Tasting Their Independence

Story and photos
by Susan Maxwell Skinner

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - The 2021 American River eaglets recently took flight. Thirteen-week-old juveniles Rio and Lago (Spanish for river and lake), both dispatched on the same 104-degree Fahrenheit day. In a fifth season of observing the rare family, this researcher photographed all nursery phases. As with any animal, the raptors' baby steps toward destiny were life-affirming to witness. Here's my record of Independence Day for two junior national icons.

June 10, 6 am: I note younger sibling Lago has outstripped his sister in confidence. His restless passage around the nursery pine suggests he might be first from the starting blocks. Mama delivers a morning fish and departs. After breakfast, Lago resumes "branching." He's scrambling to outer limbs and challenging Rio for her high perch. Wings beating, he executes 15-foot leaps between boughs. He's already achieving tiny, controlled flights.

9:15 am: The wunderkind seems to confer with his babysitting Papa. Perhaps the seasoned parent blesses him: Chocks away, go for it, kid.

10:45 am: After five hours of rising mercury, my cameras are overheating. I decide today's too hot for fly-day and plan a retreat.

10:55 am: Busy Lago pauses on an outer branch. Without preamble, utterance or downward glance, the tyke simply takes off. He wafts above bluff trees for a hundred yards. Maiden flights typically include drama. Fledglings get stuck in foreign trees and are terrified by the abyss between them and the nest.

"Recall San Juan" Seeks to Oust School Board Members

Story by Shaunna Boyd

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - An effort is underway to recall the five members of the San Juan Unified School District (SJUSD) Board of Education – which governs schools in Arden-Arcade, Carmichael, Citrus Heights, Fair Oaks, Gold River, Orangevale, and parts of Sacramento.

Marina Gabel, the driving force behind "Recall San Juan," first grew concerned last summer when SJUSD shut down schools and transitioned to distance learning due to the COVID-19 pandemic. The shutdown prompted her to spend months navigating the legal requirements of a recall and rallying others to the cause.

A Recall San Juan press release dated June 10, 2021, alleges that the distance learning model has had detrimental effects on students, such as learning loss, declining attendance, and student mental fatigue and depression.

As COVID cases dropped earlier this year and Sacramento County entered the less-restrictive Red Tier, SJUSD reopened for a hybrid model of learning. On March 22, students had the option to return to their classrooms two days a week, while supportive remote instruction continued the rest of the week. When physical distancing requirements were updated from 6 ft. to 3 ft. inside classrooms, SJUSD began offering in-person learning in the mornings four days a week starting on April 26.

According to Gabel and others involved in the recall effort, these changes weren't enough. "Our main reason is to get schools open full time with no reason for them to ever do this to our kids again. We need people on the Board that will listen to the parents," said Gabel.

Raina Carson is also involved in Recall San Juan, and she agrees that SJUSD should have opened schools full time as soon

Red Light Cameras to Remain in Citrus Heights

by Shaunna Boyd

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - All five members of the Citrus Heights City Council were back in Chambers for the June 24 meeting, with members of the public able to attend in person or through Zoom. Councilmember Tim Schaefer asked that Agenda Item 5 be pulled from the Consent Calendar for discussion of the proposed contract renewal of the Red Light Photo Enforcement Program.

Citrus Heights Police

Department (CHPD) Chief Ron Lawrence said, "We recognize that the red-light camera program is controversial for some, but it's very supported by many others." Chief Lawrence supports the program because "it serves to educate our public, reduce traffic collisions, prevent injuries, and save lives."

With a limited number of officers to enforce traffic laws, the red-light camera program "helps to enforce blatant traffic violations that would otherwise go unaccountable," said Chief Lawrence. "The bottom line is, if you don't want to be held accountable for breaking the law, don't break the law."

Lt. Jason Baldwin, who leads the CHPD Traffic Unit, answered questions about the red-light camera program, explaining that prior to implementation of the program in 2008, there were unreasonably high levels of collisions at some city intersections. More than half of those injured in red-light violation collisions are pedestrians, bicyclists, or people in other vehicles.

In particular, side-impact vehicle collisions are the most deadly, and the cameras are extremely successful in reducing this type of collision. He said the cameras also produce a "halo effect," in which the presence of cameras at some intersections can improve drivers' overall behavior, even in nearby unmonitored intersections. The program has been in effect for 13 years with cameras installed at 8 intersections, capturing 10 approaches of travel; in that time, Lt. Baldwin said overall collisions have been reduced.

“Recall San Juan” Seeks to Oust School Board Members

as possible. Carson has stated that the Board members did not defend students’ rights to access public school buildings.

When asked to comment on the recall effort, SJUSD Communication Coordinator Raj Rai answered on behalf of the Board, stating that “at all times, the district complied with the requirements of state and local health officials, which impacted school capacities and necessitated alternative learning models for the 2020-2021 school year.” Rai also stated that SJUSD was “among the first school districts in Sacramento County to offer students at ALL grade levels the option to return to some form of in-person learning.”

Even when SJUSD was able to offer the option for in-person learning, Rai explained that “many of our families chose to remain in the distance learning model.” Returning to a full five days a week schedule for some families while maintaining the distance learning option preferred by other families would have meant reassigning thousands of students to new classrooms and teachers with just a little more than a month before the end of the school year. “Valuing the relationships that were built between teacher and student, and between student to student, returning four days a week in the mornings was the option that was the least disruptive for all,” explained Rai.

