By Thomas J. Sullivan

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Ted Mitchell, 95, believed to be one of Citrus Heights' longest living residents, returned to Rusch Park to see the city's recently refurbished World War II Memorial, his first, he said, in many years.

The polished bronze plaque commemorates the names of 272 of men and women from the community of Citrus Heights in uniform during the war years of World War II. Mitchell's name is engraved in alphabetical order the third column of the plaque nearly in the center of it.

Above his name are Knute, Lester, Victor and Willis Larson. Members of the Van Maren family, Adolph, Doyle, Jack and James are listed in the column to his right.

Mitchell was joined by Larry Fritz, a fellow San Juan High School graduate and president of the Citrus Heights Historical Society during the interview.

"It's so good to see the condition of the plaque now," Mitchell said. "It looks great."

Mitchell started San Juan High

School in 1940 and took additional high school classes in agriculture so that he could graduate early in the middle of the 1943-44 school year. He was 17 when in 1943 he left the family ranch and went with his father to San Francisco to enlist. He is officially considered a member of San Juan's graduating class of 1944.

Mitchell's great-grandfather purchased 160 acres of land in 1866 around Arcade Creek for $1,600 in gold coins. The property, located north of Greenback Lane and east of Sunrise Boulevard, was so thickly

Free County Flu Clinics Going on Now

Sacramento County
News Release

SACRAMENTO COUNTY, CA (MPG) - With flu season approaching, Sacramento County Public Health urges everyone to get a flu shot to protect themselves and their families from influenza. From Sept. 28 – Nov. 13, the Sacramento County Immunization Assistance Program will host free Adult and Family Flu Clinics throughout Sacramento County.

This year it is especially important to get a flu shot as COVID-19 continues to spread. In an effort to fight both viruses, all Public Health clinics will offer flu and COVID-19 vaccines, including at existing COVID-19 vaccine clinics. It is safe to receive flu and COVID-19 vaccines at the same time, according to the CDC.

"Vaccines are proven to reduce the risk of severe illness, hospitalization and death," said Sacramento County Public Health Officer Dr. Olivia Kasirye. "Those who cannot receive the vaccine, including infants and individuals with a compromised immune system such as those going through chemotherapy, rely on others being vaccinated to help protect them."

All clinics take walk-ins, without the need for appointments.

Vaccination of people at high risk for flu complications is especially important to decrease their risk of severe illness. These include seniors and people with chronic conditions such as diabetes, high blood pressure, lung disease and kidney disease. The same underlying health conditions put people at higher risk for COVID-19. If you are at high risk, it is especially important for you to get a flu vaccine this year. Getting a flu vaccine will not only reduce your risk from flu but also help conserve potentially scarce health care resources.

Flu vaccine is also recommended for infants ages six months and older who do not have a medical condition that makes the flu vaccine inadvisable.

As with COVID-19, it's crucial to practice good health habits:

If you feel flu-like symptoms, limit contact with others to keep from infecting them:

Stay home for at least 24 hours after you fever is gone, except to get medical care or for other necessities; Cover your coughs or sneezes and wash your hands; Avoid touching your eyes, nose and mouth; Clean and disinfect surfaces and objects that may

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - A $9.7 million project extending Nimbus Hatchery's famous fish ladder into Nimbus Basin is complete. The hatchery's outdated weir and ladder system last year served a final season. When the new passage is activated this November, salmon will take an elongated route to fishery processing. Their 1,900 ft climb will offer visitor viewing windows and a "Sam-Cam" to observe heroic Chinooks ending their lifecycles hundreds of miles from the Pacific Ocean.

Three years in construction, the ladder and its water-level flume are designed to lead those fish that have not spawned naturally to hatchery fertilization. Egg and milt harvesting began here in the 1950s, after dam construction blocked migratory paths for American River salmon and steelhead. To divert returning fish, a picket weir previously spanned the American

River below Hazel Bridge. The device was laboriously dismantled every January and though the weir operated adequately for 65 seasons, a better system has long been on Fish and Wildlife Department wish lists. "The new construction," predicts Bureau of Reclamation project engineer Mark Curney, "will increase the hatchery's operational flexibility and improve public and employee safety."

