Dignity Health Gives Grants to Help Thousands in Need

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Dignity Health, which operates the Mercy, Methodist, Woodland and Sierra Nevada affiliate hospitals in the greater Sacramento region, has awarded $846,014 in grant funding to 28 nonprofit organizations in Sacramento, El Dorado, Placer, Yolo and Nevada counties.

The grants, from $5,000 to $50,000 will build capacity in the community to offer much needed services ranging from primary care to mental illness to managing terminal illness, dental care and various social support programs to underserved and vulnerable populations. This year's recipient organizations reach out to local ethnic communities and provide services to multiple generations from infants to the elderly.

"The Dignity Health Community Grants Program is committed to establishing meaningful collaborative programs among nonprofit organizations dedicated to improving the health of people living in our community," said Sister Bridget McCarthy, vice president, mission integration, Greater Sacramento - San Joaquin service area. "These grants are an opportunity for our hospitals and community nonprofit organizations to work together to strengthen safety net capacity, leverage resources and build a greater continuum of care for those we serve."

The Dignity Health Community Grants Program is open to all nonprofit community service organizations that share Dignity Health's mission and values and are dedicated to building healthier communities by improving health and living disparities. The program supports organizations that increase access to care for the poor and address the underlying causes of illness - such as physical and substance abuse, neglect, poverty and homelessness - as well as specific health issues. Legal Drama Sparks Arena Debates

McGinness to Moderate Third Debate As Arena Issue Intensifies

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The consequences of a June vote on Sacramento's arena funding will be the topic for Arena Debate 3, the third town hall discussion between John Hyde and R.E. Graswich. The debate takes place on Tuesday, February 11, at Belle Cooledge Library, 5600 South Land Park Boulevard, 7 - 8 p.m. Doors open at 6:30 p.m.

"The events unfolding around the arena petition are unprecedented," said Hyde, "and despite media attention, there's still a lot of misinformation circulating. It's critical that the community understands what's really at stake in this election."

Hyde is a former spokesperson for STOP (Sacramento Taxpayers Opposed to Pork), the group seeking to place the sports subsidy question before voters.

Graswich, former Special Assistant to Mayor Kevin Johnson and author of the new book on the Sacramento Kings, "Vagrant Kings," takes the opposite side, arguing against a public vote and citing the City Clerk's rejection of STOP's petition due to "major" legal flaws.

"The vote is a sham designed to kill the arena and run the Kings out of town," Graswich said. "Even if you don't like the Kings, you'd better know the consequences of sending the team and their $1 billion investment down the river to San Jose or a more welcoming city."

Former Sacramento County Sheriff John McGinness will moderate Arena Debate 3, which is sponsored by Inside Publications. Former City Council members Lauren Hammond and Rob Fong moderated the first two debates.

Those debates, held in December and January in North Natomas and Pocket, were popular, energized events that addressed multiple issues surrounding public subsidies for sports facilities. Hyde and Graswich are the only community figures conducting public debates on the Sacramento arena topic.

The debates are free to the public, with news media and audience members encouraged to videotape and post the discussions. A portion of the hour will be devoted to questions from the audience.

Final State Water Action Plan Released: Outlines California's Near- and Long-Term Water Priorities

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As California experiences one of the driest winters on record, the California Natural Resources Agency, the California Environmental Protection Agency, and the California Department of Food and Agriculture released the final California Water Action Plan, laying out goals and vision for the next five years. The plan will guide state efforts to enhance water supply reliability, restore damaged and destroyed ecosystems, and improve the resilience of our infrastructure.

At the direction of Gov.

Edmund G. Brown Jr., a collaborative effort of state agencies, and nearly 100 substantive public and stakeholder comments formed a plan to set direction for a host of near- and long-term actions on water issues for the state.

"It is a tall order. But it is what we must do to get through this drought and prepare for the next," said Gov. Brown in his 2014 State of the State address.

The Governor's proposed 2014-15 budget lays a solid fiscal foundation for implementing near-term actions for the plan, recommending $618.7 million in funding for water efficiency projects, wetland and watershed restoration, groundwater programs, conservation, flood control, and integrated water management.

"As we work on emergency actions to manage through one of the driest winters on record, we are also taking proactive, long-term steps to prepare California for future droughts and flood," said Secretary for Natural Resources John Laird. "Each decade brings improvements, but also significantly highlights what we can do better. The California

By Jane S. Daly

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - What do you get when you mix unlimited crab, pulled pork, and colorful Hawaiian shirts? The Chamber of Commerce's annual crab feed gala.

The evening of January 30 began with 260 hungry people, many sporting flowered shirts and flip flops instead of suits, ties, and dresses. Liquid libations were in abundance, including Wiki-Wak, the Chamber's special drink. The charming Ms. Simney Chhuon, News 10 anchor, introduced the sponsors and dignitaries.

