Refusing to Follow Mandate

Superintendents want the state to let local districts make their own decisions, considering the success some of them have had with reopening their campuses last year without triggering COVID-19 outbreaks. Image by Alexandra Koch from Pixabay

By Joe Hong, CALMatters.org

California's smallest school districts say they will refuse to send kids home for not wearing a mask despite a new state mandate.

Superintendents in these tight-knit and typically more conservative communities want the state to let local districts make their own decisions, considering the success some of them have had with reopening their campuses last year without triggering COVID-19 outbreaks.

"These districts were in class all year, and they just don't believe masks are needed to teach children," said Tim Taylor, executive director of the Small School Districts Association, which represents hundreds of districts with fewer than 5,000 students.

On Monday afternoon, (July 12) the California Department of Public Health went back and forth on updates to its masking rule. Health officials first said students who refuse to wear masks without a valid medical excuse won't be allowed on campuses. Four hours later, the agency revised the guidelines to say local districts will be responsible for enforcing the mask mandate.

"If the state is not going to enforce mask-wearing then neither am I," said Amy Alzina, superintendent of Cold Spring Elementary, a 198-student, single-school district near Santa Barbara.

Cold Spring Elementary's use of ventilation and outdoor instruction, Alzina says, makes masks unnecessary and possibly even harmful.

"Students, especially English learners, rely on nonverbal communication" she said. "I spent last year trying to smile at students with my eyes."

The district resumed full in-person instruction in October. The district had no COVID cases with about 90% of its students returning to campus for nearly the entire school year.

State officials said the updated guidelines only extend the mask mandate already in place and continues the policy of local enforcement.

City of Live Oak Struggles Over Budget and Shutdown

By Seti Long

LIVE OAK, CA (MPG) - At the time of print, the information contained in this article may be, and hopefully so, matters of the past. But, if the vote remains deadlocked 2-2 at the Wednesday, July 21st Live Oak City Council meeting, the motion to pass the FY 2021/22 Budget failing again, Live Oak could continue its decent further into the unknown.

As a re-cap, matters complicated for the City of Live Oak when former Mayor Luiz Hernandez announced his resignation effective May 31st, leaving the council 60 days to fill his seat by council vote or by special election. Unable to come to a consensus at that time, Council installed Vice Mayor Nancy Santana as Mayor Pro-tem until the vacancy on the council was filled and a vote to fill the mayor's position revisited. Applicants for the position were reviewed, but ultimately none nominated for the position were selected due to a 2-2 vote standstill between sitting councilmembers.

Live Oak continued forward, holding special meetings and public study sessions regarding the proposed FY 2021/22 Budget to facilitate its passing. The budget appeared on the agenda to be adopted at the June 29, 2021 special meeting but failed to pass, along with a three-month resolution to lock down operation costs at the level equal to the most recent budget, a measure that could potentially keep the City running if the budget was not adopted. On a positive note, council managed to unanimously approve a two-week continuance, enabling council to revisit the budget again at the next regularly scheduled meeting. Meanwhile, the potential of a shutdown loomed on the horizon for the City of Live Oak.

Without a tie-breaking vote, the motion to approve the FY 2021/22 Budget ultimately failed at the July 14th City Council meeting, the fate of the City of Live Oak falling victim to the 2-2 deadlock vote again. Councilmembers Bob Woten and Vice Mayor Nancy Santana voted to approve the budget, with Councilmembers Lahkvir Ghag and J.R. Thiara voting against its passing.

As of midnight July 14th, the City of Live Oak is shut down.

The resulting shutdown and deadlock seems to, in part, stem from concerns about budgeted

Yuba City Readies for Annexation of Newkom Ranch

City of Yuba City Press Release

YUBA CITY, CA (MPG) - The City of Yuba City is looking forward to the completed annexation of Newkom Ranch, a 221-acre plan on the City's southern edge that will support population growth and economic development for years to come. Representing the first phase of the Bogue-Stewart Master Plan (BSMP), the annexation was approved by the Sutter Local Agency Formation Commission (LAFCO) on June 8 and is anticipated to take effect by mid-August.

Located east of Highway 99 between Bogue and Stewart roads and Highway 99 and Railroad Avenue, Newkom Ranch is a prime component of the BSMP. It offers a full range of land uses, including 423 single-family residences, 220 multi-family residences, 230,000 square feet of commercial space, 108,000 square feet of office space, and ample parks and open space.

"The vision for this exciting project began nearly a decade ago," said City Manager Dave Vaughn. "It creates a cohesive and high-quality new neighborhood, provides a full range of land uses, ensures new infrastructure is comprehensive and efficient, and gives confidence to developers and residents that our growth will be strategic and well-planned."

Sutter County has been a vital partner in making this annexation possible, Vaughn said, collaborating with the City on the entirety of the BSMP, the specifics of Newkom Ranch, and future related annexations.

As part of the BSMP, the Newkom Ranch annexation acknowledges the likelihood of significant growth in the immediate area and adjacent neighborhoods and commercial region in the next 10 years. It creates logical City boundaries and strategic mixed-use development, and results from significant outreach to landowners and residents, detailed traffic studies and environmental impact reports.

The Newkom Ranch annexation also supports the long-term operations of adjacent agricultural uses while maintaining the integrity of surrounding neighborhoods. Though it's anticipated to take more than a decade to reach full build-out, it will have a population of about 2,600 people and support nearly 850 employees.

"As we've watched the development and growth of our community in recent years, it's become clear that we are a destination rich with promise," said Mayor

Marc Boomgaarden. "As others realize what we have always known - Yuba City is a great place to live, work, play, and do business - we want to ensure we have the facilities to welcome them. The residential and commercial opportunities created by this annexation will support that vision and further enhance our City."

As part of the annexation, the City of Yuba City will provide a full complement of services to the area, including water, wastewater, police and fire protection, roadway maintenance, and parks and recreation.

