Caltrans News Release

YUBA COUNTY, CA (MPG) - Caltrans and its partners celebrated the completion of a crucial $54 million roadway improvement and bridge construction project on State Highway 20 in Timbuctoo.

"Safety is Caltrans' top priority. This project greatly improves safety by straightening curves, constructing a new bridge and realigning the roadway," said Caltrans District 3 Director Amarjeet S. Benipal. "I applaud our Caltrans construction team and Flatiron Construction for completing work in less than two construction seasons."

More than 8,000 vehicles and approximately 500 trucks per day use this segment of Highway 20.

"Highway 20 is an important artery and economic link in the Yuba-Sutter region. It was vital that we improve this highway for the safety of motorists and residents," said Yuba County Supervisor Randy Fletcher.

The project provides a longer lasting, smoother roadway and improves safety by straightening curves, constructing a new bridge, widening shoulders, creating an eastbound passing lane and building standard 12-foot wide traffic lanes.

In addition, the project will also include a Timbuctoo Historical Plaza at the Yuba River vista point along Timbuctoo Place near the Parks Bar Bridge. The plaza, which will feature a monument marker, seating area and unique weathered greenstone boulders from the Yuba River, recognizes the history the original Parks Bar Bridge and the community of Timbuctoo, a once vibrant gold rush-era town with bustling stores and a Wells Fargo stop. With only a handful of residents today, Timbuctoo staked its claim as the largest town in eastern Yuba County in the 1850s.

"Yuba County has a rich history dating back to the beginning of statehood," Benipal said. "Caltrans recognizes the importance of preserving iconic landmarks and letting residents and visitors know about Timbuctoo's past."

Caltrans District 3 maintains more than 4,385 lanes miles of state highway in 11 Sacramento Valley and Northern Sierra counties. For real-time traffic information, go to <http://quickmap.dot.ca.gov/> or download the free Caltrans QuickMap app from the App Store or Google Play. ★

Every Drop
Counts
in Water Conservation

Water agencies have enough water supplies to serve customers for 2021, including Yuba City, there may be a need to severely restrict water consumption in 2022 if California has another dry winter.

City of Yuba City
Press Release

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - The City of Yuba City obtains water for its water system through four different permits/contracts from the Feather River (Table A). The City also has access to one groundwater well located at the Water Treatment Plant (WTP) for use in drought or emergency conditions. With the current drought, the City's water supplies have been curtailed and reduced.

During California's 2012-2016 drought, the City utilized the backup groundwater well at the WTP, "carryover" water from the SWP Contract to supplement supplies, and encouraged customers to conserve water. Customers did an excellent job reducing consumption during the 2012-2016 drought and adopted long-term habits that reduced water consumption overall. Through these efforts, the City was able to meet water demands.

There is growing concern that while many water agencies have enough water supplies to serve customers for 2021, including Yuba City, there may be a need to severely restrict water consumption in 2022 if California has another dry winter. Rather than take a "wait and see" approach, the State is recommending action to begin voluntarily reducing water consumption.

On July 20, 2021, the Yuba City Council adopted a Resolution declaring that water supply conditions are such that they dictate and justify the need for the implementation of voluntary conservation measures to achieve 15% conservation, which aligns with the implementation of Stage 2 of the Water Shortage Contingency Plan. ★

on Proposed Hazard Plan

By Russ Brown,
Yuba County

YUBA COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The Yuba County Office of Emergency Service is asking residents to review a draft plan to address a wide range of natural disasters facing our region, such as floods, droughts, wildfires, and severe weather.

The document, part of an effort to refresh local strategies to address emergency situations, began in late 2020. Yuba County OES wants residents to review the draft plan and provide input by standard mail, email, or by participating in a planned Zoom meeting later this month.

An online draft of the 2021 Local Hazard Mitigation Plan update can be found at Yuba.org/HazardPlan, as well as printed copies available to review at the Yuba County Public Library, 303 Second Street in Marysville, and Yuba County OES, 915 Eighth Street, Suite 117, in Marysville.

Yuba County has been working with Marysville, Wheatland, and several special districts to update its Hazard Mitigation Plan, an important document used during every declared emergency. While natural disasters cannot be prevented, a Hazard Mitigation Plan forms the foundation for any community's long-term strategy to reduce disaster losses by breaking the repeated cycle of disaster damage and reconstruction.

Additionally, only communities with a FEMA-approved Hazard Mitigation Plan are eligible to apply for both pre- and post-disaster mitigation grant funding and for lower costs of flood insurance to residents through the National Flood Insurance Program's Community Rating System.

The current work to update the 2015 version of the plan began late last year with an initial planning and public meeting. It established a Hazard Mitigation Planning Committee comprised of representatives from the County, incorporated communities, special districts, other key stakeholders, and the public. The 2021 Hazard Mitigation Plan update is scheduled to be finalized and submitted to Cal OES and FEMA later this month.