As usual with the annual dinner, new Chamber board members took their oath of office. Retiring board chair, Terrence McNamara (CC Myers) handed the gavel to the 2014 chair, Steve Millner (US Bank).

Chamber CEO Diann Rogers thanked McNamara for all he'd accomplished in the past year. Retiring board members Josiah Kitonga (Hyatt Place), Kristin DiLallo Sherrill (CEAR), Mary Anne Kelly (Kelly Consulting), and Heather Pollock (Republic Services) were given special recognition from several elected officials.

The new board members Beth Tinch (SMUD) and Jane Daly (First Bank) took the oath of office, promising to:

- Serve on each and every committee, task force, coalition, working group, and commission, because not only am I dedicated I have the time.

- Personally provide wine, gift cards, auction items, raffle prizes for our events – even if I must re-gift items from my personal gift closet

- Attend all board meetings, mixers, luncheons, galas, golf tournaments, special events – because I am dedicated and have the time.

The oath was taken freely and without undue pressure.

The business community gathered together to sponsor everything from the water to the venue. Food was plentiful, courtesy of West Coast Events, with local American River Brewing providing craft beer.

Individual table sponsors were treated to personalized cupcakes, courtesy of Sugar Bake Cupcakes. Dez

Vision Images roamed the room, capturing the event on film.

An exciting live auction topped off the evening. Bidding was fierce for the opportunity to spend 'quality time' with Mayor Dan Skoglund, Supervisor Don Nottoli, Assemblyman Ken Cooley, and Congressman Ami Bera. Who knew so many business people wanted to be up close and personal with our elected officials?

The Chamber's annual dinner not only supports ongoing programs to benefit local businesses, but a special 'Fund-A-Need' auction raised almost $10,000 for Leadership Rancho Cordova, chaired by Ada Gerard, President of Heald College. "Building our bench today is key to Rancho Cordova's success in the next decade." ★

New Exhibit, Valentines, Puppets, & Science Are on February Agenda at Children’s Museum

Story Factory that embraces literacy and reading exploration will be installed at the Sacramento Children’s Museum in February.

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - February art projects at the Sacramento Children’s Museum (SCM) in Rancho Cordova will feature making valentine cards, masks, and puppets. February will also be Pop-Up Science Month and will include Science Sundays.

But the big news is that Story Factory that features a theater and stage will be installed in the Museum. The new exhibit will include “tell-a-story” prompt cards, a dress-up area, and a video component so children can see their story come to life. Story Factory will serve as a platform to carry out structured literacy activities and general reading and literacy exploration for SCM visitors. The Museum will be closed from Monday, February 3rd, through Thursday, February 6th, during the installation.

“Focusing on literacy and story-telling, Story Factory will enable children to create their own stories and explore how stories and reading come together,” said Sharon Stone Smith, the Museum’s Executive Director. “The video component will provide the opportunity for others to watch what the children create on the screen.”

SCM, located at 2701Prospect Park Drive in Rancho Cordova, is made up of eight exhibit areas where children, 8 years and younger, are encouraged to think for themselves and expand their problem-solving abilities through creative exploration and exercise. The Museum is open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday and from noon to 5 p.m. on Sunday. The Museum features birthday party packages and school and youth group field trip opportunities. For more information, call (916) 638-7225 or go to www.sackids.org. ★

Albert Balliet: November 27, 1927 - January 25, 2014

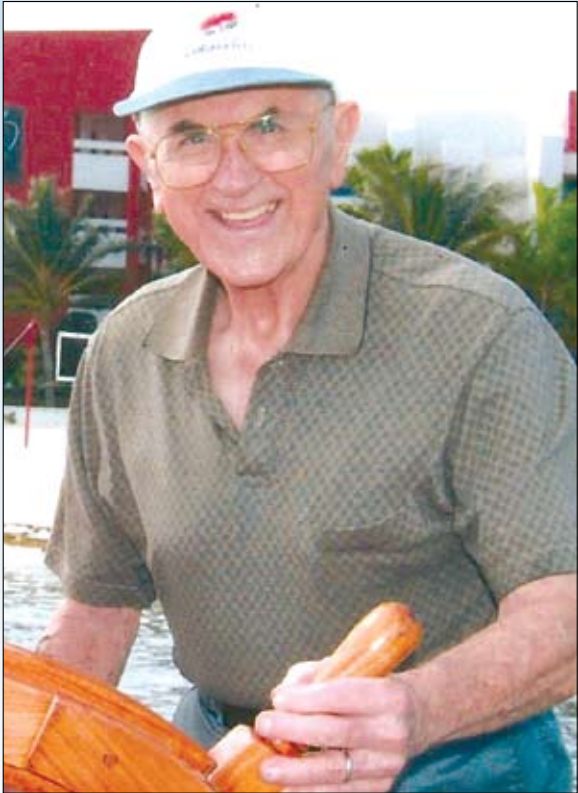

In Loving Memory

Albert Balliet, 86, passed away peacefully on January 25, surrounded by his loving family, following a five-month valiant encounter with cancer.