The SJUSD 2021-2022 school year will start on August 12 with the traditional full-day schedule five days a week, which was announced at a Board meeting in May and through a message sent to all families with students enrolled in SJUSD schools.

But Recall San Juan wants to send a message to the Board, letting them know that some families in the district oppose the choices they made. At the June 2021 Board meeting, Gabel spoke during public comment: “The recall effort is underway. Our voices will not be silenced.”

In addition to students losing a year and a half of full-time in-person instruction, Gabel also shared another of her personal reasons for pursuing the recall. She said her son – a 10-year-old student in fifth grade – was assigned to a teacher who had been with the school for just a year. She asked that her son be transferred into a class taught by an experienced teacher with whom he was already familiar, but school policy required a reason for the transfer. Because classes were held over Zoom, Gabel said she found her reason: “I now had full access into the classroom and everything my son was exposed to by his teacher,” including “critical race theory, racism, gender stereotyping, and suicide.”

She demanded that her son be transferred, and the school did comply. Gabel believes that issues about race, gender, and mental health should not be taught in K-12 classrooms – and she has signed her son up for “weekly counseling sessions” as a result of those lessons.

The SJUSD does not include Critical Race Theory (CRT) as part of its curriculum. CRT is a theoretical framework for examining structural and institutional racism, typically studied in post-secondary education and used in legal analysis. “CRT is not part of our K-12 curriculum,” Rai explained. “However, lessons that address race and social justice are embedded in classes in alignment with state standards and our district’s 8-Point Commitment to Educational Justice.”

Rai continued: “At San Juan Unified we believe diversity is a valuable asset that strengthens and enriches our community. We recognize that we have achievement gaps in our system and educating students about issues such as ending racism and creating equity is one way we can work towards closing those gaps.”

The Recall San Juan movement is insistent that SJUSD needs new leadership. “We have people all over the district collecting petitions,” said Gabel. The petition timeline and number of required signatures are calculated based on the number of registered voters in the district, and Recall San Juan has until October 19 to gather the 20,044 signatures necessary to trigger the recall. ★

In 2019, Lt. Baldwin said there were 23,436 “events,” in which the cameras flashed to capture a potential violation. After review, 12,907 violations were approved by CHPD, with 7,857 resulting in citations. The remaining violations were issued warnings. Of the 7,857 citations, 6,199 were issued to individuals from outside the city. Only 26 percent were issued to Citrus Heights residents.

The new five-year contract negotiated with Redflex Traffic Systems, the camera vendor and administrator, will total $492,000 annually – down from $547,200 annually in the previous contract. Lt. Baldwin highlighted that it is “a cost neutral program;” he explained that even in years when the collected funds don’t cover the program cost, the City will not have to cover the difference.

Citrus Heights resident David Warren spoke during public comment to oppose the new contract. He said that even with the cameras, people are still running red lights: “They’re not working. It’s a waste of time, effort, and money.”

Councilmember Schaefer said that he charted the rate of citations since the program’s inception and found the number of citations has been trending up. He said he would expect to see a reduction in citations if the program were effective.

Citrus Heights doesn’t have enough police presence to effectively patrol the streets and enforce traffic laws throughout the city, so Vice Mayor Porsche Middleton said she believes Citrus Heights’ Red Light Photo Enforcement Program has been in effect for 13 years. There are currently eight intersections throughout the city with cameras, and a recent 3-2 vote by the City Council approved a new five-year contract to maintain the program.

removing a deterrent with nothing in its place is “not the right answer.”

For Councilmember Bret Daniels, the camera program means “you are pretty much immediately charged, convicted, and sentenced. And there’s no officer there; there’s no discretion.” He advocated for examining other approaches to calming intersections, such as increased yellow-light intervals and longer all-red intervals.

Councilmember Jeannie Bruins agreed that the City should look into additional measures to calm intersections. But she clarified that footage of possible violations are reviewed multiple times – with many resulting in no violations at all and others concluding in warnings – so officer discretion is still part of the program. She also pointed out that citations can be challenged in court. Further, she asserted that most citations are issued to drivers from outside of the city, so she believes Citrus Heights residents should be protected from others abusing the city’s roads.

Mayor Miller said, “I’m not prepared to remove these cameras and tempt fate. ... I’m not prepared to put even one life on the line.”

Councilmember Daniels brought up another concern, stating that information was sent to the Council about the proposed contract rate being significantly higher than what other cities pay for the same services. Chief Lawrence said he will look into it, but “we have no indication of that to be the case.” Mayor Miller contended that lower costs in other cities can likely be attributed to those areas having fewer intersections with cameras, and fewer approaches being monitored.

After substitute motions from Councilmembers Schaefer and Daniels both failed, the original motion passed 3-2, with Schaefer and Daniels dissenting. ★

Sacramento Public Library is Fine Free

Sacramento Public Library News Release

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - As of July 1, Sacramento Public Library (SPL) will be fine free. The library board voted unanimously to permanently end fines on overdue Sacramento Public Library materials last month.

“This is long overdue for the Sacramento region and a game changer for the communities we serve,” said Library Director & CEO Rivkah Sass. “By eliminating overdue fines, we’re able to remove barriers to learning resources and opportunities that are especially critical in these times and that go far beyond books.