Aligning with the City's 2004 General Plan, the BSMP was approved in 2019 and provides for the orderly and systematic development of the Bogue and Stewart roads area. In its entirety, it expands the

Child Tax Credits are Coming, and so are the Scammers

By Alma Galvan, Sacramento Better Business Bureau

OAKLAND, CA (MPG) - As of July 15 and through December 15, if you qualify for payments through the American Rescue Plan Act, the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) announced it is sending monthly payments direct deposit, paper checks, or through debit cards. These payments are an advance on the child tax credit, which means eligible people will get up to half of their child tax credit in these monthly payments and the other half when they file their 2021 taxes. You can go to IRS.gov to see who qualifies, how much you may receive, and how to address any problems. You will also have the option of unenrolling from the Advance payments program.

According to the Federal Trade Commission, when it comes to the government being in the news, the scammers will likely use their standard playbook, meaning impostor scams may appear, with con artists pretending to "help" you get your payments earlier, get more money, or commit identity theft.

BBB and the FTC share these tips:

Avoid Impostor scams - Government agencies like the IRS or Social Security Administration will not call, text, DM, or email you; Do not give out any personal information, like social security numbers, bank account information, or credit/debit card numbers; Eligibility requirements and payment disbursements are monitored by the IRS only; When someone is requiring payments by gift card, wire transfers, or cryptocurrency, it is likely a scam.

Currently, all but 20 full-time "essential" employees of the City are without paid work. City Hall remains open for business until July 28th, but non-essential services such as Parks & Recreation and the City Pool have been closed. If the City fails to pass the budget after July 28th, those closures could extend to essential workers and other departments, although Sutter County Supervisor Nick Micheli assured the residents of Live Oak on air with 93Q Radio that services contracted through the county, such as fire, police/sheriff will not be interrupted.

Live Oak City Council is to reconvene Wednesday, July 21st, for another vote on the budget and if it manages to pass, the City of Live Oak will reopen. If it fails once more, City Administrator Aaron Palmer says, it will again be seen on a special meeting agenda, tentatively scheduled for July 28th. "Staff will bring to the Council, on July 28th, 2 weeks' worth of payroll. If the payroll does not pass then the City will be shut down....The only way for the City to not shut down is if the Council approves the payroll or the budget," says Palmer.

What happens if the City of Live Oak shuts down completely? Well, that seems to be uncharted territory and a bridge into the unknown Live Oak will have to cross if it reaches that point.

The City of Live Oak meetings are open to the public and are held at Live Oak City Hall, the 1st and 3rd Wednesdays of the month. To view upcoming agendas, attend upcoming meetings via Zoom and/or to review past meetings, please visit liveoakcity.org. ★

North Yuba Water District Has Gone Rogue

On June 28, South Feather Water and Power Authority in Butte County posted a press release on their website characterizing the North Yuba Water District as having gone rogue. The release states, "In sum, the unfortunate reality is that NYWD has gone rogue. NYWD lacks leadership. NYWD has failed to perform its essential functions as a water district by providing water available during emergency drought conditions."

Regarding NYWD President Gary Hawthorne's statement in the District's most recent newsletter where he says, "For years they have denied North Yuba access to information, and for the better part of the past year, they have limited our formal, legal requests for [accounting] records", South Feather states, "Mr. Hawthorne's statement on NYWD's behalf is categorically false." The full press release can be found at: southfeather.com/nywd

At its June board meeting, four of the NYWD's directors voted to hire consulting firm Provost & Pritchard to "promote future water sales within and/or outside of the District's service area". In other words, the North Yuba Water District intends on selling its water, which could end up going to Southern California, instead of providing water to its customers in the Foothills of Yuba County.

Currently the water permits only allow the District to sell water within its service boundaries. To alter this, the District would have to petition the Department of Water Resources to change this restriction. It is not known if the water district intends to keep its customers and public informed about these proceedings.

(Paid by Charles Sharp because the North Yuba Water District has indeed gone rogue and no longer wants to provide water to its customers.)

and the majority of students still aren't vaccinated," said Alex Stack, a spokesperson for Gov. Gavin Newsom. "We can open schools safely, but COVID prevention strategies are necessary to keep everyone safe."

Stack said county health agencies are responsible for making sure districts enforce the mask mandate, and that he couldn't speculate on whether the state would penalize districts.

Newsom's decision to leave some decisions to local districts while maintaining some vague statewide guidelines is reminiscent of his approach to school reopenings.

"As it's been throughout the pandemic, (the state health department) is not built to enforce," Stack said. "The local agencies enforce these things."

Options for students

As of now, state rules nominally give students only two choices: either wear a mask to school or refuse to wear a mask and enroll in virtual independent study.

Some rural districts do plan on enforcing the mask mandate and expect at least a few phone calls from frustrated parents. But administrators there doubt many parents will choose independent study just because they don't want their kids to wear masks.

"They're gonna make a big fuss," said Patricia Gunderson, superintendent of the Lassen County Office of Education. "But if that's the difference between their kid being in class or being at home, they're probably going to wear a mask."

Gunderson said she would urge the 10 small school districts in her county to enforce the mask mandate. But she said the parents in her conservative community are losing patience.

"In a community that's predominantly red, people are used to doing their own thing," she said. "It's going to create tension between our parents and our administration."

Options for districts

Leaders at some rural districts are hoping to find a middle ground.

"We will not be sending kids home," said Scott Borba, superintendent of Le Grand Union Elementary School District in Merced County.

Le Grand Union is another single-school district with just 360 students. Borba said he'll consult with local public health officials to find alternatives for students.

One possibility, Borba said, is to separate unmasked students in the classroom and attach plastic shields around their desks. A more extreme solution he is considering is to place unmasked students in separate classrooms.

"The whole purpose of my job is to get kids in school," Borba said. "We're gonna do everything we can."

Stack, the spokesperson for the governor, could not answer whether the state will intervene if county health agencies approve district plans allowing unmasked students on campus in defiance of state mandate.

Gunderson, however, said she's urging superintendents in her county to abide by the mask mandate. Smaller rural districts, she said, might not be able to afford a steep fine from the state.

"When you're a small district, and you don't have a huge budget, you have to be really careful with putting your district at risk," Gunderson said.

Alzina, the superintendent at Cold Spring Elementary, said she would require masking on her campus again if the state does try to punish her district or if there's a spike in COVID-19 cases.