Residents are encouraged to review the draft Local Hazard Mitigation Plan and then participate in the upcoming public and planning committee meetings. Input and comments on the Hazard Plan draft can be submitted through Aug. 11 using any of the following methods:

Email comments to jeanine.foster@fostermorrison.com or bhaberman@co.yuba.ca.us.

Drop off written comments or send by mail to: Yuba County Office of Emergency Services, Attn. Briana Haberman, 915 8th St., Suite 301, Marysville, CA 95901.

An online Zoom meeting is scheduled to further allow residents to weigh in on the draft plan: The public meeting is scheduled for Tuesday, Aug. 10 from 5:30 to 7:00 p.m. Visit Yuba.org/HazardPlan to obtain the Zoom links for the meeting, and to participate in an online survey on hazards and hazard mitigation in the county.

Anyone with questions may contact Yuba County OES Emergency Operations Manager Briana Haberman at bhaberman@co.yuba.ca.us or call (530) 749-7522. ★

As a child in Boston, he also spent much time with his Grandparents Arthur B. Rae and Ingrid Nilsson Rae in Bristol, Rhode Island at the Blithewold Estate. Those are his favorite childhood memories. When Don was almost nine years old his parents moved the family to California, settling in the Los Angeles area.

Don graduated from Verdugo Hills High School in 1957, where he lettered in Tennis, Cross Country and Track. He was the Valedictorian of his graduating class. During high school he was chosen to attend Boys State in his Junior year. He also earned the Boy Scouts of America Silver Award Explorer and was a member of the Ground Observer Corps (Civilian USAF) a program in the early 1950's before radar to search the skies with binoculars and report any suspicious aircraft.

After High School Don entered California Western University, graduating in 1961 with a tri-major in History, Political Science and Journalism. He was the editor of the college newspaper and was in Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities.

During college he worked summers as a staff member at the Philmont Scout Ranch in New Mexico as a survival instructor and rifle instructor. Based on his experiences there, he wrote a story that was published in Boys Life magazine in 1961.

After graduating, he married his first wife Susan Mohney and worked for two newspapers as a reporter/photographer; The South Bay Daily Breeze and the Glendale News Press. It was during this time that he photographed Jayne Mansfield and interviewed Clement Attlee, former British Prime Minister from 1945-1951.

He played at courses all over the United States and multiple times in England and Scotland, including St. Andrews and Carnoustie. The Carnoustie golf course is across the road from his Rae family's home including the cemetery where his ancestors are buried. He actually kept a set of golf clubs in England for use during his visits. He also golfed in Hong Kong and Macau, China

Don was a world traveler visiting England, Ireland, Scotland, Netherlands, France, Germany, Hong Kong, Macau, China, South Korea as well as Mexico and Canada and all throughout the United States.

PG&E Initiates New Electric Infrastructure to Protect from Wildfire Threat

PG&E Press Release

CHICO, CA (MPG) - Pacific Gas and Electric Company (PG&E) announced a major new initiative to expand the undergrounding of electric distribution power lines in High Fire Threat Districts (HFTD) to further harden its system and help prevent wildfires. The new infrastructure safety initiative, announced today in Butte County by PG&E Corporation CEO Patti Poppe, is a multi-year effort to underground approximately 10,000 miles of power lines.

PG&E's commitment represents the largest effort in the U.S. to underground power lines as a wildfire risk reduction measure.

"We want what all of our customers want: a safe and resilient energy system. We have taken a stand that catastrophic wildfires shall stop. We will partner with the best and the brightest to bring that stand to life. We will demand excellence of ourselves. We will gladly partner with policymakers and state and local leaders to map a path we can all believe in," Poppe said.

In addition to significantly reducing wildfire risk, undergrounding also benefits customers by lessening the need for Public Safety Power Shutoffs, which are called as a last resort during dry, windy conditions to reduce the risk of vegetation contacting live power lines and sparking a wildfire. Undergrounding also eases the need for vegetation management efforts, leaving more of California's trees untouched.

PG&E maintains more than 25,000 miles of overhead distribution power lines in the highest fire-threat areas (Tier 2, Tier 3 and Zone 1) – which is more than 30% of its total distribution overhead system.

10,000 miles of PG&E lines represents approximately the distance of 11 round trips from Chico to Los Angeles or almost half way around the world. The exact number of projects or miles undergrounded each year through PG&E's new expanded undergrounding program will evolve as PG&E performs further project scoping and inspections, estimating and engineering review.

PG&E will engage customers and stakeholders as it develops a plan and reviews potential additional undergrounding sites based on a variety of factors, including local municipal planning and safety considerations. Engineering an underground electric system requires designing the system around existing water, natural gas and drainage systems, as well as planning for future road widening. PG&E intends to work closely with customers and local, state, federal, tribal and regulatory officials throughout this new safety initiative.