Last year, the library temporarily suspended overdue fines to increase library access during the pandemic. Such fines can deter users from checking out materials, and prevent access to vital library services. A Sacramento Public Library card unlocks the paywall in front of more than 40 online resources, language learning tools and thousands of professional classes and tutorials with Gale Courses and LinkedIn Learning.

Library patrons who have overdue books can return them at any library location without incurring late charges. Learn more at www.saclibrary.org. ★

Local Promoter Revives Acoustic Music Scene

By Thomas J. Sullivan

CARMICHAEL, CA (MPG) - Tiffany Madrid, founder of Madrid Music Group, is delighted to, at last, be able to resume her popular live acoustic open-mic music sessions to Carmichael.

Madrid will present acoustic open mic night on the second and fourth Wednesday of each month at Stage 76 Kitchen & Bar at 7600 Fair Oaks Boulevard in Carmichael. Local musicians are asked to sign up at 5:30 p.m. to perform either two original or cover songs. Performance is from 6 to 8 p.m.

While it may be a new venue, new health and sanitary guidelines do apply in a live music entertainment environment, Madrid said.

“It’s still the same gathering of good local friends who enjoy making and listening to great original acoustic music,” she said.

Opening night on Wednesday, June 10, saw 18 performers play before an appreciative capacity audience.

Madrid, a resident of Fair

Oaks, was part of a small group of friends in 2016 who just wanted to play, sing, and share their love for acoustic music in the greater Orangevale and Fair Oaks area. She had hosted open mic music nights at the former Love at First Bite Café at 7405 Winding Way and a coffee house in downtown Fair Oaks since 2019 but suspended her bi-monthly live music series with the onset of the pandemic.

“There are a lot of talented singer-songwriters in the Fair Oaks, Carmichael and surrounding areas who write their own material and are anxious to return to the stage,” Madrid said. “Most musicians whom I’ve spoken to are eager to returning to playing live. They miss the energy and feedback of a live audience.”

Madrid creates a very welcoming atmosphere for her artists and as before, the vibe is decidedly warm and casual. She serves as an emcee, introducing each performer, some who were braving performing live at Stage 76 for the very first time.

“On any given past evening, there may have been 10-12 people who wish to perform,” she said. “Tonight’s turnout was amazing.”

Madrid, who is also a performer, grew up in Simi Valley in Southern California, before moving to Fair Oaks some 20 years ago. She is a mom of three and enjoyed a past professional career in real estate and finance before returning to music, her first love.

The Stage 76 Kitchen & Bar in Carmichael at 7600 Fair Oaks Boulevard features a great selection of beer and a full bar, offers American contemporary cuisine with a regional pedigree. Its stage and private room can also be booked for music, comedy, open mic and art events. View a sample menu at stage76kb.com/menu/

Madrid Music Group’s Facebook page features video links to performances at their current location. For more information about the original acoustic music sessions, contact Tiffany Madrid at madrid-music916@gmail.com. ★

Nielsen: ‘This is a Fake Budget’

From the Office of Senator Nielsen

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - Senator Jim Nielsen, R-Red Bluff, today issued the following statement on the passage of the Democrats’ Budget Act of 2021:

This is a fake budget and the Democrat-controlled budget process, with no public input or transparency, is a sham.

Over the years, there have been a number of challenging budget bills with deficits. This year, California has a substantial surplus. The temptation is to spend it and that’s exactly what the Democrats are doing.

The Democrats’ irresponsible budget is funding long-term spending using short-term dollars, which might further burden future budgets and get the state, as it has before, into financial trouble.

Following the Budget Act will be dozens of so-called budget trailer bills. Many will contain major policy provisions that will circumvent the normal deliberative legislative process.

Today, I argued for caution and a ‘No’ vote. ★

If your life is NOT ever filled with disturbances, possibly your life is pleasing to the enemy of God. His natural language is filled with lies and deceit and he attempts of divide anyone he can from any knowledge of God. The enemy of God is a deceiver who does his best to defame and discredit the glory of God.

Satan’s strategy is to cause indifference. He is against mankind and those who are ignorant about his existence will one day stand before God and regret it. If he can cause some to believe he doesn’t exist he has almost won the battle for ones soul to end up in hell with him. He is a liar! He will infiltrate lives any way he can! Today in

Who Is The Great Deceiver?

Europe religions are being invaded and manifested with the Occult beliefs. It is happening in America as well!

Read and listen to what the Scripture states to those who listen and follow his lies.

“Ye are of your father, the devil, and the lust of your father you will do. He was a murderer from the beginning and abodes not in the truth because there is no truth in him. When he speaks a lie, he speaks of his own, for he is a liar and a father of it. (John 8:44)

“For we wrestle not against flesh and blood, but against principalities, against powers, against the ruler (Satan/ Devil) of the darkness of this world, against spiritual wickedness in high places. (Eph. 6:12)

The Christian walk is one that takes all knowledge to really understand, know and believe and be obedient to the truth of God we receive. Time is our ally. Once we have accepted Jesus as our Lord and Savior, He IN us is more powerful! When one is obedient and has an intimate personal relationship with God, Satan cannot enslave! The power of the blood of Jesus protects us. But he will attack! Doing what God has called and instructed you to do, he cannot defeat us, therefore do not fear him! Yet, know who the enemy is!

He will attempt to get you busy with lots of things! However, do not allow any one or any thing to pull you way from the Kingdom of God and His Family! Jesus Christ has defeated the enemy and helped us to live victoriously in God’s love, grace, mercy and power Forever.

