CA Trucking Association Issues New Statement on the Governor's Signing of AB 5

By Bernice Creager,
California Trucking Association

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)

- Shawn Yadon, CEO of the California Trucking Association (CTA), issued the following statement in response to the decision by Governor Gavin Newsom to sign Assembly Bill 5 into law:

"In the wake of Governor Newsom signing AB 5, the California Trucking Association is exploring its options to ensure California's more than 70,000 independent owner-operators do not lose the tens of thousands of dollars spent in purchasing and updating their trucks, and other assets they have invested in order to build their own businesses.

"In its current form, AB 5 denies a significant segment of the trucking industry the ability to continue operating as independent owner-operators, forcing them to abandon investments they've made in their trucks as well as taking away their flexibility to set their own schedule and determine their destiny regarding their businesses, which many have operated for more than three decades.

"We look forward to working with the Legislature and the Administration to develop a more workable solution to AB 5 that protects employees from misclassification without eliminating the independent owner-operator business model."

Since 1934, the California Trucking Association has been serving the commercial motor carrier industry in California and the companies that provide products and services to the trucking industry. A critical and vital component of California's economy, nearly 80 percent of California communities depend solely on trucks to deliver their goods. Our carrier membership ranges from individual owner-operators, to small for-hire fleets, to the largest national and international carriers. Allied members of the California Trucking Association range from businesses involved with truck and trailer sales, parts and service, insurance, legal services and all other businesses that support the trucking industry.

The California Trucking Association promotes leadership in the California motor carrier industry, advocates sound transportation policies to all levels of government, and works to maintain a safe, environmentally responsible and efficient California transportation goods movement system. ★

City Approves Wine Sales at Catholic Bookstore

Story by Shaunna Boyd

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - At the September 12 Citrus Heights City Council meeting, the Council considered whether to issue a Letter of Public Convenience and Necessity (PCN) to allow Easter’s Catholic Books and Gifts to sell altar wine.

When the Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control (ABC) receives a request for a Type 20 (beer/wine) license in an area considered to be overconcentrated or at risk of high crime, ABC refers the matter to the local jurisdiction for review and approval of the PCN, which is why the matter was brought to the Council.

Easter’s Catholic Books and Gifts has been located at 6916 Sunrise Blvd. since they moved to Citrus Heights in 2016. The original location was on Auburn Blvd. in Sacramento County where they were granted a Type 20 license, but they had to reapply after the move.

The store sells a variety of religious items and books, and they requested to resume the sale of altar (or liturgical) wine, which is used in church services. They sell the wine by the case directly to parishes and churches, and the wine is not stocked on the sales floor for general public purchase.

After the Citrus Heights Police department and the City’s Planning Division reviewed the application, City staff recommended the Council approve the license. Staff explained that the store would be selling a specialized product not otherwise available in the nearby area, the wine was sold at the previous location without any known issues or violations, the store has limited hours, and the amount of wine in the store would be limited.

Denise Kramer, one of the owners of Easter’s Catholic Books and Gifts, spoke to the Council about the request, explaining that they provided liturgical wine for 15 years at their previous location and it is a “unique item not found readily in the Sacramento area.”

The move stopped the sale of the wine, and Kramer said, “It has impacted our business, and it has caused us great concern with regards to keeping the store open because when churches would come in for the wine they would also buy other needs, so it kept things flowing.”

“It is a good portion of our sales; it does help us,” said Kramer. “Our sales have declined drastically since we’ve moved to Citrus Heights, and this is one of the reasons.”

Kramer explained that Easter’s Catholic Books and Gifts is “a small family business” and it would not be competing with other businesses in the area that already sell alcohol.

The Council unanimously approved the request for a PCN.

The City of Citrus Heights is a member of the League of California Cities, which is an association of city officials in California that work together to influence the state’s policy decisions.

The League of California Cities annual conference will be held in October, and Councilmembers Bret Daniels, Steve Miller, and Porsche Middleton are scheduled to attend. The Council is required to select a delegate to vote on League resolutions at the conference.

Mayor Jeannie Bruins said, “Our tradition is usually to send our newest councilmember to vote for us. It’s a good experience,” so Councilmember Middleton will cast the votes for Citrus Heights at the conference. Councilmember Miller volunteered to be the alternate delegate, and Councilmember Daniels agreed to act as second alternate.