Many migrating fish breed and die before reaching the facility. Currently under construction, a gravel bed restoration project near Ancil Hoffman Park will increase mating chances by adding 16,000 yards of gravel to existing beds. The altered American River nevertheless still offers insufficient nesting locations and to mitigate, the Nimbus facility must hatch and dispatch thousands of fry every spring. These reach maturity after several years in the ocean then instinctively head upstream to spawn new generations.

Though recent heatwaves have warmed the American River, it is hoped that water temperatures cool to preferred breeding frigid by November. Fish that reach Nimbus unfulfilled will be lured by churning water. Piped from Lake Natoma, this torrent will fill a 150-yard flume that precedes the final climb. The channel is entirely caged to protect salmonids from poaching

About the Flu

Influenza (also known as the flu) is a contagious respiratory illness caused by flu viruses. It can cause mild to severe illness, and at times can lead to death. The flu is different from a cold. The flu comes on suddenly. People who have the flu often feel some or all of these symptoms:

Fever, Cough, Sore throat, Runny or stuffy nose, Muscle or body aches, Headaches, Fatigue (tiredness), Vomiting and diarrhea.

Most people who get the flu recover in a few days to less than two weeks, but some people will develop complications (such as pneumonia) as a result of the flu, some of which can be life-threatening and result in death.

wooded with large oak trees that before the family could grow any crops, they had to clear the trees by hand. His family grew zinfandel wine grapes on 80 acres from around 1920 until the mid-1950s, and then returned to grain farming.

"I still recognize a lot of the names on this plaque," he said. "The younger generation doesn't remember much about World War II and our wartime service. You have to remember that it was a different time then."

Mitchell was accepted into the Navy's V-5 program to become an aviation cadet. He received a commission as a Navy officer and completed his service in the Naval Reserve as a lieutenant. Mitchell shared a black and white photograph of himself in his dress naval uniform.

Upon completion of wartime technical training in Nebraska, Mitchell attended the University of Colorado in Boulder, before being assigned to duty at the Navy Department in Washington, D.C. where he worked in the development of radar operations and systems. He recalled that he didn't see overseas duty during the war.

After World War II, Mitchell returned home to his family ranch in what later became Citrus Heights and earned a Bachelor of Science degree in electrical engineering.

In a 2019 interview published by the Citrus Heights History and Arts Commission on YouTube, Mitchell described early life in Citrus Heights and his family history.

Much of today's Citrus Heights area remained undeveloped until the early 1950s, Mitchell remembers. Once development began, he says it didn't take long for it to advance, with the area around his family ranch officially becoming a city in 1997.

Today, The Mitchell family name is tied to many properties in Citrus Heights, including the original land the Citrus Town Center now rests on.

A new housing development off Arcadia Drive, between Sunrise and Fair Oaks Boulevard, named Heritage at Mitchell Village, which is being built by KB Homes, also honors his family.

Concluding with reflections on the fight for cityhood, Mitchell recalls in the video, there was talk of incorporating Citrus Heights as its own city as early as the 1920s. "When they finally got enough support to incorporate as a city, they had a real battle with the county," he said. "Sacramento County didn't want to lose the territory."

When the dispute with the county was finally won, Mitchell's family helped finance the city's incorporation effort.

Mitchell's interview and more than a dozen other videos published by the History and Arts Commission are part of the commission's "Oral History Project."

World War II Memorial Now Restored

By Thomas J. Sullivan

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Workers of the Sunrise Recreation and Park District have finished a much-overdue cleaning of a historic 73-year-old bronze plaque commemorating the service of 272 Citrus Heights men and women in uniform during World War II.

Over time, the plaque which is part of the Citrus Heights World War II Memorial in Rusch Park and the surrounding grounds became damaged by vandals and its benches marked with graffiti.

A memorial rose garden which was first planted in Rusch Park in July 1963 by the friends and family of Navy Lt. Dean M. Brown, USNR, who perished in an air training exercise at the Naval Air Station in Whidbey Island, Washington also needed attention. Brown was buried in Sylvan Cemetery in Citrus Heights.

In September, Dave Mitchell, district administrator of the Sunrise Recreation and Park District responded to an email inquiry by the Messenger News Group concerning the memorial's overall condition and when it would be scheduled for maintenance.