Pastor Ray’s Encouraging Words

Focus on What Will Never Change

The virus crisis didn’t come to stay, it came to pass, it’s not going to last. We’re going to get through this. We need to do the things that the doctors tell us to do. Do the commonsense things but realize the crisis will not last. Every virus has a bell curve, and they’re trying to knock that bell down through isolation, and quarantining, and things like that. The Bible says it like this in 2 Corinthians 4:17-18, “For our temporary and momentary troubles will not last, but they are achieving for us an eternal glory that far outweighs them all. So, we focus not on what is seen, but on what is unseen. For what is seen is temporary, but what is unseen is eternal.” Paul says, I focus on what is unseen, what is eternal, what does not change.

We’ve been through an incredible amount of change over the last few days. Maybe your schedule has changed, maybe your income has changed, your social life has changed, your job may have changed, and we know there are going to be other changes in the days ahead. The key to stability is to focus on what will never change. Focus on what never changes in the days ahead, that’ll give you stability. Don’t focus on what’s ever changing, because that will only produce insecurity, worry and even depression.

So, what are the unchangeable truths that I should focus on? The Bible is full of them, but there’s a small list: First, God sees everything you’re going through. That will never change. Second, God cares about everything you’re going through. That’s unchangeable. God sees and He cares. Third, God has the power to answer your prayers. That’s unchangeable. Fourth, God always acts out of His goodness towards you. That’s never going to change. Fifth, no matter what happens, God is always in control. You don’t have to be in control when I know He is. That will never change. Sixth, God’s plan is always better than our plan. I may not see it, but it’s better because He’s a good God. Seventh, God will never stop loving you. That’s what the Bible says. These are things you need to focus on, the things that never change.

Let me give you another one. Remember that no matter what you go through, God will go through it with you. Every stage, every phase, every crisis, no matter what you go through, you will never ever be alone. God is with you. It doesn’t mean you feel Him all the time, but God is with you. He’s with you right now. God has never been closer to you than He is right now.

That’s what you want to focus on. Maybe a little less reading the news, the Internet, and a little bit more reading Gods’ Word in the days ahead. That will give you the confidence, peace and faith that you need during this crisis.

Dave Ramsey Says

one day without really knowing what happened because I refused to “judge” them.

You’re supposed to judge people. The idea that you’re not supposed to is ridiculous. But you don’t have to be a jerk about it. There’s a big difference between judging people and being judgmental. But it’s unkind not to share insights or suggestions for a better way of life with those you love most. Holding back and telling yourself the way someone behaves is just the way they’re made is wrong in most instances. Overspending and not saving money aren’t character traits – they’re decisions.

They’re adults now, and they’re going to do what they want. They don’t have to understand or support your ways of handling money, but you and your husband have every right to tell them they have to start behaving in certain ways if they expect to receive your money when the time comes. If they’re misbehaving, and you give them money, you’re funding that bad behavior. That’s not love, that’s enabling. And a big pile of money isn’t going to heal the bad things – it’s only going to magnify them. ★

Sit down with your kids, and have a loving, clear discussion about the situation. Remind them that they’re adults, and you and your husband are no longer able to tell them how they have to live. But let them know in no uncertain terms, gently but firmly, they will not receive your money if they continue to behave in ways you both consider foolish or unreasonable. Let them know they’ll always have your love, just not your money, unless they begin behaving more intelligently and maturely with their finances.

You can’t make them do anything, Danielle. But you can ensure they understand you two won’t be sharing your wealth with people who can’t handle it and use it wisely.

California’s Pro-Housing Forces Score Big Win

By Dan Walters
CALMatters

California’s housing crisis is a multi-front guerrilla war, pitting those who want to lower legal and political barriers to construction against those who see new developments as threats to the environment and/or the ambience of their neighborhoods.

The conflict is waged in the Legislature, in the state housing bureaucracy, in city councils, in the courts and, increasingly, at the ballot box. Every new offensive assault by pro-housing forces meets stout resistance by defenders of the status quo and over time, it’s been something of a stalemate.

Housing construction remains well below the levels needed to close the gap between supply and demand, resulting in ever-rising rents and home prices, ever-increasing angst for Californians priced out of the market and an adverse effect on the economy as workers migrate to more affordable communities elsewhere.

Get a veteran journalist's take on what's going on in California with a weekly round-up of Dan's column every Friday.

The Housing Crisis Act of 2019 was a major thrust by the pro-housing faction. Senate Bill 330 was aimed at blocking local government policies, such as restrictive zoning, caps on building permits or unworkable design standards that limit new housing developments.

Not surprisingly, the legislation was opposed by local government officials as undermining their historic power to shape the tenor of their communities through controls on land use. However, it was passed by strong majorities in both legislative houses and signed by Gov. Gavin Newsom, who had promised to meet the housing crisis head-on.

While the legislation limited the authority of local government officials, it may turn out to be a groundbreaking limit on the power of local voters as well.

The legislation’s passage more or less coincided with the Oceanside City Council’s approval of a 585-home subdivision called North River Farms, which bills itself as a country village integrated with small-scale agriculture. The council rezoned land to make the project feasible.

Despite its bucolic nature, North River Farms was opposed by existing residents of the area and some environmental groups. They launched a recall campaign against one of the council members who voted for the project and eventually placed a measure on the 2020 ballot to overturn the council’s decision, which was passed by a 2-1 margin of the city’s voters.