The Council then discussed two resolutions that will be voted on at the conference and provided direction to Councilmember Middleton regarding the Council’s stance on the issues.

Resolution 1 concerns Rule 20A of the California Public Utilities Commission (PUC), which involves an annual allocation of utilities funds to help communities convert from overhead electric lines to underground lines. The League of California Cities will be voting on whether to request the PUC amend Rule 20A to add projects in very high fire severity zones to the list of eligible criteria and to increase funding allocations for Rule 20A projects.

Vice Mayor Jeff Slowey said, “It really doesn’t have a lot of impact on us, [but] it makes sense to recommend undergrounding, especially in high fire hazard areas... And if the PUC is going to increase funding, it’s kind of spread over everybody. To

Council Remembers, Honors Bill Heiser

The Citrus Heights City Council invited Bill Heiser’s family and his fellow POOCH members to hear a proclamation recognizing Heiser’s contributions to the community. Photo by Shaunna Boyd. Story by Shaunna Boyd

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Local resident William “Bill” Heiser was a dedicated volunteer in the Citrus Heights community who passed away in May 2019. The Citrus Heights City Council presented a proclamation to Heiser’s family on September 12 to honor his contributions to the City.

Councilmember Steve Miller said, “I first met Bill about three and a half years ago at the C-Bar-C Dog Park. He was there every morning. I didn’t know his name back then, but I knew his dog’s name. ... “We really value our volunteers here in Citrus Heights, and unfortunately Bill passed away in May, and I found out by going to the dog park and he wasn’t there. It was the first day I hadn’t seen him there.”

Councilmember Miller read a proclamation, stating, “Bill Heiser served the community of Citrus Heights as a devoted volunteer who had a love for dogs. He spent decades volunteering with Pet Owners Organization of Citrus Heights, or POOCH, and was one of the early pioneers in helping to bring C-Bar-C Dog Park, that we all love and enjoy today, to Citrus Heights. Bill spent countless hours keeping the C-Bar-C Dog Park clean. ... Bill was loved by all he met and was a dedicated friend to many. He will be missed by all who knew and loved him.” Heiser will be remembered for his “kindness and willingness to help the community in any way he could,” said Councilmember Miller. ★ me, it makes sense to support it.”

Resolution 2 calls on federal and state governments to address the impacts of international transboundary pollution flows from Mexico into the southernmost regions of California and the Pacific Ocean — and calls for additional funding to address the environmental impacts.

Vice Mayor Slowey said, “It makes sense ... one county shouldn’t impact the other with their flow.”

Mayor Bruins agreed: “I would support addressing the impacts.”

The Council directed Councilmember Middleton to vote in support of both resolutions at the conference. ★

By Pastor Ray Dare

Hurried, overwhelmed, burned-out and frustrated describes so much of our life. We pack more into our schedule than any other culture. We're obsessed with going faster, trying harder. As a result, we feel overloaded, stressed-out, overwhelmed. And the sick thing is, we see fatigue as normal. We've come to accept it. You're born into a busy life and you move and rush through life until we drop dead. There are always little tasks that are biting at our ankles. There are too many responsibilities to be met, too many obligations to be carried out and not enough time to do everything. We feel frustrated, overwhelmed, and ready to throw in the towel.

God says in Psalm 46, "Cease striving and know that I am God." Ps. 46:10a (NASB)

God says cease striving. Why does God say that? Two of the greatest sources

Pastor Ray's Encouraging Words

of stress in your life are arrogance and aggression. First, aggression: You don't wait, you're not patient, you get aggressive, try doing things in your own strength, in your own energy and effort to get it all done. Next arrogance: you think, "If it's going to be, it's up to me!" "I've got to get it done!" You try to control everything. A lot of your stress comes from your own pride, thinking you can do more, be more, have more and control more.

So, God says, "Be still and know that I am God!" Ps. 46:10. You need to remind yourself that you are not the general manager of the universe. That you are not everybody's savior, that you cannot do all and control all, that you are only a cog on a giant wheel. You are a pawn on God's chessboard. It's about God and not us. And your world is not going to fall apart when you start trusting God. I want to suggest, because you've probably tried a lot of other things to reduce the pressure in your life, why not try trusting God?

Another stress reducer is found in Proverbs 20, "Since the Lord is directing our steps, why try to understand everything that happens along the way." Your stress will lower when you stop demanding explanations for everything. God doesn't owe us explanations. If He tried to explain it all to you, you couldn't understand it anyway. So why don't you just trust Him. He loves you and wants the best for you.