In the past, undergrounding has been done on a select, case-by-case basis, and largely for reasons other than wildfire risk reduction. Thanks to breakthroughs PG&E has achieved on undergrounding projects in recent years, undergrounding can now play a much more prominent role in PG&E's ongoing efforts to harden the electric grid.

Following the devastating October 2017 Northern California wildfires and the 2018 Camp Fire, PG&E began to evaluate placing overhead power lines underground as a wildfire safety measure, and to better understand the construction and cost requirements associated with undergrounding for system hardening purposes. These demonstration projects were part of PG&E's Community Wildfire Safety Program (CWSP) and included the following:

From 2018-2020, PG&E completed multiple demonstration projects aimed at converting overhead power lines to underground in high fire-threat areas of Alameda, Contra Costa, Nevada, and Sonoma counties;

As a part of the rebuild efforts following the October 2017 Northern California wildfires, PG&E completed undergrounding eight miles of power lines in the Larkfield Estates and Mark West Estates communities in Sonoma County in 2018;

In 2019, PG&E announced it would rebuild all its power lines underground in the Town of Paradise as it helps the community recover from the Camp Fire. The company is also rebuilding power lines underground within the 2020 North Complex Fire footprint in Butte County.

Through these demonstration projects and rebuild efforts, PG&E has been able to refine the construction and cost requirements associated with targeted undergrounding, enabling the acceleration and expansion of undergrounding projects. Learnings include:

Implementing new planning systems and strategies and using new materials and new equipment to make undergrounding more cost effective;

Building strong partnerships with material suppliers and contractors to accelerate undergrounding efforts;

Partnering with natural gas projects as well as phone and internet providers to joint trench and share costs, where possible;

Using new technology and construction methods to increase trench production;

Bundling work into larger blocks to take advantage of economies of scale;

Testing new cable and conduit materials to accelerate undergrounding work processes.

Ongoing PG&E Wildfire Mitigation and Resiliency Efforts

In addition to significantly expanding its undergrounding, PG&E's ongoing safety work to enhance grid resilience and address the growing threat of severe weather and wildfires continues on a risk-based and data-driven basis, as outlined in PG&E's 2021 Wildfire Mitigation Plan (WMP).

This includes:

- Installing stronger poles and covered power lines;
- Deploying remote grids and community microgrids;
- Targeted sectionalizing and grid reconfiguration;
- Investing in centralized data analytics to reduce risk;
- Conducting enhanced vegetation management;
- Scaling the deployment of emerging technologies to proactively mitigate wildfire risk

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor

Hey everybody, Ellis Lake is up for grabs again! Do you think it's actually gonna get fixed this time? Will it ever look like more than the smelly green swamp that it's always been? How many people have formed committee's and "studied" this Slime Lake all these years? How many millions have we wasted so far?

People have written our newspaper, over and over, suggesting tons of solutions.

People have offered to PAY to fix this lake. It's still Slime Lake. How many people on how many committee's, will get paid THIS time to FIX this wonderful attraction?

First, FIX THE WATER!! Then, please, don't ruin it by cramming in all kinds of stuff for a tourist attraction. Keep it simple. Something to sit by and admire, or walk around, Keep it Simple!

Louise Dunn - Olivehurst, CA

Commentary
by Lou Binninger

Over the last six decades government schools look and act more like prison operations than institutions of freedom, creativity and learning. The campus resembles a lockdown facility.

Control of schools has been wrenched-away from parents by the state and teachers unions. The authoritarian state sees parents as both nonessential and a nuisance. Local trustees that once represented parents to set policy and curriculum are now pawns with little authority. Directives, curriculum and policies come from state boards concerned with social engineering and no regard for local family values.

So, it is no surprise that California schools' response to the Covid hoax was bizarre, nonsensical and damaging. While seeing themselves as the leading intellects in America, education leaders instead spouted state dogma and superstition more akin to a primitive jungle tribe.

A teacher or student has a greater chance of dying from eating, walking, driving, having furniture / appliances topple and crush them, or being struck by lightning than 'catching' and perishing from Covid. Saying that children and teachers were at risk was 100% false and fear-mongering. It compares to deceptively shouting fire in a packed theater.

Forcing mask – wearing and now pressuring and offering prizes to inject all children and others with a toxic poison is child abuse and a crime against humanity. All involved should be noted and prosecuted.

Taking temperatures, masking, distancing, and forbidding normal social interaction and play is cruel psychological torture. These techniques are normally reserved for terrorists or prisoners of war in custody. It does permanent mental damage, breeds illness and breaks the will for zombie-like submission.

As schools are set to open, employees and parents are receiving marching orders to achieve compliance on schoolyards and classrooms. These rules are about government control not health. Parents and teachers should resist and flee with their children. This article does not even address the moral filth and anti-American curriculum themes. Your child's mind is too valuable to allow state access to it.

Yuba-Sutter School Superintendents are following state policy with the exception of Wheatland High School Superintendent Nicole Newman. Newman has been arguing with the state to allow local decision-making in line with community standards.