"If there is an issue, we'll continue to align with the state," she said. "I'm not gonna go rogue." ★

CDFW Relocates Over One Million Hatchery Salmon from Klamath River

California Department of Fish and Wildlife

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG)

- Due to drought and poor water conditions in the Klamath River, the California Department of Fish and Wildlife (CDFW) successfully relocated 1.1 million juvenile, fall-run Chinook salmon from its Iron Gate Fish Hatchery in Siskiyou County. The fish were trucked to a nearby satellite facility and to the Trinity River Hatchery 122 miles away where the fish will remain until conditions in the Klamath River improve.

The baby salmon, about seven months old and about three inches in length, are normally released into the Klamath River in May and June. Due to warm water temperatures, low water flow and an exceedingly high probability of succumbing to disease in the river, CDFW decided to retain these salmon within its hatchery system over the summer until Klamath River conditions improve. The unprecedented relocation happened after extensive monitoring, discussion and close collaboration with federal partners, academic specialists and three Native American tribes in the lower Klamath Basin.

The temporary relocation marks the first time CDFW has not released salmon into the Klamath River since construction of the Iron Gate Fish Hatchery in 1962.

CDFW relocated the 1.1 million salmon to provide adequate water conditions over the summer and additional space to accommodate the growing fish. Another 1 million juvenile Chinook salmon will remain at Iron Gate.

"It's extremely challenging to raise cold water fish species in a drought," said Dr. Mark Clifford, Hatchery Environmental Scientist for CDFW's Northern Region. "The reality is most of these fish would have died if we released them into the river. We need to maintain the integrity of the fall run on the Klamath River and we especially can't afford to lose this generation of fish."

Four Klamath River dams are slated for removal by 2024, the largest dam removal undertaking in U.S. history. The removal is expected to restore fish access to the entire river and the relocated Iron Gate fish could be the first salmon to return to a new Klamath River after their life in the ocean and find miles of additional spawning habitat and contribute to future generations of wild fish.

When conditions improve and before the fish are ultimately released to the Klamath River, the relocated salmon will be returned to the Iron Gate Fish Hatchery for a number of weeks to allow the fish to further imprint on the Klamath River. All of the relocated salmon have been outfitted with unique coded wire tags to allow CDFW and other agencies to determine their origin and destination. All of their adipose fins have been removed to visibly identify them as hatchery reared fish.

CDFW thanks its partners for their time and expertise in working through this difficult situation. These partners include the Karuk Tribe, the Yurok Tribe, the Hoopa Valley Tribe, the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, the Bureau of Reclamation and NOAA Fisheries.

Video and photos of the salmon relocation along with comments from Dr. Clifford are available for download at the following link:

Motorists Cut Driving Nearly in Half

The average number of all daily car trips at the start of the pandemic dropped by 45% as COVID-19 and associated restrictions led to a drastic drop in road travel. Photo by Vincent Gerboun

By Sergio Avila, AAA

WALNUT CREEK, CA (MPG) - New research from the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety's New American Driving Survey (2020) showed the average number of all daily car trips at the start of the pandemic dropped by 45% as COVID-19 and associated restrictions led to a drastic drop in road travel. Daily trips rebounded in May and June but remained 20-25% below their 2019 levels during the remainder of 2020.

According to the research in April 2020: Trips by all modes of transportation plunged by 40 percent; The average number of daily trips for all modes of transportation fell from 3.7 trips per day (2019) to 2.2 trips.

Other key findings:

Daily Car trips: Fell from 3.2 pre-pandemic to 1.8 in April 2020, before rebounding slightly to 2.6 trips for the rest of 2020; Travel by Urban Areas: Daily trips dropped 42% (compared to 25% for those living in Suburban areas), before leveling off to a 20%-30% reduction; Travel by transit, taxi, or rideshare: The proportion of people who reported making any trips by transit, taxi, or rideshare plummeted from 5.5% pre-pandemic to 1.7% in April of 2020, before leveling off at approximately 2.4% for the remainder of the year; Commuter Travel: Work-related travel by all transportation modes dropped by 40% in April 2020, likely reflecting a mix of layoffs, job losses, and telecommuting. Commuting trips made by workers on days when they worked decreased by approximately 22%. For the remainder of the year, commuting trips were approximately 26% below pre-pandemic levels.

Car fatalities rise despite less travel in 2020

Despite fewer cars on the road and more people staying home, the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) recently estimated that 38,680 people died in motor vehicle traffic crashes in 2020 – an increase of about 7.2% over 2019 and the largest projected number of fatalities since 2007.

The most recent AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety Traffic Safety Culture Index (TSCI) found that drivers perceive distracted, aggressive and impaired driving as dangerous. Yet, many drivers admitted to engaging in at least one of these behaviors in the 30 days prior to the survey.

"As the U.S. climbs out of the COVID-19 pandemic, highway safety officials will need to double down on curbing speeding, substance-impaired driving, and failure to buckle up," said Sergio Avila, AAA Northern California spokesperson.

AAA urges drivers to keep everyone safe on the roads and warns drivers against falling back into bad driving habits.

Methodology: This study examined data from the AAA Foundation's New American Driving Survey (New ADS), which surveys a representative sample of U.S. residents ages 16 years or older to collect detailed information about all of the travel they did on the day before the interview. The current study examines the mean daily number of trips made by U.S. residents each month among 7,873 respondents who were interviewed between July 1, 2019 (start of data collection for the New ADS) and December 31, 2020. In the New ADS, a trip refers to any travel from one place to another.

About the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety: Established in 1947 by AAA, the AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety is a nonprofit, publicly funded, 501(c)(3) charitable research and educational organization. The AAA Foundation's mission is to prevent traffic deaths and injuries by researching their causes and by educating the public about strategies to prevent crashes and reduce injuries when they do occur. ★

New Home Sales Becoming More Seasonal but Still above Average

By John Frith, The Write Stuff Communications

SACRAMENTO REGION, CA (MPG)

- New home sales in the greater Sacramento region remained robust in June as 625 homes were sold, the North State Building Industry Association reported. However, that figure was lower than the 655 sales reported in 2020 -- the first time since May 2020 that sales were lower than in the same month the year before.

Michael LaFortune, the BIA's 2021 Chairman, said it appears the market is returning to a more normal pattern after the tremendous increase in sales during the COVID-19 pandemic.

