was designed by nationally known expert Nancy Schier Anzelmo, a long-time advocate of "person-centered" care. The Journeys program is based on individualized care and positive relationships that respect residents' preferences and life history in ways that honor his or her identity. Care in Journeys is built on authentic connections and meaningful activities that result in well-being for everyone - from the residents living with dementia, to their families and friends, to community employees and care partners.

For more information about the community or to RSVP for the ribbon-cutting and opening ceremonies, contact Community Relations Directors Jennifer Willard, (916) 717-2423, jwillard@northstarsl.com; or Denise Evans, (916) 799-7440; devans@northstarsl.com

Northstar Rancho Cordova, offering assisted living and memory care, is owned and developed by Summerset Assisted Living of Rescue, California. It is managed by Northstar Senior Living, headquartered in Redding, California. Northstar provides experienced, caring, and ethical leadership to the assisted living and memory care industry, and currently delivers management and consulting services to 26 senior communities in the United States. ★

Leadership Rancho Cordova Recruiting for Next Series

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Leadership Rancho Cordova (LRC) launches a new class of 25 on a year-long study of the city this fall, and the search is on for eager students.

In a continuing quest to build a bench of future leaders, the program, offered by the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce in partnership with the City of Rancho Cordova and Cordova Community Council, enters its eighth year and now boasts more than 120 alumni. While some alumni serve in elected positions, nearly all are serving as community leaders on behalf of our city.

The new class of approximately 25 members will be selected to represent a broad mix of backgrounds, ages, ethnicities and employment, a key ingredient to a successful leadership program, said Ada Gerard, President of Heald College and chair of the program's governing board.

"Community leadership and engagement can be quite a complex, and we want to develop a pool of local people who have taken the time to study it, understand it and act upon what they have learned," she said.

Class IX will begin their journey in September with a kick-off reception at City Hall, followed by a two-day retreat to immerse themselves in leadership fundamentals and begin the process of team-building.

In fact, the team-building aspect of the course is a key component. Past classes have formed cadres within the community that continue to function long after the class ends and provide a continuing network of support, organizers have observed.

Beginning in October, the class will begin monthly "module"

"Community leadership and engagement can be quite a complex, and we want to develop a pool of local people who have taken the time to study it, understand it and act upon what they have learned," Ada Gerard said.

meetings and explore the state of volunteerism, local government, arts and culture, education, land use and environmental issues, economic development, recreation and tourism and public safety in Rancho Cordova, along with leadership lessons that pertain to each sector.

The group will also develop and execute a class project that will be the signature of their class. Past class projects have included the development of the Rancho Cordova International Festival (now "iFest"), a photographic history of Rancho Cordova on display in City Hall, a summer family film series and more.

The class is not free and does require time commitments for modules, project development and execution. But organizers believe the effort is worthwhile.

"LRC provides graduates who make a difference in the economic health and quality of life in our community through active community engagement," said Diann Rogers, CEO and President of the Rancho Cordova Chamber of Commerce. "Leadership Rancho Cordova provides graduates with the tools necessary to be an effective leader in their community, business or elected office."

Leadership graduates agree. "LRC is a wonderful experience for those who want to get connected with the community and learn how to make a phenomenal difference in the lives of the citizens in Rancho Cordova" said Laurel Bane, alumnus of the program's Class XIII. "If you want to make an impact and have fun doing it, this program is for you."

Recruitment is currently under way, and the deadline for applications is August 15th. For more information about Leadership Rancho Cordova, visit www.RanchoCordova.org.

Around the Horn

- The Mariners haven't provided much run support for ace Felix Hernandez this season. When they give the righthander as many as three runs, the Mariners are 15-2.
- All statistics in 2014 point to a surge in pitching this season. And given the ages of many pitchers enjoying success, the future is bright for fans who love 2-1 games. There are 25 pitchers age 25 or younger (as of June 30) who have logged as many as 90 innings this season. And seven of them have ERAs under 2.80, led by Chris Sale of the White Sox at 2.09. However, of those seven, three — Miami's Henderson Alvarez (2.48), the Yankees' Masahiro Tanaka (2.51) and Michael Wacha of St. Louis (2.79) — are currently on the disabled list with no clear indication when they might return.
- Atlanta's Julio Teheran and Pittsburgh's Jeff Locke share a bit of bad luck this season. The two pitchers have twice gone eight innings in a game in which their team has won, yet the pitchers were saddled with a no-decision.
- Pitching coaches stress avoiding big innings. Manage budding rallies, give up one run maybe, but no crooked numbers, they say. Colorado Rockies pitching coach Jim Wright may want to amend that after last Saturday. On Aug. 2, the Tigers' bats feasted on Colorado pitching to the tune of 11 runs in Detroit's win. Curiously, the Tigers managed just two crooked numbers — one of them a two, the other a three — and posted six one-run innings. It marked the first time since at least 1912 that the Tigers scored in every offensive inning in a game.
- Once the Arizona Diamondbacks reach 15 innings, opponents should just send a position player out to pitch and hope for the best. The D'backs just don't give up games that reach marathon lengths. In the history of the franchise, the Diamondbacks are 13-1 in games that reach at least 15 innings, with the only loss coming to San Diego in 2005. Arizona is 4-0 in 16-inning games and 4-0 in 18-inning games. The Snakes have never played a 17-inning game.