Newman seeks a return to pre-Covid normal to allow students and parents to make their own health decisions. She is the outlier among superintendents. She even talks about providing students the best possible education and mental health services.

Are the so-called 'brightest' leaders in the community the stupidest or is no backbone the problem with Cena, Osumi and others?

Marysville Joint Unified says that if teachers don't take the shot then they must mask in-doors. Yuba City Unified says everybody masks in-doors, everyod.

The district misses quote the 'quack' Centers for Disease Control and the California Department of Public Health. Both are guilty via lockdowns of crushing businesses, suicides, drug overdoses, nursing homes malpractice, forbidding and lying about simple medical cures, and by putting sick people on ventilators.

The two agencies also lied about and inflated the Covid case numbers and cause of deaths. They now are minimizing the deaths and adverse reactions from injecting people with the poison DNA-tweaking cocktail. Government needs to shutter their health departments and quit contributing to the CDC and WHO.

Don't take the shot and save your child's health and mind. Run now to home or religious schools.

Doug LaMalfa Water Update

By Congressman
Doug LaMalfa

For the past decade our district has faced numerous disasters and near-disasters, from the failure of Oroville Dam's spillway to several years of drought and repeated wildfires that have destroyed towns, wreaked havoc on our environment and the morale of our people. As your Member of Congress, I am continually working to address our water storage needs and change Forest Service policies to allow the USFS to thin our overgrown forests to reduce fire risks.

I have been a leading advocate for building more water storage in California and particularly building Sites Reservoir in both Glenn and Colusa Counties. This off-stream storage facility takes water normally lost during high flows from winter floods and stores it for the summer months and dry years. In total, Sites Reservoir would create a significant amount of water - over 1.5-million-acre feet of water capacity - which is almost half of the capacity of Lake Oroville and can be used for agriculture or drinking water whenever it is needed.

In 2016, I helped pass the Water Infrastructure Improvements for the Nation (WIIN) Act, which included a section I wrote to federally authorize several water storage projects in California. This has resulted in a $23.7 million investment in Sites Reservoir to finish environmental reviews, permitting, and engineering work. In November of 2018, I helped secure a $449 million USDA low-interest loan to continue the project. Just this past week, I submitted a budget amendment for $1 billion to complete the funding required to build the project which would be combined with $816 million from California Proposition 1 water bond funds, and $44 million from local stakeholders. Sites Reservoir is my top proposal to build additional water storage and protect North State water.

Unfortunately, this year is our second worst drought on record, and it is having a major impact. Yesterday, due to the State's decision to prematurely dump water in the winter and spring, Lake Oroville measured at too low to produce electricity despite our power grid being more strained than ever. Domestic wells are starting to go dry across the district because of drought and lack of the agricultural irrigation that recharges the aquifers. I have called on the Biden Administration to accelerate the effort to get clean drinking water to our rural communities that need help. Our local counties are coordinating with California on ways to help. If your well has gone dry, please report it here.

The federal government cut off water to the Klamath Basin completely this year, including the federal wildlife refuges that use agricultural canal systems to deliver much needed water for shorebird and migratory nesting ducks. This water, which is stored in Upper Klamath Lake, is owned by the farmers in the area. The new Department of Interior has rescinded legal opinions that would have delivered water to farmers and the refuges. I recently announced a $15 million down payment of drought aid from the Bureau of Reclamation. Now, my colleague Representative Cliff Bentz (OR-02) and I are negotiating a bipartisan supplemental aid package in the House and Senate to help the area through this government-created disaster. I know farmers would rather farm with their water but they may need help now so they can survive until next year.

While this aid will help the community, a lack of water will result in damage to countless farms, dry wells and devastation to the ecology of the refuges. Last year, I was at the Tule Lake wildlife refuge with the California Waterfowl Association to discuss the botulism outbreak due to the lower water level and how I had been working with the previous Administration to deliver water to prevent die off of ducks. Even with the additional water I restored, over 60,000 shorebirds died from the outbreak last year and that was with Klamath Basin farmers having some water and doing everything they could to divert water to the refuge and providing habitat for the birds on their farms. This year, with no water, we could be facing far worse conditions. This is a result of species-specific management that holds water artificially high in the Upper Klamath Lake for a suckerfish and releases the rest downriver for salmon, resulting in the worst of all worlds: no water for shorebirds, no water for farms, salmon and suckerfish populations continue to plummet, and the local economy is devastated. ★

California Educators Battle Over Woke Math

By Dan Walters
CALMatters

The modern world runs on mathematics.

From balancing a checkbook to calculating rocket trajectories, human beings rely on their ability to understand and use mathematical tools, and we expect our schools to develop those tools in their young charges.

But how and when?

For the past eight months, a philosophical war has raged in California education circles over a plan to sharply, even radically, change math instruction at all grade levels.