"Demand for new homes in the Sacramento region remains extremely strong but it appears that sales are beginning to settle into a more normal seasonal pattern, unlike the sharp jump that occurred during the second half of 2020," La Fortune said. "June's sales were slightly lower than they were last year, but still well above the monthly average for June."

Since 1997, an average of 392 new homes were sold in June in the region, including Sacramento, Placer, El Dorado, Yolo, Sutter, Yuba and Nevada counties. This year's June total was lower than sales in January through April and slightly higher than in May -- a more normal seasonal pattern than found last year when sales dropped off sharply during the early stages of the pandemic but then hit totals during the latter part of the year not reached since the early 2000s housing boom.

North State CEO Michael Strech said while the economy is beginning to return to normal as pandemic restrictions are eased or lifted, the sales numbers show that there is still a strong demand for new homes in the region, which give families the space and amenities they're looking for.

He cautioned that supply constraints, similar to those being faced in many industries, are causing some delays in construction but that builders are working hard to address them and to keep buyers fully informed of any issues.

And he again called on local governments to take a hard look at the high level of development fees that are ultimately paid by new-home buyers.

"The fee study we released last month shows that government fees average $95,000 per home in our area -- $40,000 more than comparable fees in the Central Valley and the Inland Empire region in Southern California. We are continuing to work closely with local officials around the region to find ways to reduce these fees and still ensure that new communities include needed amenities."

The North State BIA is the leading advocate for the home building industry in the greater Sacramento region. Representing more than 500 members who provide 55,000 industry jobs, the North State BIA is committed to preserving and furthering the economic interests of its members, while also working to enhance the industry's standing as a significant contributor to the regional economy. "Roaring Back" is just a Campaign Slogan, Not Reality

By Dan Walters
CALMatters

Virtually every day, Gov. Gavin Newsom shows up someplace in California to proclaim, for the umpteenth time, that the state is "roaring back" from the COVID-19 pandemic.

These highly orchestrated events are billed as official state business, but in fact are merely political campaign appearances aimed at persuading voters to support him in the Sept. 14 recall election, mostly by touting one of the multi-billion-dollar giveaways in his new state budget.

"As the state comes roaring back from the pandemic, we're laser-focused on getting this assistance out the door as quickly as possible and providing supports across the board to help Californians get back on their feet," Newsom said at a stop in Southern California last week to highlight a new program to pay overdue rent.

One could conclude that Newsom, in parceling out cash from an unexpected windfall of revenue, is trying to buy votes with taxpayer money.

There are three troubling aspects to that self-serving effort.

One is that blatant campaigning under the guise of official business is unsavory. While not uncommon in other states, until now California governors have been fairly meticulous about separating official business from their re-election campaign events.

The second is that in spending so much money so quickly Newsom may be endangering the state's fiscal health. His predecessor, Jerry Brown, who preached frugality and was wary of launching new programs that could mushroom out of control, warned of the danger in a television interview this month.

Brown said the state faces "fiscal stress" in the years ahead as revenues return to more normal levels. "The word is volatility," Brown said. "Money comes and money goes. The federal government is going deeper into debt, they are spending money wildly. The state is now spending money. It is not sustainable."

Brown noted that the state is highly dependent on a relative handful of high-income taxpayers for its revenue, saying, "the growing utter inequality of the economy because the rich people make so damn much money and California happens to tax the rich people disproportionately... we need a more frugal, sustainable, more prudent way of doing business."

Finally, Newsom's "roaring back" mantra sidesteps the state's very real socio-economic problems which, if anything, have worsened during the pandemic. California still has one of the nation's highest unemployment rates with well over a million jobless workers.

We had the nation's highest level of poverty before the pandemic and it has surely increased.

The major factor in California's high poverty is the state's very high cost of living, particularly for housing, but for other necessities as well, such as gasoline and utilities.

Newsom has offered only token and/or short-term responses to those costs, such as rental and utility bill assistance and cash payments to low-income families that probably, as Brown warns, cannot be sustained.

The state's housing shortage continues to put upward pressure on rents and home prices and the $3.5 billion that Newsom's new budget contains for affordable housing would build fewer than 10,000 units in a state that's at least 80,000 units short of meeting its own housing quotas each year.

The key to the housing dilemma is making California more attractive for private investment, but Newsom and legislators have ducked the difficult policy choices to encourage such investment, such as reforming the California Environmental Quality Act and rebuffing efforts by construction unions to claim jurisdiction on housing projects.

California will be truly roaring back when unemployment decreases, housing construction increases, the poverty rate declines, and educational achievement rises. Until then, it's just a campaign slogan.

Dan Walters has been a journalist for nearly 60 years, spending all but a few of those years working for California newspapers. ★

As the Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) Flirt with All-time Highs

As the Dow Jones Industrial Average (DJIA) flirt with all-time highs, investors and advisors alike might be a bit miffed as their portfolio balances just bounce around like proverbial ping-pong balls, never quite attaining the sky-high valuations that the DJIA has reached.

Just why some portfolios have not mirrored the stratospheric heights that the Dow has attained can have an elusive answer.

CoVid-19 has definitely caused some of the broader market averages to pick and choose its winners and losers, and unlike some previous market rebounds, the CoVid tide has definitely not lifted all boats.

Unlike the 2008/2009 market obliteration that was followed by a market wide ballistic rebound, and the 2016 Trump election that also put a match under just about every asset class in the stock market, the CoVid rebound in the markets has launched some stocks into seemingly uninterrupted rallies while other stocks languished.

In my opinion, the CoVid rebound has not been an index buyer's friend. Simply put, the CoVid rebound may have been a stock picker's paradise, if the investor picked the right stocks. But bipolar stock rotations has perplexed more than a few stock market participants as they watch CNBC reporting blistering rallies in the Dow all the while wondering why their portfolios have not kept up in lock step.

While most investors might just buy a handful of all-inclusive funds like mutuals, many of the companies in these broad baskets have not seen the increases the overall Dow index may have witnessed and some may have even gone down.

The explanation lies in the consumer buying patterns that have been altered due to CoVid and its subsequent shutdowns.

The consumer has seen his life turned upside down with CoVid, and procuring their needs while being shut in has required new solutions.

Examples of these altered buying patterns are everywhere.