Born November 27, 1927, in Lansford, Pennsylvania, to Albert and Arlene, he was the second of eight children. He is survived by his loving and devoted wife, Barbara, daughter Alicia Shiflet (William) and five grandsons, Christopher and Eric Wilson, William and Zachary Shiflet, and Michael Anderson (Laura), two brothers, two sisters, and many nieces and nephews. Daughter Linda preceded him in death in 1991.

Al graduated from Mauch Chunk High School (now Jim Thorpe) PA in 1945, valedictorian of his class. He served in the United States Air force in the Pacific Theatre for 18 months. He then enrolled at Muhlenberg College in Allentown, PA graduating in 1951 – a B.S. degree in chemistry, and then was employed by Atlas Powder Company in Tamaqua, PA. Three months later, he and Barbara Henritz (wed January 28, 1950), were transferred to the explosives plant in Giant, CA (Richmond). In 1960 they transferred to the plant in Joplin, MO, and in 1962, moved to Rancho Cordova, where he was plant manager at the Aerojet Nitroplasticizer plant until 1970.

The next two years he became licensed through the National Association of Securities Dealers as a Registered Representative and acquired insurance licenses for Life, health and Disability and Variable Annuities through eight states. From 1972-76, he was Director of Pacific Securities Assoc. In 1975, Al became one of the first 200 Certified Financial Planners in the United States. He was a member of the Sacramento Chapter of IAFP, including past president and a member of the Institute of Certified Financial Planners, National Tax Consultants and National Association of Enrolled Agents. He was a life member of VFW Post 10125 in Rancho Cordova.

Al and Barbara have been residents of Rancho Cordova and members of Grace Lutheran church for 52 years. Al served on the church council, Men in Mission, taught the Bethel Bible Series for eight years and was a member of the Gideons International for 10 years. Al loved his Lord. They did their daily devotions-home or away. Always active, al enjoyed running, participating in Eppie’s Great Race, Dipsea, Bay to Breakers and several other local runs – then he and Barbara became volunteers. He was an avid abalone man (his largest shells are treasures). Both were golfers and sincere about exercise and swimming. After retiring, he renewed his love for bridge – he had not played for 40 years – numbers and people things he loved so much. They devoted many hours at the Sacramento Zoo and Cordova community activities.

He and Barb loved playing scrabble and frequently challenged their grandchildren.

They traveled extensively, starting in 1975 when his brother Chris was stationed in Germany

Possessing a fabulous personality and smile, he was a favorite wherever he went. Even with the latest illness, diagnosed in August and given two months to live, he never complained or asked why. His relationship with his Lord was so secure.

Al will be missed deeply by Barbara, Alicia, his grandchildren, family members and friends.

A celebration of Al’s life will be held at Grace Lutheran Church, Saturday, February 8 at noon. Interment will be at a later date.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to Grace Lutheran Church Roof Fund, 2201 Benita Drive, Rancho Cordova, CA 95670, the Sacramento Zoo, 3930 West land Park Drive, Sacramento, CA 95822 or to the American Cancer Society.

By Bob McGarvey

For those who aren't familiar with the "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner," "water, water every where" is part of the poem which was written in 1797-1798 by Samuel Taylor Coleridge. In the poem, the mariner's ship is becalmed and while there is ocean water, there is no water to drink.

We aren't quite that desperate, but the water shortage in California is forcing decision makers to look at new avenues of "what can we do." The biggest change that the drought has forced them to do hasn't been considered nor thought of for decades. There will be no water being sent to Southern California from Northern California. And this time, we aren't looking at the water wars of the past in which voting power or money power was the decision maker. When there is no water to send, neither votes nor money will create more H2O.

Building more dams and finding other ways to save and store the water when it does rain is up for legislative review again. Saving the water we have will need both State and Federal legislation and they need to get some things done that will help us when the winter is as dry as this one is. The weather this weekend is predicted to include rain. I hope the weather forecasters are right because every rain drop in the valley and every snow flake in the mountains are more precious than gold. And having legislators do nothing except argue is not acceptable!

I have family members who live in Indiana and like at least of two thirds of the United States, they are either receiving extra rain or are freezing because of the storms coming down from the Arctic. The only thing for sure with the weather is change. And the change isn't what is expected or predicted. I have a weather rock that has a 50-50 chance of being right half of the time. For example if it is wet, it's raining; if it is swinging, the wind is blowing; if it casts a shadow, the sun is shining; if it is coated with ice (like the water fountain in front of our house was last December), it's below 32 degrees; if it can't be seen, it is either night time or it's foggy; if it's under water, there is a flood; and if it's missing, there was a tornado. Those are only a few examples of how accurate the weather rock is or can be, but it is also fun.