Thereupon, the project’s developer, sued to overturn the referendum, alleging that it violated the Housing Crisis Act of 2019 and last month, Superior Court Judge Richard Whitney declared that the new law did apply to the referendum.

In overturning the election results, Whitney said SB 330’s clear aim was to “maximize the development of housing” by overriding any local action or policy that attempts to limit construction.

Whitney’s ruling will no doubt face appeals to higher courts and could collide with a 2017 state Supreme Court decree, in a case involving taxation, that ballot measures are not subject to the same limits applied to local governments.

Writing the 5-2 majority opinion, Supreme Court Justice Mariano-Florentino Cuéllar declared, “Multiple provisions of the state constitution explicitly constrain the power of local governments to raise taxes. But we will not lightly apply such restrictions on local governments to voter initiatives.”

There is also a larger issue posed by the Oceanside case – whether zoning changes are legislative acts subject to referendum or merely administrative actions that are exempt from such challenges. Oregon, for instance, has flatly prohibited the use of referenda to oppose zoning changes.

The Oceanside case is not an isolated example of employing referenda to block projects. If Whitney is upheld, it will be a major victory for pro-housing forces by eliminating one arrow in the quiver of those who resist new development.

Anti-Police Cities Reap What They Sow

WANTED: Trained security professionals to deal with elevated levels of crime and mayhem at risk to their own life and limb, while getting called racist oppressors and potentially thrown under the bus by elected officials.

This has become the de facto employment notice for police around the country, and, unsurprisingly, cops and prospective cops don't find it particularly enticing. Why would they?

America’s cities are feeling the effects of a years-long experiment in what would happen if nearly everyone celebrated a movement based on the idea that police are racist goons, excused rioting and explained away spiraling crime, and made it clear to cops that if they make a mistake, they will, at the very least, become instantly infamous.

It hasn’t gone well.

Portland, Oregon, has been a veritable research lab for this experiment. The latest blow to the city is the mass resignation of the Portland Police Bureau’s Rapid Response Team, which is responsible for policing protests in the city – a challenging, endless, and literally thankless job.

Rioting has become part of the fabric of urban life in Portland, where demonstrators have battled with cops nearly every other night since the death of George Floyd.

The city’s leadership has been hapless, at best, in dealing with the chaos, and loud voices have been condemning the cops.

After an officer in the unit was charged with a crime for striking a photographer in the head with a baton after he had pushed her to the ground, the members considered it a last straw.

Portland City Commissioner Jo Ann Hardesty kicked them on the way out the door, calling the resignations “yet another example of a rogue paramilitary organization that is unaccountable to the elected officials and residents of Portland.” She didn’t want them to quit, but instead to stay on the job so they could be fired.

Either way, she thinks it’s a great opportunity to show what “de-escalation in policing looks like” – effectively blaming the police for black-clad thugs constantly trying to burn things down. The same argument was made about federal officers during the Trump administration, but, lo and behold, the disorder continued even after federal forces stepped back and even after Joe Biden was elected president.

The head of the Portland police union issued a stinging statement in reply to Hardesty, saying that members of the unit “did not volunteer to have Molotov cocktails, fireworks, explosives, rocks, bottles, urine, feces, and other dangerous objects thrown at them.” Nor, he continued, did they volunteer “to be subject to warrantless criticism and false allegations by elected officials, or to suffer through baseless complaints and lengthy investigations devoid of due process.”

What’s happening in Portland’s riot unit is a microcosm of what’s happening everywhere. According to a survey by the Police Executive Research Forum, police resignations were up by 45% and retirements up 18% over the last year, while hiring has been slow.

In other words, when we need more cops in response to rising crime, we are getting fewer. This is like cutting back on firefighters while a wildfire is raging or reducing the size of the Army while it is fighting a war. No rational person would want smaller forces right now, yet the elite culture, leftist politicians, and obnoxious street protestors are conspiring to shrink them.

The crux of the matter is the moral status of the police. The question is whether they fulfill an absolutely crucial role that deserves to be honored and supported to the hilt by public officials, who unstintingly back order on the streets as a foundational public good – or not.

There are signs that even liberal jurisdictions are beginning to get this (crime has been a top issue in the New York City mayoral race). We aren’t going to keep or recruit good cops unless the job description, which has become so off-putting, is again worthy of the indispensability of the work. Rich Lowry is editor of the National Review.

Construction Begins on Emergency Drought Barrier

California Department of Water Resources

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - In response to worsening drought conditions in California, the Department of Water Resources (DWR) began construction on a temporary emergency drought barrier on the West False River in the Sacramento-San Joaquin Delta. The barrier will help slow the movement of saltwater into the central Delta and prevent contamination of water supplies for Delta agriculture and municipal supplies for millions of Californians.

“California is experiencing a second consecutive dry year and snowpack runoff into our state reservoirs has been far less than anticipated, so we are taking emergency actions to protect the state’s water supply and environment now,” said DWR Director Karla Nemeth. “DWR along with partner agencies is looking at all options to bolster the state’s drought response and mitigate drought impacts.”

The barrier will help prevent saltwater contamination of water supplies used by millions of Californians who rely on Delta-based federal and state water projects for at least some of their supplies. The emergency barrier will also help conserve critical water supplies in upstream reservoirs for later use by avoiding the need to send large volumes of water into the Delta to repel salinity this summer.