Weekend on Tap

Los Angeles Dodgers at Milwaukee
Two division leaders (at the moment, anyway) will meet six times over a 10-day period beginning with three games in Milwaukee this weekend. Typically, teams don't relish facing Zack Greinke and Clayton Kershaw over the weekend, but somehow the Brewers don't mind. The newly acquired Gerardo Parra has a career .308 average off of Greinke and .360 off of the lefty Kershaw. Carlos Gomez (.400), Rickie Weeks (.364) and Ryan Braun (.304) seem to hit Kershaw well. Rookie Jimmy Nelson of the Brewers will oppose Kershaw on Sunday. Nelson shouldn't be fazed by his counterpart. In his three July starts, Nelson has faced Homer Bailey of Cincinnati, Adam Wainwright of St. Louis and the Mets' young ace Jacob deGrom.

Washington at Atlanta
The current NL East standings show Washington five games ahead of the Braves in the loss column. That may not change over the weekend, but the Braves could really take advantage of facing their division rival. Atlanta has won seven of the 10 meetings this season, including a three-game sweep at home way back in April. The opening game on Friday will feature Ervin Santana for the Braves and Washington's Stephen Strasburg. Santana has made five starts against the Nats with his lone decision (a loss) coming earlier this season. Strasburg is 3-5 with a 4.04 ERA in 14 starts vs. the Braves. Jason Heyward and Freddie Freeman have combined to hit .435 with three homers in 56 plate appearances off of Strasburg.

Fallout From Midseason Wheeling and Dealing

The effect of all 2014 midseason trades begins and ends with starting pitching. The Oakland A's hauled in three starters in Jeff Samardzija, Jason Hammel and Jon Lester, the best of the three. Along with Sonny Gray and veteran Scott Kazmir, the A's now have one of the two best rotations in the game. But this didn't come without a price. Oakland gave up two-time Home Run Derby champ Yoenis Cespedes, its most feared hitter.

David Price (left) and Jon Lester should prove to be the two biggest acquisitions in 2014.

Price, Detroit Free Press/MCT/LANDOV; Lester, Oakland Tribune/MCT/LANDOV

Detroit, the winner of the David Price Derby, arguably has a better rotation than Oakland with the past three AL Cy Young winners atop the group. Detroit and Oakland are now clearly the favorites to win the AL pennant, although the Los Angeles Angels quietly positioned themselves for a magical run this season. The Angels sent four rather mediocre prospects to San Diego for closer Huston Street. The Angels, with Kevin Jepsen, Joe Smith and Street, now have one of the deadliest bullpens in the AL.

Other AL contenders didn't keep pace with the front-runners. Seattle got good return in the three-way deal with Detroit and Tampa Bay, but neither Austin Jackson nor Chris Denorfia gives the M's the big bat they need. Only the Yankees in the East made significant moves and filled a couple of holes, but not landing a frontline starter was a miss for New York. The Orioles and Blue Jays pretty much stood pat. American League sellers Boston and Cleveland did well, especially Boston. Adding Yoenis Cespedes, Allen Craig, some prospects and a compensatory draft pick represents a nice haul for starting pitchers facing free agency this winter.

In the National League, the Cardinals took a huge leap (and gamble) adding two starting pitchers that struggled for most of the first half. But the Redbirds have little salary committed next year and didn't give up any significant prospects. The Nationals, Braves and Brewers made small moves, but none should shift the balance of power. The Dodgers, surprisingly, did little to bolster their roster, perhaps believing they have enough to outlast the Giants, who added a starting pitcher (already their strength), but struck out on finding a hitter. The Pirates, in a dog fight for a playoff spot, did nothing to help themselves, probably costing them a post-season berth.