Sunrise maintenance personnel cleaned and polished the historic bronze plaque, repainted the memorial's surrounding benches and have tended to the original rose garden first planted in 1976, many of which are in bloom today.

"I'm proud of the crew members who tirelessly worked on this project and the work they have done," Mitchell said. "The community of Citrus Heights can be proud of their efforts."

In 2019 members of Citrus Heights American Legion Post 637 had expressed interest in working with District personnel to help clean the bronze plaque and refresh the memorial grounds but, largely due to the onset of the pandemic, were unable to do so.

The history of the Citrus

Emergency Service (WAVES), Abbie L. Bogert, Marilyn E. Cain, Theda Call, Lillian Dundee and Dena Visker are honored.

"Citrus Heights was known as Sylvan in those days before incorporation," Fritz said. "Many of the names on the engraved list were the sons of prominent members of the city's original founding families."

The original World War II bronze plaque was originally located in a stone monument in front of the city's first library on the corner of Sylvan Road and Community Drive on land donated by William Cobb, Fritz said.

When the old Sylvan library was moved in 1968, the original stone monument which surrounded the bronze plaque was demolished, and for a time, the large bronze plaque disappeared and its whereabouts were unknown.

When the World War II memorial plaque was eventually found, it was installed and incorporated into new stonework in the same memorial garden and rededicated on June 19, 1976. Pathways connect circular stone planters to the central memorial which features bench seating.

Participating in the original 1976 dedication were members of Citrus Heights Post 637 American Legion; Boy Scout Troop 82, Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 5991, the Citrus Heights Chamber of Commerce, Sunrise Recreation and Park District and the Citrus Heights Irrigation District. The local Rose Society donated 76 rose bushes for the new location, the symbol of the "Spirit of '76, a community bicentennial project, Fritz said. Joe Giusti, whose name appears on this list, was the only honoree who attended the special bicentennial dedication in 1976.

Mitchell said pressure washing of the memorial's concrete and stonework should be finished soon. He provided before and after photos of the bronze plaque being cleaned restoring its finish to a bright bronze glow. ★

Heights World War II Memorial in Rusch Park is one of lost and found, explains Larry Fritz, president of the Citrus Heights Historical Society. Now, a new chapter, one of restoration, is added to that story.

In 1948, three years after the end of World War II, residents of the community of Sylvan proudly erected a bronze memorial plaque to honor the names of 272 men and women who answered the call of duty to military service during World War II, Fritz said.

The total number of names listed itself is quite substantial, considering there were only 300 students in San Juan High School during the war years of the 1940s, he said.

The plaque also recognizes the service of three members of the U.S. Army Women's Army Corps (WAC) members Beaulah Gibson, Catherine M. Nugent and Barbara J. Shomate and five members of the U.S. Naval Reserve (Women's Reserve) who were members of Women Accepted for Volunteer

Biden Proposal Could Benefit High-income Californians

By Dan Walters
CALMatters

Congress is tied up in knots over the scope and financing of President Joe Biden’s $3.5 trillion basket of enhanced social, educational and medical benefits. Although Democrats control – on paper – both houses, their majorities are paper-thin and their leaders are being buffeted by competing demands from the White House, their party’s left wing and moderates whose votes are needed for any final product. As the nation’s most populous state, California obviously has a major stake in what the ultimate package will contain, if there is one. But the state has another, less obvious stake in how it’s financed because of something called SALT. It stands for “state and local taxes” and four years ago, a Republican-controlled Congress and GOP President Donald Trump, as part of a major tax overhaul, imposed a $10,000 limit on how much SALT could be deducted on personal income tax forms. In a tradeoff, the 2017 tax legislation doubled the standard deduction. The two actions had the effect of increasing federal taxes on high-income residents of high-tax states such as California while lowering the federal bite on low- and middle-income taxpayers. A 2018 state study found that it cost high-income Californians an extra $12 billion a year in federal taxes. The Washington-based Tax Foundation, which analyzed federal income tax data from 2018 returns county-by-county, reported recently that the SALT limitation had its greatest impact on taxpayers in high-income counties in high-tax states such as California, New York, Maryland and Virginia. In California, that meant San Francisco and other Bay Area communities such as Marin, San Mateo and Santa Clara counties. In Santa Clara, for instance, the average tax return with itemized deductions reported outlays of $46,817.53 in state and local taxes, but could deduct just $8,931.28 due to the SALT limit. When the SALT limit was enacted, leaders of the most affected states howled, claiming that Republicans were punishing them because of their Democrat-leaning politics. New York Gov. Andrew Cuomo complained the loudest, worrying aloud that the SALT limit would encourage the rich to relocate to low-tax states such as Florida and Texas. There’s no evidence, at least yet, of a massive out-migration of high-income Californians, although there have been specific moves, such as Tesla’s Elon Musk to Texas, which has no income tax. Nevertheless, Senate Majority Leader Charles