“Keeping saltwater from intruding into the central Delta is essential as a large portion of the state’s fresh water for urban and agricultural use goes through this part of the Delta,” said Ted Craddock, Deputy Director for the State Water Project.

On June 1, a temporary urgency change petition to modify State Water Project and Central Valley Project water rights conditions was approved by the State Water Resources Control Board, which will allow for water to be conserved for later instream uses and water quality requirements. These modifications are needed to help protect cold water pools for salmon and steelhead and maintain water quality while ensuring some water supplies are maintained if drought conditions persist next year.

Simultaneous to the drought barrier’s construction, DWR is pursuing long-term planning and permitting in anticipation of future drought conditions. There will be opportunities for public involvement during this process, which will continue into 2022.

DWR is working to get the temporary emergency drought barrier in place as soon as possible. The approximately 800-foot-wide temporary barrier consisting of nearly 90,000 cubic yards of rock will span the West False River and prevent salty tides and slower moving salinity from intruding into the interior Delta. Construction is expected to be completed by July 1. The barrier will be removed no later than November 30.

The barrier will block watercraft passage on West False River until its removal and will be marked by warning signs, lights, and buoys. Alternative routes between the San Joaquin River and interior Delta will be available.

On April 21, Governor Gavin Newsom signed an emergency order directing state agencies to take immediate action to bolster drought resistance across the state. The installation of a West False River drought salinity barrier during the 2012-16 drought proved to be an effective tool for reducing the intrusion of salt water into the central and south Delta and helped preserve fresh water supplies for future critical uses including drinking water and the environment. The West False River drought salinity barrier is just one of many actions DWR is taking to mitigate drought impacts consistent with the emergency order.

Social Security Matters

Can I Get a Higher Benefit Now Because I’m Older?

By Russell Gloor,
AMAC Certified Social Security Advisor

Dear Rusty: I started getting Social Security at age 62 and I am now 77. Can I get a higher benefit now that I’m older?

Signed: Needy Senior:

Dear Needy Senior: Probably not. When you first start collecting your Social Security retirement benefits (e.g., at age 62 or any other age) your SS benefit amount is permanently established and will change thereafter only if:

- A Cost-of-Living Adjustment (COLA) is granted (which is usually done annually, starting with your payment in January of each year). There have only been 3 years in the last four decades that a COLA increase didn’t automatically occur. This year’s COLA increase was 1.3%.
- You later became eligible for a higher spousal benefit because your husband started collecting benefits after you first claimed, and your benefit amount at your full retirement age (FRA) was less than 50% of your husband’s FRA benefit amount.

- You later became eligible for a higher survivor benefit because your husband passed away and his Social Security benefit was more than you were receiving (you would need to apply separately for your survivor benefit).
- You had later earnings which were higher than any of the 35 years over your lifetime used to originally compute your benefit when you first applied. Past years earnings are adjusted for inflation, so original earnings amounts in prior years are increased to today’s dollar value to see if your recent earnings are higher.

If you are working, Social Security monitors your earnings (and your contributions through payroll taxes) every year to see if you are due a benefit increase and, if appropriate, it is automatically given. COLA increases are also automatically given effective with each December’s benefit (paid in January) if such an increase is appropriate due to inflation as measured by the national Consumer Price Index. So, the only other possible way your current benefit could be increased now is if 1) you didn’t claim a spousal benefit when you were eligible and you are still eligible because your husband is still living, or, 2) your husband is now deceased, and you didn’t apply for a higher survivor benefit you were entitled to when he died. If either of those are true, then you should contact Social Security to request your higher benefit.

You do not, however, get a benefit increase simply because you are now older than you were when you first claimed Social Security. COLA will slightly increase your benefit automatically most years, but unless one or more of the other conditions above apply, your benefits won’t change further as you age

Wedding Plan Dos And Don'ts

Planning a wedding can be a glorious time or a time filled with stress. Which do you want? With the pandemic, many weddings were postponed, but now they are back. Lynne Goldberg knows. She's been in the wedding and event planning industry over twenty years at Ms Wedding Planner. Here's what she shared on POPPOFF with me.

- 1. BEFORE ANYTHING, DETERMINE A BUDGET. It's the total amount of money you both, along with your family are comfortable spending. This number will help determine the many choices you will be making.
- 2. NOW YOU HAVE THE MONEY SET, WRITE A LIST. These are all the things you'd like to have starting with the most important and ending with things you could do without if the money runs out. Prioritize.
- 3. DECIDE WHAT SIZE AND TYPE WEDDING YOU'D LIKE. Is it formal, casual or in between? Want a theme wedding or special setting like a beach or castle or farm or hotel? Want traditional or modern and how many guests? Visualize your wedding. Make sure you and your fiancé agree on that vision or it can be stressful. The more you agree, the simpler it'll be to plan.
- 4. PICK A DATE AND LOCATION. It sounds easy, but you may live in different places and away from families. Don't forget to research weather, time of year, holidays even other events already booked.
- 5. NOW YOU HAVE THE BUDGET, VISION, LOCATION AND DATE. You're ready to look for venues. If the ceremony is at a place of worship, make sure your date is open because