In January, the state Instructional Quality Commission released a draft “mathematics framework” that would shift instruction from the traditional, and somewhat linear, approach to one steeped in race and culture, or “woke” in contemporary parlance.

The draft declares that traditional math instruction, in which students progress from counting and simple arithmetic into geometry, algebra, trigonometry and eventually calculus as they advance through the grades, “has much to correct (because) the subject and community of mathematics has a history of exclusion and filtering, rather than inclusion and welcoming.”

“There persists a mentality that some people are ‘bad in math’ (or otherwise do not belong), and this mentality pervades many sources and at many levels,” the draft continues. “Girls and Black and Brown children, notably, represent groups that more often receive messages that they are not capable of high-level mathematics, compared to their White and male counterparts.”

To counter that perceived shortcoming, the proposal would have students of all innate abilities remain together well into high school, essentially eliminating accelerated moves into higher-level mathematics, such as calculus, by those who exhibit desire and aptitude.

Moreover, math instruction would be reoriented from the linear manipulation of numbers into a tool for social justice.

“Mathematics educators have an imperative to impart upon their students the argument that mathematics is a tool that can be used to both understand and change the world,” the draft declares.

The draft generated a backlash from advocates of traditional math, including an open letter signed by hundreds of academics.

“California is on the verge of politicizing K-12 math in a potentially disastrous way,” the letter declared. “Its proposed Mathematics Curriculum Framework is presented as a step toward social justice and racial equity, but its effect would be the opposite – to rob all Californians, especially the poorest and most vulnerable, who always suffer most when schools fail to teach their students. As textbooks and other teaching materials approved by the state would have to follow this framework and since teachers are expected to use it as a guide, its potential to steal a promising future from our children is enormous.”

Rather than reframe math in social justice terms, the critics contend, California should do a better job of teaching math skills that students will need in the real world, particularly students from disadvantaged backgrounds.

The conflict mirrors a previous dustup over an ethnic studies curriculum as well as the current nationwide debate over whether “critical race theory” should be taught in school or banned.

Advocates of the new curriculum are playing with the lives of millions of children and the state’s economic and societal future. Implicitly they are shifting blame for the state’s embarrassingly low scores in nationwide math achievement tests from themselves to the traditional way math has been taught.

How, then, do they explain why kids in other states and nations are thriving with traditional math? Can they prove that their proposal will improve real world outcomes, or are they just indulging their ideological fantasies?

Dan Walters has been a journalist for nearly 60 years, spending all but a few of those years working for California newspapers. ★

The Federal Repurchase Agreement Operation (REPO)

An interesting development has been occurring in the Federal Repurchase Agreement Operation (REPO).

The REPO market is administered by the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) and when they act, it is called Open Market Operations.

The REPO market is a Federal (FED) facility that moves cash in and out of the banking system on a daily basis to satisfy liquidity requirements. When financial institutions (like banks and money market funds) need day-to-day cash, they can borrow money from the facility. They then deposit U.S. Treasury IOU’s (called Treasuries) into the facility as collateral. This transaction is called a “REPO” transaction.

Conversely, they can instead deposit cash into the facility and in return take Treasuries back. This is called a “Reverse REPO” transaction.

The financial intuitions that are authorized to use the facility keep a stock of Treasuries and cash on hand to facilitate the transactions between them and the FED.

Think of the REPO facility as a huge octopus handing money out and taking money in daily. The financial institutions use this facility to fund their day-to-day operations. The FEDS also use the facility to inject more cash into the system when the economy slows, or take money out of the economy when it overheats. It is sort of a two way street that helps the financial institutions control their cash flow while helping the FED gas the economy (stimulate it) or put the brakes on (slow the economy down).

Gassing the economy might occur at a time when the economy is ailing (like during CoVid or 2008/09) and braking might be needed if inflation takes off.

When the financial institutions park excess cash at the facility (Reverse REPO) they earn little to no interest (at the FEDS discretion) but it’s a safe place to park as much cash as they desire. Keep in mind the facility is very short term and frequently described as an overnight conduit for cash. When the financial institutions need funds and therefore are borrowing cash, they use the Treasuries they own as collateral. They then pay interest on the cash they borrow called the “REPO rate”.

The FED can also increase the interest (the REPO rate) to discourage borrowing and slow the economy, or if they lower the borrowing rate, it makes money cheaper to the financial institutions and speeds the economy up as it encourages the financial institutions to loan that cash out to consumers and the like.

During 2008/09, and early on in CoVid, and during other times when the economy or markets faltered, there was more money borrowed then deposited, as the users needed money to weather the downturns.

During these high withdrawal periods, the FEDS have had to pour billions and billions of new money into the REPO market to satisfy the cash needed. In 2008/09, they also extended what type of collateral they would accept to include mortgage and bond type products. Many said this relaxation of collateral requirements went beyond the FEDS REPO market operational mandate, but that’s a story for another day.