Stay at home procurement conduits such as web shopping and home delivery saw skyrocketing demand, while our usual gathering places such as restaurants, bars, vacation destinations, sporting events and similar venues were for the most part off limits. Companies that offered such wares or supplied goods or services to such establishments also suffered.

Small businesses were also decimated, as were the vendors that serviced them. Although people still needed to procure their day-to-day essentials and discretionary needs, how they procured them was drastically altered. It was as if a huge tide had shifted in an historic way in both its methodology and the dollar amounts that preceded it.

As such, while some businesses collapsed, others could not keep up with demand.

Since broad index funds may have encompassed both the lucky and unlucky however, buying a basket of stocks in certain funds may have made headway difficult. Half the businesses in these broad funds saw their stock prices implode while the other half saw astonishing increases.

Since the DJIA is the most talked about index on the evening news, and the makeup of the Dow and how it is constructed may have skewed its movements upwards, it may not have been a true reflection of overall economic conditions.

Indeed while the Dow has almost doubled from the CoVid March 2020 low, the unemployment rate is still very high (4.5%) and some estimate 25% of small businesses have been wiped off the map. Keeping in mind small business is about 50% of GDP (total money exchanged for all goods and services in the U.S.), that the DOW has seen such increases may have been indeed perplexing to many investors.

Simply put, the Dow may not accurately represent the economy so comparing portfolio performance to the Dow may not be a fair comparison.

More importantly, CoVid-19 has challenged the traditional broad-based buying that has been the mainstay of investors and advisors alike. The usual migration to mutual funds and Exchange Traded Funds (ETFs) may not have paid off nor kept up with the certain broad based indexes.

In conclusion, the best term I can use to describe last year's markets is a stock picker's paradise, while being a broad based fund buyer's frustration. At such a time, blindly buying these broad based funds may not have been the best strategy. Knowing where consumers were flocking too while avoiding the places consumers were avoiding may have been a more profitable path to riches.

FBI Tells Americans to Report 'Family Members and Peers' in Tweet, Gets Blowback | 12 July 2021 | The FBI is receiving criticism for a tweet it posted on July 11 that suggests Americans should monitor "family members and peers" for signs of "mobilization to violence" and report "suspicious behaviors" in an effort to prevent extremist activities. "Family members and peers are often best positioned to witness signs of mobilization to violence. Help prevent homegrown violent extremism. Visit [here] to learn how to spot suspicious behaviors and report them to the #FBI," the tweet read. It also included two photos of an individual highlighted in red accessing a computer... Rep. Dan Bishop (R-Texas) wrote: "These people protected Hillary, abused NSA surveillance databases against Americans, used known, unreliable DNC-funded propaganda to spy on Trump, perpetuated the Russia hoax, & lied to the FISC repeatedly. And now they tell you that you should spy on your family."

Parents Sue City of Washington, D.C., for Vaccinating Minors Without Parental Consent | 14 July 2021 | A recent District of Columbia law, the D.C. Minor Consent for Vaccinations Amendment Act of 2020, allows kids aged 11 and up to get any vaccine recommended by the Advisory Committee on Immunization Practices (ACIP), including COVID shots, without parental consent or knowledge. The bill passed the D.C. Council on a 10-3 vote last November, and was signed into law by Mayor Muriel Bowser (D) in December. It went into effect on March 19, 2021. On Monday, the Children's Health Defense (CHD) and the Parental Rights Foundation filed a lawsuit in the U.S. District Court for D.C., seeking a court order to rule the law unconstitutional.

CDC sued for withholding records between top personnel and teachers' unions on school reopenings - The CDC allegedly failed to 'completely fulfill' the records request | 15 July 2021 | A watchdog group is suing the Department of Health and Human Services and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention over its failure to produce communications between top agency brass and teachers' unions over school reopenings. Americans for Public Trust (APT), a D.C.-based ethics nonprofit, filed suit Thursday after failing to receive complete records the group says could show "undue political influence" of outside groups over the CDC's decision-making process shaping its school reopening guidance. "A few months back, Americans for Public Trust requested documents from the CDC. However, the CDC released only a handful of pages out of hundreds of documents received," said Caitlin Sutherland, executive director of APT. "And that small portion revealed the teachers' unions influenced the CDC to keep our schools closed."

Three Countries on Earth Declined the COVID Vax. All Three of Their Presidents Are Now Dead | 10 July 2021 | There are only three countries on this planet whose government officials refused to accept the COVID-19 vaccine from the World Health Organization: Burundi, Tanzania, and Haiti. The officials in those countries who declined the vax were presidents in each of those countries. In Burundi, it was President Pierre Nkurunziza. In Tanzania, it was President John Magufuli. In Haiti, it was President Jovenel Moïse. All three of those presidents are now dead. To many people, their deaths look like murder; although the one in Haiti was straight-up murder, he was assassinated by men with guns.

Broadband Access is Crucial to Success of Farm Technology

Farmers and ranchers are increasingly adopting technology designed to improve their understanding of crop and soil conditions and run their businesses more efficiently. The challenge is that, in many rural areas of the state and the country, broadband access is spotty – if it's even available. That affects not only farming, but rural residents' access to health care and education. State and federal leaders are working on ways to help fill the gaps.

State Almond Crop to Drop from Record High

The 2021 California almond crop is expected to produce 2.8 billion pounds, a 10% decrease from last year's record crop of 3.1 billion pounds, according to a survey of state almond growers. This is due in part to the ongoing drought and record-high temperatures in June. Popular for snacking, as an ingredient or made into almond flour or almond butter, almonds remain in high demand throughout the U.S. and the world. California farmers grow about 80% of the world's almonds.

Grants will help Prepare more Teachers in Food and Agricultural Sciences

New federal grants will help teachers across the country integrate food and agricultural sciences into their classes. Funds will also encourage students to explore career paths in food and agriculture and help them find mentors. The U.S. Department of Agriculture has invested $6.2 million in these professional-development agriculture grants for teachers in kindergarten through grade 14.