- ceremony space is most important.
- 6. NOW IT'S TIME TO LOOK FOR THE PARTY PLACE. The venue sets the tone for the entire wedding reception and will most likely use up between one-third and one-half your budget. Choose wisely. It's important not to spend too much on the venue or you won't have any money left over for the rest of your list.
 - 7. THERE ARE MANY TYPES OF VENUES. Get on the computer and research options in the location you've chosen. Don't rule out your home, parent's home or friend's home.
 - 8. AFTER SECURING THE CEREMONY AND RECEPTION SPACE, CREATE A WEDDING WEBSITE. Send out a Save The Date Card with the date and wedding locations listed on the card so friends and family can put it on their calendar. Now it's time to look for that special dress and wedding colors.
 - 9. GO BACK TO YOUR LIST AND RESEARCH VENDORS IN ORDER OF PRIORITIES. Since Music, Flowers, Photography, and Video are must haves, get the prices for all four and add them up before booking any of them. This assures you have enough money to spend on the rest of your list.
 - 10. MOST COUPLES SPEND A YEAR PLANNING THEIR WEDDING. Remember, enjoy the journey. Carry a smile, sense of humor and an open mind and planning will be as much fun as your wedding day. You can check out more info at www.MsWeddingPlanner.com for many HAPPY YEARS!!! ★

Fatal Motorcycle Collision
near Birdcage Street

Oakhollow Drive Homicide

By Lt. Chad Morris,
Citrus Heights Police Department

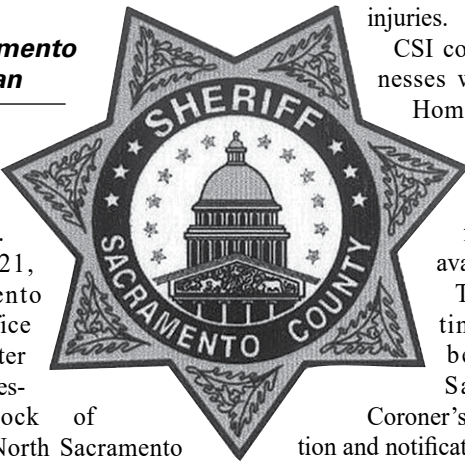

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - On June 21st, at approximately 8:05 PM, the Citrus Heights Police Department received a 911 call regarding a collision involving a motorcycle in the area of Birdcage Street near Greenback Lane. Our officers arrived on the scene and located a motorcycle, which had sustained significant damage. The rider of the motorcycle was pronounced deceased as a result of injuries sustained during the collision. Based on the preliminary investigation, it appears the motorcyclist was traveling northbound on Birdcage Street when a vehicle entered the roadway and caused the motorcyclist to swerve and strike a tree. The vehicle involved in the incident remained on-scene and the driver is cooperating with the investigation. We are early in our investigation; however, it appears that speed was the contributing factor to this tragic accident. The Citrus Heights Police Department's Traffic Unit responded and processed the collision scene. Both northbound and southbound lanes of Birdcage Street have since been reopened. The identity of the deceased party is being withheld pending notification of the next of kin by the Sacramento County Coroner's Office. Any witnesses to the collision are encouraged to contact the Citrus Heights Police Department at (916) 727-5500. Additionally, the Citrus Heights Police Department wants to remind all drivers to be attentive to the roadway and other motorists. ★

It identifies potential future actions in conservation, recycled water, and other water.

Move to by-Trustee Area Elections Resumes

San Juan Unified School District

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG) - San Juan Unified School District will resume the process of transitioning to by-trustee area elections on July 1, after it was paused under a state executive order during the COVID-19 pandemic to protect public health and safety.

During a special meeting on July 1, the district's demographer will review the process and criteria used to develop trustee area maps and the board will hear public input.

Currently, the district uses an election method referred to as 'at-large' in which all candidates for the board are on each voter's ballot. Voters then vote for up to the number of currently open seats with those receiving the most votes from across the district being elected. In a by-trustee area election, the district is divided into smaller areas each represented by one board member. Candidates for the board must reside in the area they will represent and voters only select one candidate from those in their area.

Map options will be made available for review by July 6, and a second special meeting of the board will be held on July 13, providing for a presentation by the demographer on the maps and an opportunity for public input. Community meetings on July 20 and 22, will be held at multiple locations throughout the district, as well as online, offering additional opportunities for input which can also be submitted online at any time by visiting <https://www.sanjuan.edu/elections>.

The board will hold a final special meeting on July 27, 2021, providing for public hearings before selecting the final map to adopt, and resolution to move on to the County Commission for approval. The County Commission must take action by August 10.

In March of 2020, the Board of Education unanimously approved a resolution beginning the formal process to move to by-trustee area elections. After an initial presentation and public hearing, Governor Newsom issued executive order N-48-20 in April of 2020 which paused the timeline for the process to protect public health and safety during the pandemic. The board voted to pause the process in compliance with the executive order.

With Governor Newsom's executive order pausing such processes due to the COVID-19 pandemic expiring after June 30, the district will resume the transition and complete the process within the legally required timeframe.

2020 Census data was delayed and has not yet been made available. To meet the required timelines, the current map designs will use data from the 2010 Census and then be revisited later this fall once the newer data is available.

Visit <https://www.sanjuan.edu/elections> for the latest information on the process, full timelines, and maps once they are available. ★

Re-launching often takes hours. Not this time. To my amazement, ace Lago turns for home without stopover.

11 am: In an explosion of pine needles, a textbook fledge is complete. Alpha sibling Rio gawks. Lago's dramatic silence says: Okay, so I'm king of the world. Now what?