Usually the REPO market operates in some sort of balance, meaning it requires no new money or interference from the FED. If the REPO facility does require assistance, it’s usually because there is a shortage of cash and they have to add more. Rarely does the ebb and flow go the other way, meaning those authorized to use the FED seldom deposit cash INTO the FED for very long. In essence, the banks usually always need money, and seldom have an excess of it.

Not so in recent weeks. Financial institutions seem flush with cash and have parked close to half a trillion at the FED and more is coming in every day. A change from just a few short months ago, the REPO market is seeing the rare event of too much cash.

Theories abound as to why these money institutions have so much cash right now. They range from FED stimulus programs to consumers apparently going on spending sprees or just the mountain of cash that has been dumped into the financial system by the FED for whatever the reason. Either that or the supply of IOU’s from the FED (those U.S. Treasuries again) is in short supply.

Whatever the reason, the REPO market is a bell weather for stress in the financial system, and right now its saying there is a lot of money floating around and therefore the banking system may be doing just fine.

CLG NEWS UPDATES

Provided by Citizens for Legitimate Government (CLG) See legitgov.org

Biden orders federal workers, contractors to get vaccinated or submit to testing | 29 July 2021 | Joe Biden on Thursday is directing all federal employees and onsite contractors to show that they are vaccinated or otherwise submit to regular coronavirus testing, a major step that will likely cause other private sector businesses to follow suit. Biden is also instructing his administration to apply similar standards to all federal government contractors. The White House is also encouraging private sector employers to follow his lead. “If you want to do business with the fed government, get your workers vaccinated,” Biden said in remarks from the White House Thursday afternoon... According to the White House, the federal government will ask employees and onsite contractors to attest to their vaccination status. Those who do not show that they are fully vaccinated against COVID-19 will need to mask, socially distance and submit to weekly or twice weekly coronavirus testing. Biden also said that workers who are not vaccinated “generally will not be allowed to travel for work.”

Postal workers union bristles at Biden’s COVID-19 vaccine mandate | 28 July 2021 | The influential American Postal Workers Union on Wednesday said, at this point, it opposes a coronavirus vaccine mandate from the Biden administration but encouraged workers to voluntarily take the jabs. “While the APWU leadership continues to encourage postal workers to voluntarily get vaccinated, it is not the role of the federal government to mandate vaccinations for the employees we represent,” the union said in a statement obtained by Fox News. The union said in the statement that the safety of its workers is “of paramount importance” but “at this time the APWU opposes the mandating of COVID-19 vaccinations.”

Vaccinated individuals who become infected with Covid have just as much viral load as the unvaccinated - CDC director | 28 July 2021 | The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention issued new guidance on Tuesday recommending indoor mask use in areas with high transmission rates after new data suggested fully vaccinated individuals are not just contracting Covid-19 but could potentially infect others. CDC Director Rochelle Walensky said recent studies had shown that those vaccinated individuals who do become infected with Covid have just as much viral load as the unvaccinated, making it possible for them to spread the virus to others. Based on that finding, Walensky said the CDC is also recommending that all school children wear masks in the fall. “We’re seeing now that it’s actually possible if you’re a rare [sic] breakthrough infection that you can transmit further, which is the reason for the change,” Walensky said.

CDC New Mask Guidance Based on ‘Vaccine Not Approved in America’ - GOP Leader | 29 July 2021 | House Minority Leader Kevin McCarthy (R-Calif.) noted that the Centers for Disease Control’s (CDC) recent mask guidance update is based on a study that evaluated the efficacy of a COVID-19 vaccine that is “not approved in America.” “I just left speaking with Dr. Monahan from the House. He said he used the CDC recommendation on a report that hasn’t been printed yet,” McCarthy said on the House floor, referring to Dr. Brian P. Monahan, the attending physician of Congress. “He did not know that the report is based upon India, about a vaccine that’s not approved in America, and now he did not know that it didn’t even pass peer-review,” the GOP leader said, referring to a CDC study published July 27.

Twitter Suspends All Election Audit ‘War Room’ Accounts | 28 July 2021 | Earlier today, Twitter permanently suspended all nine of the official ‘Audit War Room’ accounts from its platform. The accounts were a main source for breaking updates and were banned as part of big tech’s continued attempt to shield the public from the stunning revelations being found regarding the fraudulent 2020 election. Twitter provided no reason for the suspensions. The ban was issued just weeks before Arizona’s final audit report is set to come out and as multiple states are getting ready to start audits of their own. ★

Farmers Denied Insurance after Fires Now Eligible for New Coverage

Gov. Gavin Newsom has signed legislation to enable farmers and ranchers to use the state’s insurer of last resort. Senate Bill 11, sponsored by the California Farm Bureau, is intended to help farmers who lost insurance coverage due to wildfires. After record-setting fires, many found that obtaining new coverage was extremely costly or impossible. They can now be insured under the California FAIR plan, a fire insurance pool for high-risk properties.