Many people saw Punxsutawney Phil, the famous groundhog weather prognosticator, see his shadow on Groundhog Day and foretell of six more weeks of winter. Actually I wouldn't mind six more weeks of winter if those six weeks included lots of rain and snow. And hopefully it will mean REAL rain and snow . . . the measurable stuff that is!

Slim Randles' HOME COUNTRY

Our resident cowboy, Steve, brought us the shocking news: cowpuncher Three-Chord Cortez, that bunkhouse balladeer, plans to study opera, in hopes an aria or three will make him even more attractive to girls during a serenade. Apparently, singing La Donna Mobile might be more effective than “You don’t know what lonesome is ‘til you start herding co-o-o-ows” ... especially if she doesn’t speak European.

I thought I’d jot down a few opera truths for ol’ T.C. just to help him out.

1. Take off your hat. You can keep jujubes in it if you want.
2. If you like a particular aria, you can yell Bravo! if it’s a man, Brava! if it’s a woman, or Bravisimo! if it’s an isimo. It’s considered poor form to yell “Eeeee-HAAA!” or “You get ‘em, Hon!”
3. One of the strangest operatic

Don't Forget to Clean Your Boots devices is called recitative – pronounced rest-a-TEEF – (don’t ask), and is a combination of singing and speaking that is used when the composer wants to hurry through a song because he wasn’t too fond of it in the first place but it was in the contract and he wants it out of the way quickly. Feel free to mention recitative to a woman at half time.

Operas have two half times.

The speaking part of the recitative is done like a machine gun, and then you break into song when you get tired of that, and it can happen in the same sentence. For example:

“Don’t make me come down there, don’t make me come down there, don’t make me come down there and k-i-i-i-I-I-I-I-i-ck your bu-u-u-u-ut.”

4. That bit of music they play before the curtain goes up is called the overture, and not foreplay.

It’s to give you a hint of what’s to come, in case you decide to leave early. You might listen to the overture and say, “That allegretto tickles my fancy, but if that tenor duet goes on for more than two minutes, I’ll get the scours.”

This makes a guy a connoisseur, you see. Connoisseur is European for smart aleck.

And finally, 5. Don’t forget to clean your boots. ★

CORDOVA HIGH SCHOOL SPORTS

Lancer Hoops Finish 1st Half of League Undefeated

By Mike Bush

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - In the first quarter of its Capital Athletic League game on Jan. 31, the Cordova High School boys basketball team jumped out to a fast start against Whitney. But the Lancers had to hold off a late rally toward the end of the game to preserve a 59-57 victory to remain undefeated in league.

Earlier last week, Cordova (5-0 in CAL, 14-7) bounced Antelope, 75-50, in a home game. Against Whitney, Cordova, which led 49-45 entering the fourth quarter, held off a late Whitney rally in the final eight minutes of the game to conclude the first round of CAL action with a win.

“We started the game real hot, playing solid defense,” Cordova head coach Fletcher Johnson said. “But they (Whitney) made adjustments in the second quarter. They made a good run with us. We were able to pull it out in the end.”

Cordova jumped out to a 22-10 first quarter lead. But Whitney rallied in the second quarter, 17-12, to trim the Lancers’ lead at halftime, 34-27.

Two Cordova players scored in double figures; Jordan Roberson had 22 points and Nathaniel Hendrix finished with 12. JaQuan Lewis followed with five points, Lamar Brewer, Marquis Bolden and Alex Yakimchuk scored four points each and CJ Coles had two.

CORDOVA 75, ANTELOPE 50

In the Jan. 28 game at the Lancers’ gym, Cordova, leading 50-43 after three quarters, out-scored Antelope in the fourth quarter, 25-7, to secure the win.

Cordova jumped out to a 19-16 lead after the first quarter. But Antelope made a run in the second quarter to tie the game at 29-29 at halftime. Roberson had the hot hand for the Lancers, scoring 34 points. Coles followed with 13 and Hendrix 12. Chris Johnson followed in scoring with nine, Brewer four and Bolden three. “He (Roberson) played an outstanding defensive game,” said Johnson of Roberson, a guard. “He played a strong game.”

Johnson feels when more than one Lancer scores in double figures, the end result will be a victory. “Anytime we get three or more people in double figures we’re playing real well,” Johnson said.

Cordova was almost perfect at the free throw line; the Lancers made 16-of-19 shots from the charity stripe. They also pulled down 42 rebounds. Chris Johnson had 11 boards, while Bolden and Roberson had nine each. Johnson had four of the Lancers’ 10 steals, and Roberson had three. Cordova begins the second round of CAL play this week. On Wednesday, the Lancers played at Mira Loma. Today – Friday – Cordova will host Rio Americano. On Wednesday, Feb. 12, Cordova will play at El Camino.