11:30 am: Approving Papa joins his debutant. Lago seems to feel rewards are in order. His cacophonous eaglet tantrum echoes through the canyon. Papa endures the screaming for a full 20 minutes before scorching away to hunt at high noon.

4 pm: I melt into a puddle of sweaty camouflage gear. Rio's still not moved since seeing her brother's feat. Papa's hunting across the canyon. Above me, the achiever still screams: Bring me fish!

Next day, June 11, 6 am: Beholding an empty nest, I conclude Rio has also flown the coop. The morning brings unimagined fledgling experiences. The canyon is a noisy three-ring circus as liberated babies crash-land on unfamiliar trees and surfaces. Screaming like banshees at every turn, they flap homeward when fish are delivered.

7 am: Mama Bald leads her fledglings across the river. From a distance, I see them on a rocky shore, drinking deep. The artery has tantalized below their nursery for almost 13 weeks; now they gulp of cool, shaded paradise. They wade to breast-depth then splash, like sparrows in a bird bath. In a river named for their nation, juvenile icons Rio and Lago discover a whole new world. And it's good.

God Bless America!
Footnote: Prescient parenting surely ensured survival for these babies. June's ruthless procession of triple-digit days caused great wildlife suffering and many dehydrated raptors were saved by rescue agencies. In five seasons of recording the family's activities, two flawless maiden flights -- within hours -- have not previously occurred. This observer feels the adults knew a heatwave was looming and wanted the babies out of an unshaded nest. Their encouragement might have hurried fledges, so Rio and Lago reached life-saving water in the nick of time. Pictures shown were shot from great distances with powerful lenses. River users who see animals drinking on banks should allow them space to refresh and hunt. Their lives depend on it. ★

GONE FISHING

*I've finished life's chores assigned to me
So put me on a boat headed out to sea.
Please send along my fishing pole
For I've been invited to the fishin' hole.*

*Where every day is a day to fish,
To fill your heart with every wish.
Don't worry, or feel sad for me,
I'm fishin' with the Master of the sea.*

*We will miss each other for awhile,
But you will come and bring your smile.
That won't be long you will see,
Till we're together you and me.*

*To all of those that think of me,
Be happy as I go out to sea.
If others wonder why I'm missin'
Just tell 'em I've gone fishin'*

Changes to Organics Recycling Law for Businesses Take Effect July 1

Effective July 1, 2021, all commercial waste generators in Sacramento that subscribe to 2 or more cubic yards of trash and recycling services combined per week are required to subscribe to organic material recycling services. This includes food waste and green waste. This law affects all business types, not just those that sell or make food.

The easiest way to become compliant is to contact your trash hauler and add organics recycling collection service. You may also be compliant if your business has alternative organic service. An Organic Material Recycling Compliance Form will need to be submitted if you recycle your organic material in an alternate way.

Waivers may be available to businesses that generate less than 20 gallons of organic material per week. Businesses who sell or produce food are ineligible to receive a 20-Gallon or Less Waiver. Ineligible businesses include restaurants, theaters, hotels, schools, gas stations, and coffee shops. A full list of ineligible business types can be found at WasteRightSac.com.

For more information or to complete the Organics Material Recycling Compliance Form for either alternative service or for a waiver please visit WasteRightSac.com.

“A lease has been signed, and architectural plans have been ordered,” said Chris Floyd, operating partner for the upcoming 1,228 square-foot Citrus Heights store. Floyd corrected an earlier published news account which quoted a Crumbl spokesperson that the store intended to be open in early July.

"I'm excited to be bringing Crumbl Cookies to Citrus Heights," Floyd said. Floyd said he was personally attracted to Crumbl's business model, each store's high level of cleanliness and how cookies are artfully presented as the customer selects them.

The size and weight of a typical Crumbl cookie is around 5.5 to 6 ounces, a half-pound in individual weight, and measure 4 to 4.5 inches in diameter,

Crumb! Cookies serves some 120 specialty flavors which rotate weekly, including circus animal and caramel cheesecake, plus constant classics like milk chocolate chip and chilled sugar. Photos by Thomas J. Sullivan

Hundreds of pounds of cookie dough are mixed, balled by crew members and then baked fresh. Customers will be able observe that complete process as they place and pick up their orders, Floyd said.

Fresh cookies are packed in Crumbl's distinctive pink

Crumbl (crumblcookies.com), serves over 120 specialty flavors which rotate

Customers will be encouraged to download the Crumbl app to learn which new cookie flavors will be offered in rotation each week. Each locally-owned Crumbl store makes active use of social media which encourages customers to discover new favorites each Sunday, and to keep coming

Crumbl's corporate office recently announced the opening of its 200th store nationwide, with the closest northern California stores being in Roseville, Elk Grove and in the US who struggle daily with dentures. A majority suffer from discomfort as a result of loose or ill-fitting dentures. Many prosthetic wearers simply withdraw from any type of social engagement as a result of having to wear their dentures.

The Exciting New World of Snap On Dentures!

There are millions of people...

Now there is a solution to these issues: Implants with "Snap On" Dentures!

Whether you are new to dentures or have worn them for years, a snap on denture is a great solution to uncomfortable chewing and slippery painful dentures. There are several types of snap on dentures available, including snap on partials. If you already wear a conventional denture or partial denture, we can sometimes use your denture to accommodate the snaps to fit on your new dental implants.