California Cracks Down on Insect Harmful to Agriculture

California is imposing a quarantine against an invasive insect harmful to agriculture and natural resources. The state Department of Food and Agriculture announced the quarantine this month to prohibit entry into California of plants, materials or containers infested with the spotted lanternfly. The insects, first detected in Pennsylvania, produce a mold from feeding that can threaten grapes, apples and numerous plant and tree species.

Western Farmers, Ranchers Thin Herds, Destroy Crops Due to Drought

Farmers in California and a dozen other states are increasingly selling livestock and letting fields go fallow due to severe drought in the western U.S. According to an American Farm Bureau survey, 85 percent of ranchers reported selling off portions of livestock herds due to drought impacts on water supplies and grazing lands. Some 77 percent of growers were destroying crops due to water shortages. Nearly 80 percent of the West is in severe drought.

USDA Offering Grants to Timber Businesses Hard-Hit by Pandemic

Timber harvesting, hauling and processing businesses can now apply for grants to offset financial losses suffered during the pandemic. The U.S. Department of Agriculture is providing up to $200 million in total relief to help timber businesses. Firms that suffered revenue losses of 10 percent or more in 2020 may apply for grants between July 22 and October 15 this year. ★

The Brownsville Bailinwick & Beyond

Come by Stone Soup for a great lunch on Thursdays. We meet downstairs at Ponderosa Community center every Thursday and lunch is served at noon for a donation to help with costs. This is a great group of volunteers who bring soups, make bread and desserts, fix salads and then clean up. Come join us.

The monthly meeting of Yuba Feather Community Services board will be held on Tuesday, August 10, at 7 pm at Ponderosa Community Center. This meeting is open to the public and we encourage you to get involved with community affairs. With the Mountain Fair coming up, we are sure that will be part of the agenda.

Tina Hamilton, who began the Story Hour at Books & More, will be student teaching to finish up her pre- teacher program at Chico State this fall. She will not be able to continue with the Story Hour and we just found a great replacement. Pamela from the Yukon will be leading this group; she was an aide at the YES academy last year. These beginning readers meet at 10:00 on Fridays. The older group of readers will meet on Fridays at 11:00 with Marian Adamson. These group won't be teaching reading as much as encouraging a love of reading, so come join us.

End of summer approaches and we hope for no more fires. The fire crews have sure jumped on the ones that have started. We thank them so much! Now to find drivers for the school busses.

Look Back in Time – In 1925 boys swimming in Dry Creek near Oregon House found a bucket with gold nuggets in the bottom (a treasure, wonder whose).

~ Hope to see you in Brownsville soon.

You will be bidding on a lien, not on the property itself. Placing the highest bid at a trustee auction does not automatically entitle you to free and clear ownership of the property. You should also be aware that the lien being auctioned off may be a junior lien. If you are the highest bidder at the auction, you are or may be responsible for paying off all liens senior to the lien being auctioned off, before you can receive clear title to the property. You are encouraged to investigate the existence, priority, and size of outstanding liens that may exist on this property by contacting the county recorder's office or a title insurance company, either of which may charge you a fee for this information. If you consult either of these resources, you should be aware that the same lender may hold more than one mortgage or deed of trust on the property. NOTICE TO PROPERTY OWNER: The sale date shown on this notice of sale may be postponed one or more times by the mortgagee, beneficiary, trustee, or a court, pursuant to Section 2924g of the California Civil Code. The law requires that information about trustee sale postponements be made available to you and to the public, as a courtesy to those not present at the sale. If you wish to learn whether your sale date has been postponed, and, if applicable, the rescheduled time and date for the sale of this property, you may call 916-939-0772 for information regarding the trustee's sale or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-21-890588-SH. Information about postponements that are very short in duration or that occur close in time to the scheduled sale may not immediately be reflected in the telephone information or on the internet website. The best way to verify postponement information is to attend the scheduled sale. NOTICE TO TENANT: You may have a right to purchase this property after the trustee auction pursuant to Section 2924m of the California Civil Code. If you are an "eligible tenant buyer," you can purchase the property if you match the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. If you are an "eligible bidder," you may be able to purchase the property if you exceed the last and highest bid placed at the trustee auction. There are three steps to exercising this right of purchase. First, 48 hours after the date of the trustee sale, you can call 916-939-0772, or visit this internet website <http://www.qualityloan.com>, using the file number assigned to this foreclosure by the Trustee: CA-21-890588-SH to find the date on which the trustee's sale was held, the amount of the last and highest bid, and the address of the trustee. Second, you must send a written notice of intent to place a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 15 days after the trustee's sale. Third, you must submit a bid so that the trustee receives it no more than 45 days after the trustee's sale. If you think you may qualify as an "eligible tenant buyer" or "eligible bidder," you should consider contacting an attorney or appropriate real estate professional immediately for advice regarding this potential right to purchase. The undersigned Trustee disclaims any liability for any incorrectness of the property address or other common designation, if any, shown herein. If no street address or other common designation is shown, directions to the location of the property may be obtained by sending a written request to the beneficiary within 10 days of the date of first publication of this Notice of Sale. If the sale is set aside for any reason, including if the Trustee is unable to convey title, the Purchaser at the sale shall be entitled only to a return of the monies paid to the Trustee. This shall be the Purchaser's sole and exclusive remedy. The purchaser shall have no further recourse against the Trustor, the Trustee, the Beneficiary, the Beneficiary's Agent, or the Beneficiary's Attorney. If you have previously been discharged through bankruptcy, you may have been released of personal liability for this loan in which case this letter is intended to exercise the note holders right's against the real property only. ## Invasive Aedes Mosquitoes Found in Chico for Second Year