Tip-off for both games are scheduled for 7 p.m. ★

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG)

After the shouting of cross face, backdoor, cradle, sweep the leg ended and the last whistle blew, the Cordova Wrestling team found themselves the proud owners of 7 medals to bring home on Saturday, February 1, 2014. One squad led by Head Coach Marco Garcia headed to Oakland for the Oakland Winter Classic held at Castlemont High School while another squad led by Coach Rick Fullum headed to Loomis for a tournament held at Del Oro High School. The Cordova Lancer wrestlers were outnumbered but not out shined. They wrestled with pride and power.

In Oakland, junior Carlos Cuevas took home a 1st place gold medal in the 138 pound weight division and junior John Graf brought home the gold in the 152 pound division.

In Loomis, a packed Del Oro gymnasium found 34 different High Schools and 308 contestants battling it out for bragging rights. Because of the large turnout, multiple brackets were needed in some of the weight classes to accommodate all the wrestlers.

After the dust cleared from the mats, five Cordova wrestlers came home with medals. Freshman Angel Frost finished with a 2nd place silver medal in the 108 pound division while freshman Tim Wood and junior Zach Sloan each took home a 3rd place bronze medal in the 128 pound division. Two Lancers found themselves in head-to-head combat for 1st place honors in the 172 pound division with the gold going to Sophomore Dante Hume after a hard 3 round victory over junior Armenak Gevorkyan, who settled with the 2nd place silver.

A special thanks goes out to FCUSD Board Member Richard Shaw for contributing the funds to help pay the entry fees for both tournaments. If anyone is interested in helping the Cordova Wrestling program, please contact parent volunteer Rick Sloan at (916) 871-8877. All donations are tax deductible. ★

“Our first half kept us the winners of the match,” Rose said. “We were able to play 28 of our 29 players for some time in the 70 minutes.”

Lancers who shined in the game were sophomore Eryc Wolf, and senior captains Erick Jarquin and Journey Fatu.

Other seniors who contributed in the game were Falou Maui, George Espinoza, Dylan Krause, James Tuiquila and Grant Johnson played solid, along with juniors Vincent Spikes, Azat Kudbuyan and Darrian Bienaman, and sophomore Johnathan McDonald.

Prime Time Players

JUSTIN COBBS, CALIFORNIA
Cobbs delivered one of the most memorable shots of the season, drilling a step-back jumper with 0.9 seconds remaining to lift Cal to a 60–58 win over top-ranked Arizona. Cobbs, who scored the Golden Bears' final 12 points, scored 19 points and handed out seven assists. The Bears had lost their previous three games.

DEANGELO HARRISON, ST. JOHN'S
Harrison scored 27 points and added six rebounds and two blocked shots to lead St. John's to a convincing 74–59 win over Marquette. The Red Storm lost their first five Big East games but have since won three of four to improve to 3–6 in the league. Harrison, a junior guard from Texas, ranks third in the conference in scoring at 18.1 points per game.

JABARI BROWN, MISSOURI
His team came up short on Saturday afternoon — losing 84–79 at home to Kentucky — but Brown was the best player on a court loaded with McDonald's All-Americans. Brown, a former 5-star recruit who began his career at Oregon, led Missouri with 33 points on 10-of-17 shooting from the floor and 10-of-12 from the foul line. Earlier in the week, Brown scored 24 points (on only 11 shots) in the Tigers' 75–71 win at Arkansas.

JUWAN STATEN, WEST VIRGINIA
Surging West Virginia won for the third time in the last four games thanks to a career day from its junior point guard. Staten, a one-time Dayton Flyer, scored 35 points and had four rebounds and five assists (and only two turnovers) in 38 minutes of action in the Mountaineers' 81–71 win over Kansas State. West Virginia, who upset Baylor in Waco earlier in the week, is now 5–4 in the rugged Big 12.

MARCUS KENNEDY, SMU
SMU bounced back from a midweek loss at South Florida to beat Memphis 87–72 on Saturday in one of the biggest games at the school in decades. Kennedy, a 6'9", 245-pound Philadelphia native, led the way with 21 points (on a perfect 10-of-10 from the field) and 15 rebounds for Larry Brown's team.

DEANDRE KANE, IOWA STATE
Kane came one assist and one rebound shy of a triple-double in Iowa State's thrilling triple-overtime win at Oklahoma State Monday night. Kane, a senior transfer from Marshall, scored 26 points to go along with his nine rebounds and nine assists in 52 minutes of action.

DREW CRAWFORD, NORTHWESTERN
It was a huge week for the Northwestern program, which won at Wisconsin on Wednesday night by 11 and Minnesota on Saturday by one. Crawford, a fifth-year senior who flirted with transferring in the offseason, averaged 23.5 points and 6.5 rebounds in the two wins. The Wildcats, under first-year coach Chris Collins, have won three straight Big Ten road games for the first time since the 1959-60 season.