No NL sellers helped themselves much. San Diego got quantity, but little quality from the Angels. The Phillies, with Marlon Byrd, Chase Utley, Jimmy Rollins, Ryan Howard, Jonathan Papelbon, Cliff Lee and other tradeable pieces, curiously sat this one out.

AL Player of the Week

Brett Gardner, New York
The Yankees' fleet outfielder's career high in home runs entering this season was eight. He swatted five last week to run his season total to 14. He scored eight runs and drove in seven with eight extra-base hits last week. He batted .478 with a 1.832 OPS.

AL Pitcher of the Week

Kyle Gibson, Minnesota
The 2009 first-round pick is beginning to produce results after injuries have derailed his career. Last week, Gibson won two road games for the struggling Twins. He tossed seven scoreless innings in a 2-1 win at Kansas City, and followed that with another seven innings with six hits and no walks at Chicago. For the week, he posted a 1.93 ERA.

NL Player of the Week

Matt Kemp, Los Angeles
The Dodgers' outfielder is enjoying his finest stretch in a couple of years. Last week, he feasted on Atlanta and Chicago pitching. He scored four times and drove home six with four homers in the Dodgers' three-game sweep of the Braves. Kemp followed that series with a pair of homers against the Cubs.

NL Pitcher of the Week

Cole Hamels, Philadelphia
Hamels entered last week a potential trade candidate and ended it with 15 strong innings and no earned runs allowed. He threw eight shutout innings in the Phillies' 6-0 win at New York. Over seven innings at Washington he gave up an unearned run and was saddled with a tough loss. For the week, he struck out 14 with just 10 hits allowed and a walk.

Turn Back the Clock

Aug. 4, 1982
Joel Youngblood hits safely for two different teams, in two different cities. He begins the day batting third in center field for the New York Mets at Chicago in an afternoon tilt. After a first-inning strikeout, he singles in two runs to break a 1-1 tie off Hall of Famer Fergie Jenkins. After the fourth inning, he's traded to the Montreal Expos, who have a night game at Philadelphia. The eager Youngblood hops a flight to Philadelphia, arriving during the game. He is inserted in right field in the sixth inning and singles off Hall of Famer Steve Carlton in his only at-bat for the Expos that night.

Numbers Game

- 0.422 Walks plus hits per inning allowed by the Angels' reliever Joe Smith since given the closing job on June 22. During that stretch he led all relievers (minimum 15 appearances) in WHIP and games (21), and with a .116 batting average against. He struck out 19 and walked just one. His reward? The Angels traded for San Diego closer Huston Street and moved Smith back into a setup role.
- 1.70 ERA for Seattle's Felix Hernandez over his most recent five starts, which resulted in three no-decisions, a win and a loss. The Mariners scored just 10 runs total in the five games, winning three of them.
- 0 Double-plays grounded into this season by Curtis Granderson of the New York Mets. He is the only hitter of the 101 players with as many as 400 plate appearance who has not been doubled up this season.
- .457 Batting average for Tommy Medica of San Diego over the last three weeks (ending Aug. 3), the highest mark in the majors. The Padres traded Chris Denorfia to Seattle recently, which should provide more at-bats for Medica.
- .106 Slugging percentage for James Jones of Seattle over the past three weeks (five singles in 47 at-bats). The Mariners traded for Denorfia and Austin Jackson, formerly of the Tigers, to boost their sagging offense.

Trivia Corner

The recent trade of David Price to Detroit gives the Tigers three American League Cy Young winners. Can you name the most recent team with three former Cy Young winners?

TRIVIA ANSWER: An obvious answer might be the Braves of Maddux, Glavine, Smoltz fame in the early 2000s. But in 2009, Barry Zito, Randy Johnson and Tim Lincecum were teammates in San Francisco.

LETHAL EATING

He's an ER Doc, and he's just about seen it all. The stories Dr. Bob Slay can tell you would absolutely slay you. I know... sorry! Couldn't resist! Anyway, Dr. Bob battled with his own issues like weight control. So he and wife, co-author doctor wife, came up with some great ideas for weight loss in "The Battle Buddy Diet:" 2 Docs, 4 Weeks, Victory. But what caught my attention is his list of 12 lethal foods we should never eat. I'd like to survive my eating habits in order to try the diet. So here are the foods that should be on our 'no-no' list.