Put God at the center of your life and he will bring everything else into balance. Resign as the general manager of the universe. When you put Christ at the center of your life, you restore a sense of balance and harmony you've been missing. You will tap into a source of strength that will never run dry. There's enormous energy there, when God is at work in your life. Cease striving and realize He is God. Realize that you matter to Him, that He's in control and He has a good plan for your life.

This earthly life is just our rehearsal before we can enter heaven is something I just read and those words appear to be true. Yet, not all people will end up in heaven! Some people erroneously believe that when they die they automatically will go to heaven. They believe they just "arrive" and nothing is required of them. Truth is . . . much is required before one can pass through God's heavenly gates into heaven! Is their God one of their own making with a small "g" and not the God of the Bible?

Many questions come to mind for them to answer! What has one done in their lives to show and demonstrate the love of God is alive in their hearts? Do they even recognize that there is only one person in this whole world who always met the needs of others where-ever He went? How have they given and served others? What have they done with the Savior and Son of God, Jesus Christ? He came to rescue us from the condemnation of sin and eternal death brought on by Adam and Eve's disobedience! Did they ever accept Jesus death on the Cross for their sins and wrong doings to purchase the gift of eternal life? Do they understand that God has provided both grace and mercy for us?

How have they personally demonstrated with love and gratitude for all God has done during their lifetime? Have they recognized God's supernatural hand in their life?

How many opportunities to demonstrate the love of God have they passed by because of their self-centered ideas to meet their personal wants and desires? What is truly the center of their faith? Just what and who do they believe?

Have they ever investigated the words of the Holy Bible? Do they believe and know that the Word became flesh and dwelt among us and we beheld His glory, the glory as of the only begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth. . . And of His fullness we have all received, and grace for grace. For the law was given through Moses, but grace and truth came through Jesus Christ. (John 1:14, 16-17)

He loves us all!

Local High School Teachers Learn to Identify Signs of Human Trafficking

Story and photos by Shaunna Boyd

CITRUS HEIGHTS, CA (MPG) - Human trafficking is the fastest-growing criminal enterprise. It is happening around the world and across the country, and the Sacramento region is a hotbed for trafficking activity.

Local non-profit 3Strands Global Foundation sponsored Assembly Bill 1227, the Human Trafficking Prevention Education and Training Act, which was signed into law in 2017. The law requires that California public schools train school personnel on how to identify possible trafficking victims and how to proceed when victims are identified. The schools must also provide human trafficking prevention education at least once in middle school and once in high school.

Local Rotary District 5180 partnered with 3Strands Global to fund the educational training program in area schools, and educators at Mesa Verde High School in Citrus Heights recently completed the second phase of the training.

Mesa Verde High School Vice Principal Brett Tujague welcomed the opportunity to address this issue: “I love the fact that we’re able to get this type of exposure to this major crisis that’s happening. ... It wasn’t until I sat down about a year ago with the Rotary Club that I first saw the bigger picture. It was ... eye opening to see. ... The next day I came back to campus and, based on what

Teachers at Mesa Verde High School in Citrus Heights recently completed the PROTECT program, learning how to identify and report suspected case of human trafficking. Photo by Shaunna Boyd

I had learned, I was looking at students with a different lens and able to kind of see some red flags and some warnings. ... And in talking with our teachers who have gone through the training as well, they are super excited for Part 2.”

Sean Brown, 3Strands Global Regional Director, presented the PROTECT (Prevention Organized to Educate Children on Trafficking) training, which focused on understanding vulnerability and trauma as well as identifying warning signs, reporting suspected exploitation, and implementing prevention education in the classroom.

Brown explained that human trafficking is a growing criminal enterprise because while drugs or guns must be carefully hidden and can only be sold once, humans can be hidden in plain sight and “can be sold over and over again.”

The traffickers reach out to youth online, vastly increasing the number of potential victims. Brown said the traffickers target vulnerable youth, gaining their trust by offering affection and attention. Some groups at high risk of exploitation are foster youth, victims of domestic abuse, homeless youth, bullied students, and LGBT youth.

Most kids do not recognize when they are being exploited, and it is rare for them to self-disclose. Brown said they often do not identify as victims or seek help. He explained that the “trauma bond” between victim and trafficker is a “caging of the mind. It removes their sense of identity, their sense of self.”