JARNELL STOKES, TENNESSEE
Tennessee bounced back from a disheartening 67–41 loss at Florida with two convincing wins over SEC foes last week. Stokes, a junior forward, scored 13 points and had 14 rebounds in a midweek 86–70 win over Ole Miss and then had a dominating 22-point, 15-rebound effort in Saturday night's 17-point victory at Alabama.

TYLER HAWS, BYU
BYU has been a disappointment this season, but the Cougars are getting great production from Haws. A junior guard from Alpine, Utah, Haws averaged 35.5 points while shooting 59.5 percent from the field to lead BYU to wins over Pacific and Saint Mary's last week. He is averaging 24.6 points.

YOGI FERRELL, INDIANA
With Indiana desperate for a quality win, Ferrell delivered in the clutch, scoring 27 points to lead the Hoosiers' offense and helping slow down Michigan's Nik Stauskas on the defensive end of the floor. Ferrell hit 8-of-10 from the floor, including 7-of-8 from 3-point range, in Indiana's most important win of the season.

TREVOR COONEY, SYRACUSE
Cooney drilled a school-record nine 3-pointers and scored a career-high 33 points to help No. 1 Syracuse to a tougher-than-expected 61–55 win over Notre Dame just two days after the Orange's epic overtime win over Duke. Cooney, a sophomore guard, is shooting 43.6 percent from 3-point range and averaging 14.1 points.

Ask the Editors

McDermott continues to shine

Who was the Player of the Month in college basketball in January?

Mitch Light: I didn't overthink this one; it's Doug McDermott from Creighton. The frontrunner for National Player of the Year honors, McDermott was sensational during January, averaging 26.1 points and 6.1 rebounds while shooting over 50 percent from the field. He started the New Year with a 30-point, 10-rebound performance in a win at Seton Hall and capped it off with a season-high 39 points — including the game-winning three with 2.5 seconds remaining — in a 63–60 victory over St. John's.

David Fox: Even though Doug McDermott is a virtual certainty for National Player of the Year, my top player of January is one of the few players in the Big East who can match McDermott's scoring prowess. Bryce Cotton of Providence has been one of the most underrated players in the country, but the Friars are on the precipice of their first NCAA bid in a decade thanks to Cotton's play of late. Cotton averaged 21.7 points and 6.3 rebounds in a month that saw Providence beat Georgetown, Creighton and Butler. Even more, Cotton has been a workhorse, averaging 41.1 minutes per game thanks to a double-overtime game against St. John's in which he played all 50 minutes.

Braden Gall: Few players had as good of a start to the 2014 calendar year as Cincinnati's Sean Kilpatrick. First of all, the Bearcats went 9–0 in conference play during January, highlighted by wins at Memphis and Louisville. Kilpatrick scored 18 in the road win over the Tigers and 28 in the road win over the Cardinals. On the month, the Cincy sharpshooter averaged 20.1 points and 4.8 rebounds and shot 86 percent from the foul line. In addition, he had just nine turnovers in the final seven games of the month.

Bigger surprise: Texas (6–2 in the Big 12) or Virginia (8–1 in the ACC)?

Light: Anyone who watched Virginia in the month of December has to be stunned that the Cavs are off to such a fast start in the ACC. In a four-day stretch in early December, Virginia scored 38 points in a loss at home to Wisconsin and lost at Green Bay. Then after closer-than-expected wins over Northern Iowa and Norfolk State, Virginia was blasted by 35 points at Tennessee. Since that debacle in Knoxville, the Cavs are 8–1, with the only loss coming by three points at Duke. The emergence of sophomore guard Malcolm Brogdon as a consistent scorer has been a huge key. Since failing to score in 21 minutes in the loss at Tennessee, Brogdon has averaged 15.2 points, with a low of 11 against Florida State and a high of 18 against Virginia Tech. Virginia is done with Duke and North Carolina, and only has to play Syracuse once — at home. Don't be shocked if this team stays in the ACC title hunt until early March.

Creighton's Doug McDermott was terrific in the month of January and heads into the stretch drive as the favorite to be named National Player of the Year.

Fox: Texas is perhaps the biggest surprise of any team since conference play began. With a new athletic director and diminishing results in recent years, Rick Barnes appeared to be on his last leg with the Longhorns. Entering the season, the Horns did not have the look of a team ready to compete in a deep Big 12. The roster had been shed of most of its high-profile recruits — and it's worth mentioning those prospects didn't really pan out anyway. In reality, though, Texas shed itself of malcontents and egos. The Longhorns have become a legit team in the Big 12 and a threat to advance in the NCAA Tournament thanks to the out-of-nowhere emergence of Jonathan Holmes, the arrival of freshman point guard Isaiah Taylor and development of Cameron Ridley.