Rural Areas Will Receive Water-System Upgrades

Residents of San Andreas will soon get an upgrade to the area's 40-year-old water-supply system, thanks to loans and grants from the U.S. Department of Agriculture. This project will resolve an issue with high arsenic levels dating back to 2011. The USDA is investing $307 million to modernize rural drinking water and wastewater infrastructure in 34 states and Puerto Rico, as part of the largest investment in clean drinking water in American history. ★

Watch out for Airfare Scams When Booking Flights

Better Business Bureau of Northeast California

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - With the availability of COVID-19 vaccines, travel is coming back! That's great news for summer vacation plans... and scammers. BBB Scam Tracker is receiving reports of con artists creating fake airline ticket booking sites or customer service numbers. If you are buying airfare, use caution and double-check the URL or phone number before providing your credit card information.

How the Scam Works

While doing an online search for cheap flights, you come across what seems like a great deal with a major airline. You book the flight – either through the website or by calling a customer support number – and receive a confirmation message. However, when you look more closely at the email, you notice that you never actually received your ticket.

In another version of this scam, you book a flight on a travel website offering deals on airfare. You pay with your credit card like normal. But shortly after making the payment, you receive a call from the company saying that there's been a sudden price increase or an extra charge to finalize your booking. This is something a legitimate company would never do!

In either case, you call the airline to follow up about your flight. After talking to an agent, you find that they have no record of your booking. It turns out you accidentally purchased tickets through a scam website or a phony customer service number. One victim told BBB Scam Tracker: "I received a phone call right after [I booked the flight] stating that they wanted $100 per passenger to finalize my flight." Then, after calling the airline to complain, the victim discovered that "the flight wasn't available to begin with. The flight was never booked... this company just charged my card."

How to Avoid Travel Scams

Do your research. If you come across a company you haven't dealt with before, research it before making any purchases. Look on BBB.org for reviews and feedback from previous customers;

Double-check the URL before you enter personal and payment information. It can be easy to click on a sponsored ad or imposter website without noticing. Before you enter any sensitive information, double-check that you are on the right website and that the link is secure. Secure links start with "https://" and include a lock icon on the purchase page. Learn more at BBB.org/BBBSecure;

Be wary of third-party websites. Some websites appear to offer a legitimate service but are only fronts for a scam. Be suspicious of websites with no working customer service number and no physical address. Typos and grammatical errors can be indications of a scammer's handiwork, too;

Make online purchases with your credit card. Fraudulent charges made on a credit card can usually be disputed, whereas that might not be the case with other payment methods. Unfortunately, there is no way to get back the personal information you may have shared.

To learn more about planning a getaway during COVID-19, check out this tip from BBB. For ways to protect yourself from travel scams, go to BBB.org/TravelScam. Read more about customer service number scams.

Stay one step ahead of scammers by subscribing to BBB's weekly Scam Alert emails.

If you've been a victim of an airline ticket or other travel scam, please report your experience at BBB.org/ScamTracker. By doing so you can help others to avoid falling prey to scammers.

The Impending Crisis: The Censored Truth

Commentary by Harold Pease, Ph.D.

A strange eerie silence stalks the land somewhat similar to that after Abraham Lincoln was elected president. The nation had already divided choosing sides. Everyone knew that electing Lincoln would be too much for the South and an impending crisis would break any time. It was on everyone's mind just below the surface and no one wanted to admit that it existed, but it did.

Senator John J. Crittenden had two sons each a general on each side of the Mason Dixon Line who stood on opposite sides. They would be fighting each other. In Congress he offered the Crittenden Compromise dividing the nation on that line and extending it west with slavery permitted south and prohibited north. No one cared.

Northern newspapers censored the southern view and the South the northern view. Only in the middle states, where a military conflict was most likely to occur, could the people get some semblance of both sides. The nation held its breath but still Fort Sumter came and thereafter 620,000 soldiers lost their lives.

Today, 161 years later, the major difference is that there exists no geographical line. Its rural vs. urban, neighbor vs. neighbor and family members vs. family members. Now the division line is socialism vs. freedom, globalism vs. patriotism. The censorship of the patriot side by the globalist controlled media is almost total – still everyone feels it. One side hates our flag, our anthem, our Constitution, our history, our national heroes, our police and seemingly our country itself, anxious to destroy it all. They also call everyone but themselves racist but are themselves the first to use race to define and divide others.

How do we defuse our impending crisis so that we too do not reach a point of no return as they? Truth Hammer of We the Media has the only real answer. In an email addressed to "Any honest people left...on the political left," he asks.

"As you know we are severely divided.... To avoid actual war we MUST have free and fair elections... and 1/2 of America really does believe the other half is now rigging elections. Take a moment to allow this to sink in."

"We really do believe YOUR chosen leaders coluded with the mainstream media Big Tech Censorship and rigged the election.

"If you really understand this, you'll be feeling some chills about now. How do you want to resolve this "powder keg" moment in American (and world) history?"

"Will future generations look back with gladness that we found a civil way to work together? Or will this generation end up as a cautionary tale of how not to let political division progress to the point of no return?"

"YOU have the power to play a role in the solution. If you are confident the election was not rigged, then you should be EAGER to prove that, no matter how many audits are needed because audits are cheap compared to the actual conflict that might emerge. If half the country comes to believe it has been backed into a corner by the other side with no way out.

"FACT. We've seen case after case dismissed by controversial decisions of technicalities or courts that straight up refused to take a case. Not one swing state case has been cited on the merits.

"You have weaponized our records against us and are blocking every effort to open up the election and even look on how it went down.

"Look forward, where do you think your present course of action leads? HINT the answer is right in the Marxist playbook, your leaders often quote from (We the Media, Ep. 2467b - Soon They Won't Be Able To Walk Down The Street, Election Fraud Panic Intensifies, X22 Report, May 2, 2021).

But unfortunately the globalists oppose the ongoing Arizona audit and any other examination of the election of 2020 with passion and their media networks censor any info regarding such. Why? An old adage comes to mind, "Thou protests too much." Only those who know they cheated and that the outcome would show such, would protest with such vehemence.

If you know that you won honestly the normal response would be. "Please do it. Here are all our records. Examine our voting machines. Take all the time you need." "Let this issue be resolved forever." The Left have everything to gain by the audits. If vindicated their accusers would look like fools. Their media would have a field day with election fodder for years.

This is why you don't support audits. Over a thousand witnesses with sworn affidavits, under penalty of perjury, testifying they witnessed you cheat.