Signs that can indicate a student is a trafficking victim include lack of eye contact, frequently missing school, suddenly having expensive new clothes or accessories, and having two cell phones. Brown said teachers should also look for branding on students’ skin such as dollar signs, diamonds, bar codes, or names. These brands are tattooed, burned, or cut into the skin on the student’s finger, forearm, or chest — somewhere the victim “sees it every day to remind them they belong to someone else,” said Brown.

If teachers notice warning signs, Brown said they should not confront the student. Instead, they should ask questions and see if the student’s answers seem off. Depending on the student’s answers, teachers can then report their concerns if they suspect the student is being trafficked.

Teachers can download the PROTECT curriculum to teach awareness and prevention directly in their classrooms. In order to track the impact of the curriculum, 3Strands Global partners with researchers who analyze data from the teacher trainings and the prevention programs in the classroom.

Colin Bross, Mesa Verde High School Principal, considered how to best implement the prevention education curriculum for students at the school: “The most logical place seems to be health [class], since it’s a graduation requirement anyway” and the issue can be discussed in relation to other health topics such as “mental health issues, drug abuse, victimization.”

If a teacher suspects one of their students is a trafficking victim, Bross said, “We and our counselors need to know so we can work with those kids in an appropriate way. ... We don’t want a bunch of isolated conversations taking place in classrooms. We need to have a kind of funneling of these issues being brought to someone who can do some investigating to make sure it’s done with a certain care, so we’re not accusing, or assuming, or confronting a kid. ... Having counselors and people who are trained to have those tough conversations with kids is important for us for the next steps.” ★

Rep. Ami Bera Statement on Trump Impeachment

By Travis Horne

WASHINGTON, DC (MPG) - Rep. Ami Bera, M.D. (CA-07) released the following statement on impeachment.
"After reading the Mueller Report and witnessing the President's actions, it has been clear to me that President Trump has committed impeachable offenses and went to great lengths to commit obstruction of justice on several occasions.
Multiple committees with jurisdiction have been conducting important and necessary oversight, including investigating and holding hearings into obstruction, corruption, and abuse of power by President Trump. I have supported the committees' actions and will continue to do so, including an impeachment inquiry.

Congress has the constitutional authority to hold the president accountable for his actions. I am confident we will do so."

Dave Ramsey Says

Why Do I Need a Will if I'm Young?

Dear Dave,
Why do I need a will if I'm still young and haven't acquired a lot of wealth?
-Laura

Dear Laura,
In a case like yours, you don't need a complicated will. But you do need an inexpensive, basic will. The larger and more complicated your estate is, the more you'd spend on estate planning and a will in order to ensure everything is properly addressed - and to keep the government's hands off everything.
Let's say you're in your early - to mid-twenties and single. You have a car and a bank account, and that's it. In this kind of scenario, it's going to be easy to work through your estate. But it's going to take your parents - or whoever's left - a whole lot longer to get those few simple transactions taken care of if you don't have a will in place.

The other thing you'll always want to have in your will package is a healthcare power of attorney directive. This includes things like who's going to make medical decisions for you if you're unable to make decisions for yourself. As a part of this, you'd want to fill out the paperwork on whether to disconnect life support systems in the event of a coma. These things aren't fun to think about, but doing it will take a huge burden off the people you love. And all this becomes even more important if you have children, because the state will step in and decide what happens to them if you don't.
Having these things laid out ahead of time, and sharing them with your family and close friends, is a very thoughtful and mature thing to do for those who would be left behind in the event of your death. They're already going to be distraught and grieving, and you don't want to make it worse by leaving them with a lot of important, difficult decisions to make. - Dave

Keep the House

Dear Dave,
My wife and I are on Baby Step 2, and the only debt we have is $90,000 in student loans. We bring home about $90,000 a year. In addition to this, we have almost $60,000 in equity in our home. We also have a toddler, plus another baby on the way. Do you think we should sell the house, and rent for a few years, while using the money from the sale of the house to pay down our student loan debt? - Chris

Dear Chris,
No, I wouldn't sell your home in this situation. You're going to be out of debt in a couple of years or so, anyway. You'll just have to lean into it, and make sure you're living on a strict, written budget. I'm talking about no vacations, and no eating out. You shouldn't see the inside of a restaurant unless you're working there. And the new kid's crib may have to come from a garage sale, but so what? Mine did, too. Want to know something else? I survived without having a rich kid's nursery, and so did my kids.