Schumer of New York and House Speaker Nancy Pelosi of California have been trying ever since 2017 to undo the SALT limit, and California Gov. Gavin Newsom has publicly supported repeal. That’s why California has a big stake in how Biden’s “human infrastructure” package would be financed. The White House wants an array of tax increases on corporations and high-income taxpayers and SALT ceiling foes see it has an opportunity to undo it. But how? Politically, it’s a tricky issue for Democrats, who want to change the limit without appearing to provide a windfall to the wealthy. Putnam Wealth Management has published a monologue on the potential ways the SALT limit could be modified or repealed, one of which would place an income limit on restoring deductibility so that those with the highest incomes would not benefit. Other alternatives include doubling or tripling the limit or changing the Alternative Minimum Tax. The situation is another reminder that there is no right or wrong when it comes to tax policy at any level of government. What is taxed – whether income, sales or property – and at what level are purely arbitrary decisions that reflect the politics of the moment, not the higher moral purpose that politicians often claim. Dan Walters has been a journalist for nearly 60 years, spending all but a few of those years working for California newspapers. ★

Society for the Blind in Sac Receives $10K to Teach Braille

By Kristin Thébaud,
Thébaud Communications

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - Society for the Blind recently received $10,000 from Golden 1 Credit Union to provide Braille literacy for children in Sacramento and across Northern California who are blind or have vision loss.

“Today, less than 10 percent of children with vision loss are literate,” said Shari Roeseler, executive director, Society for the Blind. “They are not learning Braille and are unable to read, write and comprehend. By third grade they are significantly behind their sighted peers, and 50 percent of high school students who are blind drop out before graduating. Literacy is key to improving academic outcomes and pointing these children toward college and careers. We are grateful to Golden 1 Credit Union for helping us fill this gap so children with vision loss can be successful and independent when they grow up.”

The grant will allow Society for the Blind to provide Braille literacy classes, instruction materials and training in assistive devices for up to 100 new children who are blind or have low vision in elementary through high schools across the region. Through Society for the Blind’s After-School Academy for children from first grade through high school, students will learn Grade 1 Braille, including the alphabet, spelling, numbers, reading and writing. Middle and high school students who pass Grade 1 Braille will learn Grade 2 Braille, which includes shortened or contracted words as well as the Nemeth Code-Braille for math and science. Students also will receive subject-based tutoring based on an initial assessment upon entering the program.

“As we continue to learn more about the short- and long-term educational impacts of the COVID-19 pandemic on our vulnerable populations, we know it is especially important to provide support to organizations that enrich the minds of future generations,” said Erica Taylor, vice president of communications and community relations. “Golden 1 is inspired by the mission of Society for the Blind, and we are honored to help them continue to serve their community.”

For 67 years, Society for the Blind has created innovative ways to empower individuals living with low vision or blindness to discover, develop and achieve their full potential. Society for the Blind has grown from a dedicated group of volunteers to a nationally recognized agency and the only comprehensive rehabilitative teaching center that provides services for a 27-county region of Northern California. The nonprofit provides low-vision eye care, life and job skills training, mentorship, and access to tools to maintain independence for nearly 6,000 youth, working-age adults and seniors experiencing vision loss each year. For more information or to donate, visit SocietyfortheBlind.org.