Butte County Mosquito and Vector Control District

BUTTE COUNTY, CA (MPG) - For the second year in a row, the Butte County Mosquito and Vector Control District (District) detected an invasive (non-native) species of mosquito on Tuesday, July 6, 2021. The Aedes aegypti, commonly known as the yellow fever mosquito, was found in northwest Chico—in the area of Eaton Road and Esplanade. The California Department of Public Health confirmed the invasive species detection.

“The District is working to evaluate the extent of the infestation and we plan to do everything we can to eradicate this mosquito and to protect our residents from the potential disease risk of these invasive mosquitoes,” said Matt Ball, District Manager. “Our goal is to control and eliminate this species of mosquito so that it does not become established in our community.”

The District utilizes a science-based, data-driven approach to mosquito control. This Integrated Vector Management approach will include immature surveillance and control, that include door to door inspections, as well as adult surveillance and control, which will include ultra-low volume spraying, barrier treatments and a variety of live mosquito trapping.

The District's first ever detection of Aedes aegypti was last September in Chico and in October in Oroville. To date, Aedes aegypti have not been rediscovered in the areas where detections were made last year.

Aedes aegypti have the potential to transmit viruses such as chikungunya, dengue, yellow fever, and Zika, that are not known to be transmitted by Butte County's native mosquitoes, and to date, have not been detected in Aedes aegypti in California.

The public plays a critical role in helping to control the spread of this mosquito population. “Aedes aegypti love to breed in small water-holding containers and prefer being in and around our homes. A breeding ground for this mosquito can be as small as a water bottle cap. Eliminating all standing water regardless of size is essential to effective control,” says Matt Ball.

Prevent Aedes aegypti development in your yard:

Inspect your yard for standing water sources and drain water that may have collected under potted plants, in bird baths, discarded tires, and any other items that could collect water;

Check your rain gutters and lawn drains to make sure they aren't holding water and debris;

Check and clean any new containers that you bring home that may have contained water. Aedes aegypti eggs can remain viable under dry conditions for months.

As with all mosquito issues, native and non-native, the Butte County Mosquito and Vector Control District staff urges residents to take precautions to avoid mosquito bites by implementing the 7 Ds of protection:

Drain any standing water that may produce mosquitoes, this includes flowerpots, old tires, and buckets. Some species of mosquitoes can lay their eggs in very small sources of water, like a bottle cap;

Defend yourself and your home by using an effective insect repellent and making sure screens on doors and windows are in good condition;

Dusk or Dawn, avoid outside activities;

Door and window screens should be in good working condition and free of holes and tears. This prevents mosquitoes from entering your home;

Dress in long sleeves and pants when mosquitoes are active.

District personnel are available to address and mosquito problem you may be experiencing, to report water that may be breeding mosquitoes, and to answer any questions you may have.

North San Juan Protestant Cemetery Now a Historical Landmark

Stroll by the scenic views as a visitor to the North San Juan Protestant Cemetery. Photo By Jerry Martini/NCHLC

Nevada County Historical Landmarks Commission

NEVADA COUNTY, CA (MPG) - The Nevada County Historical Landmarks Commission is pleased to announce the Nevada County Board of Supervisors has designated the North San Juan Protestant Cemetery, located at 27994 Cemetery Alley in North San Juan, as Nevada County Historical Landmark NEV 21-04.

An integral part of the early community on the San Juan Ridge, the Protestant Cemetery was founded in 1851. The oldest known gravestone is from 1853, but burials are thought to have begun on the property as early as 1850. The cemetery holds the remains of hundreds of individuals representing people from all around the area including Birchville, Cherokee, Sweetland, and North Columbia.

The grave monuments are exceptionally varied in their design and are fine representations of gravestone art and symbolism. The beautiful tree-covered property is easy to access, well maintained, and is one of the best examples of nineteenth century Gold Rush burial customs and history; the Commission highly recommends stopping by for a stroll.

The purpose of the Nevada County Historical Landmarks Commission is to promote the general welfare of Nevada County and its citizens through official recognition, recording, marking, preserving, and promoting the historical resources of Nevada County. ★