There's a price to be paid anytime you decide to get serious about gaining control of your money and cleaning up a financial mess you've made. You're going to have to work like maniacs and have no lives for a while. That might even mean picking up a part-time job at night or on weekends. You've got a tough couple of years ahead of you, but I think it's worth the tradeoff.
Keep your house. - Dave

with Mary Jane Popp

By County Supervisor Sue Frost

Through the generosity of the Citrus Heights Messenger, this column serves to provide an update about matters affecting the community of Citrus Heights.

We have a moral obligation to be compassionate to one another. That includes not just our family or neighbors, but everyone – including the homeless. There are those who, through their efforts to aid the homeless, have created unintended consequences for the very populations they seek to help. We can't shy away from hard truths in this matter and we need to be able to support solutions that provide the most public good.

The hard truth here is that the enforcement of anti-camping ordinances benefit our entire community, even the homeless. That is why I am pleased that Sacramento County is joining with Boise to support their Supreme Court appeal of the recent court decision that forbids local enforcement of anti-camping ordinances and prevents us from clearing up homeless settlements—and I am urging all cities and counties in our region to join with us by doing the same.

In September of last year, the Ninth Circuit Court of Appeals issued a decision in Martin v. Boise which ruled local governments cannot cite or arrest anyone for sleeping on public property when

Citrus Heights Community Update

Appealing to Common Sense

adequate shelter beds are unavailable. Because of that ruling, Sacramento County Parks Rangers stopped enforcing our anti-camping ordinance, and as we all have seen, the problems associated with homelessness have increasingly spiraled out of control: aggressive panhandlers are chasing customers from businesses, used needles are being discarded in our parks, human feces is contaminating our water, and fire hazards in open fields are threatening our homes.

One of the first actions I took when I got elected to the Board of Supervisors was to approve a set of four homeless initiatives designed to provide shelter and re-housing services. This was in line with the approach that many of my constituents indicated was the best way to go about the homeless crisis, balanced between compassion with toughness. Our social service programs such as mental/physical health care, addiction treatment, job training, and housing provided a compassionate approach. The anti-camping ordinance allows us to be a little tough.

Last year, the Ninth Circuit Court stripped our ability to be a little tough and we were left with fewer ways to push people toward services, making our overall situation much worse. An imbalance was created because Sacramento County geographically has a lot to offer to those living outside with our warm weather and acres upon acres of beautiful parkway to camp in. That hospitable environment is then combined with government services and efforts by non-profits. So without the ability to be tough and enforce the anti-camping ordinance, there is no real incentive for those living in the parks to stop and that creates a dangerous environment.

The anti-camping ordinance has always been a positive tool. It helps keep our parks and other public areas for everyone to benefit from and enjoy. Homeless advocates have accused of using it as a punishment, a way of depriving homeless individuals of their rights. That has never been true and if the appeal is successful, that will remain to be the case. The ability to enforce the ordinance better enables us to connect the homeless to medical treatment, mental health and drug treatment and even job training. Through the ordinance, we are better serving our community as a whole.

The official homeless count found 5,570 homeless people living in our County in 2019, which is a shocking increase from 3,665 in 2017. I have confidence that if our anti-camping ordinance continues to get restricted, this number will continue to skyrocket when the next count is done in 2021, regardless of how many services we add or how many millions we spend.

Not So Friendly Skies

Americans are taking to the skies in record numbers. In 1977, only 25% had taken a flight. In 2017, nearly 50% flew. Top Travel specialist Pete Trabucco had some tips for me on POPPOFF! Surprises? YES!