- 1. NO FLOUR or any bread products made from processed grain. If the ingredients include the word flour, don't buy it.
- 2. NO "BAD FATS" such as beef, pork, or any type of mammal meat (except game meat). If it has fur, eyes, and a mother, don't eat it. And do not eat it if it has feathers and comes from an egg.
- 3. No fast food almost Never! If you are forced into a fast food joint, look for a low or no fat salad with low fat vegetable oil dressing, or balsamic vinegar.

- 4. NO DAIRY FAT. No dairy products. Sorry about the ice cream. Dairy fats are lethal fats.
- 5. NO FRIED FOODS of any type and that especially includes: the so-called 'vegetable' French Fries. Deep-fried anything, tempura, pan fried foods, donuts, funnel cake, hash browns, and fried seafood are absolutely lethal.
- 6. NO BAKED GOODS. Watch out for the low fat muffin or the fat-free cookies. They frequently have high carbohydrate load, flour, sugar and highly caloric. Crackers, cookies, pretzels, cupcakes, and baked chips are lethal.
- 7. NO SUGARED SOFT DRINKS OR FRUIT JUICES. They are high in sugar (20 grams) or fructose and sodium and have lots of empty calories.
- 8. NO ALCOHOL OR STRICTLY LIMIT INTAKE to two ounces a day or less and make it red wine.
- 9. NO ANIMAL FAT, SATURATED COOKING OILS especially lard and butter, high in saturated fats. Avoid coconut oil, peanut oil, and corn oil.

10. NO MILK, EVEN FAT-FREE since it contains a high carbohydrate and sugar load (12 grams), in an 8 oz glass, and is highly caloric (90 calories).

11. NO WHITE RICE OR WHITE POTATOES. Use brown rice and yams instead.

12. NO SWEETS, CANDY OR PASTRY DESSERTS including : milk chocolate (mixed sugar and milk), candy, crepes, pies, cheese cake, fruit tarts, pastries, fruit cobbler, ice cream, and the ubiquitous donut holes.

Any food made with sugar is not needed by your body. Sugar is super lethal and directly linked to the development of diabetes and obesity. NO SUGAR EVER!!!

Now I have to be honest with you. My first thought is WHAT'S LEFT !!?#!? The good Doc is also a stand-up comedian, and I hope some of this was tongue and cheek, but I have a suspicion, he really means it. Anyway, that's what he told me and so I'm passing it on. You can find out more information at www.battlebuddydiet.com. He is also the spokesperson for LAUGHMD because he believes laughter brings healing to hospital patients. Now he's talking my language. Keep a smile on your face and do the BEST YOU CAN!!! STAY WELL! ★

Pioneer Trek Challenges Youth

Dressed in period costume of the 1800s, youth and leaders of Sacramento Cordova Stake of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints haul handcarts during their 21-mile, three-day trek. The pioneer re-enactment provides a grueling reminder of the hardships faced by pioneers.

Inset: With multiple yokes, boys and men of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints work together to haul each of 10 handcarts in turn up an especially steep incline.

ended up being a few hours until right before lunch."

Their solo efforts concluded at the end of an especially steep and difficult hill. The men, who had marched ahead, saw the women tackling that hill. "The women's pull was inspiring because it was really long and hard," Kyla said. "There was this hill that seemed to never stop. We just had to keep going, one foot in front of the other."

After that, the men took sole charge to get the 10 handcarts up an even steeper stretch, covered with loose rock and heavy with dust. "Basically half of the men took up one cart and the other half took up another, and then they just rotated," Maria said.

"Ten times, up and down a very steep, very dusty, hill."

After that, it was a relief to work together.

"I don't remember who said it, but there is a saying," said 14-year-old Marissa Mavy of Mather. "By ourselves we are great, but together we are unstoppable. I kept thinking about that quote."

For two nights the company camped on the mountain under the stars, boys in one area and girls in another. "(The campground) looked over gorgeous mountains," said Kara Green, 17, of Rancho Cordova. "In the distance you could see the valley. It was really nice, a really great area."

The third day followed a similar pattern. "Even though we were all together, it was just more hills and hills," Kyla said. "We were thinking we're so high up right now there's no way we could go any higher. But there were still hills we were going up."

The consensus was positive in spite of, or maybe because of, the difficulty of the journey. "Who goes out and does 20 miles in 1847 type clothing for three days?" asked Kyle Standing. "I think it's a person who wants to appreciate history a little bit more, who wants to fortify something deep within them, and at the end of the day wants to say I accomplished something difficult and I have a greater respect for those who went before me." ★