Weekend on Tap

SATURDAY, FEB. 8

TEXAS AT KANSAS STATE

Surprising Texas improved to 6–2 in the Big 12 with a convincing win over Kansas on Saturday. The Longhorns have defeated Iowa State, Kansas State, Baylor and KU in the last four games. Not bad for a team picked to finish anywhere from eighth to 10th in the Big 12 in the preseason. K-State has slipped to the middle of the pack after a hot start in the league (4–1), but this team is tough to beat in Manhattan.

MICHIGAN AT IOWA

Iowa can play its way back into the Big Ten race if it takes care of business this week at home against Ohio State on Tuesday and Michigan on Saturday. Michigan lost for the first time in Big Ten action on Sunday at Indiana, but the Wolverines — with a road win at Michigan State in their back pocket — still have to be considered the team to beat.

BAYLOR AT OKLAHOMA

Baylor stopped a five-game losing streak with a surprising — and potentially season-saving — win at Oklahoma State last Saturday. This team has enough talent to work its way back into the NCAA Tournament picture. Oklahoma's roster isn't as impressive as Baylor's, but the Sooners have the advantage on the bench — Lon Kruger is one of the game's elite coaches.

NORTH CAROLINA AT NOTRE DAME

The Tar Heels have recovered from a disastrous start in ACC play and once again appear to be a team capable of winning some games in the NCAA Tournament. Notre Dame has struggled to remain relevant in the ACC without Jerian Grant, who was lost for the season due to academics. Mike Brey's team is very tough to beat at home — the Irish knocked off Duke in South Bend on Jan. 4 — but Carolina has the decided edge in talent.

CINCINNATI AT SMU

It's gone largely unnoticed, but Cincinnati is off to a 10–0 start in the new American Athletic Conference. The Bearcats, who already have wins at Memphis and Louisville, will be tested on Saturday at suddenly relevant SMU. The Mustangs, under the guidance of Larry Brown, improved to 6–3 in the American with a resounding win over Memphis last weekend. SMU is closing in on its first NCAA Tournament appearance since 1993.

PROVIDENCE AT XAVIER

Providence and Xavier are among a pack of teams fighting for third place — behind Creighton and Villanova — in the new-look Big East. Both teams feature star power, with Bryce Cotton leading the way for Providence and Semaj Christon continuing to shine at Xavier.

OREGON AT ARIZONA STATE

This is a key game between two middle-of-the-pack Pac-12 teams who figure to be fighting for at-large bids to the NCAA Tournament. Arizona State rebounded from a slow start in league play and is now 5–4 with a three-game homestand looming. Oregon stopped the bleeding with a win over USC at home on Saturday, but the Ducks have not played well since the end of December.

MISSOURI AT OLE MISS

Two of the nation's most feared 3-point shooters will be on display in Oxford this weekend when Marshall Henderson and the Rebels host Jabari Brown and Mizzou. Henderson's overall shooting percentage is down from last season, but he's been more accurate from 3-point range despite attempting more shots per game. Brown, the SEC's leading scorer (20.4 ppg), is shooting 47.7 percent from beyond the arc.

GONZAGA AT MEMPHIS

Gonzaga has already hit the 20-win mark, but the Bulldogs have not defeated a sure-fire NCAA Tournament team yet. Beating Memphis on the road would no wonders for the Zags' résumé. Memphis shouldn't have to worry about earning an invite to the NCAAs, but the Tigers could use a few more quality wins to improve their seed.

WICHITA STATE AT NORTHERN IOWA

Wichita State's undefeated record will be put to the test this week with trips to Indiana State on Wednesday and Northern Iowa on Saturday. UNI has struggled a bit of late, but the Panthers beat VCU at home earlier this season. Wichita State will have to play well to win this game.

SUNDAY, FEB. 9

MICHIGAN STATE AT WISCONSIN

A month ago, we were wondering if this might be Bo Ryan's best team at Wisconsin. Now, we are asking: What happened? Once 16–0, the Badgers carried a 17–5 mark into Tuesday's game at Illinois. The biggest issue for Ryan's team has been on defense. Michigan State stubbed its toe in a neutral-site game against Georgetown last weekend, but the Spartans remain a threat to reach the Final Four.

CREIGHTON AT ST. JOHN'S

St. John's has the talent to get on a late-season roll and make a run at the NCAA Tournament. The Red Storm's only loss in the last five games came by three at Creighton on a Doug McDermott 3-pointer in the closing seconds. Creighton is 8–1 in the Big East and leads the league in both offensive and defensive efficiency in conference games.

In the Greater Sacramento region, Dignity Health hospitals that contribute to the grants program are Mercy General Hospital, Methodist Hospital, Mercy San Juan Medical Center, Mercy Hospital of Folsom, Woodland Healthcare and Sierra Nevada Memorial Hospital.

Grant funding is awarded according to specific criteria and restricted to the specific programs proposed.

To foster collaboration this year, Dignity Health’s hospitals in the Sacramento region asked nonprofit organizations to submit partnership proposals that provide a continuum of care for specific target populations.