1) IT'S EXPENSIVE TO CARRY BECAUSE IT'S HEAVY. Keeping fuels low saves Airlines a lot of money. But it also means if there's rough weather (in flight or an unexpected delay), Airlines are more likely to make an emergency landing because they are running out of gas. 2) DON'T ACCEPT THE FIRST $200 VOUCHER THEY OFFER. Airlines typically keep increasing the offer until they have enough volunteers willing to give up their seats. If they don't get enough volunteers and have to bump you involuntarily, insist on cash compensation instead. Many Airlines will write a check at the airport). Department of Transportation rules say you're entitled to as much as $1300 in cash, depending on your ticket price and how long you are delayed. 3) SEARCH FOR ONLY ONE TICKET AT A TIME. If you search for, say, four tickets, and the airline has only three at the lowest rate, all four are bumped to the higher-price bracket. 4) YOU'RE NOT IMAGINING IT. In the new aircrafts, especially those used for long-haul international flights, airlines recently shrank the seats by one inch so they could fit an extra seat in each row. 5) IF YOUR FLIGHT IS CANCELED, GET IN LINE AT THE TICKET COUNTER. BUT, also get on the phone. You'll probably reach an airline phone agent before you get to the frazzled agent behind the counter. 6) DON'T EVER WALK AROUND BAREFOOT ON THE AIRPLANE. That carpet? Everything you can imagine has been spilled on it. This includes vomit, milk, babypee, and blood. Also wipe down those table trays. Don't want to tell you what could be on those. 7) AIRLINES RELEASE BARGAIN TICKETS BY MISTAKE. Every so often, airlines release dirt cheap tickets. They're not doing it as a favor. It's an accident. Once these tickets are released, there's no going back. That's from Jamie Campbell, travel blogger and creator of the Gaijin Crew. The best way to catch these slip-ups and make the most of them is to sign up for mailing lists from sites such as Airfarewatchdog, which scans the internet for cheap fares. Another site that specializes in helping travelers find mistake fares is Secret Flying. 8) KNOW YOUR RIGHTS. The more you know about your rights as an airline passenger, the better. "Airlines don't want customers to know much about their passenger rights, which is not all that surprising when they could owe up to $700 for each passenger if their flight to or from Europe is delayed or canceled," said Thomas Busson of ClaimCompass. Airlines flying to and from Europe are subject to EU passenger laws. "While U.S. regulations only cover passengers facing cases of overbooking and luggage problems, European regulation goes further." Peter Trabucco breaks down their secrets for a safer, happier and cheaper flight. Sacramento County DA Reports

Defendants Convicted for Murder Outside Arden Way Nightclub
DATE: September 18, 2019
CASE: Julian Garcia & German Zamora-Canada (Case #16FE021333)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Jeff Hightower, Homicide Unit

Julian Garcia was convicted by a jury of the first-degree murder of Cesar Aleman-Luna, two counts of attempted murder and being a felon in possession of a firearm. German Zamora-Canada was convicted of the second-degree murder of Cesar Aleman-Luna, attempted murder and being a felon in possession of a firearm. The jury also found true firearm allegations for both defendants.

On October 9, 2016, Julian Garcia and German Zamora-Canada got into an altercation with the surviving victims after a concert at La Nueva Tropicana nightclub on Arden Way. Garcia and Zamora-Canada pulled out guns and opened fire, striking three victims. Those victims survived, but suffered major injuries. Cesar Aleman-Luna was working at a taco truck outside the nightclub when he was also struck five times, killing him. Allegations that Garcia suffered a prior strike conviction for assault with a firearm and Zamora-Canada suffered a prior strike conviction for robbery will be determined at the sentencing hearing.

Garcia faces a maximum sentence of 122 years to life in prison. Zamora-Canada faces a maximum sentence of 83 years to life in prison. Sentencing for both defendants is set for October 11, 2019, at 9:00 a.m. in Department 34 before the Honorable Ernest Sawtelle.

Defendant Sentenced to Life for Murdering Wife
DATE: September 6, 2019
CASE: Jerry Vang (Case #17FE013719)
PROSECUTOR: Deputy District Attorney Allison Dunham, Homicide Unit

The Honorable Steve White sentenced Jerry Vang to life in prison without the possibility of parole. On August 5, 2019, a jury convicted Vang of the first-degree murder of Padoo Vue with the special circumstance that Vang committed the murder during the commission of a kidnapping. Vang was also convicted of kidnapping, domestic violence, two counts of making criminal threats while personally using a firearm, and two counts of being a felon in possession of a firearm.

In December 2014, Jerry Vang and the victim started dating. Vang began to physically assault the victim, beating her with his fists. The victim did not report the abuse to police out of fear. In February 2016, Vang and the victim were married, and soon had a baby. In September 2016, Vang pointed a gun at the victim and the baby while threatening to kill them. In November 2016, he again pointed a gun at the victim and threatened to kill her, the baby and commit suicide. The victim ran away both times but did not report either incident to police.