In August the Arizona audit will be released showing you cheated. Arizona will rescind its previous vote for Joe Biden. Other swing states will follow with audits of their own showing the same with their rescinding also. You will have to give the election back to its rightful winner. The vast majority of Americans will support this action not only because they respect free and fair elections and law and order but because they love our flag, our anthem, our Constitution, our history, our national heroes, and our police.

This is the only way to prevent a new civil war. Let us support the audit together. You can't censor away the eerie feeling of an impending crisis without it.

Slight Improvement in Latest Optimism Index Welcomed News

National Federation of Independent Business

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The release of NFIB's monthly small business Optimism Index showed an improving national Main Street economy, something the California state director for the association that took the poll said Gov. Gavin Newsom could greatly enhance by signing the budget trailer bill that includes Assembly Bill 150, which contains a new elective tax for pass-through entities that is a way for smaller businesses to work around the State and Local Tax (SALT) caps slapped on them by the 2017 Tax Cuts and Jobs Act.

"We are still in very uncertain economic times, so messages are more important than they would be during calmer periods," said John Kabateck, California state director for the National Federation of Independent Business (NFIB), which conducts the monthly Small Business Economic Trends report, also known as the Optimism Index. "Signing the budget trailer bill that includes AB 150 would send a strong signal to the Golden State's job-creating entrepreneurs that Sacramento is taking genuinely vital steps toward COVID recovery, and it would nicely complement the governor's earlier signing of Assembly Bill 80, which partially conforms state tax law to the federal government's regarding the forgivability of PPP loans."

From NFIB Chief Economist Bill Dunkelberg

"Small businesses optimism is rising as the economy opens up, yet a record number of employers continue to report that there are few or no qualified applicants for open positions. Owners are also having a hard time keeping their inventory stocks up with strong sales and supply chain problems."

Key findings include: Owners expecting better business conditions over the next six months rose 14 points to a net negative 12%, an improvement but still in very negative territory; Earnings trends over the past three months improved six points to a net negative 5%; The net percent of owners raising average selling prices increased seven points to a net 47% (seasonally adjusted), the highest reading since January 1981.

Keep up with the latest on California small-business news at www.nfib.com/california, where this release can also be read, or by following NFIB on Twitter @NFIB_CA or on Facebook @NFIB.CA.

For 78 years, NFIB has been advocating on behalf of America's small and independent business owners, both in Washington, D.C., and in all 50 state capitals. NFIB is a nonprofit, nonpartisan, and member-driven association. Since its founding in 1943, NFIB has been exclusively dedicated to small and independent businesses and remains so today. Unemployment Insurance Fund Debt Undermines Safety Net Programs

By Brooke Armour, California Business Roundtable

SACRAMENTO, CA (MPG) - The California Legislature has rejected efforts to begin to pay down even the smallest fraction of an estimated $22 billion Unemployment Insurance (UI) Fund debt, undermining the long-term integrity of the program and guaranteeing that businesses of every size will be forced to pay higher taxes in an effort to pay off the debt.

"The UI Fund has been critically important during the recession, helping provide support for workers who lost their jobs due to government-mandated closures. But now the Legislature is refusing to provide the program critically needed funding that will help alleviate the $22 billion – and growing – debt the fund has accumulated after the fifth-largest economy shut down for 15 months," said Rob Lapsley, president of the California Business Roundtable.

Employers are paying higher taxes now and must be addressed now. While the state rates were on course to go down prior to the pandemic, the rapid deterioration of the state fund's viability means these higher rates are now likely locked in for another decade or more.

In addition, federal taxes on employment will go higher as well. As a participant in the federal unemployment fund program, the state cannot carry a UI Fund debt for more than 34 months. If the state continues carrying the debt, businesses will automatically incur an annual payroll tax increase until the fund debt is paid off. Because of the size of the current UI Fund debt, it is unlikely that the debt will be paid off before the next recession hits, creating a permanent tax increase on all businesses while ensuring this critical safety net will not be there to help workers in the next economic downturn.

The current UI Fund debt is slated to grow to more than twice the debt the fund incurred during the Great Recession. It took nearly 10 years to pay off that debt, with funds coming from an increase in businesses' state and federal payroll taxes.

"California businesses already pay the highest unemployment fund tax rate, plus a 15 percent surcharge. Without a significant investment from the state to address the massive UI Fund debt, businesses are now on the hook to pay for debt that they didn't create and cannot afford to pay back.

"There is no time to delay. This tax increase is hurting employment now, and even higher taxes will go into effect when the federal increases kick in as well. The troubling reality is that businesses will likely never be able to pay off this debt. The debt is so large that we will likely experience another recession before the current debt is paid, creating debt in the fund and erasing any progress businesses have made to pay off existing debt. Permanent insolvency of the state's most critical safety net program is probable if the state does not intervene," Lapsley concluded. ★

You have 30 CALENDAR DAYS after this summons and legal papers are served on you to file a written response at this court and have a copy served on the plaintiff. A letter or phone call will not protect you. Your written response must be in proper legal form if you want the court to hear your case. There may be a court form that you can use for your response. You can find these court forms and more information at the California Courts Online Self-Help Center (www.courtinfo.ca.gov/selfhelp), your county law library, or the courthouse nearest you. Puede encontrar estos formularios de la corte y más información en el Centro de Ayuda de las Cortes de California (www.sucorte.ca.gov), en la biblioteca de leyes de su condado o en la corte que le quede más cerca. Si no puede pagar la cuota de presentación, pida al secretario de la corte que le dé un formulario de exención de pago de cuotas. YOUR ONE MINUTE NEWS DIGEST

by Don Rae

- The Auckland, New Zealand, chapter of a climate organization inspired by the uneducated Greta Thunberg disbanded itself because it was a “racist, white-dominated space,” the group announced. They opined that the fight for climate justice should be led by native peoples not Pākehā [white New Zealanders]. We are disbanding because, since 2019, our group as well as the national groups has been a racist, white-dominated space.
- Radical Race theory and those proponents should be stricken from the lexicon. The Progressives have gone fully mental. Now they are claiming the white stripes in the American flag represent racism and white supremacy. According to flag custom and tradition, white signifies purity and innocence; red, hardiness and valor; and blue, vigilance, perseverance, and justice.
- One of the reasons the cost of lumber is so high is because a major source of lumber, California, has killed the lumber industry, jobs, production and tax revenues. Recently a Federal Judge has smashed what the politicians have done, by providing jobs for Californians, while he helps stopping high intensity forest fires. A federal judge said he probably won't stop a logging project that opponents claim will harm endangered species in a California old-growth redwood forest because the dispute was already resolved in state court. “You went and lost in state court. You can't restart the clock,” U.S. District Judge James Donato. The environmentalists want as many bites of the apple as possible.
- “We are a media platform and not just a newspaper.” So says the LA Times offshoot El Segundo Times. The LA Times owner Patrick Soon-Shiong summed up his “cultural vision”. Not a news organization, you understand; a “media platform” with poetry and comedy, block parties and DJ battles? Change news into an entertainment and propaganda forum. Now you know how to interpret the “news” you read.