The Golden 1 Credit Union Community Grant Program funds nonprofits serving communities in the Sacramento and Central valleys that are working to address children’s literacy and transition-age foster youth. In 2021, the program awarded grants to 33 nonprofits in California. For more information, visit Golden1.com. ★

The Exciting New World of Snap On Dentures!

Sunrise Rollerland Keeps Rolling Along

Ken Neutz, owner/general manager of Sunrise Rollerland, is the son of original owner Lloyd Neutz. Photo by Thomas J. Sullivan

By Thomas J. Sullivan

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Sunrise Rollerland, opened in 1973 at 6001 Sunrise Vista Drive in Citrus Heights, is welcoming skaters back to its high-gloss, Northern hard rock maple floor with a variety of youth and adult fall skating programs.

Inside, modern overhead lighting, still with a medieval theme, has replaced older fixtures. A large, wall-length original mural at the end of the skate floor remains just as bright and vibrant as it was when original owner Lloyd Neutz first opened Sunrise Rollerland 48 years ago.

Owner/manager Ken Neutz, son of the original owner, said Sunrise Rollerland is looking to hire additional part-time staff as the rink continues to welcome skaters back to a full program of day and evening skate sessions.

“It’s a great first-time job for many high school and college students,” Neutz said.

While masks are not required to be worn during skating sessions, Sunrise Rollerland has a designated “clean team” with designated staff members whose sole responsibility is to regularly clean and sanitize common surfaces. Skaters are reminded to practice proper social distancing, and hand sanitizing stations have been set up throughout the facility, Neutz said.

Sunrise Rollerland offers professional instruction, group rates, family night rates, catered birthday parties, class instruction, artistic and speed classes, special holiday sessions and “Super Kid’s” sessions. Some 800 pairs of skates are stocked for rental, replaced regularly, due to wear and tear.

Before state restrictions were lifted earlier this spring, Neutz had to cut staff and used much of the time to paint and refresh the facility inside. He has added a t-shirt merchandise line targeted to younger skaters and plans to refresh its game arcade.

Years ago, Neutz and his wife Kathy bought the business from his parents. He’s pleased to see longtime skaters now coming back to the polished maple floor he grew up with and enjoys welcoming new skaters discovering the facility for the first time.

While skating is at the customer’s own risk, standards of dress and attire are expected of all skaters. Revealing clothing and bare midriff, frayed hems, bare feet, hats, headphones and laser pointers are prohibited, according to a customer brochure. Skaters are also reminded that toe stops, and toe plugs must be worn and all personal skates which are worn must have flush wheel hardware.

All pants must be hemmed, and a non-smoking and no gum-chewing rule is enforced throughout the facility to protect carpets and flooring.

The price of admission for a daily afternoon skate session is $9.50. An evening session is $10.00 and an extra session outside of regular time is $3. The cost to rent regular skates is $4 and inline skates are $5. Children ages 12 and under can skate free, with two free admissions each week. Skate rental for children under age five is $6. Discount specials are featured on Sunrise Rollerland’s website.

Enjoy a morning adult skating session for $8 on Tuesday and Thursdays from 10 to noon which include rental and complimentary coffee. Beginning skating classes are offered on Wednesday mornings from 9:30 to 10 a.m., Thursday afternoon from 3:30 to 4 p.m. and Saturday mornings from 9:30 a.m. to 10 a.m. for just $10 per session. A Christian Music Skate Night for Christian singles, youth groups or churches is held on Monday from 7 to 9:15 p.m.

The first and third Wednesday evening adult sessions turn back the clock to the ‘70s and ‘80s, considered the heyday of roller skating, Neutz said. “We see a great turnout on these evenings.”

Saturday morning admission is from 10 a.m. to 12:30 p.m., Saturday afternoon admission is from 12 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. and 2 to 4 p.m. Friday or Saturday adult skating from 7 to 10 p.m. Sunday night family session is from 7:15 p.m. to 9:15 p.m. A late-night adult skating is hosted by 2Raw (2 Rhythm and Wheels) once a month.

“I remain just as dedicated to providing the Citrus Heights community with the finest facility in which to enjoy the spirit of roller skating as it did when my father first opened Sunrise Rollerland,” Neutz said.

Sunrise Rollerland is located at 6001 Sunrise Vista Drive in Citrus Heights.