Health Network, Southeast Asian Assitance Center and La Familia Counseling Center will work together to improve culturally specific health access for underserved Hmong, Mien, Vietnamese and Latino populations.

4. Health for All, Volunteers in Victim Assistance, Health and Life Organization, Inc., United lu-Mien Community, Inc. and Crime Victim Assistance Foundation (iCAN) will in partnership provide victims of violence and their families with medical, dental, mental and social services that can help them cope with the devastating after effects of trauma, with a focus on prevention and education.

6. Loaves & Fishes/Genesis Mental Health, Downtown Sacramento Foundation, Community Link and Transitional Living and Community Support, Inc. will link Sacramento’s disabled and long-term homeless to medical and behavioral health services, creating a homeless health care access portal for the chronic homeless.

Grant awards were also made to the following organizations and partnerships in Yolo County:

1. Suicide Prevention and Crisis Services in Yolo County and Yolo Community Care Continuum will work together to identify individuals calling a 24-hour crisis phone line who are in need of immediate stabilization, residential care and other support services.

2. Citizens Who Care for the Elderly and Rural Innovations in Social Economics (RISE) will provide no cost support services to older adults and families coping with the challenges of various stages of dementia, ranging from early memory loss to advanced dementia.

Grant Awards were made to the following organizations and partnerships in Nevada County:

1. Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Coalition and the Friendship Club will work collaboratively on a program that focuses on the integration of behavioral health and primary care to vulnerable populations.

2. Western Sierra Medical Clinic (WSMC), FREED Center for Independent Living and Community Recovery Resources will work together on initiatives that provide access to primary care and preventative services for vulnerable populations.

Since the program’s inception in 1990, Dignity Health hospitals have made grant awards for nearly 3,000 projects, totaling almost $47 million. Grant recipients are required to complete a detailed grant proposal outlining the purpose and scope of the project to be funded, as well as the population to be served, the project’s outcomes, plans for its long-term operation and measurement of success. Projects must be in the area of health care and related social services. ★

Water Action Plan gives us clear focus and vision for the next five years.”

Final revisions to the draft plan, released in October, include an expanded section on drought response and a new effort focused on better management of Sierra Nevada headwaters that helps water storage and quality, and ecosystems. Public comment on the draft plan made it clear that California must better understand the economic and ecological harm of sustained dry weather. The Governor’s proposed budget would provide $472.5 million in Proposition 84 funds to the Department of Water Resources (DWR) for integrated regional water management. The bond funds would leverage local and federal investment in projects that reduce demand, build supply, and offer additional benefits such as wildlife habitat and flood management. The budget also placed immediate emphasis on water and energy use efficiency and wetlands and coastal watershed restoration to further support the resiliency of water supply and ecosystems during this dry weather period.

The governor's budget also would allow DWR to better monitor the groundwater resources that provide more than one-third of California's supplies in dry years, and supports the development of a state backstop for sustainable groundwater management practices by the State Water Resources Control Board, should local efforts to do so not materialize.

“Together, the Governor’s proposed budget and this finalized plan provide the State with practical solutions to the state’s most critical problems; the proposals on groundwater are a good example,” said Cal/EPA Secretary Matt Rodriquez. “Data collection and monitoring are crucial to sustainable management of our unseen but incredibly important aquifers.”

All of the near-and long-term actions in the plan center on sustaining supplies of water for people, the environment, industry and agriculture. This year’s severe dry conditions highlight the stakes. Drought threatens to force the fal- lowing of hundreds of thousands of acres of farmland, throw thou- sands of people out of work, and potentially raise supermarket food prices.

“Our severe dry conditions are alarming for California’s agricul- tural industry,” said California Department of Food and Agriculture Secretary Karen Ross.

“In the near term, we must do all we can to keep our fields produc- tive. In the long term, we have a once-in-a-generation opportunity to make the investments that will allow us to stay productive in the face of a changing climate.”

Key actions identified in the Plan include:

- Make conservation a California way of life.
- Increase regional self-reliance and integrated water man- agement across all levels of government.
- Achieve the co-equal goals for the Delta.
- Protect and restore important ecosystems.
- Manage and prepare for dry periods.
- Expand water storage capac- ity and improve groundwater management.
- Provide safe water for all communities.
- Increase flood protection.
- Increase operational and regula- tory efficiency.
- Identify sustainable and integrated financing opportunities. ★

About Sacramento Arena Debate

In November 2013, Sacramento citizens R.E. Graswich and John Hyde announced a series of town hall debates and discussions on the proposed arena for down- town Sacramento. The town hall meetings feature public dis- cussions by Graswich, author, journalist and former Special Assistant to Mayor Kevin Johnson, and Hyde, who has served as spokesperson for STOP, which is seeking to place an ini- tiative on the June 2014 ballot to require voter approval the arena funding. The events are free for the public and offer Sacramento residents an opportunity to hear both sides of this important issue – and ask the questions they care about. ★