- More climate change ignorance. California wants to buy up all the ocean-front property to “combat” the “evil “climate change.” More de-population. They run the middle class out, tech people from Silicon Valley out, Hollywood is moving out, the oil, energy and agriculture industries are being decimated. Then they use fire insurance for more than 2 million mostly Northern Californians ineligible for fire insurance due to government refusal to manage the forest. At the same time you keep the borders open so you have a constant supply of low wage, low educated illegal aliens to do the menial jobs in society. According to Stephen Franks: “What you have done is created an India style caste system. The rich, arrogant white Jerry Brown and Newsom would then be happy as clams.” China needs a strong, decisive chastisement for the virus. A suitable response might be to take out the Chinese leadership responsible for releasing the pandemic on the world. Any ideas?
- Stephen Frank not only asks the right questions he comes up with the right answers. Consider in SF, murders are up over 30%, stolen cars and car-jackings up 75%, burglaries up almost 100%. Yet the SF District Attorney, Chesa Boudin, relates to the criminals, not the victims; and criminals go on to commit crimes again and again without consequence, What do you expect will happen? ★

The Brownsville Bailinick & Beyond

Books & More has a couple of new groups meeting. Getting active again after Covid. Art Workshops are held on Saturdays at 10:30. Kids Book Clubs meet on alternate Fridays in the mornings. For more information, please call us: 675-3275.

Yuba Feather Historical Assn meets for its quarterly membership meeting on Wednesday, July 28. We start to gather about 6 pm with dishes to share at a pot-luck: we need side dishes and desserts. The board will supply meats. Dinner starts about 6:30, followed by a short meeting and an interesting program. This happens at the museum on New York Flat road in Forbestown.

Our small communities are run by volunteers. Although Gold Eagle, Rays and Dollar General are not volunteer organizations, many other services need volunteers to exist. I hate to think of not having the Foothill Volunteer Fire Department, but they need volunteers to keep going. So does the Hill Top Gang.

This group manages a car to take people to medical appointments and this is subsidized by donations and volunteers putting on a monthly breakfast. However, as their crew ages, we need new, younger ones to step in. Ozzie says he needs help cooking the monthly Sunday breakfast and Carol says we need more drivers. Other organizations that could use your help are the quilters (meets on Wednesday), Yuba Feather Museum (weekend afternoons), Stone Soup (meets on Thursday), the thrift shop and there are probably more. If you can find a bit of time to help out, that would be great. Come by Books & More if you need more information. We use volunteer help, too.

Look Back in Time – In 1949 the state assembly voted to allow the sale of colored margine in stores instead of plain white (I remember squeezing the yellow tablet to color the margerine).

~ Hope to see you in Brownsville soon.

First Evidence of West Nile Detected by Sutter-Yuba MVCD

Sutter-Yuba Mosquito and Vector Control District

YUBA-SUTTER REGION, CA (MPG) - The Sutter-Yuba Mosquito and Vector Control District has detected the first evidence of West Nile virus in Sutter County in 2021. A mosquito sample recently collected west of Yuba City on Daphne Lane has also tested positive. We have had no detections of WNV in dead birds, sentinel chicken flocks or humans. Mosquito populations of the WNV vector are lower than historically normal, however, production has increased with hot daytime temperatures. The District's surveillance system is in full operation and mosquito control efforts are being increased in areas where detections are made.

Prevention of mosquito bites is the best way to protect against West Nile virus and other mosquito-borne viruses at home when travelling. Taking simple steps to prevent mosquito bites should become a basic health habit, just like washing your hands, to keep you and your family healthy. Remembering the 4 "D"s is an easy way to help prevent mosquito bites:

D - DEET - apply mosquito repellants

containing DEET, picaridin, oil of lemon eucalyptus or IR3535 when mosquitoes are active or biting. These are the EPA approved mosquito repellents recommended to prevent bites. Always follow package instructions for appropriate age and directions for use.

D - Dawn and Dusk - limit outdoor activity at dawn and dusk when mosquitoes that carry WNV are most active. Wear long sleeves and pants if you have to be outdoors when mosquitoes are present.

D - Doors and windows - keep screens in good repair and keep mosquitoes out, by making sure that the screens on your doors and windows are not broken or torn.

D - Drain all standing water around the outside of your home - buckets, jar lids, tires and flower pot trays are some common places

Residents are asked to report dead birds to the California Department of Public Health website at www.westnile.ca.gov or by phone at 877-968-2473.

You can obtain additional information by visiting our website at www.sutter-yubamvcd.org or by contacting the District office at 530-674-5456 ext. 0 between the hours of 7 AM to 3:30 PM, Monday thru Friday. ★

City's Sphere of Influence to Walton Avenue to the west, Stewart Road to the south, and the Feather River to the east. The 741-acre plan area includes a range of housing types that will eventually accommodate approximately 6,700 new residents and establish a quality neighborhood in south Yuba City with significant space for commercial, office, business, technology and light industrial uses, as well as parks, recreation and open space, and a K-8 school.

As this first phase, Vaughn said, the Newkom Ranch annexation provides a pivotal first step toward keeping pace with population growth, delivering needed and desirable services in a timely and cost-efficient manner, and improving the quality of life throughout Sutter County.

"Our City has so much to offer and is primed for continued growth," he said. "This annexation aligns with our image and character, while representing our long-term community vision for how our community should look 10, 20, 30 years into our future." ★