On February 3, 2017, CHP officers responded to the intersection of 65th St. and 53rd Ave. on a report of a female in the roadway. The victim was found on the ground on the 65th St. Expressway. She had obvious head trauma, road rash and was not breathing. The victim was taken to a hospital, where she died a few hours later. Vang told CHP officers that earlier that evening the victim left the residence after an argument, and Vang pursued her in his truck. Vang claimed the victim got into his truck and then jumped out onto the road while he was driving. Initially, her death was ruled an accident.

In March 2017, the investigation was reopened. Interviews of family members and information from the victim's cell phone, email and social media revealed a history of domestic violence and the victim's fear of Vang. Photographic evidence and forensic analysis conducted by the District Attorney's Crime Lab of the victim's fingernail scrapings recovered during the autopsy revealed Vang's DNA. This evidence demonstrated a violent struggle occurred between Vang and the victim just prior to her death.

During the subsequent investigation, Vang began dating another woman and accused her of fraudulently using his dead wife's credit card. He told her she "would be the next one and he is not afraid to kill" as he strangled her and placed a gun to her head. The victim begged for her life. She suffered bruising around her neck from the strangulation.

Vang has prior strike convictions for making a criminal threat and domestic violence. ★

Sounds to me like, as with last season of The Conners, the show and the fictional family will continue to operate in the long shadow cast by its former title star, and if Dan attempting to move on presents emotional hurdles, that's in keeping with the way real life, not to mention life on TV, tends to play out. Volunteer Drivers Needed for Meals on Wheels

RANCHO CORDOVA, CA (MPG) - Starting out from Neal Orchard Senior Activities Center, volunteer Meals on Wheels driver Patrick Quinn picked up his hot pack and his cold pack for the nine senior participants to whom he would deliver that day. While the senior center serves hot meals on weekdays every week, patrons using Meals on Wheels are generally home-bound. “I’ve worked a lot of volunteer places,” Quinn said. “It’s worth doing.” Most of Quinn’s stops are fairly uneventful, but each is important. He gets out the individual hot meal and takes it along with a few grocery items to the door of the home. There he hands over the meal or takes it to the table for the participant. “For many of the seniors who rely on Meals on Wheels,” said marketing and outreach coordinator Angela Roberts, “receiving their lunch from a volunteer is their only social contact for the whole day.” Meals on Wheels participants in Carmichael are served out of the Rosemont facility, with the same standard of excellence. Participation is not income based, but primarily based on a person’s home and health needs.

Roberts joined Quinn at the home of Meals on Wheels participant Thelma Wiltscire, who reached 100 years of age on September 13. Wiltscire looks forward to receiving her main meal every week day. She knows each of the drivers who come to deliver. “We have flowers and a card signed by all of us at Meals on Wheels for her,” Roberts said. After accepting the birthday greetings, Wiltscire sat down with her dachshund, Dixie, on her lap.

Oldest of three siblings, Wiltscire passes the time by reading and doing puzzles. She attributes reaching 100 to taking care of herself, and to genetics. “Both our parents were almost 100 years old when they passed away,” Wiltscire said. “And I have Dixie, my baby. She’s a good little one.” Meals on Wheels also may provide food, called Ani-Meals, for participants’ pets. This ensures that participants will not need to feed pets from their own meals.

Another of Quinn’s deliveries was June Merowitz, 92. She said she has been receiving the hot meals for considerably more than a year. “That way I don’t have to cook it myself, they bring it to me,” Merowitz said. “I sit down and eat it and that’s my main meal for the day. The food is delightful, the people who serve it are delightful, so I have nothing but compliments for it.”

For seniors who are able to travel to senior centers, the All Seasons Café is open for lunch at 11:30 a.m., Monday through Friday, at the Neil Orchard Senior Center, 3480 Routier Rd. in Sacramento – phone (916) 366-3133. The Mission Oaks Community Center, 4701 Gibbons Dr., Carmichael, also has a café with weekday meals at 11:40 a.m.; phone (916) 359-1192. Everyone over 60 can receive a hot lunch at no fee, but must call in advance to ensure there will be enough meals.

“We always need volunteer drivers, especially since many volunteer drivers only drive once a week,” Roberts said. “They are the direct contact between isolated seniors and the program. In addition to delivering nutritious meals, they can meet and socialize with seniors, brightening their day and helping them feel connected to their communities.” Volunteer drivers drive their own vehicles and receive mileage reimbursement.
